Stiffening Resistance Believed Met On Approaches To Kustrin And Frankfurt—Soviet Troops In Reich On 320-Mile Line

HERCHER NIGHT

London, Friday, Feb. 2 (AP)—Russian troops encircled e German Pomeranian stronghold of Schneidemuhl and ptured the northern Polish stronghold of Torun yesterday the German high command reported that other Soviet its had reached the frozen Oder River 30 to 40 miles rtheast of the capital.

Moscow officially placed the nearest Red Army units miles northeast of Berlin with the capture of Duringshof 18 miles from Kustrin, one of the last strongholds barring the road to the capital.

The German communiqué, however, declared that "north of the Warthe (Warta) River enemy forces advanced as far as the Oder northwest of Kustrin, where they met our newly brought up reserves."

Exact Point Unnamed

Kustrin is 40 miles northeast of Berlin, and the Oder in its winding course northwest of the city flows to within 30 miles of Berlin. The Germans did not name the exact point where the Russians broke through to the last natural defense line before the capital.

German broadcasts said that the Russians had crashed into the eastern side of Kustrin and then were thrown out by strong reinforcements which have been hurried to the Eastern front from central Germany, from the Western front and from the Baltic port of Stettin.

A Moscow radio broadcast early today, on the second anniversary of Stalingrad, said that the diplomatic corps in Berlin had been instructed to leave for Munich, in the south. German broadcasts said that "frantic preparations" were under way to fortify Berlin, which is choked with thousands of refugees.

Heavier Resistance

Although Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army apparently was meeting increasingly heavy German resistance on the approaches to both Kustrin and Frankfurt, another Oder River stronghold 16 miles to the south, the Soviet communiqué announced that Zhukov's troops had gained from 4 to 14 miles during the day and captured 150 German localities.

More than 5,000 Germans were killed and 4,417 captured during the day in the drive on Berlin, the Moscow communiqué supplement said, and several regiments of specially trained German fortress troops were killed in the capture of Torun, 90 miles south of Danzig, after nearly a week's siege. The Russians said that Nazi SS Elite troops immediately shot regular German troops who attempted to surrender in Torun.

320-Mile Line

A new crossing into Germany from Poland southeast of Berlin and Russian advances in Pomerania far to the northeast gave the Russians a continuous 320-mile line in eastern Germany two years after the turning point of the war at Stalingrad, now 1,320 miles behind Zhukov's troops.

North of the Warthe River the Russians captured Duringshof in an 8-mile advance along the highway from Landsberg, taken Wednesday. They also took Liebenow, 14 miles south of Soldin, where Berlin said the Russians also had penetrated to within 37 miles of the Baltic port of Stettin.

Konigswalde Captured

South of the Warthe the Russians captured Hammer, 8 miles below Landsberg and 22 miles east of Kustrin, and also Konigswalde, 25 miles southeast of Kustrin. Schwerin, an eight-way junction 35 miles east of Kustrin, also was overrun.

With the Seizure of Gleissen, 3 miles south of Konigswalde, Red Army troops penetrated to within 29 miles of Frankfurt. Berlin broadcasts said the Russians also had reached the area of Zielenzig, 6 miles southwest of Gleissen.

At the southern end of the loop formed by the Warthe and Oder rivers, other units captured Lettersdorf, 10 miles east of the Oder River crossing town of Crosson, which is 68 miles southeast of Berlin.

Pincers Movement Seen

The Russians appeared to be engaged in a great pincers movement on Berlin as well as a direct frontal assault, and in the new crossing into Germany they penetrated to within 6 miles of Glogau, a stronghold on the middle Oder 117 miles southeast of Berlin.

Fifty localities were taken in the new drive into Germany on a 20-mile front west of Leszno, Polish frontier town. Fraustadt, 11 miles west of Leszno, fell, as did Schussenze, 15 miles northwest of Fraustadt, and Schlichtingsheim, 7 miles southeast.

The Germans said Russian units crossed the Oder in this area, broke into Steinau and hit farther to the west, but Moscow has kept silent about the development.

River Bombed Shelled

"It becomes clearer every hour and minute that the Russians now are massing forces to form a focal point in order effectively to support the drive on Berlin by guarding the flanks," said the Nazi commentator, Col. Ernst von Hammer, in telling of the penetration beyond Steinau.

The Germans wer reported shelling the Oder River directly east of Berlin and also dynamiting it in an attempt to break up the ice packs which might aid a Russian crossing. The [illegible] is radio quoted reports that the Red Army already had crossed the stream in the Kustrin area, but this appeared to be premature.

Berlin's danger was so great that Nazi broadcasts said the "battle of Berlin" had begun; Soviet planes were raking German troop movements east of the capital and the light of their flares could be seen by Berliners at night.

50 Miles Beyond Poznan

Schneidemuhl, on the Berlin-Danzig trunk railway which has been cut at many points by the Russians, is 50 miles northwest of Poznan, western Polish stronghold whose German garrison is still holding out.

The Russians encircled the city by taking Springberg, 4 miles to the northeast, as they attacked on a 30-mile front north and northwest of Schneidemuhl. Ratzebuhr, 26 miles north of the big communications junction and 58 miles from the Baltic, was among the Pomeranian localities captured as the Russians drove steadily ahead in an effort to seal off German forces in the Danzig area, 90 miles to the northeast.

Pocket Reduced

Fifty localities were taken in East Prussia where the German pocket south of Konigsberg was reduced to 1,250 square miles. Among these were Seeburg, 47 miles south of Konigsberg, and Schuditten, 10½ miles northwest of the East Prussian capital.

With the capture of Schuditten the Russians were only 8 miles from Fischhausen, gateway to the northern end of the Frisches Nehrung, a low alluvial land strip which forms the breakwater for adjoining Baltic lagoon that reaches southwestward to Danzig territory.

Several more blocks were captured in the western part of Budapest, the Soviet communiqué said.

VAST BATTLE IS SHAPING UP

Nazis Tell of Frantic Efforts to Build Up Defenses Against Steamroller From East.

J. KING

London, Feb. 1 (A. P.).—Marshal Gregory Zhukov's powerful smashes have driven to a point on the Oder thirty-nine miles or less from Berlin, the German High Command announced today, and one of the great battles of the war apparently was building up along that river.

The Berlin radio told of men, women and children being rushed eastward to dig a vast system of trenches and said that more and more Berliners were being thrown into the "forefield of the city's defenses."

One commentator said that Zhukov had penetrated into Kustrin, one of the chief strong points of Berlin's defenses at the confluence of the Oder and the Warthe, but had then been thrown out again. Kustrin is forty-one miles east of Berlin.

The drive to the Oder was told in these terse words of the German communique: "North of the Warthe, enemy forces advanced as far as the Oder, northwest of Kustrin, where they met our newly brought up reserves."

Massing Tanks for Blow.

Marshal Zhukov rolled up fresh numbers of infantry and tanks to increase the impetus of his drive. Along a seventy-mile front he had massed waves of tanks and infantry for a quick smash at Berlin's greatest defenses.

But at the center of his spearhead in the forty-mile-wide Frankfurt salient between the Oder and the Warthe, the German High Command said it had hurled in its reserves to halt the invading columns which already had broken through a defense shield twenty-three miles east of Frankfurt.

Russian planes raked the Berlin-Frankfurt highways, and Moscow dispatches said Nazi prisoners reported panic in the German capital because German civilians believed the airmen's red flares were artillery flashes.

At a point 170 miles to the rear, the Russians liquidated one of the German knots of resistance in Poland. Marshal Stalin in an order of the day announced the capture of Torun (Thorn), a stronghold of 54,000 on the banks of the Vistula, after a week-long siege.

Frankfort Zone Fortified.

Officially, Moscow placed the closest Soviet approach to Berlin at sixty-three miles, but an Associated Press dispatch from Moscow virtually confirmed the German reports of a much deeper advance.

Kustrin, a sixteenth century fortified town of 16,000, is on the east bank of the Oder and on the north bank of the Warthe at the confluence of the two rivers.

DNB said this key town, one of the chief defenses of Berlin, was approached by Marshal Zhukov's forces on the north side of the Warthe which captured Landsberg and then moved on to Beyersdorf, sixty-three miles northeast of Berlin.

It was around Frankfurt, a city of 75,000 on the west side of the Oder, seventeen miles south of Kustrin, that the Germans had grouped their strongest fortifications along the line of the Oder to protect communications between Berlin and Breslau in Silesia.

Great Battle Looms.

With his wings spread out on a seventy-mile front, Marshal Zhukov was preparing for a mighty battle along the Oder which might break German resistance and let the Red Army flood into Berlin.

The Germans were reported dynamiting, shelling and bombing the Oder in a frantic effort to break up natural ice bridges.

The Russians quoted German prisoners as saying large elements of the German air force had been stripped from the Cologne and Aachen sector of the western front as the Nazi High Command threw in everything to stop the Russians.

Toughness of the Oder defenses was suggested by the fact that several days have now elapsed since the Russians have reported any appreciable progress from their Oder bridgeheads on both sides of Breslau in Silesia. The Germans continue to declare that Soviet spearheads there had been stopped.

On his southern wing, Marshal Zhukov units had linked up with Marshal Ivan Konev's First Ukrainian Army in the Silesian sector.

Clear weather was favoring Russian planes as Zhukov threw his main punch as far as the area of Sternberg-Zielenzig, twenty-three miles east of Frankfurt, where the Germans said they were throwing in reserves of regular army units, storm troopers and the hastily mobilized Volkssturm.

Moscow dispatches said Soviet forces to the northeast had reached points only fifty-five miles from the Baltic in a drive to slash final land communications of Danzig and eastern Pomerania with the rest of Germany.

In the northeastern battle areas terrible scenes were reported being enacted at Konigsberg, encircled capital of East Prussia. Moscow dispatches said panic seized the city of 370,000, over-crowded with 150,000 refugees.

Street Battles Probable.

Although Konigsberg was tottering, the Russians apparently were faced with the task of bayoneting and mortaring their way from house to house. Storm groups moved up for that purpose.

Below Konigsberg the Germans were carrying out a wholesale evacuation of Elbing, on the Gulf of Danzig, where Russian forces had cut off the remainder of East Prussia.

There was no official Russian news on the attack toward Danzig, but Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's 2d White Russian Army was believed chiefly concerned with blocking German forces trying to break out of the East Prussian pocket into the Polish Corridor.

The German communiqué reported hard fighting in the very center of the East Prussian pocket at Wormditt. The Russians had advanced 17 miles to within 25 miles of the Baltic at Wormditt.

Silesians Reported Fleeing

Soviet correspondents said virtually all the German population of Silesia was on the move toward inner Germany.

"The roads behind the front are covered with them," said one correspondent. "Panic is reigning in hundreds of cities and towns and thousand of villages."

Exultation swept the Soviet Union.

"Many obstacles are on the way to the Oder and the Spree," another river southeast of Berlin, said Izvestia. "But there is no power in the world which is able to make a stand on the holy route of the Red Army. The detonation of approaching guns reaches Berlin. The Fascist lair is in panic."

GERMANS STRIP

BERLIN DEFENSES TO BOLSTER EAST

KASISCHKE

LONDON, Feb. 1 — (AP) The low, ominous rumble of heavy guns could be heard in Berlin tonight as workers stripped the capital of its once terrifying concentration of anti-aircraft guns to bolster the faltering Nazi army in the east, dispatches to neutral capitals said.

The German military radio issued an order for a death stand because "there's no way back."

Radio reports from surrounding capitals—Stockholm, Moscow, Bern and Luxembourg—all gave a picture of deep anxiety in Berlin.

Nazi Soldiers Warned

The German military radio heightened the picture with its warning to German soldiers not to place their lives "above the life of Germany." Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels added his dramatic touch with an article in Das Reich declaring "it's just before zero hour."

"Let no coward think that in this hour of peril he can get away with placing his life above the life of Germany or that he has the right to accuse our leaders," the military radio said, hinting that the stolid Germans at last were beginning to grumble openly of their leadership.

"There are still too many among us who think they can weather the sixth year of war safely as they did the second, third, and fourth. Too many lack the fanaticism the hour demands."

A dispatch to the Stockholm Aftonbladet said railway artillery was being removed from the Gleisdreieck, Anhalter, Schlesische and other railway stations and that anti-aircraft artillery was disappearing, with even the tremendous anti-aircraft towers in the Tiergarten and at other strategic points bereft of guns.

"One can see anti-aircraft guns, partly manned by women, rolling through Berlin streets all day long," the dispatch said. "Beside the girls, who are sometimes singing, sit prisoners of war and foreign workers, who obviously hope to be liberated more quickly if they travel toward the front."

Svenska Morgonbladet of Stockholm said streetcar service in Berlin was being suspended and the subway reduced to a minimum, leaving a reduced bus service to carry the major burden of transportation. Coal was reported short and the gas service completely out. Electricity, the dispatch said, was provided one hour a day.

War workers were said to be sleeping at their plants and the transportation breakdown was reported to have set off a "mass removal of the population."

(The Swiss newspaper Gazette de Lausanne, quoted by OWI, said that Potsdamer Platz, the very heart of the downtown section and the transportation lines, was to be the inner core of last resistance when the Russians reach the capital. Under Den Linden, with its once smart shops and palaces and the famous Bristol and Adlon hotels, also was named as a part of this last-ditch defense.

(The outer zone of defense, the Swiss newspaper said, will be along the auto-strada built by Hitler as a military highway around the capital. The second line will include the outskirts of the city, with destroyed houses used for defensive positions.

(In such a defense the Russians would come up against the workers' sections of Berlin first. They are on the north and east sides of the capital. The swanky homes are on the western outskirts.)

Build Trench System

A Transocean broadcast said a huge trench system was being erected around Berlin "in greatest haste" and Volkssturm men were hurriedly learning to handle the German version of the American bazooka and machine-guns.

Deputy Press Chief Helmut Suendermann shouted over the Berlin radio that "Berlin will become the bloodiest disappointment for the Russians if they think the war will be over once they have reached the capital."

The Luxembourg radio claimed the death rate in the refugee-packed city had rocketed and "at present 1,300 people are dying every day, many collapsing in the streets, and there are no ambulances to carry them away."

The Moscow radio said there were frequent disorders with "bread having disappeared as the refugees ransack foodstores." A Stockholm correspondent estimated the total refugees from the east at 4,500,000 Germans.

(A Berlin wireless dispatch sent to German army papers and recorded by FCC attempted to reassure soldiers concerning their relatives by saying "everything humanly possible" would be done for refugees and that news of individuals would come "as quickly as possible."

("In Berlin alone," the German dispatch said, "in one of the big assembly centers, tens of thousands pass daily through the transit camps. If they are unable to find accommodations with relatives and have no definite destination points of their own, they leave from here in collective transports for areas in the rear.")

A Pravda correspondent reported that virtually all Silesia's thousands of civilians were on the move toward inner Germany.

"The roads behind the front are covered with them," he said. The correspondent said he had seen few Germans, but one stood in front of his house with a white flag on the fence shouting to the Russians "Hitler Kaputt" (Hitler's finished).

(As confusion mounted in the refugee-packed towns and cities of the Reich the Soviet-sponsored free Germany national committee in a German-language broadcast recorded by FCC renewed its plea to the Germans to "prevent the impending catastrophe," asserting that "against united resistance, the SS and the gualeiter are powerless.")

As the peril mounted with the Russians only a little over 40 miles away, Ludwig Sertorius, German military commentator, said in a broadcast that preparations for the Allied offensive in the west had "almost reached their conclusion."

"It's not quite clear yet whether Eisenhower's impending offensive will be launched from Holland as well," he added.

REPORT HIMMLER ARRESTS OFFICERS

London, Feb. 1.—The Morocco radio quoted Ankara reports today that Gestapo Chief Heihrich Himmler had arrested or sent to the rear one marshal, six generals and 240 other officers from the eastern front command who were suspected of sympathizing with the Free Germany Committee in Moscow.

Radio Moscow, in a broadcast heard here by NBC, said today that Red Army forces have liquidated a Junkers officers school near Koenigsberg and that Capt. Richter admitted with bitterness that Germany has been defeated.

NO PRISONERS FREED

LONDON, Feb. 1—(AP) The War office said today it had received no notification on the liberation of any British prisoners by the Russian advance, and it appeared the Germans had moved Allied prisoners westward.

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—A Stockholm report, unsubstantiated elsewhere, quoted travelers arriving in Sweden tonight as saying that a Russian patrol had penetrated to the outskirts of Berlin today and withdrew after reconnoitering.

Germans Evacuate By Bus

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Double-decker omnibuses from Berlin are helping evacuate refugees from Danzig and West Prussia, the German radio said tonight.

Terms For Germany Ready For Big 3

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Cairo radio said "the Big Three conference anticipated by the whole world started today." The broadcast was in Arabic and gave no authority or indication of the site of the reported meeting.

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Disclosure that a fully fashioned "instrument of surrender" awaits only final Big Three approval was interpreted in London tonight as heralding a major psychological as well as military drive to bring about Germany's capitulation.

An authoritative source announced that the specific terms to be handed the Germans after their surrender had been initialed by representatives of the United States, Britain and Soviet Russia, respectively United States Ambassador John G. Winant, Sir William Strang, British Under Secretary of State, and Soviet Ambassador Fyodor Gusev.

For Separate Rhine State

Simultaneously came word that Prime Minister Churchill was taking to the conference with President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin —a meeting perhaps now under way—a concrete British plan for four-power rule over the Rhineland and the Ruhr believed to imply creation of a separate political and economic entity. France would share in this measure with Britain, Russia and the United States.

30. 24— 22585

There was no specific assurance that the "instrument of surrender" would be the basis for a new call to the Germans to overthrow Hitler, but it appeared an obvious possibility.

The terms, formulated by leaders of the European Advisory Commission, are so secret it is understood that only a few of the highest Allied officials know the contents.

It seemed certain that the three chiefs of state would give the instrument a high spot on the conference agenda.

British and American planes have been showering Germans several days with leaflets explaining "unconditional surrender."

This activity followed Churchill's "surrender now" appeal in Commons last week, which explained that the Germans would not be annihilated if they overthrew Hitler. British radios beamed excerpts of the Prime Minister's speech to the continent in German.

In this respect there was a growing possibility that the Allies might tell the Germans more of what to expect in order to offset Paul Joseph Goebbels' declaration that "unconditional surrender" means annihilation or slavery. Critics on both sides of the Atlantic long have contended that the term was too broad.

Zones Of Occupation Up

Allied zones of occupation also are on the Big Three agenda. President Roosevelt is understood to propose that American troops, in addition to occupying northwest Germany, should share with British and Russian forces in the occupation of Austria.

France also is understood to have asked permission to share in the Austrian occupation. The informant said it was believed Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill agreed to this.

France is understood further to have requested that the Rhineland be exclusively a French zone of occupatior prior to the assumption of control by a four-power consortium.

Enemy radios continued to fill the air with reports that the Big Three conference was in session, but none hazarded a guess as to the meeting site.

Another Wilsonian Approach Seen

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—The German radio transmitted today the following dispatch which was recorded by the Associated Press listening post:

"Information is on hand in the German Foreign Office that at the meeting of Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill political action is to be carried through similar to the one started by former United States President Wilson with his fourteen points in 1918.

"This time it is intended to achieve the same aim by modifying the demand for unconditional surrender. This has been agreed upon after it had been ascertained that the German command and the German people are determined to offer extreme resistance and after it has been recognized that Germany cannot be conquered either from the west or from the east.

Calls It "Wilson Farce"

"Well-informed circles of the Wilhelmstrasse today called this plan of Government partaking in the three-power conference a 'Wilson farce' and pointed out that such action was already planned at the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting in Cairo.

"In a political respect such action is parallel to the action in the first World War when the Allies tried to make the German war command surrender by speaking only of the removal of the Kaiser and militarism, whereas it is now intended to hoodwink the German' nation into believing that it is only a case of removing the Führer and national socialism.

"The German nation, however, Wilhelmstrasse circles continue, is, as the Führer stressed in his speech, immune against enticing arts of this kind, due to the spirit of the National Socialist movement. For this reason no one in Germany will fall for this planned maneuver."

ment of surrender" to be presented to the Germans when they capitulate. This was signed by United States Ambassador John G. Winant, Sir William Strang, British Under Secretary of State, and Fyodor Gusev, Soviet Ambassador to Britain.

Secret Document

The document, formulated by leaders of the European Advisory Commission, is so secret only a few high officials know its contents. It lays down specific terms to which Germany must conform.

The source said the Big Three also would discuss zones of occupation. President Roosevelt was understood to have proposed last August that American troops occupy northwest Germany and maintain only a token force in Austria. But now it is reported that the President favors having an equal share with Russia and Britain in occupying Austria.

Agreement Understood

The French were understood to have asked the Big Three powers for permission to share in the Austrian occupation and this source believed Roosevelt, Churchill and Premier Stalin would agree to this.

There were increasing indications that the Big Three meeting may already have begun.

Rhineland And Ruhr Control Plan Reported

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill is taking to the Big Three conference a plan for a four-power government for postwar control of the German Rhineland and Ruhr, an unimpeachable source said today. The plan is understood to call for the separation of the Rhineland and Ruhr from Germany and placing them under economic and political control of Great Britain, Russia, the United States and France.

The same source also said British, Russian and United States representatives have signed an "instru-

Paris, Feb. 1 (AP)—Shock troops of the 1st and 9th divisions penetrated deeply into the central Siegfried Line today and erased the last vestige of the bulge driven into the American 1st Army front before Christmas.

Patrols of Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's 1st Army stormed the Siegfried Line ramparts in three sectors, encountering opposition ranging from scant to heavy.

The 9th Division advanced more than 2 miles through Hitler's West Wall and ran into heavy machine gun and rifle fire in an attack on the main enemy supply crossroads 9 miles southeast of Monschau. Fighting was in a dark fir forest.

East Of Malmedy

The fighting 1st Division penetrated the Siegfried Line at a point 16 miles east of Malmedy, meeting only negligible opposition.

The 2d Division likewise drove ahead. The 82d Airborne Division entered the outskirts of Losheim, which is inside the lightly manned Siegfried Line—drained by exigencies of the Russian front.

The airborne troops captured twelve 88-millimeter guns intact with complete firing data, sights and ample supplies of ammunition.

The scarcity of opposition from some of the outer works of the Siegfried Line indicated the Germans had withdrawn their main forces to positions in the Eifel Mountain.

For the most part, there was only small-arms fire and little heavy artillery fire from behind the main West Wall works.

Associated Press Correspondent E. D. Ball said the Americans trudged rapidly through thawing snow through lanes of destroyed German equipment. Dead Germans and horses littered the battle scene. The wreckage was grimly remindful of the retreat from the Ardennes.

Villages passed were dead, too. They had been under terrific pounding by American artillery, and late today the weather broke, allowing planes to take to the air.

The big American guns still were thundering today at unpenetrated Siegfried belts.

The 1st Army troops crossed the first row of dragon-teeth tank barriers in a section of the Siegfried Line never before breached.

Farther north, 37 miles of the line have been conquered by the Americans in the Aachen-Roer River sector.

Big Guns Silent

Along a front of 40 miles, the 1st and 3d armies struck with a vengeance into pillboxes fringing the line, which battlefront dispatches described as strangely quiet—its artillery silent and its resistance mainly from small arms.

To the south, American and French troops fought into a suburb of Colmar and cut the last road from that big Alsatian city to the Breisach Bridge over the Rhine. They thrust across the Rhine-Rhone Canal, further outflanking Colmar, captured seven villages and advanced within 4 miles of Neufbreisch on the French side of the river.

The whole Colmar pocket seemed to be dissolving; the threat to Strasbourg from the north was eased by the capture of Gambsheim.

Moder River Crossed

A famous 7th Army regiment crossed the Moder River in force during the night and fought into Oberhoffen, hinge o fthe salient along the Rhine north of Strasbourg and the old Maginot Line sector. Oberhoffen is 14 miles north of Strasbourg and 4 southeast of Haguenau.

The 3d Army below St. Vith drove three and a half miles into the Reich and within nine of the strong cluster of fortresses around Prum. Its Our River bridgehead was widened to seven miles. The main works of the Siegfried Line were barely two miles away.

Supreme headquarters announced a new crossing of the Our River five miles due east of St. Vith and said 3d Army troops captured Schonberg, 1,000 yards from the German border.

[The Germans spoke of an impending general offensive and asserted that General Eisenhower had added six new tank and four infantry divisions to the 60 already in the Aachen sector opposite Cologne and the industries of the Ruhr.]

Nazis Weakened

The apparent apathy of the German army, so prone to counterattack and so dogged in rearguard fighting in the Eifel foothills, heavily underscored the question of whether drastic German need in the East had left the enemy strong enough to hold out west of the Rhine.

Overnight advances generally reached 4 miles deeper into Germany. Village after village fell.

An eerie silence covered the big Nazi guns in the lines, but the artillery of both the First and Third American armies laid a barrage on the fortifications along their forty-mile sector opposite Belgium and Luxembourg. The heaviest enemy resistance, however, was limited strictly to small-arms and accurate mortar screening.

General Collapse Seen.

The Third Army pushed two and one-half miles into Germany in the edges of the Siegfried Line east of the Our. Ingelscheid, Irren, Winterspelt and Heckhalenfeld—all in Germany and southeast of St. Vith—were captured in advances averaging two miles, and the assault carried to within nine miles of Prum, one of the strongest bastions of the Siegfried Line.

Many Prisoners Taken

The 1st Army alone captured 1,332 prisoners in the 24 hours to midnight, its largest haul since January 3. That was a commentary on German morale.

The German cross-Rhine holdings north and south of Strasbourg had begun to collapse, reflecting a weakening of the enemy along the whole Western front.

Allied planes spotted heavy German rail movements eastward from Karlsruhe and Mannheim and through Heilbronn, indicating a further thinning of German defenses. Roads north of Wissembourg, above the United States 7th Army front, were jammed.

It was estimated that in the Colmar area Allied troops have killed at least 5,000 German troops and taken 2,500 prisoners in two days.

[A dispatch last night to the London Daily Express said remnants of the 19th German Army, totaling 30,000 men, were in full retreat south of Strasbourg. It said the battle in the Colmar area had developed into a race between German and French troops for the Rhine bridge at Breisach.]

General Attack

At Field Marshal Montgomery's headquarters in the north, a spokesman for the 21st Army Group said the battle has developed into a general attack all along the Western front toward the Siegfried Line. He expressed doubt, however, that the Germans would yield the fortifications without a hard fight. A 35-mile section of the line had been captured by American arms along the Roer River north of the Monschau area.

The opinion was also expressed that Rundstedt might be saving manpower for protection of the Siegfried Line. In many sections the fixed forts are ringed by deep and wide ditches.

Anti-Tank Ditches

"The enemy has further strengthened these positions by community digging and the defenses now are surrounded by a maze of anti-tank ditches and crisscrossed trench lines," the spokesman said.

The heavy concrete pillboxes of the Siegfried Line were built in 1938 and now are outmoded by improved assault weapons. Where natural obstacles are plentiful, the Siegfried Line works are sparse. Where terrain is level, as many as 500 or 600 pillboxes dot a square mile.

Little activity was reported from the United States 9th Army front before Duren, but in the extreme north Canadian and British troops completed a mopup of German units among the numerous dikes on the Maas Island bridgehead north of Tilburg, Holland.

YANKS DRIVE ON PRUM

Allied Attack to Push Nazis from Alsace Gathers Momentum.

PARIS, Feb. 1—(AP) U. S. troops drove as deep as two and a half miles today through hitherto unbreached ramparts of the Westwall south of Aachen against resistance so light the belief grew that the Germans had weakened the Reich's great western fortifications to bolster the Eastern front.

The full weight of the assault by the U. S. First and Third armies was crunching through dragon teeth tank traps and pillboxes on a 40-mile front, widening the breaches in the Siegfried Line against an astounding lack of resistance.

Nazis Abandon Pillboxes

Some First army forces in the forefront of the assault found the Germans had fled from roadblocks and pillboxes, abandoning main positions with guns and ammunition.

The Third army, closing to within seven and a half miles of Prum after seizing Winterscheid, swept three and a half miles into Germany without sighting a tank. Prum is the big road and railway center which supplies the Siegfried network facing southern Belgium and northern Luxembourg.

Ahead of them, hundreds of Allied heavy bombers battered rail yards and bridges in the Ruhr and Rhineland, attempting to paralyze German troop movement from the Western to the Eastern front.

Far to the south, the battle to drive the Germans from Alsace gathered momentum. French and American forces virtually wiped out the Rhine bank salient south of Strasbourg and tightened the ring around Colmar — last big French town in German hands—by severing its main railway line to the Rhine.

Heavy rail and road traffic moving east from Karlsruhe on the Rhine and north from Wissembourg at the northern border of Alsace indicated that here too the Germans were pulling out and sending the best of their forces east for the battle of Berlin.

Allied Offensive Near

(The German news agency DNB declared that Gen. Eisenhower had virtually completed preparations for a big offensive east of Aachen and speculated that it might coincide with a renewed drive from Holland farther north.)

An Associated Press dispatch from the presently-quiet U. S. Ninth army front on the Roer north of Aachen said that there was something "screwy" on the Western front—that whole sections had been abandoned by the Germans and not yet occupied by the Allies.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army, storming the Siegfried Line in at least three sectors, met little resistance at some points and heavy at others as it developed its assault along a line from the area of Monschau, 15 miles southeast of Aachen, southward for 20 miles to the front near St. Vith.

Gains of as much as four miles were registered as these Doughboys plowed eastward through the snow and slush toward the Eifel mountains where lie the main Siegfried fortifications.

The Ninth Infantry division moved two and a half miles through the Siegfried line before it ran into heavy machinegun and rifle fire at a crossroads nine miles southeast of Monschau.

Farther south the veteran First division, first to resume the drive on the Westwall, moved more than a mile east through the woods and on through dragon teeth and lightly manned outer Siegfried pillboxes without drawing a challenge from the main forts' guns beyond.

Patrols said they found only a flicker of life in the fortifications 16 miles east of Malmedy, which is roughly mid-way between Monschau and St. Vith.

The 82nd Airborne division sent patrols into the edge of the German town of Losheim, inside the Siegfried line 13 miles northeast of St. Vith, after capturing a dozen 88-mm German guns complete with firing data, sights and ammunition.

Even the German border towns, many of them leveled by fierce artillery fire, were dead. The civilians had fled east, where American artillery tonight was pouring its fire into the main defenses.

NAZI GUNS SILENT ON WESTERN FRONT

Many Germans Surrendering; Many Forts Found Deserted.

By WES GALLAGHER

WITH THE U.S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, Feb. 1—(AP) There is something screwy on the Western front.

There are large sections of the front where the Germans have suddenly fled. Allied patrols have failed to contact the enemy, which means there is considerable territory unoccupied by the Allies or Germans in a situation that parallels the "sitdown" war of 1939.

For the past three days there has been no German artillery fire on U.S. troops attacking eastward along a line from St. Vith to Monschau forest, something virtually without precedent since the Allies first reached the Westwall.

In comparatively small and not too violent local actions, considerable numbers of Germans are giving up.

In the Ardennes area, U.S. troops of the 82nd airborne division moved right up to the Siegfried line, finding road blocks and temporary defenses unmanned.

In the last 10 days the 102nd division at Brachelen, northeast of Aachen, captured 97 pillboxes intact without a fight. The 78th division took 50 more near Monschau along with 500 prisoners in 48 hours. Six weeks ago it might have taken weeks to do this.

Latest Nazi Weapon Little Brother To V-2

With the U. S. 9th Army in Germany, Dec. 22 [AP—Delayed by Censorship]—Hitler's latest V-weapon with which the Western front and rear areas have been bombarded is a little brother to the 14-ton V-2.

It is a five-foot long rocket, carrying about the same explosive charge as that of a 170-mm. shell and having the same penetration power.

Fragments have been picked up on this front.

Its range and the manner of its launching still are secret.

This rocket has been used on a larger scale than the V-1 or the V-2, but the bombardments have been spasmodic. Its use against a single area has not been continuous. Thus far it has been used as a sort of diversionary weapon, but if it were manufactured in sufficient quantity, it might be employed for barrages.

Reports on V-4 Doubted

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 1 (AP).—Reports, given by a German fugitive who originally was described as a scientist acquainted with Hitler's V-4, now "seem to be more or less fantastic," the Swedish Foreign Office announced today. The German actually was a military deserter, a communique said.

HIS BARRICADE HIGHLY UNSAFE

With the American Ninth Army, Jan. 28 (Delayed) (A. P.).—When 88s came whamming into his area, Pfc. Merrill Shelton, Greenville, Tenn., dived behind some strong-looking wooden boxes.

As soon as the barrage lifted he stood up and casually inspected his barricade. Painted in big black letters across the boxes were three initials: "T. N. T."

868,982 Nazi Prisoners

United States 9th Army, Germany, Feb. 1 (AP)—Lieut. William H. (Texas Bill) Simpson's United States 9th Army has captured 61,708 prisoners, 1,376 since the German offensive opened December 16, his headquarters announced today.

This brought to 868,982 the number of prisoners reported taken since D-day and to 64,886 the number captured since December 16. Announced figures by armies:

FORTS AND RAF HIT THE REELING ENEMY

Big Bombers From Britain, France and Italy Swarm for Knockout—Berlin a Target

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP)—More than 1,000 Royal Air Force bombers poured tons of explosives tonight on German railway centers supplying the crumbling Eastern Front and blasted refugee-jammed Berlin. The night raids by the British heavies followed daylight attacks by American and British bombers on Rhine supply points for the Western Front.

Concerning tonight's raids, the RAF announced:

"Tonight the RAF Bomber Command dispatched well over 1,000 aircraft to Germany to prevent the Germans from sending large bodies of troops and equipment to the Eastern Front.

"Three main railway centers were heavily attacked—Mainz, Ludwigshafen and Siegen. Berlin also was bombed."

Ludwigshafen Battered

Ludwigshafen also was hit during the day by four waves of more than 700 United States Flying Fortresses, which also blasted other marshaling yards at Mannheim and rail and highway bridges at Wesel. American losses were one bomber and one fighter.

RAF Lancasters during the day bombed the rail junction at Muenchen-Gladbach in an attempt to block German troop movements.

The first of four waves of Fortresses attacked the marshaling yards of Mannheim shortly before noon. An hour later a second wave unloaded bombs on the Ludwigshafen yards across the Rhine.

Bridges at Wesel, under attack for the first time by Eighth Air Force bombers, were struck by two waves of heavies in the afternoon. Located in the northwest corner of the Ruhr Valley, Wesel's highway and double-track rail bridges form a supply bottleneck for enemy forces facing Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's British and Canadian Armies in the Netherlands. The Fortresses were escorted by more than 300 Mustang fighters.

During the day Liberators and Fortresses of the Fifteenth Air Force thundered up from Italian bases and attacked Austrian military installations for the second straight day.

Maj. Douglas L. Winter of Toledo, Ohio, who commanded the first group of Fortresses from British bases, reported the lightest flak ever encountered over Germany, and he said there was no anti-aircraft fire at Wesel.

BOMB RHINE CITIES

London, Feb. 1 (A. P.).—Four separate waves of Fortresses from Britain totaling 700 planes attacked the twin Rhine industrial cities of Mannerheim and Ludwigshafen opposite the Saar battlefront and two bridges spanning the Rhine at Wesel in the northwest Ruhr today.

In a companion stroke, Fifteenth Air Force Liberators and Fortresses from Italy slashed at Austria for the second straight day. Tactical Air Force Thunderbolts from Italy also ranged into Austria and Yugoslavia.

Liberals Ask Low Tariffs

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Britain's Liberal party adopted today a resolution described as the "British equivalent of the Monroe Doctrine," and Dingle M. Foot, its supporter, asserted the best way of preventing a third war with Germany was "to create a Germany which lives by trading freely with the rest of the world."

The resolution urged the joint use of sea and air bases by maritime countries of northern and western Europe and the eastern Mediterranean after the war as a means of preventing aggression.

Disclaims Hostility To Russia

Foot said it was "the height of absurdity to suggest that this proposal could be interpreted as being hostile to Russia."

Foot, a Liberal member of Commons, advocated an international security organization backed by the armed forces to keep peace, and warned that "we cannot ensure peace merely by imposing disabilities on a defeated enemy."

"We Liberals," he said, "do not believe that you can divorce foreign policy from commercial policy, and we have no doubt that the reduction of tariff barriers and the expansion of international trade is one of the greatest contributions that can possibly be made to lasting peace."

Soviet Taking Steps, He Says

Foot asserted Russia was "taking steps to secure her strategic frontiers" and asked, "why then should we alone be debarred from making any arrangements with our neighbors for common defense?"

An amendment later was tacked on to the resolution urging that the British Government make representations to the United Nations, especially the United States, "to secure agreement for the retention and adaptation of the principles underlying mutual aid."

LONDON, Feb. 1 (AP).—Great Britain's Liberal party adopted today a resolution urging joint use of sea and air bases by maritime nations of northern and western Europe and the eastern Mediterranean after the war as a means of preventing aggression. Dingle M. Foot, a Liberal member of Commons and parliamentary secretary for the Ministry of Economic Warfare, who introduced the resolution, called it the "British equivalent of the Monroe Doctrine."

LONDON POLES SEVER RELATIONS WITH CZECHS

LONDON, Feb. 1—(AP) The Polish government in exile broke relations with the Czechoslovakian government in London tonight and charged the Czech regime headed by President Eduard Benes was "not independent in making its decisions"—a reference which was interpreted as suggesting Russian pressure.

The break followed Czech recognition of the Moscow-backed Lublin government as Poland's provisional government.

An official Polish communique said the severance of diplomatic relations "does not in any way change our attitude toward the Czech and Slovak peoples and we will not give up efforts made so far to establish close collaboration and lasting union between the Polish nation and the Czech and Slovak nations."

9 SENTENCED TO DIE BY ARMY IN JANUARY

PARIS, Feb. 1 (AP)—Nine American soldiers were sentenced to death during January by the Seine section of the general courts martial in cases involving diversion of army gasoline into black market channels, it was disclosed today. Three others tried in similar cases were acquitted. Names of the nine condemned men were not disclosed.

Those convicted were charged with desertion as well as theft and sale of Government property.

Eleven other enlisted men were sentenced today to from five to twenty-five years by courts martial trying the United States Army Railway Battalion black market cases.

Seven enlisted men in the railway battalion black market cases were sentenced in Army court today to terms ranging from five to twenty-five years.

Earlier four others were sentenced to from eight to twenty-five years.

The seven sentenced this afternoon were T/5 Townsend Cobb Jr., of Kilgore, Tex., 25 years; T/5 William C. Estes, of Springfield, Mo., 25 years; T/4 William R. Puckett, Butler St., Ludlow, Ky., 25 years; Pvt. Robert D. Vawter, of Indianapolis, Ind., 25 years; Sgt. John P. Cranford, of Memphis, Tenn., 15 years; Pvt. John C. Murray, 160 Rockne Road, Yonkers, N. Y., 5 years, and Sgt. Donald S. Starr of Buffton, Ind., 5 years.

Pvt. Clifton C. Young, of Sacramento, Calif., was sentenced to 8 years; T/5 Fred N. Busby, of Abilene, Tex., and T/4 Nick S. Anthes of Akron, Ohio, to 15 years; and Sgt. Howard D. Fesler, of Walhonding, Ohio, to 25 years.

The second trial involving an officer in these cases, in which the defendants are accused of diverting cigarets and other U. S. Army supplies into the black market, is scheduled to start Saturday, dependent upon completion of the trials of another group of enlisted men tomorrow.

PATROL WAR RAGES IN ITALY

Both Sides Prod Ceaselessly At Each Other's Lines

Rome, Feb. 1 (AP)—Allied patrols, moving through some of the most difficult fighting country in Europe, again carried the burden of war in Italy today as both sides prodded ceaselessly at long dormant lines all along the front.

Despite adverse weather, the Tactical Air Force roamed over the Po Valley and the Brenner Pass areas, concentrating on German lines of communications and supply bases. Ammunition dumps southeast of Modena and at Crevalcore were hit, rail yards were damaged and bridges blocked. A number of railroad cars and motor vehicles were destroyed.

500 Planes In Raid

Yesterday the United States 15th Air Force dropped 1,357 tons of bombs on oil installations at Moosbierbaun, 22 miles northwest of Vienna. Between 500 and 750 Liberators and Fortresses took part in the attack—their first mission in ten days—and first reports indicated results were excellent although the bombs were dropped by instrument.

Liberators also dropped bombs on the rail yards at Graz, Austria. Eight heavy bombers were lost during the day.

At one point east of Monte Rondinaio, a 6,200-foot peak 9 miles east of Castelnuovo, an American patrol was engaged, but returned with six German prisoners after inflicting a number of casualties. Not an American was lost.

Artillery Cleans Up

Another 5th Army patrol north of Canovetta in the mountain line before Bologna fought for an hour with the Germans, who were using heavy machine-gun, rifle and mortar fire as well as hand grenades.

The patrol came back with information about German dispositions and artillerymen later reported hits on enemy-occupied houses and four German gun batteries in that area.

The Germans were extremely sensitive to these probing expeditions and all along the front they stepped up their mortar and machine-gun fire.

Thirteen miles southeast of Bologna, one 5th Army party ran into a field of German "shoe" mines—small wooden boxes loaded with explosive—and suffered casualties.

Along the Senio River on the Eighth Army front a British patrol found the Germans had demolished a number of houses on the east bank of the stream about 3½ miles north of Faenza.

ALLIED PATROLS PROD ENEMY LINES IN ITALY

ROME, Feb. 1 (AP)—Daring Allied patrols, moving through some of the most difficult fighting country in Europe, again carried the burden of war in Italy today as both sides prodded ceaselessly at long dormant lines all along the front.

At one point east of Mont Rondinaio, a 6,200-foot peak nine miles east of Castelnuovo, an American patrol was engaged in a bitter fight, but returned with six German prisoners after inflicting a number of casualties. Not an American was lost.

U.S. Planes Strike Heaviest Blow Yet On Single Target

Rome, Feb. 1 (AP)—Italy-based bombers of the United States 15th Air Force struck their heaviest blow yet on a single target in dropping 1,357 tons of bombs yesterday on Nazi oil installations in an area 22 miles northwest of Vienna, Allied headquarters announced today.

Ground action along the entire 5th and 8th Army fronts again was confined to patrol engagements.

One 5th Army patrol stabbed deep into German lines east of the Serchio River and engaged in a five-hour fight before withdrawing.

Six Prisoners Taken

The fight occurred east of Monte Rondinaio, 6,200-foot peak 9 miles east of Castel Nuovo. The American patrol returned with six prisoners without losing a man.

Across the entire front the Germans were extremely sensitive to Allied probes and they stepped up mortar and small-arms fire to check patrols.

Surpassing the rain of bombs poured on Cassino and Bologna in previous all-out attacks, from 500 to 750 Liberators and Fortresses hit the Moosbierbaum refinery, northwest of Vienna. Although all bombs were aimed by instrument through clouds, it was officially announced that "excellent results" were indicated.

In addition to the refinery, Liberators also smashed at railyards at Graz, Germany, and Maribor, Yugoslavia, destroying rolling stock. Fighters wiped out seven locomotives. Initial reports said only four enemy aircraft were encountered.

Altogether, the 15th Air Force flew almost 1,200 sorties. Eight heavy bombers, hit in moderate flak, are missing.

Cannot Cover Albania Election

Rome, Feb. 1 (AP)—American and British newsmen have been denied permission by Premier Gen. Enver Hoxha's regime to cover the national elections which are to decide the permanent form of government in Albania, it was learned today.

Nazi Protests To Vatican On German Prisoners

Vatican City, Feb. 1 (AP)—The German Ambassador to the Holy See was reported today to have lodged a formal protest with the State Secretariat on the alleged rejection by Swiss guards of two escaped German prisoners of war who sought refuge in Vatican City.

The Vatican neither confirmed nor denied the report. It issued a statement asserting "it is to be recalled that Vatican authorities recently renewed a severe warning not to give hospitality in Vatican City and in extra-territorial buildings to persons who have no right to dwell therein."

The Rome newspaper Corriere del Mattino said Allied military police arrested the two Germans after Swiss guards forced them to re-enter Italian territory.

It said the German Ambassador contended the fugitives should have been given the same right of asylum granted Allied prisoners during the German occupation of Rome.

16,000 NURSES 'INSUFFICIENT'

Fully 1,600 More Reported Needed In Europe

Paris, Feb. 1 (AP)—More than 16,000 nurses now are serving in the European war theater but a minimum increase of 1,600 is needed, Lieut. Col. Ida Danielson, chief nurse in the theater, said today.

Colonel Danielson said soldiers were getting adequate care, but the increase was essential to lighten the burden of nurses now working twelve to eighteen hours daily.

The high recovery rate among American wounded, she said, is a tribute "to the willing spirit and almost superhuman efforts" of the Army Nurse Corps. Hospital units are arriving on the Continent without any nurses, with the result that present staffs had to be thinned out. Colonel Danielson said the number of nurses in 1,000-bed general hospitals has been cut from 120 in 1940 to 83 at present, with a further reduction to 74 in sight.

For General Draft

Colonel Danielson said that in her opinion a general draft of women would be better than the drafting of nurses, adding that many nursing jobs could be filled by nonprofessional women.

Lieut. Margaret Hurl, Port Clinton, Ohio, told of nurses working eighteen-hour schedules because of lack of help.

Second Lieutenant Clio Shirley, of Winfield, Kan., said the nurses not only were overworked but, as in her unit, some underwent enemy bombing, shelling and strafing.

Lieut. M. M. Petint, of Huntington, Ind., said the lack of nurses in her unit precluded some comforts which ordinarily would be offorded the patients.

Only One Taken Ill

Capt. Martha Williams, of Endicott, N.Y., declared that despite hardships and heavy work, only one nurse in her unit was taken ill.

"There's a lot of nursing to be done over here," said Lieut. Helen Lawrence, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Other nurses who testified to the need for help were Capt. Faye Pannell, Lancaster, Texas; Lieut. Mary Poirier, Detroit, who has made twenty trans-Atlantic flights evacuating wounded; and Lieut. Margaret Hornback, of Shelbyville, Ky.

8 To 25 Years For 4 GI's

Paris, Feb. 1 (AP)—Four more enlisted men of a railway operating battalion were convicted today of wrongfully disposing of United States Government property in French black-market deals and were sentenced to from 8 to 25 years.

Private Clifton C. Young, of Sacramento, Cal., was sentenced to eight years; Tech. 5/g Fred N. Busby, of Abilene, Texas, and Tech. 4/g Nick S. Anthes, of Akron, Ohio, to fifteen years, and Sergt. Howard D. Fesler, of Walhonding, Ohio, to 25 years.

Anthes asserted he had been subjected to physical violence and had suffered bodily injury during the interrogation at which the alleged statement was obtained.

Another's Statement

Fesler told the court:

"I just signed it so I would be turned loose."

Seven other enlisted men are on trial in another courtroom on charges of wrongfully disposing of Government property. They are: Tech. 5/g Townsend Cobb, Jr., of Kilgore, Texas; Tech. 4/g William C. Estes, of Springfield, Mo.; Private John C. Murray, of Yonkers, N.Y.; Sergt. Donald S. Starr, of Bluffton, Ind.; Sergt. John P. Cranford, of Memphis; Private Robert D. Vawter, of Indianapolis, and Tech. 4/g William R. Puckett, of Ludlow, Ky.

British Submarine Overdue

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—The British submarine Stratagem, is overdue and presumed to be lost, the Admiralty announced tonight.

B-29'S SINK BIG DRY DOCK

India-Based Group Hits Singapore Facilities

Twentieth Bomber Command Headquarters, India, Feb. 1 (AP)—Superfortresses of the 20th Bomber Command dealt the Japanese Navy a devastating blow in an attack today upon Singapore, destroying the huge floating dry dock which could have handled the largest warship in the world.

Reconnaissance photos proved the dock was sunk. A 460-foot merchant ship which had been in the dock was seen to be burning.

One Of Greatest Attacks

It was one of the greatest air attacks in strength ever flown by B-29's.

Numerous returning crews reported seeing bomb explosions solidly aboard the 855-foot dry dock which is capable of servicing the largest war craft afloat. Its 172-foot width gives it capacity to handle 50,000-ton vessels.

Installations bordering Georgetown harbor on Penang Island also were hit and set ablaze by a sizable diversionary force. Pilots returning from Singapore who flew over Penang said flames covered the Georgetown water-front area. Penang is one of the most important Japanese submarine bases and supply ports in the Asiatic theater.

None Lost To Enemy Action

[A communiqué from 20th Air Force headquarters in Washington said none of the Superfortresses was lost to enemy action. Gunners reported two enemy interceptors definitely downed, six probables and eight more damaged.

[The Washington report called opposition in the air weak and anti-aircraft fire moderate. Possibly upward of 150 of the giant bombers took part in the strike.]

The B-29's hit Singapore for the third time. The first mission on November 6 smashed the gates of another naval dry dock. The round trip to Singapore is roughly 3,800 miles from the Superfortresses' India base.

1,000-Pounders On Target

Col. J. V. Edmundson, a group commander, flew the mission as copilot in the lead ship piloted by Major Harold R. Brown, of Ardmore, Tenn. Colonel Edmundson, who lives in Santa Monica, Cal., said the dry dock belched great clouds of smoke as his group went in. A previous squadron had laid 1,000-pound high explosives on the target.

Edmundson reported the bombs from his group, dropped in salvo on the signal of Lieut. Ed (Moose) Zaidlicz, of Chicago, formed a perfect pattern tightly around the dry dock, which indicates bombs fell aboard the craft. The smoke from the previous hits prevented accurate estimate of damage done by the second wave.

Staff Sergeant Joseph Barto, of Hazleton, Pa., radio operator aboard Brown's ship, said the fighter opposition was up in force but evidenced no desire to close with the heavily gunned Superfortresses.

Went Through Motions

Major C. C. McPherson, of Oakmont, Pa., piloting another plane in the same group, told intelligence officers that the Japanese fighter pilots flew "like they had a date lined up for tonight and didn't want to miss it; they just went through the motions and didn't mean it much; we only saw one that came in close."

The Japanese resorted to their usual tactics of dropping plane-to-plane bombs which were ineffective. Barton said he observed no explosions of the phosphorus bombs dropped by enemy fighters closer than 800 yards to his B-29.

Anti-aircraft fire from ground installations and warships in the harbor was fairly heavy, but returning crews said it was inaccurate.

The Singapore naval yards, which were among the largest in the world when the Japanese captured the seaport, were also in the target area. The naval base extends four miles east of the Johore causeway on the north side of the island.

Among the military objectives within the hard-hit naval base area are oil storage tanks and munitions dumps, warehouses, great naval work shops and an extensive wharf area.

The Singapore base is of the greatest strategic importance to the Japanese since the imperial fleet was so severely punished in actions around the Philippine Islands. The loss of repair facilities under B-29 bombardment would considerably delay the return of damaged fleet units to active service.

JAPANESE STIFFEN ON 3 BURMA FRONTS

Allies, However, Seize Kangaw and Besiege Sagaing, Key Bastion of Mandalay

FEB 2 1945

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 1 (AP)—Japanese troops, after yielding hundreds of square miles to the Allies, appeared today to be stiffening their rearguard forces and violent close-quarter fighting broke out on three battlefronts in Burma.

Sagaing, directly across the Irrawaddy River from the key city of Mandalay, was being steadily reduced by Allied air and ground forces.

The fall of Sagaing, last enemy stronghold on the north bank of the river where it cuts westward from Mandalay, would menace the escape of the enemy from Mandalay itself.

Headquarters announced the capture yesterday of Kangaw, an important town dominating the Taungup road, but said the Japanese were counter - attacking fiercely.

The fast United States Mars Task Force far to the northeast of Mandalay was raking and breaking up concentrations of Japanese attempting to stem the rush of American and Chinese troops southward along the Burma Road toward the enemy base at Lashio.

The Japanese were throwing more and more troops into the struggle, which is developing south of the point at which the Ledo Road has been joined to the old Burma Road in the reopening of a land route to China.

The heavily gunned American task force turned its fire on Japanese, who, with pack howitzers, had taken to the hills above the highway. The Thirty-eighth Division of the Chinese First Army was in support.

Bayonet fighting broke out near Kantha, in Arakan, western Burma, and British and Indian troops killed seventy Japanese in a battle that still is raging.

Headquarters announced the capture yesterday of Kangaw, an important town dominating the Taungup road, but said the Japanese were counter-attacking fiercely.

Farther north, west African troops neared Monywa, forty miles northwest of Mandalay.

Heavy bombers of the Eastern Air Command attacked a Japanese headquarters area near Mandalay yesterday, starting many fires, while other planes bombed a railway bridge south of the city.

Supply depots in the northern combat area were bombed and Japanese positions in Arakan were attacked by fighter-bombers.

LOSS OF U. S. BASES OFFSET

Wedemeyer Discounts Setbacks to Air Operations in China

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 1 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer said tonight that loss of some United States Fourteenth Air Force bases east of the China-Indo-China corridor was imminent, but despite these setbacks the United States China theatre commander declared himself "enthusiastic and confident about operations in our theatre."

General Wedemeyer said enemy dispositions and operations indicated that the Japanese expected American landings somewhere on the China coast, "and I assure you we won't disappoint him in his expectations."

He said loss of some bases had been expected, but that he was happy the fields were not lost earlier, when their use had "helped operations in the Philippines Archipelago a great deal."

The Japanese continued heavy pressure against the American air bases, and pressed their efforts to gain control of all the Canton-Hankow railway for through rail communications from Hong Kong and Canton to Manchuria and Korea.

The Chinese High Command said fighting in western Kiangsi Province, where the enemy had struck against the bases, had swept to the suburbs of Suichwan, site of one of the American bases and first major objective of the Japanese push.

Another possible objective was Kanshien (Kanchow), about fifty miles south of Suichwan and seat of a model district administered by the elder son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Japanese forces at Kukong, recently occupied provisional capital of Kwangtung, 125 miles north of Canton, have thrust eastward along the Chen River and fighting has developed at points nine to twelve miles northeast of the city, the High Command said.

513 Men of Bataan, Corregidor and Singapore Are Freed From Jap Prison Camp on Luzon

Rangers Deliver Captives From Stockade in Daring Raid—G. I. Invaders Line Road Back in Tribute to Heroes of '42.

C YALES N CURRIER

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Jan. 31 (Delayed) (AP)—Men of Bataan, Corregidor and Singapore—513 of them—were snatched from under the flaming muzzles of Jap guns last night in an exploit of unmatched daring.

Some 400 picked men of the Sixth Ranger Battalion and Filipino guerrillas made a commando raid twenty-five miles behind Jap lines to empty a prison camp and partially fulfill one of the Philippine objectives closest to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heart.

They took Jap guards by surprise and rescued 486 Americans, twenty-three British, three Netherlanders and one Norwegian—all that were left in the prison camp in Nueva Ecija province of eastern Luzon.

Many more hundreds of more able-bodied war prisoners had been sent to work camps in Japan. Hundreds of others had died.

All but two of the men were brought out alive by the 121 Rangers who stormed into the prison stockade under command of Lieut.-Col. Henry Mucci of Bridgeport, Conn. The enfeebled hearts of the two who died flickered out when they were in sight of American lines.

27 of Raiders Were Killed.

The Rangers attacked with such merciless precision that not one of the Jap stockade guards was left alive or able to resist, and they attacked with such care that not one of the prisoners was scratched.

Within a matter of minutes all had been released and were on their twenty-five-mile journey to freedom, walking, carried on backs of husky Rangers or riding in Carabao carts. Nearly 100 were so weak from malnutrition, disease and three-year-old wounds that they could not walk.

The rescue cost the lives of twenty-seven Rangers and Filipinos in a guerrilla unit led by Major Robert Lapham of Davenport, Iowa, who fought off a savage tank-led Jap attack along the escape corridor.

The raiders killed 523 Japanese—more than one for every prisoner released—and knocked out twelve enemy tanks.

This first mass liberation of Allied prisoners of war in the Western Pacific was accomplished by an all-night forced march east of the American lines to Cabu.

The Commando force, made up of the 121 Rangers and 286 Filipinos in the guerrilla unit, left American lines under protection of air cover and reached the prison camp without detection.

Homage to the Heroes.

Their swift, fierce attack caught the guards completely by surprise. The Japs struck back violently and persistently as the rescue column headed back toward the Ranger camp.

The heavy, disproportionate Japanese losses were inflicted when these tank-led attacks were battered down.

The raid, ordered on short notice when intelligence reports disclosed the whereabouts of the camp, was such a success that Gen. MacArthur decorated every man in the force.

The lean and ragged captives received the homage of thousands of American soldiers. The youthful G. I.'s formed an impromptu honor guard, flanking a military highway down which the rescue party passed after it returned to American lines. It was the last of many marches for the rescued men—marches which began with the brutal "Death March of Bataan."

The freed men showed their happiness, despite their sores and ulcers, wasted bodies and ragged clothes.

Some looked helplessly up from litters. Others were proudly erect. There were old men with gray hair and dazed, sunken eyes. Some were surprisingly young and almost at their normal weight. Others were limp from beriberi.

Their shirts were tattered. Shorts were patched and repatched. Several officers still proudly wore their emblems of rank. There were battered campaign hats, overseas caps and one pre-war-type helmet.

Their sentiment was expressed by Capt. James B. Prippe, Los Angeles, former Provost Marshal on Corregidor: He said:

"The thrill of seeing those green-clad Rangers storm into the prison camp last night will never quite leave me."

Rescue Came Suddenly.

The prisoners had heard the pre-invasion bombardment of Luzon and news of the landing, but the rescue came as a complete surpise. It erupted suddenly with the rattle of automatic weapons just as the ship's bell, which was the camp timepiece, tolled 1900 (7 P. M.).

Most of the prisoners dived for the ground or the floor, thinking the gunfire meant the Japs were liquidating them—a fate many had long expected. Then they saw the Rangers.

One said, "take it easy fellows, the Yanks are here."

Another lifted a prisoner from the floor saying, "we got this place, pal."

It all happened so quickly most of them couldn't believe it was true. But their feelings were echoed by an officer who said, "Boy, these Rangers sure showed us American power."

Breakfast Was No Dream.

Even when the column of ambulances and trucks met them at mid-morning today their eyes were still fogged with doubt.

Food was the first stout convincer. The Rangers had moved kitchens far beyond their lines to greet the released men with a breakfast of eggs, meat, grapefruit, white biscuits, butter, jam, coffee and milk.

Private Alfred Jolly of San Francisco, who lost an arm at Bataan, ate six eggs, a big heap of meat, a large size can of grapefruit, drank five cups of coffee and consumed seven biscuits with jam.

"This probably will make me sick as hell," he said, "but I don't give a damn."

British Army Signalman Thomas Potter, of Harrow, Middlesex, captured in Singapore, muttered after his seventh biscuit "white bread! Blimey, this is better than I got in peacetime."

A March Across the Years.

The convoy of ambulances and

30. 24— 22589

trucks transported the rescued captives back to absolute safety and freedom—except for the two who died en route.

The first meeting of these soldiers and the trim officers of the present campaign was a tense, brave effort to span the dead years. The freed men tried proudly to be soldiers, carrying themselves as erect as possible. Many saluted promptly and stayed at attention when talking to officers. One man who did this crept into a truck and sank back exhausted a minute later.

Most of them found it difficult and confusing to return to this world. Perpetually wearing a broad grin, some would start a conversation with "Hello, Yank; glad to see you." And then there was nothing more they could say. They talked pleasantly when they could but many spoke hesitantly.

Things They Remember.

Even the most robust young man had been enfeebled somewhat from malnutrition because of their diet of three handfuls of rice daily with a few sweet potatoes for those who worked. Some lost as much as 100 pounds. They remembered buddies whose bodies had been heaped into massed graves. Finally, last year they were allowed to make a tidy cemetery.

Truck after truck passed, the occupants showing some uncertainty, some hesitancy. They glanced eagerly at the new weapons and helmets of soldiers who lined the road. They peered far ahead at the plain stretching interminably—with no barbed wire, no guard to bar their free passage.

Little by little they talked—of food, chiefly. They had collected 6,000 recipies during internment. Then they talked of wives, children, sweethearts, and parents from whom the majority have heard nothing for more than three years.

Among the few possessions carried out in their quick departure were twenty-five-word messages from loved ones and a few pictures of wives, children and grandchildren.

They talked in low tones of Jap brutality and the Death March of Bataan, of the final terrifying week of bombing and bombardment which hit Corregidor, of men dying like flies, of disease, of ten hours daily in prison camp under the hot sun in fields, or waist high in water of rice paddies under hard eyes, of frequent beatings and shootings.

Back at the Ninety-second Evacuation Hospital they were given medical care, toilet articles and showers. The captives gradually relaxed as they realized they were not dreaming, but were actually free men again.

End of a Perfect Day.

They lined up for supper of boned chicken, peas, beans, fruit salad, jam and cocoa—a veritable banquet after the starvation fare of the Jap prison camp. They recalled when 10,000 men at the Cabanatuan prison camp near Cabu used to spend all day strung out in line for a canteen full of water from one of the camp's four spiggots.

Invited to ask for more and eat all they want, one of the men commented:

"Where we come from they put you in the guard house if you ask for more."

Several of the men in line carefully snuffed out their cigarettes and placed the butts behind their ears.

By nightfall their conversation became more animated and was not particularly distinguishable from that of other hospital patients. Quiet soon settled over the tense ward as real rest came to the exhausted, scarred army which came back to the American lines—proudly.

Yanks Take 513 From Jap Luzon Prisoner Camp

MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Feb. 1 (AP)—Green-clad United States Rangers and Filipino guerrillas rescued 513 gaunt and ragged men, mostly American survivors of the Bataan "death march" and Corregidor, in a raid Tuesday night, 25 miles behind Japanese lines.

It was the first mass rescue of prisoners in the Pacific war, carried out by 407 picked fighters of the 6th Ranger Battalion and guerrillas.

Piercing the Nuevo Ecija province hills, the commando force led by Lieut. Col. Henry Mucci, of Bridgeport, Conn., with the Filipino guerrilla unit under Major Robert Lapham, of Davenport, Iowa, hit the Cabantuan prison camp near Cabu at 7 P.M., their guns blazing.

Feared Liquidation

The prisoners feared the firing meant their liquidation by the Japanese had started.

The gaunt and hungry men dodged to the floor, waiting. Then Rangers burst into the barbed-wire-inclosed barracks with the reassuring words:

"Take it easy fellows, the Yanks are here. We got this place, pals."

Those freed were 486 Americans, 23 British, some of whom defended Singapore; three Netherlanders and one Norwegian. Two of the men died on the way to safety, their failing hearts unable to withstand the ordeal at the climax of their three years' imprisonment.

Camp Once Held 10,000

They were all that were left at the Cabantuan Camp, which once held 10,000 captives. Hundreds had died from disease, malnutrition or mistreatment. Others had been removed to work camps in Japan.

Cleanup of the Japanese guards proceeded briskly, the 121 Rangers and 286 Filipinos moving with precision.

With no time to lose, the rescuers and rescued started their night forced march back to American lines. Some of the prisoners walked, despite tropical ulcers, wounds and bodily weakness. Others were carried on the backs of Rangers. Some rode in carabao carts.

Tanks Attack Column

The Japanese struck the column in persistent, tank-led attacks, but the Americans and Filipinos were not to be denied their prizes.

Fighting on the way back took 523 Japanese lives, better than one for every rescued man, and cost the enemy twelve tanks.

The operation cost the lives of 27 Americans and Filipinos. Two more were wounded.

"No incident of the campaign has given me such personal satisfaction," Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communiqué announcing the rescue.

To emphasize his satisfaction, he awarded decorations to every member of the commando party.

Cheering American troops lined the roadway as the prisoners were driven in trucks and ambulances to an evacuation hospital for food and new clothing.

Some of the prisoners appeared dazed, unable to realize their good fortune.

Most of them plainly showed their elation. A few of the officers still wore their insignia of rank. Some had managed to retain their battered army campaign hats; others wore overseas caps at jaunty angles.

Breakfast Proof Of Freedom

Tears filled the eyes of many of the men when they once again saw the American flag and the equipment, and might of the new United States Army.

The dream of liberation became a stanch reality when the men were given their first breakfast under freedom.

Eggs, meat, grapefruit, coffee, biscuits and jam were the convincers. They tackled the food with enthusiasm bred on a prison diet made up mostly of rice.

Removed farther back, to the 92d Evacuation Hospital, there was more food for them and full facilities for treatment of wounds and diseases.

MacArthur Visits Hospital

General MacArthur visited the hospital to chat with officers he had known on Bataan and Corregidor. Those of the men who could stand, came to attention as their commanding officer entered. Some already had obtained new clothing and insignia which they proudly wore.

The three years in prison had not completely dimmed the energy of some of the men, and they expressed one great wish — to get back into the fight and help MacArthur recover Manila and Corregidor.

Rescued Men Express Delight

Stamford Lieutenant Rigged Up Radio—Yonkers Officer 'Floating on Clouds.'

By DEAN SCHEDLER.

FEB 2 1945

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Jan. 31 (A. P.) (Delayed).—Capt. James B. Prippe of Los Angeles, whom I last saw when he was Tunnel Provost-Marshal on Corregidor, said the "thrill of seeing green-clad Rangers storm into our prison camp last night will never quite leave me."

Lieut. George W. Green, Auburn, Ala., former Manila broker and reserve Naval Intelligence officer, said, "I was captured when the last organized American resistance ceased in 1942. They wanted to take me to Japan, but I was saved by illness."

Lieut. Green got up and not only walked, but ran last night, for the first time in years, when he forgot his arthritis upon hearing American Rangers yell for all prisoners to make for the camp entrance.

Warrant Officer James Shimel, Philadelphia, Pa., didn't have much to say but his eyes blinked with pride as he explained that he was the senior officer of nineteen men of the Fourth Marine Regiment, veterans of service in the Far East.

Pvt. Walter Laverne, Sioux City, Iowa, formerly with the Twentieth Air Base at Nichols Field, said:

"My heart almost broke with the first burst of fire last night because I thought the Japanese had reached the end of their patience and decided to wipe us out."

A Tooth Paste Tube Radio.

Lieut. W. D. Gibson of Leonard ave., Stamford, Conn., technical engineer with the original Voice of Freedom station on Corregidor with the aid of Lieut. Frank Burgess of San Diego, Cal., built a one-tube radio out of old scrap such as a tooth paste tube packed with acids for batteries.

"On that set," he said, "we picked up news from the outside world, typed it out on Japanese stationery and circulated the news sheet about the camp. "The Japanese fumed over the news, but they finally gave up the search for its source. Burgess and I were actually listening when the Rangers stormed the camp."

"I am floating on clouds," said Lieut. Earl Baumgardner, U. S. N. R., of 34 Cowles avenue, Yonkers, N. Y., former manager for R. C. A. Communications, Inc., in Manila. "If you don't think these are the happiest 500 men on earth you are crazy. They want to go to Manila with the liberating forces before returning to the United States."

When the original Japanese garrison left Cabanatuan after removal of some 1,600 American prisoners they left Col. James W. Duckworth, San Francisco, senior American war prisoner on Luzon, in charge of the camp.

Col. Duckworth has been caring for American prisoners since Bataan, where he commanded Hospital No. 1 at "Little Bagulo."

"After the surrender of Bataan," Col. Duckworth said, "Japanese came to my hospital and asked to see wounded Japanese soldiers. When they saw we were treating the enemy the same as our own men they posted a sign giving us immunity from molestation."

Not only were they untroubled in the hospital camp, said Col. Duckworth, but his medical corpsmen and doctors were permitted to search Bataan for food supplies unaccompanied by guards.

When the death rate at Camp O'Donnell reached an astounding rate, Col. Duckworth said, "they sent for me and my staff and allowed us to take sixty-eight truckloads of supplies to the O'Donnell Camp hospital."

Col. Duckworth said he found 150 Americans at O'Donnell whose conditions seemed hopeless but "We saved fifty." Before Duckworth's staff and supplies reached O'Donnell the daily death rate there was alarming. A few months later the rate dropped to two or three monthly.

Col. Duckworth paid tribute to the tireless devotion of his eighteen doctors and forty Medical Corpsmen, many of whom he said should have been hospitalized themselves.

He recalled the work of Capt. Ralph Hibbs, Oskaloose, Iowa, battalion surgeon of the Thirty-first Infantry. Another doctor who was ill himself then, and "even on our rescue work last night worked tirelessly over the sick," was Major Ralph Hubbard of Oklahoma City.

Major Hubbard carried on the traditions of his family—his father and brothers are doctors—from the time he was in the 6,000-patient hospital on Bataan until today.

Duckworth broke his left arm at the start of the war. He is ending his immediate duty the same way, as he slipped last night during the dash for safety and broke the other arm.

lippines. So how do I go about finding out if she is out here." The Red Cross assured Yates it would check the whereabouts of his wife.

Frank Ellsworth of Long Beach, Cal., another civilian engineer, said: "I will certainly believe in lucky numbers. My boy's birthday was yesterday. I landed in the Philippines on my other boy's birthday and my own is May 6—the day Corregidor fell."

Among the rescued men was Capt. R. E. Roseveare, former manager of the Manila office of the Goodrich Rubber Company, who was commissioned at the outbreak of the war.

Pvt. Walter Laverne, Sioux City, Ia., formerly with the Twentieth air base at Nichols Field, said:

"We went through the bombing to Corregidor to sweat it out. My heart almost broke with the first burst of fire last night because I thought the Japanese had reached the end of their patience and decided to wipe us out."

Too Happy To Talk

"I am too happy to talk," said Pvt. Thomas Flowers, Scranton, N. C. He couldn't talk much anyway as he was tearing into his third hamburger. Flowers was a member of the 803rd engineers.

"I have been in the Philippines 43 years," said Edward Normandy, Marlboro, Mass., a civilian employe with the Army engineers on Bataan, "but the last three years were certainly the hardest."

Sgt. Donald Smith, of Boulder, Colo., said he had been "living on rice and cojan grass soup so long that I can't get over the new-fangled package rations."

Lt. Cecil H. Hay, Houston, Tex., who was with the 31st infantry on Bataan, said: "I never forgot Texas and I didn't let any of the other boys forget it." Hays was too interested in food at the moment to explain how he kept Texas to the fore.

Lt. Com. H. A. Erickson, Los Angeles, Still proudly wearing his battered, anchored naval cap, was at the Cavite naval yard when Japanese bombers came over Dec. 12 1941. "We took a direct hit on the station which killed 25 persons," he said. "I was taken to Bilibid prison where I worked with 50 sick and wounded officers before being transferred to Cabanatuan."

With Immunity

"After the surrender of Bataan," Col. Duckworth said, "Japanese came to my hospital and asked to see wounded Japanese soldiers. When they saw we were treating the enemy the same as our own men they posted a sign giving us immunity from molestation.

Not only were they untroubled in the hospital camp, said Duckworth, but his medical corpsmen and doctors were permitted to search Bataan for food supplies unaccompanied by guards.

Among the rescued prisoners was Capt. Ted Amos, of Humboldt, Kas. "I was taken from Corregidor in a small boat and forced to swim the last several hundred yards," he related. "From Biblibid prison I was moved to the Davao, penal colony and then to Cabanatuan last June."

Happiest Men on Earth

"I am floating on clouds," said Lt. Earl Baumgardner, Yonkers, N. Y., former manaber for Radio Corporation of America in Manila. "If you don't think these are the happiest 500 men on earth you are crazy. They want to go to Manila with the liberating forces before returning to the United States."

Capt. David Yates, of Hammonton, N. D., said: "My wife is a WAC and the Rangers told me there are some WACS in the Philippines. So how do I go about finding out if she is out here." The Red Cross assured Yates it would check the whereabouts of his wife.

Leonard Menger, Pueblo, Colo., a civilian engineer of Corregidor, said: "I worked as a coolie in the hot sun day in and day out on a diet of rice and water. I worked on Nielson airfield. I had no trouble with the Japanese and they didn't bother any of our men too much. But how I would love to see the field after the Liberators knocked it over."

Frank Ellsworth, of Long Beach, Calif., another civilian engineer said: "I will certainly believe in lucky numbers. My boy's birthday was yesterday. I landed in the Philippines on my other boy's birthday and my own is May 6—the day Corregidor fell."

Lt. Seaton Foley, San Francisco, an engineer who joined the army in the Philippines, said that when the Japanese "came to take us from Manila bay most of us were too weary from bombing and shelling to think much of the future. I lost a lot of weight from sickness but I am ready for anything now."

Among the rescued men was Capt. R. E. Roseveare, former manager of the Manila office of the Goodrich Rubber company, who was commissioned at the outbreak of the war.

Another of the rescued men was Pfc. Cecil A. Carlsson of 444 East 149th Street, Bronx, N. Y. He was with a party that carried out last-minute demolitions on Bataan. He was first taken to old Bilibid Penitentiary in Manila and then to Cabanatuan.

M'ARTHUR VISITS RESCUED VETERANS

General Greets Old Friends of Bataan Days in Luzon Evacuation Hospital

NINETY-SECOND UNITED STATES EVACUATION HOSPITAL, Luzon, Philippines, Feb. 1 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur soberly greeted ninety friends of Bataan and Corregidor during a visit today to American prisoners of war rescued from a Japanese prison camp.

The general strolled through the hospital wards among the officers who still remained here for treatment and rest. The able-bodied prisoners had left a short time previously for a transient camp.

Those able to do so came to attention as the five-starred general entered the room. He slowly circled the lines of cots, searching for familiar faces.

The hallway was lined with the former captives, now looking neat in newly issued uniforms, on which they proudly wore shiny new insignas of rank.

General MacArthur chatted several minutes with Col. James Duckworth, Medical Corps ranking officer in the group.

Colonel Duckworth suffered a broken arm in a fall during his escape from the prison camp with the rescuing Rangers and Filipino guerrillas. But he assured the general he "felt fine."

General MacArthur and Colonel Duckworth last met during the general's inspection of a hospital on Bataan, in January, 1942.

As General MacArthur left the room, Capt. Denie King of Austin, Tex., saluted and asked permission to lead a patrol to Corregidor.

The general assured Captain King he would get a chance to land again on the fortress island.

King was captured at Fort Drum, a small fortified island near Corregidor in Manila Bay. He was an officer with the Fifty-ninth Coast Artillery.

Sixth Ranger Battalion Camp, Luzon, Jan. 31 [AP—Delayed]—You could see new life flowing into the 511 prisoners of war rescued by American Rangers and Filipino guerrillas from the Japanese prison camp in Nueva Ecija province.

As the caravan of ambulances, trucks and carts bearing the men neared the American lines, the occupants showed some uncertainty, some hesitancy, as if they didn't quite believe it all.

Knew Yanks Had Returned

They had known that the Yanks had returned to Luzon—three years late. But they had fostered no hopes of sudden liberation. Their first introduction to the liberating power of American arms came about twilight with the crack of automatic-rifle fire over the camp.

Instinctively they hit the dirt, thinking the Japanese at last were liquidating them. Then they saw the Rangers.

It was too much to believe in an instant. It was only after they had seen the Yanks in force that they again took on the appearance of free men.

Curious About Weapons

They looked with undisguised curiosity at the new weapons of the Yanks who lined either side of the road to greet them; they looked at the open plain ahead, their view for the first time in three years unobstructed by Japanese sentries and barbed-wire fence.

There were men prematurely old, with gray hair, sunken eyes; men who limped from beri-beri, brought on by the lack of proper food; men whose bodies were scored by tropical ulcers and other diseases contracted during nearly three years of living death; men who looked up helplessly from litters, and a few who were young-looking, clean shaven and still alert.

It was natural that there were few spontaneous outbursts of joy. Their long ordeal had taken the bounce out of them, and they kept an iron grip on their emotions.

There were few words. Occasionally someone would say, "Hello, Yank. Glad to see you." And then nothing more. There wasn't anything more to say. The minds of these men were busy, bridging the three-year blank in their lives.

After a while they would smile. Officers who had retained their tarnished badges of rank wore them proudly on tattered uniforms.

Medical attention, showers and toilet articles added loads of realty to their freedom.

At the 92nd U. S. Evacuation hospital where 90 of the rescued men were taken, Gen. Douglas MacArthur called and greeted them. Those who could do so snapped to attention. They wore new clothes, new stripes, new insignia of rank.

MacArthur talked several minutes with Col. James Duckworth, San Francisco, ranking medical corps officer among the prisoners. Duckworth broke an arm while making his way out of the prison camp with the Rangers but said he felt fine.

As MacArthur left the room, Capt. Ben E. King, of Austin, Texas, one of the rescued prisoners, saluted the general and asked permission to lead a Yank patrol back to Corregidor. MacArthur assured him he would get a chance to land again on the island.

FATHER OF ACTRESS SAVED ON LUZON

Ninety-second Evacuation Hospital, Luzon, Friday, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Major Paul R. Wing, 54, father of Toby Wing, movie actress, said he was "quite well" when rescued from a Japanese prison camp.

Happy and tanned, Major Wing declared he felt as if he had already regained half of the forty pounds he lost while imprisoned. He told of his pleasure in receiving a picture of his grandson. The child is with his mother at 705 Delido Drive, Delido Isle, Miami, Fla.

Major Wing, an Army signal officer, was captured at Corregidor. He said he was looking forward to the trip home.

FLAG THRILLS RESCUED MEN

Some Give Way To Emotions On Reaching U.S. Lines

By FRED HAMPSON

Luzon, Philippines, Jan. 31 [AP—Delayed]—The sight of the American flag—freedom after almost three years in a Japanese prison camp hell—and food and more food—these were the things that stirred the hearts, revived the cloudy memories and put new life into 511 American and other Allied prisoners who were rescued last night.

Some were hysterical with happiness at the time of rescue and others gave way to long pent-up emotions later—one when he saw the flag on passing through the American lines.

"Cut Right Through Me"

"It cut right through me—the flag," cried Staff Sergeant Clinton Goodbla, of Longview, Wash. "Being free cut through me. And the cigarettes and chow"——

One gaunt young prisoner, his

ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, on Luzon, Feb. 1 (AP)—The text of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's special release today on the rescue of interned prisoners:

FEB 2 1945

Recent intelligence reports indicated the Japanese were maintaining a prisoner of war camp near Cabu in Nueva Ecija Province in eastern Luzon.

A commando raid was immediately organized for the purpose of rescuing the prisoners. One hundred twenty-one picked men of the Sixth Ranger Battalion and 286 guerrillas were entrusted with the mission, commanded by Lieut. Col. Henry A. Mucci.

Moving from our lines with air cover, they penetrated twenty-five miles into enemy-held territory and struck under cover of darkness. The mission was successful. The Japanese guards were completely surprised and were annihilated.

As the rescue columns with the liberated prisoners withdrew, they were continuously attacked by Japanese columns supported by tanks. In the bitter fight which resulted a total of 523 enemies were killed and twelve tanks destroyed. Our own losses were twenty-seven killed and three wounded.

The entire group of prisoners, numbering approximately 510, were rescued with practically no harm. The great majority are American officers and soldiers with a sprinkling of British, Dutch and other nationalities. The condition of the rescued men is fair. They are receiving every care and attention and their rehabilitation will be rapid.

An almost complete list of names with the addresses is appended hereto, and I hope the press will give it full publicity so that the families of the survivors may be thus immediately informed.

I have awarded the commanding officer of the rescue mission the Distinguished Service Cross, all other officers the Silver Star and all enlisted men the Bronze Star for this heroic enterprise. No incident of the campaign has given me such personal satisfaction.

Dignified Reception Greets Airborne Unit

MacArthur Headquarters, Luzon, Friday, Feb. 2 (AP)—You'd think the Filipinos had been planning a celebration for weeks by the well-organized, dignified reception they gave the American invaders of Batangas province.

Although the 11th Airborne Division entered the town of Nasugbu only an hour after it hit the beaches from landing ships Wednesday, it found most Filipino homes holding "open house."

For instance, Senora Adela Alberto had plenty of hot coffee ready for the Americans. Other families offered the Yanks wine or "a spot of rum."

30. 24— 22591

eyes shining, flung his arms around Pfc. Thomas Grace, Jr., of New Orleans, of the rescuing Rangers, embraced and kissed him.

"I got so damn flustered," said Grace, "that I almost forgot to do my job."

The happiness of the released prisoners was infectious. Rescuing Rangers and Filipino guerrillas were in a celebrating mood when the column arrived at the American lines.

Surprised Jap Guards

They told how they surprised the Japanese guards at the Cabanatuan prison camp at Cabu last night and shot them down while the prisoners rushed out.

Three Ranger sergeants, Creatus Norton, of Hendersonville, N. C.; Richard Moore, of Los Angeles, and Melvin Gilbert, of Portland, Ore., sprayed the Japanese barracks with bullets. They killed 30 or 40 of the enemy before they could get out of the building.

Most of the 511 prisoners brought out—two were so ill their hearts failed in the hour of rescue—were eager for American food.

Willing To Be Sick

"This probably will make me as sick as hell," said Private Alfred Jolly, of San Francisco, "but I don't give a damn."

The haggard, one-armed young soldier (he lost an arm at Bataan) ate six eggs, a large helping of meat, seven biscuits with jam, and a can of grapefruit. He washed it down with five cups of coffee.

"White bread!" exclaimed a British soldier, Signalman Thomas Potter, of Harrow, Middlesex, England. "Blimey, this is better than I got in peacetime!" He was captured at Singapore.

Expressing regret over the two prisoner deaths, one Ranger said they "weren't in very good shape."

His understatement also could be applied to many who came out alive. But food, freedom and happy anticipation of trips home were expected to serve as speedy recovery incentives.

As the caravan of ambulances, trucks and carts bearing the men neared the American lines, the occupants showed some uncertainty, some hesitancy, as if they didn't quite believe it all.

It was too much to believe in an instant. It was only after they had seen the Americans in force that they again took on the appearance of free men.

They looked with undisguised curiosity at the new weapons of the Americans who lined either side of the road to greet them; they looked at the open plain ahead, their view for the first time in three years unobstructed by Japanese sentries and barbed-wire fence.

Young Men Prematurely Old

There were men prematurely old, with gray hair, sunken eyes; men who limped from beri-beri, brought on by the lack of proper food; men whose bodies were scored by tropical ulsers and other diseases contracted during nearly three years of living death; men who looked up helplessly from litters, and a few who were young-looking, clean shaven and still alert.

There were few words. Occasionally some one would say, "Hello, Yank. Glad to see you." And then nothing more.

After a while they would smile. Officers who had retained their tarnished badges of rank wore them proudly on tattered uniforms.

Medical attention, showers and toilet articles added loads of reality to their freedom.

No men ever received more sincere homage than these lean, ragged soldiers who had come back from death.

For four miles they followed a lane outside the American lines, riding in vehicles and grass-lined Filipino carts. Thousands of soldiers from the reinvasion army formed an impromptu parade in their honor, flanking both sides of the return route.

No men ever tried more valiantly to regain the pride that the Japanese had smashed and to control their emotions as these captives whose first glimpse of the almost-forgotten outside world came this evening.

Behind them was the awful hopelessness of Bataan and Corregidor, and nearly three years of unbelievably brutal imprisonment. Finally, stunningly swift rescue and an all-night forced march of twenty-five miles, the last of several marches for them. The first meeting of these soldiers and the trim officers of the present campaign was a tense, brave effort to span the dead years.

Tarnished Insignia Retained

Several of the prisoner officers had retained their tarnished badges of rank, worn proudly on ragged shirts above shorts which had been patched and repatched. Some wore old campaign hats, some overseas caps with company insignia, and one had retained his old pre-war type helmet.

These men were so happy you could see new life flowing into them, yet most of them found it difficult and confusing to return to this world.

They talked pleasantly when they could, but many spoke hesitantly. Even the most robust young man had been enfeebled somewhat from malnutrition because of their diet of three handfuls of rice daily, with a few sweet potatoes for those who worked.

THIRD INVASION FORGES HUGE TRAP AROUND MANILA

Weak Opposition Met by Jap Forces in Surprise Attack.

DRIVE 5 MILES INLAND

Americans Push South Within 20 Miles of Philippine Capital.

FEB 2 1945

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Friday, Feb. 2—(AP) A new landing southwest of Manila—the third invasion of Luzon island—forged the jaws of a trap north and south of the Philippines capital, with some Yank columns reported today a bare 20 air miles away.

Virtually sealing off the possibility of Nipponese troops south of Manila joining those to the north, 11th Division troops of the Eighth army landed at Nasugbu on the west coast of Batangas province 32 miles southwest of Cavite naval base.

Smash Toward Manila

They opened a drive north while Yanks of the Sixth army pressed south from Calumpit down Bulacan province to the Angat river, the closest approach to Manila. These Yanks have covered approximately 100 miles since their Jan. 9 landing at Lingayen gulf.

Eighth army elements which landed Monday northwest of Manila and quickly secured Subic bay as a base for the Seventh fleet were reported today to be moving east against light enemy resistance across the base of Bataan peninsula toward a juncture with Sixth army columns driving southwest from Lubao.

MacArthur reported the enemy was "caught off balance and we landed without loss" at Nasugbu.

A fine road leads from Nasugbu to Manila by way of Tagaytay ridge through Cavite province.

The first wave of the 11th Airborne Division under Maj. Gen. J. M. Swing hit five miles of Batangas beach from Rear Adm. William M. Fechtler's landing ships Wednesday morning without firing a shot and speared quickly inland through the town of Nasugbu without serious opposition.

Jap Opposition Weak

It wasn't a totally bloodless landing as was the invasion of the Zambales coastline to the north last Monday. After the Yanks had been pouring ashore for a half hour, Japanese in caves off the northern flank brought machineguns and 77 MM fire to bear on the landing beach. Mobile artillery and naval gunfire quickly silenced the enemy.

Lt. Gen. Robert Eichelberger originally planned the foray as a reconnaissance in force, with the provision the Yanks pull out if the opposition proved too tough. But three hours after the 8:30 a. m. landing he changed it to a full-scale invasion.

Nasugbu is 21 road miles west of Tagaytay ridge, a 2,000-foot crest from which artillery can control the entire Batangas peninsula and roads leading to Manila from the south.

The two new west coast landings within 48 hours, plus the rapid drive down the central Luzon plain toward Manila from the Lingayen gulf beachhead established Jan. 9, catch the Japanese around the capital in a giant noose.

General MacArthur said:

"This operation places the Eighth army on the south side of Manila, which is now the center of converging columns of the Sixth and Eighth armies. It largely seals off the possibility of the enemy troops south of Manila joining those in the north, and definitely outflanks the enemy's defense lines in southern Luzon."

Meanwhile Sixth army Yanks moving south upon Manila from captured Calumpit reached a point only 22 miles from Manila as they reached the Angat river in Bulacan province.

Eighth army troops who landed on the west coast of Zambales province just north of Subic bay on Monday were advancing eastward against only light Japanese resistance in their drive to seal off the Bataan peninsula.

MacArthur announced the hard-hitting First Cavalry division which distinguished itself on Leyte was committed to the Luzon campaign.

In the northern sector First Corps forces seized San Nicholas, six miles east of San Manuel on a road, vital to the Japanese, leading into the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon.

Four miles to the south, other units made a four-mile gain toward the eastern foothills.

MacArthur reported that a Japanese column caught between two Yank forces on the Balungao-Umingan road in this sector was "completely destroyed with heavy losses."

Takao and Kagi airfields on Formosa were bombed by long-range patrol planes which caused large fires.

Six Japanese planes were destroyed and two others probably shot down on Formosa. Another enemy aircraft was shot down in the Sakishima Island area to the east.

Enemy shipping south of Formosa was attacked. Direct hits were scored on a 10,000-ton tanker, which blazed for a half hour. A small freighter also was damaged.

ALL SUBIC BAY IS BACK AGAIN IN U. S. HANDS

American Warships Said by Japs to Be Moving In on Corregidor.

OLONGAPO BASE IS TAKEN

Yank Troops Driving Toward Junction That Will Cut Off Bataan Peninsula.

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Feb. 1 (A. P.).—Subic Bay and its naval repair base of Olongapo, dotted with pillboxes but inexplicably abandoned by the Japs, were back in American hands today as unblunted American spearheads to the east rolled clear of a dangerous bottleneck passage only twenty-eight road miles from Manila.

Well-fortified Grande Island, the "Little Corregidor" guarding the entrance to Subic Bay, was taken without opposition Tuesday by Eighth Army troops. Units of the American Seventh Fleet then steamed into Subic Bay.

Other elements of Lieut.-Gen. Robert Eichelberger's Eighth Army moved by road along the inner rim of Subic Bay to capture the Olongapo naval base which, before the war, was an American depot.

[Meanwhile today the Tokyo radio declared in a broadcast picked up by FCC and distributed by the Associated Press, that American warships are approaching Corregidor, at the entrance to Manila Bay, while others in Subic Bay are shelling northwestern Bataan. "The enemy is sending warships to the vicinity of Corregidor. . . . From Corregidor cruising of American shipping in the adjacent waters is reported," Tokyo said.]

Sixth Army at Calumpit.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his communique today that "we are now using this excellent anchorage, and development of a naval base is already under way."

Olongapo was well outfitted with Jap dugouts and pillboxes—all empty. Similarly, Grande Island was abandoned by the enemy, its American guns "pointing disconsolately out to sea," in the words of Associated Press Correspondent James Hutcheson.

Sixth Army troops thirty-five miles to the east, meanwhile, reached the town of Calumpit, twenty-eight road miles from Manila, in a drive down an easily defensible stretch of highway flanked by huge swamplands.

Failure of the Japs to put up a fight in this natural defense zone was as puzzling as the enemy's lack of opposition at Subic Bay.

The Americans crossed the Pampanga River just north of Calumpit to swing free of the swampy corridor and aim down the straight Manila highway. They were approaching Malolos, twenty-two road miles from Manila.

One column of Sixth Army troops, which has been moving southward from Lingayen, turned westward on the Bataan Peninsula road from San Fernando and captured Lubao. This represented a ten-mile advance to within twenty-five road miles of a juncture with the Eighth Army pressing eastward from the Zambales coast beachhead, established without bloodshed Monday.

Last Road Severed.

Such a juncture will seal off the historic Bataan Peninsula, which forms the western shore of Manila Bay. Jap troops have fled into Bataan from San Fernando and other sectors to the northeast, and some are reported to have sought refuge there by boat from Manila.

Gen. MacArthur announced the severing of the Cagayan Valley road, only highway of the central Luzon plains left in Japanese control, with the capture of Munoz and Talavera. Americans of the First Corps seized the road town of Tayug, at the northern end of a Manila highway skirting the eastern side of the central Luzon valley. They also were closing in on Umingan and Lupao, to the south, on the same highway.

Farther north, near Rosario, Americans captured the Udiao road junction which sends an artery into mountainous Raguio, summer capital of the Philippines and likely Jap headquarters, fourteen miles to the north.

Jap pockets in the Fort Stotsenburg area north of San Fernando have been cleared out after days of bitter fighting, Gen. MacArthur announced.

Formosa Airfields Bombed

ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS on Luzon, Friday, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Takao and Kagi airfields on Formosa were bombed yesterday by long-range patrol planes. Large fires were set.

Six Japanese planes were destroyed and two others probably shot down in daylight raids on Formosa. Another enemy aircraft was shot down in the Sakishima Island to the east.

Enemy shipping south of Formosa was attacked. Direct hits were scored on a 10,000-ton tanker, which blazed for a half hour. A small freighter also was damaged.

Iwo Island Get[illegible]ily Blast

ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Pacific Ocean Areas, Feb. 1 (AP)—Iwo Island, daily bombed Japanese air base in the Volcano Islands, and Wolei, enemy air base in the Carolines, 525 statute miles west of Truk, were pounded Tuesday by American planes, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported in a communique today.

Three planes intercepted over Iwo and one was damaged.

Torpedo planes destroyed a building the next day in an attack on Yap in the western Carolines and Corsairs sank two barges near Babelthuap in the Palau Islands.

LUZON RESCUE HERO SILENT ON EXPLOITS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 1 (AP)—The family of Lieut. Col. Henry Mucci, Bataan, Corregidor and Singapore prison-camp rescue hero, complained today that "he never tells much about any of his exploits."

The 33-year-old son of Mrs. Elizabeth Mucci of Bridgeport was born and received his preliminary education here before entering West Point as a Connecticut National Guard candidate on his second attempt. The first time he fell short of physical requirements.

After being graduated from West Point in 1936 he served assignments at Randolph Field, Tex., and Fort Francis Warren, Wyo., before being sent to Hawaii, where he married the former Miss Marion Fountain of Denver, Col. They have one child. Colonel Mucci had been in Hawaii more than three years at the time of the Jap sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

Colonel Mucci "hardly tells us anything," said his brother John and mother when appraised of his latest feat. John, who received a medical discharge from the Army a month ago after serving as a combat engineer during three battles of the Italian campaign and being wounded in action, smiled:

"Harry was back home on furlough in September while I was here in a hospital before my discharge. The colonel said he had been in 'a few battles' but refused to talk about it."

Colonel Mucci was last in the news only a week ago when a dispatch from Luzon disclosed that his battalion had chased a Japanese force estimated at 6,000 out of the western tip of the Lungayen peninsula and sent them scurrying toward Manila.

It was revealed at the time that his special assignment was to train the only Rangers in the Pacific theatre.

GREW ANNOUNCES PLAN TO PUNISH NAZI CRIMINALS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP) The United States proposed to Britain and other Allies definite plans for punishing Nazi leaders and other Germans guilty of atrocities against the Jews inside Germany.

This was announced tonight by acting Secretary of State Joseph C Grew to meet criticisms aroused by the dismissal of Herbert C. Pell as American member of the United Nations War Crimes commission. Pell had wanted the German persecutors of German citizens tried as war criminals even though some questions had been raised whether these crimes could technically be classed as war crimes under international law.

A policy declaration by Grew made it clear that the United States, like Britain, distinguished between regular war crimes and those atrocities committed against Jews and other minority groups inside Germany, but the statement declared that the United States emphatically intends to see that criminals of both types "shall be punished."

The British position was announced yesterday in Parliament by Minister of State Richard K. Law. Prodded by the same controversy, Law said that Britain is determined to see that authorities in post war Germany deal out to the perpetrators of atrocities inside the country "the punishment they deserve."

Grew said American officials have been working on specific proposals to achieve that objective, which he said President Roosevelt has set forth repeatedly.

"Pending the outcome of current discussions with our Allies on this subject," Grew said, "these proposals cannot be published."

"I wish, however, to state categorically that these proposals are as forthright and far-reaching as the objectives announced by the President which they are intended to implement."

"They provide for the punishment of German leaders and their associates for their responsibility for the whole broad criminal enterprise devised and executed with ruthless disregard of the very foundation of law and morality, including offenses wherever committed against the rules of war and against minority elements, Jewish and other groups, and individuals."

Grew said the State department welcomes public discussion of the Pell incident, which, he said, "has made clear the determination of our people that the guilty shall be punished. The Department of State and the government share that inexorable determination."

Pell attributed his own dismissal to dissatisfaction with his work and made it clear that he believed that dissatisfaction was in the State department. Earlier Sir Cecil Hurst, British member of the commission, had resigned in a conflict with the British foreign office because he wanted his government to support a proposal which Pell had made and the Commission approved to try Germans who had committed atrocities against the Jews as war criminals.

Grew Text on War Crimes

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—The text of the statement issued by Joseph C. Grew, acting Secretary of State, on the subject of American policy toward punishment of war criminals, follows:

The Department of State welcomes the public discussion of the punishment of war criminals. This discussion has made clear the determination of our people that the guilty shall be punished. The Department of State and the Government share that inexorable determination. The final decision as to the procedures in the punishment of those guilty of war crimes will be made in consultation with the United Nations, fifteen of which are now represented on the War Crimes Commission in London.

Certain broad positions have already been taken, however, by the Allied Governments principally engaged in the fighting of the war. The declaration issued at Moscow on Nov. 1, 1943, stated that German officers and men who had been responsible for, or had taken a consenting part in, the unspeakable crimes and atrocities perpetrated by Nazi Germans in this war "will be sent back to the countries in which their abominable deeds were done, in order that they may be judged and punished according to the laws of these liberated countries and of the free Governments which will be created therein."

It was further stated in this same document that the above declaration was "without prejudice to the case of the major criminals whose offenses have no particular geographical localization and who will be punished by the joint declaration of the Governments of the Allies."

Earlier Pledges Cited

The broad position taken by our own Government in this matter has been clearly indicated by the President on numerous occasions.

On July 17, 1942, the President wrote to Dr. Stephen S. Wise:

"* * * Citizens, regardless of religious allegiance, will share in the sorrow of our Jewish fellow-citizens over the savagery of the Nazis against their helpless victims. The Nazis will not succeed in exterminating their victims any more than they will succeed in enslaving mankind. The American people not only sympathize with all victims of Nazi crimes but will hold the perpetrators of these crimes to strict accountability in a day of reckoning which will surely come."

On Aug. 21, 1942, the President declared:

"The United Nations are going to win this war. When victory has been achieved, it is the purpose of the Government of the United States, and I know it is the purpose of each of the United Nations, to make appropriate use of the information and evidence in respect to these barbaric crimes of the invaders in Europe and Asia. It seems only fair that they should have this warning that the time will come when they shall have to stand in courts of law in the very countries which they are now oppressing and answer for their acts."

Against Mass Reprisals

On Oct. 7, 1942, referring to the statement of Aug. 21, the President said:

"I now declare it to be the intention of this Government that the successful close of the war shall include provision for the surrender to the United Nations of war criminals. With a view to establishing responsibility of the guilty individuals through the collection and assessment of all available evidence, this Government is prepared to cooperate with the British and other Governments in establishing a United Nations Commission for the Investigation of War Crimes.

"* * * It is not the intention of this Government, or of the Governments associated with us, to resort to mass reprisals. It is our intention that just and sure punishment shall be meted out to the ringleaders responsible for the organized murder of thousands of innocent persons and the commission of atrocities which have violated every tenet of the Christian faith."

On March 24, 1944, the President declared:

"In one of the blackest crimes of all history—begun by the Nazis in the days of peace and multiplied by them a hundred times in times of war—the wholesale systematic murder of the Jews of Europe goes on unabated every hour. As a result of the events of the last few days hundreds of thousands of Jews who, while living under persecution, have at least found a haven from death in Hungary and the Balkans, are now threatened with annihilation as Hitler's forces descend more heavily upon these lands. That these innocent people, who have already survived a decade of Hitler's fury, should perish on the very eve of triumph over the barbarism which their persecution symbolizes would be a major tragedy.

"It is, therefore, fitting that we should again proclaim our determination that none who participate in these acts of savagery shall go unpunished. The United Nations have made it clear that they will pursue the guilty and deliver them up in order that justice be done. That warning applies not only to the leaders but also to their functionaries and subordinates in Germany and in the satellite countries. All who knowingly take part in the deportation of Jews to their death in Poland, or Norwegians and French to their death in Germany, are equally guilty with the executioner. All who share the guilt shall share the punishment."

Proposals Worked Out

Over the past months, officers of the Department of State, in consultation with other departments, have worked out proposals for the realization of the objectives stated by the President. Pending the outcome of current discussions with our Allies on this subject, these proposals cannot be published.

I wish, however, to state categorically that these proposals are as forthright and far-reaching as the objectives announced by the President, which they are intended to implement. They provide for the punishment of German leaders and their associates for their responsibility for the whole broad criminal enterprise devised and executed with ruthless disregard of the very foundation of law and morality, including offenses, wherever committed, against the rules of war and against minority elements, Jewish and other groups, and individuals.

MANPOWER BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Measure Approved Without Major Changes by Vote of 246 to 165.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP) Brushing aside every proposed major change, the House passed and sent to the Senate today legislation to coerce men between 18 and 45 into war plants.

The roll call vote was 246 to 165.

Passage of the measure requested by President Roosevelt came only after its backers staved off a mighty drive by opponents to substitute a voluntary plan for meeting manpower needs.

Substitute Backed by Republicans

The substitute, backed heavily by Republicans, went down by a non-record vote of 187 to 177. Earlier, the House decisively rejected moves to incorporate in the legislation a so-called "anti-closed shop" amendment and a ban against giving essential rating to an employer unwilling to hire a worker because of his race, color or creed.

Also defeated, on a standing vote of 205 to 71 shortly before the final ballot, was a proposal by Representative Voorhis (D.-Calif.) to handle the problem by giving the War Manpower commission authority to impose labor ceilings on employers and to provide for renegotiation of war contracts by employers using labor obtained through the WMC program.

While the House was taking final action, production and military sources, which strongly backed the measure throughout, put in a new argument—that the extent of reconversion after V-E day, will depend to a considerable extent on the fate of limited national service bill.

If a bill is passed which would assure that war plants would be manned to the full extent needed to wind up the European war and wage the Pacific war successfully, these officials said, reconversion activity could be pushed ahead more rapidly than otherwise.

This would be true, it was stated, because the legislative controls over "job-jumpers" would stabilize the labor supply, insuring against any exodus from war plants occasioned by a limited resumption of civilian goods production.

As it finally passed, the bill follows recommendations of the House Military committee almost to the word.

It undertakes to give to the Director of War Mobilization authority to designate essential industries and to call upon Selective Service to provide manpower for those industries when there is a need.

In meeting a manpower request, local draft boards may request men to take designated jobs or may direct them to do so. They also may "freeze" registrants in existing jobs.

Any registrant leaving a job into which he has been "frozen" or refusing to take one into which he has been directed could be inducted for general military duty or fined $10,000 and imprisoned for five years.

The legislation requires draft boards to give men a reasonable choice of employers, a provision recommended by the military committee as substitute for a discarded proposal permitting a man to take a job in a closed shop plant without joining a union.

It also provides that a registrant may decline to take a job if he has a just cause, but he may have to prove to a court or a draft appeal board that his reason was valid.

In assigning men to jobs, draft boards are directed to consider the effect of a job-change on a man's family and the possible impact on the civilian economy.

Text of House Measure on Labor Draft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP).—Following is the complete text of the man power bill passed by the House today:

A bill to amend the selective training and service act of 1940, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that Section 5 of the selective training and service act of 1940, as amended, is amended by inserting at the end of such section a new subsection reading as follows:

"(N) (1) In addition to the liability for training and service in the land or naval forces, every registrant between the ages of eighteen and forty-five who is not a member of such forces on active duty and is not exempted or deferred from the training and service therein by Section 5 (C) (1) of (D) shall be liable to perform work in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest, or in an agricultural occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort. For the purposes of this subsection, the director of war mobilization and reconversion, or the agency designated by him, shall from time to time by regulations designate, and certify to the director of Selective Service, the plants and facilities, and the activities therein, in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest, and the farms and agricultural occupations and endeavors essential to the war effort. In making such designations the director of war mobilization and reconversion may make classifications on the basis of geographical areas, types of activities, types of occupations within activities, and types of plants, facilities and farms.

Certification Procedure

"(2) A registrant liable to perform such work who is now or hereafter employed by an employer, or now or hereafter self-employed, in an activity or agricultural occupation or endeavor which is so certified shall have a duty not to voluntarily discontinue such employment unless his selective service local board (subject to appeal in the same manner as is provided in Section 10 (a) (2) has determined that it is in the best interest of the war effort for him to leave such employment.

"(3) The director of war mobilization and reconversion shall from time to time (after consultation with the appropriate representatives of management, labor, agriculture, and government) certify or cause to be certified to the director of Selective Service the extent to which, in the various areas, the plants, facilities, and farms described in paragraph (2) are unable, through the operation of paragraph (2) and by voluntary recruiting by management, labor, agriculture and government, to meet their man-power requirements in the activities, occupations and endeavors so described.

"(4) Upon receiving such a certification for a particular area the director of Selective Service—

"(A) Shall designate the categories (by age and other status) of registrants who are able to perform work under paragraph (1) and who are not deferred under subsection (K) or by reason of being engaged in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest, from which categories men capable of performing the work involved shall be called before calls are made from other categories. In designating such categories the director shall first designate categories which include registrants who are, by reason of their age and other status, the type of men he deems can transfer to such work with the least disruption to the civilian economy and to themselves in comparison with men in other categories, and may exclude, or by regulations provide for the exclusion, from any category so designated, of those types of veterans (discharged or released from active duty in the land or naval forces under conditions not dishonorable) whose exclusion from such category the director deems fair and equitable;

"(B) Shall direct the local boards in such area, and also local boards outside the area to the extent that he may deem necessary, to request their registrants within the categories so designated to become employed, within a time fixed by the director, in the activities, occupations, and endeavors covered by the certification;

"(C) If the requirements of the certification have not been met under subparagraph (B) within the time fixed, shall direct the local boards in such area, and also local boards outside the area to the extent that he may deem necessary, to order (subject to regulations prescribed by him) registrants within the categories so designated and capable of performing the work involved (in numbers sufficient to meet the requirements of the certification) to make, within such time as he may prescribe, application for employment in the activities, occupations, and endeavors specified in the certification and to enter upon such employment when accepted therefor. Such orders shall be subject to appeal in the same manner as is provided in section 10 (A) (2). It shall be the duty of the registrant to whom such an order is directed to comply therewith, provided the order gives him a reasonable choice of employers for whom to work.

"(5) In order to aid the selective-service local boards and the appeal boards in the exercise of the additional duties required of them under this subsection, the director of war mobilization and reconversion may assign to such boards, in an advisory capacity, representatives of such other agencies of the government as he may deem advisable.

"(6) A registrant who is found, in the same manner as is provided in subsection (G), to be conscientiously opposed, by reason of religious training and belief, to participation in war in any form, and whose opposition to participation in civilion war activities shall, in lieu of being ordered to make application for, and to accept, employment in any such activity, be ordered to make application for, and to accept, employment in another activity in the national interest.

"(7) Nothing in this subsection shall affect in any manner any of the provisions of subsection (K).

"(8) Nothing in this subsection shall affect the powers under other provisions of this act with respect to the classification and selection of persons for, or the induction, or deferment from induction, of persons into, the land or naval forces; or preclude the Selective Service System from classifying and selecting for induction any registrant who violates a duty imposed upon him by this subsection or preclude the land or naval forces from inducting such a registrant."

Amends Service Act

Sec. 2 (A) Section 8 (B) of the selective training and service act of 1940, as amended, is amended by inserting after paragraph (C) thereof a new sentence reading as follows: "If such position is in an activity, occupation, or endeavor not designated by the appropriate government agency as being in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest, or in an agricultural occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort, and if—

"I) Such person, within ninety days after being relieved from such training and service or from such hospitalization (whether before, on, or after the date upon which this sentence takes effect), becomes employed in an activity which is so designated; and

"(II) Such person continues to be employed in an activity which is so designated until (A) Section 5 (N) ceases to be operative (disregarding any period not exceeding fifteen days between leaving one such employment and entering upon another such employment), or (B) he has secured a determination by his selective service local board, subject to appeal in accordance with Section 10 (A) (2), that it is no longer necessary for him to be employed in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest, or in an agricultural occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort, whichever is the earlier; the period beginning with the date upon which he first becomes employed in an activity, occupation, or endeavor which is so designated and ending with the date on which Section 5 (N) ceases to be operative, or with the date of such determination by his selective service local board, whichever is the earlier, shall be disregarded in computing the ninety-day period within which application for re-employment in his former position must be made."

(B) Section 8 of the selective training and service act of 1940, as amended, is amended by inserting at the end thereof a new subsection reading as follows:

"(J) Any registrant—

"(1) Who becomes employed as a result of a request or order under Section 5 (N) (4); and

"(2) With respect to whom it has been determined under Section 5 (N) (if such subseetion is still operative) that it is no longer necessary for him to be employed in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety or interest, or in an agricultural occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort, shall be entitled, in respect of the position left by him in order to become so employed, to the benefits of Subsections (B), (C), (E) and (G) of this section to the same extent as if he had been inducted into the land or naval forces for training and service, had been relieved therefrom on the day on which the determination provided in Paragraph (2) is made (or on the day on which Section 5 (N) ceases to be operative, if he is still in any such employment on such day and no such determination has been made), and had been given the certificate referred to in Subsection (A)."

Travel and Subsistence

Sec. 3. Section 10 of the selective training and service act of 1940, as amended, is amended by inserting at the end thereof a new subsection reading as follows:

"(F) A person volunteering for, or ordered to, employment under Section 5 (N) (4) shall receive the same travel, and subsistence during such travel, which he would receive if the request (in the case of a volunteer) or the order (in other cases constituted an order to report for induction at the place of such employment; and on or after the date of a determination under Section 5 (N) (2) that it is no longer necessary for him to be employed in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety or interest, or in an agricultural occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort, or on or after the date upon which Section 5 (N) ceases to be operative (if he is employed in such an activity on such date), or on or after the date of his being involuntarily separated from such employment, he shall receive similar travel and subsistence back to the place from which he was first allowed travel under this subsection (or, at his election, to his home if that is not farther distant), if application is made therefor within thirty days after such date."

Sec. 4. Section 11 of the selective training and service act of 1940, as amended, is amended by inserting after the period at the end thereof a new sentence reading as follows: "No individual shall be subject to the penalties of this section for having violated any duty imposed by Section 5 (N), except for willful violations thereof, and—

"(A) In the case of an alleged violation of Section 5 (N) (2), it shall be a defense to such alleged violation for the individual to show (1) that he made application to his selective-service local board for a determination described in Section 5 (N) (2), and (2) that the denial of such application was not based on a fair consideration of his application; and it shall also be a defense to such alleged violation for the individual to establish a determination by such local board [which shall be subject to appeal in the same manner as is provided in Section 10 (A) (2)] that he had a justifiable reason for not complying with such duty;

"(B) In the case of an alleged violation of Section 5 (N) (4), it shall be a defense to such alleged violation for the individual to show (1) that he made timely application for revocation or modification of the order under Section 5 (N) (4), and (2) that the denial of the revocation or modification requested was not based on a fair consideration of his application."

Sec. 5. Section 16 (B) of the selective training and service act of 1940, as amended, is amended by inserting "5 (N)," after "3 (D)," and by inserting at the end thereof a new sentence reading as follows: "The provisions of Section 5 (N) shall become inoperative and cease to apply on the date of the termination of hostilities in the present war, or on such earlier date as may be specified in a concurrent resolution of the two houses of Congress for that purpose. As used in this section the term 'date of the termination of hostilities in the present war' means the date proclaimed by the President as the date of such termination or the date specified in a concurrent resolution of the two houses of Congress as the date of such termination, whichever is the earlier."

Civil Relief Act

Sec. 6. The soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act of 1940, as amended by inserting after Section 107 a new section reading as follows:

"Sec. 108. The benefits of this act shall extend to a person volunteering for, or ordered to, employment pursuant to Section 5 (N) (40) of the selective training and service act of 1940, as amended, to the same extent as if—

"(A) The application for such employment constituted an order to report for induction into the land or naval forces;

"(B) Such employment constituted military service;

"(C) Entering upon such employment constituted induction into the land or naval forces; and

"(D) The period beginning with the date of entering upon such employment and ending with either (1) the date on which such Section 5 (N) ceases to be operative, or (2) the date of a determination under such Section 5 (N) that it is no longer necessary for him to be employed in an activity in war production or in support of the national health, safety, or interest, or in an agricultural occupation or endeavor essential to the war effort, or (3) the date on which he violates a duty imposed on him by Paragraph (2) of such Section 5 (N), whichever of such dates occurs first, constituted the period of military service.

"For the purposes of this section, the period during which the relief and benefits provided in Section 106 are to be in effect shall in no event extend beyond thirty days from the date of making application for employment."

age group. It freezes these men in their war or war-supporting jobs and provides for reclassification into 1-A of any of them who leave the jobs without draft board consent.

The Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion is empowered to certify from time to time to the Director of Selective Service, after consultation with management, labor and agriculture, the plants, facilities or farms which cannot meet man-power needs through application of the "freeze," or through voluntary recruiting.

The Selective Service Director then would designate various categories of deferred registrants, eighteen to forty-five, to fill these man-power needs. Certain advantages would be given discharged veterans in this selection of man power.

Local draft boards would direct deferred registrants—4-F's or others—within their jurisdiction to war jobs, first in the immediate locality, and secondly, some distance away. The men so directed to war work would receive travel pay, subsistence payments, the benefits of the soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act, and the re-employment benefits of the selective training and service act.

Tydings Amendment Not Affected

Conscientious objectors would be exempted from war work, but would have to take jobs "in the national interest." The bill states that nothing in it affects the operation of the Tydings amendment, which protects the deferments of irreplaceable farmers.

The registrant thus ordered into war work would have a "reasonable choice" of employers—which selective service has described as three or four. An amendment providing that the registrant would have the right to join any union, but would not be forced to as a condition of employment, was voted down yesterday. Thus, if it were deemed that he had had a "reasonable choice" of plants, and if all of them had a closed shop, he would have to join a union in his new job. A fight is certain to come in the Senate over this provision, however, and it may eventually be eliminated.

Significantly, it is the draft board, and not the United States Employment Service of the W. M. C., which would place the registrant in the war job. Attempts to give the U. S. E. S. this authority have been defeated several times in the House.

For registrants who refuse to take the war jobs selected for them by their draft boards there could be three types of punishment—induction into the armed services, a fine of $10,000, five years' imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment. The draft board would select the penalty. As the bill originally came before the Military Affairs Committee it contained a provision for induction into an Army or Navy work battalion as a penalty for the job-shirker. This provision was dropped in committee at the request of the Army and Navy. The services said they had no use for such a work corps.

To enable local draft boards to administer the act it is provided that the O. W. M. R. can assign to them advisers from other agencies, presumably the W. M. C. and the War Production Board.

Before taking final action on the May bill the House voted down a half-dozen attempts to amend the measure, including one to restore the anti-closed shop proposal rejected yesterday and another to terminate the act one year from today instead of at the end of the war.

Senate May Change Bill

As it stands, the May bill is opposed by labor, management and some farm groups, although labor got one concession when the anti-closed shop clause of the measure was dropped.

Vigorous attempts were made yesterday to add a clause stating that registrants ordered into war jobs could not be discriminated against because of race, creed or color. Pressure from Administration leaders caused the bill to be passed finally without any other amendment, however. Administration leaders had feared that either the anti-closed shop amendment or the anti-discrimination proviso could have caused defeat of the bill.

What the Senate will do with the May bill is a matter of conjecture. House leaders fear that it may be amended radically there.

Amendments Listed

During its long session today the House beat down these amendments:

The proposal to terminate the act on Feb. 1, 1946, introduced by Representative Charles R. Clason, Republican, of Massachusetts. This amendment lost on a rising vote, 145 to 85.

An amendment by Representative Edward H. Rees, Republican, of Kansas, to prevent payment of benefits to registrants ordered into war jobs. This lost first, 155 to 125, on a rising vote. When Mr. Rees demanded a teller vote, his proposal lost by 167 to 139.

A proposal by Representative Paul Stewart, Democrat, of Oklahoma, a Military Affairs Committee member, to give the W. M. C., instead of draft boards, the authority under the bill to place deferred registrants in war work. This was defeated by 150 to 33 on a rising vote.

An attempt by Representative Carl T. Curtis, Republican, of Nebraska, to restore the proviso that workers would not have to join unions in plants to which they were ordered, even if a closed shop existed. As it did yesterday on a similar proposal by Representative James W. Wadsworth, Republican, of New York, the House rejected this amendment. It lost on a voice vote.

Another labor amendment, providing that penalties of the bill could not be invoked against a worker who refused a war job because he wanted to belong to a union of his own choosing, or to belong to none at all. This went down on a rising vote, 185 to 64.

An amendment proposed by Representative James P. Geelan, Democrat, of Connecticut, to empower the government to conscript industrial, transportation and retail facilities when necessary to the prosecution of the war was ruled out as not germane to the bill.

HOUSE NEWCOMERS PROMISE PEACE AID

Fifty-seven Democrats Tell the President in a Letter They Back Him on Cooperation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP)—Fifty-seven new Democratic Representatives promised President Roosevelt today to "cooperate to the fullest" in seeking an enduring peace for the world.

Representative Flood of Pennsylvania told the House that a letter to Mr. Roosevelt containing the pledge was signed by every Democratic "freshman." He added that support of Republican first-termers was being invited.

Newly elected Senators of both parties sent a similar message to the President recently.

The Representatives' letter read as follows:

"Dear Mr. President:

"At a special meeting in Washington, D. C., on Jan. 25, 1945, it was resolved unanimously that the following letter be addressed to you.

"You are engaging in conferences with the leaders of certain of the United Nations on final plans to win the war as quickly as possible and to prepare the way for peace-loving nations to live in peace and security.

"As newly elected members of the House of Representatives from Congressional districts all over the nation, we want to report to you the universal desire for the establishment of the most effective means of safeguarding this nation's and the world's future, the prevention of war.

"The United States should take the lead among the United Nations in urging full cooperation toward a common plan for enduring world peace. This principle is the foremost resolve of the American people and we, as recently chosen Representatives, do hereby extend to you our assurances that we will cooperate to the fullest to see that it is effectuated."

The "freshmen" representatives made their statement in a letter to Mr. Roosevelt and pledged him "full cooperation."

Rep. Flood (D-Pa) said the 57 who signed included every Democratic newcomer in the House; and that Republican first-termers were being invited to join in the pledge. Newly-elected Senators of both parties wrote a similar letter to the President recently.

FDR URGED TO TAKE LEAD IN PLANNING PEACE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP) Stating that President Roosevelt is "engaging in conferences with leaders of certain of the United Nations," 57 newly-elected Democratic representatives today urged him to take the leadership in planning world peace.

No announcement has been made regarding any such meeting and the Congressmen made no further reference to it, but a meeting of the President with Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill has been expected for some time. London dispatches today reported increasing indications that it may already have begun.

SENATE PASSES GEORGE MEASURE

Bill Separates Huge Lending Agencies from Commerce Department.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—(AP) The Senate and President Roosevelt agreed today on separating the huge RFC from the Commerce department. The assumption was plain that Henry Wallace can have what's left of the cabinet post.

The confusion centering around nomination of Wallace for the dual job held by Jesse Jones was rapidly cleared in this series of quick steps:

Forestalls Vote on Wallace

1—The Senate forestalled by a vote of 43-41 efforts to bring up Wallace's nomination immediately.

2—The George bill divorcing the multi-billion dollar lending agencies from the Commerce department was passed, 74 to 12, and sent to the House.

3—Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky then read a message, coming indirectly from the President, saying he would sign the George proposal.

This message promptly enhanced Wallace's chances of being confirmed as Secretary of Commerce—a post in which he would supervise the census, the weather bureau, the coast and geodetic survey, the Civil Aeronautics administration and statistical bureaus.

His opponents contended he didn't have the banking experience to handle the lending agencies.

Action on the pared down nomination, however, was put off until March 1 to allow the House time to pass and the President the opportunity to sign the separation bill. This was done on a voice vote.

By this compromise, the Administration broke through a road block set up by Senators who were all-out against Wallace's holding any public office and those who were willing for him to be Secretary of Commerce but would not vote to let him administer RFC.

This group admittedly represented a majority of the Senate and Wallace's supporters had conceded that the only way they could save the cabinet appointment was to follow the procedure of letting the George bill become law first.

President Roosevelt's message responded to a plea made several days [illegible] by Barkley who asked him to step into the fight over the former Vice President. Judge Samuel I. Rosenman, presidential adviser, paraphrased the President's message and passed it on to Barkley and the Congress thus:

"In 1942 when I (Mr. Roosevelt) transferred certain functions of the Federal loan agency to the Department of Commerce by executive order, I provided that they should be returned to that agency six months after the conclusion of the war or sooner, if the President or Congress should decide upon an earlier date.

"Therefore, should the Congress return these functions to the Federal loan agency at this time [illegible] George resolution, I would [illegible] the measure."

U.S., Belgium Renew Trade

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Belgium was removed from the class of "enemy territory" by the Treasury today, effective Saturday, and business communications were restored with that country.

At the same time postal service between this country and Belgium was resumed on a "closed letter" basis. Heretofore only open post cards could be sent.

As in the case of France, Treasury licenses no longer will be required for concerns in Belgium and the United States to carry on business contacts and negotiate for the start of private trade.

Assets Still Frozen

Various types of financial documents may be transmitted, but licenses will still be required to send to Belgium instructions or authorizations to effect actual financial or property transactions.

The action does not unfreeze Belgian assets in the United States.

As soon as banks in this country can establish arrangements with Belgian banks, persons in the United States may send support remittances up to $500 a month to individuals in Belgium through banking channels.

Ounce Is Limit

The Post Office Department announced that letters to Belgium may not exceed one ounce. Postage is 5 cents. For the present, registered mail, air mail, parcel post and money orders will not be available.

Inclosures of currency, checks, drafts and securities in letters to Belgium are still prohibited.

Finn War Debt Payment Finally Accepted by U.S.

Delayed Installment Approved to Bring Interest Up to Date

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP).—The United States finally has permitted Finland to pay the Dec. 15 installment, $235,445, on its World War debt.

In addition, the Treasury Department issued licenses for resumption of interest payments to American holders of Finnish government bonds.

The payments, both to the United States government and to the bondholders, will come out of Finland's frozen funds in this country.

Heretofore, the Treasury has refused to accept payment on the government debt because it would have been unfair to the American bond holders, whose interest payments were frozen.

The Finnish government bond issues on which interest payments now are resumed are City of Helsingfors, 6½ per cent bonds of 1960; Finland's Residential Mortgage Bank, 6 per cent bonds of 1961; Republic of Finland, 6 per cent external loan sinking fund bonds of 1945.

Henry Morgenthau jr., Secretary of the Treasury, said the action will bring interest payments on those bonds up to date. That is, payments due in the past now will be made.

NEW 4-DAY CIVIL FREIGHT BAN DUE

Rail Embargo Starts Saturday In 8 States, Capital

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP) — To aid storm-disrupted railroads in clearing up congestion, a new four-day embargo on civilian freight will be put into effect at 12.01 A.M. Saturday in eight states and the District of Columbia.

The new ban is considerably less drastic than a three-day embargo which expired last Monday at midnight. From the civilians' standpoint the principal difference is that the new regulation will permit the movement of coal, now in short supply in many sections, including the New York metropolitan area.

Two Government agencies, the Office of Defense Transportation and the Interstate Commerce Commission, directed the railroads to put the new embargo into effect because of continuing severe weather conditions.

The Restrictions

Beginning at 12.01 A.M. Saturday, and continuing until 12.01 A.M. Wednesday, no railroad will place cars for loading or sign bills of lading for carload or less than carload freight consigned, reconsigned or to be reconsigned to the following destinations:

Ohio (not including lines of the Wabash Railroad or the territory included within the switching limits of Cincinnati), Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia and portions of West Virginia and Virginia north of the line of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad extending from Huntington, W.Va., to Potomac Yard, Va., near Washington.

Exceptions Listed

Nor will any railroad operating within that area place cars for loading or issue bills of lading for freight at any point during the four-day embargo.

There is, however, a list of exceptions. These permit the shipment of anthracite to all destinations except when loaded to points in Canada via the Niagara frontier; bituminous coal consigned to retail dealers; all coal for the New York city metropolitan area; and all coal for New England destinations via Wilkes-Barre and east.

The order also permits shipments of bituminous coal to all territory west of and including the line of the Wheeling and Lake Erie extending from Toledo to Creston, Ohio, and south of and including the line of the Erie Railroad from Creston to the Pennsylvania-New York State line, and south of the New York State line extended eastward. The purpose of this exception was said to be to allow coal to move to war industries.

WFA May Certify

In general, the other exceptions provide that freight, even though civilian, may be moved upon certification by various Government agencies that it is essential.

The War Food Administration is one of these agencies. Railroad officials explained that this agency, in the event of severe food shortages in any area, could have shipments made to those areas. It was stressed, however, that the various exceptions, except coal, would be applied only in extreme cases.

Submarine For Which Skipper Gave Life Is Presumed Lost

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The submarine Growler is overdue from patrol and is presumed lost.

The Navy announced today that the 1,525-ton vessel, commanded by Commander Thomas B. Oakley, Jr., was the vessel which Commander Howard W. Gilmore sacrificed his own life to save in one of the most dramatic actions of the war.

The normal complement of a vessel of the type is about 65 officers and men.

Commander Oakley's next of kin is his wife, who lives in Los Angeles, Cal.

36th Submarine Lost

The Growler is the thirty-sixth submarine lost from all causes during the war, including 4 sunk, 30 overdue and presumed lost and 2 destroyed to prevent capture.

Commander Gilmore was awarded the Medal of Honor posthumously for his heroism on the famous occasion when he shouted "take her down" while he lay wounded on deck and his ship and crew were endangered.

Commander Gilmore's Death

As described in his citation, "in the darkness of night, an enemy Japanese gunboat closed range and prepared to ram the submarine. Commander Gilmore daringly maneuvered to avoid the crash and rammed the attacker instead, ripping into her portside at seventeen knots and bursting wide her plates.

"In the terrific fire of the sinking gunboat's heavy machine guns, Commander Gilmore calmly gave the order to clear the bridge and, refusing safety for himself, remained on deck while his men preceded him below. Struck down by the fusillade of bullets and having done his utmost against the enemy, in his final living moments Commander Gilmore gave his last order to the officer of the deck, 'Take her down!' The submarine dived; damaged but under control she was brought safely to port."

The vessel was built by the Electric Boat Company, Groton, Conn., and commissioned March 20, 1942.

Three Auxiliaries Lost

Earlier the Navy announced the loss of two mine sweepers and a tank landing ship from enemy action in the Philippines.

The mine sweepers were the Hovey and the Palmer converted World War I destroyers, and the landing ship the LST 759.

There was no indication of extent of casualties, but the Navy said all next of kin had been notified.

Normal complement of that type of mine sweepers is about 120 and of an LST 60.

Commanding officers of all three vessels survived, the Navy said. Lieut. William E. McGuirk, Pine Meadow, Bellport, N.Y., commanded the Palmer; Lieut. Ben N. Cole, Charlotte, N.C., the Hovey, and Lieut. John A. Baybutt, United States Coast Guard, Washington, D.C., the LST 759.

The announcement brought to 258 the total of naval vessels lost from all causes since the start of the war, including 208 sunk, 40 overdue and presumed lost, and 10 destroyed to prevent capture.

3 U. S. Ships Sunk by Foe In Attack on Philippines

Two Mine Sweepers Included in Latest Navy Listing

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP).—The loss of two mine sweepers and a tank landing ship from enemy action in the Philippines was announced today by the Navy Department. The mine sweepers were the Hovey and the Palmer, converted destroyers, and the landing ship the L. S. T. 759.

There was no indication of extent of casualties, but the Navy said all next of kin had been notified. Normal complement of that type of mine sweeper is about 120, and of an L. S. T. sixty-four.

Commanding officers of all three vessels survived, the Navy said. Lieutenant William E. McGuirk, of Pine Meadow, Bellport, L. I., N. Y., commanded the Palmer; Lieutenant Ben N. Cole, of Charlotte, N. C., the Hovey, and Lieutenant John A. Baybutt, Washington, the L. S. T. 759.

U.S. Names General Key To Hungary Commission

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Maj. Gen. William S. Key, former army commander in Iceland, will head this country's four-man military delegation on the Allied Control Commission for Hungary.

The War and Navy departments announced today the other members will be Col. Dallas S. Townsend, Col. Frank W. Gillespie and Navy Captain William F. Dietrick. Lieut. Col. Henry G. Simmonite, former New York and Miami attorney, will serve as executive officer.

The commission, composed of Soviet, British and United States representatives, was created to supervise, under Soviet direction, the enforcement of armistice terms for Hungary.

PROGRAM TO MODERNIZE CONGRESS MADE PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 — (AP) A program for modernizing Congress was made public today by a committee of the American Political Science association.

The recommendations included pensions and higher salaries for the lawmakers, better staffing of committees, less attention to minor matters, simplification of the committee set-up, full registration of lobbyists, discard of the seniority rule in committee assignments, and promotion of better relations with the executive department.

Termed "the reorganization of Congress," the report was based on a four-year study directed by George B. Galloway, who emphasized that while it "reflects the unanimous views" of the Association's committee on Congress, "it does not necessarily represent the opinion" of the association.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1—Among 4,153 casualties announced today by the War Department, all based upon prior notification to next of kin, were the following (the name following the casualty is that of the next of kin):

Army Reported In Need Of 8,000 More WACs

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Army wants 8,000 more WACs to help care for wounded soldiers who are returning from overseas at the rate of more than a 1,000 a day.

At least 6,170 women are needed by May 1, the Army said today, so that 103 WAC medical units may be organized, trained and detailed to army hospitals by midsummer.

Governors of all the states, District of Columbia commissioners and the Red Cross have pledged their aid in the recruitment campaign.

Elliott Dog Incident 'Error Of Judgment', Stimson Says

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson conceded today that an "error of judgment" by the Air Transport Command in shipping Col. Elliott Roosevelt's dog with an A priority.

But, Stimson wrote Representative Miller (D., Cal.), steps since have been taken "to avert similar errors in the future."

Replying to Miller's inquiry, Stimson said:

"The incidents involving the issuance of an air priority to a dog . . . first came to my attention through the medium of the press and radio. A full investigation of the matter is now in progress.

"Procedures Not Co-Ordinated"

"The investigation has not been completed and I therefore am unable to discuss the incidents in detail at this time. However, the matter has proceeded far enough to indicate that certain procedures with respect to priorities within the Air Transport Command were not co-ordinated sufficiently to prevent an error of judgment on the part of some of its personnel. I understand proper measures already have been taken to avert similar errors in the future."

Miller had asked Stimson for a complete report on the incident which resulted in the bumping off an army plane of three men in the armed services who had lower priorities than the Roosevelt dog.

Soldiers in France Paid 'Full Amount' Due Them

Army Explains Franc Rate and Funds Sent Home

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (AP).—The War Department gave assurance today that American soldiers in France are paid the "full amount" allowed them by law, either in United States currency or its equivalent in French francs.

Representative John Z. Anderson, Republican, of California, had forwarded a complaint from a constituent that exchange rates allowed by the Army paymasters were "beating" American troops out of their "modest earnings." The complaint stated the exchange rate recognized by the Army, through agreement with the French government, allowed about one-fifth as many francs to the dollar as American troops could get on the open market.

Brigadier General Edward W. Smith, deputy chief of the War Department liaison and legislative division, replied that:

"United States troops, no matter where located, are paid the full amount approved by Congress in United States dollars or equivalent thereof in legal tender local currency. . . .

"If our soldiers were paid in France in dollar currency, they would be placed in a position of either obtaining francs for local expenditures at the official rate (which facility is made available to United States military personnel through Army disbursing officers) or of procuring francs through black-market channels, which would be in violation of the law in France.

"The prevailing high prices of [illegible]ds in French markets [illegible] considered to be due [illegible]o local shortages of [illegible]he disorganization of [illegible]nsportation and dis[illegible]tion facilities and to the general economic disruption which follows enemy occupation and military operations.

"Under these conditions, it has been recognized by the Army that uncontrolled spending by our soldiers (which would be intensified if they obtained their francs at [illegible]ack-market rates) would tend to [illegible]ravate the inflationary situa[illegible]n in France. Efforts have been [illegible]de, therefore, with considerable [illegible]cess, to encourage our soldiers [illegible] send back to the United States as much money as possible out of the pay which they draw, and to discourage expenditures by them [illegible] French stores and restaurants."

RCAF ACQUITS DAHL ON 10 OF 14 CHARGES

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (AP)—Squadron Leader Harold (Whitey) Dahl, internationally known war flier, was acquitted today by a Royal Canadian Air Force court-martial on ten of fourteen charges of improper disposition of Government property. He must await announcement from the Canadian Judge Advocate General for the court's findings on the remaining four charges.

These cases will be submitted in Ottawa and the findings subsequently announced there. There was no indication when an announcement would be forthcoming.

The acquittal on ten charges was announced after a three-hour period, during which the court was closed while it considered its decision. Twice during that time proceedings were reopened while part of the testimony of witnesses heard at Dorval and at Pará, Brazil, was read back.

Dahl had been charged with having improperly disposed of various pieces of Government property salvaged from wrecked planes that crashed at a RCAF transport command at Pará while he was station commander there.

The defense asserted the flier had been victimized by a Brazilian junk dealer who persuaded him to sign a document written in a foreign tongue and assured the flier that various sums of money involved were necessary formalities to make the proof of ownership legal. The dealer, the defense asserted, passed the money to Dahl to avoid payment of taxes. Dahl acted in the belief that the dealer was negotiating honestly, the defense said.

Dahl Acquitted On 10 Charges

Montreal, Feb. 1 (AP)—Squadron Leader Harold (Whitey) Dahl, internationally known war flyer, was acquitted today by an RCAF court-martial on ten of fourteen charges of improper disposition of Government property.

He must await announcement from the Canadian Judge Advocate General for the court's findings on the remaining four charges.

These cases will be submitted in Ottawa and the findings subsequently announced there.

The acquittal on ten charges was announced after a three-hour period. Twice during that time proceedings were reopened while part of the testimony of witnesses heard at Dorval and at Belem, Brazil, was read back.

Dahl had been charged with improperly disposing of various pieces of Government property salvaged from wrecked planes which crashed at an RCAF transport command station at Belem while he was commander there.

The defense asserted the flyer had been victimized by a Brazilian junk dealer.

Canadian Casualties 84,808

OTTAWA, Feb. 1 (CP).—Canadian Army casualties were 3,611 in December, second lowest monthly total since the invasion of northwestern Europe, and figures released today by the three services showed Canada's total casualties to Dec. 31 were 84,808.

FATHER OF QUADS KILLED IN ACTION

Gainesville, Ga., Feb. 1 (A. P.).—Private Charles Lee, father of the quadruplets born here last summer, is dead in Germany. The War Department informed his wife that he died in action during the recent Nazi counter-offensive.

Private Lee was given emergency leave from Camp Blanding, Fla., when the four boys were born. He went overseas soon afterward.

Denver, Feb. 1 (A. P.).—Triplet daughters, whose weight totals less than twelve pounds, were born yesterday to Mrs. Marguerite E. Dumars, on her 23d birthday.

The trio's father, Arthur, 33, who received a medical discharge from the Army recently, works at a Denver war plant. Dazed as his family doubled overnight, he immediately began worrying over a house for them all.

29 WARD CASE 'ERRORS' CITED

U.S., In Appeal, Denies Plants Are Not In War Area

Chicago, Feb. 1 (AP)—J. Albert Woll, United States District Attorney, in appealing the decision against the Government in the Montgomery Ward case, declared today that Philip L. Sullivan, Federal judge, "erred in finding as a matter of fact that none of the plants or facilities of Ward" in seven cities is "located in an actual theater of military operations."

This statement, upon which Woll did not elaborate, was among 29 points listed by the Government as grounds for appeal as it asked the clerk of the district court to certify the entire record of the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

12 In Fact, 17 Conclusions

The Government alleged also that Judge Sullivan was in error in holding that the President's executive order, under which the Ward plants were seized December 28 for the second time, was "in any respect, illegal, unconstitutional or unauthorized."

The Government alleged that Judge Sullivan erred in twelve "finding of fact" and seventeen "conclusions of law and judgment" when he ruled that President Roosevelt had neither statutory nor Constitutional authority to order army seizure of sixteen Ward properties in seven cities after the mail-order firm declined to comply with some parts of a War Labor Board directive.

Judge's Ruling

Judge Sullivan, in considering the President's wartime powers as Commander in Chief, had ruled that "outside the theater of war, the President, as Commander in Chief, does not have unlimited power over persons and property of citizens. He may not seize private property just because it might be useful or beneficial to the armed forces."

The seven Ward properties seized are located in Jamaica, N.Y., Detroit, Dearborn and Royal Oak, Mich.; Chicago, St. Paul, Minn.; Denver, Col.; San Rafael, Cal., and Portland, Oregon.

Woll said the Government had not yet decided whether an effort would be made to take the case directly to the Supreme Court for ruling.

Whole Plan Will Collapse

Chairman William H. Davis, of the War Labor Board, has asserted that unless Judge Sullivan's decision is reversed or Congress takes some action, "the whole plan of peaceful settlement of wartime labor disputes will collapse."

The Government statement today also contended:

"The court erred in failing to find that the refusal of Ward's to settle its labor disputes by putting into effect the terms and conditions contained in directive orders of the War Labor Board threatens to destroy the wartime structure of labor relations and the procedure established by Congress for the peaceful adjustment of wages within the limits of the national program for the wartime stabilization of wages and prices, and that the conduct of Ward if continued will impede and delay the effective prosecution of the war."

Refugee Germans' Plight Pictured

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—A grim picture of millions of German refugees fleeing a "gruesome fate" in the East was painted today in a Berlin wireless dispatch to German Army newspapers, the Federal Communications Commission reported.

It attempted to reassure soldiers with relatives among the homeless by saying that "everything humanly possible" would be done by Nazi welfare agencies and that news of individuals would be sent "as quickly as possible."

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen, meanwhile, said that "Berlin today looks like a city in the front line itself." The dispatch, quoted by the British radio in a broadcast recorded by OWI, estimated German refugees from the east totaled 4,500,000.

Nazi Dispatch Quoted

"Thousands of our comrades at the front will wonder, 'where is my wife?' or 'what has become of my children, my parents?'" said the eyewitness Nazi dispatch directed to the German Army papers.

"Much snow has fallen on the roads of migration and suffering. The low farm houses in which we throw ourselves upon straw remain but ephemeral pictures for us. Behind us are tears, which were shed on the doorsteps of small and large farmyards in the Warthegau, and the red, glowing skies of the night which caused these peasant tears.

Describes Refugee Centers

"Our ears still ring from the hard knocks at windows and doors in the middle of the night: 'Pack your belongings, put horses into harness, a pack of Soviet tanks is approaching the village.'"

Describing the refugee reception centers, the dispatch added:

"Tens of thousands are streaming into the country every day. When the trains arrive in the stations, party assistants and their units are ready to look after everyone. The National Socialist welfare scheme distributes food; the Hitler Boys carry luggage; political party officials give advice and information.

Thousands Pass Through

"In Berlin alone, in one of the big assembly centers, tens of thousands pass daily through the transit camps. If they are unable to find accommodation with relatives and have no definite destination points of their own, they leave from here in collective transports for areas in the rear.

"To direct treks of refugees in such a way that they don't interfere with our troop movements calls for real general staff work. It can be said that on the whole this has been done successfully."

Jap Envoy Moves From Berlin

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—Paul Archinard, of NBC, said in a broadcast from Switzerland today that the Japanese Ambassador to Germany and his entire staff had left Berlin for an undisclosed destination, presumably a new German capital. Archinard said others in the Berlin diplomatic corps also had left the city.

German General, Staff Killed On Prussian Front

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—A Free Germany National Committee broadcast, sponsored by Moscow, said today Gen. Jonas Block, commander of the Germans' 66th Armored Corps, was killed with his entire staff on the East Prussian front while fighting as an isolated group.

LONG OCCUPATION OF REICH IS URGED

Hopkins Says Japan, Too, Will Need Perpetual Watching—Military Training Asked

Only by establishing a perpetual army of occupation in Germany and Japan can the United Nations prevent these countries from rearming and making a second attempt at world domination, Harry L. Hopkins, aide to President Roosevelt, declares in the current issue of The American Magazine.

Mr. Hopkins, who recently left Italy for an undisclosed destination, presumably to attend a conference of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, also advocates a year of compulsory military training for youths of 18 as the best method of building a reserve army as a guarantee against aggressor nations.

"We must accept a new and tough concept in world affairs—that the earth is not civilized enough to make world-wide disarmament practical for peace-loving nations," Mr. Hopkins writes.

"We wasted no time at Dumbarton Oaks and we shall take our place in an international organization to attempt to keep the peace and to make secure the essential freedoms throughout the world. America's heart and mind will work intensively day and night to keep the world in peace. But that isn't enough. When this war ends, we must immediately prepare to defend ourselves, particularly to make sure that our enemies realize that, if they dare to strike again, they'll lose again.

"I have no doubt that powerful forces in Germany and Japan are preparing even now for their next attempt to conquer us. We will try to keep them impotent, but only a permanent army of occupation would be able to keep them from rearming eventually.

"We don't know what new weapons will be developed. Robot bombs, armies landed from the air and from submarines, enormous bombing planes and perhaps gas will be among the devices that might be used in an attempt to defeat us quickly if we are not prepared. Before such an attack attempts will be made to cause us to become careless and complacent."

Mr. Hopkins adds that with "propaganda, fifth columns and sheep's clothing," enemies preparing to attack, perhaps with some success, will attempt to convince us that they are lovers of peace who are interested only in becoming our good friends and customers.

"We fought World War I, we thought, to end all wars," he continues. "At the end of that war we wished fervently for peace; we worked for peace; we did everything possible to prevent war—except prepare for it. We know now that those who labor for peace must implement their desires with force. The strength of peace lovers must be greater than that of the gangsters.

"Compulsory military training will build up a great force of trained reserves to supplement the National Guard and a powerful and up-to-the-minute standing army. The moment the bill passes it will be America's notice to the world that no aggressor nation or group of such nations can ever aspire to conquer us—to all the people of the United Nations, banded together to secure the peace, it will be a bright, inspiring signal of hope."

CYRIL GETS DEATH AS BULGAR TRAITOR

Philoff and 33 Other Former Officials Also Doomed by the Court for Joining Nazi Cause

A crowd of 150,000 persons gathered yesterday in front of the Palace of Justice in Sofia to hear the death sentence for "treason" pronounced on three former Bulgarian Regents, twenty-two Cabinet Ministers and nine King's Counselors, the Sofia radio said last night in broadcasts reported by the Federal Communications Commission.

They, together with a number of other ex-officials who got lesser sentences, had been found guilty by the Bulgarian People's Court on charges of having "dragged" Bulgaria into the war as an ally of Germany and of having committed "evil deeds" connected with the war.

The Regents sentenced to death included Prince Cyril, brother of the late King Boris and uncle of the child King Simeon II; former Premier Bogdan Philoff and Lieut. Gen. Nikola Mikhoff. Aside from Philoff, two other ex-Premiers—Dobri Boshiloff and Ivan Bagrianoff—were sentenced to die, while a fourth war-time Premier—Konstantin Muravieff—was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Individual fines of 5,000,000 leva and the confiscation of all property went with each death sentence.

The death penalty also was meted out "without appeal" to all members of the first and second Philoff Cabinets, all members of the Boshiloff Cabinet and all members of the Bagrianoff Cabinet, with four exceptions.

Of the exceptions, two—former Education Minister Mikhail Arnaudoff and War Minister Russia Russeff—were sentenced to life imprisonment "in solitary confinement," fined 3,000,000 leva each and required to give up all their property. The two others—former Trade Minister Khristo Vasileff and Finance Minister Dimiter Savoff—were sentenced to fifteen years and fined 1,000,000 leva each.

In addition to the nine King's Counselors sentenced to die, two others received life sentences and were fined 3,000,000 leva each and deprived of their property. Former Interior Minister Virgil Dimoff, a member of the Muravieff Cabinet, received a life sentence along with Muravieff himself.

A list of other lesser sentences also was read to the crowd, the Sofia radio said. Members of Premier Kimon Georgieff's "Fatherland Front" Government addressed the assemblage.

NAZI GENERAL KILLED IN ACTION AGAINST REDS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A free Germany national committee broadcast, sponsored by Moscow, said that Gen. Jonas Block, commander of the Germans' 66th armored corps, was killed with his entire staff on the East Prussian front while fighting as an isolated group.

The General's body was found among the dead after an engagement with about 100 German soldiers, said the broadcast recorded by the FCC.

Superforts Bomb Singapore Area

FEB 2 1945

San Francisco, Feb. 1 (AP)—Unconfirmed Tokyo broadcasts today reported three single Superfortress sorties over the home islands of Japan last night. The broadcasts, recorded here, claimed that all bombs fell in forests or paddy fields.

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Superforts bombed Japanese military installations in the Singapore area today for the third time.

A report from 20th Air Force headquarters said B-29's of Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey's 20th Bomber Command struck by daylight from India bases.

Previous Attacks

In their last attack January 11 on this naval bastion at the tip of the Malay Peninsula Superforts blasted shipping installations with good results. The first strike was made November 5.

Once called Britain's "Gibraltar of the East," Singapore was seized by the Japanese in 1942 and converted into their principal naval base in the Malay-Netherlands East Indies area. Its huge works can repair the largest vessels.

Maintain Sub Haven

On near-by Penang Island, the Japanese maintain a big submarine haven. Both Singapore and the Georgetown naval base on Penang are key distribution points for supplies and merchant shipping plying the Japan-East Indies sea route.

The round-time flight—largely over water—encompasses more than 3,500 miles.

"Well-informed circles of the Wilhelmstrasse today called this plan of government partaking in the three-power conference a 'Wilson farce' and pointed out that such action was already planned at the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting in Cairo.

"In a political respect such action is parallel to the action in the First World War when the Allies tried to make the German war command surrender by speaking only of the removal of the Kaiser and militarism, whereas it is now intended to hoodwink the German nation into believing that it is only a case of removing the Fuehrer and National Socialism.

"The German nation, however, Wilhelmstrasse circles continue, is, as the Fuehrer stressed in his speech, immune against enticing arts of this kind, due to the spirit of the National Socialist movement. For this reason no one in Germany will fall for this planned maneuver."

GERMANS EXPECT SURRENDER OFFER

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The German radio transmitted yesterday the following dispatch which was recorded by the Associated Press listening post in New York:

"Information is on hand in the German foreign office that at the meeting of Stalin, Roosevelt and Churchill political action is to be carried through similar to the one started by former United States President Wilson with his 14 points in 1918.

"This time it is intended to achieve the same aim by modifying the demand for unconditional surrender. This has been agreed upon after it had been ascertained that the German command and the German people are determined to offer extreme resistance and after it has been recognized that Germany cannot be conquered either from the west or from the east.

LONDON, FEB 1-(AP)-THE TRIBUNE, BRITISH LEFT WING MAGAZINE, ACCUSING MOSCOW COMMENTATORS OF OVER-SENSITIVENESS TO BRITISH AND AMERICAN SKEPTICISM TOWARD SOVIET MILITARY CLAIMS, SAID TODAY THAT "ONLY ONE DEGREE LESS FURIOUS THAN ZHUKOV'S ATTACK ON BERLIN IS THAT OF THE MOSCOW PRESS AGAINST ITS COLLEAGUES IN THE WEST."

"THE GRAVAMEN OF PRAVDA AND IZVESTIA COMMENTATORS," THE PAPER SAID, "IS BRIEFLY THIS: THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN ROUTED IN THE EAST; THERE ARE NO SUBSTANTIAL GERMAN FORCES ANYWHERE ELSE; ANYONE WHO SUGGESTS THAT VON RUNDSTEDT'S OFFENSIVE UPSET THE ALLIED TIMETABLE IN THE WEST IS PLAYING GOEBBELS' GAME; TO SPECULATE WHETHER THERE WAS ANY WITHDRAWAL AT ALL IN THE EAST IS AKIN TO HERESY."

THE TRIBUNE SAID THE RUSSIANS "MUST REALIZE THAT WE ARE NOT ALL SCHOOLCHILDREN IN THE WEST."

"[illegible]E AT TIMES SKEPTICAL OF RUSSIAN FIGURES AND REPORTS, IT IS NOT [illegible]ARILY DUE TO ILL WILL, BUT TO THE SOMEWHAT EXTRAVAGANT CONCEPTION [illegible] NUMERICAL ACCURACY IN SOVIET MILITARY REPORTS. FOR EXAMPLE, IF ONE ADDS UP RUSSIA'S OFFICIAL FIGURES OF GERMAN LOSSES, THEY REACH A STAGGERING TOTAL OF MORE THAN 9,000,000 KILLED AND TAKEN PRISONER AND 20,000,000 WOUNDED. OUR ONLY DEFENSE AGAINST SUCH INFLATION IS CONSTANT SKEPTICISM. MOSCOW MIGHT NOTE THAT."

LONDON, FEB 1-(AP)-BULGARIA'S THREE FORMER REGENTS, INCLUDING PRINCE CYRIL, BROTHER OF THE LATE KING BORIS, AND 100 OTHER PERSONS, MANY OF WHOM HELD HIGH GOVERNMENT POSTS, HAVE BEEN SENTENCED TO DEATH IN THE BULGARIAN PEOPLE'S COURT FOR TREASON, THE MOSCOW RADIO REPORTED TONIGHT.

THE CONDEMNED GROUP, WHICH INCLUDED SEVERAL CABINET MINISTERS, EIGHT FORMER KING'S COUNCILLORS AND 68 FORMER DEPUTIES, WAS CHARGED WITH TAKING BULGARIA INTO THE WAR BESIDE GERMANY AND WITH ENGAGING IN TERRORISTIC ACTIVITIES, THE BROADCAST SAID.

TWENTY-THREE FORMER DEPUTIES AND A NUMBER OF OTHER PRISONERS WERE SENTENCED TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT. THE PROPERTY OF ALL THOSE CONDEMNED TO DEATH OR LIFE IMPRISONMENT WAS CONFISCATED AND ALL WERE HEAVILY FINED.

FEB 2 1945

THERE ALSO WERE OTHER SENTENCES. THESE RANGED FROM 15 YEARS IMPRISONMENT AND CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY FOR TWO EX-MINISTERS DOWN TO ONE YEAR'S IMPRISONMENT AND CONFISCATION OF PROPERTY FOR LESSER CHARGES.

A MASS MEETING OF 150,000 PERSONS IN SOFIA APPROVED THE SENTENCES AND VOTED TO SEEK OUT A PUNISH WAR CRIMINALS WHO STILL ARE HIDING, THE MOSCOW BROADCAST SAID.

THE EX-REGENTS SENTENCED TO DEATH WITH PRINCE CYRIL WERE FORMER PREMIER BOGDAN PHILOV AND LT.GEN.NIKOLA MIKHOV--BOTH OF WHOM ACTED WITH CYRIL AS REGENTS FOR KING SIMEON, THE SON OF BORIS, JUST BEFORE A NEW BULGARIAN GOVERNMENT THAT CUT AXIS TIES AND SWUNG THE COUNTRY TO THE SIDE OF THE ALLIES TOOK POWER. WITH THE U.S. FIRST ARMY, FEB. 1-(AP)-LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES' PATROLS PLUNGED AS DEEP AS TWO AND AHALF MILES INTO THE SIEGFRIED LINE TODAY AND ON SOME SECTORS FOUND ONLY A FLICKER OF LIFE.

THEY ENTERED THE FAMED FORTIFICATIONS THAT GUARD GERMANY ON THE WEST AT THREE POINTS NEVER BEFORE BREACHED, ENCOUNTERING OPPOSITION RANGING FROM SCANT TO HEAVY.

THE NINTH INFANTRY DIVISION MOVED 4,000 YARDS THROUGH ADOLF HITLER'S WESTWALL BEFORE IT RAN INTO HEAVY MACHINEGUN AND RIFLE

FIRE IN AN ATTACK ON A MAIN SUPPLY CROSSROADS NINE MILES SOUTHEAST OF MONSCHAU.

BRIG. GEN. CLIFT ANDRUS'S FIRST DIVISION PATROLS, PUSHING ACROSS THE GERMAN BORDER 16 MILES EAST OF MALMEDY, MOVED THROUGH ROWS OF CONCRETE ANTI-TANK DRAGON TEETH ALMOST UNOPPOSED.

THEY ENCOUNTERED ONLY SMALL ARMS FIRE FROM PILLBOXES LIGHTLY MANNED BY SMALL GERMAN GROUPS WHO TOOK A COUPLE OF RIFLE SHOTS, THEN RACED TO THE REAR. SOME SPORADIC FIRE CAME FROM HEAVY ARTILLERY BEHIND THE MAIN SIEGFRIED FORTIFICATIONS. ONLY 13 PRISONERS WERE TAKEN IN THIS VICINITY.

THE LACK OF OPPOSITION STRONGLY SUGGESTED THE POSSIBILITY THE GERMANS WERE PULLING THEIR MAIN FORCES OUT OF SOME SECTIONS OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE, PERHAPS TO MAKE A STAND FARTHER BACK.

ALTHOUGH THE GERMANS' INTENTIONS WERE SOMETHING OF A PUZZLE, ONE THING WAS CERTAIN--THEY TOOK A TERRIFIC BEATING IN THE FINAL STAGE OF THE ARDENNES OFFENSIVE. THE WRECKAGE THEY LEFT BEHIND WAS A GRIM REMINDER.

FEB 2 1945

DOUGHBOYS TRUDGING THROUGH SNOW AND SLUSH MOVED ALONG LANES OF DESTROYED GERMAN EQUIPMENT. THERE WERE COUNTLESS BURNED OUT TANKS AND OTHER VEHICLES, HORSE CARCASSES AND DEAD GERMANS.

THE VILLAGES, TOO, WERE DEAD. UNDER THE TERRIFIC POUNDING OF AMERICAN ARTILLERY THEY HAD ALL BEEN LEVELED.

THE FIRST INFANTRY'S ADVANCE WAS THE FARTHEST "COMEBACK" BY AN AMERICAN OUTFIT SINCE MARSHAL VON RUNDSTEDT'S DECEMBER BREAKTHROUGH.

"THERE WAS NO REST THAT NIGHT AND NEXT MORNING WE HAD TO ATTACK UP A STEEP HILL TO TAKE THE TOWN OF PINTSCH, ABOUT A MILE AWAY AND HELD BY 300 GERMANS WITH THREE TANKS. WE CLOSED IN AT 10 A.M., RUNNING AND FIRING, AND THANKS LARGELY TO AN ENCIRCLING MOVE MADE BY GARBUTT'S PLATOON WHICH STRUCK IN FROM THE RIGHT REAR WE FORCED THE GERMANS OUT AND CLEARED PINTSCH BY ABOUT FIVE P.M.AFTER HOUSE TO HOUSE FIGHTING.

"ONCE DURING THE BATTLE FOR PINTSCH WE NEARLY RAN OUT OF AMMUNITION BUT TWO COMPANY DRIVERS (PFC PAUL GARMON, OF ALPHARETTA, GA., AND PFC HOWARD F.LUTZ, OF 8018 164TH PLACE, JAMAICA, N.Y.) DROVE A JEEP LOAD THROUGH ENEMY FIRE TO WILWERWILTZ AND SAVED US.

FEB 2 1945

"IN THIS SCRAP WE TOOK 66 PRISONERS AND I THINK WE MUST HAVE KILLED OVER 100. THE NEXT DAY WE WENT ON ANOTHER TWO MILES WITH THE REST OF THE BATTALION TO TAKE BUCHOLZ. OUR LOSSES WERE ONLY A VERY SMALL FRACTION OF THOSE WE INFLICTED.

"BECAUSE THOSE UNTRIED MEN HAD LEARNED THEIR LESSONS WELL AND HAD PLENTY OF GUTS I COULDN'T SINGLE OUT ONE FOR INDIVIDUAL PRAISE."

AMONG THE NONCOMS PICKED BY THE INTERVIEW METHOD WERE:

PLATOON SERGEANT WILLIAM M.HARPER, OF 707 SOUTH FRANKLIN ST., KIRKSVILLE, MO., FORMER KANSAS CITY, MO., DUPONT PLANT WORKER, WHO CAME INTO THE ARMY IN JULY, 1944; CPL LUTHER WELSH OF PIEDMONT, ALA., IN THE ARMY THREE YEARS MOSTLY AS A COOK, AND SGT.JESSE BELMIRES, OF 1152 WEST HARRISON ST., CHICAGO, A PRIVATE AMONG THE 12 "HARDY PERENNIALS" OF "K" COMPANY AND NOW ONE OF LIEUT.WALLACE'S MOST VALUED NONCOMS.

WELSH WHO COOKED WITH THE 99TH FIELD ARTILLERY IN AFRICA, ITALY AND FRANCE, SAID FRANKLY HE WOULD "JUST AS SOON BE BACK COOKING," BUT ADDED PRIDEFULLY:

FEB 2 1945

"I THINK I GOT TWO GERMANS AT PINTSCH."

"THESE MEN ARE VETERANS NOW AND THEY HAVE THAT PRICELESS NECESSITY OF FIGHTING MEN--THE DETERMINATION NOT TO LET THEIR BUDDIES DOWN," SAID BATTALION COMMANDER MAJOR ROBERT W.BLACK OF 14 WEST ELM ST., CHICAGO.

BRUSSELS, FEB 1-(AP)-A HIGH BELGIAN SOURCE SAID TONIGHT THAT WHILE BELGIUM'S INTERNAL PROBLEMS WERE "PROFOUNDLY SERIOUS," THE GOVERNMENT OF PREMIER HUBERT PIERLOT WAS NOT EVEN CONSIDERING QUITTING, DESPITE WIDESPREAD RUMORS IN THE CAPITAL.

(THE BRITISH RADIO SAID THAT THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE BELGIAN SOCIALIST PARTY IN BRUSSELS HAD "VOTED FOR THE RESIGNATION OF THE SOCIALIST MINISTERS" FROM THE PIERLOT CABINET. THE BROADCAST WAS REPORTED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION).

THE HIGH BELGIAN SOURCE SAID:.

"THERE'S NO USE DENYING THE POLITICAL SITUATION IS VERY SERIOUS. THE SERIOUS SITUATION IS CAUSED IN GREAT MEASURE BY THE ALLIES AND THE MILITARY AUTHORITIES. WE HAVEN'T GOTTEN THE IMPORTS. IMPORTS NOW (FOR CIVILIAN PURPOSES) ARE 20,000 TO 30,000 TONS A MONTH. BEFORE OCCUPATION THEY WERE 2,600,000 TONS A MONTH. DURING OCCUPATION

THEY WERE SIX TO SEVEN HUNDRED THOUSAND. IF WE CAN'T IMPORT, WE CAN'T SUPPLY THINGS TO THE PEOPLE AND IF WE CAN'T GIVE THEM ANYTHING THEN THEY ARE GOING TO BE DISSATISFIED.

"THERE NO DOUBT THE PIERLOT GOVERNMENT IS VERY UNPOPULAR BUT I WOULD LIKE TO SEE IF A MILITARY GOVERNMENT WOULD GOVERN ANY BETTER UNDER THESE CONDITIONS."

AACHEN, GERMANY, FEB 1-(AP)-THIS WAS POLITICAL HOUSECLEANING DAY IN THE AACHEN CITY ADMINISTRATION, WHICH IS UNDER AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT.

TWENTY NAZIS FOUND THEMSELVES OUT OF JOBS, THEIR SERVICES NO LONGER WANTED BY THE TOWN'S MAYOR HUGH M.JONES OF BLOOMER, WIS. WHO DETECTS NAZIS AND REMOVES THEM AS FAST AS CONDITIONS PERMIT.

SIX MORE NAZIS HAVE BEEN GIVEN NOTICE TO LEAVE IN THE NEXT 10 TO 14 DAYS, FIRST TRAINING THEIR SUCCESSORS. THAT WILL LEAVE 30 NAZIS OUT OF A TOTAL ADMINSTRATIVE FORCE OF ABOUT 400. NONE OF THEM HOLDS A KEY POSITION. THEY ARE ON TECHNICAL JOBS WHERE NO SUCCESSORS ARE PRESENTLY AVAILABLE. SUBSTITUTES FOR ALL ARE BEING SOUGHT DILIGENTLY.

FEB 2 1945

"WE MAY EMPLOY FORMER NAZIS WHEN SCREENING HAS SHOWN THEY WERE NEITHER ARDENT PARTISANS NOR SERVED THE NAZI PARTY ACTIVELY," JONES SAID.

JONES CAME HERE FROM NEARBY STOLBERG.

"WHEN WE REACHED STOLBERG THERE WAS NO ALTERNATIVE EXCEPT TEMPORARILY TAKING OVER THE EXISTING ADMINISTRATIVE OUTFIT," HE SAID. "BUT WE ELIMINATED THE NAZIS AS FAST AS PRACTICABLE, AND NOW ONLY A SMAL NUCLEUS OF TECHNICAL ASSISTANTS REMAIN."

IT IS AN OPEN SECRET THAT ALL FORMER NAZIS ARE KEPT UNDER CLOSE OBSERVATION.

BY ROBERT EUNSON

KESTERNICH,GERMANY, FEB 1-(AP)-THE GERMANS MAY BE RETREATING ELSEWHERE ON THE WESTERN FRONT BUT THEY FOUGHT HERE UNTIL AMERICAN ARTILLERY LEVELED THE LAST TWO OF THE TOWN'S 181 BUILDINGS AND DOUGHBOY TOMMYGUNNERS HAD KICKED OPEN EVERY BASEMENT DOOR.

LATE TODAY A COMPANY FROM THE 311TH "TIMBERWOLF" REGIMENT OF THE 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION CRACKED THE LAST TWO BLOCKS IN KESTERNICH AND WE WATCHED 20 STARTLED PRISONERS COME BACK TO BATTALION COMMAND POST.

OTHER PRISONERS SAID THEY HAD BEEN OUT OF CONTACT WITH THE REST OF THE GERMAN ARMY FOR A MONTH. THEY THOUGHT THE RUSSIANS WERE STILL EAST OF BRESLAU AND THAT ROCKET WEAPONS WERE BATTERING NEW YORK.

GERMAN ARTILLERY WAS SHELLING KESTERNICH TODAY AND OTHER TOWNS WEST OF HERE, BUT SMALL ARMS FIRE EAST OF TOWN WAS SILENCED.

THE LIGHTNING DIVISION HAS BEEN FIGHTING IN AND AROUND HERE FOR SIX WEEKS, HAD BEEN THROWN OUT THREE TIMES AND ONCE A WHOLE UNIT WAS SURROUNDED. AT MIDAFTERNOON YESTERDAY THE DOUGHBOYS WENT IN AGAIN.

A UNIT LED BY LT.COL. RICHARD W.KEYES, 1614 STANFORD ST., HOUSTON, TEX., LED THE ASSAULT THAT FANNED OUT IN THREE SMALL SPEARHEADS.

A COMPANY LED BY CAPT.WILLIAM J.CURRAN, DORCHESTER, MASS., WAS ON THE LEFT, A COMPANY LED BY CAPT. EARL LINDROSE, PAHOKEE, FLA., WAS ON THE RIGHT, AND A COMPANY LED BY CAPT. JOHN ROWAN, RICHMOND, VA., WENT RIGHT DOWN MAIN STREET.

SGT.HUGH MOODY, CLARKVILLE, TENN., WHOSE WIFE LIVES AT COLUMBUS, GA., STARTED OUT WITH HIS PLATOON BUT WOUND UP ALONE, AND MEN IN THE SCRAP SAID HE KILLED AT LEAST 30 GERMANS WITH HIS TOMMYGUN. HE RUSHED UP TO DOORS, KICKED THEM IN AND BLASTED EVERYTHING IN SIGHT.

SGT.SAMUEL J.RING, ELKHART, IND., CAPTURED A WHOLE ROW OF FOXHOLES ALONE BY A LITTLE FAST TALKING. A GERMAN EMERGED FROM ONE FOXHOLE AND SURRENDERED. HE SAID TEN GERMANS STILL WERE MANNING GUNS IN THE OTHER FOXHOLES.

"GO OVER AND GET THEM," RING ORDERED, "AND BRING THEM OUT WITH THEIR HANDS UP."

THE RELUCTANT PRISONER STARTED OFF BUT CAME BACK CRYING THAT HIS COMRADES WOULD KILL HIM.

A115

"I'LL TAKE YOU," RING SAID, GRABBING THE PRISONER BY THE ARM AND STARTING ACROSS NO-MANS-LAND.

JUST BEFORE THEY REACHED THE FOXHOLES, THE PRISONER FELL WEEPING TO THE SNOW. ROUSED BY THE NOISE, 10 HUSKY GERMANS CAME OUT OF THE FOXHOLES. THEY WERE STANDING AROUND TRYING TO FIGURE WHAT WAS WRONG WITH THEIR COMRADE WHEN ONE OF THEM SPOTTED RING.

UP WENT THEIR GUNS, BUT THE LONE INDIANA BOY BLUFFED AND TOLD THEM THEY WERE SURROUNDED. THE GERMAN SERGEANT IN CHARGE THREW DOWN HIS RIFLE AND THE OTHERS FOLLOWED SUIT.

THE SPEARHEAD OF THE ATTACK THAT BROKE INTO THE CENTER OF THE DOWN AND KEPT RIGHT ON GOING WAS LED BY LT.CLYDE TRIVET READING,

TOWN AND KEPT RIGHT ON GOING WAS LED BY LT.:)6$3 5

TOWN AND KEPT RIGHT ON GOING WAS LED BY LT.CLYDE TRIVETT READING, OHIO.
TRIVET FOUGHT DOWN THE MAIN STEM, BLOCK BY BLOCK, AND WHEN HE WAS THROUGH HE HAD ONLY THREE MEN WITH HIM. HIS SERGEANT TOLD ME THAT AT THE FINISH THEY WERE FIRING WITH GERMAN BURP GUNS AND LUGERS.
THOSE WITH TRIVETT WERE SGT. J.C.CARNEY, QUITMAN, GA., SGT. HOMER H.HAMILTON, DECATUR, ALA., AND LT.EARL E.COBURN, WHO COMES FROM A SMALL TOWN NEAR PITTSBURGH, PA.

WE STARTED DOWN TO THEIR COMMAND POST WITH SGT.P.A.KELLY, EUREKA, NEV., AND IN THE CENTER OF TOWN WE MET TWO OFFICERS WHO ASKED US WHERE WE THOUGHT WE WERE GOING. THEY WERE MAJ.LYLE J.KENNEDY, FARMVILLE, VA., AND CAPT.WILLIAM A.JONES, RIPLEY, W.VA.
THEY SUGGESTED WE HAD BETTER TURN AROUND.
"THE FRONT LINES ARE RIGHT OVER THERE," KENNEDY SAID, POINTING TOWARD A ROW OF BUILDINGS ABOUT HALF A BLOCK AWAY, "AND WE ARE STARTING AN ATTACK ON THE LAST TWO BLOCK HOUSES IN TOWN."
IN A BASEMENT UNDER A GERMAN HOUSE, WE LEARNED THAT THE LAST ATTACK IN THE BATTLE FOR KESTERNICH WAS LED BY CAPT.WILLIAM FEERY, 633 NEW BRITAIN AVE., HARTFORD, CONN.
AMONG OTHER THINGS WE LEARNED DOWN IN THAT BASEMENT WAS THAT FIRST LIEUT.JOSEPH J.KLIMKIEWIEZ, OF 111 ORANGE ST., NEW BRITAIN, CONN., HAD DEVISED A MAP OF THIS TOWN WITH EVERY BUILDING NUMBERED. BEFORE THE LAST BATTLE STARTED MEDICS WERE GIVEN COPIES OF THE MAP SO THAT AS SOON AS WOUNDED MEN WERE REPORTED THE EXACT LOCATION WAS RADIOED TO A FIELD HOSPITAL AND LITTLE TIME LOST IN REACHING THEM. THIS SAVED MANY LIVES AND CASUALTIES WERE EVACUATED WHILE THE FIGHT WAS GOING ON, OFTEN IN THE NEXT HOUSE.
MEDICS ALSO USED "WEAZELS," A SMALL, TRACK-PROPELLED VEHICLE LARGE ENOUGH TO CARRY ONE OR TWO WOUNDED MEN.
"THOSE WEAZELS ARE WONDERFUL," SAID TECH.SGT.STEPHEN MAYERSKI, OF 3239 EAST 49TH ST., CLEVELAND, O., "WHY DON'T YOU START A CAMPAIGN FOR EVERY MAN OVERSEAS TO DONATE ONE PENNY AND WE'LL BUY SOME MORE."
WHEN WE SUGGESTED THE RUSSIANS MIGHT BE IN BERLIN BY THE TIME HIS CAMPAIGN STARTED, STEVE DECIDED IT MIGHT BE BETTER TO USE THE PROCEEDS TO BUY TROOPSHIPS TO TAKE THE AEF HOME.

ALONG THE WHOLE WESTWALL CONTACT HAS BEEN MADE RECENTLY WITH BUT ONE GERMAN ARMORED DIVISION. THE REST ARE SCRATCH INFANTRY.

A GREAT MANY GERMAN DIVISIONS HAVE DISAPPEARED ENTIRELY. THERE ARE FEW FIRST CLASS TROOPS TO BE FOUND ON THE WESTERN FRONT, AT LEAST WHERE THE FIGHTING IS.

THE PRESENT ALLIED ATTACK, WHICH IS CONCENTRATED IN THE ARDENNES, ENGAGES ONLY A FRACTION OF THE AVAILABLE ALLIED FORCES. THERE IS NO CONCENTRATED EFFORT BY EVERYONE SUCH AS CHARACTERIZED THE NORMANDY BREAKTHROUGH.

FEB 2 1945

WHETHER THIS IS DUE TO HIGH STRATEGY OR MATERIEL SHORTAGES HAS NOT BEEN DISCLOSED.

THERE ARE A DOZEN THEORIES FOR WHAT IS GOING ON INSIDE GERMANY. WHICH ONES ARE RIGHT ONLY TIME CAN TELL. HERE ARE A FEW:

THAT IN VIEW OF THE RUSSIAN SUCCESSES, THE GERMANS ARE GOING TO WITHDRAW EAST OF THE RHINE, LEAVING ONLY REARGUARDS OF INFERIOR TROOPS TO HOLD AS LONG AS POSSIBLE WHILE FIRST CLASS PANZER FORCES ARE USED AGAINST THE RUSSIANS.

THAT THE GERMANS ARE DEFENDING ONLY KEY SPOTS ALONG THE FRONT, CONSERVING ENERGY AND DEPENDING ON MOBILE ARMORED RESERVES TO SMASH A BREAKTHROUGH AT ANY ONE POINT.

THAT GERMAN MORALE IS CRACKING IN THE VOLKSTURM DIVISIONS IN VIEW OF RUSSIAN SUCCESSES, AND THEY ARE SURRENDERING READILY.

THAT GERMAN MATERIAL AND MANPOWER SHORTAGES HAVE REACHED AND PASSED THE DANGER POINTS AND THEY HAVE NO MORE LEFT. THIS THEORY IS VIEWED WITH SUSPICION IN VIEW OF THE MIGHTY ARDENNES EFFORT OF FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT.

IN THE MONSCHAU AREA, THE SECOND DIVISION MOVED INTO THE CENTER OF GLOOMY MONSCHAU FOREST AGAINST LIGHT OPPOSITION, REACHING THE FIRST OF THE MORE FORMIDABLE SIEGFRIED DEFENSES.

THE 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION, NORTHERN SPEARHEAD OF THE FIRST ARMY, CAPTURING TWO VILLAGES THREE AND FOUR MILES NORTHEAST OF MONSCHAU, STRUCK ITS FIRST HEAVY OPPOSITION EAST OF KESTERNICH.

KESTERNICH, IN THE STREAM-CUT HILLS FIVE MILES NORTHEAST OF MONSCHAU, HAS ALWAYS BEEN A TOUCHY SECTOR WITH THE GERMANS, WHO OCCUPY STRONG POSITIONS WHICH PREVENT ANY EASY DRIVE UP BOTH SIDES OF THE ROER RIVER, NATURAL BARRIER TO THE COLOGNE PLAIN.

THE FIRST ARMY IN THE LAST 24 HOURS TOOK 1,332 PRISONERS, THE BIGGEST SINGLE DAY'S HAUL SINCE THE ALLIES OPENED WITH THEIR COUNTEROFFENSIVE IN THE ARDENNES.

LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY ON THE SOUTH EXTENDED ITS BRIDGEHEAD OVER THE BORDER RIVER OUR TO A WIDTH OF SEVEN MILES AND A DEPTH OF THREE AND A HALF MILES, CAPTURING AT LEAST FIVE MORE GERMAN TOWNS. GAINS UP TO TWO AND A HALF MILES WERE REGISTERED DESPITE HEAVY SMALL ARMS AND MORTAR FIRE, RAIN, MUD AND SLUSH.

ONE COLUMN SLOGGED TWO AND A HALF MILES NORTHEASTWARD AND TOOK INGELSCHEIN, TWO AND A HALF MILES INSIDE GERMANY. ANOTHER COLUMN SEIZED WINTERSPELT, NINE MILES WEST OF PRUM AND SIX MILES SOUTHEAST OF ST.VITH,

THE GERMANS WERE REFUSING TO COMMIT ANY LARGE FORCES TO THE DEFENSE OF THE OUTER WORKS OF THE WESTWALL, HAD PULLED BACK THEIR TANKS AND LIKEWISE WERE WITHHOLDING ARTILLERY FIRE.

PATTON'S PATROLS NOW WERE OPERATING ALONG THE OUR RIVER ALL THROUGH NORTHERN LUXEMBOURG WITHOUT ENCOUNTERING RESISTANCE.

THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY OF LT.GEN.ALEXANDER M.PATCH IN NORTHERN ALSACE FORCED A CROSSING OF THE MODER RIVER 13 MILES NORTH OF STRASBOURG AND RAN INTO RESISTANCE OF GERMAN ARMOR BACKING DUG-IN INFANTRY AT OBERHOFFEN.

EIGHT MILES NORTHEAST OF STRASBOURG, AMERICAN AND FRENCH FORCES WERE CLEANING OUT THE GAMBSHEIM POCKET WHICH ONCE THREATENED THE ALSATIAN CAPITAL.

FEB 2 1945

THE FRENCH FIRST ARMY TO THE SOUTH VIRTUALLY SEVERED THE COLMAR POCKET FROM THE NORTHERN SALIENT WHICH ONCE MENACED STRASBOURG FROM THE SOUTH.

AS THE GERMANS BATTLED IN COLMAR'S EASTERN SUBURB OF HORBOURG, FRENCH FORCES 11 MILES NORTHEAST OF COLMAR BROKE ACROSS THE RHINE-RHONE CANAL AND CAPTURED MARCKOLSHEIM, TWO MILES FROM THE RHINE.

THEY SEIZED CONTROL OF THE ONLY GOOD ROAD CONNECTING GERMAN FORCES ON THE WEST BANK OF THE RHINE TO THE NORTH WITH THOSE FIGHTING AROUND COLMAR.

THE GERMANS FOUGHT BITTERLY TO PREVENT FURTHER ADVANCES EAST OF COLMAR, WHERE THE FRENCH ARE ALREADY ACROSS THE COLMAR CANAL AND THREATENING THE RAILWAY WHICH LEADS TO THE RHINE CROSSING TOWN OF NEUF-BRISACH.

THE RHINE CORRIDOR WAS CAVING IN ON THE NORTH, WHERE GERSTHEIM AND OBENHEIM, 13 AND 14 MILES SOUTH OF STRASBOURG, WERE CAPTURED. AT GERSTHEIM THE FRENCH WERE BUT A MILE FROM THE RHINE.

ELSEWHERE ON THE WESTERN FRONT IT WAS QUIET EXCEPT ALONG THE MOSELLE RIVER INSIDE GERMANY EAST OF THE LOWER LUXEMBOURG BORDER WHERE THE THIRD ARMY'S 94TH DIVISION CLEANED OUT A PATCH OF WOODS THREE MILES NORTH OF THE GERMAN FRONTIER.

A DISPATCH FROM THE U.S. NINTH ARMY FRONT REVEALED FOR THE FIRST TIME THAT THE LATEST GERMAN V WEAPON, WHICH HAS BEEN BOMBARDING REAR AREAS FOR SOME TIME, WAS A FIVE-FOOT ROCKET CARRYING ABOUT THE SAME EXPLOSIVE CHARGE AS A 170-MM (6.69 INCHES) SHELL.

IT WAS DESCRIBED AS A LITTLE BROTHER OF THE 14-TON V-2 ROCKET BOMB, AND THE DISPATCH SAID IT COULD BE USED IN THE MANNER OF AN ARTILLERY GUN TO BOMBARD CITIES AT LONG RANGE.

"ITALY NEEDS THE LOAN AND THE UNITED STATES IS PRACTICALLY THE ONLY COUNTRY WHICH CAN GIVE IT," HE SAID. FEB 2 1945

TARCHIANI, NOW AWAITING AIR TRANSPORTATION TO THE UNITED STATES, SAID ONE OF THE MOST PRESSING NEEDS IN THE UNITED STATES IS THE REOPENING OF THE ITALIAN CONSULATES TO TAKE CARE OF 700,000 ITALIAN NATIONALS. HE ADDED THAT HE EXPECTED TO BE SWAMPED BY THOUSANDS OF LETTERS FROM THESE NATIONALS WHEN HE ARRIVES BUT INDICATED IT WOULD BE CONSIDERABLE TIME BEFORE THE CONSULATES WERE REOPENED IN VIEW OF THE LACK OF PERSONNEL.

HE SAID HE EXPECTS TO REOPEN THE ITALIAN EMBASSY IN WASHINGTON BECAUSE THE CAPITAL'S HOUSING PROBLEM PROBABLY WOULD MAKE IT DIFFICULT TO FIND OTHER QUARTERS. TARCHIANI WILL BE ACCOMPANIED TO WASHINGTON BY A STAFF OF TEN.

THE VATICAN NEITHER CONFIRMED NOR DENIED THE REPORT. IT ISSUED A STATEMENT ASSERTING "IT IS TO BE RECALLED THAT VATICAN AUTHORITIES RECENTLY RENEWED A SEVERE WARNING NOT TO GIVE HOSPITALITY IN VATICAN CITY AND IN EXTRA-TERRITORIAL BUILDINGS TO PERSONS WHO HAVE NO RIGHT TO DWELL THEREIN."

THE ROME NEWSPAPER CORRIERE DEL MATTINO SAID ALLIED MILITARY POLICE ARRESTED THE TWO GERMANS AFTER SWISS GUARDS FORCED THEM TO REENTER ITALIAN TERITORY. IT SAID THE GERMAN AMBASSADOR CONTENDED THE FUGITIVE SHOULD HAVE BEEN GIVEN THE SAME RIGHT OF ASYLUM GRANTED ALLIED PRISONERS DURING THE GERMAN OCCUPATION OF ROME.

ROME, FEB. 1--(AP)--GEN. MARION ROTTA, FORMER CHIEF OF THE ITALIAN SECRET SERVICE AND ONE OF 15 MEN BEING TRIED ON VARIOUS CHARGES OF HELPING MUSSOLINI MAINTAIN HIS DICTATORSHIP, TOOK THE STAND IN HIS OWN DEFENSE TODAY AND CALMLY DENIED THE ACCUSATIONS AGAINST HIM.

ROTTA, WHO WAS APPOINTED ARMY CHIEF OF STAFF JANUARY 6, 1943, AND CONTINUED TO SERVE UNDER MARSHAL PIETRO BADOGLIO UNTIL YUGOSLAVIA INSISTED ON HIS PURGE AS A WAR CRIMINAL, ASSERTED HE KNEW NOTHING ABOUT THE ROSSELLI BROTHERS ASSASSINATION--ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

HE DECLARED AT THE HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE TRIAL THAT IN 1937 WHEN THE BROTHERS WERE MURDERED IN FRANCE HE WAS SERVING WITH FASCIST LEGIONS IN SPAIN.

"FURTHERMORE," HE SAID, "THE ROSSELLI BROTHERS WERE NOT NEARLY SO IMPORTANT AS SOME PEOPLE ASSERT."

THE COURT WAS TOLD YESTERDAY BY ANOTHER DEFENDANT, COL. SANTO EMANUELE, FORMER HEAD OF THE FASCIST COUNTER ESPIONAGE SERVICE, THAT THE BROTHERS WERE ASSASSINATED BECAUSE THEY WERE RECRUITING ITALIAN VOLUNTEERS TO FIGHT FASCISTS IN SPAIN.

ROTTA ASSERTED HE WAS "NEITHER FASCIST NOR ANTI-FASCIST. I WAS A SOLDIER AND THEREFORE FELT IT MY DUTY TO SERVE MY COUNTRY REGARDLESS OF THE POLITICAL SHADE OF THE GOVERNMENT."

ASKED WHETHER HE EVER HAD RECEIVED A GERMAN DECORATION, HE REPLIED:

FEB 2 1945

"LET ME TALK ABOUT MY FRENCH DECORATIONS FIRST." HE SAID HE HAD RECEIVED TWO CITATIONS FROM THE FRENCH FOR BRAVERY IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR, THEN ADMITTED GETTING THE NAZI IRON CROSS IN THIS WAR, EXPLAINING IT WAS CUSTOMARY FOR HIGH OFFICERS TO RECEIVE SUCH AN AWARD.

SPEAKING OF THE ANTI-GERMAN POLICY OF THE FASCIST GOVERNMENT IN 1935, ROTTA SAID AN ACCORD WAS SIGNED IN ROME THAT YEAR

PERMITTING FRENCH TROOPS TO PASS THROUGH K...TH RN ITALY IN EVENT OF GERMAN AGGRESSION IN AUSTRIA.

HE DREW A PARALLEL BETWEEN THE EVOLUTION OF THE FEDERAL SYSTEMS OF CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF A WORLD ORGANIZATION, CITING THE MANY DIFFICULTIES WHICH CROPPED UP.

"IF CANADA EXPERIMENTED FOR A QUARTER OF A CENTURY WITH PARTIAL CONFEDERATION AND IF THE UNITED STATES HAD TO LEARN THROUGH THE BITTER EXPERIENCE OF THE ARTICLES OF CONFEDERATION THE NECESSITY FOR A REAL CONSTITUTION, HOW CAN WE EXPECT ALL THE NATIONS OF THE WORLD TO RUSH AT ONCE INTO A PERFECT, ALL-EMBRACING ORGANIZATION," ATHERTON SAID. PRECEDE KANDY DAY

BY FRANK L.MARTIN

CALCUTTA, FEB 1-(AP)-JAPANESE TROOPS, AFTER YIELDING HUNDREDS OF SQUARE MILES TO THE ALLIES, APPEARED TO BE STIFFENING THEIR REAR-GUARD FORCES AND VIOLENT CLOSE-QUARTER FIGHTING BROKE OUT ON THREE BATTLEFRONTS IN BURMA.

SAGAING, DIRECTLY ACROSS THE IRRAWADDY RIVER FROM THE KEY CITY OF MANDALAY, WAS BEING STEADILY REDUCED BY ALLIED AIR AND GROUND FORCES.

THE FAST U.S. MARS TASK FORCE FAR TO THE NORTHEAST OF MANDALAY WAS BREAKING UP CONCENTRATIONS OF JAPANESE ATTEMPTING TO HOLD ALONG THE BURMA ROAD TO LASHIO.

HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED THE CAPTURE YESTERDAY OF KANGAW, AN IMPORTANT TOWN DOMINATING THE TAUNGUP ROAD, BUT SAID THE JAPANESE WERE COUNTERATTACKING FIERCELY.

FARTHER NORTH, WEST AFRICAN TROOPS NEARED MONYWA, 40 MILES NORTHWEST OF MANDALAY.

HEAVY BOMBERS OF THE EASTERN AIR COMMAND ATTACKED A JAPANESE HEADQUARTERS AREA NEAR MANDALAY YESTERDAY, STARTING MANY FIRES, WHILE OTHER PLANES BOMBED A RAILWAY BRIDGE SOUTH OF THE CITY.

SUPPLY DEPOTS IN THE NORTHERN COMBAT AREA WERE BOMBED AND JAPANESE POSITIONS IN ARAKAN WERE ATTACKED BY FIGHTERBOMBERS.

LUZON, PHILIPPINES, FEB. 1-(AP)-NOT EVERY JAPANESE SOLDIER IS WHOLE-HEARTEDLY FOR JAPAN.

PFC. FRED VINTON, OF JACKSON, MICH., ONE OF THE AMERICANS RESCUED TUESDAY NIGHT FROM THE CABU PRISON CAMP, ENCOUNTERED A DISSENTER DURING HIS IMPRISONMENT.

VINTON, WHO WAS CAPTURED AT CORREGIDOR, WAS MADE A POWER PLANT ENGINEER.

"I HAD A PIECE OF LUCK," VINTON EXPLAINED.

"THERE WAS ONE GUARD THERE WHO LIKED ME. HE HATED JAP OFFICERS SO THOROUGHLY THAT HE PRACTICALLY BECAME PRO-AMERICAN.

"HE CAME AROUND AND TIPPED US TO 'LISTEN TO YOUR RADIOS' AT THE TIME OF THE INVASION OF LEYTE."

ABOARD AN LCT, SOMEWHERE IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC-(AP)-LCT (LANDING CRAFT, TANK) NO.174 IS CALLED "PISTOL PACKIN' MAMA." SHE HAS BREASTED THE FRONT WAVE OF ISLAND HOPPING VICTORIES NORTHWARD FROM WOODLARK, IN THE MILNE BAY, NEW GUINEA, IN JUNE OF 1943, TO ULITHI, AN ATOLL SOUTH OF JAPAN, IN SEPTEMBER, 1944.

THREE OF HER CREW, BO'S'UNS H.D.MCBRIDE OF 5, ELM AVE., TAKOMA PARK (12) MARYLAND AND E.B.WERTZ, 1229 JONES, NEWBERRY,S.C., AND E.M. 2/C G.W.PETTY OF GOSHEN,VA., HAVE BEEN WITH HER SINCE SHE WAS SHIPPED FROM SAN FRANCISCO IN MARCH, 1943, FOR THE PACIFIC FRONT. HER SKIPPER IS ENS.E.L.KUREK, 3716 MCLEAN ST., CHICAGO, WHO HAS BEEN AROUND SINCE DECEMBER, 1943. ENS.B.K. RUBIN, OF 779 MORTON ST., BOSTON, SOON WILL TAKE HER OVER.

LCT 174 WAS SHIPPED FROM SAN FRANCISCO IN SECTIONS AND THE CREW PUT HER TOGETHER IN BRISBANE,AUSTRALIA.

HER FIRST LANDING, AT WOODLARK, WAS UNOPPOSED AND SHE SAW HER FIRST COMBAT ACTION IN MOROBE BAY, NEW GUINEA. SHE WAS ALONGSIDE A REPAIR SHIP, WITH ANOTHER LCT, WHEN JAPANESE PLANES CAME OVER.

"A BOMB HIT THE OTHER LCT AND IT WENT RIGHT THROUGH WITHOUT EXPLODING," SAID MCBRIDE. "IT PUT A BIG HOLE IN THE BOTTOM AND THEN EXPLODED WHEN IT HIT THE OCEAN FLOOR. THE BLAST BLEW THE CRAFT INTO THE AIR AND WHEN IT SETTLED IN THE WATER ONCE MORE THERE WAS FRUIT CAKE FLYING FOR AS FAR AS YOU COULD SEE. THE LCT HAD BEEN LOADED WITH THE STUFF. THE CREWS OF LCTS WERE EATING FRUIT CAKE FOR A YEAR."

PISTOL PACKIN' MAMA WEARS THE BRONZE STARS OF TWO MAJOR NAVAL BATTLES, THE BATTLE OF NEW GUINEA AND OF THE BISMARCK ARCHIPELAGO; SHE HAS HAD MORE THAN 100 "CONDITION ZEBRA" ALERTS AND AIR ATTACKS; SHE HAS MADE THREE INITIAL COMBAT LANDINGS AT LAE, NEW GUINEA; AT ARAWE, NEW BRITAIN AND AT CAPE GLOUCESTER, NEW BRITAIN; SHE HAS SHOT DOWN FOUR JAPANESE PLANES -- AND SHE HASN'T LOST A MAN.

AT BUNA, NEW GUINEA, ON OCT.17 AND 18, 1943, THE JAPANESE SENT 57 PLANES AGAINST A CONVOY OF WHICH LCT 174 WAS A PART.

"WE WATCHED OUR AA AND OUR FIGHTERS KNOCK 52 OF THEM DOWN, AND FIGHTERS GOT THE OTHER FIVE BEFORE THE JAPS GOT BACK TO THEIR HOME BASES AT RABAUL," SAID WERTZ. "THE AIR BATTLE WAS RIGHT OVER US AND IT WAS SOME FIGHT! SOME SHOOTIN'."

PISTOL PACKIN' MAMA HAS BEEN IN SIX OR SEVEN SUCH ATTACKS AND ALTHOUGH SHE SHOWS MANY SCARS, SHE'S NEVER TAKEN A DIRECT HIT.

PROBABLY HER MOST EXCITING EXPERIENCE WAS OFF AITAPE, NEW GUINEA, WHEN SHE GOT STUCK ON A REEF. ANOTHER LCT WAS TRYING TO PULL HER AWAY WHEN SOME JAPANESE BETTYS (BOMBERS) ARRIVED. THE OTHER LCT, IN NAVY LANGUAGE, "GOT THE HELL OUT OF THERE."

NO. 174 WAS A "SITTING DUCK" TARGET, AND DOWN CAME THE BOMBS, SCREAMING. MAMA'S CREW DUCKED. THE BOMBS STRUCK,WITH A TERRIFIC KERPLUNK AND AN EXPLOSION. MAMA JUMPED INTO THE AIR, WITH WATER AND CORAL SPOUTING ALL AROUND HER.

THE SKIPPER GAVE HER THE GUN, FULL ASTERN AND AWAY CAME PISTOL PACKIN' MAMA, CLEAR AND FREE OF THE REEF -- THANKS TO THE ASSIST FROM A JAPANESE PILOT. THERE WASN'T A SHRAPNEL HOLE IN HER.

LUZON,PHILIPPINES,FEB.1-(AP)-VIRTUALLY EVERY ONE OF THE MORE THAN 500 AMERICAN AND ALLIED PRISONERS RESCUED FROM THE JAPA TUESDAY NIGHT IS SUFFERING FROM SOME AILMENT, REPORTED FRED HAMPS ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT.

THESE RANGED FROM PRE-SURRENDER WOUNDS TO THE AFTERMATH OF SUCH DIFICIENCY DISEASES AS BERI-BERI AND SCURVY.

MOST OF THEM WISH HOSPITALIZATION TO REGAIN THEIR HEALTH, AT HOME IF POSSIBLE. MANY SAID THEY THEN WOULD LIKE TO COME BACK-- AND HELP FINISH OFF THE JAPANESE.

LUZON--FIRST ADD HAMPSON'S NIGHT LEAD RESCUE SIDEBAR X X RECOVERY INCENTIVES.

SGT.LAVERNE RITCHIE, OF TRENTON,ILL., ONE OF THE RESCUED MEN, SPOKE OF THE DEATH MARCH FROM BATAAN.

"ON THE FIRST DAY OF THAT MARCH, THEY GAVE US NO WATER," HE RECALLED.

FEB 2 1945

"WE DRANK FROM MUD PUDDLES AND EVEN THEN THEY THREATENED US FOR LAGGING."

MASTER SGT.ARTHUR HARRISON, OF FRESNO,CALIF., OF THE 200TH COAST ARTILLERY, ANOTHER PARTICIPANT IN THE MARCH, SAID HE SAW NO MARCHERS GET ANY FOOD FOR SIX DAYS EXCEPT WHAT LITTLE THE FILIPINOS COULD SNEAK TO THEM. ANYONE CAUGHT ACCEPTING THIS FOOD WAS BEATEN.

"HOW MANY DIED?" HARRISON ECHOED A QUESTION FROM A LISTENER.

"GOD, I DON'T KNOW. AT SAN FERNANDO, THEY JAMMED US, 100 TO A SMALL BOX CAR, FOR THE LAST LAP TO CAMP O'DONNELL. AT THE CAMP, WE GOT A CANTEEN OF WATER EACH DAY BUT NO FOOD FOR A COUPLE MORE DAYS. THAT, PLUS THE HARDSHIPS OF THE TRIP, KILLED A LOT MORE."

MORE THAN 100 OF THE MEN RESCUED TUESDAY NIGHT WERE STRETCHER CASES.

THEY WERE CARRIED ON THE BACKS OF THE RANGERS FROM THE STOCKADE DURING THE BREAK TO CARABAO CARTS TWO MILES AWAY. THESE 100 INCLUDED ARMY, NAVY AND MARINE CORPS MEN WITH A SCATTERING OF CIVILIANS AND SEVERAL BRITONS. MANY PRISONERS HAD BEEN SHIFTED TO OTHER CAMPS. SOME WERE KNOWN TO HAVE BEEN TAKEN TO JAPAN.

SERGEANT GOODBLA, WHO SURVIVED ALMOST THREE YEARS OF BONDAGE DESPITE A FRACTURED BACK SUFFERED DURING THE LAST DAYS OF CORREGIDOR WHEN A CANNON POWDER CHARGE FELL ON HIM, HAD TO BE HOSPITALIZED.

"I WANT TO GET HOME AND SEE IF THE DOCTORS CAN STRAIGHTEN ME OUT," HE SAID.

SOME PRISONERS WERE ALMOST HYSTERICAL IN GREETING THEIR DARING RESCUERS.

PFC.THOMAS GRACE, JR., OF NEW ORLEANS, ONE OF THE RANGERS, SAID: "A PRISONER RUSHED UP, EMBRACED AND KISSED ME. I GOT SO DAMNED FLUSTERED THAT I ALMOST FORGOT TO DO MY JOB."

ANOTHER RANGER, PFC.MELVIN C.SHEARER, OF SEWARD, PA., SAID "DURING THE ATTACK, I SAW TWO TRUCKS PARTLY LOADED WITH JAPANESE RIDDLED BY OUR FIRE."

STAFF SGT.CREATUS NORTON, OF HENDERSONVILLE, N.C., STARTED FOR A PRISON CAMP GUARD TOWER. HE AND SGTS.RICHARD MOORE, OF LOS ANGELES AND MELVIN GILBERT, OF PORTLAND, ORE., GOT WITHIN

FIVE FEET OF THE TOWER WITHOUT A SINGLE SHOT BEING FIRED. THEN ALL THREE OPENED UP WITH THEIR GUNS, FIRING INTO THE JAPANESE BARRACKS. THEY KILLED BETWEEN 30 AND 40 OF THE SURPRISED NIPPONESE BEFORE THEY COULD GET OUT OF THE BARRACKS.

PFC.HAROLD GILLORY, OF WELSH, LA., USING A BAZOOKA, BLASTED A CROWDED WORKSHOP AREA. HIS FIRE PERMITTED PRISONERS TO POUR OUT.

TWO MEDICAL CORPSMEN, PFC.LEROY MYEROFF, OF EVANSVILLE, IND., AND FIRST SGT.CHARLES BOSARD, OF WARREN, MINN., TOOK OVER WHEN THEIR DOCTOR OFFICER WAS WOUNDED AND THEN CARRIED HIM TO SAFETY.

WHEN THE COLUMN REACHED MOHI, THE RANGERS WERE ALMOST AS HAPPY AS THE PRISONERS.

SAID ONE RANGER: "WE HAD TO BE CAREFUL OF PRISONERS. WE NEVER WORRIED ABOUT OURSELVES. RANGERS CAN TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES AGAINST ANYTHING THE JAPS HAVE GOT. THOSE PRISONERS WHO DIED WEREN'T IN VERY GOOD SHAPE."

OWEN SOUND, ONT., FEB. 1-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER W.L.MACKENZIE KING'S WARTIME GOVERNMENT OF CANADA, SEVERELY SHAKEN IN RECENT MONTHS OVER THE ISSUE OF CONSCRIPTION FOR FIGHTING OVERSEAS, WILL BE ASSESSED BY T PEOPLE OF THIS NORMALLY OBSCURE COMMUNITY IN A TEST-TUBE BY-ELECTION MONDAY WHICH HAS DRAWN THE RAPT ATTENTION OF THE ENTIRE COUNTRY.

IT WILL BE THE FIRST PUBLIC TEST OF KING'S COMPROMISE CONSCRIPTION POLICY, UNDER WHICH LIMITED NUMBERS OF TROOPS DRAFTED FOR HOME SERVICE ONLY ARE BEING SENT ABROAD TO FILL INFANTRY REINFORCEMENT NEEDS.

THE POLICY PLEASES NEITHER FRENCH CANADA, COMPRISING ALMOST ONE-THIRD OF THE DOMINION AND TRADITIONALLY OPPOSED TO THE DRAFT FOR DUTY ABROAD, NOR A LARGE SECTION OF THE REST OF THE COUNTRY FAVORING ALL-OU CONSCRIPTION. THE QUESTION OF NOW CONSCRIPTION IS NOT AN ISSUE IN THIS CONSTITUENCY, BUT THE GOVERNMENT'S COMPROMISE POLICY DEFINTELY IS, AND ONE OF THE BITTEREST CAMPAIGNS IN YEARS REVOLVES ABOUT IT.

IT IS A THREE-WAY RACE, THE SOCIALISTIC COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION, KNOWN AS THE CCF, ENTERED ALONG WITH THE TWO OLD-LINE PARTIES, THE LIBERALS OF PRIME MINISTER KING AND THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES.

THE ELECTION WAS BROUGHT ABOUT BY THE GOVERNMENT OSTENSIBLY MERELY TO PROVIDE A SEAT IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS FOR ITS NEW DEFENSE MINISTER, GEN. A. G.L. MCNAUGHTON. A LIBERAL MEMBER RESIGNED TO PROVIDE THE OPENING AND KING DECLARED HE EXPECTED TO WIN BY ACCLAMATION.

THE OPPOSING PARTIES DECIDED OTHERWISE, HOWEVER, AND ARE WAGING AN EXPENSIVE BATTLE, WITH THEIR NATIONAL LEADERS ARRIVING ON THE SCENE TO CAMPAIGN AMONG THE RELATIVE HANDFUL OF FARMER AND SMALL TOWN VOTERS WHOSE BALLOTS WILL MIRROR THE POLITICAL STRESS OF CANADA AT WAR.

THE CONSTITUTENCY, CALLED GREY NORTH, IS COMPOSED OF THE GREAT LAKES PORT OF OWEN SOUND HERE ON THE SOUTHERN SHORE OF GEORGIAN BAY AND THE SURROUNDING COUNTRYSIDE OF SMALL BUT SOLID FARMS. OWEN SOUND HAS A POPULATION OF 14,000.

UNDATED REFUGEES

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A GRIM PICTURE OF MILLIONS OF GERMAN REFUGEES FLEEING A "GRUESOME FATE" IN THE EAST WAS PAINTED TODAY IN A BERLIN WIRELESS DISPATCH TO GERMAN ARMY NEWSPAPERS, THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION REPORTED. IT ATTEMPTED TO REASSURE SOLDIERS WITH RELATIVES AMONG THE HOMELESS BY SAYING THAT "EVERYTHING HUMANLY POSSIBLE" WOULD BE DONE BY NAZI WELFARE AGENCIES AND THAT NEWS OF INDIVIDUALS WOULD BE SENT "AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE."

THE BERLIN CORRESPONDENT OF THE STOCKHOLM TIDNINGEN, MEANWHILE, SAID THAT "BERLIN TODAY LOOKS LIKE A CITY IN THE FRONT LINE ITSELF." THE DISPATCH, QUOTED BY THE BRITISH RADIO IN A BROADCAST RECORDED BY OWI, ESTIMATED GERMAN REFUGEES FROM THE EAST TOTALED 4,500,000.

"THOUSANDS OF OUR COMRADES AT THE FRONT WILL WONDER, 'WHERE IS MY WIFE?' OR 'WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY CHILDREN, MY PARENTS?'" SAID THE EYEWITNESS NAZI DISPATCH DIRECTED TO THE GERMAN ARMY PAPERS.

"MUCH SNOW HAS FALLEN ON THE ROADS OF MIGRATION AND SUFFERING. THE LOW FARM HOUSES IN WHICH WE THROW OURSELVES UPON STRAW REMAIN BUT EPHEMERAL PICTURES FOR US. BEHIND US ARE TEARS, WHICH WERE SHED ON THE DOORSTEPS OF SMALL AND LARGE FARMYARDS IN THE WARTHEGAU, AND THE RED, GLOWING SKIES OF THE NIGHT WHICH CAUSED THESE PEASANT TEARS.

"OUR EARS STILL RING FROM THE HARD KNOCKS AT WINDOWS AND DOORS IN THE MIDDLE OF THE NIGHT: 'PACK YOUR BELONGINGS, PUT HORSES INTO HARNESS, A PACK OF SOVIET TANKS IS APPROACHING THE VILLAGE.'"

DESCRIBING THE REFUGEE RECEPTION CENTERS, THE DISPATCH ADDED:

"TENS OF THOUSANDS ARE STREAMING INTO THE COUNTRY EVERY DAY. WHEN THE TRAINS ARRIVE IN THE STATIONS, PARTY ASSISTANTS AND THEIR UNITS ARE READY TO LOOK AFTER EVERYONE. THE NATIONAL SOCIALIST WELFARE SCHEME DISTRIBUTES FOOD; THE HITLER BOYS CARRY LUGGAGE; POLITICAL PARTY OFFICIALS GIVE ADVICE AND INFORMATION.

"IN BERLIN ALONE, IN ONE OF THE BIG ASSEMBLY CENTERS, TENS OF THOUSANDS PASS DAILY THROUGH THE TRANSIT CAMPS. IF THEY ARE UNABLE TO FIND ACCOMODATION WITH RELATIVES AND HAVE NO DEFINITE DESTINATION POINTS OF THEIR OWN, THEY LEAVE FROM HERE IN COLLECTIVE TRANSPORTS FOR AREAS IN THE REAR. TO DIRECT TREKS OF REFUGEES IN SUCH A WAY THAT THEY DON'T INTERFERE WITH OUR TROOP MOVEMENTS CALLS FOR REAL GENERAL STAFF WORK. IT CAN BE SAID THAT ON THE WHOLE THIS HAS BEEN DONE SUCCESSFULLY."

RUSSIANS NEAR ODER IN STETTIN-BERLIN DRIVE; U.S. GAINS 3 MILES IN WESTWALL; COLMAR TAKEN; 3 COLUMNS PRESS ON MANILA, ONE 18 MILES OFF

ZHUKOV'S TROOPS REACH ODER-RIVER NEAR FRANKFURT

Soviet First Army Forces Swing Toward Baltic Port of Stettin.

ADVANCE 19 MILES

Russian Spearheads Drive Within 38 Miles of German Capital.

LONDON, Saturday, Feb. 3—(AP) The Soviet High command announced last night that Russian troops in a 15-mile smash through the Kustrin-Frankfurt defense arc had rolled to within 51 miles of Berlin, while the Germans said the Red army already was attacking Kustrin and had reached the Oder river at new points only 38 miles from the imperilled Reich capital.

Simultaneously, the right wing of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army penetrated to within 36 miles southeast of Stettin, the Baltic port for Berlin, threatening to cut off a 13,500-square-mile sector of Pomerania, the Polish corridor and Danzig territory.

This stroke, a two-day 19-mile fighting advance northwest of fallen Landsberg, was aimed both at lessening the danger of a German flanking attack against Zhukov's Berlin-bound central spearheads, and also at the eventual seizure of the prize ports of Stettin, Gdynia and Danzig.

Red Troops Attack Kustrin

Berlin said that Soviet tank forces had begun attacking Kustrin, 40 miles northeast of bomb-ridden Berlin, after coiling around northwest of that ancient fortress city and reaching the Oder river 39 miles or less from the Axis capital.

Other Soviet forces to the south were reported to have reached the Oder river on both sides of Frankfurt, 16 miles south of Kustrin and 38 miles from the capital. Berlin indicated that some Soviet units, perhaps patrols, already had crossed the icy Oder in this area.

Moscow's communique announced the capture of Alt Limmritz, on the southern side of the Warthe river 10 miles east of vulnerable Kustrin, which is on the eastern side of the Oder at its confluence with the Warthe. In this advance along the Warthe the Russians were threatening to outflank Kustrin and take it from the rear.

Late German broadcasts said that the Kustrin garrison was in close quarter combat with Soviet units attacking the town along the northern bank of the Warthe. "The Germans still hold the town," the broadcast said.

Although the Russians did not officially place their troops at the rim of Kustrin, dispatches from Moscow said the Soviet artillerymen already were pumping shells into that city.

Rip Through Nazi Lines

Eight miles south of Alt Limmritz the Russians made their greatest gain of the day, plunging 15 miles straight through heavily reinforced German lines and capturing the seven-way communications prize of Drossen, 14 miles northeast of menaced Frankfurt and 51 miles east of Berlin.

In taking Drossen the Russians by-passed Zielenzig, one of the powerful German hedghog positions protecting Frankfurt, and swept to within 10 miles of the Oder river crossing town of Goritz, mid-way between the collapsing Kustrin-Frankfurt arc.

At the lower end of a curving 55-mile-wide bulge pointed toward Berlin and Stettin, the Russians in a 11-mile advance seized Malsow, 24 miles east of Frankfurt and four miles south of outflanked Zielenzig. Wallwitz, three miles southeast of Malsow and four miles northeast of Sternberg, another German stronghold in the Oder-Warthe bend, also was captured.

During the day Zhukov's troops overran more than 150 localities in Germany despite thousands of German reinforcements hurled into the desperate struggle along the Oder's eastern approaches and despite a thaw which hampered mechanized operations.

In the drive on Stettin the Russians captured Soldin, 57 miles northeast of Berlin and 25 miles northeast of Kustrin. This seizure put them within 36 miles of Stettin by Moscow's account, but Berlin placed them even closer.

A German broadcast told of the dispersal of Soviet troops between Pyritz and Arnswalde, 22 and 38 miles southeast of the prize Baltic port. Pyritz is 15 miles north of Soldin, whose fall cut the Kustrin-Stettin highway and also a secondary Berlin-Danzig rail line.

Ninety-two miles northeast of Soldin other Soviet troops were within 58 miles of the Baltic, striking beyond captured Ratzebuhr, in their attempt to cut Pomerania into several segments.

German broadcasts reflected the Nazis' alarm at the drive on Stettin as well as Berlin. The German news agency DNB said that events were approaching a "decisive feat of arms," and said that the eastern danger zone could be divided into two main areas—the march on Berlin and the attempt to break Stettin and split the German northeastern armies from those in central Germany.

Reach Oder River

Along the middle reaches of the Oder river 100 miles southeast of Berlin Russian troops reached the stream on a new seven-mile front between captured Boyadel and Lippen in advances of up to 13 miles. Boyadel is 13 miles east of Grunberg, a German communications point beyond the Oder, and Lippen is five miles northeast of the west bank Oder town of Neusalz.

Berlin said that other Soviet troops were attacking at various points on both sides of the Oder southward as far as Ratibor, 12 miles north of Noravska Ostrava, Czechoslovakia's third largest city astride the Moravian gateway to Prague and Vienna. Other Soviet units were threatening Moravska Ostrava from the east, having reached Pszczyna, Polish Silesian town 29 miles from Moravska Ostrava, Berlin said.

The surrounded German garrisons in Poznan, western Poland, and Schneidemuhl, Pomeranian rail city 70 miles to the northwest, still were holding out, but Berlin said that Russian shock troops had penetrated inside both cities.

Narrow Prussian Pocket

In East Prussia the Russians narrowed down the German-held territory to less than 1,000 square miles of the original 14,283, capturing 100 localities during the day. These included Domnau and Schippenbeil, junction towns 20 and 33 miles southeast of encircled Konigsberg, and Guttstadt, 46 miles south of the East Prussian capital.

The German garrison in Konigsberg was reported running out of ammunition, but the Moscow communique did not announce any fresh Russian progress in the fight to annihilate the Nazi defenders.

Twenty-two miles northwest of Konigsberg other Soviet units split the Samland peninsula into two sectors by capturing Germau, road junction two miles from its western tip. The Russians in this area now had reached Danzig bay at a point seven miles north of Fischhausen.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter reported that "small forces" of Zhukov's army had crossed the Oder, apparently due east of Berlin.

Zhukov Runs Into Thick Enemy Minefield, but Presses On Toward Nazi Capital—Assaults to Reduce Kustrin Begun.

London, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Russian forces have made one attempt to storm across the Oder in their onslaught toward Berlin, a German broadcast said today, and other Berlin reports indicated Soviet patrols might already have crossed.

The German High Command clamped a blackout on news from the sector as one military commentator told of the attempted crossing in the area of Kustrin, forty miles east of Berlin.

Berlin radio accounts said that Marshal Gregory Zhukov had brought up strong forces along the Oder on both sides of Frankfurt and that assaults to reduce the fortress of Kustrin were under way.

The German communique, however, completely omitting mention of the sector, said the Russians everywhere else except in East Prussia had been checked after hard fighting and Moscow dispatches said Zhukov had run into thick minefields and a hard shell of German armor along the ninety-mile front threatening the German capital.

Zhukov's tanks have sliced between German strongpoints to within sight of the Oder and have reached highly important operational areas in the region of Frankfurt and Kustrin, Moscow dispatches said.

Marshal Stalin's ace field commander shoved his heaviest artillery up close behind the front to shell Frankfurt. Moscow said that Kustrin had been under an all-day bombardment. Berlin declared the Kustrin garrison was "at grips with the enemy at close quarters, but we still hold the town."

Across the river fresh reserves of Volkssturmers and Volkssturm Grenadiers, along with

STRONG RED FORCES MENACE FRANKFURT

"alarm battalions" from Stettin, were reported taking their place in deep fortifications.

Declaring the capital could and would be defended, Hitler's newspaper said: "German armed forces are in a position to build barriers which the enemy, who has crossed the Oder with very small forces only, cannot even threaten."

Heavy fighting raged on a line from the area of Glogau, on the Oder 115 miles southeast of Berlin, to Kustrin, in the angle of the Oder and Warthe east and slightly north of Berlin.

The Germans declared they had thrown the Russians out of Kustrin, and that thousands of German men, women and children were being rushed to the east to dig a great system of trenches to make Berlin a bloody disappointment for the Russians.

Moscow dispatches reported, however, that Zhukov was working to bring up stronger forces; was massing his infantry and storm guns close behind his tank spearheads, and that the "storming of the Oder is not too distant a project."

Nazis Moving War Vehicles

Red Army airmen, returning from missions west of the Oder, reported that the main highways and railroads from Berlin, which were under aerial attack, were crammed with German military traffic moving toward the Oder.

Thousands of workers in labor battalions were working night and day along these thoroughfares to keep them clear, the airmen reported.

Fires raged in the threatened capital from an RAF night bombing, heightening the confusion of the city.

Stormed In Seven Years' War

Century-old Kustrin, with its fortress built by Frederick the Great, was within range of the guns of the Russians for the second time in its history, Moscow accounts said. The Russians stormed it in the Seven Years War.

The Russians now were inside Germany in Silesia, Brandenburg and Pomerania on a 375-mile front.

But it was the Germans who told of the closest approach to Berlin.

Russian Distance Report

By Moscow account, these were the distances of the Red Army from these immediate objectives on the Berlin front:

KUSTRIN—About 11 miles, from the sector southwest of Duhringshof. This would be about 51 miles from Berlin and the nearest approach yet reported in Moscow dispatches.

ZIELENZIG—In the Warthe-Oder Bend—Four to 5 miles, from the region west of Gleisen. The Germans reported the Russians in the Zielenzig area several days ago.

STERNBERG—Seven miles south of Zielenzig—Seven to 8 miles, from west of Lagow.

FURSTENBURG — On the Oder, about 15 miles south of Frankfurt—about 20 miles from the Griesel area.

CROSSEN—On the Oder 30 miles southeast of Frankfurt—Nine miles from the Leitersdorf salient.

Red Tank Victories

Moscow dispatches, however, said Soviet tanks had knifed between these hot points and won significant victories.

The spearheads, therefore, were considerably closer to Berlin than the 51 to 80 miles indicated by these positions.

It was through these holes, Moscow said, that the most menacing threat was developing with some advance units perhaps within 15 miles of the fortified city of Frankfurt-on-the-Oder, 40 miles from Berlin.

Along his front of 90 miles Zhukov had developed an impressive operating area from which he might strike out to storm across the Oder at any one of a number of places.

Four Bridges Standing

From Kustrin to Crossen there were four bridges still standing, according to Russian reports, but they probably were mined, and the Germans were still engaged in dynamiting possible ice bridges all the way from Kustrin to Silesia.

On his extreme right flank in northeastern Pomerania, Zhukov pushed on from captured Ratzebuhr to within 9 miles of Neustettin and only about 55 miles from the Baltic in a drive to seal off the remainder of the Polish corridor and part of Pomerania.

Zhukov was only about 50 miles from Kostin, where he would cut the last land escape route from Danzig.

He thus was fashioning a third big trap along the Baltic, the others being in the dwindling German-held portion of East Prussia and the Liepaja Peninsula in Latvia.

Near Bay Of Danzig

Northwest of Konigsberg in East Prussia the Russians were within sight of the Bay of Danzig after moving around to the north of the Junkers capital and clamping a hold on both sides of the city.

The Soviets remained silent on their Silesian offensive, but Moscow dispatches said Marshal Ivan Konev was building up his 1st Ukranian Army supply lines to bridgeheads across the Oder on both sides of Breslau and would not remain inactive long.

Both Moscow and Berlin reflected the relief that a critical phase of the Russian offensive was near. The Moscow radio called upon the Germans to surrender and avert "impending catastrophe," while the Nazis — hinting at strong counter-measures — promised "the bloodiest disappointment" for the Russians.

Russians Want Allies to Open Offensive Now

Press and Radio Call for 'General Assault' in West, Cite Nazi Shift of Troops

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP).—Moscow hinted strongly today that it was time for the Allies to launch a full offensive in the west.

"All freedom-loving nations, inspired by the epoch-making successes of Soviet soldiers, are impatiently awaiting a general assault on Hitlerite Germany from all sides," said "Izvestia," the government newspaper.

A Moscow broadcast in English declared: "In the belief that there would be a long lull in the west Hitler rushed trainload after trainload of troops and whole big formations from that front to the east."

Thaw Slows Troops On Both Fronts

London, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—A troublesome thaw developed on both the eastern and western fronts in Europe today.

Moscow said this should be remedied shortly, however, for fresh icy winds were moving west from Siberia.

NAZI PROPAGANDA SEEKS TO STIFFEN GERMAN MORALE

LONDON, Feb. 2 — (AP) Nazi propagandists sought tonight to stiffen the German people against an expected "last surrender call" from the Big Three conference by warning of "political trickery in the decisive round of the war."

Neutral and German reports said that feverish preparations for defense of Berlin continued and a Moscow broadcast claimed that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels already had deserted the capital with his propaganda ministry for Bavaria.

"Victory or Siberia"

Dienst Aus Deutschland, a publication of the German foreign office, told the German people that their choice lies between "victory or Siberia" and expressed the fear that the Russians might try to use the free German committee in Moscow politically against the Reich.

"The German foreign office does not consider Gen. Walter Von Seidlitz (chairman of the free German committee) as a political reality, but as an ordinary traitor and deserter," the transocean news agency said. "But the Soviet Union is a reality to be reckoned with and its behavior therefore must be studied."

The German Evening Press denounced what it called the Big Three's "planned offensive against the war morale of the German people." Allied leaders were called "war criminals" and "arch hypocrites."

The Voelkischer Beobachter's headline said: "new gigantic swindle planned — Stalin, Roosevelt Churchill want to outstrip Wilson." German broadcasts said the three were meeting in a "Romanian Black Sea port."

"The Bolshevists, Americans and British may differ on many points concerning their aspirations for world domination," the Beobachter said. "But on one point they are perfectly united—in their boundless, withering hatred against the German people and the determination that no Germany should arise from this war which would be more than a semi-colony of one world power or another."

DNB announced that food rations for the next eight weeks would have to last for nine weeks and called upon all Germans for new sacrifices "to help feed, clothe and shelter our refugees.

"Reduce our wants to bare necessities and use even those sparingly," the news agency told civilians.

Fires Started in Berlin

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Aftonbladet said that huge fires started by Mosquito attacks on Berlin last night and early today added to the gloom there as a "ring of trenches and trap tanks around the entire city was being extended feverishly."

"Policemen with steel helmets and rifles are standing guard in the outskirts of the capital," the Swedish correspondent said. "Columns of tanks, troops and armored trucks constantly roll through the city while more and more Berliners are commanded to join the Volkssturm units near the city. Key positions along the wide superhighways and other roads leading into Berlin are being manned and fortified."

The correspondent said Berlin's double-decker buses were being sent along the highways in the direction of Danzig to pick up refugees, hiking along the roads from West Prussia.

Unofficial reports reaching London from inside Germany said a connected series of saltmine fortresses near Berchtesgaden has been prepared as the possible final Nazi holdout position. The old salt mine caves were said to have been made gasproof and bombproof and capable of sheltering 100,000 men for months if properly stocked.

The caves were reported to be connected and fitted up with a high-powered communications system with which the Germans could direct operations wherever fighting was in progress.

This inner defense area was said to cover between 100 and 150 square miles around Berchtesgaden, Hallein and Saltzburg, an area of tall Alpine peaks. This inner shell was reported surrounded by a much larger defended area running from the eastern frontier of Switzerland to a point west of Vienna.

CALLS NAZIS WEARY

London, Feb. 2 (A. P.). Germany was described as a war-weary nation with a steadily declining morale by repatriated British soldiers who arrived at Liverpool last night aboard the Red Cross ship Letitia.

But the German people still are ruled with iron discipline and are terrified to do anything not in accordance with Nazi fanaticism, said Major Miles Reid, who was captured by the Germans in Greece in 1941.

Sergt.-Major F. Jordon said the Germans realize now that they are "on the wrong side of the fence again."

Berlin at Stake As Battle Nears The 'Oder Box'

Quality of Fortifications Stretching Out 40 Miles From Capital a Mystery

PARIS, Feb. 2 (AP).—The "Oder box"—a flat, rectangular stretch of heavily populated territory between the Oder River and Berlin—may be the scene of one of history's crucial battles.

There the fate of Berlin—one of the five largest cities in the world—seemingly hangs in the balance. There, to a point as far as forty miles from Berlin the Germans are rushing work battalions to build trenches and fortifications.

The Germans, it is understood, have long had a system of fortified strongpoints in the area, but little information has leaked out about what they are doing to strengthen them against the great Russian blow to come. Whether they could offer any serious obstacle to the armored spearheads of the Red Army is not known.

Certainly, the Germans must throw into this critical area, whatever its defenses, powerful and mobile forces, and the Oder River line must be manned north and southeast of the "box."

Valuable German strength is now scattered in Norway and the Baltic states, and in Hungary, where the Germans have tried to hold Budapest. There is the possibility that some of the forces in Norway and the Baltic states may be returned by way of the Baltic Sea. Continued control of the Baltic port of Stettin is vital for such a move, however, and the Russians have a strong spearhead pointed at Stettin.

If the Germans can bring in reinforcements for the Oder line, they will have a chance to utilize natural features of terrain farther south. The area southeast of Berlin in the Frankfurt-Cottbus-Berlin triangle is wooded country thickly strewn with lakes and streams, terrain lending itself to a defense with relatively light forces.

It was a popular resort area in peace time. Summer week-enders scarcely dreamed in those times that some day they would be digging ditches there for a last-ditch defense of the German capital.

Still farther south lies an area, which, if the Oder line can be held, could prove to be a powerhouse of Nazi defense—the "Bohemian bastion."

Behind mountain barriers the rich industrial area of western Czechoslovakia is relatively untouched by war. In it are the big Skoda munitions factories. Much equipment has been moved there from bombed industrial areas of Germany.

Should the Red Army drive past Vienna, all that area would be menaced from the south, but the Russians still are well to the east of the Austrian capital.

Thaws, Mud May Halt Russians Short Of Berlin

Paris, Feb. 2 (AP)—Logistics—the military science of getting supplies into the battle line—rather than a reinforced German defense, may decide whether the present Russian offensive carries across the Oder River and the last 40 miles to Berlin.

That is the opinion of the best available unofficial military intelligence here, although admittedly not much is known here of the full capabilities of the Russian breakthrough or the exact intention of the Soviet command.

It is quite possible the Red Army surge, while it has staggered the Wehrmacht to its knees, may stop short of Berlin, but if it does it may well be because of this logistic problem.

Weather, Mud The Keys

The weather and the Polish mud are keys to that. The Russians have now reached that part of Germany where the road system improves with every mile—but behind them are the great supply line trails across 250 miles or more of the Polish plain.

That plain now is frozen and snow-covered, making it possible for vehicles and sleds to run without difficulty. But from late March through April the roads become virtually useless with thaws and spring mud.

There are rail lines, but these take some time to change to the Russian wide gauge—and this would mean widening tunnels and underpasses and cutting away station landings all along the routes.

By all normal procedures of logistics the Russians would find it necessary to stop their onrush well before the thraw. They could then establish a strong line for the next jumpoff and get supplies up to strengthen and maintain that line before the roads bog down.

The Oder—within knockout distance of Berlin—is regarded by many observers as the likely place for that buildup, although obviously the Russians could be expected to secure strong bridgeheads across it before easing the pressure.

Possibilities Cited

The Russians could fan out north and seize Stettin. They could mop up East Prussia and the remainder of the Baltic coast. They could push on deeper into Czechoslovakia and beyond Budapest in Hungary.

Speculation that the Soviet drive might stop short of Berlin is based almost entirely on logistics. But the answer is most uncertain—for the Russians in the past have defied normal handicaps and supply limitations.

NAZIS MOVING YANK CAPTIVES

Prisoners Taken on Foot From Path of Russians.

Washington, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—The Germans are moving American prisoners, on foot, from two camps in the path of the Russian advance to western areas of the Reich.

The American Red Cross said today that information received through the international organization at Geneva reported that fifty-eight Americans were known to have been in Camp Stalag VIII-B and Stalag 344 last November and that prisoners from these two camps were being moved west.

Stalag VIII-B was at Teschen in Silesia and the other camp at Lamsdorf, on the Polish-Czech frontier.

Geneva also reported, the Red Cross said, that other camps in eastern Germany are being withdrawn westward, although no details on these movements are available.

The United States has asked Russia for information on American prisoners released by the advancing Red armies, but so far no reports have been received. At the time Romania fell, a large number of Americans, chiefly airmen, were released.

The OWI reported a Berlin dispatch saying that Norwegian and Anglo-American prisoners also had been moved from a prison camp at Schildberg, Silesia, to Luckenwalde, south of Berlin. The dispatch, to a Stockholm newspaper, said the prisoners were forced to make a strenuous march through the snow.

AMERICANS CRACK 2 DEFENSE BELTS OF SIEGFRIED LINE

Third Army Seizes Vi... Within Five Miles of Prum.

YANKS DRIVE ON BONN

French, Doughboys Batter Weakening Nazi Defenses at Colmar

Bachmeier

PARIS, Feb. 2—(AP) The U. S. First army assault carried it 10 miles into Germany southeast of Aachen today in a three-mile drive that broke through the first of the Siegfried line's two main defense belts at their widest part. This point is 33 miles from the vital communications center of Bonn on the Rhine.

FEB 3 1945

The U. S. Third army along the southern sector of the 40-mile front likewise was beating at the Rhineland's western defenses, widening its foothold inside the Reich to nine miles and seizing a village only five miles from the fortress of Prum.

Batter Colmar Defenses

Far to the southeast, French and American troops battered against buckling resistance into the center of Colmar, famed as the birthplace of the sculptor of the statue of liberty. (The Paris radio said Colmar had been captured).

The west bank of the Rhine was cleared of the enemy for more than 30 miles south of Strasbourg, more than 25 French towns had been liberated, the Germans' only Rhine railway bridge was hammered by artillery, and troops in flight were scourged by swarming warplanes.

While these drives rolled ahead, Gen. Eisenhower held a conference at an undisclosed point with Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, on "current operations" possibly presaging renewed Allied blows timed with the great Russian offensive from the east. Supreme headquarters declined to amplify a bare announcement.

(Thus far there has been no formal announcement of the return of Bradley to command of the entire U. S. First, Third and Ninth armies. Marshal Montgomery took over the parts of these forces north of the Ardennes during the battle of the bulge).

Yanks Drive Across Moder

The U. S. Seventh army with French units along the Rhine were shoving the enemy back 15 miles north of Strasbourg, and American forces had driven back north across the Moder river both east and west of Haguenau, Allied anchor on that front.

The Second infantry division of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army was in the van of today's attack, plunging three miles through the hilly, wooded, terrain to within sight of the village of Schoneseiffen, seven miles east of Monschau.

Associated Press correspondent Tom Yarbrough said that here, 10 miles deep into Germany, the Doughboys were about midway between the two main defense belts of the Siegfried Line without encountering enemy artillery fire.

Along this section of the front, the Siegfried Line splits into two defense zones. The first, with its tank traps and pillboxes, lies close to the border and the second is farther east in the hills.

Eight miles to the south, the 82nd airborne division struck both savage resistance and artillery fire as it fought into Udenbreth, a mile and a half inside Germany, where it seized key heights dominating all Siegfried positions in that sector.

Many of the pillboxes in the outer works of the Westwall were deserted but the Germans were fighting from those in the most commanding positions and had to be blasted out by mobile artillery.

The Ninth division seized a road junction five miles southeast of Monschau, while the First division farther south tore into the Westwall's main fortifications.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army pounded out gains up to two miles, deepening its bridgehead across the Our river inside Germany east and southeast of St. Vith.

Nazi Villages Fall

A number of German villages were engulfed and on the north flank the Third army captured Bleialf, a village five and a half miles west of Prum, the heavily fortified communications center which supplies the Siegfried Line.

At least on this sector there was as yet no hint that the Germans were about to turn and make a stand. The thaw was hampering the advance more than German resistance. Along the front several highway centers east of the Siegfried Line were in artillery range.

Supreme headquarters in a special announcement told of the triumphant entry of a battle team of French and Americans into the southern Alsatian city of Colmar.

A high-ranking U. S. general was directing the operations against this city, famed as the birthplace of Bartholdi, sculptor of the statue of liberty.

A front dispatch said German resistance was relatively weak, although the city was heavily-mined and booby trapped.

To the northeast, Lt. Gen. Jean de Lattre De Tassigny's French First army drove up to the Rhine along a 30-mile front and was slowly enveloping Neuf-Brisach, the railway crossing city near the Rhine due east of Colmar. The salient once menacing Strasbourg was obliterated.

Fighting raged near Bisheim, a little over a mile from the town and between it and the Rhine. Ahead of the ground forces, artillery fire burst on the Neuf-Brisach bridge, without which many of the 25,000 Germans believed deployed around Colmar might never get back to the Reich.

The best weather in 10 days released hundreds of fighter-bombers to batter German railroads from the Ruhr to the Black Forest across the Rhine from South Alsace.

This campaign was designed to prevent the transfer of German forces from the west front to the east.

French And Americans In Middle Of City

Paris, Feb. 2 (AP)—American and French troops broke into the northern end of Colmar, provincial French capital, 40 miles south of Strasbourg, at noon today, and at 6 P.M. had reached the center of the city after clearing 30 miles of the left bank of the Rhine and laying siege to the Neuf-Brisach bridge from a mile away. Fighting was in progress in the streets of Colmar, supreme headquarters announced.

[The Paris radio interrupted a broadcast early tonight to announce that French troops had captured Colmar.]

On the central front, where the American 1st and 3d armies were assaulting a 40-mile sector of the Siegfried Line, the 2d Division advanced 3 miles eastward toward the village of Schooneseiffen, 10 miles inside Germany and 20 southwest of the important traffic center of Euskirchen.

Stiffer Defenses

German defenses, however, were stiffening.

The doughboys crossed the German border south of Monschau and fought into the streets of Udenbreth, a village in the Siegfried Line itself. Near-by Ramstheid and Neuhof were captured. The Germans started fighting from some of the thick concrete pillboxes, many of which had been abandoned.

The best weather in ten days allowed hundreds of fighter bombers to batter German railroads from the Ruhr to the Black Forest opposite the Colmar pocket.

Generals Confer

While the Americans were hammering the main Siegfried fortifications at several points south of the 37-mile Aachen Gap, General Eisenhower and Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the 12th Army Group, completed a mysterious 24-hour conference on "current operations." The fact that Supreme Headquarters made the announcement appeared to be a tip that something was brewing.

A dispatch from Field Marshal Montgomery's 21st Army Group headquarters in the north said there were "indications the battle for the Siegfried defenses in the Monschau sector would be heavy and long."

Americans Shelled

German guns in the double line of fortifications increased shelling of the Americans, who were advancing through deep slush. The guns had been mostly quiet until the assault troops reached the main defenses, which were under incessant bombardment from large American cannon.

The passive resistance of the Germans at the center strengthened the suspicion that the enemy may be falling back to the Rhine, from twenty to sixty miles east of the present battlelines at the center and the north.

Tonight, however, the German guns in the double line of fortifications increased their shelling of the Americans, who were advancing through deep slush. The guns had been mostly quiet until the assault troops reached the main defenses, which were under an incessant bombardment, however, by large American cannon.

A dispatch from Field Marshal Montgomery's Twenty-first Army Group Headquarters in the north said that there were indications that the battle for the Siegfried defenses in the Monschau sector would be heavy and long.

An announcement from Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers's 6th Army Group told of the victory below Strasbourg in an area manned until recently by 25,000 resolute German troops.

The threat to the Alsatian capital was all but dissipated, for gains also were made on the north, pushing the Germans to points about 15 miles away from Strasbourg.

Forts Protect Bridge

The United States 3d and 28th divisions and French 1st Army troops fought to near Biesheim, a mile from Neuf-Brisach. There one of the few standing Rhine railroad bridges crosses to Breisach in Germany, protected by fortresses atop the 1,500-foot Kaiserstuhl Hill. The Rhine there is from 120 to 220 yards wide, 20 feet deep and steep banked.

The villages of Andolsheim Widensolen, Artzenheim and Kuenheim, between Colmar and the Rhine, were captured.

North of Strasbourg, Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army troops who fought across the Moder River contained a German tank-supported counterattack inside Oberhoffen. Another raiding force crossed the Moder between Haguenau and Schweighouse and inflicted heavy losses.

Continued thaws slowed somewhat the onslaughts of the American First and Third armies along the forty-mile middle section of the Siegfried Line. The Americans had widened their stand inside Germany, however, by capturing Laudesfeld, six miles east of St. Vith and a little more than seven from the heavily fortified railroad center of Prum. The Third had advanced four miles into Germany and was nearing Belialf, six miles from Prum and three miles inside the Reich. Overnight they had gained up to two miles beyond the River Our below St. Vith, capturing Heckhuscheid, Grosslangenfeld, Winterscheid and several other German hamlets west of Prum.

Ike, Bradley Confer

FEB 3 1945

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, Feb. 2 (AP)—General Eisenhower and Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the 12th Army Group, have concluded a 24-hour conference on current operations, Supreme Headquarters announced today.

The reason, details and place of meeting were withheld. The principal members of Eisenhower's staff attended.

[The original 12th Army Group included the American 1st, 3d and 9th armies. At least the 3d, probably the 1st and possibly the 9th are under Bradley's command at present. The Germans had predicted daily for a week that 60 to 70 divisions had been massed in the 12th Army Group sector near Aachen for an impending general offensive.]

150 Ex-Slaves of Nazis Now on Top in Alsdorf

Lochner

Foreign Workers Are Given Best Homes by U. S. Army

ALSDORF, Germany, Feb. 2 (AP).—The tables have turned in this coal mining town where but 5,000 inhabitants remain of a normal population of 19,000.

Some 150 Polish, Yugoslav, Czech and Russian workers and their families, whom the Nazis sent here to work under humiliating conditions, have been assigned the best homes of Alsdorf by the displaced persons section of the United States Army under Captain Ralph Hill, of Reading, Pa. These houses have been repaired, the window panes have been replaced, furniture assembled from unusable homes, even radios installed in some cases, and every comfort possible under war-front conditions provided.

The Germans, returning to their home town after a shelling which left few buildings intact, must content themselves with what is left. This means they must in some cases occupy hovels previously assigned by the Nazis to the forced foreign labor.

Peace Offers From Germany At Present Held Unlikely

By Louis P. Lochner

With the American Army on the Western Front, Feb. 2 (AP)—Peace with Germany, according to present indications, can be hastened only by disintegration of the German Army and the piece-meal surrender of large units. Tender of a peace offer by Germany seems quite unlikely.

My conviction in this was strengthened after I had talked might talk more freely if I spoke to them in German, told them I had been a reporter in Germany for 21 years and thus showed I was interested in learning just how they felt.

They were a bedraggled crowd—nothing like the triumphant, youthful and impetuous singing formations I had seen in 1940 in Holland, Belgium and France. Without exception, they said other men in their units were sick of the war and had but one hope—early peace.

No Big Surrenders

Many also claimed to have conspired with three or four men to go AWOL into the American lines in such a manner they could not if recaptured, be accused of desertion.

But when I asked about their officers and the likelihood of whole companies and regiments surrendering they said nothing could be expected of the officers, although many of them were through with the war.

Some claimed even their commanding general would surrender except for one thing. That one thing explains why, on the basis of evidence available to me, I do not believe the Germans will seek peace formally.

One Westphalian summed up the case by saying:

"Officers cannot lead us corporatively into your lines as much as many of them would like to because immediately their families would be executed. Sir, this is no theory of mine. A young lieutenant from my home town whom I knew well, was missing one day a few months ago when I still was on the Russian front. Rumor had it that he had deserted to the enemy. Without waiting for proof of this allegation, his mother and sister were shot by the Gestapo."

Hear All Kin Slain

Some of these men had heard by the grapevine that the next of kin of all officers implicated in the July 20 attempt on Hitler's life have been executed.

Such was the general verdict of the captured German soldiers. Most of them thought Germany could not hold out longer than a month. This statement, however, must be discounted, as prisoners taken in earlier months also thought it would be over in four weeks.

There are only two groups who could, with authority, ask for peace.

One is the leadership of the German armed forces. The other is the Nazi regime. The purge following the July 20 attempt against Hitler seems to have been so thorough that all military leaders with any political sense apparently were executed.

Generals Watched Closely

I see no successors to men like Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck, Gen. Franz Halder and Field Marshal Erwin von Witzleben. The present-day generals are being watched so closely by the Gestapo that they probably could not deliver surrendering armies if they wanted to.

Men like Franz von Papen and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht periodically are mentioned as peace seekers on behalf of Germany. By themselves, they have no power. It is unlikely that they would be sent by army authorities, as these as well as industrial circles were thoroughly intimidated by the events subsequent to the Hitler assassination attempt.

If sent by Hitler or Heinrich Himmler, they would be smart enough to know they could come into the presence of representatives of the Allied powers only if armed with authority to sign their names on the dotted line under a document of two words, "unconditional surrender."

Such a surrender seems extremely unlikely. Hitler, Himmler, von Ribbentrop, Goebbels, Goering and the labor leader, Robert Ley, have nothing to gain from it. Their only hope of postponing the evil day for themselves lies in prolonging the struggle.

The German people do not figure in their calculations, for Hitler cynically told the world he would have no pity on the German people if they proved unequal to the supreme test of this war. The Hitlerites have shown again and again they do not hesitate to send hundreds of thousands to the slaughter if it means gaining time.

It, therefore, does not look as though the end of hostilities with Germany could come in way of peace feelers followed by the signature of armistice terms, followed or preceded by the formation of a new government in the defeated country. I have found nobody yet willing to forecast how the way can be paved for the "cease-fire" order.

PATERSON G. I. SEIZES TWO NAZIS

Kesternich, Germany, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Pfc. Dante Defee of Paterson, N. J., didn't carry out his instructions to the letter when he was directed to string wire for communications during the capture of this town yesterday.

Defee saw two Germans go into a barn. He neglected his duties long enough to capture them.

TWO YANK FORCES RACE FOR MANILA

18 MILES DISTANT

Fall of Philippine Capital Depends on Time to Move Men, Equipment.

JAP ARMIES CUT IN TWO

Americans Push Six Miles Across Base of Bataan Peninsula.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Luzon, Saturday, Feb. 3—(AP) Two Yank forces are racing toward Manila, one only 18 air miles away, down fine highways against ineffective Japanese resistance.

"It is definitely a race between forward elements of the First Cavalry (dismounted) and 37th divisions to see who enters Manila first," Associated Press correspondent Richard Bergholz reported in a field dispatch today.

Smash Toward Manila

Maj. Gen. Verne Mudge's First Cavalry, veterans of the Leyte campaign, entered the lists with a sensational 57-mile drive which at last reports had carried to within 24 miles of Manila and still was going strong.

("Strange as it seems, everything points to the fact that we should get to Manila in just the space of time it takes us to move the men and equipment on the road," Arthur Feldman, Blue network war correspondent, said in a broadcast from Luzon).

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the gathering drive in a communique today which also reported all main roads connecting Japanese forces on north and south Luzon now are cut and Yanks have pushed six miles across the base of Bataan peninsula.

Three Japanese destroyers were spotted off the northwest coast of Luzon Wednesday — the first appearance of enemy warships since the invasion — and one was sunk and two severely damaged in a two-day running battle with American medium bombers.

Sixth army troops of the 37th division, covering the last miles of the push they began Jan. 9 at Lingayen gulf, neared the key road and rail center of Malolos in Bulacan province—the closest approach to Manila.

Drive Across Bataan

Eighth army Yanks of the 38th and 24th divisions who landed Monday in Zambales province, northwest of Manila, and quickly secured Subic bay are nearing a juncture across the base of Bataan peninsula with Sixth army units forking southwest from San Fernando.

Eighth army troops of the 11th airborne division who landed southwest of Manila in Batangas province Wednesday near Nasugbu have secured an airfield — added to the more than a score the Americans have won on Luzon—and driven nine miles inland in a drive toward vital Cavite naval base.

In one of the longest single advances yet reported on Luzon, the veteran dismounted First Cavalry division took the prison base town of Cabanatuan in Nueva Ecija province, then sped 32 miles south to Sabang on the Angat river within 24 air miles of Manila. They are within 12 miles of a juncture with the 37th division at Malolos.

The Sixth's 25th division won complete control of the last highway in the central plain to be wrested from the enemy.

"The enemy's forces in the north and south of Luzon are now totally severed," MacArthur reported.

(George Thomas Folster, NBC reporter, who went with one patrol which scouted for enemy opposition, said later "I do not think there is too much between us and Manila."

(He told in his broadcast from Luzon of watching big guns being rolled forward to support the drive into the capital city).

Southwest of Manila, Eighth Army Yanks who invaded the Batangas province coast Wednesday were approaching the town of Caylungan, about eight miles by road on the highway leading to heights commanding the Cavite naval base and Manila itself.

MacArthur announced that 30 Japanese small seacraft attempted to raid the Batangas beachhead with torpedoes and depth charges but "were repulsed by our naval covering screen. Many of the enemy craft were destroyed. We sustained only minor damage."

Capture Prison Base

Disclosing widespread gains in the northern sector of Luzon MacArthur said First Cavalry division troops thrusting south from Guimba advanced 32 miles to capture the prison camp town of Cabanatuan (where 513 American and Filipino prisoners were rescued by Yank Rangers and guerrillas Tuesday night), Santa Rosa and Gapan on the main Manila highway.

"Strong motorized elements are operating as far south as Sabang on the Angat river," MacArthur announced, declaring that "this gives us dominance of all major roads and railroads in the central Luzon plain."

Twenty-fifth division Yanks established road blocks on a prime Manila highway which skirts the foothills of central Luzon plain on the east. These blocks were established south of the town of Umingan. This gives the Americans complete control of the last remaining highway in the north-central plain. Sharp fighting in the outskirts of Umingan town was reported.

MacArthur announced widespread raids by American bombers on targets in Manila bay, the central Philippines and island groups to the southwest, and disclosed mopping up operations on Leyte island had brought the total Japanese dead to more than 1[illegible]00.

Manila In The Jaws Of American Trap

San Francisco, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Japanese Domei news agency said new American landings on Luzon Island this week at Subic Bay and on the Batangas coast have brought a "further serious turn" in the "war situation in the Manila sector."

The dispatch, recorded here, estimated that five American divisions are converging on Manila Bay.

MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Feb. 2 (AP)—Manila was in a deadly American trap today.

United States 8th Army invasion troops fashioned a pincers on the Philippines capital Wednesday morning by landing on the Batangas province coast 67 road miles southwest of the city, while 6th Army spearheads drove to within a bare 20 miles on the north.

The 11th Airborne Division swept ashore from landing craft virtually unopposed along 5 miles of Batangas beach near Nasugbu and quickly pressed eastward toward 2,000-foot Tagaytay Ridge, which commands fine highways leading to Manila and the Cavite naval base in Manila Bay, 32 miles away.

Japs Again Surprised

Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today that this third Luzon invasion—the second by the newly formed 8th Army in 48 hours—again caught the Japanese by surprise.

"We landed without loss," he announced, explaining that the landing "largely seals off the possibility of the enemy troops south of Manila joining those in the north, and definitely outflanks the enemy's defense lines in southern Luzon."

The first wave of Maj. Gen. J. M. Swing's 11th Division troops hit the shore without firing a shot at 8.30 A.M. and took the town of Nasugbu, where happy Filipinos welcomed them with offers of hot coffee, wine and rum.

It wasn't a totally bloodless landing, as was Monday's invasion of the Zambales coastline to the north. A half hour after the first Yanks were ashore, Japanese in caves to the north brought machine-gun and 77-mm. fire to bear on the landing beach. This was quickly silenced by naval gunfire and mobile artillery.

Lieut. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, the 8th Army commander, originally planned the Batangas foray as a reconnaissance move, planning to pull out if the opposition proved great. Three hours later, he changed it to a full-scale invasion.

The invasion came as the fast rolling American 6th Army spearhead — still unchecked — reached the Angat River 25 road miles north of Manila.

Patrols Ahead

Patrols were reported operating freely in advance and could well be on the approaches to Malolos, 20 miles from Manila.

Eighth Army troops which landed just north of Subic Bay on Monday were moving eastward from the captured Olongapo naval base against light resistance.

These troops are heading toward a juncture with a 6th Army column advancing westward from San Fernando.

In the northern sector the Yanks now are 4 miles east of Tayug and 6 miles east of San Manuel where they seized the town of San Nicholas on the Cagayan Valley highway, vital to Japanese reinforcement or retreat.

Defenses in the Manila Bay sector took another severe aerial pounding yesterday.

Resistance Lag on Luzon 'Crazy,' Eichelberger Says

By The Associated Press.

WITH THE EIGHTH UNITED STATES ARMY, Batangas, Luzon, Feb. 2—Japanese generals "must have gone crazy," Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, commander of the Eighth United States Army, said today when he put the question: "Where in hell are they going to fight?"

"We hit them at Mindoro Island and dared them to fight. We landed at Lingayen and gave them another chance to fight. Again it's 'No,'" said the general.

"Then we hit them at Subic Bay, and now we come in from Batangas, sixty-seven miles from Manila, and certainly a prime defense area. Those Jap generals must have gone crazy. Where in hell are they going to fight?"

Rescued Men Eager To Fight Japs Again

FEB 3 1945

Evacuation Hospital, Luzon, Philippines, Feb. 2 (AP)—They want their health back. They want to see their folks. Then they want to come back and fight the Japanese.

Those are the prevailing sentiments of the 486 Americans and more than a score of other Allied prisoners who were rescued by a picked band of fighting men Tuesday night from a stockade near Cabanatuan.

They have bitter memories of capitulation at Bataan and Corregidor. Many had to undergo the "Death March" from Bataan. For nearly three years as prisoners of the Japanese, they subsisted largely on a rice diet.

Goaded By Memories

Yes, many would like to fight again. Their memories goad them.

"The Japs always liked to slap us and sometimes they'd give us a pretty stiff beating," recalled Private Travis W. Flowers, of Scranton, N.C., an aviation engineer captured on Corregidor.

Another prisoner recalled how the Japanese guards tried to lure the Yanks to the fence with offers of candy and tobacco. Inasmuch as the prisoners were not allowed within a certain distance of the fence, to approach it invited being shot or whipped.

Crowded Into Cell

Technical Sergeant Harold J. Glass, of Long Beach, Cal., said minor infractions were punished by crowding as many as twenty of the accused into a small cell where they were forced to stand up for twelve hours. When night came they could squat down if there was room—but a guard woke them up every hour.

Sick or well, a prisoner couldn't win.

"The best rations went to the workers," said Staff Sergeant D. C. Raines, of Bonifay, Fla., an aerial gunner who was wounded on Bataan and captured in a hospital. He has been hospitalized ever since.

"If you couldn't work you got whatever they could spare. We got so hungry in the hospital that for a while we supplemented our rice ration with soup made of sweet potato leaves."

And if you were well?

Chief Staff Sergeant Clinton Goodbla, of Longview, Wash., said the healthiest prisoners were seg-

Leader Of Luzon Prison Raid Tells How Rangers Did It

Additional names of men rescued from Jap prison camp appear on Page 21.

By Fred Hampson

At 6th Ranger Camp Near Cabanatuan, Luzon, Jan. 31 [AP—Delayed]—Put Lieut. Col. Henry Mucci's 6th Rangers with Rogers Rangers. Put 'em with Jeb Stuart's cavalry. Put 'em with Allen's Green Mountain boys. After what happened last night that is where they belong.

They went 33 miles through the Japanese lines. They crossed a road teeming with Japanese traffic. They surrounded a prison stockade that was alive with guards. They did it in dead secrecy. Not a man was spotted.

Kill All Guards In Half-Hour

They struck like Thor's hammer at 7 P.M., and at 7.03 P.M. they had killed every Japanese in the fearsome Cabanatuan prison stockade. By 7.05 P.M. they had whisked the first lot of 513 prisoners, carrying a hundred stretcher cases pickaback, across the road onto a field of retreat. Not many minutes later the Rangers were as gone as though they had never been there.

This shadowy jab, timed without a flaw and executed without a flicker of pause, paid off incredibly. It liberated the entire roster of prisoners, disorganized the enemy beyond possibility of pursuit, killed 73 Japanese outside and probably that many more inside the buildings, and destroyed four tanks.

523 Japs Killed

[Fighting on the way back ran the number of Japanese dead up to 523.]

Colonel Mucci, of Bridgeport, Conn., and Denver, Col., told how they did it today.

Filipinos furnished the news of and pinpointed the stockade. Early January 29 Rangers slipped through the lines and began their march. They took only what weapons they could carry. On January 30 they rendezvoused with a Filipino guerrilla band which was to assist them.

Road Passes Camp

The road ran directly past the prison camp which contained a stockade circled with barbed wire, guard towers and machine guns. It also contained the prisoner huts plus several Japanese buildings for officers, enlisted men and transient troops. Other buildings contained tanks and vehicles.

Mucci put his forces on either side of the stockade to blockade the road during the action. He deployed a larger force of Rangers near the road farther south and a force of guerrillas farther north.

Creep From Thicket

With these in position the rescue force crept from a river thicket onto a field making a direct approach to the prison just before 7 P.M. That was the darkest hour of the night.

A platoon led by First Lieutenant John F. Murphy, of Springfield, Mass., a former Notre Dame football player, crawled up the road to the southeast corner of the prison. Some of Murphy's men got within a few feet of the lookout tower undetected.

First Lieutenant William J. O'Connell, of Boston, Mass., commanded a squad covering the road in front of the prison and another which was to open the gate.

Japs Mowed Down

Other Rangers under Capt. James C. Fisher, of Philadelphia; Capt. Robert W. Price, of Seattle, and First Lieutenant Melville Schmidt, of New Orleans, completed encirclement of the first.

First Lieutenant John Dove, of Hollywood, Cal., an Alamo scout, was near the gate to speed prisoner traffic through the field to the rendezvous point.

Murphy quarterbacked the attack. The second bursts mowed down Japanese emerging widely from the buildings.

Bazooka Rips Tank House

Most Japanese machine gunners were killed—some with bayonets—before they could fire a shot.

A bazooka ripped through the tank house and destroyed four tanks.

Other Rangers sprang into buildings where most of the prisoners were just starting to go to bed. They yelled, "We are Yanks. Get the hell to the main gate on the double."

Take Out Stretcher Cases

Other Rangers darted about picking up stretcher cases on their backs and dashing through the compound across the road into the field and racing back for more.

Dove and his men relayed them across the field as fast as they could go into the thicket.

The best the Japanese could do was to throw a couple of mortars from a near-by emplacement into the compound. These killed one scout and wounded a medical officer. Two others were hit by Japanese machine-gun or rifle bullets.

Japs Attack

The withdrawal was as sudden as the attack. But before it had gone far a heavy concentration of Japanese from the north attacked.

The guerrillas let them come close and then fired, piling up Japanese in heaps. The first wave of Japanese infantry was followed by tanks. The guerillas had no weapons with which to meet them. They were pinned down but killed nearly 300 Japanese at a loss of 23 guerrillas killed before withdrawing.

This Japanese force then tried to intercept the fugitives. But the gallant stand of the guerrillas had given the Rangers enough of a start. Leading and carrying their charges they reached a road two miles away where carabao and cars with native drivers awaited.

In Overcrowded Carts

The stealthy night trek along the road with overcrowded carts was eased as other cars and animals were acquired at small towns along the way.

The worst time of all for Mucci was a one-mile stretch of the Rizal road. Mucci knew there were several thousand Japanese soldiers only a short distance away. But the caravan got over this risky leg of retreat without detection and at dawn reached Sidal where they were met by a motorized party.

"Three Kilos More"

At the end of the journey, Rangers and Filipinos were guiding 51 carabao and carts and helping other prisoners as best they could.

Mucci strode up and down the column all night spurring it on with, "All right, men; just 3 kilometers more; just 3 more."

At length the prisoners themselves joked when they saw the colonel. "Here comes 3 kilos more."

FREED YANKS COMING HOME

Mail Can Be Sent to ex-Jap Captives.

Washington, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—An Army plan for prompt return to the United States of the newly liberated American prisoners in the Philippines today was reported by Representative Philbin (D.-Mass.).

Those liberated by Gen. MacArthur's forces on Bataan will be brought home "as soon as possible," Mr. Philbin said.

"I was informed some of these men are already being prepared for return, and that others will be brought back as soon as it can be arranged," Mr. Philbin asserted. "Only those required to remain for medical treatment will have to stay there."

Mr. Philbin also said that the War Department told him families of the men can send a twenty-five-word message to them via Army press wireless. To do this, he said, the families should send the liberated prisoner's name and serial number to the Adjutant-General of the Army here with the message. Only one message will be allowed from a family.

Messages, from immediate members of families only, should be addressed as follows: "The Adjutant-General, Attention Casualty Branch, Room 3050 Munitions Building, Washington, D. C."

In a news conference Acting Secretary of War Patterson said that the Army has "a primary concern in rescuing all the American and Filipino soldiers who may have been left in prisoner camps in the Philippines."

He said these are the men who stood up gallantly against the Japanese in the hardest days of the war, and that everything possible will be done for their relief and rehabilitation.

The Army, in answer to reports that some of the rescued men want to return to battle against the Japanese, said there was nothing that would prevent that.

cated in liberated areas.

Radio Messages Home

The Red Cross also announced that rescued personnel, both military and civilian, may send brief radio messages announcing their safety to persons in the United States and Allied nations. Messages will be sent through Army Signal Corps channels to the Red Cross. Outright cash grants up to 60 pesos ($30) are being made to all rescued persons in need.

Approximately 127,000 messages from throughout the world for persons interned in the Philippines are being delivered by the Red Cross as fast as internees are released or rescued. An alphabetical file has been set up so that field representatives can determine quickly whether any messages are on file for the internees as they appear.

'BIG 3' DECIDING FATE OF GERMANY

Allied Leaders Reported Conferring on Plans for Ruling Reich.

LONDON, Feb. 2—(AP) There was every indication tonight that the fate of Germany was being decided by the Big Three somewhere east of London at an hour when a British government official said the enemy's people had "reached the depths of despair" and "anything might happen."

It was believed that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Marshal Stalin were planning the final blows and the means of controlling the disorganized German homeland once victory is won.

The urgency of the fast-changing military and political map brought under consideration, it was believed, detailed plans for suppressing Germany's aggressive powers forever.

A reliable source said Churchill was operating on the basis of reports from inside Germany that much of the political machinery there already had broken down and the process of decay had been accelerated further by Russian, British and American blows from east and west.

He was expected to ask immediate Big Three approval of plans for ruling the Reich.

One Whitehall official, discussing the situation in Germany, said "anything might happen" and added "reports received show people have reached the very depths of despair."

Nazi propagandists rejected in advance any possible Big Three surrender demand. DNB, the German news agency declared "the new propaganda campaign won't shake the Germans."

"The German people have become hard after five years of war," this account said, "and are determined never to lay down their arms until Germany's freedom, honor and future are secured."

TRANSFER HINTED

One reliable source said Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill would discuss the feasibility of transferring forces from Europe to the Far East. Mr. Roosevelt was understood to favor moving at least the greater part of the Allied air force to the Far East as soon as Germany capitulates or its bombing targets are overrun by Allied advances.

Most quarters believed that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill would not seek to bring pressure for Russia to join in the war against Japan since they are in agreement that British, American and Chinese forces could finish it off without additional help.

Reich Rule Plan Okay By Big 3 Held Urgent

London, Feb. 2 (AP)—On the basis of reports indicating the possibility of early political and perhaps military disintegration of large sections of northern Germany, Prime Minister Churchill will urge immediate approval at the Big Three meeting of plans for ruling the Reich.

This information came today from an entirely reliable London source. It was emphasized that this statement should not be interpreted to mean that Germany as a whole would collapse in a matter of weeks, or that a quick surrender of Nazi diehards could be expected.

Sense Of Urgency

Nevertheless, it was made clear that a sense of real urgency has been lent to the Big Three session.

This source said Churchill was operating on the basis of reports from inside Germany that much of the political machinery already had

Mail Taken For Freed Men

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Feb. 2 (AP)—Special provisions have been made to deliver mail to Americans and others recovered from Japanese prison and internment camps in the Philippines.

Sixth Army Headquarters and the Red Cross announced today that mail should be addressed as follows:

Name of person
American Red Cross, Civilian War Aid,
6th Army Headquarters, Civil Affairs Section,
APO 442, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco.

Post office, army and Red Cross personnel will expedite delivery to wherever the addressees are located.

broken down in the northern areas and that the process of decay would be accelerated by war developments.

These reports came from sources which hitherto have insisted that the Gestapo's grip was too powerful to allow a political breakup.

Nazis Expected To Fight On

But there seemed to be every reason to believe that large portions of the German Army would fight on, even if the civil population went to pieces.

The reports reaching Churchill were understood to indicate that the German military forces were planning to retreat if necessary to the south and fight in an organized way from hedgehog strongholds that would be geographically and, in part, industrially self-sufficient.

For such a last-ditch stand the Germans have been reported establishing an elaborate resistance center covering 10,000 square miles in mountainous parts of Bavaria and Austria. It would be difficult to storm and would offer few good targets for bombing operations.

Berchtesgaden At Center

Inside this line, it was reported, is an even more elaborate stronghold covering more than 100 square miles and centered on Berchtesgaden, Hitler's hilltop retreat.

This information and other facts which cannot now be revealed will, it was understood, lead Churchill to ask that plans for the future of Germany be co-ordinated and made ready for immediate application when the occasion arises.

One Whitehall official asserted that "anything might happen in Germany."

No Confirmation

There still was no official confirmation that the Big Three conference had begun, but most quarters were of the opinion that Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin already were discussing the future of Germany. The Berlin radio has said the conference is under way, and the Germans have begun a concerted propaganda campaign against any "surrender now" demand which may be forthcoming.

The Germans "have expected" such a demand for some time because the Allies now realize that the unconditional-surrender policy was a major blunder, a Berlin broadcast asserted today.

"Churchill In Gibraltar"

Madrid, Feb. 1 (AP—Delayed)—Workers returning to the Spanish town of La Linea from Gibraltar brought rumors that Prime Minister Churchill had arrived there by plane Wednesday night. There was no confirmation.

BRITISH PLANES HAMMER BERLIN

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, Feb. 2—(AP) Air raid sirens shrilled through refugee-filled Berlin tonight as the German radio reported Allied bombers approaching the German capital. This would make the eighth attack on the metropolis in seven days.

Last night Mosquitoes made their biggest raid of the war on Berlin, hitting the city several hours before midnight and again before daybreak.

Other packs of speedy, twin-engined planes roamed within 80 miles of the capital tonight to attack troop movements to the east and otherwise participate in the massive hammering of Germany's over-burdened railway system.

Cannon-firing Mosquitoes struck at seven freight yards, shot up and bombed 13 trains, 540 railcars, 65 motor vehicles.

The RAF also dispatched two forces of Lancasters to the rail-hubs of Ludwigshafen on the Rhine and Siegen, 45 miles east of Cologne, and a force of Halifaxes to Mainz, another Rhine transportation hub—bringing the total of British bombers against Germany during the night to nearly 1,500.

Although heavy weather hampered the heavy bombers in daylight attacks, the German radio gave series of warnings throughout the morning and afternoon of approaching fast bombers over Siegen, Munster, Coblenz and the Ruhr. This indicated Allied medium and light bombers based in France and Belgium were on a widespread prowl for rolling stock.

TELLS HOW PILOT DIED TO SAVE MEN

An American Bomber Station, England, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Ever since June, 1943, when their bomber exploded over Hamburg, six American prisoners in Germany had wanted the fellows back here to know what their pilot, Lieut. George Riches, a former farmer from Deshler, Ohio, did on his first combat mission. Today the story was told.

Sergt. Ralph Lavoie of Fitchburg, Mass., who had been injured and later on exchanged and repatriated, declared in a letter from Cushing General Hospital, Framingham, Mass., to Lieut.-Col. Theodore Milton, commanding officer of the bombardment group:

"I was a ball turret gunner on the original crew and was shot down on the group's second mission. Four of my crew were killed and six were taken prisoners.

"The story I really want to tell you is about my pilot, Lieut. George Riches, who was killed saving the lives of the six remaining members of the crew. The co-pilot was hit by flak and killed. Riches's right arm was almost shot off, which made it impossible for him to work the automatic pilot. And our ship was on fire.

"Riches, instead of trying to save himself, remained at the controls, using his good arm to fly the plane, and ordered the rest of us out. The ship blew up before he had a chance to get out himself."

Japs Offer To Help Allied Prisoners

London, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today that "if there is anything Japan can do" to improve the lot of Allied prisoners and internees "Japan is ready to do it."

The broadcast quoted Sadao Iguchi, a spokesman of the Japanese information bureau, whose statements apparently were intended as a reply to remarks made recently by Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary, on treatment of Allied prisoners and internees.

Cites Red Cross Plan

"The sincerity of the Japanese Government in this matter can be seen in the fact that the Japanese Government recently declared that it was willing to allow Red Cross representatives to visit various localities in occupied territories where prisoners and internees are," Iguchi said.

Declaring that Japan is awaiting a reply from Washington and London, he added: "We hope that the enemy will in turn recognize the Japanese generosity for making such a noble decision in spite of the gravity of the war situation."

Tokyo radio broadcast today said the Japanese Awa Maru would sail from Moji, Japan, about February 17 to deliver relief supplies to American prisoners of war and internees in Formosa, Hong Kong, French Indo China, Malaya, Burma, Thailand, Java, Sumatra and Borneo.

There are prisoner-of-war doctors at each camp, and some Red Cross supplies are reaching the captives, most of whom are British, captured in Java and Singapore. There was no indication of the number of Americans among them.

IRISH CHILDREN AIDING SMUGGLERS

London, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Children are being used by smugglers transporting contraband between Eire and Northern Ireland and the "strongest possible measures practicable" are under way to deal with the traffic, Sir John Anderson, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons today.

Bulgars Execute Prince Cyril

London, Feb. 2 (AP)—Prince Cyril, brother of the late King Boris of Bulgaria, was executed last night along with former Premier Bogdan Philov and Lieut. Gen. Nikola Mikhov, the Ankara radio reported today. All three were former regents.

About 50,000 Bulgarians demonstrated in the streets of Sofia shouting "death to the Fascists, death to the murderers of our people," while the executions took place, the radio report said.

Previously the Sofia radio, as heard by FCC, had announced that death sentences for treason had been imposed on the three former regents, 22 cabinet ministers, nine King's counselors and 66 former members of parliament by the Bulgarian People's Court.

An additional 49 deputies were sentenced to prison, 23 for life terms, the broadcast said. The court also has ordered confiscation of the property of all those sentenced.

Four soldiers who pleaded guilty today of having wrongfully disposed of Army supplies were officially identified as Sgt. Stephen E. Roberts of Concord, N. H., sentenced to eight years; Pvt. Oscar J. Dumbarton Oaks Plan Advances

Paris, Feb. 2 (A. P.). — The Dumbarton Oaks plan was today approved by the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French Consultative Assembly as an "imperfect" step toward world security. The committee urged greater limitation on national sovereignties.

French Oppose 4-Power Rule Of Rhine, See Control Dispersed

PARIS, Feb. 2 (AP).—France woudd be opposed to any four-power control of the Rhineland, a semi-official government spokesman said tonight, on the grounds that a dispersed authority is a weak authority.

The suggested four-power control—reportedly on the agenda for the Big Three meeting—recalls only too clearly the Treaty of Versailles, the spokesman said, whereas "experience has shown that dispersion of authority does not permit elaboration or application of a coherent policy. The demands of Premier Clemenceau and Marshal Foch have been justified by the errors committed between the two world wars and no one in France wishes a repetition of such errors, from which Germany alone profits."

General de Gaulle recently said he was not opposed to international control of the Rhineland and Ruhr but stated he wanted French troops along the length of the Rhine. The government's position on this question, the spokesman continued, is that "these territories are a part of France's security system . . . like strategic bases . . . Certainly, France would never think of opposing internation control of these territories but de Gaulle has made it clear that it is necessary for France to play a predominant role."

The spokesman added, "if, in the future, differences of opinion arise among the Allies concerning

BELGIUM FACES FOOD, FUEL CRISIS

BRUSSELS, Feb. 2—(AP) A parliamentary test of Premier Hubert Pierlot's government is shaping up against a background of discontent over Belgian food and fuel shortages.

Pierlot plans to go before Parliament and fight a Socialist move to overthrow the regime and he expects support even from Socialist colleagues in his cabinet, he told a press conference tonight.

The whole question of government policy is expected to be debated in the house of representatives next Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The government as a whole will answer and defend that policy," the premier said.

Asked specifically whether he expected the five Socialist ministers to join in the defense, he said "certainly." The Socialists offered their resignations under party orders at an extraordinary cabinet meeting last night, but agreed today to remain in office until Tuesday.

"The present difficulties are purely a national problem, not relating to the war effort as such," Pierlot said in a statement. "The principal cause of these difficulties is the shortage of food and coal."

Pierlot said Belgium, which imported 2,500,000 tons of coal monthly before the war and "imported even 350,000 tons monthly during the German occupation," had re-

Berlin Bombed Twice; Nazi Rail Centers Hit

London, Feb. 2 (AP)—Berlin was bombed twice before dawn today after RAF night attacks in which the major rail centers of Mainz, Ludwigshafen and Siegen were attacked heavily to disrupt German movements from the Western to Eastern front.

Thick weather over parts of the Reich slowed the aerial attacks. In the last day and a half, 3,200 planes have hammered the overburdened German rail system. A dozen bombers and four fighters were lost.

Ludwigshafen and Mainz are on the Rhine; Siegen is 47 miles southeast of Cologne.

The United States 9th Air Force attacked a Rhine bridge near Coblenz and another over the Moselle 27 miles to the southwest. Six barges on the Rhine were destroyed.

U-Boat Attacks Expected

London Hears Foe Is Ready to Send 200 to Attack Convoys

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP).—Information received from neutral and underground sources indicates that the Germans are ready to send 200 U-boats out into the sea lanes for a large scale attack on convoys en route to France and Russia, "The Daily Telegraph" said today.

Estimates have been made in Stockholm, the newspaper said, that the German Navy has a total of 400 serviceable submarines and is building new ones at the rate of twenty monthly. A report from the Norwegian underground said many were based at Bergen and Trondheim.

The new submarines, many of them long-range 1,500-tonners, were said to be fitted with a number of new devices.

15 FRENCH CIVILIANS HELD IN ARMY THEFTS

PARIS, Feb. 2 (AP)—Court-martial witnesses described details of black-market plundering of Army supply lines today while fifteen French civilians—mostly railway workers—were jailed on charges of having looted United States Army stores near the Maubeuge railway station.

Police said the civilians, who will be tried by French military tribunals, had thousands of packs of cigarettes and large quantities of butter, chocolate and canned goods from Army stores when they were arrested.

Sgt. John Tielemans of 65-05 Central Avenue, Glendale, Queens, said in a signed confession that he netted $1,525 on one occasion and ceived only about 90,000 tons from outside mines in the five months of liberation.

After the legislative debate, a call for a vote of confidence or no confidence is likely.

Under the present makeup of the chamber, there is uncertainty whether another right-wing government could be formed. The Communists would vote with the Socialists, who brought on the crisis by directing the Socialist ministers to resign. The Socialists also can count on some support from liberals and Catholics, among the latter a strong left-wing group known as the Christian democrats.

The official register lists 64 Socialists, 73 Catholics (of whom 20 are Christian Democrats), 33 Liberals, nine Communists, four Rexists, 17 Flemish nationalists (of whom none are now sitting), and two without party affiliations.

PIERLOT TO LOSE FIVE SOCIALISTS

Moore

Brussels, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—All five Socialist members of the Pierlot Government offered their resignations last night but agreed today to stay in the Cabinet until Tuesday, when the question of continuance of the Government may be decided.

Before it was announced that the five Socialists had agreed to stay in office for the time being it was said that there was a possibility that as many as five other Ministers also would resign.

Two of the latter five have been under heavy criticism—Maurice Verbaet, Minister of Justice, and Jules Delruelle, Minister of Economic Affairs.

Verbaet has come under fire particularly in connection with the Justice Department's prosecution of collaborators. His opponents have accused him of going after the small fry while largely ignoring the more important figures.

Delruelle has been unpopular because it has been next to impossible for householders to obtain coal through legal channels at legal prices although fuel is available in the black market.

PATROLS ACTIVE ON ITALIAN FRONT

Norgaard

ROME, Feb. 2.—(AP) American Fifth army patrols feeling out German positions in the mountains south of Bologna are encountering furious enemy artillery and small arms fire, while long-range enemy guns are blasting at the principal supply highway between Bologna and Florence, Allied headquarters announced today.

Except for numerous patrol clashes and the unending artillery exchanges, however, the cold and muddy front was reported quiet.

The U. S. 12th and 15th Air Forces struck enemy refineries and communications in Austria. The 12th Air Force Thunderbolts penetrated further into German-held territory than ever before yesterday to bomb and strafe locomotives and rail cars between Villach and Klagenfurt in Austria.

Heavy bombers of the 15th Air Force pounded the Moosbierbaum oil refinery 22 miles northwest of Vienna and attacked rail yards at Graz and Klagenfurt. Some 50 German fighters were seen, but they did not attack.

RAF planes of the Balkan air force raided enemy communications and oil storage targets in Yugoslavia.

ITALIAN FRONT QUIET

Rome, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Activity dwindled nearly to an all-time low along the entire Italian front today with only minor patrol actions reported by both the Fifth and Eighth armies.

Along the Eighth Army's Senio River line in northeastern Italy there were a few grenade-tossing duels, and casualties were inflicted on one German group a mile northwest of Tossignano.

Improved weather enabled the Allied Air Force to step up its aerial operations yesterday. For the second straight day heavy bombers of the United States Fifteenth Air Force hammered the Moosbierbaun oil refinery twenty - two miles northwest of Vienna. Liberators also bombed Austrian railyards at Graz and Klagenfurt. About fifty German planes were seen, but none launched attacks.

U.S. Editors In Italy To Study Press

Rome, Feb. 2 (AP)—A committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors arrived here today to study the condition of press freedom in liberated Italy.

The committee, Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune; Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia School of Journalism, and Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, is on an assignment abroad to investigate prospects for freedom of the press in the postwar world.

Elba Put Under AMG

Rome, Feb. 2 (AP)—Elba was under Allied Military Government today, with Major Harold V. Reilly, of West Englewood, N.J., assigned as civil affairs officer. The island had been administered by French military authorities since the landings last May. Experts are surveying Elba's iron mines, extensively damaged by the Germans.

Major Hendrickson Promoted

ROME, Feb. 2 (AP)—Promotion of Maj. Robert C. Hendrickson of Woodbury, N. J., to lieutenant colonel has been announced here. Serving as chief legal officer for the Allied Military Government in Rome and near-by communities, he is on military leave as Treasurer of the State of New Jersey.

War Court Sentences Two ELAS to Die

Athens, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Two members of the ELAS were sentenced to death today by a military court which convicted them of murder and violence in the Greek civil war and of taking up arms against Greeks and their allies. Fourteen other members of the left-wing army face similar charges.

German Warships Flee Baltic Ports

STOCKHOM, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—More than 20 Baltic flet units of the German navy, including torpedo boats, 10 speedboats and unidentified larger ships, have arrived at Copenhagen's naval dockyard from Baltic ports threatened by the Russians, the Free Danish Press Service said today.

Naval recruits, mostly under 18, are being trained at the Copenhagen Naval Yard, which has been evacuated by the Danes for German use, the agency said.

R. A. F. SETS FIRES AS BERLIN RUSHES PLANS FOR SIEGE

Stockholm, Feb. 2 (A. P.—British Mosquito planes kindled huge fires in Berlin in a double attack before dawn today as the capital prepared for a long siege.

The Berlin correspondent of Aftonbladet gave this description of the city, which he said the Nazis were converting rapidly into a fortress:

"Policemen with steel helmets and rifles were standing guard in outskirts of Berlin. Columns of troops, tanks and armored cars rolled constantly through the city of 4,300,000, while more and more Berliners were commanded to join volksturm units near the capital.

"Key positions along the wide superhighways and other roads leading into Berlin were being manned and fortified."

The Tidningen correspondent said that the Portuguese legation and two other diplomatic missions had left Berlin because their countries did not maintain relations with Russia.

Moscow Guns Light Sky With Victory Salutes

Radio Tells of Red Gains, Shouting People Run Out Into Snow to Celebrate

Gilmore

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP).—Moscow's nightly salutes to Russia's conquering army should be to any American boy just one great delight after another—fireworks, flares and firecrackers.

The colorful salutes bring people racing and yelling from their houses to see the lights are above this old city, made more beautiful at this time of year by deep snow.

As the Red Army pushes farther into Germany; the salutes now hail the capture of Nazi cities. But they are just the same as those which have been fired ever since the Reds' summer offensive of 1943 began liberating Russian towns.

Announcement Coming

The Moscow radio at twenty minutes before the hour shuts off its musical program abruptly and the announced says: "Comrades—there will be an important annoucement" at such and such a time, usually five minutes later.

Then the radio begins a slow ringing of bells, beating out in single notes the first bars of the song "Sheroka Strana Nasha Rodnaya" (Spacious Is Our Country).

At fifteen minutes before the hour the announcer—always a man—says: "Comrades—An order from the supreme commander to the commander of" such and such a front. Then he gives the name of the front commander and tells which city or cities he has captured or how far he has broken through enemy lines. He names the officers from marshals down, sometimes through majors, who distinguished themselves in the operations.

"Eternal glory to our heroes who fell in these battles for the freedom and independence of our motherland—death to the German invaders," the announcer says very solemnly, then with a pause: "The Supreme Commander in Chief, Marshal of the Soviet Union, Stalin."

Gun Blasts Light Sky

This is repeated two more times, then the Soviet hymn is played. Its last notes timed to end just at the hour. The next sound is the Kremlin clock striking, followed immediately by the roar of the city's anti-aircraft guns firing from all around Moscow, lighting the skies with a red glare.

While the announcer has been speaking, hundreds of volunteer rocket shooters have been climbing to Moscow rooftops with their pistols' Very-lights loaded with five different colors—red, green, blue, yellow and purple charges.

These groups fire lights into the air after every shot from the guns, which, of course, are firing blanks.

The volleys are strong enough to shake windows and rattle doors far from the nearest gun.

Stalingrad Much Restored 2 Years After Nazi Defeat

Tractor Plant Turns Out 500th Vehicle Since Its Reopening

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP).—The second anniversary of the Russian triumph at Stalingrad finds that war-ravaged industrial city on the Volga River greatly restored today.

The Stalin tractor plant, in which some of the bloodiest fighting of the war took place, turned out the 500th tractor since its restoration, dispatches to the Russian press said.

Alexander Chuianov, secretary of the Stalingrad Communist party committee, gave figures on the city's recovery. He said 12,000 new houses and nineteen new apartment houses have been built; nine hospitals and fifty-two schools are operating in new buildings; 192 stores and 173 restaurants are serving 245,000 persons; and thirteen miles of streetcar lines, fifteen miles of water lines and sixteen miles of sewer have been restored. Twelve newspapers are being published. The housing shortage is still acute, however.

The big steel plant, Red October, is being restored, and many boats have been raised from the bottom of the Volga.

Russian-Finnish Agreement

Finland Will Receive Food in Exchange for War Materials

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP).—Soviet Russia and Finland signed an agreement today, effective immediately, under the terms of which Finland will receive food in exchange for war materials.

Between now and June 1, the Russians will send to Finland 30,000 tons of grain, 1,000 tons of sugar and 300 tons of sweets, it was announced. The Finns will send Russia raw materials such as nickel and cobalt, and have agreed to repair Soviet warships at Finnish docks.

NEW LANDING MADE ON BURMA COAST

KANDY, Ceylon, Feb. 2 — (AP) Troops of the 15th Indian corps have made new and unopposed landings off the Burma coast on the small island of Sagu Kyun about 110 miles southeast of Akyab and troops of the Fourteenth army have made more progress in the drive toward Sagaing, just west of Mandalay, the Southeast Asia command announced today.

The 11th East African division moved forward in the angle of the Irrawaddy river toward Sagaing, capturing Letkapin. Ywathitgyi on the northern bank also was penetrated, but the Japanese are resisting stubbornly there.

The Japanese east of the original landings at Akyab still were attempting to regain control of their escape road to the south from Myohaung and Ninbya. All the attacks were repulsed, the communique said.

Aircraft of the Eastern Air command aided the defense of Kangaw by bombing and strafing Japanese positions. Road, rail and river traffic and the runways of three airfields in central Burma also were attacked.

British In New Landing Off Burma

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 2 (AP)—Troops of the 15th Indian Corps have made an unopposed landing on the small island of Sagu Kyun off the west Burma coast southeast of Akyab, Allied headquarters announced today.

Sagu Kyun is off the southernmost tip of Ramree Island, about 120 miles south of Akyab. British forces recently made an unopposed landing on the north end of Ramree.

New Attacks At Kangaw

Meanwhile, the Japanese have launched new counterattacks inland at Kangaw in an effort to regain control of an escape corridor southward from Myohaung and Minbya, an Allied communiqué said.

Farther north, troops of the 11th East African Division and the Lushai Brigade made further advances in the Gangaw Valley south of Tilin.

Counterattacks on the Allied southern bridgehead east of the Irrawaddy River, where the enemy is making a last-ditch stand before Mandalay, were repulsed.

JAPANESE FORCES ENTER SUICHWAN

Moose

CHUNGKING, Feb. 2 — (AP) Reinforced Japanese troops have fought into the suburbs of Suichwan, site of a key U. S. 14th airforce base which American forces had to destroy and abandon, the Chinese High command said tonight.

The Japanese have poured heavy reinforcements into their drive against Allied airbases east of Japan's corridor between China and Indo-China, and the High command described the battle in Suichwan as raging with "increased ferocity."

Abandonment of the 14th airforce base at Suichwan Jan. 24 was announced by American headquarters today.

Japanese troops northward along the Canton-Hankow railroad pressed north past Kukong, fallen provisional capital of Kwangtung 125 miles north of Canton.

The Chinese High command claimed to have repelled Japanese driving southeastward from Chaling, 150 miles north of Kukong and said Chinese forces were "pressing on Chaling" with the help of reinforcements.

Denying Japanese claims to full control of the 685-mile Canton-Hankow railroad, a Chinese army spokesman said fighting still was in progress at several points between Kukong and Chenhsien, which is 75 miles north of Kukong.

Fighting was reported continuing between Hongkong and Swatow in the coastal area which the Japanese are attempting to seal against possible American invasion.

Yanks Destroy Own Base At Suichwan

Chungking, Feb. 2 (AP)—The United States 14th Air Force base at Suichwan, east of Japan's China-Indo-China corridor, has been destroyed and abandoned, American headquarters announced today.

The base was east of the Japanese "corridor of occupation" and southwest of Hengyang, the communiqué announced. It was destroyed January 24. Suichwan is in western Kiangsi, roughly midway between Hankow and Hong Kong.

Denies Japs Control Railroad

The new Chinese Army spokesman, Maj. Gen. Kung Chi Kuang, denied that the Japanese, as claimed, have gained full control of the 685-mile Canton-Hankow railroad. He said fighting still was in progress at several points between Kukong, 125 miles north of Canton, and Chenhsien, 80 south of Hengyang.

Fighting also continued on the coastal region between Hong Kong and Swatow, he said.

Jap H.Q. Strafed

The American communiqué said Japanese divisional headquarters south of Nanning were strafed yesterday and that near-by river shipping was damaged heavily. Weather closed down most air operations in China.

A Japanese freighter driven aground by United States naval forces 79 miles south of Touraine, in French Indo-China, was destroyed. Another ocean-going vessel steaming along the coast was damaged, the bulletin added.

AMERICAN PLANES HAMMER IWO JIMA

Set Large Fires in Aircraft Installations, Nimitz Reports.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, FORWARD AREA, Saturday, Feb. 3—(AP) Army Liberators bombed Iwo Jima in the Volcano islands 750 miles south of Japan Wednesday and Thursday, setting large fires in aircraft installations, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Iwo, from which Japanese aircraft have hit the Tokyo-raiding Superfort base at Saipan, has been on an almost daily bombing schedule.

Rocket-firing Mitchell medium bombers flown by Marine pilots have damaged 12 ships and probably destroyed one other in nightly harassing attacks on Japanese shipping around the Volcano and Bonin islands since Dec. 6, Nimitz disclosed.

Marine fighters bombed harbor installations at Yap in the Western Carolines and targets in the Palau group both Wednesday and Thursday.

GUAM GARRISON JEERS POLYGAMY

Guam, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—The story of San Francisco's marrying conductor has reached the service men in this forward area. They were touched, in fact, so deeply touched that they've organized a "Down With Ding-Dong-Daddy Club."

Corporal Kani Evans, formerly of Honolulu, now of the Army, broadcast the story of the muchly married Francis van Wie of San Francisco several days ago over the American expeditionary radio here. Immediately a limerick contest sprang up complete with prizes.

Two Marine Corps sergeants report with smiling pride the formation of a new club. They maintain earnestly that it's "downright unpatriotic of a guy to have eight or eleven women when we haven't any out here—and his are white, too!"

Canberra, Australia, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Gavin Casey, Australian author, has been appointed to succeed David Bailey as director of the Australian News Information Bureau.

Australia Meat Ration Cut

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 2 (AP).—Prime Minister John Curtin announced today a reduced civilian meat ration scale beginning Feb. 26 because of a decline in production as a result of a long drought.

ARGENTINA MAY TAKE UTILITIES

Buenos Aires, Feb. 2 A. P.).—The dissolution of virtually all the Argentine subsidiaries of American & Foreign Power Company was recommended today in a report of a commission investigating utility company concessions in Argentina.

The recommendation, which is aimed at the eventual nationalization of the American-owned companies, would strike at the second largest American financial interest in Argentina.

(American & Foreign Power is controlled by Electric Bond & Share Corporation.)

Five power distribution companies controlled by the American group are included in the commission's recommendation. They are the North Argentine, South Argentine, East Argentine, Central Argentine and Andes Electric companies.

The investigating commission charged the American & Foreign Power companies with various violations of Argentine commercial law, accused them of monopolistic practices and said their international organization enabled them to elude the surveillance of the Argentine Government.

CANADIAN TROOPS ARE CHARGED WITH DISCARDING ARMS

Montgomery

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Feb. 2—(AP) A charge that drafted Canadian troops enroute to Europe threw their rifles and ammunition overboard, injected into this community's by-election, brought a statement today from Defense Minister Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton that one such incident was rumored but never confirmed.

Jack Bracken, national leader of the opposition Progressive Conservative party, made the charge at a political rally last night at nearby Meaford and called on McNaughton to tell "the whole sordid story."

McNaughton, who is campaigning for a seat in the House of Commons from this constituency, said today that there had been rumors that one draftee had pitched his rifle and kit into the sea but there was no confirmation that the incident ever occurred.

Opponents of the Government have decided to use this by-election for an attack on the Government, concentrating on the conscription issue.

Bracken departed from his prepared text to bring up the charge, which, coupled with widespread cases of draftees failing to return from holiday leaves, served to point up in this campaign Canada's traditional opposition to conscription for overseas duty.

"Let him tell you what happened," Bracken declared. "Let him tell you the whole sordid story. Let him tell you what happened on troop ships carrying draftees overseas. Let him tell you why some of these men arrived in Britain without rifles."

Bracken challenged the defense minister to show "that a single reinforcement demand from Canadian military headquarters at London to the Department of National defense since he became minister has been met to the extent requested."

A statement issued by McNaughton's staff asserted that inquiries concerning the movement of troops overseas were made in London, that full reports had been received on embarkation, and "the discipline at the ports in this country and on the ships had been satisfactory and the men had made a very good impression on arrival."

The statement asserted that these were serious charges and Bracken would be given every chance to substantiate such a "careless utterance."

All Canada was watching closely this election, in which Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King's wartime government — severely shaken in recent months by the conscription issue — will be assessed by the voters of this constituency Monday.

It will be the first public test of King's compromise conscription policy, under which limited numbers of troops drafted for home service only, are being sent abroad as infantry reinforcements.

The policy pleases neither French Canada, comprising almost one-third of the Dominion and traditionally opposed to the draft for duty abroad, nor a large section of the rest of the country favoring all-out conscription.

The question of non-conscription is not an issue in this constituency, but the government's compromise policy definitely is, and one of the bitterest campaigns in years revolves about it.

It is a three-way race involving the Socialistic Cooperative commonwealth federation, known as the CCF, and the two old-line parties, the liberals of Prime Minister King and the Progressive Conservatives.

Dahl Acquitted Of 10 Charges

MONTREAL, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Squadron Leader Harold (Whitey) Dahl, famous war flier, has been acquitted of 10 of 14 charges of selling Canadian Government property to a Brazilian junk dealer without proper authorization.

Simultaneously with announcement of this verdict by a Royal Canadian Air Force court-martial, it was disclosed that findings in the remaining four cases would go to the Canadian Judge Advocate General in Ottawa for final decision.

Single B-29 Raids Honshu, Japs Report

San Francisco, Feb. 2 (AP)—A single B-29 Superfortress dropped bombs today in the Osaka area of the main Japanese island of Honshu, the Tokyo radio reported, but claimed there was no damage.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said another Superfortress flew reconnaissance over Japanese occupied Korea for two hours.

A lone B-29 penetrated Aichi prefecture on the east coast of Honshu about 7 P.M., February 1, dropping bombs, the Japs said. Five hours later another B-29 flew over Aichi, Nagano and Shizuoka prefectures but did not bomb.

Jap Paper Admits Damage By B-29's

San Francisco, Feb. 2 (AP)—Asahi, one of Japan's leading newspapers, today said B-29 bombings "have caused damage to some parts of our city."

The paper appealed to Japanese scientists to discover a "sure-hit weapon to defend the sacred soil of the homeland," according to a Domei agency broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

The air raids, the paper continued, "provided a golden lesson for the citizens of the city, who were prone to become careless of the raids, despite their frequency."

Sweden As Go-Between

San Francisco, Feb. 2—(AP)—Sweden will represent Japanese interests in Turkey, Iran and Irak because of the rupture of relations between Japan and Turkey, the Japanese Domei news agency said today in a broadcast from Tokyo, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

YANK CASUALTIES MOUNT TO 737,342

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP) American battle casualties have zoomed to 737,342 since Pearl Harbor, rapidly nearing the toll of the Civil war, heretofore the nation's costliest conflict.

The great bulk of dead, wounded, missing or captured by the enemy was reported by the Army. Announcement also was made that 5,100,000 of the 8,100,000 in the Army now are abroad.

Acting Secretary of War Patterson told his new conference that Army casualties, including those during most of the fighting in December, have reached 650,420. The Navy reported 86,922.

The figures included an aggregate of 154,565 killed, some 13,000 short of the number of Confederate and Union soldiers who died in battle during the war between the states. Including deaths from disease and other causes, total casualties of both sides have been estimated at anywhere from 800,000 to 1,000,000 in that conflict.

Disclosure that the Army troops remaining at home had dwindled to 3,000,000 came with Patterson's report that the Army had reached the bottom of the barrel in drawing urgently needed infantry replacements from the divisions in the United States.

Patterson said that the domestic units had been tapped for 500,000 replacements and 100,000 men overseas are being shifted every month from non-combatant units to the infantry.

The 500,000 included, among others, 50,000 culled from the Army specialized training program; 80,000 shifted from the air and service forces and 90,000 who had volunteered to transfer into the infantry from other branches.

Of the troops now in this country, the Army reported, 1,000,000 are being trained as infantry replacements for overseas units; 1,000,000 are in training with tactical units which also will be sent overseas and 1,000,000 are in so-called housekeeping units composed of limited servicemen and those who have returned from overseas.

The armed forces listed this breakdown of the casualties:

Army—killed 121,676; wounded 379,638; missing 91,573; prisoners 57,533.

Navy—killed 32,889; wounded 39,807; missing 9,750; prisoners 4,476.

Patterson said 186,000 wounded men have recovered and been returned to duty.

10 MORE SHIPS SUNK BY U. S. SUBMARINES

Toll of Japanese Craft Since Pearl Harbor Now 989—1944 Record Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—The silent arm of the United States Fleet—the submarines—has racked up another ten Japanese ship sinkings in the Pacific.

The Navy announced today the new list included two medium cargo transports, two medium tankers [Japan's sorely needed category], three small cargo vessels, a large transport, a medium transport and a small tanker.

The total since Pearl Harbor now is 989, which includes 104 combat ships. This year alone American submarines have sunk sixty-five ships of all types.

Thirty-six of the now big fleet of submarines have been lost. The Navy also announced today that more Japanese vessels had been sunk or damaged in the Pacific since the first battle of the Philippines on June 19, 1944, than in the two and a half years of war before that date.

The Navy said 911 enemy ships had been sunk since June 19, against 871 prior to that date. With an additional 104 probables and 710 damaged since June 19, the Navy's toll has averaged more than fifty vessels a week sunk or damaged.

The 911 sunk since June 19 included 152 combatant and 759 non-combatant ships. The 871 claimed prior to that date included 152 combatant and 719 non-combatant vessels.

Meanwhile, a naval spokesman disclosed today that the latest data on the second battle of the Philippines in late October showed twenty-three enemy combatant ships definitely sunk and possibly twenty-five.

That battle, he said, reduced the Japanese fleet to the size of a task force. Everything the Japanese have left, he said, "couldn't touch Admiral [William F.] Halsey's task force."

"The time is coming," he said, "when the Japs will have to come out or we will hunt them down and sink them in the harbor. "And," he added, "it isn't far off."

Sub Growler Lost in Pacific

30.24-22631

She Was Saved Once by Heroic Skipper Who Signaled 'Take Her Down!'

Washington, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—If words are written by the unseen hands that guide the destiny of ships, then the end of the U. S. S. Growler's fighting life must have been signaled by these: "Take her down!"

For it was these that made the gallant submarine most famous despite a battling career against the Japanese Navy.

Yesterday the Navy announced the Growler overdue and presumed to be lost. She had last been skippered by Commander Thomas B. Oakley Jr., of Los Angeles and had a personnel complement of about sixty-five officers and men.

It was a routine communique and followed the announcement that three other vessels had been lost by enemy action. These were the minesweeper Palmer, commanded by Lieut. William E. McGuirk of Bellport, L. I., and the Hovey, commanded by Lieut. Ben N. Cole of Charlotte, N. C., and the LST 749, whose skipper was not immediately named.

Of the two minesweepers, it was known immediately only that the commanders were saved. Of the Growler's personnel, the Navy disclosed nothing.

Part of Navy Legend.

Casualties among the Growler's complement once had numbered Commaander Howard S. Gilmore, who won laurels for the sub and died so that Commander Oakley and their men and the Growler could win some more. She did, but it was her feats in the spring of 1943 that made her and Commander Gilmore a part of the Navy legend. It was on the South Pacific and it was night. The Growler, as always, was bedevilling the enemy and that night she had sunk one Japanese merchantman and seriously damaged another.

In the darkness, an enemy gunboat spotted the surfaced sub and attempted to ram her. But Commander Gilmore guided his ship out of the path, rammed the attacker instead, and burst wide her plates.

Bullets Struck Deck.

Then, from the gunboat came the chatter and blast of gunfire and the Growler's men above decks were the targets. Commander Gilmore ordered them below, prepared to follow. But suddenly, a burst of bullets struck him to the deck, out of reach of the men and out of reach of the hatch.

The sub was in imminent peril of being sunk by the gunboat. The men moved to come after their skipper but he stopped them with the only order that could have saved the Growler and the crew.

"Take her down!" he commanded, and the Growler dived, carrying the wounded commander to his death.

10 More Jap Ships Sunk.

United State submarines have sunk ten more enemy vessels in Far Eastern waters.

The Navy, announcing this today, said that the toll included two medium cargo transports, two medium tankers, three small cargo vessels, a large transport, a medium transport and a small tanker.

The announcement raised to 989 the total of Japanese ships sunk by submarines, including 104 combatant and 885 non-combatant ships.

Submarine sinkings announced since the first of this year have totaled sixty-five ships, including e combatant vessels, a cruiser, destroyer and three escort craft.

United States submarines lost from all causes since the start of the war have totaled thirty-six.

ALLIES TO LAUNCH OFFENSIVE IN WEST

Washington, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Acting Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson said today that the Germans have yet to feel the full weight of another all-out offensive on the western front. He told his news conference that the Nazis will naturally fight desperately to prevent a wide-open breach in the West Wall but that the Allies would give them no respite.

"Terrain and fortifications in that area in addition to the weather, pose difficulties for us," he said.

Discussing the Russian advance in the East, he said that there is doubt that the Germans will be able to make a stand along the Oder, but that "no doubt the Hitler gangsters would like to fight to the last German."

AMERICA INTENDS TO HELP FRANCE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2—(AP) The United States intends to share whatever it can with France, acting Secretary of State Grew declared today, but the larger needs of the French "cannot be met until Nazi Germany has been defeated."

FEB 3 1945

Military requirements to beat the Germans come first, Grew said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Foreign Policy association.

France's geographical position as the major supply line for the battle of Germany in the west makes it necessary "to balance the needs of the civilian population of France against the needs of the battle line flung around the world," the diplomat pointed out.

Grew reviewed the steps already taken to aid the French:

1—"Well over 100 warships" have been turned over to France by the United States. In addition the battleship Richelieu, several cruisers and submarines and more than 20 other French war vessels have been overhauled in American navy yards.

2—Eight full divisions and about 300 supporting units of the French army have been equipped at a cost of $700,000,000 up to December 31, 1944. "Substantial numbers" of Army planes have been delivered and the United States has agreed to equip eight more French divisions.

3—The U. S. army has started procurement of $1,000,000,000 worth of military supplies to be produced in France this year. Raw materials are to be shipped there for this program. The contracts include 52,600,000 American uniforms, 200,000,000 board feet lumber, $10,000,000 worth of X-ray film and up to $200,000 heavy duty tires. A portion of these orders are to be released for use by the French.

4—Twenty-six ships with a total capacity of 182,000 tons are scheduled to carry civilian goods to France during the first quarter of this year. Furthermore, some French ships have been turned back to France by the War shipping administration and "an undetermined number of Liberty ships will be manned by French crews under their own flag as part of the United Nations shipping pool.

JANUARY WAR COST IS $7,550,975,695

Washington, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—Government war spending in January was $7,550,975,695, the highest since last August. The record is about $7,879,000,000, in May, 1944.

Today's daily Treasury statement, for January 31, showed that war spending in the first seven months of the fiscal year 1945 was at a rate above the budget estimate for the year.

The exact figure, July 1 through January 31, was $51,702,801,549. or an average of about $7,386,000,000 a month. If the same rate continues through the last five months of the fiscal year, the total would be $88,632,000,000. The budget estimate is $88,000,000,000.

Army Reassigns 10,000 Monthly

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Army reported today that physically fit men previously assigned to noncombatant duties overseas are being converted to infantry at the rate of 10,000 men a month.

Acting Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson also disclosed, at a news conference, that about 500,000 men from army installations in this country have been reassigned and are in the process of going overseas as infantry replacements.

50,000 From ASTP

These men include, he said, 50,000 trainees from the Army Specialized Training Program who were assigned to army ground forces, mainly for infantry; 90,000 men in other branches who volunteered for infantry and parachute organizations, and 80,000 transferred by direct order from army service forces and army air forces to the infantry.

In connection with the transfer from service and air forces, Patterson said that "one of the features of this program was conversion of 57 battalions of anti-aircraft artillery to infantry."

Patterson said the first step to provide replacements was to draw from divisions in training in this country for overseas requirements.

Divisions In U. S. Drop

This process, however, cannot be continued indefinitely, he said, adding that "today the number of divisions remaining in the United States has so decreased that this source of replacements cannot be utilized."

After the news conference it was explained by the War Department that the approximately 3,000,000 troops now in the United States are assigned as follows:

One million in training for replacement overseas.

One million in training as tactical units, also destined for overseas.

One million in housekeeping units, composed of men who are either overseas veterans or in limited service.

This indicates that the remaining 5,000,000 men in the Army are at overseas stations.

EISENHOWER URGES GREATER OUTPUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — (AP) General Dwight D. Eisenhower, declaring we have a "general superiority" in weapons and ammunition over the enemy in Europe, said today "what we need is more of both, as well as men, to finsh the job."

The General made his statements in a letter from his headquarters in the European theater to Major General Levin H. Campbell, Jr., Army chief of ordnance.

The text of the letter dated January 18 and given to the Associated Press by General Campbell, is as follows:

"Battlefield reports from every front in the European theater of operations continue to tell of the splendid quality of our weapons and ammunition. What we need is more of both, as well as men, to finish the job.

"Last Summer, the enemy was defeated in Normandy by our firepower and the teamwork of our splendid soldiers at their rifles, mortars, machine guns, artillery, in their tanks and tank destroyers. The enemy then retreated five hundred miles, leaving behind much equipment in order to reach temporary security in his fixed defenses.

"The mobility of our ordnance enabled us to exploit our first successes in the drive across France, into Belgium, and Germany. Moreover, throughout the war there has been a noticeable and steady improvement in the quality of many of our weapons and equipment. Such improvement is mandatory always; the alternative is stagnation and eventual disaster.

"The effectiveness of our ordnance is partly due to simplicity in design and partly to the range of U. S. equipment which provides a weapon for every target. The enemy's battle losses have been far greater than ours. In pieces of artillery, the enemy has lost eight to our one. We have knocked out twice as many tanks as we have lost.

"We have a general superiority in quality and quantity of our ordnance, a superiority that must always be maintained.

U.S. Armament Called Better Than German's

Ordnance Chief Releases Letter From Eisenhower as Answer to Critics

FEB 3 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP). — Answering criticism of American armament, Major General Lewin H. Campbell, Army Ordnance Chief, today quoted General Dwight D. Eisenhower as saying we have "general superiority" in armament over the European enemy.

He quoted from a letter from General Eisenhower and said it was the answer to "some critics who write alleging inferiority" of certain American armor compared with the Germans'.

Without naming the critics, but saying he was referring particularly to published reports that our tanks are not big enough to cope with the Nazis vaunted Royal Tiger and Panther tanks, both from the standpoint of armor and fire power, General Campbell said: "I could build a tank as big as the Pentagon if the generals in the field said they wanted one, but there is no evidence to date that they want or need tanks larger than those we now employ. Those men know what they want—they're good judges of horse flesh!"

New U. S. "Assault Tank"

At the same time, General Campbell disclosed that we now have in action a new "assault tank" which has double the armor or our thirty-five-ton General Sherman and is about five tons heavier.

Just returned from a tour of inspection of ordnance in the European and Mediterranean theaters—during which he said he interviewed all top-ranking generals and scores of enlisted men—General Campbell said he had their assurance that this could be said: "We need not only have no apology for any item of American ordnance in comparison with that of the enemy—but we're leading them all the way."

General Campbell said that only a limited number of the assault tanks had been produced, because that is all the field fighters requested. It's chiefly a special-purpose tank, he said, designed to knock out road blocks.

"You add armor," he said, "and you decrease speed and maneuverability. The testimony of Generals Patton, Hodges and all the rest is that we want to attack, we want to maneuver—we want to keep mobility."

Text of Eisenhower Letter

The text of the Eisenhower letter, dated Jan. 18 and given to The Associated Press by General Campbell, follows:

Headquarters European Theater, United States Army, office of the commanding general.

"Dear General Campbell:

"Battlefield reports from every front in the European theater of operations continue to tell of the splendid quality of our weapons and ammunition. What we need is more of both, as well as men, to finish the job.

"Last summer the enemy was defeated in Normandy by our firepower and the teamwork of our splendid soldiers at their rifles, mortars, machine guns, artillery, in their tanks and tank destroyers. The enemy then retreated 500 miles, leaving behind much equipment in order to reach temporary security in his fixed defenses.

Mobility of Ordnance

"The mobility of our ordnance enabled us to exploit our first successes in the drive across France into Belgium and Germany. Moreover, throughout the war there has been a noticeable and steady improvement in the quality of many of our weapons and equipment. Such improvement is mandatory always; the alternative is stagnation and eventual disaster.

"The effectiveness of our ordnance is partly due to simplicity in design and partly to the range of United States equipment which provides a weapon for every target. The enemy's battle losses have been far greater than ours. In pieces of artillery the enemy has lost eight to our one. We have knocked out twice as many tanks as we have lost.

"We have a general superiority in quality and quantity of our ordnance, a superiority that must always be maintained. Sincerely,

"DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER,
"General of the Army, U. S. A."

HOUSE GOP OPENS DRIVE TO REDUCE FDR WAR POWERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—House Republicans launched a drive today to deprive President Roosevelt of all authority to assign any powers to Henry A. Wallace except those of a trimmed-down Commerce department.

Republican leader Martin, of Massachusetts, notified the House he would seek to amend the Senate's George bill to restrict the President's wartime power to reshuffle federal agencies. This would repeal a part of the war powers act.

"Unless we do that," Martin told newspapermen later, "the President could assign Wallace control over 25 or 30 Federal agencies not now under the Commerce department."

The bill offered by Senator George (D-Ga.) and passed by the Senate yesterday splits the Commerce department away from the vast lending agencies formerly administered by ousted Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones. To give the House time to act on this bill, the Senate has deferred action on Wallace's nomination to be Secretary of Commerce.

Martin, speaking of his proposed amendment, said:

"I want to take back the powers given the President in the War Powers act to reassign agencies as he sees fit, and return these powers to Congress. I also want an amendment to the George bill providing for complete audits of Federal agencies."

Martin immediately confronted a stiff fight on the issue. Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking committee declared: "I want to see the George bill passed just as it came from the Senate."

The House Banking committeemen indicated it would approve the bill overwhelmingly. The committee will vote on it Tuesday.

In the belief that the measure is virtually certain to become law, Washington began a game of speculating on big names in and out of government—trying to pick the man who will handle the RFC's billions and the other lending functions, in a new office of loan administrator.

These were most prominently mentioned:

Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director; Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to London; Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve board; and Henry J. Kaiser, shipbuilder who was active in the fight to give Wallace the lending as well as the Commerce post.

The President's choice will be subject to Senate confirmation.

SENATE COMMITTEE READIES MAY BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP) A limited national service bill materially different from the one the House passed was readied today by the Senate Military committee for a vote tomorrow.

Giving only lukewarm backing to any sort of coercive manpower controls, Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) called the measure "a morale builder" rather than a material aid to war production.

In three hours today, and without public hearings, the committee worked over the May bill passed yesterday by the House.

Under the major committee change James F. Byrnes' Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion would be given overall control of the manpower placement machinery. The House bill gives local draft boards the say whether a man stays on his present job or becomes subject to transfer to a war plant.

Under either plan, if a man between the ages of 18 and 45 left an essential job, or refused essential employment, he would be subject to immediate induction into the armed forces, or to imprisonment up to five years, or to a fine not exceeding $5,000.

The committee adopted a series of amendments, recommended by Byrnes' office and concurred in by the War and Navy departments and other divisions of government interested in manpower placement, which would centralize full authority in the War Mobilization office.

Byrnes would have the right, however, to designate any agency he chose to administer the act as it affects individual cases. Thomas indicated his belief that the War Manpower commission rather than Selective Service would get the assignment.

Discussing the bill with newspapermen, Thomas acknowledged that he has opposed compulsory work legislation in the past and is going along on the current endeavor only on the grounds that President Roosevelt and the general staff have asked for it.

He said the legislation might prove "a shot in the arm" for American fighting men.

BANKERS APPROVE BIG WORLD BANK

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—(AP) The American Bankers association put the stamp of approval today on the proposed $10-billion international bank for reconstruction, but turned thumbs down on its Bretton Woods twin, the International Monetary fund.

In its long-awaited report on the monetary program which grew out of the Bretton Woods conference of 44 nations last July, the A.B.A. objected to the monetary fund as a method of lending which is "novel and contrary to accepted credit principles," and which goes far beyond the standards "heretofore accepted by the United States in recognizing and approving changes in currency values and maintenance of exchange controls."

The proposed international bank, on the other hand, "embodies satisfactory principles and procedures," the report said, "and if we assume good management, the institution should be able to operate soundly and effectively."

The fund, as approved by the Bretton Woods conference, would be constituted at $8,800,000,000, to be contributed by the various nations on a quota basis. Its main purpose would be the lending of money to nations who might need it to maintain their balance of trade with other countries.

The international banks would be set up to grant loans, or to guarantee those of private investors, for reconstruction and development purposes when the element of risk precluded the use of private capital. Its eventual capital would be $10,000,000,000, but only 20 per cent of each nation's contribution would be in gold or currency.

The remainder being constituted as a guarantee fund callable as needed.

Although it condemned the monetary fund, the Bankers' report recognized a need for some form of currency stabilization program and recommended that the international bank be given the "responsibility" for arranging agreements, removal of exchange controls and general rules of procedure in carrying out monetary policies.

It also recommended that the lending powers of the bank be "broadened sufficiently to allow it to make loans under the same safeguards as the other loans of the bank for the purpose of aiding countries in stabilizing their currencies."

USE OF GAS FUEL CURTAILED BY WPB

Embargo Clamped on Amusement Places in Seven States, Capital.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 — (AP) Winter conditions and rail traffic snarls, already cutting into industry through coal shortages, combined today to cool gas-fired furnaces and force drastic curtailment of the use of that fuel.

The War Production board announced that some 200 vital war plants already have suffered cuts of 10 to 90 per cent in gas delivery. WPB ordered use of natural and "mixed" gas cut off completely in amusement places in seven states and Washington, D. C., at 7 p. m. Eastern War Time, tonight. It accompanied the order with a plea to householders, schools and institutions to conserve the fuel.

The order is effective until 7 p. m., Eastern War Time Monday or "until further notice."

Officials explained the ban this way:

Cold citizens with gas furnaces have turned them up

Gas ovens in coal-short homes have been turned on to take off the chill.

The result, combined with ever-mounting use of gas fuel in war industry has been dangerously lowered gas pressures in systems over a wide area.

The idea is to keep enough gas in the systems to prevent them from breaking down completely, and to keep gas going to essential war plants.

The order is not of itself a measure to save coal, which already is under close home delivery control in the affected area east and south of the Great Lakes. Therefore it does not apply to systems using artificial gas, made from coal. By and large, such systems have a fair supply of coal.

But wherever natural gas is used in the prohibition area, even mixed with artificial gas, such places as theaters, moving picture houses, night clubs, bars, bowling alleys and other amusement spots were ordered to turn off all jets for the weekend and perhaps until further notice.

Affected are New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, parts of Maryland and Virginia, and the District of Columbia.

Winter-wrought conditions led to two other government actions:

1. A civilian freight embargo, except on coal, was ordered for four days beginning tomorrow in eight states of the same general area, following up a similar order last weekend to help clear clogged and winter-bound rail lines.

2. The Solid Fuels administration requested Pennsylvania anthracite miners to work a full day tomorrow, even though under their contract the Saturday shift may not bring them overtime pay. Appalachian area soft coal miners already have agreed to work Sunday.

WARD APPEAL BASIS IS LAID

U. S. Charges Court Erred on 29 Points.

Chicago, Feb. 2 (A. P.).—The Government contended today that Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan had erred on twenty-nine points, twelve findings of fact and seventeen conclusions of law and judgment in dismissing its suits against Montgomery Ward & Company.

The twenty-nine points were listed by United States Attorney J. Albert Woll as ground for an appeal when he asked the Federal Court clerk yesterday to certify the entire record to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Sullivan ruled that President Roosevelt lacked either statutory or constitutional authority to order seizure of sixteen Ward properties in seven cities. The Army took possession December 28 after the mail order firm declined to comply with War Labor Board directives ordering, among other things, maintenance of union membership.

The twenty-nine points included statements that Judge Sullivan erred when he found the President's constitutional powers as commander in chief were purely military; in finding that none of the war plants were "located in an actual theater of military labor disputes by effectuating WLB directives constituted a threat "to the wartime structure of labor relations"; in concluding Ward's was not equipped for war production; and in concluding the seizure was not covered by the war labor disputes act.

Mr. Woll said the question of taking the case directly to the United States Supreme Court had not been decided.

Judge Sullivan handed down his opinion last Saturday on two suits filed by the Government against Wards. One asked an injunction restraining company officials from interfering with Army operations, and the other asked a declaratory judgment against the firm.

Film Extras Picket Major Studios

Hollywood, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Screen Players Union placed picket lines around major motion-picture studios today in a jurisdictional dispute with the Screen Actors Guild over extra players. A spokesman for the Guild said its members were going through the picket lines.

As the pickets patrolled in a drizzling rain, Michael Jeffers, S.P.U. business representative, said they were protesting against what he termed "the producers' flagrant certification by the National Labor Relations Board as the bargaining agent for extras."

Interim Plan Rejected

The producers last night rejected an interim agreement, proposed by the SPU, covering the hiring of extras for bit parts and stunts. The producers said they were awaiting determination of who has control of the bit part and stunt field—the independent SPU or the older Screen Actors Guild (AFL).

Extras chose the SPU as their bargaining agent in an NLRB election last December, but the SAG's "A-junior members," ostensibly bit players and stuntmen, have been getting extra work, Jeffers declared.

He said that, on the other hand, SPU extras haven't been getting any bit part or stunt work and that this is a violation of the NLRB decision.

Held Jurisdictional Fight

John Dales, executive secretary of the SAG—which still claims exclusive jurisdiction over players doing bits or stunts—interpreted the "SPU threat to strike as an effort to wrest jurisdiction over acting work from the guild."

The producers said they turned down SPU's interim proposal because it "does not relate to wages and hours, but contemplates a closed shop and a closed union." They termed the NLRB's designation as "improper, for it has created a conflict of jurisdiction in acting work."

Producers declined to say what immediate effect the scheduled walkout would have on motion-picture production. It would be the second major movie walkout recently.

Set painters and decorators were out eight days last October in a jurisdictional dispute involving two AFL unions.

"THE CONTENTS OF THIS PROCLAMATION TO THE GERMAN PEOPLE ARE EASILY FORESEEN," SAID THE BROADCAST. "IT WILL SAY THE ALLIES DO NOT WANT TO STAMP OUT THE GERMAN PEOPLE BUT NATIONAL SOCIALISM AND THE FUEHRER. IT WILL HINT THAT ONCE THE GERMAN PEOPLE ARE RID OF THE NAZI MOVEMENT THEY WILL BE ALLOCATED A RIGHTFUL PLACE AMONG THE NATIONS.

"ALL THIS IS NOTHING NEW. IN THE LAST YEAR OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR THE GERMAN PEOPLE HEARD SIMILAR PROCLAMATIONS. AT THAT TIME IT WAS SAID THE WESTERN POWERS WANTED TO DESTROY PRUSSIAN MERELY MILITARISM AND THE KAISER. AS SOON AS THESE WERE LIQUIDATED AND THE GERMANS HAD ACCEPTED A DEMOCRATIC REGIME GERMANY WOULD HAVE HER RIGHTFUL PLACE."

BERLIN, JOINING THE INTERNATIONAL GUESSING GAME ABOUT THE BIG THREE CONFERENCE, VENTURED THE STATEMENT THAT IT ALREADY IS IN SESSION--PROBABLY IN BUCHAREST.

ANOTHER GERMAN BROADCAST SAID THE CONFERENCE WAS BEING HELD "IN A ROMANIAN PORT ON THE BLACK SEA," AND THAT THE SITE HAD BEEN SELECTED BY PREMIER STALIN.

ALSO UP FOR DISCUSSION WERE AMERICAN VIEWS ON THE "COMPLETE AND RUTHLESS" ABOLITION OF GERMAN WAR INDUSTRIES AND CONTROL OF THE COUNTRY'S FUTURE ECONOMY. THE AMERICAN PROPOSALS WERE SUBMITTED TO THE EUROPEAN ADVISORY COMMISSION LAST DECEMBER BY AMBASSADOR JOHN G.WINANT. BRITAIN SUBMITTED SIMILAR PROPOSALS AND STALIN WAS EXPECTED TO MAKE HIS IDEAS KNOWN AT THE CONFERENCE.

THERE WAS A BELIEF IN DIPLOMATIC QUARTERS HERE THAT RUSSIA WOULD SUGGEST THAT SEVERAL MILLION GERMANS BE SENT TO RUSSIA TO HELP IN RECONSTRUCTION.

IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT THE EUROPEAN ADVISORY COMMISSION'S PLANS FOR CONTROLLING GERMANY AFTER THE WAR WERE BASED ON THE PRINCIPLE THAT MILITARY FORCES WILL BE IN ABSOLUTE CONTROL OF ANY OCCUPIED AREA FOR SIX MONTHS OR MORE AND THAT ALLIED CIVIL GOVERNMENT WOULD THEN TAKE OVER.

REPORTS REACHING CHURCHILL, IT IS UNDERSTOOD, INDICATE A GERMAN PLAN TO RETREAT SOUTH FOR SUICIDE STAND IN SOUTHERN GERMANY AND AUSTRIA. THESE REPORTS SAID THE GERMAN PLAN WOULD BE TO FIGHT AN ORGANIZED WAR FROM HEDGEHOG STRONGHOLDS THAT WOULD BE GEOGRAPHICALLY AND, IN PART, INDUSTRIALLY SELF-SUFFICIENT.

THIS RESISTANCE CENTER WAS SAID TO COVER 1,000 SQUARE MILES, EMBRACING PARTS OF BAVARIA AND AUSTRIA--MOUNTAINOUS COUNTRY WHICH WOULD BE DIFFICULT TO STORM AND WHICH WOULD OFFER FEW GOOD TARGETS FOR BOMBING OPERATIONS.

AT THE CORE OF THIS AREA IS A 100-MILE STRONGHOLD CENTERED ON BERCHTESGADEN, WHICH WAS REPORTED TO BE HEAVILY FORTIFIED AND SUPPLIED FOR PROLONGED RESISTANCE.

AGREEMENT ON ZONES OF OCCUPATION IS ANOTHER QUESTION BEFORE THE CONFERENCE. PROBABLY UNDER THE PRESENT ARRANGEMENT THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT WOULD TAKE OVER EASTERN GERMANY, BRITAIN THE NORTHWEST SECTOR AND THE UNITED STATES THE SOUTHWEST WITH AN INTER-ALLIED COMMISSION IN BERLIN. ALL THREE POWERS, AND POSSIBLY FRANCE, WOULD SHARE IN THE OCCUPATION OF AUSTRIA.

THE GERMAN TRANSOCEAN AGENCY SAID THE BIG THREE MEETING WAS AT A ROMANIAN PORT ON THE BLACK SEA AND WAS "NOW IN CONFERENCE."

THIS WAS DISCLOSED IN A GERMAN BROADCAST TELLING OF THE DISPERSAL OF SOVIET TROOPS BETWEEN PYRITZ, ON THE KUSTRIN-STETTIN HIGHWAY 22 MILES SOUTHEAST OF STETTIN, AND ARNSWALDE, ON THE POZNAN-STETTIN RAILWAY 38 MILES SOUTHEAST OF THE PORT.

THE GERMANS TOLD OF A NEW CROSSING OF THE UPPER ODER RIVER SOUTHEAST OF COSEL, NEAR THE MORAVIAN FRONTIER OF CZECHOSLOVAKIA AND 70 MILES SOUTHEAST OF BESIEGED BRESLAU, NORTHERN SILESIAN CAPITAL.

THE DRIVE ON BERLIN WAS HAMPERED BY AN UNSEASONAL THAW WHICH TURNED ROADS INTO MUD, BUT A MOSCOW DISPATCH SAID THAT FREEZING WINDS SWEEPING ACROSS RUSSIA FROM SIBERIA TOWARD GERMANY SHOULD SOON GIVE THE RUSSIANS A FIRMER FOOTING.

A HARD CORE OF NAZI TANK AND INFANTRY REINFORCEMENTS AND THICK MINEFIELDS ALSO WERE GIVING THE RUSSIANS TROUBLE. A LONDON INFORMANT WITH UNDERGROUND CONTACTS IN GERMANY SAID THAT THE SIXTH TANK ARMY, A 100 PER CENT SS ELITE GROUP WHICH SPEARHEADED THE ARDENNES BREAK-THROUGH ON THE WESTERN FRONT IN DECEMBER, HAD BEEN MOVED TO THE EAST TO SCREEN BERLIN.

INSIDE BERLIN THE GERMANS WERE THROWING UP STREET BARRICADES, DIGGING TRENCHES AROUND THE CITY AND FORTIFYING BUILDINGS. STOCKHOLM DISPATCHES SAID THAT BRITISH MOSQUITO BOMBERS KINDLED HUGE FIRES IN PARTS OF THE CAPITAL BEFORE DAWN FRIDAY, THAT STEEL-HELMETED POLICEMEN ARMED WITH RIFLES WERE GUARDING THE OUTSKIRTS THROUGH WHICH COLUMNS OF TANKS, ARMORED CARS AND MOTORIZED INFANTRYMEN WERE POURING TOWARD THE FRANKFURT-KUSTRIN DEFENSE ZONE. GREAT BELTS OF MINES ALSO WERE BEING LAID OUTSIDE THE CONTINENT'S LARGEST CITY.

SOVIET PLANES WERE BOMBING AND STRAFING THE TRAFFIC-PACKED ROADS BETWEEN BERLIN AND THE ODER RIVER, 1,320 MILES FROM STALINGRAD ON THE VOLGA WHERE THE RUSSIANS TURNED THE TIDE OF WAR TWO YEARS AGO.

RED STAR, SOVIET ARMY NEWSPAPER, COMMENTED THUS ON THE SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF THE STALINGRAD VICTORY: "THE OMINOUS SHADOW OF THE STALINGRAD DEFEAT IS NOW LOOMING OVER THE WHOLE OF FASCIST GERMANY. THE TROOPS WHO FOUGHT AT STALINGRAD ARE CELEBRATING THIS ANNIVERSARY AT THE APPROACHES TO KONIGSBERG AND BRESLAU AND ON THE ROADS TO BERLIN. WE'LL FORCE THE ENEMY TO ANSWER FOR THE RUINS AND BLOOD OF STALINGRAD."

BERLIN BROADCASTS WERE SCARCELY LESS COMFORTING FOR THE GERMANS. "THE ENEMY KNOCKS AT THE DOOR OF BERLIN," SAID THE NAZI COMMENTATOR, WILFRED VON OVEN. "LOOKING AT THE PICTURE GIVEN BY THE FRONT LINE TODAY WE SEE A WEDGE POINTED AT THE CAPITAL. ALTHOUGH COUNTER-MEASURES ARE ALREADY NOTICEABLE AT THE FAR END OF THIS WEDGE THE DEFENSES ARE STILL IN A STATE OF IMPROVISATION. NOBODY SHOULD LOSE HIS HEAD WHEN HE SEES TANKS APPEAR..."

THE GERMAN TRANSOCEAN AGENCY IN ANOTHER LATE SUMMARY OF THE SITUATION SAID THAT MARSHAL ZHUKOV'S BIG WAR OF MOVEMENT WAS ENTERING A NEW PHASE WITH THE RUSSIANS "REGROUPING ON A MAJOR SCALE" AFTER APPROACHING THE ODER AT SEVERAL POINTS.

A LONDON INFORMANT SAID THAT COLONEL REMER, ONE OF THE CHIEF FIGURES ON HITLER'S SIDE DURING THE BOMB PLOT AGAINST THE NAZI LEADER LAST JULY, HAD BEEN PLACED IN CHARGE OF A SPECIAL BERLIN GARRISON COMPOSED OF GESTAPO MEN, DEATHSHEAD GUARDS FROM CONCENTRATION CAMPS, HOME ARMY RECRUITS AND POLICE RIFLEMEN NOW CALLED UPON TO GIVE THEIR LIVES IN A LAST STAND.

THE NAZI HIGH COMMAND SAID MARSHAL GREGORY ZHUKOV'S TROOPS ALREADY HAD REACHED THE CURVING ODER RIVER NORTHWEST OF KUSTRIN, WHICH WOULD PLACE THE RUSSIANS 30 TO 40 MILES FROM BERLIN. JUST TWO YEARS AGO TODAY ZHUKOV SCORED A GREAT VICTORY OVER THE GERMANS AT STALINGRAD--MORE THAN 1,300 MILES TO THE EAST--WHEN HE ACCEPTED THE SURRENDER OF THE LAST OF THE GERMAN FORCES WHICH HAD BESIEGED THAT CITY FOR MONTHS

WHILE GERMAN COMMENTATORS PAINTED BERLIN AS NONCHALANT, NEUTRAL TRAVELERS ARRIVING IN STOCKHOLM SAID THE REFUGEE-PACKED CITY WAS PANIC-STRICKEN AND THAT ANTI-AIRCRAFT DEFENSES WERE BEING STRIPPED OF THEIR GUNS FOR USE AGAINST THE ONCOMING RUSSIANS.

PROPAGANDA MINISTER PAUL JOSEPH GOEBBELS TOLD THE GERMAN PEOPLE "IT'S JUST BEFORE ZERO HOUR." THE GERMAN MILITARY RADIO ORDERED A DEATH STAND IN DEFENSE OF THE CAPITAL.

OFFICIAL RUSSIAN REPORTS PLACED THE NEAREST RED ARMY UNITS 59 MILES NORTHEAST OF BERLIN WITH THE CAPTURE OF DUHRINGSHOF, 18 MILES FROM KUSTRIN, ONE OF THE LAST STRONGHOLDS BARRING THE ROAD TO THE CAPITAL.

GERMAN BROADCASTS SAID THE RUSSIANS BROKE INTO THE EASTERN SIDE OF KUSTRIN, 40 MILES NORTHEAST OF BERLIN, BUT WERE REPULSED.

THE GERMANS WERE REPORTED TO HAVE RUSHED STRONG REINFORCEMENTS TO THE EASTERN FRONT FROM CENTRAL GERMANY, FROM THE WESTERN FRONT AND FROM THE BALTIC AREA.

ALTHOUGH ZHUKOV'S FORCES SEEMED TO BE MEETING INCREASED RESISTANCE ON THE APPROACHES TO KUSTRIN AND FRANKFORT-ON-THE-ODER, THE SOVIET COMMUNIQUE SAID THEY HAD GAINED FROM FOUR TO 14 MILES AT SOME POINTS DURING THE DAY AND CAPTURED 150 GERMAN LOCALITIES.

FEB 3 1945

MORE THAN 5,000 GERMANS WERE KILLED AND 4,417 CAPTURED YESTERDAY IN THE DRIVE ON BERLIN, THE MOSCOW BULLETIN ADDED.

MEANWHILE THE GERMAN POMERANIAN CITY OF SCHNEIDEMUHL WAS ENCIRCLED AND THE RUSSIANS CAPTURED THE NORTHERN POLISH STRONGHOLD OF TORUN.

IN A NEW CROSSING FROM POLAND INTO GERMANY, THE RUSSIANS PENETRATED TO WITHIN SIX MILES OF GLOGAU, ON THE MIDDLE ODER 117 MILES SOUTHEAST OF BERLIN. GLOGAU IS 55 MILES NORTHWEST OF THE BESIEGED AND BURNING SILESIAN CAPITAL OF BRESLAU.

GERMAN REPORTS SAID SOVIET TROOPS HAD BROKEN INTO STEINAU, NORTHWEST OF BRESLAU ON THE WEST BANK OF THE ODER RIVER, AND HAD PENETRATED 30 MILES TO THE WEST, BUT THERE WAS NO CONFIRMATION FROM MOSCOW.

IN EAST PRUSSIA 50 MORE LOCALITIES WERE TAKEN AND THE GERMAN POCKET SOUTH OF KONIGSBERG WAS REDUCED TO A 1,250-SQUARE MILE AREA.

(Advance) London, Feb.2-(ap)-- The RAF dropped 34,750 tons of explosives on Germany during January and 2,000 more on V-2 rocket sites in Holland and shipping off Norway despite the poorest weather at home operational bases in more than two years.

Heavy bombers and mosquitoes made 9,600 trips against the enemy on eleven night flights and some 1,300 daylight sorties, the total bomb weight unloaded was 17,770 tons less than in December.

Most of the tonnage was distributed in this way: 12,320 tons on industrial centers, 10,980 tons on oil facilities and 8,540 tons on railway hubs. Mosquitoes dropped 170 two-ton blockbusters on Berlin in seven raids.

RAF fighter planes based in Britain made 2,300 sorties during the month, mostly in support of bomber operations or against V-bomb targets. RAF's second tactical air force on the continent flew 11,650 sorties, dropping 2,520 tons of bombs and 7,000 deadly rockets. Many of their targets also were V-2 installations, but most flights were directed against enemy transport lines.

THE U.S. FIRST AND THIRD ARMIES WERE ADVANCING STEADILY ON A 40-MILE FRONT, BUT GALLAGHER OBSERVED T[illegible] THIS ATTACK "ENGAGES ON A FRACTION OF THE AVAILABLE ALLIED FORCES."

"THERE IS NO CONCENTRATED EFFORT BY ANYONE, SUCH AS CHARACTERIZED THE NORMANDY BREAKTHROUGH," HE ADDED. "WHETHER THIS IS DUE TO NICH STRATEGY OR MATERIAL SHORTAGES HAS NOT BEEN DISCLOSED."

GERMAN BROADCASTS FOR SEVERAL DAYS HAVE BEEN PREDICTING A NEW OVER-ALL ALLIED OFFENSIVE.

AT THE END OF AN EXTRAORDINARY CABINET SESSION, IN WHICH OFFICIALS HAD ISSUED AND THEN CANCELLED AN ANNOUNCEMENT SAYING THE WHOLE CABINET HAD RESIGNED, DEPUTY PREMIER AUGUSTE DE SCHRIJVER ANNOUNCED MINISTERS WOULD GO BEFORE THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES TUESDAY TO "ANSWER INTERPOLATIONS DIRECTED AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT."

THE DEPUTY PREMIER SAID BELGIAN PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE PERMITTED A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE OR NO CONFIDENCE IN THE GOVERNMENT, AND IT WAS POSSIBLE SUCH A VOTE WOULD TAKE PLACE TUESDAY.

THE POSSIBILITY THAT THE PIERLOT CABINET WOULD REMAIN INTACT AFTER THE PARLIAMENTARY DEBATE APPEARED REMOTE, PARTICULARLY IN VIEW OF THE FIRM MANDATE FROM THE SOCIALIST COMMITTEE CALLING ON PARTY MINISTERS TO RESIGN.

ANOTHER COMMUNIQUE ISSUED AND CANCELLED DURING THE CABINET SESSION SAID PRINCE CHARLES HAD ASKED PREMIER HUBERT PIERLOT TO RETAIN THE REINS OF THE GOVERNMENT.

DE SCHRIJVER SAID THE SOCIALIST MINISTERS, IN AGREEING TO STAY IN SERVICE, HEEDED A REQUEST OF THE PREMIER THAT "CONSTITUTIONAL PRINCIPLES" BE OBSERVED, IN EFFECT A REQUEST THAT "THE FALL OF HIS GOVERNMENT SHOULD BE DECIDED IN A LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY, AND NOT OUTSIDE."

WITH THE U.S.NINTH ARMY FEB 2-(AP)-WHENEVER THE ORDNANCE CORPS WITH THE NINTH ARMY NEEDS SOMETHING THEY CAN'T GET FROM THE STATES, SOMEONE IN THE OUTFIT INVENTS IT.

LT.COL.FOREST ANDREWS OF DE KALB, ILL., IS PROUD OF SGT.JAMES GENTRY OF LOUISVILLE, KY., WHO LEFT THE UNITED STATES SEVERAL YEARS BEFORE HE JOINED THE ARMY TO WORK FOR A SOUTH AMERICAN FIRM.

THE NINTH ARMY NEEDED VALVE CAPS FOR THOUSANDS OF VEHICLES USING TIRES AND TUBES. LT.HAROLD L.PURDY OF COLUMBUS, OHIO, WHO TAKES CARE OF THE ARMY'S SALVAGE DEPARTMENT, PASSED THE ORDER ON TO GENTRY.

THE KENTUCKY SERGEANT IMPROVISED A TOOL THAT WOULD TURN OUT 100 VALVE CAPS AN HOUR.

A STEAM CRANE OPERATED BY A CIVILIAN EMPLOYE QUIT WORKING BECAUSE OF A BROKEN RING. IT WAS THE ONLY SUCH PIECE OF MACHINERY AVAILABLE, AND BROKEN TANKS AND VEHICLES WERE ARRIVING DAILY FOR SALVAGE. GENTRY HAD TO MAKE 100 TOOLS BEFORE HE COULD BEGIN WORK ON THE GEAR, BUT HE STAYED ON THE JOB UNTIL THE CRANE WAS BACK IN OPERATION.

PVT.MARTIN PARLAK, 1217 PINEWAY ST., PITTSBURGH, PA., MADE AN ELECTRIC SAW WHEN IT REALLY WAS NEEDED, AND SGT.CHARLES ERNEST, 419 SOUTH BONSAL ST., BALTIMORE, MD., MADE AN ELECTRIC MOTOR THAT OPERATES A GERMAN MOTION PICTURE PROJECTION MACHINE FOR THE ENTERTAINMENT OF

THE INFLUENCE OF HIS EMPIRE OF WIRES, CABLES AND CHARGED BATTERIES AND DYNAMOS MAY SOME DAY SOON EXTEND AS FAR AS BERLIN--BUT HE'S QUITE SATISFIED BY THE LIMITS OF HIS PRESENT TERRITORY.
GRIFFITH, WITH A SMALL AMG STAFF AND TECHNICIANS, CAME INTO AACHEN WHEN THE CITY WAS STILL UNDER FIRE. HIS ONE THOUGHT WAS GETTING TO THE CENTRAL POST TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH BUILDING.
IF HE COULD ARRIVE THERE BEFORE ALL CABLES AND OTHER INSTALLATIONS WERE DESTROYED HE MIGHT FIND HIMSELF AT A STRATEGIC COMMUNICATIONS POINT OF TREMENDOUS IMPORTANCE TO FUTURE OPERATIONS.
HIS FIRST IMPRESSIONS WERE DISHEARTENING. THE POSTAL AND CABLE SECTIONS OF THE THREE-WINGED BUILDING WERE A SHAMBLES. HOWEVER, THE TELEPHONE WING HAD ONLY ONE MAJOR HIT, WHICH COMPLETELY COVERED THE HUGE DYNAMO WITH DEBRIS BUT LEFT THE SWITCHBOARD INTACT.
AN AUXILIARY GENERATOR WHICH APPARENTLY HAD RUN ONLY 200 HOURS AND WAS PRACTICALLY NEW ALSO WAS UNTOUCHED.
"I FELT THAT IF I COULD JUST LOCATE THE VARIOUS POINTS FROM WHICH CABLE LEFT AACHEN WE COULD SAVE THE ARMY THOUSANDS OF MILES OF ALSDORF, GERMANY, FEB 2-(AP)-ABOUT 500 TONS OF COAL AGAIN IS BEING PRODUCED DAILY IN THIS TOWN AFTER FIERCE FIGHTING HAD FORCED A TOTAL STOPPAGE.

THIS TONNAGE IS NOT MUCH COMPARED TO THE OUTPUT BEFORE THE OCCUPATION OF FRANCE WHEN ALSDORF PRODUCED 7,000 TO 8,000 TONS DAILY, BUT CAPT.E.K.NEWMAN OF BENHAM, KY., MINING DIRECTOR FOR THE AMG, FEELS ENCOURAGED RATHER THAN DESPONDENT.
NEWMAN POINTED OUT THAT THE DAILY OUTPUT, WHILE SMALL, SUFFICES TO KEEP THE HABITABLE HOMES OF ALSDORF WARM AND AT THE SAME TIME SATISFIES THE NEEDS OF THE AMERICAN ADMINISTRATION. HE IS ESPECIALLY ELATED THAT THE EQUIPMENT IS INTACT, ON THE WHOLE,SO THAT ONCE THE MANPOWER PROBLEM IS SOLVED ALSDORF CAN BEGIN TO SERVE ALLIED NEEDS IN A LARGER WAY.

AACHEN, GERMANY, FEB. 2-(AP)-IT IS NO LAUGHING MATTER FOR ANY GERMAN IN AREAS OCCUPIED BY AMERICAN ARMIES TO RUN AFOUL OF MILITARY GOVERNMENT ORDINANCES.
I ATTENDED COURT SESSIONS TODAY IN BOTH AACHEN AND ALSDORF. THE FINES IN THREE CASES IN ALSDORF AMOUNTED TO FIFTY MARKS APIECE. IN ONE CASE IN AACHEN, DESPITE A GERMAN ATTORNEY'S ELOQUENCE, THE SENTENCE WAS ONE MONTH IN JAIL, PLUS FIVE MONTHS PROBATION.
AN EARNEST, ABLE EFFORT ON HIS ART, THE FINER POINTS OFTEN WERE LOST. IT ALSO WAS EVIDENT THAT THE ATTORNEY FOR THE DEFENSE AT AACHEN PROCEEDED FROM QUITE DIFFERENT LEGAL CONCEPTS THAN THE AMERICAN LIEUTENANT WHO ACTED AS PROSECUTOR. THOUGH BOTH SIDES TRIED FAIRLY TO GET THE OTHER'S VIEWPOINT, THERE WAS AN UNDENIABLE BARRIER OF LANGUAGE, PLUS PROCEDURE, BETWEEN THEM. THE GERMAN ATTORNEY, FOR INSTANCE, SEEMED COMPLETELY AT LOSS AS WHAT TO DO WITH THE FAMILIAR LEGAL OBJECTION TO TESTIMONY--THAT IT WAS IRRELEVANT AND INMATERIAL.
AT ALSDORF A 17-YEAR-OLD GIRL OFFICE SECRETARY, A 35-YEAR-OLD HAUSFRAU WITH AN INFANT ON HER ARM AND A MAN IN HIS SIXTIES WERE CHARGED WITH NOT HAVING REGISTRATION IDENTITY CARDS ON THEIR PERSONS WHEN THEY WERE STOPPED BY MILITARY POLICE. BOTH WOMEN PLEADED THEY HAD FORGOTTEN TO TRANSFER THEIR CARDS FROM ONE SHOPPING BAG TO ANOTHER. THE ELDERLY MAN SIMPLY HAD FORGOTTEN HIS CARD.
THE PRESIDING CAPTAIN METICULOUSLY ASSEMBLED MATERIAL BEARING ON THE CASES, SUCH AS A COPY OF THE ORDINANCE AND PUBLIC NOTICE THREOF. 5E3, HE TOLD T

THEREOF. THEN, HE TOLD THE DEFENDANTS THEY HAD THE RIGHT TO ENGAGE COUNSEL AND ASSURED THEM THE INTERPRETER WAS UNDER OATH TO REPEAT FAITHFULLY WHAT THE JUDGE AND PROSECUTOR SAID.

THE DEFENDANTS WERE ASSESSED FINES OF 50 MARKS EACH. AT THE RATE FIXED FOR THE GERMAN MARK FOR OCCUPATION FORCES THIS AMOUNTED TO FIVE DOLLARS OR ABOUT ONE-FIFTH OF A MONTH'S WAGES.
THE AACHEN CASE TOOK HOURS SINCE THE TESTIMONY, PLUS EXAMINATION AND CROSS EXAMINATION OF THE ARRAY OF WITNESSES ALL HAD TO BE TRANSLATED. IN THIS CASE AN OFFICIAL IN THE CITY ADMINISTRATION'S TREASURER'S DEPARTMENT WAS ACCUSED OF INSULTING AN AMERICAN CAPTAIN BY NOT COMING IMMEDIATELY WHEN SUMMONED AND LATER ATTEMPTING TO INTERFERE WITH THE CAPTAIN'S TELEPHONE CONVERSATION WHEN THE LATTER USED A DEROGATORY REMARK WHICH THE CITY OFFICIAL UNDERSTOOD TO APPLY TO HIMSELF. THE CAPTAIN SAID HE SPOKE ONLY IN GENERAL TERMS OF AN UNNAMED, UNIDENTIFIED PERSON.
THE PRESIDING OFFICER FOUND THE GERMAN OFFICIALS'S ATTITUDE HAD BEEN INSULTING AND SENT HIM TO JAIL FOR ONE MONTH BESIDES PLACING HIM ON PROBATION FOR FIVE MONTHS.

SIX SEPARATE PATROLS FROM THIS DIVISION PROBED INTO THE OUTPOSTS OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE LAST NIGHT AND ENCOUNTERED A TOTAL OF ONLY SEVEN GERMANS.

BUT BEHIND OUR LINES BULLDOZERS AND TANKDOZERS ARE WORKING 24 HOURS A DAY TRYING TO CLEAR ROADS OF SLUSH AND MAKE THEM PASSABLE FOR TRUCKS BRINGING UP RATIONS AND AMMUNITION. KESTERNICH, GERMANY, FEB. 1-(AP)-THE GERMANS MAY BE RETREATING ELSEWHERE ON THE WESTERN FRONT BUT THEY FOUGHT HERE UNTIL AMERICAN ARTILLERY LEVELED THE LAST TWO OF THE TOWN'S 181 BUILDINGS AND DOUGHBOY TOMMYGUNNERS HAD KICKED OPEN EVERY BASEMENT DOOR. FEB 3 1945

LATE TODAY A COMPANY FROM THE 311TH "TIMBERWOLF" REGIMENT OF THE 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION CRACKED THE LAST TWO BLOCKS IN KESTERNICH AND WE WATCHED 20 STARTLED PRISONERS COME BACK TO BATTALION COMMAND POST.

OTHER PRISONERS SAID THEY HAD BEEN OUT OF CONTACT WITH THE REST OF THE GERMAN ARMY FOR A MONTH. THEY THOUGHT THE RUSSIANS WERE STILL EAST OF BRESLAU AND THAT ROCKET WEAPONS WERE BATTERING NEW YORK.

GERMAN ARTILLERY WAS SHELLING KESTERNICH TODAY AND OTHER TOWNS WEST OF HERE, BUT SMALL ARMS FIRE EAST OF TOWN WAS SILENCED.

THE LIGHTNING DIVISION HAS BEEN FIGHTING IN AND AROUND HERE FOR SIX WEEKS, HAD BEEN THROWN OUT THREE TIMES AND ONCE A WHOLE UNIT WAS SURROUNDED. AT MIDAFTERNOON YESTERDAY THE DOUGHBOYS WENT IN AGAIN.

SGT. HUGH MOODY, CLARKVILLE, TENN., WHOSE WIFE LIVES AT COLUMBUS, GA., STARTED OUT WITH HIS PLATOON BUT WOUND UP ALONE, AND MEN IN THE SCRAP SAID HE KILLED AT LEAST 30 GERMANS WITH HIS TOMMYGUN. HE RUSHED UP TO DOORS, KICKED THEM IN AND BLASTED EVERYTHING IN SIGHT.

SGT. SAMUEL J. RING, ELKHART, IND., CAPTURED A WHOLE ROW OF FOXHOLES ALONE BY A LITTLE FAST TALKING. A GERMAN EMERGED FROM ONE FOXHOLE AND SURRENDERED. HE SAID TEN GERMANS STILL WERE MANNING GUNS IN THE OTHER FOXHOLES.

"GO OVER AND GET THEM," RING ORDERED, "AND BRING THEM OUT WITH THEIR HANDS UP."

THE RELUCTANT PRISONER STARTED OFF BUT CAME BACK CRYING THAT HIS COMRADES WOULD KILL HIM.

"I'LL TAKE YOU," RING SAID, GRABBING THE PRISONER BY THE ARM AND STARTING ACROSS NO-MANS-LAND.

FOXHOLES. THEY WERE STANDING AROUND TRYING TO FIGURE WHAT WAS WRONG WITH THEIR COMRADE WHEN ONE OF THEM SPOTTED RING.

UP WENT THEIR GUNS, BUT THE LONE INDIANA BOY MEX BLUFFED AND TOLD THEM THEY WERE SURROUNDED. THE GERMAN SERGEANT IN CHARGE THREW DOWN HIS RIFLE AND THE OTHERS FOLLOWED SUIT.

THE SPEARHEAD OF THE ATTACK THAT BROKE INTO THE CENTER OF THE TOWN AND KEPT RIGHT ON GOING WAS LED BY LT. CLYDE TRIVET, READING, OHIO.

FEB 3 1945

TRIVET FOUGHT DOWN THE MAIN STEM, BLOCK BY BLOCK, AND WHEN HE WAS THROUGH HE HAD ONLY THREE MEN WITH HIM. HIS SERGEANT TOLD ME THAT AT THE FINISH THEY WERE FIRING WITH GERMAN BURP GUNS AND LUGERS.

THOSE WITH TRIVET WERE SGT. J.C. CARNEY, QUITMAN, GA., SGT. HOMER H. HAMILTON, DECATUR, ALA., AND LT. EARL E. OSBURN, WHO COMES FROM A SMALL TOWN NEAR PITTSBURG, PA.

WE STARTED DOWN TO THEIR COMMAND POST WITH SGT. P.A. KELLY, EUREKA, NEV., AND IN THE CENTER OF TOWN WE MET TWO OFFICERS WHO ASKED US WHERE WE THOUGHT WE WERE GOING. THEY WERE MAJ. LYLE J. KENNEDY FARMVILLE, VA., AND CAPT. WILLIAM A. JONES, RIPLEY, WEST VA.

THEY SUGGESTED WE HAD BETTER TURN AROUND.

"THE FRONT LINES ARE RIGHT OVER THERE," KENNEDY SAID, POINTING TOWARD A ROW OF BUILDINGS ABOUT HALF A BLOCK AWAY. "AND WE ARE STARTING AN ATTACK ON THE LAST TWO BLOCK HOUSES IN TOWN."

IN A BASEMENT UNDER A GERMAN HOUSE, WE LEARNED THAT THE LAST ATTACK IN THE BATTLE FOR KESTERNICH WAS MXXXX LED BY CAPT. WILLIAM FEERY, 633 NEW BRITAIN AVE., HARTFORD, CONN.

FEB 3 1945

AMONG OTHER THINGS WE LEARNED DOWN IN THAT BASEMENT WAS THAT FIRST LIEUT. JOSEPH J. KLIMKIEWICZ, OF 111 ORANGE ST., NEW BRITAIN, CONN., HAD DEVISED A MAP OF THIS TOWN WITH EVERY BUILDING NUMBERED. BEFORE THE LAST BATTLE STARTED MEDICS WERE GIVEN COPIES OF THE MAP SO THAT AS SOON AS WOUNDED MEN WERE REPORTED THE EXACT LOCATION WAS RADIOED TO A FIELD HOSPITAL AND LITTLE TIME LOST IN REACHING THEM. THIS SAVED MANY LIVES AND CASUALTIES WERE EVACUATED WHILE THE FIGHT WAS GOING ON, OFTEN IN THE NEXT HOUSE.

MEDICS ALSO USED WEAZELS, A SMALL, TRACK-XXXXXXPROPELLED VEHICLE LARGE ENOUGH TO CARRY ONE OR TWO WOUNDED MEN.

"THOSE WEAZELS ARE WONDERFUL," SAID TECH. SGT. STEPHEN MAYERSKI, OF 3239 EAST 49TH ST., CLEVELAND, O., "WHY DON'T YOU START A CAMPAIGN FOR EVERY

MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED THAT THE HARD-HITTING FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION IS NOW DRIVING ON MANILA. VICTORS OVER THE JAPANESE IN THE ADMIRALTY ISLANDS AND ON LEYTE, THIS DISMOUNTED OUTFIT IS RATED ONE OF HIS TOPNOTCH FIGHTING FORCES.

HE DISCLOSED THAT THE 32ND DIVISION ALSO IS IN THE LUZON FIGHT. THE 32ND WHIPPED THE JAPANESE IN THE BLOODY PAPUAN CAMPAIGN, MACARTHUR'S FIRST GROUND ACTION.

THE 32ND IS INVOLVED IN THE STUBBORNLY-HELD NORTHERN SECTOR WHERE THE FIRST CORPS IS MOVING EASTWARD TO CLEAR THE NORTH END OF THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAIN. THE YANKS NOW ARE FOUR MILES EAST OF TAYUG AND SIX MILES EAST OF SAN MANUEL, WHERE THEY SEIZED THE TOWN OF SAN NICHOLAS ON THE CAGAYAN VALLEY HIGHWAY, TITAL TO JAPANESE REINFORCEMENT OR RETREAT.

MACARTHUR REPORTED AN ENTIRE JAPANESE COLUMN, TRAPPED BETWEEN TWO AMERICAN FORCES ON THE BALUNGAO-UMINGAN ROAD IN THIS NORTHERN SECTOR, HAD BEEN ANNIHILATED. EIGHT TANKS, EIGHT ARTILLERY PIECES AND CONSIDERABLE OTHER MATERIEL WAS DESTROYED.

DEFENSES IN THE MANILA BAY SECTOR TOOK ANOTHER SEVERE AERIAL POUNDING AS LIBERATORS DUMPED 152 TONS OF BOMBS ON CORREGIDOR AND THE CAVITE NAVAL BASE, CAUSING EXTENSIVE FIRES AND EXPLOSIONS.

NASUGBU,BATANGAS PROVINCE,LUZON,FEB.2-(AP)-SENOR ANTONIO ROXAS, ARISTOCRATIC SPANISH LANDLORD AND BUSINESS EXECUTIVE OF THIS TOWN, LEANED BACK ON HIS UPHOLSTERED DIVAN AND SAID "YOU JUST CANNOT ARGUE WITH THE JAPANESE."

HE TALKED WITH THE WRITER AFTER AMERICAN 8TH ARMY TROOPS HAD LANDED AT NASUGBU, SOUTH OF MANILA BAY.

"WHEN THE JAPANESE CAME IN HERE AFTER THE FALL OF MANILA THEY DECIDED TO TAKE OVER SOME OF OUR LAND AND RAISE COTTON," ROXAS CONTINUED.

"BUT COTTON WILL NOT GROW HERE. NEITHER THE LAND NOR THE CLIMATE IS SUITABLE. WE TOLD THEM. BUT IT WAS NO USE. THEY HAD DECIDED TO RAISE COTTON AND THAT WAS ALL THERE WAS TO IT.

"THEY TOOK PRODUCING SUGAR CANE LAND, CLEANED IT OUT AND PLANTED COTTON. NEEDLESS TO SAY IT WAS A DISMAL FAILURE. SO THEY DECIDED WE SHOULD RAISE SUGAR CANE.

"THEY CAME HERE ONE TIME AND SAID THEY WERE GOING TO TAKE MOST OF OUR RICE CROP. WE GIVE THREE-FOURTHS OF THE YIELD TO THE WORKERS AND KEEP ONE-QUARTER FOR THE COMPANY. SO THKBAINED IF THEY T

AND KEEP ONE-QUARTER FOR THE COMPANY. SO WE EXPLAINED IF THEY TOOK THE RICE THE WORKERS WOULD STARVE. SINCE MOST OF OUR WORKERS AND THEIR FAMILIES ALSO WORK IN SUGAR CANE OR THE REFINERY WHERE WE PRODUCE INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL WE ARGUED THAT PRODUCTION OF ALCOHOL, WHICH THE JAPS USE AS MOTOR FUEL, WOULD FALL OFF SHARPLY BECAUSE THE WORKERS WOULD BE UNDERNOURISHED.

"BUT, AS I SAY, YOU SIMPLY CANNOT ARGUE WITH THE JAPANESE. THEY TOOK THE RICE, THE WORKERS WENT HUNGRY, THE ALCOHOL OUTPUT DROPPED. IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE THEY DECIDED THEY DIDN'T NEED ANY MORE RICE."

ROXAS SAID THAT LATER WHEN THE JAPANESE "TOOK OVER OUR HOUSE WE MOVED TO MANILA. FROM TIME TO TIME VARIOUS JAP COMMANDERS LIVED HERE. AND EACH TIME THEY LEFT HELPED THEMSELVES TO SOME OF THE FURNISHINGS.

"FINALLY THEY SAID WE COULD MOVE BACK. THE PLACE WAS STRIPPED BARE."

DR.LAUNE SAID THE METHOD FOLLOWED IS TO HAVE FOSTER PARENTS PAY UNDER THE GUISE OF FINANCING NECESSARY HOSPITAL AND MEDICAL EXPENSES.

HE REPORTED AN UNWED MOTHER ADVERTISED "BABY FOR ADOPTION" AND TENTATIVELY AGREED TO ACCEPT $1,000. LATER SHE WAS PAID $1,500.

"IN EFFECT, SHE TOOK THE OFFER OF THE HIGHEST BIDDER," HE SAID.

"IT IS COMMON PRACTICE FOR FOSTER PARENTS TO PAY HOSPITAL EXPENSES."

DR.LAUNE CITED BOARD OF HEALTH RECORDS SHOWING 454 ILLEGITIMATE BIRTHS IN HONOLULU IN 1943 AND 607 IN 1944. THE HONOLULU COURTS HANDLED 506 ADOPTIONS IN 1943 AND 431 IN 1944.

D.N.MCNAUGHTON, CAMPAIGNING FOR A SEAT IN PARLIAMENT, ANGRILY DECLARED BEFORE A RURAL MEETING THAT BRACKEN HAD MADE "IDLE, CARELESS STATEMENTS" REGARDING THE ARMY.
"THIS CAMPAIGN OF SLANDER AGAINST THE CANADIAN ARMY HAS GOT TO COME TO AND END," HE DECLARED.
"I HAVE CALLED ON THAT GENTLEMAN (BRACKEN) TO SUBSTANTIATE HIS STATEMENT. I'M GOING TO SEE THAT HE DOES SUBSTANTIATE THAT STATEMENT OR PAY THE PENALTY FOR IT."
MCNAUGHTON EARLIER IN THE DAY HAD DECLARED THAT AN INVESTIGATION HAD UNCOVERED NO EVIDENCE OF THE CHARGE EXCEPT A RUMOR THAT ONE MAN HAD THROWN HIS ARMS OVERBOARD. THE DISCIPLINE OF THE DRAFTEE TROOPS RECENTLY SENT ABROAD WAS FOUND TO HAVE BEEN SATISFACTORY, HE ADDED.

OTTAWA, FEB. 2-(AP)-GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS SAID TODAY THEY WERE UNABLE TO PREDICT THE IMMEDIATE EFFECT OF ACTION OF THE UNITED STATES SOLID FUELS ADMINISTRATION IN DIVERGING LARGE QUANTITIES OF BITUMINOUS COAL CONSIGNED TO CANADA TO FUEL-SHORT AREAS IN THE UNITED STATES.
IMMEDIATELY BEFORE THE WASHINGTON ANNOUNCEMENT, LATE TODAY, OFFICIALS DESCRIBED THE CANADIAN SITUATION AS "JUST GETTING BY."

THE FUEL CONSERVATION PROGRAM, INTRODUCED TWO YEARS AGO, HAS BEEN AN IMPORTANT FACTOR IN SPREADING THE AVAILABLE SUPPLIES AMONG ESSENTIAL USERS.
HEATING ENGINEERS HAVE CHECKED INDUSTRIAL PLANTS ACROSS CANADA TO CURB HEAT LOSSES AND ASSURE EFFICIENT USE OF AVAILABLE FUEL.
IN MONTREAL E.J.BRUNNING, CANADIAN COAL ADMINISTRATOR, SAID CANADA IS NOT GETTING ONE TON MORE THAN ITS QUOTA OF COAL FROM THE UNITED STATES. UNDER AN AGREEMENT WITH THE UNITED STATES, HE SAID, COAL IS SUPPLIED TO CANADA ON THE SAME BASIS AS THEY PROVIDED IN THE STATES.

TWO STATEMENTS ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN MADE BY STATA TO PROVINCIAL POLICE AFTER HIS ARREST IN TORONTO WERE READ TO THE JURY TODAY. ONE WAS AN ALLEGED ADMISSION OF THE KILLING OF MRS.SMITH. YESTERDAY STATA, TESTIFYING IN HIS OWN DEFENSE, ADMITTED HAVING MADE THE STATEMENTS, ASSERTING HE HAD BEEN INDUCED TO MAKE THE ALLEGED ADMISSION OF GUILT ON THE PROMISE OF A POLICE OFFICER THAT "THINGS WOULD BE EASIER" IF HE DID SO.

STATA SAID HE GAVE TWO STATEMENTS TO POLICE BECAUSE HE WAS TOLD "THINGS WOULD BE EASIER" IF HE DID SO. HE WOULD NOT SWEAR TO THE SIGNATURES ON THE STATEMENTS, HOWEVER. BOTH WERE ADMITTED INTO EVIDENCE.

THE SECOND STATEMENT SAID STATA HAD LEFT CAMP IPPERWASH, WHERE HE WAS STATIONED, TAKING RIFLE AND CARTRIDGES WITH THE INTENTION OF GOING INTO THE WOODS AND FIRING THEM.

"I FOLLOWED ALONG A SMALL CREEK WHICH LED ME OUT TO THE LAKESHORE. THE FIRST THING THAT DREW MY ATTENTION WAS THE CAR (MRS.SMITH'S COUPE) STANDING BESIDE THE HOUSE. I WALKED UP TO THE HOUSE, LOOKED INTO THE CAR AND SAW NO KEYS.

"I HAD IN MIND TAKING THE CAR AND GOING LOOSE FROM THE ARMY. I FIGURED THERE WASN'T ANYONE AT HOME. SO I OPENED THE SCREEN DOOR, WALKED IN AND THROUGH THE KITCHEN.

"JUST BEFORE PASSING THROUGH THE DOOR INTO THE KITCHEN THIS LADY STEPS OUT WITH THE PISTOL IN HER HAND AT MY BACK. WELL, THE MINUTE SHE SPOKE, I SWUNG AROUND, DISCHARGED THE RIFLE NOT MEANING TO HIT HER...AFTER I SAW WHAT I HAD DONE I TOOK THE KEYS AND DROVE AWAY."

SAN JUAN, P.R., FEB 2-(AP)-RESEARCHERS ANNOUNCED "APPARENT CURES" TODAY IN 11 OF 33 VICTIMS OF FILARIASIS DISEASE, PROBABLY BEST KNOWN TO THE PUBLIC AS ELEPHANTIASIS.

DRS.H.M.ROSS AND JAMES CULBERTSON OF COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY EMPHASIZED THAT THE METHOD OF TREATMENT STILL WAS EXPERIMENTAL, BUT SAID "11 OF 33 CASES OF FILARIAL INFECTION WHICH WERE TREATED WITH NEOSTIBOSAN IN APRIL AND MAY, 1944, NOW APPEAR FREE OF INFECTION."

"SOME OTHERS APPEAR LIKELY TO BE FREE OF INFECTION IN THE NEXT SEVERAL MONTHS," IT WAS ADDED. "EIGHTEEN UNTREATED CASES OF FILARIASIS WHICH WERE FOLLOWED FOR THE SAME TIME ARE STILL INFECTED, SOME NOW MORE INTENSELY THAN WHEN THE WORK BEGAN. X X X

ZTHE EVIDENCE THUS FAR INDICATES THAT THE DRUG WOULD BE MOST USEFUL IN THE EARLY STAGES OF THE DISEASE WHEN THE PARASITES CAN BE SEEN IN THE BLOOD AND BEFORE EXTENSIVE TISSUE CHANGES HAVE OCCURED."

THE WORK WAS DONE IN COLLABORATION WITH DR.P.MORALES OTERO, HEAD OF THE SCHOOL OF TROPICAL MEDICINE, AND THE STAFF OF THE SCHOOL.

--DASH--

MANY AMERICAN TROOPS IN THE PACIFIC HAVE BEEN INFECTED WITH FILARIASIS BUT TO DATE THE MEDICAL REPORTS CITE NOT A SINGLE CASE WHERE A LIMB OR OTHER ORGAN SWELLS TO ENORMOUS SIZE.

THE MEDICAL STUDIES INDICATE THAT THIS ELEPHANTIASIS, OR SEVERE SWELLING STAGE, IS UNLIKELY AMONG THE AMERICANS. THE GREAT SWELLINGS COME FROM LONG EXPOSURE TO THE INFECTION AND AMERICANS ARE PROMPTLY REMOVED FROM FURTHER CONTACT WITH THE DISEASE SOURCES.

NO BAD EFFECTS WHATEVER HAVE BEEN REPORTED YET AMONG THE AMERICAN BOYS, EXCEPT PSYCHOLOGICAL SHOCK DUE TO FEARS THAT ARE UNFOUNDED.

FILARIASIS IS A MOSQUITO-BORNE DISEASE. THE MOSQUITOS TRANSMIT EMBRYONIC WORMS FROM PERSON TO PERSON. THESE WORMS GROW AND BLOCK LYMPH CHANNELS, RESULTING IN PERMANENT SWELLINGS.

THERE NEVER HAS BEEN A CURE. THE MOSQUITOES WHICH CAN TRANSMIT FILARIASIS EXIST IN THE UNITED STATES BUT MEDICAL STUDIES INDICATE BOTH THAT SPREAD IS UNLIKELY AND THAT AT ANY RATE IT WOULD NOT BE SERIOUS.

A REPORT PUBLISHED BY THE BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY OF THE U.S. NAVY, WRITTEN BY LT.CMDR.J.W.HAVILAND, OF THE U.S. MARINE BARRACKS, KLAMATH FALLS, ORE., SITE OF A FILARIASIS HOSPITAL, SAYS:

"FILARIASIS IS NOT THE FEARSOME DISEASE WHICH HAS BEEN IMPRESSED ON THE LAY IMAGINATION. WE HAVE GOOD EVIDENCE THAT IT IS NOT GOING TO MUTILATE SONS AND MAKE HUSBANDS STERILE. THE MORE FAMILIAR WE BECOME WITH IT, THE LESS MALIGNANT IT SEEMS."

ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE JOSEPH C.GREW SUMMED THEM UP THUSLY:

"THEY PROVIDE FOR THE PUNISHMENT OF GERMAN LEADERS AND THEIR ASSOCIATES FOR THEIR RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE WHOLE BROAD CRIMINAL ENTERPRISE DEVISED AND EXECUTED WITH RUTHLESS DISREGARD OF THE VERY FOUNDATION OF LAW AND MORALITY, INCLUDING OFFENSES WHEREVER COMMITTED AGAINST THE RULES OF WAR AND AGAINST MINORITY ELEMENTS, JEWISH AND OTHER GROUPS, AND INDIVIDUALS."

THE ATTITUDE OF THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN STATED TO PARLIAMENT BY RICHARD K.LAW, MINISTER OF STATE. HE DREW THE SAME DISTINCTION BETWEEN "WAR CRIMES" WHICH ARE OFFENSES COMMITTED BY GERMANS AGAINST OTHER NATIONS AND ATROCITIES COMMITTED BY NAZIS AGAINST GERMAN CITIZENS.

BOTH GREW AND LAW THUS SOUGHT TO ALLAY FEARS RECENTLY EXPRESSED IN THIS COUNTRY AND BRITAIN THAT THE NAZIS THROUGH TECHNICALITIES OF INTERNATIONAL LAW, MIGHT ESCAPE ACCOUNTABILITY FOR SOME OF THEIR PERSECUTIONS.

AT A NEWS CONFERENCE YESTERDAY GREW ISSUED A STATEMENT DECLARING THAT THE STATE DEPARTMENT WELCOMES "PUBLIC DISCUSSION OF THE PUNISHMENT OF WAR CRIMINALS" WHICH HE SAID HAD RESULTED IN MAKING CLEAR "THE DETERMINATION OF OUR PEOPLE THAT THE GUILTY SHALL BE PUNISHED."

HE THEN CITED PREVIOUS DECLARATIONS BY PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND ALSO THE FOUR POWER DECLARATION OF MOSCOW IN NOVEMBER 1943, TO SHOW THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD HELD THIS DETERMINATION FROM THE EARLIEST DAYS OF THE WAR.

RUSSIAN FORCES CLOSE ON KUSTRIN, PERIL FRANKFURT

Soviet Tanks Smash Past Sonnenburg, 47 Miles from Capital.

SMASH TOWARD STETTIN

Nazis Lose 17,450 Trapped Troops, Reds Cross Oder River.

LONDON, Sunday, Feb. 4—(AP) The Red Army, closing swiftly on Frankfurt and Kustrin, last Oder river strongholds 38 and 40 miles from bomb-shattered Berlin, yesterday reached the marshes bordering that last natural barrier to the Axis capital, and killed or captured 17,450 trapped Germans, Moscow announced last night.

Advancing up to eight miles against fierce resistance by heavy enemy reinforcements hurled into the flaming struggle, Soviet tanks pushed through Sonnenburg, six miles southeast of Kustrin, and also seized Reppen, 10 miles east of Frankfurt's east bank suburb of Damm.

Captured Sonnenburg is 47 miles east of Berlin, the closest the Russians officially have placed their troops, but the Germans said that Kustrin, 40 miles northeast of Berlin, was the scene of furious combat, with the Russians attacking the garrison from four directions and trying an effective forcing of the Oder near that town.

Reds Cross Oder River

Soviet shock troops made one crossing of the Oder near Kustrin, but were wiped out, Berlin said, Nazi reports said the Russians were attacking Kustrin from the northwest, northeast, east and south. One new Soviet attack in the southern suburbs, presumably made by the units that took Sonnenburg, was beaten off during the day, Berlin said.

North of the Warthe river the Russians seized Vietz, 11 miles northeast of Kustrin, in an eight-mile two-day advance down the highway and railway from Landsberg.

Moscow did not announce any further progress by Russian units fighting their way toward Stettin, Baltic port 70 miles northeast of Berlin. The Russians on Friday were reported within 36 miles of Stettin, and a Russian German-language broadcast yesterday had placed them only 11 miles from their goal.

The capture of Stettin would cut off a 13,500-square-mile section of Pomerania, the Polish corridor and Danzig. There were unconfirmed reports that German ships already had fled Stettin and put into Copenhagen in Denmark.

Smash Toward Baltic

Farther east other Soviet troops were attacking toward the Baltic coast in a similar effort to split up Pomerania and Lessen the threat of a German flanking attack on the central salient pointed at Berlin.

Advancing on a 32-mile front on both sides of imperilled Deutschkrone, big 12-way German communications center, the Russians seized Schloppe, on the Berlin-Danzig highway and railway 70 miles southeast of Stettin and 23 southwest of encircled Schneidemuhl.

At the other end of the front the Russians took Jagdhaus, and at intermediate points closed in on Deutschkrone by seizing Sagermuhl, three miles on the northeast; Quiram, three miles on the south, and Karlsruhe, five miles on the southeast.

In East Prussia the Russians gained up to five miles on a curving 32-mile front and captured 30 localities in the shrinking Axis pocket below besieged Konigsberg. These included [illegible]hhorn, three miles southeast [illegible]dsberg, and Spittehnen, two miles west of Barstein, two of the last few big towns still held by the encircled Germans.

Konigsberg itself still held out and Moscow dispatches said it looked "like a volcano" as Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army troops fought in its suburbs and poured streams of shells into its buildings.

The German High command indicated that the six-weeks-old siege of Budapest, Hungarian capital, was almost over. Praising the bravery of the garrison it disclosed that the remnants of the once formidable Nazi force had been pressed by the Russians into small pocket around the royal castle in Buda on the west bank of the Danube, and was being supplied by air.

Compress Budapest Ring

The Russians announced capture of 10 more blocks in Buda, and for the first time disclosed the power of the German relief attacks southwest of Budapest between the capital and Sekesfehervar, 32 miles away.

On a 30-mile front east and southeast of Sekesfehervar the Russians had been pushed back almost to the Danube, the communique disclosed, in telling of the recapture of more than 60 localities, including Kisverlencze, eight miles east of Sekesfehervar; Perkata, 20 miles on the southeast, and Sarbogard, 24 miles on the southeast.

The Germans for weeks had claimed continuing successes in this area until a few days ago when the Russians went over to the counterattack. The new drive by Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukraine army now apparently is well underway and Moscow has shown its counter-results and what preceded it.

In the drive on Frankfurt, last major obstacle on the direct road to Berlin, the Russians during the day captured more than 150 German localities, including the powerful hedgehog positions of Zielenzig, 24 miles to the northeast, and Sternberg, 22 miles to the south east.

Cut Vital Railway

Pushing on through Reppen the Russians cut the Kustrin-Breslau railway, last north-south German communications line in the Oder bend, and Moscow dispatches said that Soviet artillery already had been placed in the ridges overlooking the Oder and was shelling the Germans' east bank fortifications on the 16-mile front between Frankfurt and Kustrin.

Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov was pouring thousands of tanks, guns and infantrymen into the big bend formed by the Oder and Warthe rivers, and these troops encircled the large German force in a forest southeast of Kustrin, apparently the Limmritz and Konigswalde forests which stretch for 30 miles east of fallen Sonnenburg.

The Soviet communique said that 8,000 of the trapped Germans resisted and were killed, and that 9,450 surrendered. In addition to inflicting these casualties the Russians said they captured 163 guns, 55 mortars, 167 machineguns, 1,626 trucks, 500 motorcycles, 200 carts laden with war supplies, and other material.

MORE NAZIS JOIN IN FIGHTING

Soviet Troops Only 11 Miles From Port of Stettin—Foe Faces New Trap.

London, Feb. 3 (A. P.).—Russian attacks on the Oder River have been repulsed, the German High Command declared today as Soviet troops massed along the river forty miles east of the capital.

One Berlin broadcast said Marshal Gregory Zhukov's troops had won, but later lost a bridgehead over the Oder near Kustrin.

The Moscow radio declared one of Marshal Zhukov's columns had speared to within eleven and one-quarter miles of Stettin on the Baltic. A plunge to Stettin would lop off 13,500 square miles of northeastern Germany, the Polish Corridor, and the Danzig area.

Kustrin is on the Oder forty miles east of Berlin. A huge battle was reported raging farther south, four miles east of Frankfurt on the historic Kundersdorf battlefield, first bloodied in the era of Frederick the Great.

Nazis Rush Up Reserves.

Marshal Zhukov's drive on Stettin, seventy-four miles northeast of Berlin, threatened to cut off great German forces, and to open Berlin for an attack from the north.

The Germans rushed fresh divisions up to the Oder River line.

The German military commentator, Col. Ernst von Hammer, declared the "western bank of the Oder has now been mopped up of Russian forces" after one spearhead had won a temporary bridgehead near Kustrin.

Moscow dispatches said the Soviet artillerymen already were pumping shells into Kustrin, forty miles northeast of Berlin. Kustrin and Frankfurt form the last major barriers before Berlin.

South of Kustrin other Russian vanguards plunged forward from captured Drossen, fourteen miles northeast of Frankfurt and fifty-one miles due east of Berlin. The fall of this communications hub represented the greatest gain yesterday for the Russians with a fifteen-mile plunge straight through the heavily reinforced German lines.

Puts Reds 38 Miles Away.

The German radio, which has consistently placed the Russian advance several miles ahead of points announced officially by the Soviet High Command, said that the Red Army was attacking Kustrin and had reached the Oder River at new points only thirty-eight miles from Berlin in the Frankfurt area.

Moscow Claims Gains

The midnight Russian war bulletin said the Nazis were constantly replenishing their shattered forces east and northeast of Frankfurt, but despite a stubborn resistance were losing one position after another under blows.

Another column of Zhukov's men, coiling northwest around Kustrin, reached the Oder river at a point 39 miles from Berlin, the Germans announced. This advance threatened to outflank Kustrin and take it from the rear.

Moscow's communiqué did not confirm that fighting was in progress at Kustrin, itself.

Close-Quarter Combat

A late Nazi broadcast said the Kustrin garrison was in close-quarter combat with Soviet units attacking the town along the northern bank of the Warthe.

The 1st White Russian Army captured more than 150 places yesterday, despite the stiffened German resistance and an unseasonal thaw which hampered mechanized operations.

A DNB broadcast from Berlin reflected German alarm at the double-barreled thrust by Zhukov. It said the eastern danger zone could be divided into two main areas—the march on Berlin and the attempted break into Stettin to split the German northeastern armies from those in the central front sector.

Success In Silesia

In the Silesian area about 100 miles southeast of Berlin, Russian troops scored new successes yesterday along the Oder, reaching the river on a new 7-mile front between captured Boyadel and Lippen in advances up to 13 miles.

Berlin said other Russian units were attacking at various points on both sides of the Oder southward as far as Ratibor, 12 miles north of Moravska Ostrava, Czechoslovakia's third largest city, which is astride the Moravian gateway to Prague and Vienna. This big city was also threatened by Soviet troops that had reached to within 29 miles from the east, Berlin said.

German garrisons in Poznan and Budapest still held out, but were reported being liquidated methodically by superior Russian forces.

Meanwhile, in East Prussia the Russians compressed the German-held territory to less than 1,000 square miles of the original 14,283. More than 100 localities were captured yesterday, including Domnau and Schippenbeil, 20 and 33 miles southeast of encircled Konigsberg, where the German garrison was reported running out of ammunition.

The Russians also slashed into the Danzig Bay area, capturing Germau on the Samland Peninsula.

1,000 B-17'S BOMB BERLIN

Nearly 4,000 Allied Planes Pound Nazi Installations

London, Sunday, Feb. 4 (AP)—Nearly 4,000 Allied warplanes pounded German installations yesterday, Berlin itself being rocked by the most concentrated assault ever made on the German capital.

In a wild, 45-minute period, more than 1,000 United States Eighth Air Force Flying Fortresses, escorted by more than 900 fighters, blasted Berlin. They were in sight of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's Russian assault against the Oder River line 30 to 40 miles to the east as they poured some 3,000 tons of high explosives and fire bombs on military targets in the refugee-packed city.

40 American Planes Missing

This raid, a diversionary stab at the oil center of Mafdeburg by 400 United States Liberators, cost the Americans 35 bombers and five fighters missing, a communiqué said. Twenty-one Luftwaffe planes were downed in combat near Berlin and fourteen others were destroyed on the ground.

Weather was good for bombing, and for the first time in the war, there was no German air opposition over the Reich capital. What dogfights there were occurred as Mustangs and Thunderbolt pilots carried out sweeps over scattered areas some distance from the city.

Rail And Bridge Targets Bombed

At the same time, planes of the United States Continent-based 1st Tactical Air Force blasted rail targets east of the Rhine and north of Alsace. German military movements between the Siegfried Line and farther north were battered by 461 fighter-bombers and 150 medium and light bombers of the 9th Air Force.

Two fighter-bombers were lost while this large force hit bridges, made 24 cuts in vital Nazi rail lines and destroyed 58 railway cars and 91 trucks.

The British 2nd Tactical Air Force sent out 500 bombers and fighter-bombers. They concentrated chiefly on the railroads of northern Holland and northwestern Germany. In another area, RAF Lancasters escorted by Spitfires carried the air war to Hitler's Navy by pounding seaports along the European coastline.

Designed To Isolate Units

The all-out aerial assaults are designed to isolate German units on the Western front and keep them from shifting troops to the east, and at the same time to soften up the enemy for a possible large-scale push to the Rhine.

Early broadcasts from German heard in London made no mention of the results of the raid on Berlin, but Sergt. Clifford L. Whipple, Syracuse, N.Y., a B-17 radio operator, said he heard a Nazi announcer say:

"Every man, woman and child is out fighting the flames with the Russians only 70 kilometers away."

Large Fires Started In Berlin

"The first wave of bombers over the Reich capital attacked in good visibility," an air force communiqué said. "Large fires were started in the target areas and smoke and flames which followed caused some of the last formations over the city to bomb by instruments."

Allied air raiders were over Germany continuously from 11 A.M. to about 3.30 P.M. yesterday, and German radio warnings were renewed last night, indicating that Allied bombers were out for a follow-up blow against the Reich.

It was the first time in the war that no German planes interfered with Allied bombers over Berlin, but some groups of the American force ran into intense anti-aircraft fire and returning crews reported seeing several Flying Fortresses shot down.

Many Refugees Reported Killed

A dispatch from Stockholm said thousands of the refugees jammed into Berlin from the East were killed in the raid when they were unable to find shelter in the battered city.

As the first formation's lead plane, piloted by Col. Lewis D. Lyle, of Pine Bluff, Ark., began the attack by releasing its bombs over the heart of the unprotected city, the last formation of a procession of Fortresses more than 300 miles long was crossing the Netherlands coast to add its bombs to the deluge.

In a parallel diversionary assault, more than 400 Liberators of the U. S. Eighth airforce split a load of 1,200 tons of bombs between the Magdeburg railyards and the synthetic oil plant at Rothensee, a suburb of Magdeburg. The latter is one of the last four oil plants still supplying fuel to the German air and ground forces.

Hit Railway Stations

The target for the tremendous assault on Berlin was the heart of the city and included the Anhalter and Potsdamer railway stations, the Tempelhof yards and military and government buildings in which the Nazis' struggle to direct defense measures and handle the masses of refugees are centered.

It was the 204th air attack on Berlin of the war, including night Mosquito atacks by the RAF, but it was by far the most concentrated on the center of the city. A larger number of American planes attacked Berlin June 21, 1944, but their bombloads were dispersed through the industrial suburbs.

The RAF has made 22 major heavy bomber attacks on the Nazi capital. Today's was the sixteenth 8th Air Force assault on the city and it brought American bomb tonnage dropped there to 13,000 and the Allied total to nearly 50,000.

Purpose Of Raid Twofold

The apparent purpose of the massive raid on Berlin was twofold—to shatter military transportation between the East and West fronts and to deal a blow to enemy morale.

"The attack was aimed at disrupting communications through the capital city," the official announcement of the attack stated, "and at disorganizing control of military forces within the Reich at this crucial time."

Lyle, having led the attack, watched hundreds of the Fortresses which followed him drop their loads, striking the targets squarely.

"Everything dropped in the target area," he reported. "I got my first good look at Berlin today. It was beautiful bombing weather. I could watch every plane in the sky for 50 or 60 miles."

German radio stations went haywire after broadcasting a warning at 11 A.M. that Allied bombers were over northwestern Germany and headed east. Regular transmissions were canceled.

1,000 Forts Strike Heart Of Capital In Daylight

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—More than 1,000 United States Flying Fortresses blasted and burned the heart of Berlin today in the greatest air blow ever dealt the German capital, and not a single Nazi fighter opposed the raiders.

Nearly 3,000 tons of bombs were dropped in 45 minutes on the capital, teeming with refugees and now almost in the front line of land war.

For the first time in a major attack, no German planes fought in the air over Berlin itself to disrupt the bombers' aim.

20 Downed Near City

But in dogfights near the city twenty Nazi fighters were shot down and thirteen more were wrecked aground.

The record attack was aimed directly at military and communications targets in the center of the city menaced by Soviet armies which the Germans say are only 40 miles away.

More than 400 Liberators, staging a diversionary attack that confused Berlin's defenders, pounded a synthetic oil plant and rail yards on the outskirts of Magdeburg, 65 miles southwest of Berlin.

900-Plane Shield

The United States 8th Air Force bombers were shielded by more than 900 Mustangs and Thunderbolts which streamed from Magdeburg to Berlin in a protective shuttle, cutting down fighter opposition to the bombers.

An 8th Air Force staff officer said targets included important military and governmental office buildings, the Anhalter and Potsdamer railway stations and Templehof rail yards.

"The attack was aimed at disrupting communications through the capital and disorganizing control of military forces within the Reich at this crucial time," he said. "Berlin is the hub through which flows vital communications lines between the Eastern and Western fronts."

Good Results Indicated

First reports indicated generally good results, although bombardiers sighted through broken clouds.

The RAF in its heaviest attack on Berlin, last February 15, dropped 2,500 tons of bombs.

Today's assault was more spectacular than the 1,000-bomber raid by the 8th Air Force last June 21, which set the previous record, and more devastating to the center of the city.

The strength of the June 21 formations was dispersed over a wide area of Berlin's outlying industrial zone, but today's blows were concentrated on the very center.

204th Raid On City

It was the two hundred and fourth raid of the war on Berlin, and brought the total of bombs dropped there to nearly 50,000 tons—seven times the amount the Germans dumped on London during the aerial battle of Britain.

The RAF has made 22 major heavy bomber attacks. RAF Mosquitos have hit the capital with two-ton blockbusters in 165 night attacks, and American raids account for the rest.

From mid-morning until noon the Berlin Achtung service flashed warnings every few minutes that groups of Allied aircraft were heading for the area of the capital.

Timetable Schedule

The alarms started when the first formations of Fortresses and Liberators sped over northern Holland into Germany, and were maintained on timetable schedule until the aerial storm struck in full force.

All radio services of the German news agency DNB apparently were affected by the attack. After some crossing of beams, both overseas and home transmitters either remained silent or simply sent call signs and test messages for nearly three hours.

Reconnaissance photographs show great areas of Berlin burned out by earlier attacks, but other sections which are known to have been heavily hit have been hastily repaired. All of the 103 factories regarded by the Ministry of Economic Warfare as of the highest importance to Germany's war effort or economic survival are reported leveled or badly damaged.

Has Tenth Of Reich Plants

As a war target, Berlin contains one tenth of all the key factories of military importance in urban Germany—as many as in Munich, Leipzig, Cologne, Hannover and Mannheim combined. It is essentially a processing rather than a heavy-industry center.

The chief administrative offices of the Reich's transport system are located in Berlin, and fourteen main railway lines radiate from the city.

Spearheaded by Brig. Gen. Howard Turner's 1st Air Division, which was led by Col. Lewis Pyle, of Pine Bluff, Ark., the three forces of Fortresses and Liberators flew into Germany in a column 300 miles long.

Third Branches Off

The first two headed straight for Berlin and the third branched off to Magdeburg.

The raids followed attacks last night by more than 1,200 RAF bombers on rail and communications at Wiesbaden, 20 miles southwest of Frankfurt-on-the-Main, and at Karlsruhe, just across the northeast corner of Alsace. The British lost 25 aircraft.

In addition to hitting the two Rhine Valley cities, the RAF bombed a synthetic oil plant at Wanne-Eickel, in the Dortmund region.

VAST DAMAGE DONE IN RAID ON BERLIN

A United States Bomber Base, England, Feb. 3 A. P.).—American flyers back from Berlin today declared incredible devastation had been inflicted on the Nazi capital.

"It was wide open," jubilantly exclaimed Capt. Charles D. Bennett of Dallas, Tex., lead bombardier of the second group to hit the city. "I saw the Tiergarten on one side and Templehof Airdromo on the other. Right in the middle was our target—the railway marshalling yards—and we let 'em have it.

"There wasn't a cloud over the city," continued Capt. Bennett, a veteran of the Schweinfurt raid, "and we came in a squadron at a time. If any city ever took a pasting, that's it. It'll burn for days."

Staff Sergt. Kenneth Stafford of Frankfort, Mich., a tail gunner on one of the first ships, said the target areas were just one big cloud of dust and smoke as his squadron headed home.

"It was the best bomb pattern I have ever seen in thirty-two missions," added Staff Sergt. John Raush of Evansville, Ind., a ball turret gunner.

Goebbels Talk To Berlin Due

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—Paul Joseph Goebbels was scheduled to address the people of Berlin today over the city's wired broadcast system, a means of communication which keeps his words from the rest of the German people and the outside world, the Nazi-controlled Danish radio said.

These broadcasts are transmitted over telephone lines and can be heard in homes or gathering places through radio loud-speakers, the Federal Communications Commission explained.

Moscow broadcasts last night declared Goebbels, the Gauleiter of Berlin as well as Hitler's plenipotentiary for war mobilization, had left Berlin.

RUSSIANS URGE DRIVE IN WEST

Believe It Would End War; Can't Understand Delay

Moscow, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Red Army offensive has brought to the fore in the Soviet Union an urgent desire on the part of the Russians for more activity from the Americans and British on the Western front.

It is believed in Moscow that a quick end to the war is possible with equal blows against Germany from the west and east.

During the past week Soviet commentators in international and military affairs have urged in plain words resumption of an all-out offensive by the western Allies.

Can't See Why Not

A deep-seated feeling exists here that the Allies may miss the opportunity of a lifetime to end the war if they do not open up this week with all-out attacks on the Siegfried Line and in Italy. The Russians do not see any reason why the United States and Britain do not drive into the Nazis' western defenses.

The press here is full of reports from the Russian front, quotations from German prisoners and even from American and British papers, saying that the Germans have moved or are moving large numbers of troops, tanks and planes from the west and hurling them into the Oder salient in the east.

Read Production Figures

The best estimate here is that the Germans have nearly 200 divisions on the eastern front from Norway to Yugoslavia, with dozens of their best massed with the people's army around the Oder.

The Russians are convinced that the Germans do not have one third this strength on the Western front. Constant readers of staggering production figures from the United States, the Russians cannot be persuaded that the Americans lack material for an offensive.

The conclusion of the average Russian reader of American and British propaganda is that either the propaganda is too optimistic or the Allies are holding back in the west for some unknown reason.

Russian writers also feel that there is no need for restraining themselves when dealing with this subject because they are recalling now that before the Soviet winter offensive, United States and British writers were complaining of the "stalemates" in Poland and East Prussia.

WOMAN SLAVE FARM DISCOVERED IN REICH

MOSCOW, Feb. 3 (AP)—A dispatch in the Army newspaper Red Star said today that Soviet troops who captured a baronial estate in Silesia had discovered a huge slave farm where Russian women had been held in reserve for German employers.

A large group of the women, crying and thankful over their liberation, told the Red Army soldiers that the operators of the farm had fled with other Germans to a safer area, the dispatch said.

Several thousand girls and women were placed in a large barbed-wire enclosure as landowners, factory managers and rich housewives arrived in picnic style to select their slave workers, Red Star related.

"They felt our muscles, arms and legs," one girl was quoted as having said, "trying to find out who was the strongest and who was able to do the most work. They made us open our mouths and looked at our teeth like we were animals."

The liberated women added that the strongest were taken away to work in factories and farms, and the weaker ones were sent to domestic service in homes.

'Remember '18' Is Nazis' Cry To Bar Yielding

FEB 4 1945

Broadcast Interrupted With Cry: 'The End, the End'; Panic Is Said to Spread

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Feb. 3.—Broadcasts from Moscow declared today that panic reigned in many parts of Germany. The German press and radio, obviously trying to bolster home-front morale against an Allied demand for immediate surrender which may come from the meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, chorused: "Remember 1918."

Reports from neutral countries said Berlin, still jammed with refugees, was threatened with famine because of the influx from the east and the loss of food stocks in territory taken by the Russians.

The official D. N. B. news agency mysteriously signaled the words "Schluss, Schluss" (the end, then end), tonight in the middle of one of its regular broadcasts after the daylight raid on Berlin by American bombers.

The words "Schluss, Schluss" were recorded at The Associated Press listening post where machines pickup radio signals from German transmission stations presumably situated in Berlin.

"Schluss" sometimes is used by German broadcasters to indicate the end of a transmission period, but never before, Associated Press listeners said, has it been interjected during a transmission.

Market Reports in English

The D. N. B. transmission had been interrupted by the daylight raid on Berlin and was jumbled when broadcasts were resumed, but when "Schluss" came transmitting facilities appeared to be operating satisfactorily and the signals came clearly.

In a message "for Nauen (a German short-wave station) only," the D. N. B. European service transmitted "market reports from Berlin" in English tonight. The listeners said this also was unprecedented and that the market reports always before had been in German.

A Russian broadcast asserted that Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, who had been charged with the defense of Berlin by Adolf Hitler, had fled to Bavaria, but the Nazi-controlled Danish radio said Goebbels would speak today to the people of the threatened capital on the municipal broadcast system. This is a means of communication which would limit his address to the Berlin area.

Spanish correspondents wrote that Nazi relief organizations and members of the home army were having difficulty controlling the refugees and keeping them moving through Berlin to points farther west.

Munich Seen as New Capital

Munch, said a Swiss correspondent, is "hourly becoming more and more the capital of the Reich."

A dispatch from Stockholm said that Berlin's entire population, including old men, women and children, was being armed to defend the city and that prisoners in jails were being shot.

Another Swiss report said thousands of deserters from the German Army were hiding in Berlin and that most of the anti-aircraft guns protecting the city had been moved to the Oder River defense line or to Munich.

Other neutral reports said anti-Hitler posters and scribblings were appearing on walls in many German cities, flouting the trumpeting of newspapers that "all enemy claims cannot be achieved if the German people have the firm will not to capitulate."

'The End, The End,' Says Berlin Radio

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—A broadcast of the official German news agency DNB was interrupted without explanation tonight with the exclamations "The end, the end."

News transmissions were broken up frequently with exclamations "Schluss! Schluss!" Veteran listeners said this was a most unusual procedure and that "Schluss," meaning "end," never was used in any routine transmissions.

The exclamations of "Schluss!" came from the transmitting station DLX.

The flow of propaganda usually broadcast from the main German agencies—Transocean and DNB—virtually stopped during and after the raid on Berlin. The interruption, however, apparently was not due to the damage of stations as the transmitters continued to put out call signals.

After a long pause tonight the German home service came on the air and said there was no material available.

It also put in the usual words "Schluss DLP" (the call sign of the home service) and repeated them twice before closing down.

Stand Firm, Germans Urged

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—The German press and radio sounded the theme of "Remember 1918" in appeals today to Germans to stand firm against battlefront setbacks and any Allied calls for surrender.

Promising nothing, German newspapers declared, "All enemy aims cannot be achieved if the German people have the firm will not to capitulate."

Anti-Hitler Posters

Dispatches from neutral capitals and Allied broadcasts said anti-Hitler posters and slogans were appearing on walls in large German cities. Moscow radio said, "There is no doubt of panic reigning in many sections of Germany."

Berlin was reported in various dispatches as teeming with refugees. One Swiss newspaper's Berlin dispatch said the city was threatened with famine due to overcrowding and the loss of huge food stocks to the Russians in the East. Munich, it added, is "hourly becoming more and more the capital of the Reich."

Russ Call For Attacks

A Moscow broadcast called for an Allied attack on the Western front, and declared weather and terrain should not delay it.

"The ground is ripe for a blow at the Germans in the West that would crush the thinned ranks of Hitler's armies stationed there, and the time is also ripe," the Soviet commentator declared.

Goebbels Fled, Says Report

Another Soviet broadcast asserted that Gauleiter Paul Joseph Goebbels and his Propaganda Ministry had alreadty deserted Berlin for Bavaria, although he was charged by Hitler with defense of the capital.

Deputy Gauleiter Gerhard Schach announced that he would speak nightly on the Berlin radio.

The Berlin correspondent of Madrid's Falange organ, Arriba, wrote that "in the midst of the chaotic mass of people filling the squares and streets of Frankfurt," refugees were being cared for with difficulty by the Nazi party refugees services.

The correspondent said the "wild unruly mass fleeing from the East to the West" was being canalized toward the German capital, which since January 15 "has suffered an avalanche of refugees who stayed there temporarily before being shipped toward central and southern Germany."

Digging Trenches

Other Spanish correspondents said members of the Berlin Volkssturm (home guards) had been forced to serve as control agents for the refugees in addition to digging trenches for the "Battle of Berlin."

Arriba's correspondent said the sight of refugees with suitcases and trunks piled on wagons and wheelbarrows was strange in Germany, although it was familiar in most of the belligerent countries of Europe.

"Caravan after caravan," he continued, "ceaselessly follow each other along the roads, using every available vehicle and taking livestock and whatever belongings they are able."

Nazis Admit Shift Of Troops to East

London, Feb. 3 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio said today that German troops have been shifted from the western front to the east in an attempt to stop the Russian breakthrough. The broadcast declared, however, that "Eisenhower has found that German resistance has not slackened" in the west.

The broadcast asserted that some Americans taken prisoner left New York only three weeks ago.

Von Paulus Reported In Bern To 'Negotiate'

Paris, Feb. 3 (AP)—The newspaper Le Monde reported today that dispatches from Berlin said Nazi Field Marshal Friedrich Von Paulus, member of the Soviet-sponsored Free Germany Committee, had arrived to negotiate peace terms with the Allies. Von Paulus surrendered the German 6th Army at Stalingrad in February, 1943.

AMERICANS POISED FOR FINAL DRIVE TO SEIZE CAPITAL

Await Arrival of Supporting Heavy Guns Before Assaulting City.

MEET LIGHT RESISTANCE

Two Doughboy Columns Racing Neck to Neck to Enter Bastion.

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Central Luzon, Sunday, Feb. 4—(AP) Yank columns are fast approaching Manila, far outdistancing the official reports today which put them less than 15 miles away on the north at 6 p. m. Friday.

"American big guns are close enough this evening for Manila residents to hear them," reported Associated Press correspondent Russell Brines with the 37th division which is in a neck and neck drive with the motorized First Cavalry division for the honor of being the first to enter the city.

Reach Manila Outskirts

(Broadcast reports from Luzon today referred to patrols reaching the "outskirts" without specifying places).

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th was running into just enough harrassing resistance along Highway three skirting Manila bay to permit the First Cavalry of Maj. Gen. Vern Mudge, driving on the east down Highway five, to pull abreast.

The First virtually was unopposed in a truck, jeep and tank march.

Air observers reported no sign of enemy defenses at Manila itself, but Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, commanding the 14th Army Corps, emphasized he would not risk sending the 37th and 1st Cavalry into a trap but would pace their advance with that of supporting heavy guns.

However, Filipinos drifting out of Manila all told of Japanese—sailors, marines and soldiers—remaining in the city.

Dean Schedler, Associated Press war correspondent with the First Cavalry spearheads, said "this flying squadron has done virtually no fighting, leaving bypassed Japanese pockets to the main columns following."

Gen. Douglas MacArthur moved his headquarters into central Luzon to be closer to the climax punch poised at the city where he had his headquarters when the war broke Dec. 8, 1941 (Dec. 7, U. S. Date).

Today's communique made no mention of any enemy resistance as it spotlighted a heavy movement of the First cavalry down to the Angat river where its patrols were reported yesterday. First cavalry elements then crossed the river at Bustos to make the closer approach.

General Beightler's 37th, originally called the "Buckeye division" but presently representing virtually every state in the union, has the inside track as it has had throughout a 114 road mile drive from Lingayen gulf where it landed Jan. 9.

Slight Enemy Resistance

Brines, with the 37th, said the infantrymen were "crossing blasted bridges and fighting pocket-sized battles against small but bitterly resisting groups of Japanese."

Arthur Feldman, Blue network correspondent in a broadcast from Luzon said there are rumors the road approaches to Manila have been heavily mined by the enemy the past few days.

(He said it is known the Japanese Marine garrison in Manila is intact and pointed out that only 6,000 Japanese could put up a bitter fight, utilizing sections of the city suited for last-stand operations).

The First cavalry, in which Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, imprisoned hero of Corregidor once served as a senior officer, was on virtual even terms with the 37th, pushing through San Ildefonso and San Miguel in Bulacan province.

Ahead of these advancing Yanks, measuring their progress to permit the bringing up of supporting heavy artillery, bombers in force attacked Corregidor and Cavite naval base.

They started numerous fires and explosions.

On the left flank, First corps troops pushed on through the Caraballo mountains and shelled Tumana, two miles south of San Jose in Nueva Ecija province.

The 25th division captured Umingan after inflicting heavy casualties on the Japanese in heavy fighting.

Japs Lose 33,000

General MacArthur announced that enemy casualties in the Luzon campaign for the first three weeks exceeded 33,000.

American casualties for the same period were 5,589, including 1,271 killed, 219 missing and 4,099 wounded.

Yanks of the 38th and 24th division which landed last Monday on Zambales province northwest of Manila have punched eight miles across the base of Bataan peninsula from seized Olongapo naval base.

The 11th Airborne division of the Eighth army, which landed Wednesday in Batangas province southwest of Manila have captured Caylungan, 13 miles inland, in their drive toward Cavite naval base.

In the First corps sector along the east side of the central Luzon plains, where all operations are aimed at widening the gap between Japanese forces on north and south Luzon, other 25th division troops captured Santa Maria.

This town is at the entrance to the Villaverde trail leading northeast into Cagayan valley. It is into this valley that Japanese forces have been retreating, including the main garrison which fled from the infamous prison camp near Cabanatuan shortly before more than 500 prisoners were rescued there.

Sakishima Islands Hit

Philippines-based heavy bombers ranged over the China sea northeast of Formosa to attack the Sakishima islands, touching off large explosions at the Toko seaplane base.

Three small enemy freighters were set afire by patrol planes off the China coast and several others were damaged. These patrol planes flew to the vicinity of Hongkong near which a floatplane was shot down.

Other air patrols attacked oil refineries on Dutch Borneo and enemy bivouacs at Dutch Celebes.

In the lesser Sundas, a small freighter was sunk by air action and two others damaged.

Liberation of Manila must await the bringing up of heavy guns and equipment, Maj. Gen. Griswold, veteran field commander, warned as the capital, eagerly awaiting delivery, faced the prospect today of complete blockade by overwhelming American power.

Two American columns of Griswold's 14th army corps were rapidly approaching the city from the north, still without meeting organized resistance.

One of these, the Distinguished First Cavalry division, was sweeping down the eastern side of the Luzon plains area and was within 24 miles of the queen city of the Philippines.

Yanks In Race For Manila

New York, Feb. 3—NBC said today the British Broadcasting Corporation had announced that American troops were reported to be within 2 miles of Manila. The broadcast said American troops there met no Japanese resistance.

MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, Feb. 3 (AP) — Two powerful American armored columns raced toward Manila from the north today with strong indications that the Philippine capital would soon be liberated without a major fight. One United States force was less than 18 air miles away.

First Cavalry (dismounted) Division troops drove a new arrow toward Manila Thursday by sweeping 57 miles in 24 hours down the east flank of the central Luzon plain to Sabang, within 24 miles of Manila, and beyond.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today this sensational thrust completely severed Japanese forces in the north and south of Luzon.

Angat River Crossed

Even closer to MacArthur's prime objective were elements of the 37th Division, which led the advance down central Luzon. These Yanks crossed the Angat River to the environs of Malolos, important communications center just 17 air miles to the north.

[American mechanized units are 24 miles from Manila, the Japanese Domei agency admitted today.

["Embittered fighting is raging in all sectors on Luzon Island between the Japanese defenders and American invaders," said the Tokyo overseas broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.]

A third American spear was pointed at Manila from the southwest, in Batangas province, where the 11th Airborne Division landed virtually unopposed Wednesday.

Neither of the two columns speeding toward Manila from the north met anything but scattered, ineffective resistance as they rolled along fine highways which converge a few miles north of the city. There was no indication the Japanese would put up a stand.

Race To Get There First

"It is definitely a race between forward elements of the 1st Cavalry and the 37th Division to see who enters Manila first," wrote Associated Press Correspondent Richard Bergholz.

[Arthur Feldman, Blue network reporter, broadcast from Luzon that "strange as it seems, everything points to the fact that we should get to Manila in just the space of time it takes us to move the men and equipment on the road."]

For the first time since the Luzon invasion, January 9, Japanese warships were spotted near the island. Three enemy destroyers were observed off the northwest coast on Wednesday and immediately were engaged by United States medium bombers. In a two-day running battle one destroyer was sunk and the other two severely damaged.

Greatest Single Advance

The 1st Cavalry's 57-mile sweep toward Manila, greatest single advance of the Luzon campaign, took in the towns of Cabanatuan, Santa Rosa, Gapan and Sabang; on the Angat River only 12 miles east of the 37th Division spearhead.

This "gives us dominance of all major roads and railroads in the central plain," MacArthur announced. "With the loss of all main lines of communication, the enemy's forces in the north and south of Luzon are now totally severed."

Further, the 25th Division in the northern sector established road blocks south of Captured Umingan, "giving us complete control of the last remaining highway in the northern central plain."

Six-Mile Gain

Eighth Army troops put ashore just north of Subic Bay last Monday advanced 6 miles toward a juncture with 6th Army units forking westward from San Fernando to seal off the Bataan Peninsula. Only light resistance was encountered as the 8th moved east of the captured Olongapo naval base, already being converted to American use.

The 11th Airborne southwest of Manila gained 9 miles from its beachhead to seize an airfield near Wawa in a drive toward Tagaytay Ridge, which commands highways leading to the Cavite naval base and Manila.

In advance of these forces, Liberator bombers poured a devastating load of 109 tons of explosives on the Cavite base.

The Japanese tried to break up the Batangas invasion Wednesday night. They sent 30 heavily armed seacraft into the Nasugbu landing area with torpedoes and depth charges. The attack was broken up by the American naval screen, but "slight damage" was acknowledged.

Heavy bombers, flying with a fighter escort, pounded southern Formosa air bases. Speedy American motor torpedo boats sank two coastal ships laden with troops and supplies in the Visayan Sea of the central Philippines.

MacArthur Cheered As He Nears Manila

With American Troops in the Philippines, Feb. 2 [AP—Delayed]. Ringing church bells and flower-bedecked villages welcomed Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as he jeeped ahead with his most advanced infantry patrols, which took him—had the road been on a hilltop—almost within sight of the outskirts of the Manila he left more than three years ago.

The five-star general ran into small-sized ovations in several barrios whose inhabitants loudly shouted, "Viva Mockarthur!" and "Veektory!" the inevitably greeting of all Filipinos to everybody in American uniform on Luzon.

General MacArthur has been far forward on Luzon before but never received a reception like today.

General Griswold Cautious

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON LUZON, Feb. 3 (AP)—An epidemic of eagerness to be the first into Manila spread among American forces converging on that city today, but General Griswold, commander of the Fourteenth Corps, moved with caution until heavy guns and equipment can be brought up.

"No troops under my command are entering the city until they have heavier guns and heavy equipment," General Griswold told an Associated Press correspondent.

"Bridges and beans are still more of a problem than bullets or Japs. I am not going to throw good military judgment to the wind to stage a footrace into a city which for all we know may be stoutly defended.

"This is a very real military operation and not a gala holiday outing."

The general's statement was made while awaiting completion of the twelfth bridging operation in as many hours.

Flyers Scouting Manila See No Jap Defenses

By Fred Hampson

With Advanced Units of the 37th Division, Feb. 2 [AP—Delayed]—If there were any extensive Japanese defenses around the approaches to Manila I could not see them during a flight over the city today. Our observation plane drew no fire from the ground.

The plane was flown by Lieut. Bert Williams, of Syracuse, N.Y. Visibility was poor but from what we could see the city appeared quiet and, except for the waterfront areas, little damaged. Along the harbor front we saw a small fire but could not determine whether it was from demolitions or ordinary causes.

Yanks Nearing Manila

Returning northward we saw American infantrymen swinging along easily toward Manila, which from the air appeared to be patiently awaiting their arrival.

Buckeye boys of this Ohio National Guard division had driven within 20 road miles of Manila by nightfall of February 2 (time and distance limit set by communiqué) while the 1st Cavalry spearhead was only a few miles behind on a parallel highway in a hot race for the honor of winning the biggest plum of the Pacific war to date.

Logistics Only Bar

If the Japanese intended a stiff defense of the Philippines at Manila there was no indication of it as the 37th Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, sent several battalions of the 145th and 148th Regiments across the Pampanga River. By night they were well past the swamps which extend to Manila bay and they are still advancing.

As the doughboys of the 37th raced for the prime goal of the Luzon campaign, logistics—not the Japanese—provided the only bar to imminent success. But engineers had been working all day and will be working all night to span the Pampanga River and canal to permit passage of heavy vehicles—it takes more than a demolished bridge to stop these eager infantrymen—and lighter vehicles were ferried across.

Cavalry Rolls Forward

The cavalry, starting fresh and assigned a more easterly route, was able to ford the Pampanga River and roll forward with little assistance from special engineering units attached to a jeep, truck and tank mounted cavalry division.

While the cavalrymen so far are having plain sailing, the 37th was delayed five hours yesterday at the approaches to Malolos (20 miles from Manila) and several hours longer at a village on the lateral road. Small bands of enemy troops, with a few armored cars, anti-tank guns and machine guns, fought until the situation was hopeless, then withdrew after destroying their equipment.

Capt. Patch Awarded D.S.C. Posthumously

Sixth Army Group Headquarters, Feb. 3 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers awarded the Distinguished Service Cross posthumously today to Capt. Alexander M. Patch 3d, son of Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch, Jr., commander of the United States 7th Army.

Young Patch was wounded in an engagement in which he led a company against the enemy in a forest near Sailly last August, but insisted on remaining at the head of his company for two hours until the objective was in sight.

He was wounded fatally last October in Parroy Forest. Previously he had been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and the Silver Star.

Sees Jap Army Awaiting Navy

U. S. Expert Suggests Luzon Troops May Be Forcing Showdown With Fleet.

Washington, Feb. 3 (A. P.).—The Japanese Army on Luzon, engaged in a strangely listless battle with American forces, may be using this occasion for a showdown with the Tokyo Admiralty before the hour comes to defend the homeland.

This is suggested by an American naval spokesman in discussing the mystery of the relatively light enemy resistance to Gen. MacArthur's land forces on Luzon.

He recalls that high Japanese Army commanders, both in the field and at home, have been urging the Navy to come out and fight.

"We think," said the spokesman "that Gen. Yamashita is waiting for support from the Navy and air forces."

But the Navy, he said, has shrunk to "the size of a task force." He did not elaborate. But it was evident that he implied that the Japanese Navy does not even approach its peak size.

And a breakdown of Japanese ships sunk or damaged bears out his point.

Shipping Losses Heavy.

Navy figures show that in the last eight months more Japanese vessels have been sunk or damaged than in the two and a half years of war prior to that time.

Since the first battle of the Philippines on June 19, 1944, 911 enemy ships have been sunk compared with 871 prior to that time.

In addition, 104 Japanese ships probably have been sunk and 710 damaged since June 19—an average of fifty a week sunk or damaged.

A breakdown of the losses since June 19 includes 152 combatant and 759 non-combatant ships sunk while of the 871 before then 152 were combatant and 719 non-combatant.

He said the latest data on the second battle of the Philippines in late October showed twenty-three enemy combatant ships sunk and possibly twenty-five.

These included three battleships, the Yamashiro, the Fuso and the Musashi; four carriers, one large and three light; six heavy cruisers; three to four light cruisers and seven to eight destroyers.

The Navy's recapitulation listed in addition to enemy ships sunk, eighty-three as probably sunk before June 19 and 104 probably sunk since; 429 damaged before June 19 and 710 damaged since.

This makes a grand total of 1,383 sunk or damaged before June 19 and 1,725 since for a grand total of 3,108 sunk, probably sunk or damaged by naval forces since December 7, 1941.

A Million Await Liberation in Stricken Manila

3,600 American Internees at Santo Tomas Have Been Waiting for 3 Years

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP).—Recapture of Manila will free nearly a million Filipinos reportedly on the verge of starvation, and probably 3,600 American civilians who may be in equally squalid circumstances. Most of them have been interned at Santo Tomas University since early 1942.

A large proportion of the Americans are women and children, families of the business men, missionaries, engineers and others caught there in 1941. With them are probably 900 other Allied nationals, mostly British. All probably are wearing the clothes they had on Jan. 2, 1942, when the Japanese told them they were going in for a day or two "to be registered."

About 500 more Americans are interned at Baguio, near the northern American flank on Luzon, and another 1,500 at Los Banos, a town forty miles southeast of Manila on the south shore of Laguna De Bay which lies in the path of the new landing force at Nasugbu.

Much uncertainty has existed here in recent months about the welfare of the Manila internees. The breakdown of communications all over Luzon has cut off the population from provincial food supplies it needs to live. Japanese confiscation, inflation and black markets aggravate the scarcities.

The internee population at Santo Tomas rose abruptly last spring from a crowded 3,000 or so to well above 4,000 when the Japanese interned the last Allied nationals who had been allowed to live outside the camp because of poor health, advanced age, or other reasons.

It is believed here that the camp had some food reserves on hand for just such an emergency and for an expected siege of Manila, but it is known that for many months now the internees have had but one meal daily from the camp kitchen, in addition to a breakfast of rice soup.

Filipino refugees from Manila who have reached the American lines recently have told a uniform story of "famine conditions" in the city, with the poor dying daily in the streets.

Rescued Men Comment On Experiences

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—The survivors of Bataan, Corregidor and Singapore who were rescued this week from a Japanese prison camp took everything the enemy could give for three years, but still came up smiling and full of wisecracks, Pat Flaherty, NBC correspondent, said in a broadcast from the Philippines last night.

Here are the comments of some of the men with whom Flaherty talked:

Corporal Cecil Hay, of San Antonio, Texas, said he had a pretty rough go of it. He was on Bataan and made the "March of Death."

"No Compromise"

"But it's all over now," he continued, "and Uncle Sam soon will have us home where I can be with my wife and baby again. As for the Japs, there can be no compromise. Unconditional surrender is even too good for them. The ones I have seen are not human."

Sergt. Donald W. Bridges, of Oakland, Cal., also recommended complete annihilation for the Japs. He's looking forward to seeing his father and aunts in California.

In the same group was Private Philip G. Rhode, of Newton, Mass.

No Letters In 3 Years

"I'm hoping it won't be long until I am sitting down again with mother and father back there in Newton, Mass.," he said.

Staff Sergeant Dico, of Crockett, Cal., has a mother and a sweetheart back there. It has been three years since he has had a letter from either.

"Tell my mom," he said, "that I'm all right and getting better every day now." He paused briefly and then added: "Gosh, I hope the girl friend is still waiting for me. It has been a long time."

"Could Have Been Worse"

Corporal George Reed, of Walla Walla, Wash., went to the Philippines in January, 1941, and was on Corregidor when it was surrendered. "It was never so bad that it couldn't have been worse," he said, adding that his last letter was delivered to him in September, 1944.

Sergt. Donald M. Smith, of Boulder, Col., told of his first sight of one of our Cub observation planes hovering over their camp.

"Gosh, I thought to myself, is that what our Army has come to! Is that what they're going to send to us," he said.

He knows now that that little plane was doing much of the work that the Rangers needed to make their strategy foolproof.

CAPTIVES' PAY READY

Washington, Feb. 3 (A. P.).—There's a fortune on ice for the soldiers freed from Japanese captivity on Luzon.

For nearly three years the 500-odd officers and men have been in the enemy confines. Their pay has mounted.

And today, according to War Department finance officers, it represents a sum as yet untotaled but up into, and perhaps beyond, hundreds of thousands of dollars.

And, the War Department emphasized, it's ready and waiting.

Japanese Not 'Dead Ducks'

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 3 (AP)—The Navy's leading ace said today the Japs are cracking up but it will take two more years to finish them off.

"While their skill in the air is slipping, they're still a long way from being a bunch of dead ducks," commented Commander Dave McCampbell, of West Palm Beach, here on a visit to the naval air station.

The fighter pilot has 54 Jap planes to his credit—34 destroyed in the air and 20 on the ground. He's the hottest "one-day" pilot in the history of aerial warfare, having knocked down nine Nip aircraft in a day to set an all-time record.

"It doesn't make much difference whether a pilot is 20 or 30," the 35-year-old airman declared. "The important thing is to see your enemy first and have an altitude advantage. When the average American fighter pilot does that he usually comes out on top."

CONCILIATION COUNCIL SEEN

Big 3 Believed Planning Unit To Settle Allied Differences

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—The victory and peace deliberations of the Allied "Big Three" are believed here to include creation of a grand conciliation council to settle political and economic problems and prevent disagreement among the Allies on European policy.

The urgency for such organization has been underlined by admitted policy disagreements between Britain and the United States on Greece and Italy and the separate views of the Soviet Union and the British and Americans on the Polish question.

Quarterly Meetings?

Whether this organization will be called the "grand conciliation council" or by another name was not known, but its creation was considered certain in informed London quarters.

In this connection, the Big Three also are reported considering a proposal for a quarterly meeting of their foreign ministers to effect closer liaison.

Such meetings were proposed by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in Commons last December when Anglo-American relations were at their lowest point of the war.

The grand council idea is more significant from the American viewpoint, since both the Secretary of State, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and the President's adviser, Harry Hopkins, recently have made it clear that the United States intends to take a firm hand in European affairs.

Partnership Into Bulwark

Its creation would go a long way toward turning the United Nations partnership into a bulwark for peace, most diplomatic sources agreed.

It also would be a step toward solution of one of the major problems before the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference, the implementing of the future world security league with powers to make its mandates stick.

The meeting place of the Big Three still was one of the most guarded secrets of the war, a contrast to the previous gathering, when word "leaked" that Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin were meeting at Tehran.

"Sensational Declaration"

The German radio reported that the current meeting had started at the Romanian Black Sea port of Constanta and attempted to bolster the Reich's home front against a "surrender-now" demand from the heads of the allied states.

The Germans were told to expect a "sensational declaration" from the meeting which would be aimed at shattering the nation's morale and were warned against "seemingly innocent phrases" promising a soft peace.

RHATIGAN GETS NEW POST

Former Welfare Chief to Assist UNRRA Operations in Europe

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Edward E. Rhatigan, former New York City Welfare Commissioner, has been named deputy director general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in charge of operations at the European regional office, it was announced today.

He succeeds Lithgow Osborne, now the American Ambassador to Norway.

Mr. Rhatigan, whose home was in Ridgewood, Queens, was appointed director of public assistance by William Hodson of the Welfare Commission in March of 1941. When Mr. Hodson was killed in an airplane crash while on his way to direct relief in North Africa for the Office of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations, Mr. Rhatigan was serving as first deputy welfare commissioner.

He resigned his position with the city Nov. 1, 1943, to join the same organization, under the State Department, and was honored at a farewell dinner here by 500 of his friends and associates in State and city welfare work.

ZIONISTS GET BACKING OF BRITISH LIBERALS

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—A Liberal party conference voted today to reverse the policy of the British White Paper that called for limited Jewish immigration into Palestine and to return to the Jewish national home idea of the Balfour Declaration.

If the Liberal party resolution, adopted after a sharp debate, becomes the policy of the British Government, it would mean scrapping the 1939 White Paper that Jewish spokesmen have been criticizing for years.

The White Paper called for the creation of a joint Arab-Jewish state by 1949 and for the limitation of the Jewish influx into Palestine to 75,000 up to 1944. The Balfour Declaration of 1917 was much more pro-Zionist and said that "His Majesty's Government view with favor the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people."

Lublin Poles In Warsaw 'For Permanent Work'

London, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Lublin Polish provisional government has arrived in Warsaw "for permanent work," the Moscow radio announced today.

The broadcast, quoting a Tass message from Warsaw dated yesterday, said that President Boleslaw Bierut, Premier Edward Osubka-Morawski and Vice Premier Vladislaw Gomolka and Stanislaw Janusz had reached the Polish capital accompanied by other ministers and "leading figures of the State apparatus."

U.S. Forces Within Mile Of Break Through Line

First Army Spearheads Advance Deeper Into Germany.

PARIS, Feb. 3—(AP) American troops thrust three miles deeper into Germany today to within a mile of a break through the permanent fortifications of the Siegfried Line and pushed the last Germans off Belgian soil.

U. S. First army spearheads were 11 miles inside the western border of the Reich and 31 miles from the Rhine, while the French First army and its American reinforcements in Alsace liberated the city of Colmar and carved a five-mile slice off the German Salient in that province.

Nazis Build New Defense

Total penetration of the Westwalls' double belt of defenses would not open the way completely for the continuing First army advance, as the Germans feverishly have been throwing up temporary fortifications farther back.

During the day, however, more that 1,000 U. S. heavy bombers reached the heart of Germany, spreading flaming ruin on refugee-packed Berlin only 40 miles or so from the Russian forces hammering at the embattled Nazis' last eastern lines of defenses.

First army Doughboys liberated Krewinkel, last German held town in the eastern tip of Belgium, a late front dispatch reported. In clearing the Germans from the three-mile by three-mile area held by the Germans east and northeast of St. Vith, the Americans seized three other towns earlier in the day.

(The Berlin radio said that despite thaws, Gen. Eisenhower was making "frantic preparations" behind the lines for a big push from the west, "with no effort to keep it secret.")

Yanks Smash Westwall

Two of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army divisions were ripping the vitals from German defenses due east of Monschau and 25 miles southeast of Aachen over rough, river-cut terrain where, if anywhere the Germans, should be expected to attempt a stand.

Now the veteran Second division, 11 miles deep into Germany, was entirely through the first belt of defenses, had surged across open country and seized the village of Bronsfeld, only a mile from Schlieden in the eastern edge of the Siegfried line.

The Ninth infantry division of a second communications center at Gemund, which also is a rear position in the elaborate Siegfried defenses.

Gemund is 16 miles south of Duren, where American forces are drawn up at the Roer river barrier to the Rhine plain—which would be outflanked unless Von Rundstedt could rally and stop this attack.

Schlieden is three miles south of Gemund. Both lie far east of the main belts of bunkers, pillboxes, dragons' teeth and mine-fields which the Germans—before American entry into the war—boasted never could be cracked.

By capturing Bronsfeld, the First army seized control of the main highways leading into Schleiden. The Ninth division captured Dreiborn, four miles from Gemund.

Against this growing attack, the Germans threw in service troops and rear echelon soldiers, but still the two divisions streamed through under artillery and mortar fire. More than a half dozen towns were engulfed in the sweep.

Battle in Ramscheid

Trouble was developing for the enemy five miles south of this sector, where the First division was through two rows of dragons' teeth and was battling in Ramscheid, a mile inside Germany and within the main westwall defenses.

Two miles farther south the 82nd airborne division completed the occupation of Udenbreth, with heights commanding all Siegfried positions in that area.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army ran into rocky resistance as it pressed to within five and a half miles of the Westwall's fortified communications city of Prum.

A front dispatch said fighting still was in progress at Bleialf, reported captured yesterday on this front, where the American lines have been thrust three and a half miles into the Reich.

Rain and mist, turning snowfields into quagmires, limited activity elsewhere on Patton's front to patrolling.

Counting the original gap torn in the Siegfried line at Aachen, and later extended to the north, Allied armies now are through 45 miles of the defenses and have broken through the inner belt on a 35-mile front from the Roer sector north of Aachen to a point south of Monschau.

Yanks Cross 1st Pillbox Belt Of Siegfried Line

Paris, Feb. 3 (AP)—United States 1st Army doughboys, smashing into the final West Wall defenses today in the Monschau sector, reached points little more than a mile from the last concrete fortifications. They had burst completely through the first pillbox belt of the double Siegfried Line.

The Americans punched their way into Bronsfeld, slightly more than a mile from Schleiden, which is on the eastern fringe of the Siegfried defenses. They occupied Bronsfeld, 9 miles southeast of Monschau, Berescheid and Dreiborn, 7½ miles east of Monschau, towns controlling the main highways to the communications center of Schleiden.

2d, 9th Make Gains

Gains of 3 miles and more were registered as the 2d and 9th divisions pushed through open country into the final Siegfried belt.

The German high command reported lively air activity and increasing artillery fire in Holland and on the front along the Roer River in Germany, amid rising indications of an impending Allied offensive.

"We Must Be Watchful"

Field Marshal von Rundstedt gave this cryptic command to his troops: "Orders for what we have to do have been given. Comrades, now more than ever we must be watchful."

The 2d Division, some 30 miles southeast of Aachen, and the 9th Division on its left flank, were pouring through the first breached defense belt and streaming across an open country gap under cover of artillery and mortar fire, toward the second and last zone of concrete barriers.

Colmar Almost Cleared

In the south, Colmar, the last great French city to be held by the Germans, was cleared except for a few holdout German strong points. Allied armor raced to points 5 miles south of the city, and the whole cross-Rhine pocket of the Germans began to collapse.

Along the 40-mile front of the attack on the Siegfried Line, the fighting at some points was described as the heaviest since the peak of the German pre-Christmas Ardennes breakthrough. Germans were springing to the counter-attack in some places from their concrete bunkers. But the 2d Division already was 10 miles or more inside Germany.

Gain Despite Resistance

Just south of the 9th and 2d Divisions, the 1st Infantry and 82d Airborne ran into harder going in the main defenses of the Siegfried Line, but they ground out some gains. In heavy fighting the 82d's 325th Glider Regiment and 424th Parachute Regiment cleared Udenbreth and beat off two counter-attacks, taking heights 1½ miles inside Germany and dominating West Wall defenses.

The 1st Division pushed ahead through two rows of dragons' teeth emplacements about a mile or more north of where the 18th Regiment captured Scheitert. Other infantry units captured Radscheid and three other hamlets, along and just across the Reich frontier east and slightly northeast of St. Vith.

Farther down the 40-mile assault front the Germans fought bitterly against the 3d Army push in the area of Bleialf, 5½ miles west of Prum, supply center for the defense line.

American and French troops in Alsace now have cleared at least 48 miles of the Rhine's west bank north and south of Strasbourg, removing the menace to that Alsatian capital.

Campholz Woods Cleared

Elements of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's 94th Division completed the clearing of the Campholz woods, 3 miles inside Germany and 15 miles southeast of the city of Luxembourg.

Elsewhere along the 3d Army front the Americans retained defensive positions and continued active patrol jabs.

Rain and mist returned to the 3d Army front. Rising temperatures accelerated the thaw.

Advance North Of Strasbourg

Americans of the 7th Army, aided at points by French units, advanced in the area 15 miles north of Strasbourg and doughboys pushed back across the Moder River on both sides of Haguenau.

Allied planes struck repeatedly in support of ground troops. They destroyed or damaged 64 locomotives, 1,312 railway cars, and 274 motor vehicles Friday.

British and Canadian patrols felt out German strength on the northern end of the front. Patrols were sent out in force across the Maas River northeast of Breda and southeast of Nijmegen and in the Venlo area.

As the American 1st and 3d Armies beat into the Siegfried Line, the 9th Army stood poised along the Roer River farther north, where a gap had been torn in the defense chain.

Breakthrough Move Seen

The pattern of day and night attack began increasingly to seal off the whole battle zone from Dusseldorf to Coblenz, perhaps preparing for a breakthrough bid for the Rhine.

Aircraft operating from the 1st Army area northward and east into Germany reported there was still considerable enemy movement east across the Reich.

Meanwhile, Supreme Headquarters declined to amplify an announcement that General Eisenhower and Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley were conferring at an undisclosed point on "current operations." The conference possibly presaged new blows against the Germans from the west in conjunction with the Russian drive.

Escape Gap Cut to Twelve Miles

ON THE ALSATIAN FRONT in France, Feb. 3 (AP)—With the city of Colmar completely liberated, the German escape gap in the shrinking pocket south of the freed Alsatian city has been reduced to less than twelve miles, it was announced tonight.

Allied artillery fire is smashing at the straggling Germans trying to flee back to the Rhine through the corridor now funneling through the Neuf-Brisach area and Chalampe on the south.

French First Army troops driving north freed Wittelsheim, east of Cernay, and reached the outskirts of Rossallemand and Tulbersheim. In the Rhine pocket north of Gambsheim, American Seventh Army forces maintained their grip on Oberhoffen, but withdrew in the Herrlisheim and Offendorf areas, where stiff opposition and a flooded terrain hampered operations.

Raiding operations and air blows at Neuf-Brisach communications and at targets across the Rhine continued.

Nazis' Rockets Reach Rear of 3d Army Front

Harassing Fire From Range Estimated at 25 Miles Called Not Very Deadly

AT THE BELGIAN-GERMAN FRONTIER, Feb. 3 (AP).—The Germans have started throwing long-range rockets into rear areas of the United States 3d Army front. The effects of this harassing fire are not being disclosed, but it can be said that the rockets have not been particularly destructive or deadly so far.

The projectiles, presumably being fired at a range of about twenty-five miles, may be the same type of rocket artillery brought into action in the last few weeks against the 1st and 9th Armies. They are not particularly heavy and probably are in about the same category as an eight-inch shell.

They may well be merely a larger version of the nebelwerfer and wurfkoerper rockets which have been employed in considerable number against 3d Army front-line areas recently at ranges of from one to three miles.

The nebelwerfer is a six-barreled projector firing six-inch rockets weighing about seventy-five pounds each and carrying five and a half pounds of T. N. T. in the warhead. The rockets, not very accurate, are variously called "screaming meemies" and "moaning Minnies," but, like most Army slang terms, these names are also applied to other enemy explosives.

Much more destructive but even less accurate are the wurfkoerper rockets, many of which were seized intact at an enemy ammunition dump by the 90th Division. The wurfkoerper rocket prompted some reports of a new, silent, secret weapon at the start of the Ardennes offensive. Ordnance experts, however, said that all rockets are silent during the final stages of flight.

These rockets, fired from the crates in which they are shipped, are about five feet long and have a warhead of about three feet in length and ten inches in diameter. They carry about 110 pounds of explosive. In a cylindrical tail about two feet long and seven inches in diameter, there is a propellent charge.

Range Under 2 Miles

The Wurfkoepers have been extensively employed by the Germans in their withdrawal toward the Siegfried Line, apparently in an effort to conserve artillery shells.

They have a range of less than two miles and are not very accurate, but they have a tremendous blast effect and set up a terrifying roar when launched.

sweep toward Antwerp just as their predecessors halted a Paris-bound enemy before Chateau-Thierry in the historic battle of the Marne.

Like the men of 1918, who stood unyielding against the onslaughts of two elite German divisions, the present-day 38th fought with gallantry. They gave a little—three bloodily conceded miles—but not until the force of the enemy drive was stemmed.

Unorthodox Tactics

The 38th did it by doing what military textbooks say can't be done without total disaster—a complete turn around in daylight from the offensive to defense against an enemy already tearing at the flanks and rear.

On December 6 the 38th, commanded by Col. Francis Boss, of Janesville, Wis., was just getting it's own attack rolling past the Siegfried's pillboxes and through the natural wooded barriers of the Monschau forest. The doughboys, who had been out of contact with the enemy only eighteen days since D-day, had punched their way well inside the Reich.

By mid-afternoon of December 17 they were having to fight their way out rapidly. In three days of fighting around Rocherath and near-by Krinkelt they knocked out 78 German tanks and killed uncounted hundreds of charging Germans.

Supply Lines Periled

The Germans were thrusting hungrily for the supply and communications of the 2d Division—of which the 38th is a part—forcing Lieut. Col. Frank T. Mildren, of Las Vegas, N. M., to pull the regiment 3d Battalion back three miles from within the Germans' defenses.

38th Stands Off Foe To Match Feat Of 1918

By Edward D. Ball

Rocherath, Belgium, Jan. 30 [AP—Delayed]—The 38th Infantry Regiment—"the Rock of the Marne" of the last war—returned today to the town where it helped block the enemy's December flood-tide.

Here in this little village, the 38th, its ranks filled with a new generation, stopped one section of Field Marshal von Rundstedt's

While this disengagement was being achieved, the Germans broke through the defenses of a neighboring American division and lashed Mildren's men from the rear. The 38th Service Company, which by this time was the regiment's only unit left in Rocherath, got on the ball in typical 38th tradition.

The company's supply clerks, KP's, ammunition clerks, typewriter pounders and telephone operators organized themselves into bazooka teams and rifle squads and went into the line. They hurled back a major enemy assault. The service company checked the enemy, permitting other units to set up defenses against the Nazi fury. Time after time the Germans hurled tanks and infantry against the defenses.

Free-For-All Battle

By the third day the battle had become a free-for-all. There was no semblance of any front line—Mildren's men were now completely cut off from their supplies and they fought with what they had from basements, attics and barns. One unsuccessful foray alone cost the Germans nine tanks.

During the four days of fighting a couple of battalion headquarters officers did some neat improvising. One was Lieut. Sidney B. Dane, of Chicago, who rounded up a herd of cattle, coaxed them onto a road and established an effective block against enemy tanks.

Sergt. Paul Hepler, of Elsie, Neb., was captured twice and was liberated twice.

Cook's Helper In Action

Private Isabel Salazar, of Houston, Texas, a cook's helper who left the kitchen to join the fight, knocked out two tanks with a bazooka.

The regiment finally went underground and let the Germans storm overhead with everything from heavy artillery to buzz bombs. Not a building was standing in the area in which the regiment held out.

"I stayed in a darkened cellar so long the daylight is still hard on my eyes," said Capt. Esardo Ethell, former Associated Press staff member in New York and Baltimore, who is regimental adjutant.

NEW YORK SOLDIERS RECEIVE LONG TERMS

PARIS, Feb. 3 (AP)—Two soldiers convicted of conspiracy to defraud the United States were sentenced to thirty-five years at hard labor and dishonorably discharged from the Army today by a court martial trying the railway battalion black market cases.

Two others received twenty and twenty-five year sentences and the last two in the six-man group drew five years each after they asked the court to give them a chance to re-establish themselves as good soldiers.

The heaviest sentences of thirty-five years were given to Sgt. John Tielemans, 65-05 Central Avenue, Glendale, Queens, and T/5 Nicholas J. Tanella of 2143 East First Street, Brooklyn, who repudiated on the witness stand signed statements allegedly admitting black market sales of large quantities of cigarettes.

They told the court the statements were made under coercion and that in reality they had made big money by purchasing pistols from parachute troops and policemen and then selling them at a high profit to soldiers.

Pvt. Stanley Moreschi of Chicago was sentenced to twenty-five years and T/5 Ben Hefter of Los Angeles, Calif., to twenty years.

The two remaining defendants testified they were guilty of wrongfully disposing of Government property—several cases of Army rations from a supply train—but asked the court to give them another chance.

They were Pvt. Oscar T. Koehn of Elyria, Ohio, and Pvt. Henry R. Zywiecki of Somerville, Mass. They drew five-year sentences.

selling them to envious soldiers.

Sergt. John Tielemans, of Glendale, N.Y., testified that a confession to peddling looted cigarettes was obtained under duress and was false. Actually, he told the court, he made large sums by buying pistols for as low as $30 and selling them for as high as $200.

"Lot Of Money Around"

Asked by the court if it did not strike him as peculiar that an ordinary soldier would pay $200 for a pistol, he replied:

"No, there is a lot of money around. A jeweler in our outfit had $17,000 he made buying and selling watches. And there were a lot of crap games going on. We also sold jewelry and perfume we picked up."

Tech. 5/g Nicholas J. Tanella, of Brooklyn, N.Y., also repudiated a confession, testified he never sold looted cigarettes, but did make considerable money buying and selling pistols. He said he bought many pistols from parachute troopers (who took them from Germans) and also bought them from a French policeman.

Ashtrays For $8

Tanella also said he made ashtrays out of German 88-millimeter shells and sold many of these to soldiers for $8.

Two other defendants, Private Henry R. Zywiecki, of Somerville, Mass., and Private Oscar T. Koehn, of Elyria, Ohio, admitted they wrongfully disposed of several cases of army rations taken from supply trains. They appealed to the court to give them a chance to re-establish themselves as good soldiers.

Paris Bourse Reopened To Jewish Membership

Paris, Feb. 3 (AP)—French Jews who were evicted from membership on the Paris Bourse by Vichy laws will be allowed to re-enter the trade, it was announced today.

An ordinance authorizing an increase in the number of Bourse memberships for trade in negotiable securities from 44 to 60 is being prepared. This is intended to provide places for the pre-Vichy Jewish members, in accordance with a decision by a Bourse committee.

This, added to the recent big walkout in the coal mines at Charleroi and Mons, presents a labor problem of the first importance.

To keep supplies moving, soldiers took over the unloading job at the docks.

Preparing a defense against charges that his Government is ineffective in remedying food and coal shortages and is not vigorous in prosecuting collaborators, Pierlot closeted himself today with his advisers.

Paul Henri Spaak, Foreign Minister, who had intended to go to Paris Tuesday for a discussion of French and Belgian relations, called off the trip, at least until after the debate.

This pointed up the seriousness of the internal question, since Belgians have been increasingly concerned about relations with the French, and especially what General de Gaulle proposes to do about that strip of Germany lying between the Rhine and Belgium.

BELGIANS BALKED RUIN OF ANTWERP

Leader of Secret Army Tells How Underground Forces Thwarted German Moves

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Feb. 3 (AP)—Now it can be told that Belgium's secret army kept the Germans from destroying the all-important port of Antwerp—a military mystery hitherto unexplained to the public.

It was the secret army's 500 sabotage teams disguised as innocent bicyclists who blew up bridges, pumping stations and junctions and carpeted highways with nails and foiled a mass German retreat from Belgium before the Allied onslaught last summer.

The man who organized the 500 teams and brought this misery on the one-time conquerors told today how he did it under the nose of the Gestapo.

Known only as "Le Pelerin" (The Pilgrim), he had the hazardous job of maintaining contact with all these teams, distributing maps, diagrams and samples of explosives.

Outlines Operations

Here, told by "Le Pelerin," is the story of how Antwerp was saved so that it could become the great supply base for the Allied offensive from the west:

"A special anti-destruction command was stationed in Antwerp. Its job was to sabotage German plans to wreck the port facilities.

"When British tanks came to Antwerp they were merely a spearhead—they crossed Antwerp, but did not stop.

"The secret army held off the Germans five or six hours until the main British force arrived—five or six hours that the Germans had counted on for destroying the port.

"The secret army succeeded in preventing the Germans from sinking blockships where they wanted to, and today Antwerp harbor is open and working for the Allies."

The secret army had several sections besides the sabotage wing. There were forces that collected weapons dropped by Allied planes and detachments of guerrilla fighters.

"Le Pelerin's" sabotage section had one team for each mission—one team to a bridge or a pumping station.

Planted in German Offices

Men were planted in the Ministry of Public Works, where they brazenly copied diagrams and specifications on bridges, telephone cables, junctions, railroad clog points and other targets.

From March until June, "Le Pelerin," looking like a professor or a doctor, with a brief case slung over his bicycle, went into the provinces and established contact with the chiefs of the local teams.

In barns and cellars he handed over diagrams and told the patriots how to use British explosives. Sometimes the professor traveled by train or automobile.

"The dangerous part was making contact with the teams," he said. "This was done through a secret line of communication. Had I ever spoken the password to the wrong man I wouldn't be here today.

"Three days after D-day we got a message saying to start. SHAEF gave first priority to lines going south into France.

Given Second Priority

"Second priority was the transport system inside Belgium. German Army intelligence was more dangerous than the Gestapo. Some of our teams were caught, but we had reserves who took over.

"We got daily reports on results on railroads by having a man stationed in railroad headquarters, which had to have daily reports to operate.

"Of 95 railway bridges attacked we had 116 successes—more successes than targets because in some instances a target would be blown up, rebuilt, then blown up again."

Le Pelerin presented this picture of other targets: Highway bridges 12 targets, 12 successes; pumping stations, 73 targets, 87 successes; turntables, 29 and 35; water locks, 14 and 17.

The sabotage army caused 111 derailments, destroyed 401 sections of railway track, blew up 322 junctions, sabotaged 233 locomotives, destroyed 1,115 freightcars, wrecked 34 signal boxes and blocke 17 tunnels.

The man who organized the work of these teams gave his name readily to correspondents. Later they received this note:

"Don't know whether you intend to put my name in the article. If so, please don't. I might have to do some other job. If you want a name, I was known during the occupation as 'Le Pelerin.'"

Poles In German Army In Italy Are Deserting

Rome, Feb. 2 (AP)—A number of impressed Polish troops from Silesia have deserted to the American lines. They learned for the first time today that the Germans were being rapidly driven from the homeland by the Red Army offensive.

The Poles—some of whose countrymen are fighting with the British 8th Army on the Adriatic front—said they were subjected to contemptuous abuse by German noncoms and had been told only of "local attacks" on the Eastern front.

Fifth Army and 8th Army patrols again made raids into the enemy lines, inflicting casualties and taking prisoners, but there was no other ground activity.

The weather was so bad that the air forces were grounded except for a few medium bombers, which flew 450 sorties yesterday, most of them against the enemy lifeline through the Brenner Pass.

Yanks In Italy Test Nazis

Rome, Feb. 3 (AP)—Allied patrols probing German defenses before the American 5th and British 8th army fronts inflicted casualties yesterday at several points, Allied Headquarters announced today.

A headquarters statement said a number of Silesian Poles from the German 148th Division had deserted to 5th Army lines.

Despite unfavorable flying weather, medium bombers of the Mediterrnean Allied Tactical Air Force attacked rail bridges on the Brenner route into Germany and bridges in north Italy.

Eaker Asserts German Planes Are Obsolete

Rome, Feb. 3 (AP)—With the exception of the jet-propelled craft, virtually all German warplanes in use today are obsolescent, Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the Allied Mediterranean Air Force, said today.

Even the Nazi jet-planes "have not been able to successfully attack our better fighter types such as Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Spitfires," Eaker declared, adding that the German jet-plane is inferior to the new American models.

In a year-end report on operations of the Mediterranean Air Force, Eaker said it had lost 5,306 planes in 1944 combat operations, but the losses would have been much high[illegible] United States had faile[illegible]op long-range fighters [illegible] pilots.

Air-Power Lack Called Seed Of Nazi Doom

Rome, Feb. 3 (AP)—Adolf Hitler has lost the second World War because he failed to build up a strategic air force and because he fell behind in every type of "technological development weapon," Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker said today.

The Mediterranean Air Force commander addressed war correspondents on the third anniversary of the day he landed in England to take over the United States bomber command.

Germany was definitely defeated when bombers cut her oil supply to half the minimum requirements for her defense, Eaker said. In modern warfare, he said, the "air battle must be won first," and that, he added, has been accomplished by the Allies.

What Might Have Been

"If the Germans had our long-range bombers, the landings in North Africa, Italy and France would have been impossible, and the Germans today would be in Moscow and Stalingrad," Eaker said.

The fact that the Nazis had no such strategic air force, the commander declared, was proof that he not only was outfought, but that he was out-thought.

"Our equipment definitely was superior to that of the enemy," he said. "In practically every case the enemy would gladly exchange his types for ours."

Virtually all German aircraft today obsolescent, with the exception of jet-propelled planes, but even enemy jet-fighters "have not been able successfully to attack our better fighter types such as Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Spitfires," Eaker declared. In fact, he added, the German jet-plane is inferior to the new American ones.

German Plane Output

Germany, he said, was manufacturing 1,000 fighter planes monthly and was ready to step up the output to 3,000 when American and British air might was turned loose on her aircraft plants. The bombs were so successful that production soon was sliced to less than 300 fighter a month. However, Eaker said, subsequent rebuilding could restore production to 3,000 per month, and as a result "we shall undoubtedly be required from time to time to knock down rebuilt fighter factories."

The Luftwaffe's biggest handicap, however, is the fuel shortage. Eaker said the Germans not only lacked enough fuel for effective use of their air force, but also for training of pilots.

U.S. Plane Losses

Mediterranean air force combat operation losses in 1944, a total of 5,306 planes, would have been higher if the United States had failed to develop both pilots and long-range fighters superior to anything the enemy ever possessed, Eaker said.

He listed these accomplishments for his command in the year:

Tons of bombs dropped, 390,258; sorties flown, 604,383; enemy aircraft destroyed in the air, 4,203, plus 1,221 probables; enemy aircraft damaged, 1,475; ships (various types) sunk, 486; ships severely damaged, 194; ships damaged, 1,180; enemy vehicles destroyed and damaged, 28,780; aircraft destroyed on the ground, 4,584; locomotives destroyed, 1,940; locomotives damaged, 2,029; rail cars destroyed or damaged, 20,226.

FAIRBANKS IS DECORATED

Navy Officer, Formerly of the Films, Receives British DSC

ROME, Feb. 3 (AP)—Lieut. Comdr. Douglas Fairbanks Jr., former film actor, has received the British Distinguished Service Cross for his work as special operations officer on Vice Admiral H. K. Hewitt's staff in landings in Sicily and at Salerno, Elba and southern France, it was announced today.

The decoration was also conferred on Capt. Charles W. Moses of Bismarck, N. D., Admiral Hewitt's fleet gunnery officer.

The British Distinguished Service Order was awarded Capt. Francis P. Old of Washington, formerly Admiral Hewitt's deputy chief of staff and now on duty in the Navy Department.

Fascists Say Big 3 Meet in Romania

Three ELAS Members Condemned To Death

Athens, Feb. 3 (AP)—Three members of the ELAS, all charged with high treason and murder, were sentenced to death today by a military court.

The defendants admitted membership in the OPLA, an organization within the ELAS. Defense counsel pleaded that the men merely were tools by higher-ups in the ELAS.

Thus far, out of six ELAS members tried, five have been condemned to death and one, 18, was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment. Five army officers constitute the court.

DANISH COMMUNISTS IN

Moeller Says They Will Get a Place in New Government

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 3 (AP)—A Government fully representing the Danish patriot organization inside Denmark and the Communists as well undoubtedly will be formed immediately after the German occupation ends, J. Christmas Moeller, chairman of the Free Danish Council in London, said on a visit to Stockholm today.

"In my judgment, the Parliament elected under our constitutional processes in 1943 is legal and almost representative of all forms of opinion," Mr. Moeller said.

"A law of 1941 outlawed the Communist party, so it holds no Parliamentary seats at the moment, but there is no doubt that will be changed and the Communist party will become one of the leading parties at the moment of liberation."

ADMITS LOSS OF SUICHWAN

China Also Tells Of Jap Drive East Of Corridor

Chungking, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Chinese high command acknowledged tonight that the Japanese driving against airbases east of their corridor across China had reached and taken their first objective, Suichwan, halfway between Hong Kong and Hangkow.

The Chinese said fighting continued south of Suichwan, where bases of the United States 14th Air Force were destroyed and abandoned January 24.

Having taken Kukong, provincial capital of Kwangtung province 125 miles north of Canton, the Japanese swung eastward and stormed Chihing on January 30, the Chinese reported.

The Japanese drive east of their corridor threatens the southern Kiangsi town of Kanhsien, seat of the district administered by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's elder son, Chiang Ching-kuo, which is being evacuated by every available means, press dispatches said. Chiang Ching-kuo has moved his headquarters to Anyuan, 65 miles south.

Japs Break Into Suichwan

Chungking, Feb. 3 (AP)—Japanese troops, driving against airbases east of their China-Indo-China corridor, have broken into Suichwan, halfway between Hong Kong and Hangkow, the Chinese high command said tonight. Suichwan was the first great objective of the Japanese.

The Chinese acknowledged the fall of Suichwan by saying that fighting now is raging south of that Kiangsi province city, the site of United States 14th Air Force bases destroyed and abandoned on January 24.

PREPARE DRIVE ON MANDALAY

British Clearing Irrawaddy Bank Opposite City

Calcutta, Feb. 3 (AP)—British forces were steadily driving the Japanese today from a 30-mile stretch of the Irrawaddy's north bank due west of Mandalay in preparation for a final push against Burma's former capital.

The last nests of resistance were cleared from Ywathitgyi, 17 miles west of the city, forward elements were nearing the outskirts of Sagaing, just across the river from Mandalay, and other forces were pushing west from Myinmu, 25 miles farther west.

Knot Of Japs Wiped Out

Near Nyinmu, where the Irrawaddy turns south, a knot of Japanese was wiped out after air raids left 150 enemy dead on the battlefield.

The battle of the Singu bridgehead, 40 miles north of Mandalay raged unabated. Indian troops steadily expanded their positions on the east bank, either for a slashing drive across retreat lines or an outflanking move on Mandalay itself.

The island-hopping campaign off Burma's west coast was stepped up with a new landing on the southern tip of Ramree Island, which put the Japanese defenders in a sore plight.

Dominating Heights Taken

Indian troops seized heights dominating the Japanese strong Chaung River line, which has been holding an advance across the last half of the island, while naval guns bombarded the enemy positions from the sea flank.

The new landings on Ramree were made by the same force which occupied Sagu Kyun Island, just to the south, without opposition yesterday.

To the north on the mainland, the British were closing in on Minbya, long a Japanese base. The main enemy force had pulled out and was hammering at the road block, cutting off retreat through Kangaw. The battle was rising in fury as the Japanese tried desperately to clear out the British and evacuate equipment and personnel. A communiqué said more than 1,000 Japanese were slain.

British Take Town Near Mandalay

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 3 (AP)—British troops driving on Mandalay have completed occupation of Ywathitgyi, on the north bank of the Irrawaddy River about 17 miles west of the city.

The Southeast Asia Command announced today that stubborn Japanese resistance was encountered after the village had been penetrated in strength yesterday.

Stiff Battle At Kangaw

Meanwhile, on Burma's west coast a furious fight is still raging at Kangaw, 30 miles east of Akyab, as the Japanese attempt to keep open their escape route southward.

A communiqué said 1,000 Japanese have been killed in the fighting there and twenty guns have been captured.

West African troops have occupied Minbya, strategic town on the Taungup road, in that sector.

B-29 IS BACK 'WITH PRAYER'

Had 147 Holes And Jap Shell In Gas Tank

B-29 Base, Saipan, Jan. 23 (AP)—(Delayed)—A B-29 called Twentieth Century Limited struggled home from a Nagoya raid tonight on two and a half engines, with 147 holes in the fuselage and an unexploded Japanese shell lodged above one fuel tank.

"How we ever got back we'll never know," said the copilot, Second Lieutenant Robert Sollock, of Rule, Texas. "But not one of us was hurt."

"It must have been because every one of us was praying. I can assure you there were no atheists aboard. We had a good, spirited prayer meeting most of the way home."

"God Knows How"

The plane commander, Capt. Jay J. Brown, of Little Rock, Ark., said:

"God knows how many fighter attacks there were. We were the deputy leader of our formation. The formation leader had an engine shot out and went down over the target. (The 20th Air Force communiqué covering this raid announced the loss of one B-29.)

"Our tailgunner and right gunner, Sergt. R. E. Bookman, of Chase City, Va., and Sergt. B. E. Gilberson, Portland, Ore. shot down two fighters each. Our gunners accounted for seven probables, set several afire and damaged many others."

"We had 125 or 130 separate attacks," Sollock broke in.

Enemy fire hit the No. 2 engine, and Brown feathered it. Thirty seconds later there was a terrific explosion in No. 3, and all but 60 gallons of gasoline in the No. 3 tank poured out.

Brown said:

"Two ships from another outfit escorted us back home. They did part of our navigation, and took care of us like the Good Shepherd.

No. 4 Engine Out

"The No. 4 engine went out once because of lack of fuel, but we were able to transfer a little from No. 3. When we landed, we had half an inch of gas in one tank, three quarters of an inch in the second, and the third was empty. We wouldn't have been able to fly once around the field.

"Our navigator, Lieut. George H. Timson, Silvis, Ill., got us back in straight line—and don't think straight lines don't count in those circumstances."

Bracken Charge Hotly Denied In Canada

Owen Sound, Ont., Feb. 3 (AP)—John Bracken, national leader of Canada's official opposition party, faced a challenge today to substantiate his charge that drafted troops threw away rifles and ammunition while en route overseas.

"This campaign of slander against the Canadian Army has got to come to an end," Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Defense Minister, declared last night. "I'm going to see that he (Bracken) does substantiate that statement or pay the penalty for it."

McNaughton did not indicate what the penalty might be.

Byelection Is Monday

The charge made by Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, and a fighting denial from McNaughton highlighted the closing speeches of the Grey North parliamentary byelection, in which the Dominion Government's compromise conscription policy has been made the principal issue. The voting Monday will be watched by the entire country.

McNaughton, appointed Defense Minister in the conscription crisis last November, is running for his first political office in seeking a seat in Parliament. He is opposed by Garfield Case, Progressive Conservative, former Mayor of Owen Sound, and by Air Vice Marshal A. Earl Godfrey, of the socialistic CCF (Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation).

Bracken, in addresses for Case, has centered his attack chiefly on the Government's manpower and conscription policy.

Denies Reinforcements Short

To Bracken's charges that Canada's reinforcement needs were not being met, McNaughton replied:

"At this moment the reinforcements program is completely up to date, despite many wild and malicious statements."

The two old-line parties, the Liberals of the Federal Government and the Progressive Conservatives, have aimed most of their fire at each other, virtually ignoring the CCF. This socialistic party on its part has paid relatively little attention to the manpower and conscription issue and has waged its campaign on its long-range platform.

The CCF is regarded as having its greatest strength in Grey North among the farmers.

Seattle, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Seattle Post-Intelligencer said today an "undetermined number of Canadian soldiers are believed absent without leave in Seattle and neighboring American Pacific Northwest cities" and added the men "face court-martial upon arrest."

The article said Maj. Gen. G. R. Perkes, general officer commander in chief of the Pacific Command at Vancouver, B. C., refused comment about the soldiers, "known in Canada as 'Zombies.'"

Arrest Plans Reported

"But it is known in Vancouver that Canadian military authorities have been apprized of the presence at Seattle of Canadian soldiers suspected of 'Zombie' status, and it is reported that an immediate effort will be made to return them to Canada in custody," the article said.

Canadian Army officials in Vancouver said they "had no possible way of knowing whether there is any truth in the report."

The Post-Intelligencer said Canadian authorities believed a "considerable" number of the "Zombies," still in uniform, "may now be living in Seattle, Tacoma, Everett and other American coast cities, benefitting from facilities set up by charitable and civic organizations for the accommodation and entertainment of Allied troops."

'Big 3' Parley On In Constanta, Report

New York, Feb. 3 (AP)—A security blackout veiled the movements of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Marshal Stalin today as Axis capitals speculated that the Big Three conference was under way in Romania.

A dispatch from the Swiss border town of Chiasso to the Geneva newspaper La Suisse quoted Fascist sources in Italy as saying that the conference had begun in the Romanian Black Sea port of Constanta.

Other Sites Suggested

One German broadcast had fixed the site as Bucharest, the Romanian capital, while the German Transocean agency said the Allied leaders were conferring at a Romanian port on the Black Sea.

Recent dispatches from London and Rome, passed through censorship, had speculated that the meeting would be held close to or within the borders of the Soviet Union, since Stalin is personally directing the Russian offensive.

A dispatch from London last night said there was every indication that "the fate of Germany was being decided by the Big Three somewhere east of London."

Churchill At Gibraltar

Workers returning to the Spanish town of La Linea from Gibraltar brought rumors that Churchill arrived there by plane Wednesday night, a Madrid dispatch said.

United States Secretary of State Stettinius and Harry Hopkins, both of whom possibly may attend the conference, left Rome by air Wednesday for an undisclosed destination which may or may not be the scene of the Big Three parley. Hopkins, an adviser to the President, earlier had acknowledged that the trip which took him to London, Paris and Rome was connected with preliminaries for the conference.

Japs Warned Of U.S. China-Landing Plans

San Francisco, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Tokyo newspaper Yomiuri-Hochi warned the Japanese people not to be deluded by recent successes of their army in China and asserted Chinese and Americans were continuing preparations for the "projected American landing operations on the China coast."

In an editorial transmitted to the controlled Asiatic press and recorded here, the newspaper said the United States had increased the size of its ground and air forces in China and had sent many officers to various units of the Chungking army "to train Chinese troops in earnest."

Jap Consul At Macao Wounded, Tokyo Says

San Francisco, Feb. 3 (AP)—Tokyo radio said today that Yasumitsu Fujui, Japanese consul at the Macao Portuguese colony near Hong Kong, was shot and seriously wounded yesterday.

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the attack was made by "terrorists." Fujui's assistant, who was walking with him near the consulate, escaped with "slight injury," the report added.

Filipino Puppet Asks Japs For Aid

San Francisco, Feb. 3 (AP)—Jose Vargas, Ambassador to Japan of the puppet Philippines Government, told a Tokyo audience today that "the fate and destiny of the empire" is at stake.

He appealed for more war materiel for Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's force on Luzon and declared the "Americans must be stopped in the Philippines." Vargas' broadcast was recorded here.

Japs Claim Four Subs Sunk

San Francisco, Feb. 3 (AP)—An unconfirmed Japanese Domei news agency dispatch today claimed that four "enemy submarines" were sunk in recent days in the Southwest Pacific.

U.S. LISTS AID GIVEN FRANCE

Inability To Send All Needed Supplies Creates Friction

FEB 4 1945

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The Government tonight announced a far-reaching program for French civilian supplies, but privately officials conceded that Franco-American relations will get worse before they get better.

The announcement covered thousands of tons of foodstuffs, industrial materials, and badly needed transportation equipment, including 700 locomotives and 3,000 trucks, authorized for French purchase here.

The goods are being shipped as rapidly as cargo space becomes available. The announcement disclosed that 46,000 tons of civilian supplies were shipped to France during January. Other goods are to be stockpiled near ports for movement a stonnage becomes available.

One Of Worst Winters

Officials said, however, that the French people are now going through one of the worst winters in their history, suffering intensely from lack of fuel, clothing and food in many parts of the country. They said the failure to get supplies delivered in time to prevent this suffering inevitably means some loss of good will between France and the other Allies.

"Somebody has to be the scape goat," one authority summed it up "and it looks like we're it—we and the British."

The supply failure is blamed on greater need than was anticipated last summer, when it was not thought that all of France would be liberated as quickly as it was, and also on the heavy demands of the military forces on all fronts of transportation. Thus there has not been such shipping availabie for French civilian goods and there has been little transportation inside France to distribute goods.

Unfavorable Comparison

In some instances, it is said, conditions have led to unfavorable comparison with the situation under the Germans when many of the French enjoyed a kind of material comfort. French political leaders striving to solidify their support are inclined to blame the United States and Britain more frequently than the conditions of the war.

There is unexpectedly prolonged difference on one issue between the French and Amerncan representatives negotiating over supplies here. That is the extent to which France should use her available resources of $2,400,000,000 to pay for civilian goods, and the extent to which those goods may be shipped under some form of lend-lease arrangement.

FEB 4 1945

U.S. Policy Noted

American policy now appears to be pretty well fixed along these lines:

1. Lend-lease goods actually to be given to the French will be munitions which they need for helping defeat the Germans and later the Japanese.

2. For the time being they may obtain on a temporary lend-lease credit basis some long-term capital goods such as dynamos for which the United States at present cannot offer any other means of financing. But the French will have to agree to pay eventually. This is about the same sort of arrangement which has been worked out with Russia.

Cash Must Be Used

3. For purchases of goods for immediate civilian consumption, the French, under the agreement now contemplated, will have to use cash.

No goods are being held up while the agreement is being negotiated but, on theother hand, there is no prospect of an immediate settlement.

The figures on French purchases of locomotives, truck and other goods were contained in a summary of economic and military assistance to France released by the Office of War Information.

The OWI, in listing what has been done for France, noted the delivery of more than 200 naval craft, and the promise to help rebuild the French merchant marine. The rebuilding of this service is being achieved partly by the allocation of United States ships for operation under the French flag by French crews, and partly by turning back French ships which have been operated by the Allies.

PLANE RATIO 5-1 OVER JAPS

Navy, Marine Flyers Bag 9,819 To Loss Of 1,882

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—In three years of war, Navy and Marine Corps flyers have established a superiority ratio of more than 5 to 1 over the Japanese.

To January 1, the Navy disclosed today, Japanese planes shot down in combat or destroyed on the ground by its flyers totaled 9,819 against 1,882 planes lost. The figures do not include losses to anti-aircraft fire by either side.

The score in 1942 was 1,134 to 384, for a ratio of 3 to 1; in 1943 it was 2,212 to 351, or 6.3 to 1, and last year, 6,473 to 1,147, or 5.7 to 1.

Pilots The Factor

"Although the Jap is steadily and rapidly improving the fighting performance of his aircraft—and some of his latest models are excellent—during the last year most of his planes could not be regarded as the equal of comparable types employed by the Navy," said Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, deputy chief of naval operations for air.

"But a more important factor was the superior quality of our navy and marine pilots."

The Navy said at least 65 per cent of the Navy and marine flyers forced down are rescued.

Fighters Take Most

The greatest toll of Japanese planes the Navy said, was exacted by fighters—Hellcats based on carriers of the Essex or Independence class; smaller Wildcats based on escort carriers, and Corsairs operated from land bases and carriers.

Long-range search planes, Liberators, Catalinas and Coronados twin-motor Venturas and big Martin Mariners, also contributed to the destruction of Jap air power.

'Battle For Leyte Gulf' Name Chosen By Navy

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The big naval engagement off the Philippines in October is now officially "the battle for Leyte Gulf."

The new name, the Navy announced today, has been selected to supersede the popularly used designation of "second battle of the Philippine Sea."

The change was suggested by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz and was approved by Secretary Forrestal upon recommendation of Admiral Ernest J. King.

The Leyte Gulf battle is divided into three operations—the battle of Suriago Strait, the battle of Samar and the battle off Cape Engano.

Enemy Sub Sinks Big U.S. Tanker

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The War Shipping Administration announced tonight that an enemy submarine sank a large American tanker in the Arabian Sea with the loss of 33 merchant seamen. The date was not reported.

The tanker, the H. D. Collier, of the Standard Oil Company of California, was transporting 102,000 barrels of high-octane gasoline when struck by three torpedoes. The raider surfaced and shelled the tanker as two lifeboats were launched.

One lifeboat, carrying the vessel's master, Capt. Joseph Fox, of Oakland, Cal., was swamped and drifted into the flames fed by the gasoline. All aboard were lost.

Several days later the SS Empire picked up fourteen survivors in the second lifeboat.

James E. O'Brien, of Oakland, Cal., chief mate of the H. D. Collier, was commended by Vice Admiral R. R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard, "for exceptional performance of duty under emergency conditions."

The tanker, 12,700 tons, was built at Chester, Pa., in 1938.

ITALIAN PRESS UNFETTERED

Papers in Free Part to Be Allowed to Buy News of Own Choice

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—Newspapers in liberated Italy will be authorized by Allied authorities to buy news from commercial agencies of their choice soon.

The Office of War Information, announcing this today, said that thus far communications had been devoted almost entirely to military purposes, but Rear Admiral Ellery W. Stone of the Allied Commission hoped that "more normal news distribution" would be possible by the end of next month.

Foreign news agencies, which heretofore have been able to distribute only to newspapers in Rome, and Ansa, a cooperative news agency newly formed by Italian papers, will be authorized to extend their services to all parts of the country except German-held areas.

"Ansa is an independent news agency created in the hope that its diverse membership will enable it to forestall a future official or semi-official news monopoly in Italy," the OWI added. "It is designed to be self-supporting and self-regulating."

RED CROSS MONTH SET

March Designated By Roosevelt In Proclamation

FEB 4 1945

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP) — President Roosevelt tonight designated March as "Red Cross month" in a proclamation calling for contributions to the organization's 1945 appeal for a minimum war fund of $200,000,000.

In the proclamation, made public by the White House, the President said he was "confident in the readiness of the people to respond to the utmost of their ability in support of this organization . . . dedicated to their services in this hour of increasing need."

The proclamation was dated January 19.

Text Of Proclamation

The text of the President's proclamation follows:

"Whereas, under the provisions of its congressional charter, the American National Red Cross, in its fourth year of the war is fulfilling its obligations to comfort our wounded, to cheer and help our service men on every fighting front, and to provide an essential link between these men and their families at home, thereby relieving anxiety and restoring hope to all those who are suffering and in need of aid;

"Whereas, this organization is helping the people at home to stand firmly behind our fighting men through its collection of blood for our wounded, its shipment of food parcels, medical supplies and comfort items to our prisoners of war in enemy hands, its production of surgical dressings, and its recruitment of nurses for our Army and Navy; and

"Whereas, the American National Red Cross is also carrying on its peacetime activities by assisting the civilian victims of tornado, flood and other disaster, and by training the people of our nation to combat sickness and accident and thus to prevent suffering and death; and

"Whereas, by the very nature of its services and the principles for which it stands, the American National Red Cross is helping to build a world of unity, and peace and brotherhood, recognizing no barriers of creed or race; and

"Whereas, this organization, which represents a tangible expression of the desire of the people to reach out to the nation's fighting men, now far removed from them, and which is entirely dependent on voluntary contributions to carry out its purposes is issuing to every citizen of this country, its 1945 appeal for a minimum war fund of $200,000,000:

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America and president of the American National Red Cross, do hereby designate the month of March, 1945, as Red Cross month confident in the readiness of the people to respond to the utmost of their ability in support of this organization built by their generous contributions in the past and dedicated to their services in this hour of increasing need.

"In witness, whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this nineteenth day of January, in the year of our Lord Nineteen Hundred and Forty-five, and of the independence of the United States of America, the one hundred and sixty-ninth."

Johnson Charges War Dept. 'Sabotaged' Work-or-Jail Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 — (AP) Senator Johnson (D-Colo) charged today that "the War department has sabotaged the work-or-jail bill" by secretly changing its position on who should administer it.

After the Senate Military affairs committee voted yesterday to report the bill with overall control vested in James F. Byrnes' Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, Johnson told reporters, representatives of the War department reversed their position and sent word they wanted to give the power to Selective Service, as provided in the bill which passed the House Thursday.

Johnson left the meeting, went to his office, grabbed a pencil and scrawled off a statement:

"The War department has sabotaged the work-or-jail bill.

"Officially and on the record they advocate that the powers under the bill be delegated to Mr. Justice Byrnes (director of War Mobilization and Reconversion).

"In private contacts with Senators on the Military Affairs committee they urge that these powers be placed under Selective Service.

"As a result the Military Affairs committee which voted yesterday 7 to 2 to report out the bill favorably backed up today and goodness knows when if ever the bill will now be reported out of committee.

"This is a good example of the dirty double-crossing that goes on in the executive departments of this administration."

When the committee emerged from its executive session, Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) told the press:

"No decision was made today except to meet again Monday morning and continue consideration of the bill."

Johnson said the War department switched its position yesterday. Both before and after the 7 to 2 vote for the bill with the bill with Byrnes as boss, he said, there was considerable discussion of the measure. During those discussions (he couldn't recall whether it was before or after the vote) certain Senators presented the War department's new stand for draft board control. Those Senators, he said, had been in touch with the Department by telephone.

The Coloradoan declared flatly that a majority of the committee is opposed to the bill.

"The reason they're voting for it," he said, "is that the President, General Marshall, Admiral King, Jimmy Byrnes and other high officials of the Government say it is needed.

"I'm opposed to a compulsory labor law myself, but am going along in the hope that its passage will be a morale builder, a shot in the arm for the men at the front."

He said he preferred giving Byrnes rather than Selective Service control "because the employment problem is spotted."

"There are a few fever spots which need special treatment," he said. "I contend that local Selective Service boards, such as the one in the Colorado county which is my home, don't know about these fever spots, and they should be handled on a national rather than a local basis.

"I contend that under the bill the committee approved yesterday Mr. Byrnes wouldn't have to regiment all the people of the United States to do one little job."

Under both the House-approved bill and the one before the Senate committee, men between the ages of 18 and 45 who left essential jobs, or who disregarded government orders to go into essential work, would be subject to immediate induction, or to a jail sentence of up to 5 years, or to a fine of not more than $5,000.

FEB 4 1945

Senate Service Bill Action Delayed

Washington, Feb. 2 (AP) — The Senate Military Committee today was reported to have deferred decision on a limited national service bill until Monday.

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), emerging from a closed session, said he had a number of objections to the bill as tentatively amended by the committee. Not the least of his criticisms was the placing of overall control of the manpower program in James F. Byrnes's Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion.

House Backs Draft Board

The legislation passed the House in such form as to give local selective service board the say about who would be shifted to war jobs. Under the Senate committee's first draft, Byrnes' office would be in charge, but could delegate the actual placement authority to any other agency of Government.

O'Mahoney said today's papers told of two events illustrative of the mistakes that can be made by government agencies. One, he said, was the loose wording of the natural gas conservation order which resulted in the shutdown of some war plants in the Detroit area. The other instance involved the purchase of a searchlight for 31 and its subsequent resale to the Government for $235.

"Would Destroy Effectiveness"

"Mistakes like that can be made involving inanimate objects," O'Mahoney said, "but to make them with men would be to destroy the effectiveness of the whole bill."

During four days' consideration of the bill, the House repulsed all efforts to give that authority to any other agency than the local boards. Chairman May (D., Ky.) of the House Military Committee, declared that opposition would continue if the Senate sent the bill to conference with the switch in authority.

Under the Senate committee's amendment, Byrnes's office could deputize any agency to carry out details of the job placements in individual cases.

Thomas Confident

Chairman Thomas (D., Utah) seemed confident, that the War Manpower Commission rather than selective service would be the favored agency.

Both versions of the bill provide for immediate induction, fines or imprisonment for men who disregard orders to stay on essential jobs or to take essential work in war plants.

The bill is expected to come before the Senate early next week. Party lines are split. Senator Taft (R., Ohio), chairman of the Republican Steering Committee, said the minority group is not going to take any unified position on the legislation.

Unnecessary, Kilgore Says

Senator Kilgore (D., W.Va.), a member of the military committee, said that in his opinion the bill is unnecessary. At the most, he said, the only legislation needed is a bill establishing a transportation fund "to get workers where they belong," and authority for the WMC to survey industries and fix employment ceilings.

The committee heard a different story, however, from Robert P. Patterson, acting secretary of war in a letter to Thomas made public yesterday. Patterson said that 1945 war production requirements already top anything to date, and may be increased.

BATTLE REFORMS AGAINST WILLIAMS

Wallace Opposition Carries Over To REA Appointment

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The armed truce under which Senate Democrats suspended their civil war over the Henry Wallace Cabinet appointment may be shattered next week over Aubrey Williams, another presidential nominee.

Williams's appointment to head the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) comes before the Senate Agriculture Committee Tuesday for public hearings. There are signs that the same lineup of Southern Democrats and Republicans which came within one vote of forcing a nomination-killing showdown on the former Vice President's appointment as Secretary of Commerce has formed ranks against Williams.

McKellar Takes Lead

Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.), who went off the Administration reservation to fight Wallace, already has assumed leadership in the battle against Williams, former National Youth Administration head. McKellar calls Williams a "waster of Government money."

To many of the Southern Democrats, Williams stands as a symbol of what they call the Left-Wing element of the party headed by Wallace.

Their assault, as in the Wallace attack, will be against the governmental spending theories they attribute to both men. Both also have strong backing from the CIO.

GOP Support Predicted

enator Wherry, of Nebraska, the minority whip, predicted Republicans may give more solid support to the Williams opposition than they did against Wallace.

Ten GOP senators jumped ranks at a crucial point in the Wallace parliamentary battle and the anti-Wallace coalition turned up a vote short. It had to be content with passage of a bill stripping the Commerce Department of Government lending agencies and postponement of action on the nomination until March 1.

While some Wallace supporters thought they detected a new note of unity among the Democrats as a result of this outcome, anti-New Dealers made it plain that the fight will go on.

Barkley Sees Spirit Of Unity

Senator Barkley (Ky.), democratic leader, generally credited with persuading Senator Walsh (D., Mass.) to cast the deciding vote against a coalition motion for a showdown, told a reporter he thought a "new spirit of co-operation" had grown up among the Democrats.

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) said he was encouraged by the fact that National Chairman Robert E. Hannegan and Wallace had been brought together again during the controversy. There has been a coolness in the Wallace camp toward Hannegan since the Democratic National Convention last year when the chairman was accused by Wallace's backers of working against the former Vice President's nomination.

FEB 4 1945

Pepper Thanks Hannegan

"Hannegan did some very effective work for us," Pepper said. "He personally talked to about eighteen senators and I think he did some good for Wallace with some of them."

On the other hand, Senator Byrd (D., Va.) said the Administration need not think that it is going to have clear sailing in the future.

"We may have lost the fight to prevent Wallace's confirmation as Secretary of Commerce," he said, "but we have put the country on notice as to the issues involved. I don't think the people of the country want Wallace to have control of the vast lending authority involved in the RFC setup and I believe we have stopped that.

"This scrap is going on," he continued. "There are fundamental principles involved and we intend to keep fighting for them."

Fuel, Transport Still Snarled By Snow

[By the Associated Press]

Transportation and fuel services, snarled by a two-month snow blanket, continued tight today with embargoes on rail freight and appeals for more coal production. The only cheering note was a forecast of moderating weather for most of the nation.

United States Weather Bureau forecasters at Chicago saw no bitterly cold temperatures anywhere, but said the next unpleasant weather was developing in the Southwest, where freezing rain moved slowly eastward. From the mid-West light snow also sidled toward the East.

Nation-Wide Summary

The bureau's report gave this general summary of today's nation-wide weather conditions: Pacific Coast—seasonal rains with temperature of 46 at Seattle, Wash., and 54 at San Diego, Cal. Southwest — Considerable cloudiness, temperatures 46 at El Paso, Texas, and 55 at San Antonio, Texas; Middle West and Plains States—Extensive light precipitation, rain in lower Mississippi Valley, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Iowa; snow in the Dakotas and southwestern Minnesota; clearing skies in Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana, with temperatures ranging from middle 30's in Oklahoma to 15 above zero in North Dakota and readings of around 5 degrees below in northern Wisconsin and upper Michigan. Ohio Valley—Considerable cloudiness, with intermittent snow flurries in upper portion, temperatures ranging from 10 to 20 above zero. Eastern Seaboard—Generally fair, temperatures slightly below normal ranging from 15 above at Boston, 18 in New York, 20 in Washington, to 47 at Miami, Fla.

At Buffalo, N.Y., a heretofore critical area, snow flurries had subsided and the wind had quieted, the bureau reported.

Coal Situation Critical

The coal situation remained the most critical. In Ohio, Gov. Frank J. Lausche ordered all State buildings closed for the week end, and New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey matched the order.

The Ohio Governor recommended a five-day week for all business in Ohio except war plants and essential institutions in a proclamation that suggested Monday would be the best day for the fuel-conserving holiday.

It will continue through April 1 and include all normal business establishments, schools, offices, museums, libraries and the like.

The Governor said his recommendation bore the approval of all business elements in the State and contained suggestions adopted at a meeting of the Governor's Emergency Council yesterday.

State, municipal and city offices, plus all schools, should continue to remain closed Mondays, he said.

Milk Deliveries Cut

In New York it was tough-and-go from Albany to Buffalo. Charles H. Sells, State director of transportation and supplies in the emergency, said milk deliveries had been cut as much as 40 per cent in some cities. He warned that the egg shortage would increase, and that meat supplies were tight.

The Grange League Federation Exchange mobilized a fleet of 140 trucks to send feed to western New York farms, while in the New York harbor area the 3d Naval District announced the release of 16,800,000 gallons of fuel oil to civilians in New York, northern New Jersey and part of Connecticut.

In Philadelphia the heating situation was unchanged, although a forecast of slowly rising temperatures brought some hope for relief. At Towanda, Pa., Dr. E. E. Newhart, unable to reach a child pneumonia patient, was flown to the victim's home in a plane equipped with skis.

Coal Miners To Work

About 65,000 Pennsylvania anthracite miners went to work today following an appeal yesterday by the Solid Fuels Administration that they work a full day today at regular pay rates to help ease the critical coal shortage.

Only 7,200 miners were idle, Owen E. Williams, regional SFA representative, said.

"Approximately 150,000 tons of coal will be mined today," he said.

The miners who refused to work today said, "They just didn't want to establish a precedent of working at regular pay on Saturday," United Mine Workers' representative Peter Flyzik, of Coaldale, said.

Transport Snarled

The crux of the difficulty was in transportation, in a hopeless tangle because of heavy snows. Freight movement was reported considerably improved at Buffalo, N.Y., and moving more rapidly at Albany. New York State guardsmen have been assisting in getting yards cleared, but more than 4,000 Pennsylvania miners were idle because of a lack of freight cars.

Hence the ODT in Washington applied a four-day embargo on shipments of most civilian goods, except coal, in most of Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, and parts of Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

PLEA BRINGS 65,000 MINERS TO JOBS

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 3 (A. P.).—About 65,000 Pennsylvania anthracite miners went to work today following an appeal yesterday by the Solid Fuels Administration that they work a full day today at regular pay rates to help ease the critical coal shortage. Only 7,200 miners were idle, Owen E. Williams, regional SFA representative, said.

He estimated that 8,000 tons would be lost in the Pottsville area by the failure of 3,200 Philadelphia & Reading Coal Company miners to report and that 14,000 tons would be lost in the Coaldale region because 4,000 Lehigh Navigation Coal Company miners were idle.

"Approximately 150,000 tons of coal will be mined today," he said.

The miners who refused to work today said "they just didn't want to establish a precedent of working at regular pay on Saturday," United Mine Workers' Representative Peter Flyzik of Coaldale, said.

Reports Soft Coal Loss.

Washington, Feb. 3 (A. P.).—A soft coal production loss of about 386,000 tons during the week ended January 27 was reported today by the Solid Fuels Administration. Delayed movement of 6,992 railroad cars due to bad weather was held chiefly responsible.

Secretary Ickes said that production totaled 11,680,000 tons, compared with 11,960,000 tons the previous week and 12,830,000 tons the same week last year. Consumption exceeded production by nearly 11,000,000 tons in December. Stocks held by industrial consumers and retail bituminous stocks held by industrial consumers and retail dealers on January 1 dwindled to an average thirty-two days' supply with many plants and coal yards having far less, Mr. Ickes said.

HOLLYWOOD FILM EXTRAS END STRIKE

Hollywood, Feb. 3 (A. P.).—The Screen Players Union instructed its members to go back to work today, ending a one-day walkout of extras at major film studios.

Members of the union, which claims to represent 3,000 extras, picketed studios yesterday.

S. P. U. members agreed to go back to their jobs after producers announced that they would immediately enter negotiations to settle differences arising from a jurisdictional dispute between the independent S. P. U. and the A. F. of L. Screen Actors Guild.

Michael Jeffers, business representative for the S. P. U., said the walkout was a protest against what he said was the producers' repudiation of the union's certification by the National Labor Relations Board as the bargaining agent for the extras. A spokesman for the producers said the S. P. U. was trying to force upon them a closed shop without waiting for the orderly processes of collective bargaining.

Mr. Jeffers said the work stoppage was halted at the request of the War Labor Board and NLRB.

Wickard Says Farmers Look To Full Output After War

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—President Roosevelt was informed by Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, today that farmers are looking forward to a peace of full agricultural production freed of prewar AAA crop-restriction programs.

The Secretary expressed the opinion, however, that achievement of this farmer goal would depend more largely upon lines of action pursued by industry and Government rather than upon anything that agriculture itself might do.

In his annual report to the President, Secretary Wickard said agriculture should be able to produce 50 per cent more food and fiber in the postwar years than before the war.

Foresees Stupendous Amount

Manpower freed by peace, plentiful supplies of farm machinery and application of new technological developments will make possible, he said, the production of a stupendous quantity of farm commodities.

Mr. Wickard cautioned, however, that peace "will almost surely bring some decline in the demand of agricultural products. In the absence of vigorous measures to prevent such a misfortune, peace could bring a severe decline in the demand."

Hence, it is imperative, the Secretary declared, that substitutes be found for war-induced demands—military, lend-lease and war-prosperous civilian demands. Otherwise, a return to crop control would become necessary.

Substitutes Suggested

Mr. Wickard outlined these possible substitutes for the war demands:

1. "All-out" industrial production providing non-farm groups with a high level of purchasing power with which to buy farm products.

2. Government subsidization of consumption by low-income families.

3. Foreign-trade policies which will encourage export of surplus farm products.

"Large farm production can be continued," Wickard asserted, "only if we have all-out industrial production as well. If industrial production falls, agricultural production must decline also. Industry and agriculture furnish a market for each other, the size of which depend on the degree of their activity."

Dependence Cited

In words obviously directed to growers, the Secretary said farmers have sometimes not realized their dependence on nonfarm employment, fair wages and salaries, and good consumer incomes.

Wickard said full industrial employment in itself would not absorb all that agriculture would be able to produce. He said that under present war-favorable income patterns, millions of families receive insufficient incomes to feed and clothe themselves adequately.

He recommended that consumption of such families be increased by means of food stamp, school lunch and similar programs.

Other Ideas Given

"Even with such programs added to full employment, the demand for farm products will still not fully equal the country's farm production capacity," he said.

"In the war years we have been providing foods and other farm products to our allies, as well as to our own armed forces and civilians. After the war, therefore, we shall need a substitute for the lend-lease shipments; otherwise, agriculture's export acreage will have to be reduced."

This means, Wickard said, that this country must have considerable farm export trade, not merely for world relief purposes, but on a permanent commercial basis.

Discusses Export Problem

In order to sell abroad, he said, this country will have to do something about its farm-price structure and help provide possible foreign buyers with funds with which to buy American farm commodities. In this connection, Wickard pointed out that the United States has raised its farm prices considerably above their normal world relationship — a situation which will have to be corrected if the country expects to develop farm export trade.

In the matter of providing foreign countries with purchasing power, Wickard declared this country must make up its mind to import goods from abroad if it hopes to sell abroad.

Calls For Preparation

"It is necessary," he said, "to prepare for this development. The best preparation is full employment and a high national income, which will sustain both exports and imports on a high level. Experience shows that in prosperous times we absorb increased imports without difficulty. The problem can only be met by developing a vigorous export trade, based if necessary on a foreign lending program.

"Any other course would mean price declines and unemployment at once, because it would pile up surpluses of goods."

In addition to full markets, agriculture looks to the Government, Wickard said, for programs designed to improve public services and facilities of rural people, such as housing, health services and hospitals, schools, rural electrification, and social security for farm operators and workers.

NEWSPRINT CUT FEARED

WPB Indicates Present Quotas Can't Be Kept Up

Washington, Feb. 3 (AP)—The War Production Board announced today it might be impossible to maintain present quotas of newsprint for newspapers through the second quarter of the year.

The announcement followed a meeting this week of the Newspaper Industry Advisory Committee, whose publisher members recommended there be no change in present newsprint allotments in the forthcoming quarter.

Uncertain Factors

"There are many uncertain factors that may develop in the next 30 days which might make it impossible to maintain present consumption quotas," the WPB said in a statement relating to action taken at the conference with newspaper industry spokesmen.

The WPB reported an "extremely tight supply situation" in all pulpwood products, particularly in ground wood, fine and book papers produced in this country, largely because of military demands for nitrating pulp and the inability of pulp producers to keep up with expanding demand.

Real Reduction Taken

"Newspaper publishers already have taken a real reduction in the area of usable newsprint, owing to the fact that their basic weight could not be reduced, while users of other papers have been able to conserve paper to their advantage by reducing basic weights," the official account of the closed meeting said.

"The committee went on record as believing that newsprint stocks and prospective supplies warrant a continuation of the present allowable newspaper consumption quotas, at least during the first six months of 1945."

The newspaper spokesmen called attention to what was termed increasing use of newsprint paper in the magazine and commercial printing industries, as well as allocations to the Foreign Economic Administration for shipment abroad.

Inroads On Supply

"Continued drain on newsprint supply to nonessential uses and by former nonnewsprint users, as well as governmental requirements would necessitate a reduction of consumption by all newspaper publishers," the industry committee said.

In view of such inroads on the newsprint supply, the committee continued, continuance of present quotas for newspapers must depend upon "strict economy in use, intelligent distribution of available supplies and minimum of ex-quota appeal grants." Ex-quota grants are those made by WPB to alleviate hardship under regularly assigned newsprint allotments.

Revival of the proposals for 30-pound newsprint, which would spread the existing pulp tonnage over a larger amount of paper, was indicated in the announcement that Canadian newsprint authorities have suggested a new conference on the subject.

MEANWHILE, COL. ERNST VON HAMMER, GERMAN MILITARY COMMENTATOR, MADE THREE FALSE STARTS ON HIS BROADCAST BEFORE HE FINALLY COMPLETED IT ON ANOTHER PROGRAM. THE BATTLE FOR THE ODER WAS NOT CONFINED TO THE AREA NEAR BERLIN, BUT ALSO RAGED ALONG ITS MIDDLE AND UPPER COURSES A POINT NEAR THE CZECHOSLOVAK BORDER. BERLIN SAID THE WEST BANK TOWN OF STEINAU, 100 MILES SOUTHEAST OF FRANKFURT, WAS UNDER SIEGE. LONDON, SUNDAY, FEB. 4-(AP)-BARON ROBERT GILBERT VANSITTART, BRITAIN'S LEADING EXPONENT OF A HARSH PEACE FOR GERMANY, CHARGED TODAY THAT THE FREE GERMAN COMMITTEE IN MOSCOW HOPED TO PRESERVE THE GERMAN ARMY IN SOME FORM AFTER THE WAR.

VANSITTART SAID THAT REPORTS OF RUSSIAN INTENTIONS TO SET UP THE COMMITTEE--COMPOSED LARGELY OF CAPTURED GERMAN OFFICERS--AS A REGIME IN EAST PRUSSIA OR SOME OTHER SOVIET-OCCUPIED PART OF GERMANY WERE INSPIRED BY WHAT HE CALLED GERMAN "STOOGES" IN THE UNITED STATES AND HE ASSERTED THAT THE RUSSIANS WOULD NOT BE DUPED.

"X X XTHE REAL PURPOSE OF THESE GERMANS IS TO PRESERVE THE GERMAN ARMY IN SOME FORM," VANSITTART WROTE IN THE SUNDAY DISPATCH. "THAT WAS CLEAR FROM THE COMMITTEE'S OWN UTTERANCES AND COMPOSITIONS."

HE ASSERTED THAT THE COMMITTEE "HAS AN ADMIXTURE OF GERMAN COMMUNISTS BUT THE OPERATIVE PART ALWAYS HAS BEEN A GROUP--GROWING BY CAPTURE--OF 'FREE' GERMAN GENERALS AND THEIR MILITARIST UNDERLINGS. THEY SOUGHT RUSSIAN FAVOR--LATE IN THE DAY--BY PRETENDING THROUGH THEIR BROADCASTS TO DISRUPT THE GERMAN ARMY, WHICH IS FIGHTING TO THE BITTER END. BUT ALL THE WHILE THEY WERE PLAYING THEIR OWN COVERT GAME. THEIR LEIT MOTIF WAS ALWAYS THE SAME X X X 'SAVE THE GERMAN ARMY' X X X 'IT WILL GIVE US BARGAINING POWER'".

VANSITTART, A PRIVY COUNCILLOR, SAID "THE GAME HAS BEEN SUCCESSFULLY PLAYED BEFORE TO PRESERVE THE CADRES" BUT THAT THIS TIME THE GERMANS ARE DEALING WITH THE RUSSIANS WHO ARE "MORE LIKELY THAN ANYONE ELSE TO SEE THROUGH THE ULTIMATE INTENTIONS OF THE GERMANS, WHOM THEY HAVE USED FOR AN INTELLIGIBLE THOUGH UNFULFILLED PURPOSE AND WHO ARE NOW HOPING ULTIMATELY TO USE THEIR CAPTORS."

THE AMERICANS HAD CLEARED THE GERMANS FROM HALF OF THE THREE-BY-THREE MILE EASTERN STRIP OF BELGIUM EAST AND NORTHEAST OF ST. VITH, THE LAST BELGIAN SOIL STILL IN ENEMY HANDS, CAPTURING THREE TOWNS.

IN SOUTHERN ALSACE, LT. GEN. JEAN DE LATTRE DE TASSIGNY'S FRENCH FIRST ARMY MOPPED UP THE LAST GERMAN RESISTANCE IN COLMAR, FAMED AS THE BIRTHPLACE OF THE SCULPTOR OF THE STATUE OF LIBERTY.

WITHOUT WAITING FOR THE CLEANUP, OTHER UNITS SWEPT SOUTH BOTH EAST AND WEST OF THE CITY FOUR TO FIVE MILES. FIVE OR SIX MORE TOWNS WERE LIBERATED, AND THE ONCE-STRONG GERMAN COLMAR POCKET APPEARED TO BE ON THE VERGE OF COLLAPSE.

ENEMY REARGUARDS FOUGHT BACK FIERCELY TO KEEP OPEN THE ROADS OF ESCAPE. FORTY-EIGHT MILES OF THE RHINE'S WEST BANK SOUTH OF STRASBOURG--13 MORE THAN YESTERDAY--NOW WERE IN ALLIED HANDS.

THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY IN NORTHERN ALSACE WAS LIKEWISE STEPPING UP ITS ASSAULT, AND DROVE THE LAST RESISTANCE FROM OFFENDORF, 11 MILES NORTH OF STRASBOURG.

THREE MILES FARTHER NORTH AND TWO MILES FROM THE RHINE, LT. GEN. ALEXANDER M.PATCH'S TROOPS OCCUPIED ROHRWILLER, VIRTUALLY LIQUIDATING THE NAZI CORRIDOR WHICH ONCE MENACED STRASBOURG FROM THE NORTH.

THE AMERICANS STILL WERE HELD UP AT OBERHOFFEN, 15 MILES NORTH OF STRASBOURG, WHERE FORCES THRUSTING BACK ACROSS THE MODER RIVER WERE ENGAGED IN HARD FIGHTING FOR THE THIRD STRAIGHT DAY.

FIGHTERBOMBERS LASHED AT THE GERMANS THERE AND IN SOUTHERN ALSACE, WHERE THE RAILWAY BRIDGE ACROSS THE RHINE DUE EAST OF COLMAR ALSO WAS UNDER ALLIED ARTILLERY FIRE. FEB 4 1945

AT THE SAME TIME A COMPANY COMMANDED BY CAPT. ROY Z.WHITE, NEW BRITAIN CONN., AND REINFORCED BY A HANDFUL OF STRAGGLERS, STOPPED ANOTHER ATTACK IN ITS POSITIONS. WHITE'S CREW IGNORED A GERMAN SURRENDER OR DIE ULTIMATUM AND DROVE OFF THREE MORE ASSAULTS.

THE NEXT MORNING GERMAN TANKS AND INFANTRY CHARGED MILDREN'S BATTALION FRONT AGAIN. THIS TIME COMPANY B, UNDER CAPT.WILLIAM S. MCCART OF 1276 FRANKLIN AVE., COLUMBUS OHIO, SENT THE ENEMY SKULKING BACK.

RECKLESSLY THE GERMANS THREW MORE TANKS INTO THE ATTACK ON THE THIRD DAY, WHEN THE BATTLE BECAME A FREE-FOR-ALL. THERE WAS NO SEMBLANCE OF ANY FRONT LINE--MILDREN'S MEN WERE NOW COMPLETELY CUT OFF FROM THEIR SUPPLIES AND THEY FOUGHT WITH WHAT THEY HAD FROM BASEMENTS, ATTCIS AND BARNS. BY THOBURN WIANT

WITH THE 17TH AIRBORNE DIVISION IN LUXEMBOURG, FEB. 3-(AP)-THERE IS PROBABLY NO MILITARY UNIT ON THE WESTERN FRONT LESS ORTHODOX THAN "UNCLE BUD'S BEAT-UPS."

UNCLE BUD IS MAJ.GEN.WILLIAM M.MILEY, 45-YEAR-OLD COMMANDER OF THE 17TH AIRBORNE DIVISION WHO COMES FROM STARKVILLE, MISS. HIS BEAT-UPS, ROUGH, READY AND NOT AFRAID OF THE DARK, COMPRISE A RECONNAISSANCE COMPANY COMMANDED BY CAPT.DUDLEY A.HILL, 32, OF 1307 WEST 18TH ST., AMARILLO, TEX.

BEFORE COMING INTO ACTION MANY OF THE BEAT-UPS WERE PROBLEM CHILDREN. THEY WENT AWOL, AND OFTEN SAID THE WRONG THINGS TO THE WRONG PEOPLE. WHEN THE PROBLEM AS TO WHAT TO DO WITH 17 CASTOFFS IN THE STOCKADE AROSE SOMEONE SUGGESTED THAT THEY BE TRANSFERRED TO HILL'S COMPANY. THE SUGGESTION WAS QUICKLY ADOPTED.

BUT THINGS ARE DIFFERENT NOW. THE BEAT-UPS ARE THE PRIDE OF THE 17TH AIRBORNE OUTFIT. THEY SNEAK BEHIND GERMAN LINES, FREQUENTLY AS FAR AS TWO OR THREE MILES, GATHERING INFORMATION. THEY HAVE MADE MORE THAN 45 COMBAT RECONNAISSANCE PATROLS WITHOUT HAVING A SINGLE MAN KILLED, CAPTURED OR REPORTED MISSING. A FEW OF THEM, HOWEVER, HAVE BEEN WOUNDED ACCIDENTALLY BY THEIR OWN TROOPS.

LT.KEN PALMER OF MILWAUKEE, WIS., EXPLAINED THAT "WE ARE AFRAID TO RETURN TO OUR OWN LINES AT NIGHT WHEN THEY CUT BEHIND THE ENEMY'S."

THE BEAT-UPS THEME SONG IS "DON'T DO NUTHIN' 'TIL YOU HEAR FROM ME." THAT SUITS THE REST OF THE DIVISION BECAUSE THE BEAT-UPS INVARIABLY GET WHATEVER THEY GO AFTER.

"THEY'RE A MIGHTY AGGRESSIVE BUNCH," MILEY SAID. "SOMETIMES TOO AGGRESSIVE FOR RECONNAISSANCE. WE HAVE TO REMIND THEM OCCASIONALLY TO CONFINE THEMSELVES TO GATHERING INFORMATION AND FORGET ABOUT PICKING FIGHTS."

BUT THEY HAVEN'T CHANGED COMPLETELY. FOR EXAMPLE, PFC.JOSEPH PANTALONE, THE COMPANY COOK FROM CAMDEN, N.J., WEARS A BOWLER HAT WHILE SERVING CHOW. PFC.ROBERT G.RICKETTS OF SPRINGFIELD, O., SPORTS A SOLID WHITE BOW TIE DURING NIGHT PATROL WORK EXPLAINING THAT "IT BLENDS WITH THE SNOWSCAPE."

B36

OTHERS ARE LIKELY TO BE SEEN IN FRENCH OFFICER'S GARRISON CAPS, TOP HATS, BRITISH PARATROOPER BERETS OR BELGIAN STETSONS. THEY GET A KICK OUT OF IT, AND HILL DOESN'T OBJECT AS LONG AS THEY KEEP UP THEIR GOOD WORK.

LT.JOHN BRADFORD OF LONOKE, ARK., IS ONE OF THE TYPICAL BEAT-UPS. HE ONCE ASKED THE DIVISION'S OPERATIONS OFFICER WHETHER HE COULD HAVE A COUPLE OF HOURS OFF BECAUSE HE HAD "SOMETHING TO DO." HIS REQUEST WAS GRANTED AND BRADFORD TOOK OFF WITH THREE VOLUNTEERS, SGT.GEORGE LOSS OF HANOVER, PA., PVT.EVERETT BURKE OF CAMBRIDGE, MASS., AND PVT.BILLIE COLLINS OF HILLSBORO, N.C., IN THE DIRECTION OF A TOWN WHICH THE GERMANS WERE STILL HOLDING.

THE QUARTET ENTERED THE TOWN UNDER COVER OF DARKNESS AND MADE SO MUCH NOISE THAT THE KRAUTS PROBABLY THOUGHT THEY WERE FACING AT LEAST ONE WHOLE COMPANY. AT ANY RATE, THE BEAT-UPS TOOK SEVEN PRISONERS, WOUNDED TWO OTHERS AND SAW 40 MORE NAZI SOLDIERS RUNNING AWAY FROM THEM.

THE BEAT-UPS OPERATE PRINCIPALLY AT NIGHT BEHIND THE ENEMY LINES.

"IT'S USUALLY SO DARK THAT WE CAN'T SEE AT ALL SO WE TRAVEL BY EAR," PVT.JOHN GERZ OF 6217 OAKLEY ST., PHILADELPHIA, EXPLAINED.

RECENTLY GERZ AND PVT.ROBERT THOMAS OF PALESTINE, TEX., CROSSED THE OUR RIVER AND FOUND AN EMPTY SIEGFRIED LINE PILLBOX.

"WE COULDN'T AFFORD TO SHOW ANY LIGHT," THOMAS SAID. "SO WE COULDN'T TELL WHETHER IT WAS EMPTY UNTIL WE FELT OUR WAY ALL AROUND."

HILL, WHO ROSE FROM A PRIVATE IN THE TEXAS NATIONAL GUARD TO COMMAND OF HIS COMPANY, SAID:

"I'VE GOT A BUNCH OF ROUGHNECKS BUT THEY'RE JUST RIGHT FOR THIS JOB. IN ENGLAND SOME OF THEM GOT INTO TROUBLE BECAUSE THEY HAD TOO MUCH ENERGY AND THEY HAD TO DO SOMETHING. OVER HERE THERE'S PLENTY TO DO FOR EVERYONE. AND SOME OF THE FELLOWS WHO GAVE ME THE MOST TROUBLE OVER THERE ARE THE STEADIEST AND MOST DEPENDABLE OF THEM ALL OVER HERE."

HARPERSCHEID, GERMANY, FEB. 3-(AP)-THE SECOND "INDIAN HEAD" INFANTRY DIVISION WAS BACK AROUND ITS OLD "HEARTBREAK CORNER" TODAY WITHOUT ANY HEARTBREAKS, AND GOING STRONG, WITH REINFORCEMENTS OF HUNDREDS OF MEN WHO ATE THEIR CHRISTMAS DINNERS IN THE U.S.A.

AFTER TAKING THE VILLAGES OF SCHONESEIFFEN AND HARPERSCHEID ALMOST IN A BREEZE AND CAPTURING 250 GERMANS WHOM THEY "FERRETED OUT OF CELLARS LIKE RATS," THE NINTH REGIMENT WAS MORE THAN FIVE MILES BEYOND "HEARTBREAK CORNER" -- THAT CROSSROADS IN MONSCHAU FOREST WHICH COST THE LIVES OF SO MANY DOUGHBOYS ON THE EVE OF THE VON RUNDSTEDT BREAKTHROUGH LAST DECEMBER.

THE TRAGIC PART OF IT ALL WAS THAT AFTER TAKING THE CROSSROADS AT SUCH A HIGH PRICE BY THROWING FOOT-SOLDIERS AGAINST MASSIVE STEEL AND CONCRETE PILLBOXES ALONG THE SIEGFRIED LINE, THE NINTH REGIMENT WAS ORDERED TO WITHDRAW FROM IT BECAUSE OF THE BIG ENEMY BREAKTHROUGH.

THE REGIMENT'S NEW COMMANDING OFFICER, COL. P.D. GINDER OF 2880 LOCUST ST., SAN DIEGO, CALIF., DID NOT PREFER TO SEND HIS TROOPS FOR A SECOND TIME AGAINST THE TOUGH OBJECTIVE THEY HAD WON AND GIVEN UP, NOT BY GERMAN FORCE BUT BY ORDERS. SO "HEARTBREAK CORNER" WAS RETAKEN BY ELEMENTS OF ANOTHER DIVISION-- THE NINTH -- BUT THE NINTH REGIMENT WALKED PAST ITS SPLINTERED TREES WITH STRONG AND BITTER MEMORIES.

NOW THE NINTH REGIMENT IS APPROACHING SCHLEIDEN ON THE FRINGE OF THE INNER BELT OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE.

"THE KRAUTS ARE NOT FIGHTING," SAID LT. COL. WALTER M. HIGGINS JR., OF CHATTANOOGA, TENN., WHOSE BATTALION PROVIDED THE "SUNDAY PUNCH" (IN THE WORDS OF HIS REGIMENTAL COMMANDER) FOR THE OPERATION THAT CLEANED UP THE TOWNS OF SCHONESIEFFEN AND HARPERSCHEID LATE YESTERDAY AND LAST NIGHT IN THREE AND A HALF HOURS.

"IF YOU GO SLOW RIGHT IN FRONT OF THEM THEY'LL SHOOT," HIGGINS EXPLAINED. "BUT IF YOU MOVE FAST, GET BEHIND THEM AND MAKE A LOT OF NOISE, THEY'LL GIVE UP. THAT'S THE WAY WE FOUND THEM HERE THIS TIME."

HIGGINS HAD HIGH PRAISE FOR HIS "REINFORCEMENTS" SO NEWLY ARRICED FROM THE UNITED STATES. BY OFFICIAL ORDER THEY'RE NOW CALLED REINFORCEMENTS AND NOT "REPLACEMENTS" WHICH IS SUSCEPTIBLE TO SOMEWHAT MACABRE CONNOTATIONS.

HEADQUARTERS, U.S. STRATEGIC AIRFORCES IN EUROPE, FEB. 3-(AP)-A U.S. EIGHTH AIRFORCE FIGHTER PILOT BECAME THE WESTERN ALLIES' FIRST EYEWITNESS OF THE GREAT BATTLE OF THE EASTERN FRONT TODAY WHILE HE WAS FLYING ESCORT IN TODAY'S BOMBER ATTACK ON BERLIN.

LT.COL.RUSSELL GUSTKE, 5308 WOODALE AVENUE, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., FLYING HIS MUSTANGE FIVE MILES ABOVE THE GERMAN CAPITAL, GLANCED EASTWARD THROUGH THE CLOUDLESS AIR, SAW THE ODER RIVER AND CAUGHT A GLIMPSE OF THE FIGHTING BETWEEN THE GERMAN FORCES AND THE ARMY OF MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV RANGED ALONG ITS BANKS.

"SOME TERRIFIC FIGHTING MUST HAVE BEEN GOING ON IN THAT AREA," GUSTKE SAID, "BECAUSE I COULD SEE COLUMNS OF SMOKE RISING AT SEVERAL POINTS.

"I WAS PUZZLED BY WHAT LOOKED LIKE SMALL ROCKETS OR SOMETHING SIMILAR BEING THROWN IN THE DIRECTION OF THE RUSSIANS. THEY ROSE TO ABOUT 5,000 FEET AND LEFT TRAILS LIKE A V-2 EXCEPT ON A SMALLER SCALE. I'VE NEVER SEEN A WEAPON JUST LIKE THAT BEFORE AND COULDN'T BE SURE JUST WHAT THEY WERE."

AT THE POINT WHERE IT COMES CLOSEST TO BERLIN, THE ODER RIVER IS 30 MILES FROM BERLIN.

MARSEILLE, FEB. 3-(AP)-WELL-ORGANIZED BANDS OF NAZI-SYMPATHIZING MAQUIS ROAMING THROUGH SOUTHERN FRANCE HAVE BEEN WAGING A CAMPAIGN OF TERROR AGAINST LOYAL FRENCHMEN AND OTHER ALLIES, IT WAS REPORTED TODAY.

HEADQUARTERS OF THIS ANTI-FFI, ANTI-ALLIED FIFTH COLUMN WAS BELIEVED TO BE LOCATED IN MARSEILLE ITSELF--A CITY THRONGING WITH SOLDIERS AND SAILORS IN ALL KINDS OF UNIFORMS WHERE IT WOULD BE EASY TO BE INCONSPICUOUS AND ANONYMOUS.

FEB 4 1945

BANDS OF BANDITS ROAMING OVER SCATTERED AREAS SEEK TO CREATE AN ATMOSPHERE OF INSECURITY AND HINDER THE MILITARY AS WELL AS THE CIVILIAN ROUTINE WITH SHOOTINGS, THEFTS AND EXPLOSIONS, REGIONAL POLICE OFFICERS SAID.

THE BANDITS ARE BELIEVED TO COMPRISE ELEMENTS OF THE FORMER FOLLOWING OF AN OFFICIAL IN THE PARTI POPULAIRE FRANCAISE--THE MILITIA OF JACQUES DORIOT. BANDS OF THESE PRO-GERMAN ELEMENTS ARE SAID TO BE ROAMING THE COUNTRYSIDE IN AMERICAN AS WELL AS REGULAR FRENCH UNIFORMS.

THIS "WHITE" OR "BROWN" MAQUIS ORGANIZATION IS HIGHLY MOBILE. IT REPORTEDLY OPERATES WITH STOLEN AMERICAN VEHICLES.

MAASTRICHT, THE NETHERLANDS, FEB. 3--(AP)--ENTER A LIBERATED DUTCH CITY TODAY WITH NOTHING IN THE WAY OF CASH IN YOUR POCKET EXCEPT A SINGLE 100 GULDEN BILL AND YOU MAY SHARE THE FATE OF KING MIDAS.

I SPENT TWO HOURS TODAY DURING A VISIT TO LIBERATED MAASTRICHT TRYING TO BUY A FEW NEEDED ARTICLES BUT WAS FRUSTRATED AGAIN AND AGAIN BY THE INABILITY OF STORE KEEPERS TO CHANGE THE EQUIVALENT OF $37.50 IN AMERICAN MONEY.

THEY DO BUSINESS NOW NOW DAYS ON AN EXCEEDINGLY LIMITED BASIS IN SUCH SECTIONS OF HOLLAND LIBERATED THE POVERTY OF THE POPULATION, DUE TO THE WAR AS WELL AS TO A SCARCITY OF GOODS, HAS COINCIDED TO BRING ABOUT THIS CONDITION.

FEB 4 1945

MY SHOPPING EXPEDITION STARTED IN MAASTRICHT'S BIGGEST DEPARTMENT STORE. IT IS COMPARABLE IN TO THAT OF ANY AMERICAN CITY WITH A SIMILAR 80,000 POPULATION. I WAS ATTRACTED BY A SET OF CLEVER CARRICATURES OF HITLER, GOERING AND GOEBBELS. WHEN I OFFERED A 100 GULDEN BILL TO PAY FOR A TWO GULDEN PURCHASE THERE WERE STAFF CONFERENCES AT FIVE CASHIERS' CAGES. THE COMBINED SATURDAY MORNING INCOME WAS NOT SUFFICIENT TO GIVE ME CHANGE. I PROMISED TO RETURN FOR THE CARDS WHEN I OBTAINED THE CHANGE.

AT A RED CROSS CENTER WHERE COFFEE AND DOUGHNUTS ARE AVAILABLE FOR A SMALL AMOUNT A 100 GULDEN CERTIFICATE WAS LOOKED ON AS

SOMETHING FROM ANOTHER WORLD. THE DUTCH POLICEMAN TO WHOM I APPEALED

COULD OFFER NO SOLUTION. THE 100 GULDEN BILL LOOKED AWFULLY BIG TO HIM.

I KEPT ON TRYING OFFERING TO BUY THINGS REALLY USELESS TO ME. IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE TO FIND ANY CASHIER WITH 100 GULDEN IN SMALL CHANGE

FINALLY ONE OBLIGING DUTCH [redacted] MERCHANT WENT FROM HIS STORE

TO HIS [redacted] HOME, OPENED THE FAMILY SAFE AND CHANGED MY BILL. HE

PROBABLY SCRAPPED THE BARREL TO DO IT. HE IS PROBABLY A CROESUS IN THE EYES OF HIS FELLOW CITIZENS.

PARIS, FEB. 3-(AP)-FENCH OFFICIAL CIRCLES PREDICTED TODAY THAT GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE WOULD BE INVITED TO SIT IN ON THE SECOND HALF, OR POLITICAL PORTION, OF THE "BIG THREE" CONFERENCES WHICH WOULD "MOST PROBABLY" BE FOLLOWED BY A VISIT OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO THE FRENCH CAPITAL.

ALTHOUGH DE GAULLE WAS KNOWN TO FEEL THAT SUCH A "LAST MINUTE" INVITATION WOULD NOT BEFIT FRANCE'S RIGHT TO A VOICE IN HIGH ALLIED COUNCILS, PERSONS CLOSE TO THE FRENCH LEADER SAID THEY THOUGHT HE WOULD MAKE THE TRIP NONETHELESS, IF AND WHEN THE CALL CAME.

(JEAN CALVET, A DOMESTIC RADIO COMMENTATOR IN PARIS, DECLARED TODAY THAT THE "BIG THREE" MEETING HAD BEGUN, AND ADDED THAT "IT IS DIFFICULT NOT TO FEEL A CERTAIN BITTERNESS" OVER THE FACT THAT "FRANCE SHOULD BE ABSENT FROM THIS MEETING, WHICH IS SO IMPORTANT FOR THE FUTURE OF EUROPE AND THE WORLD." HIS BROADCAST WAS RECORDED BY THE OWI.)

SEVERAL OFFICIALS HERE ASSERTED THAT THE ALLIES COULD NOT DECIDE THE FATE OF GERMANY IN WHICH FRANCE IS SO VITALLY INTERESTED, OR PICK FRANCE AS ONE OF THE REICH'S POST-WAR GUARDS, WITHOUT FIRST OBTAINING FRENCH CONSENT. THEY CONCEDED THAT THE FRENCH WOULD NOT NEED TO BE INCLUDED IN THE MILITARY PHASE OF THE CONFERENCES DEALING WITH HIGH COMMAND STRATEGY FOR THE DEFEAT OF THE NAZIS.

MEANWHILE, FRENCH OFFICIALS SAID PRESIDENTIAL AIDE HARRY HOPKINS BROUGHT NO NEWS ON THE POSSIBILITY THAT PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WOULD VISIT PARIS, BUT OFFICIALS POINTED OUT THAT THE PRESIDENT ALREADY HAS ACCEPTED DE GAULLE'S INVITATION "IN PRINCIPLE," WITH ONLY THE DATE AND CIRCUMSTANCES LEFT OPEN.

IF DE GAULLE ATTENDS PART OF THE "BIG THREE" CONFERENCE HE WILL BRING THE PRESIDENT BACK WITH HIM FOR FRANCO-AMERICAN TALKS, SOME OFFICIALS PREDICTED.

HE ASSERTED THAT ONE OF THE NAZI COMMAND'S BIGGEST MISTAKES WAS ITS FAILURE TO BUILD A STRATEGIC AIRFORCE. "IF THE GERMANS HAD HAD OUR LONG-RANGE BOMBERS, THE LANDINGS IN NORTH AFRICA, ITALY AND FRANCE WOULD HAVE BEEN IMPOSSIBLE AND THE GERMANS WOULD BE IN MOSCOW AND STALINGRAD TODAY," EAKER SAID.

ALLIED BOMBINGS OF GERMAN AIRCRAFT FACTORIES CUT PRODUCTION FOR THE LUFTWAFFE TO LESS THAN 300 FIGHTERS A MONTH, EAKER REPORTED, BUT SUBSEQUENT REBUILDING OF THE FACTORIES MAY HAVE RESTORED PRODUCTION TO 1,000 MONTHLY AND "WE SHALL UNDOUBTEDLY BE REQUIRED FROM TIME TO TIME TO KNOCK DOWN THE REBUILT FIGHTER FACTORIES."

LACK OF OIL, HOWEVER, STILL IS THE GERMAN AIRFORCE'S GREATEST HANDICAP SINCE IT NOT ONLY LACKS FUEL FOR EFFECTIVE USE OF ITS FIGHTER PLANES, BUT ALSO FOR THE TRAINING OF PILOTS, HE SAID.

MOSCOW, FEB. 3-(AP)-THE SOVIET PUBLICATION WAR AND THE WORKING CLASS INCLUDED CRITICISM OF SPAIN, SWEDEN AND SWITZERLAND IN INTERNATIONAL DISCUSSIONS TODAY IN ITS FEBRUARY ISSUE.

IN AN ARTICLE ENTITLED "SEARCH FOR A FRANCO SUBSTITUTE," THE PERIODICAL ASKED, "IN WHAT WAY CAN THE SPANISH REPUBLIC BE RESTORED?"

"THE QUESTION MUST BE ANSWERED BY THE SPANISH PEOPLE THEMSELVES, AND BEFORE THAT BY THOSE WHO, DURING THE FALANGING TERROR, ORGANIZED RESISTANCE INSIDE

"SOVIET SOCIETY IS GREATLY INTERESTED IN WHAT IS GOING ON IN AND AROUND SPAIN, NOT ONLY BECAUSE THAT HEROIC PEOPLE FOR THREE YEARS REPULSED THE FIRST BLOWS OF THE GERMAN AND ITALIAN AGGRESSORS BUT BECAUSE THE SOVIET UNION ALWAYS SYMPATHIZED FULLY WITH THEM.

"WE MUST ALWAYS BEAR IN MIND THAT...SPAIN WILL REMAIN UNDER CONTROL OF GERMAN FINANCIERS AND MANUFACTURERS AND MAY BECOME THE BIRTHPLACE OF A THIRD WORLD WAR.

"NO CHANGE OF FACES WILL BE ABLE TO AVERT THIS DANGER. THE ONLY WAY TO DESTROY THE DANGER IS TO RESTORE TO THE SPANISH PEOPLE FULL FREEDOM TO REGULATE THEIR OWN FATE AFTER ALL THE VARIOUS FORMS OF FASCISM ARE COMPLETELY DESTROYED."

ANOTHER ARTICLE, ENTITLED "SOMETHING MORE ABOUT SWEDISH HOSPITALITY," CRITICIZED SWEDEN ON THE GROUNDS THAT SHE ALLOWED EMIGRANTS FROM THE BALTIC AND GESTAPO AGENTS TO CARRY ON ANTI-SOVIET ACTIVITIES.

IT DECLARED THAT A SOVIET JOURNALIST HAD ASKED A REASONABLE QUESTION "IF SERIOUS, IRREPARABLE HARM HAD NOT BEEN CAUSED TO THE NATIONAL INTERESTS OF SWEDEN BY THE PROTECTION AND CONVENIENCE ENJOYED BY ANTI-SOVIET GANGS."

THE ARTICLE CONCLUDED, "HE WHO GOES TO BED WITH DOGS WAKES UP WITH FLEAS."

MOSCOW, FEB 3-(AP)-THE FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY WAS REPORTED SPREADING OUT TODAY BETWEEN FRANKFURT AND KUSTRIN ALONG A RIDGE OF HILLS FROM WHICH ITS ARTILLERY COULD POUND GERMAN FORTIFICATIONS ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE ODER RIVER.

THE OTHER, THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION, WAS ABOUT 12 MILES TO THE RIGHT, OR WEST, OF THE CAVALRY OUTFIT AND WITHIN 17 MILES OF MANILA. BOTH ARE PARTS OF LT.GEN.WALTER KRUEGER'S SIXTH ARMY.

Add Gen Mac's HQ Luzon (MacDaniel) x-the Philippines.

"I DON'T KNOW WHETHER THE FIRST CAVALRY OR 37TH DIVISION WILL REACH MANILA FIRST," GRISWOLD TOLD FRED HAMPSON, AP WAR CORRESPONDENT LATE SATURDAY.

HE ADDED WITH EMPHASIS: "BUT I AM TELLING YOU NO TROOPS UNDER MY COMMAND ARE ENTERING THE CITY UNTIL THEY HAVE HEAVIER GUNS AND HEAVY EQUIPMENT. X X X I AM NOT GOING TO THROW GOOD MILITARY JUDGMENT TO THE WIND TO STAGE A FOOTRACE INTO A CITY WHICH FOR ALL WE KNOW MAY BE STOUTLY DEFENDED."

INDICATIONS WERE THAT THE AMERICANS MAY NOT HAVE LONG TO WAIT TO FIND OUT WHETHER GEN.TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA, WHO HAS FAILED TO MAKE ANY CONCERTED STAND AT ANY POINT OF THE AMERICAN MAIN DRIVE SOUTHWARD, WILL FIGHT FOR MANILA.

THE CITY, WHICH WAS DECLARED "OPEN" BY GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR ON DEC. 26, 1941 AND OCCUPIED BY THE JAPANESE SEVEN DAYS LATER, MAY BE BLOCKADED SHORTLY ON LAND, CUT OFF BY SEA AND BLANKETED IN THE AIR BY THE OVERPOWERING FORCES NOW AT MACARTHUR'S DISPOSAL.

(A BRITISH BROADCASTING CORP. ANNOUNCEMENT SATURDAY, HEARD IN NEW YORK BY NBC, PLACED AMERICAN TROOPS WITHIN TWO MILES OF MANILA)

THE DISMOUNTED BUT MOTORIZED CAVALRY DIVISION, WITH A LONG STRING OF BATTLE VICTORIES DATING BACK TO 1860, WAS RUSHING DOWN THE EAST SIDE OF THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAINS, NOW FIRMLY IN AMERICAN HANDS. MACARTHUR'S SATURDAY COMMUNIQUE PLACED THE HARD DRIVING TROOPERS AT SABANG, ON HIGHWAY NO. 5, WITHIN 24 MILES OF MANILA.

THEIR ADVANCE OF 57 MILES IN TWO DAYS GAVE THE LIBERATION FORCES COMMAND OF ALL MAJOR ROADS AND RAILROADS IN THE CENTRAL PLAIN. JAPANESE FORCES IN NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN LUZON THUS WERE COMPLETELY ISOLATED.

THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION, COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.ROBERT S.BEIGHTLER OF COLUMBUS,O., WAS LAST REPORTED AT MALOLOS, IMPORTANT RAIL AND HIGHWAY JUNCTION ONLY 17 AIRLINE MILES NORTH OF MANILA. THE "BUCKEYE" DIVISION HAD SAFELY NEGOTIATED THE NARROW NECK OF LAND BETWEEN THE GUAGUA AND CANDABA SWAMPS, WHERE THE JAPANESE COULD HAVE MADE A BLOODY STAND. AHEAD OF THEM WAS FLAT COUNTRY TO MANILA.

NEITHER OF THESE COLUMNS HAD FACED ORGANIZED RESISTANCE AS THEY CONVERGED ON MANILA. THEY PROBABLY WERE WELL IN ADVANCE OF THE POSITIONS GIVEN BY SATURDAY'S COMMUNIQUE AS THERE IS A TIME LAG OF 24 TO 36 HOURS AT THE BEST BETWEEN BATTLE ACTION AND THE OFFICIAL REPORTS.

WHEN THE FIRST CAVALRY LANDED IN THE ADMIRALTY ISLANDS A YEAR AGO THIS MONTH ITS MEN EXPRESSED THE HOPE THEY WOULD SPEARHEAD THE AMERICAN ADVANCE INTO THE PHILIPPINES AND MANILA. LT.GEN.JONATHAN WAINWRIGHT, WHO WAS ENTRUSTED WITH THE FINAL DEFENSE OF BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR AND NOW IN A JAPANESE PRISON CAMP, ONCE WAS A SENIOR OFFICER OF THE DIVISION. IT IS NOW COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.VERNE D. MUDGE.

THE LANDING IN THE ADMIRALTIES, GENERAL MACARTHUR SAID AT THE TIME, MARKED THE TURN OF HIS ADVANCE FROM THE NORTH TOWARD THE WEST--TOWARD THE PHILIPPINES TO WHICH HE WAS PLEDGED TO RETURN.

A FLIGHT OVER MANILA FRIDAY BY FRED HAMPSON, AP WAR CORRESPONDENT, LED HIM TO REPORT THAT HE HAD NOT SIGHTED ANY EXTENSIVE DEFENSES AROUND THE APPROACHES TO THE CITY. VISIBILITY WAS POOR, HE SAID, BUT THE CITY APPEARED QUIET AND LITTLE DAMAGED, EXCEPT FOR THE WATERFRONT AREA.

ENGINEERS OF THE 37TH DIVISION, HAMPSON REPORTED, WERE SPANNING THE PAMPANGA RIVER AND CANAL AT CALUMPIT TO PERMIT PASSAGE OF HEAVY VEHICLES. SEVERAL BATTALIONS OF THE 145TH AND 148TH INFANTRY REGIMENTS OF THE 37TH ALREADY HAD CROSSED THE RIVER AND ADVANCED WELL BEYOND.

(RADIO TOKYO YESTERDAY ADMITTED THAT AMERICAN MECHANIZED UNITS WERE WITHIN 24 MILES OF MANILA AND REPORTED "EMBITTERED FIGHTING" RAGED IN ALL SECTORS ON LUZON.

(AN INDICATION THAT THE JAPANESE MIGHT TURN MANILA INTO A BATTLEGROUND CAME FROM GEORGE FOLSTER, NBC WAR CORRESPONDENT ON LUZON. HE REPORTED SATURDAY THAT SEVERAL FILIPINOS WITH WHOM HE HAD TALKED IN THE VICINITY OF THE SIXTH ARMY SPEARHEADS SAID SOME BUILDINGS HAD BEEN MINED, TANK TRAPS INSTALLED ON HIGHWAYS AND WINDOWS CEMENTED SHUT.)

AS THE SIXTH ARMY COLUMNS KNIFED IN TOWARD MANILA, TWO SEPARATE FORCES OF LT.GEN.ROBERT L.EICHELBERGER'S 8TH ARMY, WHICH LANDED EARLIER IN THE WEEK ON LUZON, POINTED SPEARHEADS AT MANILA.

UNITS OF THE 38TH AND 24TH DIVISIONS ADVANCED FROM THEIR BEACHHEAD ON THE ZAMBALES COAST, 60 AIRLINE MILES NORTHWEST OF MANILA, AND WERE LAST REPORTED TO HAVE PENETRATED SIX MILES ACROSS THE BASE OF HISTORIC BATAAN PENINSULA. THEY CAPTURED THE NAVAL BASE OF OLONGAPO, ON SUBIC BAY, SEVERAL DAYS AGO, AND WERE NEARING THEIR OBJECTIVE OF SEALING OFF THE PENINSULA.

THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION ELEMENTS MEANWHILE WERE STRIKING TOWARD MANILA FROM BATANGAS PROVINCE, TO THE SOUTHWEST, WHERE THEY LANDED WEDNESDAY. THEY HAD ADVANCED NINE MILES INLAND, AFTER SECURING NASUGBU AND WAWA AND A NEARBY AIRFIELD, AND WERE APPROACHING CAYLUNGAN. THEIR IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVE WAS THE 2,000-FOOT TAGAYTAY RIDGE, FROM WHICH COULD BE SEEN MANILA, ABOUT 40 AIRLINE MILES DISTANT.

AMERICAN ARTILLERY WAS POURING FIRE INTO A ZIGZAG SECTOR OF THE HIGHWAY WHICH FORMS PART OF BATAAN'S NORTHERN BOUNDARY.

ELEMENTS OF THE 38TH AND 24TH DIVISIONS WERE ENTERING THE SECTOR, WHICH COULD BE EFFECTIVELY DEFENDED BY A DETERMINED FOE BECAUSE OF THE DOMINATING FORESTED HILLS OVERLOOKING THE HIGHWAY.

OUR FORCES WERE HANDICAPPED BY A LACK OF MANEUVERING SPACE BETWEEN THE STEEP SLOPES AND THE RIVER. EVERY ENEMY PILLBOX AND EMPLACEMENT MUST BE BLASTED OUT BY MORTARS AND ARTILLERY, OR ROOTED OUT BY PATROLS WORKING THROUGH THE HILLS BEHIND THE JAPANESE. ANY FRONTAL ASSAULT AGAINST SUCH CONCEALED POSITIONS WOULD BE COSTLY IN LIVES.

THE ENEMY POSITIONS ENABLED A SMALL NUMBER OF DEFENDERS TO CONTROL THE HIGHWAY.

LT. COL. CHARLES OGLESBY OF WALTHAM, MASS., LEADING A UNIT OF THE 24TH DIVISION WHICH FIRST PROBED INTO THE HILLS BEYOND OLONGAPO, SAID THE JAPANESE TODAY HAD MOVED BACK INTO EMPLACEMENTS ATOP A RIDGE WHICH HAD BEEN ABANDONED YESTERDAY. HE SAID HE DIDN'T THINK, HOWEVER, THIS REPRESENTED A LARGE DEFENSE FORCE.

COL. ROBERT L.STILWELL, FORMER UTILITIES COMPANY EXECUTIVE

OF (727 SOUTH ENGLEWOOD) EVANSVILLE, IND., SENT ELEMENTS OF HIS 38TH DIVISION REGIMENT IN A FLANKING MOVE AROUND THE JAPANESE. HE SAID: "I WOULD RATHER CATCH THEM IN A PINCERS AND DESTROY THEM, INSTEAD OF HAVING THEM WITHDRAW CONTINUALLY, TO FACE US AT THE NEXT DEFENSIVE POSITIONS."

THE TROOPS CROSSED THE RIVER AND MOVED UP A GORGE TO CLOSE IN BEHIND THE ENEMY POSITIONS. THE MANEUVER LEFT THE JAPANESE CONTROLLING THE MAIN HIGHWAY BETWEEN REAR AND ADVANCED AMERICAN TROOPS BUT OPENED THE WAY TO THE PINCER MOVE.

SHORTLY BEFORE DUSK, STILWELL SENT A SMALL TANK FORCE THROUGH ON THE HIGHWAY TO THE ADVANCED POSITION TO GIVE THOSE TROOPS ADDED FIREPOWER. HE SIMULTANEOUSLY OPENED CONCENTRATED MORTAR FIRE ON THE ENEMY POCKET.

THE FORWARD ELEMENTS ADVANCED SOME 5,000 YARDS FROM OLONGAPO DURING THE DAY. STILWELL HIMSELF WAS PINNED DOWN BRIEFLY BY MACHINE GUN FIRE.

A SURVEY OF ABANDONED ENEMY POSITIONS AT OLONGAPO GAVE EMPHASIS TO THE QUESTION OF WHY THEY DIDN'T MAKE A FIGHT FOR THE TOWN. THERE WERE MORE THAN A DOZEN PILLBOXES ALONG MAIN STREET ALONE. MANY HAD BEEN BUILT SO RECENTLY THAT THE LUMBER ENTRANCE WAYS STILL LOOKED NEW.

THE 38TH DIVISION INCLUDES FORMER INDIANA AND KENTUCKY NATIONAL GUARD REGIMENTS. IT IS COMMANDED BY MAJ. GEN. HENRY L.C. JONES, ONETIME UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA ATHLETE.

BY C.YATES MCDANIEL (400)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES,LUZON,FEB 3 (AP)-"WELL, THEY ARE GOING TO WIPE US OUT THIS TIME."

THE LONE TENNESSEAN IN THE CABANATUAN PRISON CAMP AT CABU SAID THIS TO HIMSELF WHEN HE HEARD THE SHOOTING WHICH HERALDED THE SIXTH U.S. RANGERS DRAMATIC LIBERATION RAID THE NIGHT OF JAN.30.

VIRGIL GREENWAY, 26, SQUATTED ON THE GROUND IN NOTHING BUT A PAIR OF WHITE SHORTS AND A SURPRISINGLY NEAT AND CLEAN BATHROBE AND TOLD HIS STORY TODAY. GREENWAY'S HOME IS AT 324 NORTH FOURTH AVE., NASHVILLE, TENN.

HE SAID A FLIPINA GAVE HIM THE BATHROBE "WHEN SHE SAW ME SHIVERING HERE AFTER OUR 21 MILE HIKE FROM CABANATUAN WITH THE RANGERS."

GREENWAY'S SCUFFED AND BLEEDING FEET TOLD THE STORY OF WHAT THAT DASH FOR FREEDOM HAD MEANT.

"YOU SEE, WHEN THE RANGERS YELLED FOR US TO RUN FOR THE DOOR I DIDN'T STOP FOR ANYTHING BUT MY SHORTS," HE SAID.

"I WAS A MEMBER OF THE 60TH COAST ARTILLERY REGIMENT WHEN THE JAPS TOOK US ON CORREGIDOR.

GREENWAY, AN AUTOMOBILE MECHANIC, BECAME THE CAMP BARBER. WHEN HE WASN'T BARBERING HE CULTIVATED SWEET POTATOES.

"WE WOULD BE WORKING OUR HARDEST BUT THE JAP GUARDS WOULD YELL, 'SPEED UP', AND THEN BEAT US WITH RIFLE BUTTS," HE SAID.

GREENWAY, WHO APPEARED TO WEIGH ABOUT 120 POUNDS AND SEEMED IN MUCH BETTER CONDITION THAN SOME OF HIS COMRADES, SAID HE HAD DONE PRETTY WELL--LOSING ONLY 16 POUNDS--ON A DIET OF RICE, SWEET POTATO WINE AND GREENS.

HE WAS RELUCTANT TO DISCUSS THE MISERIES OF PRISON CAMP LIFE, SAYING, "I'D JUST AS SOON NOT TALK ABOUT THAT. ANYWAY, NOBODY WOULD BELIEVE IT IF I DID."

"I GUESS I WAS FORTUNATE," HE SAID. "THE ONLY THING I HAD WAS DYSENTERY--YES, I BROKE A LEG. NO, THE JAPS DIDN'T DO THAT. I FELL OFF A CARABAO LAST AUGUST. AMERICAN CAMP DOCTORS FIXED IT UP AND I STAYED IN THE HOSPITAL UNTIL NOVEMBER.

"THOSE WERE MY WORST MONTHS IN CAMP. I GOT EVEN LESS FOOD IN WHAT PASSED FOR A HOSPITAL THAN WHEN I WAS OUTSIDE.

"YES, I HAD SOME MEAT TO EAT IN THE PRISON CAMP. TWICE SOME OF MY FRIENDS CAUGHT DOGS AND WE ATE THEM. WE HAD A LOT OF DOG AND CAT TRAPS SCATTERED AROUND THE CAMP."
GREENWAY SAID THE ONLY WORD HE HAD FROM THE OUTSIDE WORLD WERE THREE OR FOUR LETTERS FROM OWEN D.MOORE," A FRIEND OF MINE IN OLD HICKORY, TENN." HE HAS NO FAMILY OR CLOSE RELATIVES, HE ADDED.
MOORE LIVES AT 1701 OVERTON STREET, OLD HICKORY.
THE TENNESSEAN SAID THE JAPANESE PAID HIM 10 CENTAVOS (10 CENTS) DAILY IN "THEIR WORTHLESS INVASION MONEY."
"OCCASIONALLY WE WERE ABLE TO BUY A LITTLE TOBACCO, BUT THAT WAS ALL," HE ADDED. "CIGARETTES SOLD FOR AS HIGH AS 20 DOLLARS EACH."
GREENWAY SAID WHEN HE HEARD THE RANGERS SHOOTING AND SHOUTING INSTRUCTIONS TO THE PRISONERS ON THAT LIBERATION NIGHT HE THOUGHT AT FIRST IT WAS A JAPANESE TRICK.
"BUT I DIDN'T WAIT FOR ANYTHING," HE SAID. "EVEN SOME OF THE PATIENTS AND MEN WHO HADN'T WALKED FOR 18 MONTHS GOT RIGHT UP AND WALKED OUT."

BY JAMES HUTCHESON (480)
WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN OLONGAPO,LUZON,JAN 30 (DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS OCCUPIED STRATEGIC OLONGAPO ON SUBIC BAY LATE TODAY AFTER MEETING THE FIRST JAPANESE RESISTANCE ON THIS "BATAAN FRONT BATTLE OF THE CEMETERY."
THE FIRST TROOPS ENTERED THIS BLASTED SITE OF A FORMER UNITED STATES NAVAL BASE FIVE HOURS AFTER OTHER ELEMENTS OF THE 11TH CORPS OF THE EIGHTH ARMY HAD SWEPT ASHORE WITHOUT OPPOSITION ON GRANDE ISLAND THE "LITTLE CORREGIDOR" BARRING ENTRY INTO SUBIC BAY.
CONQUEST OF THE COMMANDING POSITIONS ON SUBIC BAY BROUGHT SENTIMENTAL SATISFACTION TO AMERICAN COMMANDERS. IT WAS HERE THAT THE JAPANESE LANDED REINFORCEMENTS IN 1942 IN THE ENEMY'S LONG FRUSTRATED ATTEMPT TO BREAK THE HISTORIC AMERICAN AND FILIPINO RESISTANCE ON BATAAN.
THE DOUBLE-BARRELED ACTION CAME THE DAY AFTER THE SPEEDY AMERICAN ADVANCE STARTED FROM THE WESTERN LUZON BEACHHEAD. GRANDE ISLAND WAS OCCUPIED EASILY IN AN AMPHIBIOUS OPERATION BY 38TH DIVISION UNITS AFTER FILIPINO GUERRILLAS RAN UP AN AMERICAN FLAG AS A SIGNAL THAT THE JAPANESE HAD EVACUATED THE ISLAND.
THE FIGHT FOR OLONGAPO CAME AFTER THE 34TH REGIMENT OF THE 24TH DIVISION DASHED APPROXIMATELY 25 MILES ALONG THE INLAND HIGHWAY WITHOUT OPPOSITION.
THE FIRST SIGN OF JAPANESE RESISTANCE CAME WHEN A GRENADE EXPLODED ALONGSIDE A HALFTRACK TRUCK HEADING THE COLUMN. NOBODY WAS EVEN HURT.
THE ENSUING FIGHT DELAYED THE AMERICAN ADVANCE INTO OLONGAPO FOR TWO HOURS.
MACHINEGUN, TANK, SNIPER AND MORTAR FIRE ECHOED AROUND THE WHITE ARCH WITH ITS INSCRIPTION: "OLONGAPO PANTHEISTIC CEMETERY--THOSE WHO HONOR THE DEAD WILL CARE FOR THE LIVING."
THE JAPANESE WERE HIDDEN IN THE TALL COGON GRASS IN THE CEMETERY AND IN EMPLACEMENTS ON KALAKLAN POINT, A LIGHTHOUSE PROMONTORY INTO THE BAY. THE CEMETERY WAS HIGH ATOP A RIDGE.
COL. WILLIAM W.JENNA, LEOMINSTER, MASS., GAVE THE ORDER FOR THE FIRST CROSSING OF THE BRIDGE INTO TOWN AT 4:30 P.M., AFTER A DEMOLITION CREW HAD CLEARED THE BRIDGE OF EXPLOSIVES.
THE FIRST TANK CREPT SLOWLY ACROSS THE SPAN WITH INFANTRYMEN TRUDGING BEHIND. THE TANK WAS COMMANDED BY SGT.VESTER MARTIN, CHILHOWIE, VA.
"WE JUST SWEATED IT OUT. WONDERING IF WE WOULD CRASH THROUGH THE BRIDGE OR BE BLOWN UP," MARTIN SAID. HIS CREWMEN WERE SGT. FRANK GRABINSKY, 316 WARREN ST., HACKETTSTOWN, N.J.; CPL. ORACE (CORRECT) ALKIRE, 908 HAWTHORNE ST., FAIRMONT, W.VA.; PFC RAYMOND KIPPEMAN, 631 GRANT ST., FREMONT, OHIO, AND PVT. HARRY JACOBS, 79 EIGHTY-FIRST AVE., NEW YORK CITY.

B88KX
THE OLONGAPO MAIN STREET WAS LINED WITH PILLBOXES BUT THE JAPANESE HAD VANISHED, LEAVING THE BRIDGE BURNING AND THE TOWNS EASTERN EXIT STREETS CRUDELY MINED.
LT.COL.CHARLES OGLESBY, 22 ORCHESTER ST., WALTHAM, MASS., LED THE BATTALION WHICH SECURED THE EASTERN PART OF THE TOWN AND THE BRIDGE FOR PURSUIT OF THE NIPPONESE ALONG THE ROAD TOWARD MANILA.
THE TOWN OFFERED NO SIGNS OF JAPANESE NAVY INSTALLATIONS. LONG ROWS OF WATERFRONT BUILDINGS WERE IN CHARRED RUINS.
OLONGAPO WAS ALMOST BARE OF FILIPINOS WHO HAD GONE TO THE HILLS.
AS THE SKIRMISH PROCEEDED ASHORE, NAVY GUNBOATS CIRCLED OFF SHORE AND THE SHIPS OF A GREAT CONVOY WERE VISIBLE AGAINST THE SKYLINE ACROSS THE BAY.
AMERICAN TROOPS HAD TURNED THE CORNER IN THEIR TRIP BACK TO BATAAN.

FIFTEEN MILES FROM MANILA,FEB.2-(DELAYED)-(AP)-WITHIN THE LAST 24 HOURS THIS FLYING COLUMN OF FIRST CAVALRY UNDER THE COMMAND OF LT.COL.HASKETT L.CONNER, JR., HAS SLASHED 45 MILES SOUTHWEST SWINGING FROM CABANTUAN DOWN HIGHWAY NO. 5.
WE HAVE PASSED NUMEROUS POCKETS OF SNIPERS IN THIS FAST SWEEP, LEAVING THEM TO REAR ELEMENTS TO MOP UP.
SMALL CAVALRY ADVANCE UNITS WERE SENT AHEAD DURING THE EARLY EVENING HOURS TO SECURE BRIDGES IN OUR LONG ROUTE AD AS WE PASSED DOWN THE HIGHWAY IN THE STRICTLY ENFORCED BLACKOUT, HUGE HULKS OF TANKS LOOMED NEAR THE FOOTINGS OF BRIDGES TO PREVENT THE ENEMY FROM DESTROYING THEM.
IN SOME DARK CURVES OF THE HIGHWAY, JAPANESE WERE LURKING IN THE BRUSH AWAITING THEIR CANCE TO STRIKE BUT IT NEVER CAME.
DURING THE DARKNESS ONE SMALL RECONNAISSANCE UNIT UNDER THE LEAD OF CAPT.WALTER ANDRY OF WASHINGTON,D.C., WENT DOWN THE ROAD TO OBTAIN INFORMATION ON BRIDGES AND PLACE MARKERS FOR THE CONVOY TO FOLLOW A FEW HOURS LATER. IN ONE SMALL BARRIO HIS TANKS QUICKLY DISPERSED 40 JAPANESE WHO WERE ATTEMPTING TO STAGE A DELAYING ACTION.
THIS SQUADRON OF MECHANIZED VEHICLES STARTED DOWN THE HIGHWAY AT MIDNIGHT AND IS CLEARING A PATH FOR THE BALANCE OF THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION.
TWENTY-SEVEN YEAR OLD COLONEL CONNER (WEST POINT, CLASS '39) IS THE SON OF ARMY COLONEL HASKETT L.CONNER, SENIOR, STATIONED AT THE ARMY HOSPITAL, WAKEMAN,IND.
CERTAINLY THERE IS NO SECRECY ABOUT OUR MOVEMENTS AS OUR TANKS CLANK AND COUGH AT THE HEAD OF THIS COLUMN AS WE RORAR THROUGH THE DARKNESS.
BUT IT IS EERIE. EVEN SMALL NATIVE HUTS LOOK OMINOUS IN THE BLACK NIGHT BUT NOT A SHOT HAS BEEN FIRED AT US, YET.

BY HARRY T.MONTGOMERY

OWEN SOUND, ONT., FEB. 3-(AP)-THE KEY TO TROUBLE CANADA'S IMMEDIATE POLITICAL FUTURE REPOSED TODAY WITH THE 23,000 REGISTERED VOTERS IN THIS RELATIVELY REMOTE PARLIAMENTARY CONSTITUENCY OF GREY NORTH, ON GEORGIAN BAY 125 MILES NORTH OF TORONTO.

THESE TACITURN BRITISH-STOCK TOWNSFOLK AND FARMERS, ALTHOUGH EXPOSED TO WEEKS OF CAMPAIGNING, PREPARED CALMLY TO VOTE IN MONDAY'S TEST CASE BY-ELECTION CENTERING AROUND THE COMPROMISE CONSCRIPTION POLICY OF PRIME MINISTER W.L.MACKENZIE KING.

SEEKING CLUES TO CANADA'S FUTURE MANPOWER POLICY, THE PROBABLE DATE OF A FORTHCOMING GENERAL ELECTION AND THE STRENGTH OF THE SOCIALIST COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION, THE DOMINION WATCHED THE TINY ELECTORATE ATTENTIVELY.

CANADA'S THREE MAJOR PARTIES MADE THESE PLEAS:

1. PRIME MINISTER KING'S LIBERAL PARTY ASKED ELECTION OF DEFENSE MINISTER GEN. A.G.L.MCNAUGHTON TO A SEAT IN PARLIAMENT SO THAT HE COULD BETTER EXECUTE THE DUTIES OF HIS OFFICE, TO WHICH HE WAS APPOINTED IN NOVEMBER'S CONSCRIPTION CRISIS.

2. THE OFFICIAL OPPOSITION PARTY, THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES, ASKED ELECTION OF GARFIELD CASE, FORMER MAYOR OF OWEN SOUND, ON THE CHARGE THAT THE GOVERNMENT'S MANPOWER POLICY HAD FAILED TO SUPPLY NEEDED INFANTRY REINFORCEMENTS OVERSEAS AND THAT IT HAD BEEN THE CAUSE OF VIOLENCE AND "DESERTIONS" AMONG DRAFTEE TROOPS. MORE THAN 7,000 OF THESE TROOPS WENT ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE AS THEY WERE ABOUT TO BE SENT OVERSEAS, BUT SO FAR AS IS KNOWN HAVE NOT YET BEEN FORMALLY CHARGED WITH DESERTION.

3. THE CCF ASKED ELECTION OF AIR VICE MARSHAL A.EARE GODFREY, A WELL-TO-DO INDUSTRIALIST WHO RECENTLY BECAME A SUPPORTER OF THE PARTY'S LONG-RANGE SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC AIMS.

ALL THREE PARTIES REGARD IT AS A CLOSE RACE. THE CONCENSUS OF 18 VISITING NEWSPAPERMEN REPRESENTING ALL PARTS OF THE DOMINION GAVE MCNAUGHTON A SLIGHT EDGE, SEVEN PREDICTING HE WOULD WIN AGAINST SIX FOR GODFREY AND FIVE FOR CASE.

THE TWO OLD-LINE PARTIES HAVE CAMPAIGNED MAINLY AGAINST EACH OTHER OVER THE CONSCRIPTION ISSUE. THE CCF, LARGELY IGNORING THE QUESTION, HAS DIRECTED ITS APPEAL TO APPROXIMATELY 1,400 TRADE UNIONISTS IN OWEN SOUND AND TO THE FARMERS, REPRESENTING THE MAJORITY OF THE CONSTITUENCY AND HAVING A TRADITION OF MANY YEARS OF PROGRESSIVISM AND COOPERATIVE MARKETING.

THE VOTERS WERE TOLD BY THE NON-PARTISAN LOCAL DAILY TODAY THAT TO THEM "HAS FALLEN THE TASK OF SPEAKING FOR CANADA IN THE MOST MOMENTOUS BY-ELECTION IN THE HISTORY OF THE DOMINION," AND THAT "TO THE OUTSIDE WORLD THE VOICE OF GREY NORTH WILL BE TAKEN AS THE VOICE OF CANADA."

CANADA'S NEW POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE, COUNTERPART OF THE PA IN THE UNITED STATES, IS SUPPORTING THE CCF IN ITS FIRST CAMPAIGN. IT IS ASSOCIATED WITH THE CANADIAN CONGRESS OF LABOR, DOMINION PROTOTYPE OF THE CIO.

THE LABOR PROGRESSIVE PARTY, HEADED BY THE FORMER LEADERS OF THE DISSOLVED COMMUNIST PARTY, IS SUPPORTING MCNAUGHTON AND THE GOVERNMENT'S PROGRAM WITH A PLEA FOR ALL-OUT SUPPORT OF THE WAR EFFORT AS IT IS BEING CONDUCTED.

THE MOST SENSATIONAL CHARGE OF THE CAMPAIGN WAS MADE THURSDAY NIGHT BY THE NATIONAL LEADER OF THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES, JOHN BRACKEN, WHO DECLARED THAT DRAFTED TROOPS HAD THROWN RIFLES AND AMMUNITION OVERBOARD AS THEY WERE BEING SENT ABROAD.

MCNAUGHTON DENIED THE CHARGE, DECLARING THAT A THOROUGH INVESTIGATION HAD SHOWN ONLY THAT IN ONE INSTANCE ONE "CRAZY" SOLDIER HAD THROWN HIS RIFLE AND KIT OVERBOARD, AND HE CALLED UPON BRACKEN TO SUBSTANTIATE HIS CHARGE "OR ELSE PAY THE PENALTY FOR IT." HE DID NOT INDICATE WHAT THIS PENALTY MIGHT BE.

THE MINISTRY OF NATIONAL DEFENSE ISSUED A STATEMENT IN OTTAWA TODAY REPEATING THE DENIAL CATEGORICALLY AND ADDING THAT THE RECENT MOVEMENT OF REINFORCEMENTS OVERSEAS "WAS ONE OF THE BEST MOVEMENTS OF CANADIAN TROOPS."

"AMONG ALL THESE TROOPS THERE WAS ONLY ONE SOLDIER WHO THREW HIS RIFLE AND EQUIPMENT OVERBOARD AT PORT OF DEPARTURE," THE STATEMENT SAID. "AT THE PORT OF ARRIVAL THE SAME SOLDIER REFUSED TO GO OFF THE SHIP. HE WAS TAKEN OFF BY HIS UNIT AND DEALT WITH. EXCEPT FOR THIS, ABSOLUTELY NO INCIDENT OF ANY KIND OCCURRED."

THE DRAFTED TROOPS ARE SETTLING DOWN WELL IN THE UNITED KINGDOM, THE MINISTRY SAID, AND "NO DISCIPLINARY TROUBLES HAVE BEEN ENCOUNTERED."

SARNIA, ONT., FEB. 3-(AP)-PVT. IRWIN STATA, 19, WAS ACQUITTED TODAY OF A CHARGE OF MURDER IN CONNECTION WITH THE DEATH OF MRS. ETHEL SMITH OF DETROIT, BUT WAS CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER AND SENTENCED TO SERVE 18 YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY.

STATA WAS ARRESTED A FEW DAYS AFTER MRS. SMITH'S BULLET-PIERCED BODY WAS FOUND BY HER HUSBAND ON SEPT. 11 AT A PORT FRANKS, ONT., COTTAGE.

UNDATED LUZON RACE (270)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
THE UNITED STATES FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION (DISMOUNTED) WAS RACING TO FULFILL A HOPE AND A PROMISE IN ITS ADVANCE ON MANILA.
THE PROMISE WAS MADE WHEN THE DIVISION INVADED THE ADMIRALTY ISLAND LAST FEBRUARY--AN ACCOMPLISHMENT WHICH GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID AT THE TIME SHIFTED THE DIRECTION OF THE AMERICAN AMPHIBIOUS ADVANCE.FROM NORTH TO WEST, OR DIRECTLY AT THE PHILIPPINES.
THE TOUGH CAVALRYMEN SAID THEY HOPED TO FIGHT IN THE PHILIPPINES AND TO BE THE FIRST AMERICAN TROOPS TO REENTER MANILA.
THIS HOPE WAS SOMETHING OF A PROMISE TO ONE OF THE DIVISION'S FORMER SENIOR OFFICERS--LT.GEN.JONATHAN WAINWRIGHT, GALLANT DEFENDER OF BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR, AT LAST REPORTS IN A JAPANESE PRISON CAMP IN FORMOSA.
DISPATCHES FROM MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS ON LUZON SAID THE CAVALRY DIVISION HAD PASSED SABANG, 24 MILES FROM MANILA, AFTER SPEEDING 57 MILES DOWN THE EAST SIDE OF THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAINS IN 24 HOURS. THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION, SPEARHEADING THE WEST SIDE APPROACH, WAS BEYOND MALOLOS, ONLY 18 MILES AWAY.
THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, WHOSE RECORD EXTENDS BACK TO 1860, IS COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.VERNE D.MUDGE.
FROM THE ADMIRALTIES, THE MECHANIZED TROOPERS JOINED THE MOVE ON THE PHILIPPINES AND FOUGHT THROUGH THE INITIAL CAMPAIGN ON LEYTE ISLAND.
ONE BRIGADE SERVED PREVIOUSLY IN THE PHILIPPINES DURING THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR AND AGAIN IN 1907. THE DIVISION'S LONG RECORD ALSO INCLUDES PARTICIPATION IN THE INDIAN CAMPAIGNS AFTER THE CIVIL WAR, INCLUDING "CUSTER'S LAST STAND."
THE HARD FIGHTING DOUGHBOYS OF THE 37TH INFANTRY OR "BUCKEYE" DIVISION ARE COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.ROBERT S.BEIGHTLER. THEY PREVIOUSLY FOUGHT THE JAPANESE ON BOUGAINVILLE IN THE SOLOMONS.
BOTH DIVISIONS ARE PART OF LT.GEN.WALTER KRUEGER'S SIXTH ARMY.

SAN FRANCISCO, FEB.3--ARTHUR FELDMAN, BLUE NETWORK WAR CORRESPONDENT, SAID IN A BROADCAST FROM LUZON THE MARCH ON MANILA IS MOVING SO FAST THAT SOME YANKS ARE COLLAPSING FROM THE HEAT.
FORTY SUCH MEN WERE PLACED IN AMBULANCES AND TAKEN BACK TO THE REAR, FELDMAN SAID, QUOTING AN UNIDENTIFIED COLONEL.
"THE NEXT DAY," THE COLONEL SAID, "EVERY ONE OF THEM WAS BACK IN THE LINE OF MARCH AGAIN. WHEN WE GET TO MANILA, I'M GOING TO GET DOWN ON MY HANDS AND KNEES AND THANK EVERY ONE OF MY DOUGHBOYS. I'VE GOT THE MOVINGEST, MARCHINGEST BUNCH OF MEN IN THE ARMY."
FELDMAN REPORTED SEEING MAJ.GEN.OSCAR W.GRISWOLD, COMMANDER OF THE 14TH CORPS, STANDING ON A BRIDGE OVER ONE RIVER DIRECTING TRAFFIC "AND JUST SHOVING TRUCKS AND HALFTRACKS ACROSS THE SPAN."
"I RATED ABOUT A FIVE PRIORITY," FELDMAN RELATED, "AND TO GET ACROSS THE BRIDGE I HAD TO HAUL A LOAD OF AMMUNITION TO AN ADVANCED ARTILLERY POST. THAT'S THE ONLY WAY I COULD GET TO WITHIN 15 MILES OF MANILA."

Seize Concentration Camp Freeing 3,000 Civilians—37th Division Reaches Suburbs. Northern Half Of City Held

McDaniel

MacArthur Headquarters, Luzon, Monday, Feb. 5 (AP)—American troops reached the heart of Manila yesterday and raised the Stars and Stripes over the Philippine capital.

Yanks of the 1st Cavalry Division, in a wide encircling move by dark, entered the city Saturday night against harassing sniper fire and quickly captured Malacanan Palace and the large Santo Tomas concentration camp.

3,000 Liberated At Santo Tomas

Russell Brines, Associated Press correspondent with the 1st Cavalry, said 3,000 Santo Tomas internes were liberated. They were mostly American women and children interned there since May 1, 1942.

Brines said "room-by-room" fighting occurred within the former university.

Frontline reports said ambulances already were bringing out the Santo Tomas prisoners.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur was denied the satisfaction of entering the capital immediately. A dynamited bridge on the northern outskirts forced the leader of the troops to turn back and find another route into the city.

Northern Half In American Hands

The northern half of Manila was in American hands as elements of the 1st Cavalry and 37th Infantry Division, the latter entering from the north, pressed for the knockout.

The Japanese in the northern part of the city offered no major stand, but explosions were heard and fires were seen south of the wide and deep Pasig River barrier which splits the city in two.

The Japanese may put up a bitter and bloody fight for the historic and commercial center of Manila, but for those who might survive, there will be no escape.

37th Advances Through Airdrome

While the 37th Division cautiously pushed through the Grace Park Airdrome from the north Saturday night, 1st Cavalry spearheads circled into the city from the east and yesterday morning reached Santo Tomas University grounds and threw a protective cordon around its concentration camp.

Santos Tomas is perhaps the area in Manila closest to the hearts of American and British hearts. Within Santo Tomas the American and British civilians—3,000 men and women at one time—have waited deliverance for three long years.

Malacanan palace, in Yank hands, was the historic residence successively of Spanish and American governors general, American high commissioners and from the birth of the Philippine republic until the hurried departure on Christmas eve, 1941, of the late President Manuel Quezon.

It was just three years and six weeks ago that the last units of MacArthur's tired outnumbered Filipino and American forces left the capital.

Paratroopers Dropped

With the First cavalry and 37th infantry divisions already within Manila, a new paratroop invasion behind enemy lines in Batangas province spearheaded the 11th airborne division's drive along a straight, downhill road 18 miles from the southern fringes of the city.

The first paratroop landing of the Philippines campaign bolstered the 11th airborne's invasion of the Batangas province coast last Wednesday.

The First Cavalry division, fighting in memory of their former commander, Lt. Gen. Jonathan W. Wainwright who was captured by the invading Japanese in early 1942, was the first to enter Manila.

These hard-hitting dismounted cavalrymen—whose quick drive down the eastern flank of the central Luzon plain was the most sensational advance of the entire campaign—fought into Manila under cover of darkness to guard the safety of the Santo Tomas internees.

General MacArthur's triumphant communique today said advance units of the First cavalry were guarding the Santo Tomas internees "while the remainder of the division is coming up from the east."

(Radio Tokyo strangely reported that American forces had been "cut off in the Clark field area—40 miles north of Manila—and "are now on the verge of being isolated.")

Drive Through Suburbs

Manila had not been fully occupied by noon Sunday. The 37th division was pushing cautiously through the northern suburbs. The First cavalry, which entered the city from the east in an encircling action, drove strong patrols amid sniper fire to the northern banks of the Pasig river.

But the key that will unlock the gates of the city may well be turned by the 11th Airborne division, for their road from the south cross-es no formidable river barriers and leads straight to the back door of the city.

Caution characterized the tone of official claims, for a large part of Manila still was in Japanese hands. But General MacArthur has power to spare to blast the possible few thousand Japanese from their holes and dugouts in the city.

Americans who reached Santo Tomas and Malacanan this morning could see some fires burning to the south, but aerial observers—already flying light planes from the captured Grace park airdrome—said there was no evidence of attempted wholesale destruction by the enemy.

The Japanese entered Manila in force New Year's day, 1942, after an approach as cautious as that the Americans are making. But three years ago Manila had been declared an open city a week before the enemy entered.

Japanese nearing the outskirts of Manila also saw fires burning. Some were caused by bombs they dropped after American guns and troops had been removed. Others were from the systematic destruction of radio stations, fuel dumps and harbor installations wrought by American engineers.

Yanks Reach Malacanan

The Yanks who drove through to Malacanan yesterday morning found there no high officials of the Japanese-sponsored Philippine government. They and other top Japanese military leaders were reported by Filipinos to have left Manila for the Summer capital at Baguio, of perhaps farther away in northeastern Luzon, at the time of the American landing in Lingayen gulf.

MacArthur's men were back in Manila just 26 days after the Jan. 9 invasion of Luzon island at Lingayen gulf. It meant the culmination of a virtually unopposed 120-mile drive down the central Luzon plain, coordinated with later invasions on the west coast above and below the capital city.

(Pat Flaherty, NBC correspondent, broadcast that the advance units met "only mediocre" Japanese resistance and "there was no evidence of wholesale destruction." He said some bridges over the Pasig river had been blown up by the enemy.

(Royal Arch Gunnison, Mutual radio reporter, said he entered Manila with the 37th division and found the city in fairly good condition, despite the "tremendous pall of smoke hanging over the city." He said government buildings "appear usable."

(Gunnison said the 37th was deep into the city in full strength and "may soon contact the First division at Santo Tomas.")

In support of the ground operations, heavy bombers again pounded installations at Corregidor fortress at the entrance to Manila Bay and the Cavite naval base, causing extensive fires and explosions.

Attack bombers hit defenses and supply dumps at Baler Bay on the east-central Luzon coast.

Formosa Also Air Target

Formosa was another target. Heavy bombers raked Okayama airdrome there two nights running, destroying twenty parked planes and starting many fires and explosions.

At least four freighters were destroyed or damaged offshore to the east in the vicinity of the Sakishima Islands.

Another fuel-laden freighter was left afire and dead in the water off

Saigon, French Indo-China.

Slowed By Enemy Groups

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th had tussled with harassing enemy groups which slowed up that division's drive below Malolos.

Maj. Gen. Verne Mudge's 1st Cavalry spearheads shot right on by enemy pockets, leaving these to be cleaned up by the main force, and had drawn abreast the 37th after crossing the Angat River at Bustos.

The 8th Army's 38th and 24th Divisions, northwest of Manila, were fast sealing off Bataan peninsula at its base along a road which veers toward San Fernando.

Post Tanks At Bridges

Dean Schedler, Associated Press correspondent with the 1st Cavalry, said tanks were posted at the supports of bridges to guard against their destruction by roving groups of Nipponese.

"In some dark curves of the highway, Japanese were lurking in the brush awaiting their chance to strike but it never came," Schedler said in recording night operations.

Russell Brines, Associated Press correspondent with the 37th, said those Yanks had to contend with "blasted bridges and fighting pocket-sized battles against small but bitterly resisting groups of Japanese."

Bridge Blocks MacArthur From Entering Manila

By The Associated Press.

MANILA, Feb. 4—A dynamited bridge denied Gen. Douglas MacArthur entry into Manila today.

He reached the bridge on his way to the capital and then was forced to return to try another route. General MacArthur has repeatedly waded ashore with the first assault waves in his island-hopping campaign on the road back to Manila.

NATIVES NEAR MANILA FIGHT THEIR OWN WAR

MALOLOS, Luzon, Feb. 3 (Delayed) (AP)—The Filipino political pot is still boiling in this town, birthplace of the first Philippine Republic and incubator of the 1899-1901 insurrection against the United States.

The citizens of Malolos, seventeen miles north of Manila, joyously received the American liberation force. But even while they lined the roads with water pitchers in their hands to ease the thirst of sweaty doughboys, there was the crack of gunfire between two Filipino political factions.

Many of the citizens say they are not now interested in immediate Philippine independence. They would like to have Uncle Sam iron out some Filipino political differences first.

The shooting was an encounter between Malolo guerrillas and Socialist Huk Bahalap guerrillas, the townspeople said.

"We in this town refused to join the Huks," one Filipino said. "They were very angry and have been trying for some time to get control of Malolos."

There has been sharp skirmishing between the two factions for several months, the Filipino added.

Shortages of food and clothing underlie the political troubles.

Defeated Japs Inflicted Little Damage on Manila

Filipinos Rejoice Over American Entry into Philippine Capital.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4—(AP) Most of Manila appears intact, with only ten fires burning in Japanese ammunition dumps piers and warehouses, correspondents of American radio networks reported today after the American penetration of the capital.

Royal Arch Gunninson of Mutual, who flew over the city said Manila "is not in as bad condition as might expected." He reported Pier 7, largest dockside on either side of the Pacific, is aflame, however.

Buildings Appear Intact

Most of the public buildings, including the Bay View and Manila hotels, appeared intact, he added.

Pat Flaherty of the NBC likewise reported no evidence of wholesale destruction of the retreating Japanese.

William J. Dunn, CBS broadcaster, said he saw a large enemy cargo ship afire in Manila bay, apparently ignited by its crew because of the futility of escape into the U. S. controlled outer waters.

John Adams of Blue network reported flying over captured Grace field and said "It appears that the field could be put in operation in short order."

Gunnison said a "great pall of smoke" still hung over Manila but that there appeared to be more smoke than fire.

Thousands of war weary Filipinos lined the routes of the American troops, he continued. He said the city dwellers, in contrast to the country Filipinos, appeared weary and dejected.

Welcome Americans

Some, he added, even bowed to the Americans, a habit they had learned under long Japanese subjugation. Some cried to the Americans: "You will never know how we have missed you."

"It was a happy but pitiful sight," Gunnison said.

Flaherty declared "There is fighting going on right now in Manila for control of the city."

Adams reported that there were "few people on the streets" and that the many lining the American entry routes were on the outskirts.

Gunnison, who with two other correspondents on Luzon, Russell Brines of the Associated Press and Carl Mydans of Life magazine, was in the Santo Tomas concentration camp before being exchanged, flew over the camp:

"A woman in red slacks and a white blouse waved from the roof of a building," he said. "Children were swinging from swings I built when I was a prisoner two years ago. The 500 grass and bamboo huts about the camp were intact, but seemed empty. It's obvious that of the 3,800 people who were there when I left, some have been moved."

Brewery Called High Point In One Group's Manila Dash

By FRED HAMPSON

FEB 5 1945

In the Suburbs of Manila, Feb. 4 (AP)—They said Manila was our objective, but as far as most of the officers and men in our party are concerned, the big brewery in the suburbs marked the high point in our invasion of the city.

It was a great day for beer drinkers.

Filipinos were so happy they were near hysteria and broke into the brewery which the Japanese had left a few hours ago and came streaming out with their arms full of beer bottles.

Beer Thrust Upon Them

As the saying goes: "There went the ball game."

Practically every G.I. who trudged along the crowded streets had bottles of beer forced on him—of course, he didn't protest very much.

One elderly Filipino rushed up to a jeep in which I was riding with Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, commander of this Buckeye Division.

In his arms he carried many bottles of beer. "Take, take, take, take," he shouted. "Welcome, welcome, welcome!"

Then he waved three fingers in our faces and danced wildly: "Three years with those goddamned Japanese!"

It was the first time in the Philippines I ever heard a Filipino utter an oath. Apparently they save it for special occasions.

Jumping off from north of Manila, these foot soldiers who marched the entire distance from the Lingayen beachhead since January 9 entered the suburb of Tinageros then crossed hip-deep water around a Japanese-destroyed bridge and thrust on into Balintawak.

Met Only Civilians

This is where the huge brewery is located and as far as these men are concerned it will be long remembered.

We met no Japanese once we were in the city—only cheering, weeping and clapping civilians. The nearer we press into the center of the city the more joyous and vociferous becomes the welcome.

It appears to me that the urban Filipinos have suffered more severely at the hands of the Japanese than those I saw in the rural areas.

Men, women and children jammed the streets and crowded around the tired Americans whose principal thought was to get into Manila and to get it cleared up.

Welcome Takes Many Forms

Manila's welcome took many and bewildering forms.

Old women wept and old men wept. A gaunt, toothless woman in ragged gown grabbed the hand of an abashed regimental colonel and kissed it.

"Victory!" said the flustered colonel.

"The Americans are back!" she quavered. "God bless you, sir, God bless you, sir. God bless the Americans! God bless all the Americans!"

"Answer To Dream Of Empire"

A brigadier general in our group turned and said:

"There is an answer to Japan's dream of empire! After three years of the Orient for the Orientals these Orientals kiss our hands and say 'God bless the Americans.'"

We walked gingerly around a mined section of the street. At the end of this bottleneck—it was one of Manila's many city centers—the battalion column was taking a break, and Filipino women and girls were rushing among them with coffee.

A Filipino urchin darted from the crowd and handed me an egg.

"My geeft, sair. Welcome to the Americans!"

Children Walk With Troops

Tiny children darted out among the troops and grasped hands and walked with them. A GI dropped from the line and took a 6-month-old baby from his father's arms and held him up and cooed at him and handed him back with a salute and rejoined the march.

"The Americans, the Americans they come at last," answered the father with tears coursing down his face.

All day it had been going on and far into the night. Here and there our flanking patrols on the side streets ran into small knots of Japanese and sharp cleanup fights ensued. Bullets whined about, but the people never stopped their cheers and greeting.

Americans Battle From Room to Room To Liberate Prisoners in Santo Tomas

Brines

WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, in Manila, Feb. 4 (AP)—By midafternoon today approximately 3,000 persons — mostly American women and children—had been liberated from the Santo Tomas internment camp. They had been held there since May 1, 1942.

The camp was the prime objective of the First Cavalry's armored spearhead, the first to enter Manila. A flying squadron of the division entered the city at 6:30 P. M. yesterday with little trouble, but it had to fight its way through machine-gun and sniper fire to reach Santo Tomas. There it found a force of several hundred Japanese.

Another cavalry squadron fought its way through to Santo Tomas after the first unit had been closely engaged in the bitter fight.

Brig. Gen. William C. Chase, the flying column's commander, forced his way into the university grounds early this morning when last reports received at the cavalry command post said that Americans controlled most of the larger buildings, but only after a room-to-room fight. All buildings are reported under control now.

The internees remaining at Santo Tomas when the liberating Americans arrived were mostly women and children, although there were men confined there too, earlier.

The room-by-room fighting erupted when the Americans entered the former university grounds.

Manila Scarred By War, Sacked By Occupation

FEB 5 1945

Gay City 'Pearl of Orient,' Was Near Starvation Under Japanese Regime

By Ray Cronin

Chief of the Former Associated Press Manila Bureau

When General Douglas MacArthur and the American forces entered Manila they lifted from that large city and its teeming population a Japanese military yoke that had weighed them down for more than three years.

About 4,000 Americans, Britons and other Allied nationals were imprisoned by the Japanese soon after invading hordes from the north took over the "open city" on Jan. 2, 1942.

The city to which General MacArthur returned was not the same gay Manila, "Pearl of the Orient," that it was in pre-war days. The scars of war are upon it, scars that will remain for years to come and mental scars that will never be forgotten by the thousands who suffered indignities and came close to starvation under the banner of the Rising Sun.

Manila, a mixture of the Orient and the Occident, in normal times had a population of around 623,000. When war struck, the figure shot well over a million. People from surrounding provinces rushed madly into the metropolis, thinking they would be safer there.

These added thousands caused a food problem that was serious even before the Japanese entered, and they stole almost everything in sight, including stored supplies of rice, the staff of life for many Filipinos.

United States Developed City

Under the American flag, Manila had become a great city. A fine water system was developed, boulevards were constructed and modern business and residential districts brought to life. Its people, and other Filipinos as well, received free education, their health was improved, their standard of living elevated to the highest in any Oriental country.

Then came the disrupting influence of the Japanese occupation forces. The school system was upset. Health was a secondary consideration. The city became filthy—streets littered with uncollected garbage and rats multiplying so fast that they practically owned the thickly-populated native districts.

I lived in Manila six years—existed there twenty-one more months in the Japanese Santo Tomas prison camp until repatriated. My last good look at Manila just before the Japanese entered will remain with me always.

From the roof the Manila Hotel at night, just two days before the invaders came in, I saw sights that caused me to fear the city would be destroyed by fire. The bay pier area and the great United States Army Quartermaster installations were a roaring furnace, shooting smoke and flame hundreds of feet into the air.

Army Stores Destroyed

To the North, vast Army gasoline and oil installations were exploding and burning. To the East, demolition squads were finishing off what was left of the Nichols Airfield. Across the bay I could see a giant cloud of smoke that had lingered for days. It was the final trace of the destruction of the Cavite naval base.

While in the internment camp I got but one glimpse of outside Manila. That was when the Japanese permitted me to go to a hospital to have some X-rays taken. As the ambulance carried me through the city—both downtown district and residential areas—I was amazed at the filth on all sides, streets littered with garbage and other refuse and business houses standing idle.

It was not the Manila I knew. It was a Japanese Manila where filth and idleness became a part of every-day life.

Manila, sprawling along the shores of the bay of the same name and along the tidal Pasig River that flows through the city, is a strange mixture of modern and the ancient.

It was founded by Miguel Lopez de Legaspi in 1571, six years after he had conquered the Philippine Islands for Spain. The Spaniards followed Fernando Magellan, the Portuguese explorer, who discovered the archipelago in 1521 on the first circumnavigation of the globe and who was killed there in the same year.

The modern is to be found in the downtown district and the finer residential sections—high air-conditioned buildings, fine apartment houses, hotels and clubs and residences that compare favorably with those to be found in American cities.

The better districts included Escolta business area; Dewey Boulevard, along Manila Bay, with its hotels, apartment houses and residences, the home of the American High Commissioner and the Commanding General of the Philippines Department; the Malate and Ermita districts, with their fine residences, near the bay area; and Pasay, the bay suburb where hundreds of Americans lived.

On the ancient side are the walled city, called Intramuros, facing the Pasig River on one side and Luneta Park on the other; the teeming Filipino district of Tondo, the slum section, and Quiapo; the native markets covering whole blocks; Chinatown, in the business area. The walled city is a throwback to the days when Spain held the islands.

The southeast corner of the walled city is a historic spot. It was there, atop the broad wall that the American flag first went up in the Philippines in 1898.

The thickly populated Tondo slums district fronts on Manila Bay and the Pasig River. Thousands of Filipinos, and some Chinese, are jammed so thickly in the area that many small individual shacks are called home by upward of three and four families. In the Tondo business district many of the buildings are modern, but in the residential regions most of the houses are fire traps—nothing more than nipa palm leaf shacks. Chickens and pigs run about the streets, as in most Filipino barrios (villages), while hundreds of tiny native horses, hauling high-wheeled carts called caromatas, add greatly to the difficulties of the few street cleaners at work.

Manila is famous, too, for scores of Catholic churches—practically all dating from the Spanish regime. It has educational institutions such as the University of the Philippines and the University of Santo Tomas. It is on the grounds of the latter Catholic college that the Japanese held American and other United Nations civilian prisoners.

Men Who Led Americans Back

[By the Associated Press]

These are the American commanders who led forces in the Philippine campaign to Manila:

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, Southwest Pacific commander in chief, who fulfilled his pledge, "I will return." In command of American and Filipino forces at the war's outbreak, he was ordered by President Roosevelt to escape to Australia before the final collapse of Bataan and Corregidor. In Australia he was made supreme Allied commander in the Southwest Pacific. From there, he started the long comeback campaign. He was 65 years old January 26.

VICE ADMIRAL THOMAS C. KINKAID, commander of the United States 7th Fleet, operating under MacArthur's Southwest Pacific command. His fleet, with units of Admiral William F. Halsey's 3d Fleet, decided the naval fight for the Philippines. He is 57, a native of New Hampshire.

LIEUT. GEN. WALTER KRUEGER, commander of the 6th Army. He has been with MacArthur in the entire advance from Australia, through the fighting for New Guinea, New Britain, the Admiralties, Leyte and Luzon. German born, he enlisted in the Army at 17 and rose from the ranks to be recognized as a master technician and disciplinarian. He saw the Philippines first as a young soldier in Spanish-American War days. His birthday is the same as MacArthur's. He was 64 January 26.

LIEUT. GEN. ROBERT L. EICHELBERGER, commander of the new 8th Army. A seasoned front-line jungle fighter, he led the 1st Corps of Krueger's Army through the Southwest Pacific amphibious advances from Buna, New Guinea, to Leyte. His appointment as commander of the 8th Army was disclosed when units landed in the Bataan and Batangas areas of Luzon last week. A native of Ohio and former West Point superintendent, he is 59.

MAJ. GEN. OSCAR W. GRISWOLD, commander of the 6th Army's 14th Corps, which pushed down the central Luzon plains to Manila. He formerly commanded troops on Gaudalcanal and in the New Georgia campaign. He was born in Elko county, Nevada, in 1886.

MAJ. GEN. INNIS P. SWIFT, commander of the 6th Army's 1st Corps. His force participated in the original Lingayen Gulf landing and then protected the long left flank of the 14th Corps by driving the Japanese back into the northern and eastern mountains. This required some of the hardest fighting of the Luzon campaign. A native of Wyoming, he was born February 7, 1882.

MAJ. GEN. ROBERT S. BEIGHTLER, commander of the 37th (Buckeye) Division. His troops spearheaded the 14th Corps' final advance upon Manila in the push south from San Fernando. He has seen action all the way north from New Guinea and the Solomons. For personally killing several Japanese at Empress Augusta Bay, Bougainville, he holds the Silver Star. His home is Columbus, Ohio.

MAJ. GEN. VERNE D. MUDGE, commander of the 1st (mechanized) Cavalry Division. His troops raced down the east side of the Luzon plains, in the fastest advance of the campaign for the island, to parallel the 37th Division's final drive. He was born in South Dakota in 1898.

LIEUT. COL. HENRY MUCCI, commander of the 6th Ranger Battalion. His Rangers released more than 500 American and Allied prisoners from a Japanese camp at Cabanatuan in one of the most daring incidents of the Luzon campaign. His home is in Bridgeport, Conn. He is 33.

Roosevelt Message To Osmena Hails Liberation Of Manila

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—Hailing the entry into Manila, President Roosevelt today pointed a warning to "Japanese and other enemies of peaceful nations" that "their world of treachery, aggression and enslavement cannot survive."

Mr. Roosevelt said in a message to President Osmena of the Philippines:

"The American people rejoice with me in the liberation of your capital.

Proud Of Comradeship In Arms

"After long years of planning, our hearts have quickened at the magnificent strides toward freedom that have been made in the last months—at Leyte, Mindoro, Lingayen Gulf and now Manila.

"We are proud of the mighty blows struck by General MacArthur, our sailors, soldiers and airmen; and in their comradeship-in-arms with your loyal and valiant people who in the darkest days have not ceased to fight for their independence. You may be sure that this pride will strengthen our determination to drive the Jap invader from your islands.

As Warning To Enemies

"We will join you in that effort—with our armed forces, as rapidly and fully as our efforts against our enemies and our responsibilities to other liberated peoples permit. With God's help we will complete the fulfillment of the pledge we renewed when our men returned to Leyte.

"Let the Japanese and other enemies of peaceful nations take warning from these great events in your country; their world of treachery, aggression and enslavement cannot survive in the struggle against our world of freedom and peace."

The message was made public at the White House.

Luzon Log

[By the Associated Press]

Here are the invasion dates and places in the Philippine campaign climaxed with the capture of Manila:

October 20, 1944—American troops land on Leyte Island.

October 26—Yanks seized southern coast of Samar Island, just east of Leyte.

December 15—Americans land on southwest coast of Mindoro, immediately south of Luzon.

January 6, 1945—Mariduque Island, east of Mindoro, invaded.

January 8—Amphibious hop puts Yanks on northwest coast of Mindoro.

January 9—Luzon Island invaded at Lingayen Gulf.

January 29—Second invasion of Luzon, on Zambales coast 60 airline miles northwest of Manila.

January 31—Third invasion of Luzon, on Batangas coast below Manila Bay.

February 3—Americans enter Manila.

Philippine Fight Cost Japs 5,300 Planes

San Francisco, Feb. 4 (AP)—Japan lost approximately 5,300 warplanes and probably 200 more in its effort to hold on to the Philippines against announced American losses of less than 200 aircraft.

The air battle for the Philippines began last September when Admiral William F. Halsey's carrier task force struck at Luzon and other islands, in preparation for the land invasion. The first land-based heavy bomber strike against the islands was September 3, 1944.

Starting with September, through January, official announcements reported the destruction of 2,877 enemy planes in the air and 2,436 on the ground in the Philippine area, plus 200 probables. Announced American losses in that period totaled 169, but the figure actually was larger, as often the United States losses were reported in such general terms as "light."

FOE TAUNTED CAPTIVES

Japanese Sales of Prisoners' Articles Is Related

WITH THE UNITED STATES SIXTH ARMY on Luzon, Feb. 4 (AP)—Here are a couple of examples of the psychological warfare the Japanese used against prisoners.

Master Sgt. Arthur J. Harrison of Fresno, Calif., who was captured on Bataan and was rescued last week in the American coup at Cabanatuan, said the Japanese used to hold auctions among their troops in front of the prison gate—where prisoners could see and hear.

Articles auctioned off were food, clothing and toilet articles from the Red Cross Prisoner of War packages, Sergeant Harrison said.

The prisoners were allowed to know that twenty-seven bags of personal mail had arrived in the camp for them. But the Japanese took two years to censor it before they began distribution.

BOGUS PILLS SOLD TO FOE

Three Prisoners on Luzon Made Fake Sulfa Tablets

WITH SIXTH ARMY, on Luzon, Feb. 4 (AP)—One American and two British prisoners at the Cabanatuan prison camp told today how they manufactured bogus sulfathiazole tablets and sold them to Japanese guards.

Pfc. Winthrop C. Pinkham of Dover, N. H., said the Japanese were eager for the pills, because venereal disease was prevalent among them.

"We made the pills out of baking soda, plaster of paris, talcum, tooth powder and cornstarch," he said. "We stamped them with an insignia to make them look genuine and sold thousands at 14 to 35 pesos a pill."

He said his confederates were Gunners Stanley A. Deller and Thomas Potter, British prisoners.

Religious Services Planned

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Philippine people in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii will offer thanks tomorrow for the liberation of Manila.

The Philippine Government suggested last week to all nationals in the United States, Alaska and Hawaii that such religious observance be held the day following the capital's capture, a spokesman said.

In Washington, mass will be celebrated at noon in St. Aloysius Church.

RUSSIAN COLUMNS SEIZE BARWALDE IN 18-MILE GAIN

Compress Ring Around Konigsberg, Split Nazis on Samland Peninsula.

ESCAPE ROUTES CUT

Soviet Forces Capture Ziebingen in Sudden Sweep Around Frankfurt

LONDON, Monday, Feb. 5—(AP) Russian forces yesterday outflanked Kustrin, northern bastion of the Oder river line protecting Berlin, and plunged to within 38 miles of the battered Nazi capital.

Barwalde, an eight-way road junction 14 miles northwest of Kustrin and six miles from the Oder northeast of Berlin fell in this sweep around the northern end of the Oder defenses. Other units of Marshal Gregory Zhukov's First White Russian army took Ziebingen, 13 miles southeast of Frankfurt, indicating the beginning of a move to flank the southern end of the line as well.

Reds Take Neudamm

The regular nightly communique from Moscow announcing these gains also reported the fall of Neudamm, 10 miles north-northeast of Kustrin, captured by the Russians en route to Barwalde, in an 18-mile advance from Vietz, which was taken Saturday.

Moscow's supplemental communique early today declared that advances north and northwest of Konigsberg in East Prussia had split German forces on the Samland peninsula, that enemy groupings were being pressed toward the sea and wiped out and that "defeated and demoralized" German soldiers had killed the Nazi SS (Elite Guard) men who forced them to continue to fight before they surrendered.

The Soviet East Prussian campaign has compressed the German defenders into less than one-eighteenth of the province's territory, has cut their escape routes and now is methodically annihilating their formations.

At Barwalde, the Soviets have between them and the Oder a stretch of flat and sandy terrain. It is in this area northwest of Kustrin that the Germans assert Zhukov's men already have attempted to force the river.

Ziebingen lies 10 miles south of Soviet-held Reppen and four miles from the Oder's west bank. Moscow gave no hint of crossings in that sector, although the Germans reported repulsing attempts to establish bridgeheads.

The German radio last night claimed "no essential changes" had occurred on the Eastern front in the previous 24 hours, but its accounts of fighting on the Eastern front put the Russians far ahead of the reports from Moscow.

The German communique placed Zhukov's forces near Pyritz.

Schwedt is 19 miles northwest of Barwalde and 27 miles southwest of Stettin, the German Baltic port which serves Berlin.

Pyritz is 22 miles southeast of Stettin and 26 miles northwest of Schwedt.

The closest approach to Stettin announced from Moscow is Soldin, 15 miles south of Pyritz.

German broadcasts, in addition, told of Nazi forces beating back attacks by Russian reserves from "Soviet Oder bridgeheads," particularly at Ohlau and Steinau in Silesia, none of which has been claimed by the Red army command.

Moving around Kustrin and Frankfurt, guardians of the last 40 miles to Berlin, Zhukov captured more than 100 towns and villages, the Soviet communique said, adding that 1,500 prisoners had been taken in this sector.

An order of the day by Marshal Stalin announced earlier the capture of the East Prussian towns of Landsberg and Bartenstein, south of the capital, Konigsberg, where Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army is squeezing tighter its ring around the last trapped Nazi defenders.

The communique added that Soviet troops had completely cleared the enemy from the Kurische Nehrung, the strip of land separating the Kurisches Haff (bay) from the Baltic sea which extends northward from Cranz, also captured today, to Memel.

The Russians also took more than 70 other towns and, with the fall of Cranz, occupied an eight-mile stretch of the Baltic coast, extending southwest from Cranz to Alknicken.

Of East Prussia's 14,283 square miles, the Germans now hold only approximately 800 square miles west and southwest of Konigsberg.

Frontline dispatches reaching London from Moscow said street fighting already was underway in Kustrin and that Frankfurt, 16 miles to the south, was in Soviet artillery range.

Cut Vital Railroad

At Barwalde, the Russian cut the railroad between Kustrin and Stettin, and at Neudamm the rail line from Kustrin to Soldin, nearest Russian approach to Stettin officially reported, was severed. At Ziebingen, the railroad from Frankfurt southeastward was cut, hampering German communications with the Silesian front.

One German war reporter said in a broadcast that the Russians had established several bridgeheads across the Oder, including one 10 miles deep. He did not give the locations of these bridgeheads, but indicated that one might be at Steinau, 34 miles northwest of besieged Breslau, where the Germans have acknowledged several penetrations by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's forces.

Again Moscow was silent regarding the Silesian front.

Great air battles swirled over the Oder front. A quick thaw in a 30-degree rise of temperature hampered Zhukov's movements, Moscow said.

The German communique reported Zhukov's northern arm had battered to Pyritz, only 26 miles southeast of Stettin, whose fall would chop off a great sector of northeastern Germany and the Polish corridor. Violent fighting developed near Pyritz, Arnswalde 22 miles farther east, and northeast of Jastrow, 60 miles farther northeast, Berlin said. A Moscow broadcast Saturday in German—possibly intended to panic German civilians — had said the Soviets were but 11 miles from Stettin.

The German radio said the Soviets had established numerous bridgeheads over the Oder on a long front in Silesia, and the Nazi communique asserted several of them had been "narrowed down in counter-attacks" with Red army attacks repulsed. The German garrison at Steinau on the Oder's west bank 32 miles northwest of Breslau still is holding out, along with the garrisons at Poznan in Poland and Schneidemuhl in Pomerania, the Berlin war bulletin said.

Moscow newspapers said some factories in Upper (southern) Silesia in the Gleiwitz sector already were back in production, this time for the Russians instead of the Germans. Stores in Gleiwitz, a great industrial center, already have reopened and the city is resuming normal life, a "Pravda" correspondent wrote. He told of great Red Army traffic moving toward the front, while in the opposite direction moved thousands of Russians and Poles liberated from "slave" labor in Germany.

NAZI MASSACRE BARED BY POLE

FEB 5 1945

Tells How SS Men Shot Down 1,000 To 3,000 At Lodz

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Lodz, Poland, Feb. 3 [AP—Delayed]—Charred bodies sprawled beside the gaunt brick ruins of a Nazi prison camp as sobbing Polish children laid tiny wreaths and flowers upon their dead today.

Frantiszek Zaremski, a tall, 30-year-old Polish carpenter, told how German SS Guards slaughtered from 1,000 to 3,000 young Polish men on January 18, the day before Lodz was liberated by Soviet armored forces. The massacre took place in an old textile factory on the outskirts of the city, he said.

American and British correspondents from Moscow interviewed Zaremski after inspecting the grisly factory site.

Young and old Poles had gathered here in a cold, drizzling rain around a few score of blackened corpses which had not been buried underneath the rubble of what was a big four-story building.

'Subhuman' Phase Of Nazi Rule

The story of Radogosczcz—this SS transit prison camp—as told today by Zaremski, took rank with the most subhuman chapters of Nazi rule in Europe.

For hours on end, he said, the massacre continued methodically while, elsewhere in Lodz, the Germans failed to carry out even minor sabotage of what could be considered military installations.

Zaremski said that some of the defenseless prisoners were awaiting release after serving long terms for the most trifling of "crimes." Only two others besides himself survived, Zaremski said, and they still are in a hospital.

Today, scarcely a half-dozen bodies had been identified. A little horse-drawn hearse was taking one body off when the correspondents arrived. The casket was covered by a blanket of pine boughs and geraniums.

Girl Sees Dead Uncle

A small girl with long, blond curls stumbled down a stariway from the second-floor landing where she had recognized one shriveled, carbonized victim as her uncle.

There were bodies piled in both sides of the factory and on every landing of the steel and concrete stairway, which had not collapsed when most of the building fell in.

The outside walls were pinked by machine-gun bullets fired from the turrets of a high barricade surrounding the factory.

In an adjoining one-story kitchen and warehouse which had not burned, there were several bullet-torn bodies upon which the mourning Poles put pitiful handfuls of flowers.

A pencilled letter was taken from a body in the kitchen. It was from the victim's mother and told how overjoyed she was that he soon would be free after finishing his sentence.

Slayings Estimated At 3,000

The exact number of Poles who died may never be known. Zaremski said there were 900 prisoners in his cell block, but did not know how many there were in the rest of the prison camp. Estimates by Lodz townspeople ran as high as 3,000.

His face and hands still welted by burns, Zaremski recited the history of the Radogosczcz massacre in the little parlor of a friend's home. During the interview he nearly fainted once from weakness.

As a pattern of calculated and methodical murder, the story, as he told it, surpassed even what the Nazis did in the last days of Majdanek or at Dlooga in Estonia.

Zaremski said:

"I had been distributing underground literature when I was arrested four years ago. A joking anti-Hitler lullaby somebody in Gdynia wrote was found on my person.

Beaten And Abused

"After beatings and abuse, I was transferred to Kalisz prison, where I was permitted to practice the trade of carpenter until my term expired last December 22.

"Then I was brought here to Lodz and was expecting my release. I was held in Block No. 4 with 900 other prisoners, including some from the Warsaw area.

"About 2 o'clock in the morning of January 18 guards with revolvers ordered us to go downstairs for roll call two at a time. I followed 15 or 20 others and saw SS men with sub-machine guns lined along the wall of the corridor.

"As we started to run the gantlet, the Germans opened fire. My waist was grazed by a bullet but I fell flat, feigning death even when the Germans flashed an electric torch in our faces and put bullets into those moaning or otherwise still appearing alive.

Dead Piled On Dead

"Then other groups were forced to run through the corridor. Dead were piled on dead.

"About dawn I heard the prison doors clang shut. Then hand grenades were tossed inside the building and a fire was started on the ground floor.

"Some who had played dead tried to jump out the windows, but machine guns opened up. On the top of a landing to which I climbed by a blanket ladder, I soaked my clothes in a water barrel and finally climbed into the barrel when the fire got too hot. The water was waist deep.

"The three upper floors fell to the ground, but the stairway landings somehow were saved.

Meets 6 Other Prisoners

"In the evening I crept down and met six other prisoners, all of whom were at least slightly wounded but who miraculously—like myself—escaped being burned alive.

"We thought the Germans had gone. By threes, the others stole out into the darkness in an attempt to climb the high barricade. But there still were SS men at machine-gun posts. The searchlights went on. The guns rattled.

"Throughout the night I hid in a vegetable storeroom. On the second morning, an SS man came in and tried to lift the lid of the box into which I had climbed. I hung on for dear life to the underside and he went away thinking it was locked.

Hears Polish Voices

"A half hour later another SS man came into the storeroom, kicked barrels around and yanked at the lid of my box. Then I heard the door being locked from the outside. There was a noise in the yard of an automobile engine starting up and going out of range of hearing.

"There was a long silence—then Polish voices—women and children. I climbed out through a window.

"There in the yard looking out through the opened gate, I saw Russian tanks coming down the road.

"I was alive and free."

23,000,000 GERMANS HOMELESS IN REICH

Allied Headquarters Reveals Figures and Says Refugees Must Fend for Themselves

PARIS, Feb. 4 (AP)—The present Russian offensive has raised the number of German war refugees inside the Reich to 23,000,000, more than one-third of the Reich's pre-war population, information available at Supreme Headquarters showed today.

Before the beginning of the Red Army's drive on Berlin more than 20,000,000 Germans were made homeless or forced into temporary shelters away from home by the Allies' prolonged aerial hammering of the Reich's cities, the Civil Affairs Section at Supreme Headquarters estimated.

The plight of these people is strictly a German affair, for the Allies' plans for a military government in Germany after her surrender make no provision for outside aid in rehabilitating towns, industry or population.

Of vital interest to the Allies, however, is the rescue of displaced persons of non-German nationality inside Germany. This number is estimated at 6,000,000 not counting French, Russian and other Allied prisoners of war.

[French prisoners of war numbered 1,500,000 in 1940, but many were persuaded later to change their status to that of foreign workers who were better fed presumably than prisoners.]

Technically a displaced person is a civilian, swept by war into an alien land, such as foreign workers made captive in the Reich. Prisoners of war must be added to the total awaiting repatriation. This figure is estimated at 800,000, and possibly higher.

Thus far the Displaced Persons Branch of the Civil Affairs Section at Supreme Headquarters has supervised the evacuation of 210,000 displaced persons from the combat zones of France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

They were moved by truck to emergency collection centers, then farther back to transit centers and finally by train to assembly centers in the interior of France.

In the assembly camps, or in Belgian and Netherlands camps en route, more than 200,000 Poles, Czechoslovak, Russians, Yugoslavs and others are awaiting the day they can go home. Only a few thousand Russians have been started homeward by way of England. The vast majority of exiles must await the end of the war, when transportation can be made available for wholesale repatriation movements.

The task of handling the more than 200,000 since D-day and providing food, shelter and rearward transportation has been a considerable assignment. It will be augmented enormously if all of Germany falls swiftly.

Great streams of homesick humanity will try to rush to their native hearths by the shortest route, impatient at barriers. But barriers must be maintained because of the danger of spreading epidemics and of having fugitive Germans slip through.

Plans have been laid for control of such a situation. Several thousand liaison officers, assigned from the Allied armies, will participate in the task. Military Government detachments with the inward moving troops will funnel the stream of homeward bound exiles through collection centers and toward assembly centers inside Germany.

There displaced persons will be fed, while liaison officers, representing their various countries, will sort them out, eliminating the impostors and finally equipping bona fide displaced persons with repatriation visas.

NAZI RADIO WARNS OF 4 MORE RAIDS

Air Ministry, Other Buildings Hit In U.S. Attack On Berlin

London, Feb. 4 (AP)—German broadcasts warned of four separate forces of bombers winging over the Reich tonight, possibly indicating an RAF Mosquito attack on Berlin, which was pounded by 1,000 United States Flying Fortresses Saturday.

The record American assault scored eight direct hits on the German Air Ministry, and poured eighteen concentrations of bombs into the area occupied by the War Office, Hitler's Reich Chancellery, Goebbels' Ministry of Propaganda, and Gestapo headquarters, an American communique disclosed.

Badly disrupted radio broadcasting services provided one indication of the confusion wrought in the refugee-filled capital.

Bombers Head Toward Berlin

Tonight the German warning system reported fast bomber formations—a term that fits Mosquito bombers with their two-ton block-busters—over the Hannover and Brunswick areas and farther east in Berlin's Brandenberg province. Another warning told of a bomber formation approaching western Germany—perhaps RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes headed for freight yard or oil targets.

Buildings in the very heart of Berlin were left gutted and charged from one of the war's best jobs of bombing marksmanship. Badly-disrupted radio broadcasting services provided one indication of the confusion wrought in the refugee-filled capital, less than 40 miles from Russian lines.

Smoke Rises 2 Miles

The 1,000 Flying Fortresses left fire and smoke over an area 2 miles long and a mile wide in the core of the city, and smoke boiled up more than 2 miles high through the clouds, United States Strategic Air Force headquarters said.

The cost was nineteen bombers and five fighters, including losses in a simultaneous strike on Magdeburg to the southwest.

The huge pall of smoke rising after the Air Ministry building was hit made it impossible for photograph interpreters to plot direct hits on the other key buildings near by, the communiqué said.

Other Offices Near By

Besides the War Office, Chancellery, Propaganda Ministry and Gestapo headquarters, the Ministry of Agriculture and other important Government structures are concentrated in the area. It is likely, however, that many German Government offices have been moved from the area.

Bombs damaged the Potsdamer, Friedrichstrasse, Anhalter, Gorlitzer, and Schleischer railroad stations and adjacent rail lines, severely mauled the Tempelhof freight yards, and the Deutsche Gesellschaft gas works near the center of Berlin.

Four hundred Liberators struck at the Rothensee oil plant and nearby Magdeburg freight yards. Some 900 escorting fighters downed 21 German fighters wrecked seventeen more aground, and shot up 69 locomotives, 205 freight and oil cars and 58 trucks.

9th Air Force Takes Toll

At the same time, 9th Air Force pilots operating chiefly in the Cologne-Bonn area destroyed or damaged an additional 170 motor trucks and 112 railroad cars. They destroyed 141 fortified buildings, damaged 55 more, assaulted 5 freight yards and cut railways and highways in 54 places.

In the last 36 hours 13,200 tons of bombs have been dropped on the Reich. Some 1,200 RAF planes led off Friday night, bombing Wiesbaden an Karlsruhe, and nearly 800 RAF Lancasters last night attacked two Ruhr benzol plants at Bottrop and Dortmund. During Saturday some 200 British Lancasters attacked E-boat pens at Ijmuiden in Holland and naval installations at Portershaven.

American losses Saturday of nineteen bombers and five fighters were a record low for a major attack on Berlin. Earler 35 bombers had been listed as missing, but nearly half of them landed either in France or perhaps behind Russian lines only 40 miles from Berlin.

Stations Back On Air

German radio services returned to an approximation of normal broadcasting today, but apparently their foreign language services still were awry. Transocean's morning service consisted of only two messages.

There was no clarification of DNB's mysteriously signalled words, "Schluss, Schluss," meaning "The end, The end," last night. The word, sometimes used to terminate transmission, had never before been interpolated during broadcasts.

A DNB home broadcast today assured Berliners that the Russians would be stopped at the Oder River, declaring it "must be clear to everyone that there will be a first battle of the Oder before there could be a question of a battle of Berlin. Therefore, it is obvious that Berliners should continue to live and work with the greatest calm."

Baltic Shipping Raided

RAF Coastal Command Liberators early today struck a surprise blow at Baltic shipping northwest of the Gulf of Danzig, skimming the ground most of the way on a 1,600-mile roundtrip and attacking one destroyer, four submarines, and a cargo vessel.

No planes were lost despite intense anti-aircraft fire, the Air Ministry said, but results of the attack are not yet known. It was the first time the big four-engined craft had been used in such a raid.

RAF Spitfires in Belgium raided V-2 rocket installations and supply routes in Holland.

"From the Unter Den Linden on the north to Gneisenau Strasse on the south, and from the east end of the Tiergarten to the Prinzen Strasse in an east-west direction in the center of the city, the pictures show fire and smoke in an almost unbroken mass over an area about two miles long and one mile wide," the bulletin said.

Crippled Forts East of Oder

LONDON, Feb. 4 (AP).—Several of the American Flying Fortresses crippled over Berlin yesterday headed toward the Oder River to make forced landings behind the Russian lines. "Probably be seeing you in Berlin," one radioed.

Air Marshal Park in Asia Post

LONDON, Feb. 5 (Monday) (AP).—Air Marshal Sir Keith Park, air officer commander-in-chief of the Middle East Command since January, 1944, has been appointed air commander-in-chief in Southeast Asia, replacing Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory, who was lost en route to his post.

First Army Rips Hole In Siegfried Defenses

Americans Smash South Flank of Enemy's Powerful Roer River Rampart, Drive Toward Rhine Only 29 Miles Away.

PARIS, Feb. 4—(AP) The U. S. First army ripped a hole all the way through the Westwall southeast of Aachen and 29 miles from the Rhine today, bending back the south flank of the enemy's powerful Roer river defenses which block an Allied drive to the Ruhr and Rhineland.

The north wing of four assaulting divisions swung east four and a half miles, knifing through two villages—one of them a mile and a half from the vital Roer river dams beyond the Westwall, where the enemy has been opening gates, flooding the valley and balking a push farther north.

Overpower Nazi Pillboxes

A front dispatch said the Doughboys struck in snow, sleet and freezing rain, overpowered the last system of German pillboxes at a point eight miles east of Monschau.

They fought out into open country within a mile of a five-mile-wide fir forest, one of the last barriers to the Cologne plain.

(A Blue Network correspondent reported from the front that the Americans reached the south bank of the lake formed by the dams, overrunning a big Nazi youth training camp which had been a project of Hitler, Goebbels and Himmler.)

To the south the U. S. Third army broke into the main Siegfried Line system five and a half miles inside the Reich and three and a half miles from the fortress of Prum, keeping up the pressure on a 40-mile front in what may be the forerunner of a big push from the west.

The Third Army seized at least three German villages southeast of St. Vith and pushing into the Schnee Eifel forest was outflanking Brandscheid, four and a half miles west of Prum and a key to the Siegfried Line defenses on this sector of the front.

The battle of southern Alsace appeared nearing its final phase as French and American forces squeezed the Colmar pocket from north and south are liquidating the last resistance in Colmar itself.

They were within nine miles of a junction between Colmar and Mulhouse and the Germans appeared to be clearing out of the eastern Vosges foothills rapidly. They gave up Cernay, seven miles northwest of Mulhouse and long an enemy stronghold.

The Thur river line, along which the enemy had prevented the French from pressing north in this area, likewise appeared to be cracking. The French bridgehead was widened to three miles and deepened to two by an advance to Berrwiller, eight miles northwest of Mulhouse.

Nazi Columns Bombed

German columns racing east for the Rhine were bombed and strafed by French fighter-bombers, and U. S. fighter-bombers hit the Neufbrisach bridge, knocked out a pontoon bridge nine miles south and bombed two others.

The Germans fought fiercely against the tips of the pincers closing from north and south on the Colmar pocket in an attempt to get as many of their troops as possible back across the Rhine.

The U. S. Seventh army in northern Alsace was hammering a stubborn German last stand position in Oberhoffen, 15 miles north of Strasbourg, and to the west in the northern Vosges scored a gain against the enemy in the Bitche salient.

Heaviest fighting raged in western Germany, however, where the Germans were trying to salvage a deteriorating situation which might undermine their powerful Cologne plain first line of defense on the Roer.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army troops now were through a 12-mile section of the double Siegfried line in the Monschau sector, were as deep as a dozen miles into the Reich, and besides piercing the last fortified wall on the north flank was within three-quarters of a mile of duplicating that feat in the center of the push.

The Ninth infantry division first captured Einruhr, six miles northeast of Monschau and two miles from the Roer dams, in a four mile drive along the upper Roer.

Yanks Seize Wollseifen

Then just to the south another blow carried through the last main fixed fortifications of the second belt of defenses. Here the town of Wollseifen, a mile and a half south of the dams, was seized.

Wollseifen is just east of the second line of bunkers and pillboxes in an area where the enemy now must rely on temporary earthworks.

Meanwhile, the Ninth's right wing was running into heavy fighting two miles to the southeast of Herhahn, two miles from the road junction of Gemund. The Germans need the lateral roads running out of Gemund and they threw a counterblow that was warded off.

Two miles farther south the Second division drew up its assault lines a mile from a second road center—Schleiden—capturing the village of Ettelscheid, three-fourths of a mile from the last main belt of the Siegfried line of which Schleiden is a part.

The First division, seizing Hollerath, five miles southwest of the Second division, struck some of the rockiest resistance as the Germans fought back at the cross roads and from fortified villages.

At the western loop of the Siegfried line some two miles farther south, the 82nd airborne division broke through the pillbox-studded Westwall's first defense line south of Udenbreth, then swung around and began attacking pillboxes from the rear in a bruising battle.

American forces which drove the last Germans from Belgian soil yesterday northeast of St. Vith, plunged a mile into Germany today and took the village of Roth.

U. S. Writer Held by Nazis

"Star and Stripes" Correspondent Captured in Holland

ON THE BRITISH FRONT (Delayed (AP).—Private First Class Thomas Hoge, a "Stars and Stripes" correspondent, was captured by the Germans after he flew into Holland with air-borne troops Sept. 17, according to a Dutch citizen. There had been no news of Hoge, a resident of Bayville, L. I., since that day.

The Dutch citizen said Hoge told him his plane was downed by anti-aircraft fire twelve miles from its objective. After Hoge parachuted. he hid until nearly dusk as Germans searched for him. The civilian said he saw Hoge leave the house, turn a corner, and come face to face with sixty Germans. He talked with Hoge, the Dutch citizen continued, and understood that Hoge had later been taken to Germany.

NAZIS FACE TRAP IN COLMAR POCKET

ON THE ALSATIAN FRONT, Feb. 4.—(AP) Led by Indiana-born Maj. Gen. Frank M. Milburn, troops of the U. S. 21st corps were engaged tonight in cleaning up a pocket south of Colmar where an estimated 2,500 Germans are still trying to escape to the Rhine.

The neck of the pocket between Colmar and Mulhouse has been narrowed to nine miles in an effort to catch these troops and double the size of the bag, which yielded 2,500 prisoners to the French First corps on the south edge of front in the last 48 hours.

The Americans are fighting down five miles south of liberated Colmar. The French, nine miles farther south, have occupied Ensisheim, north of Mulhouse.

The 21st corps includes the 28th division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Norman Cota, Navite, Mass., former football coach at the University of Montana.

The bridge across the Rhine at Neufbrisach, 10 miles east of Colmar, was hit three times today by Thunderbolts, severing the rail and highway passages across the span. Artillery fire still pounded the bridge.

Despite this setback, the Germans were getting back across the Rhine by ferries and by the rail and highway bridge between Chalampe and Neuenberg, 14 miles south of Neufbrisach.

Less than a mile northwest of Neufbrisach heavy fighting raged in Wolfgantzen, through which runs the main escape railroad and highway from Colmar.

Along the southern flank, the French finally captured Cernay, seven miles northwest of Mulhouse, and Steinbach, a mile farther northwest. Both towns still show scars of the first World war.

The French crossed the Thur river east of Cernay.

Third Nears Key Bastion

WITH THE AMERICAN THIRD Army inside Germany, Feb. 4 (AP)—American Third Army troops gouged a toehold today in the Siegfried Line in the same area where the American First Army's Fourth Infantry Division went almost all the way through last September.

FEB 5 1945

Five pillboxes fell today to one veteran battalion in the Buchet area, where a solid lodgement was won in the fortifications belt a mile and a half northeast of Brandscheid, which is a key point in the defenses of this sector.

All pillboxes so far encountered have been manned. The Germans inside them have only small arms, but it has been necessary for the infantry to crawl close and blow up the pillboxes with pole charges.

Brandscheid's thick studding of bunkers, pillboxes and fortlets has been partly flanked by the swift thrust that took the village of Buchet, eight and a half miles southeast of St. Vith, and forged on nearly a mile east into the woods.

The capture of Brandscheid—if and when it comes—would mean the first major crack in the Siegfried Line under the impact of Third Army power in this sector.

'GROVER GHOSTS' TOUGH

Four New Yorkers Among Volunteer Raiders on Western Front

WITH THE EIGHTH INFANTRY DIVISION in Germany, Feb. 4 (AP)—The crack 121st Infantry Regiment, which stems from the Confederate "Gray Bonnet Regiment," has a World War II unit that is led by a Northerner from Maine.

"Grover's Ghosts," clad in their white-hooded capes and trousers, are the boys who conduct raids on troublesome German positions that the 121st Regiment runs into on its march to the Rhine.

This outfit, led by Lieut. Lawrence Grover of Somervile, Me., is made up of volunteer infantrymen, and everyone of them must be an expert with weapons, at creeping across No Man's Land and at man-to-man fighting.

Their job is to knock out any enemy machine-gun nests, pillboxes or bunkers that may be impeding the regiment's advance.

Flier Lands on Roof Unhurt

WITH THE ROYAL CANADIAN AIR FORCE, in Belgium, Feb. 4 (AP)—Flying Officer R. M. Tegardine of Oakland, Calif., crashland d a Spitfire on the roof of a house and stepped out of the cockpit unaided. Not much except the cockpit of the plane was left after the engine had stalled on a take-off and Tegardine was unable to clear the roofs of a village.

Dutch Prepare to Fight in East

EINDHOVEN, Holland, Feb. 4 (AP).—A special Netherlands expeditionary force to fight the Japanese in the Netherlands East Indies is now being formed in liberated Holland, and the first group of volunteers already has arrived in Britain for training in special camps, the Aneta news agency said today, quoting authoritative sources. Other groups of volunteers will be inducted from time to time, it added.

Two French Generals Made Legion Officers

Paris, Feb. 4 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig and Maj. Gen. Jacques Leclerc, two of France's best known generals, were made commanders of the Legion of Honor today and awarded the Croix de Guerre with palm.

U.S. TROOPS BATTLE SOUTH OF BOLOGNA

ROME, Feb. 4—(AP) Fifth Army troops operating seven and a half miles south of Bologna encountered savage small arms and mortar fire from strongly entrenched German units as drizzling rains fell today along most of the Italian front.

Allied headquarters did not specify the nature of the Fifth army operations conducted a mile and a half northeast of Monte Belmont. Allied raiding parties were active in adjacent sectors.

German shelling of Fifth army lines and communications increased both south of Bologna and near the west coast with several concentrations of 25 to 40 rounds falling among forward positions.

Aggressive German raiding parties attacked a number of Eighth army outposts in the Po Valley but were driven off in brisk small-scale fights preceded by a heavy artillery barrage. The ground was reported thawing in Eighth army areas.

Eighth army patrols along the Senio river drew heavy fire from the enemy and casualties were inflicted on the Germans in minor engagements in the Apennine foothills south of the Via Emilia.

The weather in northern Italy was so bad yesterday that the only tactical mission was made by a flight of American Thunderbolts which bombed the Sonico railyards 30 miles northwest of Lake Garda. Five railway cars were destroyed.

In the only other air operations RAF Balkan air force Mustangs and Hurricanes and South African Marauders hammered Nazi communications in Yugoslavia. They concentrated on the main rail line in central Yugoslavia, through Zagreb, described as the "spinalcord" of German resistance and the only escape route open to the most southerly enemy units.

PRESS IS DENIED ACCESS TO BALKANS

ROME, Feb. 4—(AP) Public relations officers at Allied headquarters said today that prolonged negotiations have failed to gain access for American and British correspondents as a group to any of the Balkan countries except Greece.

In Yugoslavia Marshal Tito's government permitted the entry of H. D. Harrison of Reuters, who formerly was that news agency's Balkan manager and lived for many years in Belgrade before the war.

Aside from Harrison no American and British correspondents have been permitted officially to go from Italy to Yugoslavia since a press party made a brief trip to Belgrade in November. The public relations officers said they had been carrying on constant negotiations with the Yugoslavs since then but without tangible result.

Tito sent a press officer to Italy to hear Allied arguments on behalf of the correspondents but that is as far as he has gone.

The Hoxha regime in Albania declined even to discuss the subject, it was learned here. The Minister of Information and Culture there bluntly notified Allied headquarters public relations officers that correspondents were not wanted in Albania.

A similar lack of success was encountered in negotiations for sending correspondents from Italy into Bucharest, Sofia, Ploesti and other Balkan points, even though American and British officials are participating with the Russians in the Allied Control commissions for Romania and Bulgaria. Public relations officers said overtures for opening these countries to correspondents from Allied headquarters had met nothing but silence.

23 Army Personnel Die In Plane Crash

Rome, Feb. 4 (AP)—Twenty-three army personnel, including three nurses, were killed Friday when a transport plane carrying 26 American Army personnel crashed into a mountainside 60 miles north of Rome.

The only uninjured survivor was Lieut. G. M. Baco, of New York city, who pushed the pilot to safety as flames enveloped the gasoline-soaked wreckage. An enlisted man also survived.

Crashed In Dense Fog

The plane, a twin-engined C-47 of the United States 12th Air Force, was en route from Florence to Rome. It ran into a dense fog in a river valley a few minutes after taking off.

Baco said the plane was following a river because the weather was so bad when it suddenly went into a cloud. The plane brushed treetops and then crashed and skidded 300 yards over the crest of a mountain, Baco added.

Lieutenant Saved Pilot

The pilot, whose leg was broken in the crash, blocked Baco's way out and Baco shoved him out through the windshield.

"I got the pilot by the collar and somehow dragged him 50 yards from the plane before I fell down," Baco said. "The flames quickly consumed the plane."

After fixing a tourniquet on the pilot's leg, Baco walked 2 miles down the mountain for aid.

CELEBRATES IN ITALY

Kinsman of Manila Internees Hears Luzon News

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY, in Italy, Feb. 4 (AP)—A radio in the heart of the Apennines near Bologna blared out a report today that "American forces have captured Manila and taken a large concentration camp."

Sgt. Stan Swinton, front-line correspondent for The Stars and Stripes, jumped to his feet with tears in his eyes. "I've been waiting three years to hear that news," he shouted, waving his arms and dancing around with joy. "That's where my mother and dad and Barbara are."

Sergeant Swinton's father, Prof. Roy Swinton, left the University of Michigan five years ago and joined the faculty at the University of the Philippines. In February, 1941, his wife, Mrs. Jane Swinton, and his daughter, Barbara Gene, 22 years old, joined him.

When Manila fell, all that Sergeant Swinton received was the routine prisoner-of-war notification saying that his family was in the Santo Tomas prison camp. The last word that he had of his family was a message brought to him by Carl Mydans, Life Magazine photographer interned by the Japanese and later set free in a prisoner exchange.

RED STAR ASSAILS JAPAN

Says 'Policy of Aggression' Has Disappointed Populace

MOSCOW, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Army newspaper Red Star gave officers of the Red Army a ten-column review today of the interior political situation in Japan, and asserted that the "policy of aggression" had been a disappointment to the people.

"The unpopularity of the war in Japan is so apparent that efforts have been made to make it appear that Japan was forced into the war," the Army publication said.

"Recently Japan has begun to taste the bitterness of defeat. Not only is this feeling one of impotence, but the superiority of the enemy is having its effect on Japanese psychology."

Red Star reported that the Japanese press was displeased over the policy of the Diet. The review related how Tokyo was open to attack and dwelt on industrial, food and manpower problems.

Berlin Said To Expect Airborne Troop Attack

Stockholm, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Swedish newspaper Aftontidningen, in an undated "private" dispatch, said today that residents of Berlin have been alerted to the possibility of an early Allied attempt to land airborne troops in the capital area.

The dispatch gave no authority but said the purpose of such a landing would be to "roll up the defenses of Berlin from the rear."

Nazis' Denmark Chief Replaced

Stockholm, Feb. 4 (AP)—Gen. Hermann von Hannecker, German military commander in Denmark, has been replaced by Col. Gen. Georg Lindemann from the Latvian front, and has returned to Germany, a Malmo dispatch quoting information from Copenhagen said today.

Russian Subs Reported In Baltic

Stockholm, Feb. 4 (AP)—Russian submarines are operating throughout the Baltic Sea and in the southern part of Ore Sound between Sweden and Denmark, the newspaper Expressen today quoted marine circles in Malmo as saying.

ELAS AMNESTY MEMO ISSUED

Penal As Opposed To Political Offenses Defined

Athens, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Greek Government delegation to the nation's peace conference tonight forwarded to the Left-Wing EAM-ELAS conferees a detailed explanation and clarification of its definition of penal offenses as opposed to political crimes.

The memorandum was drawn up after consultation with the Greek Regent, Archbishop Damaskinos, and lengthy discussions of the Government's plans regarding the question of amnesty for EAM-ELAS members.

Meanwhile, the Premier, Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, has issued an order to the effect that treason and murder trials of ELAS members will be suspended until after the peace conference, and that those sentences which already have been passed will not be carried out until further notice.

Hitch Over Amnesty Reported

Earlier today it was reported that EAM (National Liberation Front) delegates to the conference were understood to have agreed to the disarmament of their military branch, the ELAS, but they were said to have been in disagreement with Government representatives over the question of amnesty.

Speaking for the EAM-ELAS, Communist Secretary General Siantos asked for a general amnesty and said the Government would find it impossible to differentiate between crimes under the penal code and political crimes such as sedition. He asserted that the Government freely brought charges against the EAM-ELAS concerning hostages but did not refer to prisoners taken and held by the Government.

Siantos said the EAM consented to the dissolution of the ELAS but wanted to see the formation of a national army free of all political opinion.

Police Reorganization Demanded

The Communist leader also demanded a sweeping reorganization of the police, and a general cleanup of governmental offices to be sure there were no collaborationists remaining and to oust "those who wish to create an anti-social state."

Siantos contended the Government had arrested persons holding "opposing political views," and asked the cessation of prosecutions in general.

Government Stands Pat

Foreign Minister John Sofianopoulos said the Government would stand pat on its position. Informed circles said the Government feared that if it discontinued prosecutions, such as the present murder-treason trials, it would be impossible to check the activity of OPLA, described officially as the EAM's secret police, and that consequently free elections would be impossible.

Government officials said they believe the O. P. L. A. was continuing underground terrorist activities even inside Athens, and that in sections of Attica Province "the government rules by day and the O. P. L. A. by night."

George Melas, press under-secretary, said that today's peace meeting was postponed "in order to give both parties time to consider proposals."

JAPANESE ADVANCE 32 MILES IN CHINA

CHUNGKING, Feb. 4—(AP) Reinforced Japanese troops, driving against air bases east of their China-India- China corridor, have advanced 32 miles from fallen Suichwan to positions 18 miles from Kanhsien (Kanchow), the Chinese high command said tonight.

The Chinese also acknowledged the loss of Chihing 30 miles east of Kukong, the fallen provisional capital of Kwangtung province. The Japanese have slashed southward from Chihing, which they probably intend to convert into one of the key points for safeguarding the east flank of their new corridor from Hengyang to Hong Kong.

Kanhsien until lately was the center of the model southern Kiangsi province district administered by Chiang Ching-Kuo, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's eldest son. The administrative headquarters recently was transferred to Anyuan farther south.

The Chinese said that the Japanese were encountering strong opposition in their push toward Kanhsien.

From Jan. 25 through Jan. 31 U. S. 14th air force planes destroyed 50 enemy aircraft and damaged 17, American headquarters announced.

ALLIED MOTOR CONVOY ARRIVES IN KUNMING

CHUNGKING, Feb. 4—(AP) The first Allied convoy over the reopened Burma road arrived today at the Chinese city of Kunming completing a 970-mile journey from Ledo, India, with supplies for the Chinese army.

The convoy, numbering more than 100 vehicles, crossed Burma and reached the Chinese border at Wanting Jan. 28. Artillery pieces as well as trucks were included in the convoy which had wound its way through jungles and mountains.

British Gain in Burma

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 4 (AP) — British Fourteenth Army troops, driving the Japanese from the area west of Mandalay, have surrounded and subjected to air attacks the enemy garrison at Satpangon, west of Myinmu, it was announced today.

Forty miles above Mandalay British troops protecting a bridgehead on the east bank of the Irrawaddy River at Singu have repulsed two Japanese attacks, the Allied Headquarters communiqué said.

On the west coast heavy fighting continued at Kangaw, thirty miles east of Akyab, where the Japanese are battling to keep open their escape route to the south. The war bulletin said the mopping up of remaining enemy forces was being carried out above and below Minbya, thirty miles northeast of Akyab.

SUPERFORTS BLAST HONSHU TARGETS

Japs Report Kobe, Osaka Hammered by Powerful Force.

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND, Guam, Feb. 4—(Via Navy Radio)—(AP) A "sizable" strike by American superfortresses on the main Japanese island of Honshu today is meeting "weather which is preventing visual bombing," 21st Bomber command headquarters announced.

The city or cities under attack were not mentioned, nor was the number of planes participating revealed in the headquarters statement.

(A Japanese Imperial headquarters communique broadcast by Tokyo radio said 100 Superforts raided the Kobe and Osaka industrial areas and admitted "some losses."

(The broadcast said 85 B-29s hit Kobe within 45 minutes and 15 other Superforts bombed Kishiwada in the Osaka prefecture and Matsuzaka in the Mie prefecture. The latter is about 50 miles north of Kobe. Kishiwada is on Osaka bay).

(The daylight attacks were preceded by overnight forays by B-29s apparently flying singly over the Osaka and adjacent Wakayama prefectures, Tokyo said).

B-29'S STRIKE AT KOBE, JAPAN

42 Enemy Planes Shot Down Or Damaged

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—Superfortresses shot down or damaged 42 Japanese planes and lost none of their own number to enemy action today in a daylight strike at Kobe, Japan, with "good results."

The force of B-29's, estimated by

30.24 — 22687

Tokyo to number about 100, new from the Marianas to the homeland Japanese island of Honshu to smash at prime industrial targets in the important city, a communiqué issued by the 20th Air Force here said.

The attackers from the 21st Bomber Command encountered only moderate fighter opposition and anti-aircraft fire.

Enemy losses were listed at 3 planes destroyed, 10 probably destroyed and 29 damaged.

A Japanese Imperial headquarters communiqué broadcast by Tokyo said the Koba and Osaka industrial areas were raided and "some losses" were admitted.

Liberators Bomb Iwo Jima

Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Monday, Feb. 5 (AP)—Army Liberators bombed Iwo Jima in the Volcano Islands Friday and Saturday, concentrating on air installations and storage areas, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today. Oft-bombed Iwo Jima is 750 miles south of Tokyo.

On the Friday strike, intense anti-aircraft fire was encountered, and one escorting Lightning fighter was lost. Chichi Jima in the near-by Bonin Islands also was bombed Friday.

Navy search Venturas in the North Pacific made machine gun and rocket attacks on buildings and radio installations at Kurabu Saki on Paramushiru and at Shimushu islands in the Kuriles. All participating aircraft returned.

Other Installations Bombed

Far-ranging marine aircraft bombed installations on Yap in the bypassed western Carolines, Babelthuap in the Palau islands and installations on Rota in the Marianas on Friday.

There were seven Japanese fighter aircraft in the air over Iwo Jima. The anti-aircraft and fighter resistance at Iwo Jima was the sharpest noted in recent weeks of almost daily hammering at the important enemy airline way station.

'WADDY' YOUNG'S B-29 MISSING ON TOKYO TRIP

B-29 BASE, Saipan, Marianas, Jan. 9 (Delayed) (AP)—Capt. Walter R. (Waddy) Young, All-America football star and collegiate wrestling champion of Ponca City, Okla., failed to bring his B-29 back from today's attack on Tokyo and it is feared that he and his ten-man crew are lost to enemy action.

Also missing is the Superfortress piloted by Maj. Joe P. Baird of Prescott, Ariz.

[The communiqué covering Sunday's attack announced the loss of two B-29's.]

Captain Young won All-America recognition in 1938 while attending Oklahoma University. He won several collegiate wrestling championships. He played professional football for Brooklyn in 1939 and 1940 until he went into the service.

He was flying "Waddy's Wagon" and participated in the first B-29 raid on Truk, the first on Tokyo and the first on Nagoya.

Baseball Stars in Navy To Tour Pacific Bases

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 4 (AP).—Baseball stars led by Navy Lieutenant Bill Dickey, former New York Yankee catcher, will make a tour of forward Pacific bases, it was announced today. Two teams will bring topflight basebal to America's fighting men.

Games will be played at Saipan, Guam, Leyte, New Guinea and possibly in Australia.

All of the athletes are serving with naval units of the 14th Naval District. Among them are Johnny Mize, Billy Herman, Barney McCoskey, Peewee Reese, Bob Klinger, Mickey Vernon, Johnny Vander Meer and Johnny Rigney.

The baseball group will be augmented by Bobby Riggs and Norman Brooks, Pacific Coast tennis stars, and Fred Apostoli and Fred Abrams, middleweight boxers.

FOUR SAVED ON RAFT

Hospital Ship Picks Up Faint Call for Help in Far East

SOMEWHERE IN THE NETHERLANDS INDIES, Feb. 4 (AP)—The United States Navy hospital ship Hope lived up to its name, thanks to a tireless radio man, in a recent incident of the Philippine campaign.

How the ship rescued four Army airmen was told by Lieut. Col. T. B. Protzman of Englewood, N. J., commanding the Army medical compliment of the Hope, when it arrived here with wounded from the Philippines.

He said that the airmen were rescued from two small air rafts after Radioman 1/C Joseph Takacs had listened all Christmas Day to their faint radio signals.

The plane was forced down at Christmas Eve. It remained afloat twenty-seven minutes. The flier inflated the rafts and rigged an emergency radio transmitter. It signels were the ones picked up on the Hope. The rescue was made at 2 A. M. Dec. 26.

TALK ON FRANCO EXPECTED

Inter-American Conference to Get Plan to End Relations

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 4 (AP)—A proposed rupture of diplomatic relations with the Franco Government of Spain by all the American republics will come up for discussion at the Feb. 21 Inter-American Conference here, it was reported today in diplomatic circles.

At embassies here, where officials are busy with conference preparations, it also was reported that other resolutions to be introduced would deal with coordinated air transportation throughout the Americas, planning of a hemisphere-wide directed economy, and coordinated intensification of agriculture.

CANADIANS HOLD BY-ELECTION TODAY

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Feb. 4—(AP) Prime Minister W. L. Mac Kenzie King's compromise conscription policy will be judged directly by the people for the first time tomorrow in the eagerly-watched Grey North by-election, in which Defense Minister Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton is seeking a seat in Parliament.

The Prime Minister won a 2-1 vote of confidence in Parliament last December on his policy of sending abroad limited numbers of Canada's drafted Home Army to fill depleted infantry ranks in the Dominion's volunteer army. Tomorrow, however, will bring the first appraisal of the policy directly by the electorate.

Although other issues are involved, including the popularity of the socialistic CCF (Cooperative Commonwealth federation), the by-election campaign has pivoted mainly and privately around the conscription question.

In addition to Canada's future manpower program, the dissolution of the present Parliament and the date of the Dominion's forthcoming general election also hinge upon the outcome of the balloting by the 23,000 members of this relatively remote rural community.

Gen. McNaughton and his two opponents are contesting a seat in a Parliament which may never meet. If the Defense Minister is defeated, Prime Minister King is expected to dissolve Parliament at an early date without a further session. But if McNaughton wins the seat, for which the government arranged the by-election, King may summon a short session for enacting routine measures for the coming year.

The Defense Minister is opposed by Garfield Case, a former mayor of Owen Sound, on the Progressive Conservative ticket, and by Air Vice Marshal A. Earl Godfrey, well-to-do member of an industrial firm, the CCF candidate. The CCF has directed its appeal principally to the farmers, comprising a majority of the constituency and having a history of support of progressive farmers' movements.

AWOL Canadian Army Men Sought In U.S.

Ottawa, Feb. 4 (AP)—Amid reports that disciplinary action had been taken against the first of 6,300 Canadian Home Defense Army absentees, military and civil police pressed their search across the international border today.

Defense headquarters said it had "no information" on reports of courts martial and did not indicate how many of the absentees had been rounded up. Last Thursday the army announced 1,669 of the 6,300 men overdue from embarkation leave had returned.

The Pacific command—where the greatest number of absentees originated—acknowledged that an undetermined number were in Seattle, Wash., and other neighboring American cities and said "the fullest co-operation from both American military and civil police is being received."

Russians, Americans Urge Foe To Give Up

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—American and Russian broadcasts called tonight on the German Army to surrender, with Moscow sounding the theme, "Hitler has lost the war."

The United States Army broadcast to German troops on the Western front asserted Nazi leaders had gambled on a hopeless venture, with the stake "your life."

The Moscow radio declared there was no escape from the ring closing on Germany and asserted "Hitler has lost the war. Five million Germans are dead. Today Hitler is throwing 15 and 14-year-old children into the futile fight. Old men and women, cripples have to save Germany. Refugees stream into Berlin, but Hitler welcomes them with hunting squads and Volkssturm battalions."

Nazi leaders, it added, insist the war must go on "so that the bloody skins of the Nazi henchmen survive one more week or one more month. . . .

Catastrophe Or Rescue

"There is just one choice left between national catastrophe or rescue. National catastrophe is inevitable if the war goes on. The rescue from total catastrophe lies in surrender. . . ."

The United States Army message from ABSIE, the American Broadcasting Station in Europe, cited the privileges given German prisoners, who will "return home as soon as possible after the end of the war."

DOOLITTLE PRAISES AERIAL TEAMWORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—(AP) Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, commander of the U. S. Eighth Air force, said in a transcribed overseas broadcast tonight that close American and British air cooperation was a primary factor in the dropping of 500,000 tons of bombs on the enemy and destruction of 12,000 of his aircraft during the last three years.

"We have worked as a team with the RAF bomber command," said Doolittle. "Around the clock bombing has cut deeply into the enemy's ability to produce the material necessary to wage war. Just how much can best be told by the German High command.

"I do not believe that among all the far-flung fronts of this war these is an example of more closely-knit cooperation between forces that exists here in England between the Eighth and Royal Air forces. We are more than Allies—we are one."

Heard on station WMCA at 10:30 p. m., (EWT) Doolittle spoke in commemoration of the third anniversary of the landing of the Eighth air force in Britain.

In that period, he said, 500,000 aircraft had been dispatched, 5,000 of our airplanes failed to return and "some 40,000 of our men have been killed or are missing."

"We can now send as many as 3,000 aircraft over Germany in a single mission," Gen. Doolittle said.

Weekly Potato Ration For Germans Reduced

New York, Feb. 4 (AP)—The weekly ration of potatoes for German civilians has been reduced by half a kilogram (about one pound), DNB reported today. It did not say what the total ration now would be.

The broadcast said the cut had been necessitated by a "difficulty that has particularly affected the transport of potatoes," and that persons who had stored more than 150 kilograms must return 25 kilograms of their potato stock.

Last Friday DNB reported that current German food ration cards had been extended to April 8, instead of April 1, forcing consumers to make their present rations of all types last nine weeks instead of eight.

MERCHANT SHIPS GIVEN TO FRENCH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—(AP) An undisclosed number of American merchant ships will be turned over to the French government for operation in the United Nations' shipping pool.

Announcing this today, the War Shipping administration also reported that it had approved a request by the French government for allocation of cargo space on other vessels for importation of essential supplies into France.

The agency said the first French crews will be available within the next few weeks, and that additional vessels will be allocated to France from time to time. The ultimate number depends in part on the number of French crews available. For this reason, WSA said, it is impossible to say how many American-built ships will fly the French flag.

At the same time, the shipping agency announced that it has been turning back to France requisitioned French ships which have been operated by American crews. In the future these vessels will be operated by French crews, but they will remain in the shipping pool.

Title to the vessels allocated to France, like those allocated to other United Nations, will remain vested in the United States.

The Shipping administration did not indicate how much cargo space has been set aside for importing supplies into France. The Office of War Information, however, reported only yesterday that space equivalent to 26 merchant ships will be available in the first quarter of this year.

SUBMARINE LAUNCHED BY ELECTRIC BOAT CO.

GROTON, Feb. 4—(AP) The submarine Chopper was launched today in Electric Boat company's victory yard with Mrs. G. Standish Bebe of Waterford, wife of a foreman at the plant, as the sponsor.

The Chopper was the second underseas craft to be launched here this year. Representatives of the War Manpower commission and United States Employment service from New London, Norwich and Westerly, R. I., participated in the ceremonies.

MANPOWER BILL FACES NEW FIGHT

Taft Will Offer Amendment to Continue Voluntary Controls.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — (AP) The Administration-backed "work or jail" manpower bill, passed by the House, headed into further stormy sailing in the Senate today.

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), chairman of the Republican Steering committee, told a reporter he will offer the House-defeated compromise measure proposed by Representative Harness (R.-Ind.), described by Taft as a continuance of the voluntary system of manpower control.

The May bill, which would make Selective Service registrants between 18 and 45 subject to jail sentences if they declined to stay on war jobs or transfer to them, is before the Senate Military committee for possible action tomorrow.

Committee consideration was complicated over the week-end by the assertion of Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.), a member, that the War department had secretly changed its stand about who should administer the measure and had thereby "sabotaged" it.

Differ on Administration

As passed by the House, the bill would leave enforcement to Selective Service. The Senate committee previously had voted to amend it to place the directing powers in the hands of War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes. Johnson said

War department officials were on public record as favoring the Byrnes administration but had told senators privately that they wanted Selective Service to have control.

This was just one offshoot, however, of the growing battle which Taft hoped might be compromised along the lines of the Harness bill, which was beaten in the House by a 188-178 vote. Briefly, that measure would direct local draft boards to make inventories of those deferred, authorize the War Manpower commission to order employers to discharge "hoarded" workers.

"I don't know how acceptable the proposal will be to the Senate," Taft said, "but it ought to be attractive to those who don't want to vote for the 'work or jail' measure."

Kilgore for Change

Senator Kilgore (D.-W. Va.) indicated the Harness measure would be more favorably received by those of his belief that no new legislation is necessary than the House-approved bill.

"We don't need to pass any of these bills now," he declared. "We could do the job by a simple resolution giving the War Manpower commission statutory authority to fix employment ceilings on individual plants and providing travel expenses for workers who want to go voluntarily to a war job away from their homes."

Coal operators particularly had told him, Kilgore said, that enactment of the "work or jail" bill would hamper production.

They are afraid, he said, that "green" men might be ordered into their mines, with a consequent increase in accidents and potential interruption to production.

Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.) said today he will renew his request tomorrow for public hearings on "waste and hoarding of manpower."

The Wyoming senator said the late Charles Hay, deputy director of the War Manpower commission, had declared that the stringent controls set up in the pending bill were not necessary. He added:

"I think in the face of the remarkable record of production we have attained, we should hesitate to wreck that method."

O'Mahoney said the House committee hearings had failed to adduce any evidence of necessity for enacting the bill.

"On its face," he said, "it is a makeshift that would penalize the returning veterans. Why should we put these soldiers coming back from the fighting fronts into forced labor battalions while men of 18 to 45 are free to loaf?"

Week of Major Developments On War Expected in Capital

FEB 5 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — (AP) The Capital expects that this week will be one of the most eventful of the war.

Three developments appear probable:

1—Conclusion of the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin talks—accompanied or closely followed by momentous announcements of military and diplomatic decisions bearing on the end of the wars in Europe and Asia and the beginnings of peace.

2—More definite information on how long and tough the Nazi death struggle probably will be. Development of Allied assaults along the Oder river before Berlin, and west, is undergoing constant analysis by Allied military chiefs for any evidence of fatal German weakness.

3—The conquest of Manila, intended American base for breaking the Japanese empire in half and also for building up forces for the next great moves against Japan. Beyond Manila, except for possible invasion of secondary islands in the Luzon area, lie the China coast and the Japanese homeland.

About the Big Three meeting there is nothing official on which to base expectations. It is known that Harry Hopkins and Secretary of State Stettinius left Italy several days ago for unannounced destinations at the conclusion of what Hopkins called an information tour for the President preliminary to his meeting with Churchill and Stalin. Also Hopkins told reporters in Europe that the meeting would very likely be brief, which led to speculation that it would be over before many days passed. Numerous European sources have speculated that it already is going on.

The swift pace of the war in Europe is believed to have brought to the top of the agenda various military questions connected with the cooperation of Russia and Anglo-American forces inside Germany, assuming prolonged resistance there. But the great decisions, believed to foreshadow an unprecedented new role of the United States in Europe affairs, are expected to deal with long-range international problems.

Those who assume success for efforts of the Big Three to assure future cooperation predict that out of the talks will come machinery for Allied instead of lone-hand settlement of international European problems.

Failure to arrive at a basis for cooperation, with assurances from Britain and Russia to respect American aims for liberated Europe, would be interpreted here as a signal failure of the conference and a bad omen for the future of efforts to prevent war.

How far present and future developments of the Pacific war may enter into general discussions of the Big Three is debated. Unofficial insistence from London that Russian participation against Japan is not likely to be sought meets even more definite assertions from American sources that the subject will come up.

Meanwhile the stage is being set for the final campaigns against Japan with the Manila area of Luzon as the key to future strategy. It is from there that American forces soon will operate, according to plans completed many months ago, to sever the ocean supply lines between Japan's war industries and their raw materials sources in Malaya and the Indies.

Also it seems certain that around Manila will be built the massive forces of men, planes and ships that will be needed to breach the enemy-held China coast and come to grips with the Japanese armies.

STRATEGIC USE OF GEORGE BILL

FEB 5 1945

Framed By Wallace Foes, It Is Now Pushed By His Friends

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—Facing a Southern revolt, Administration Democrats put the whip to the Senate-passed George bill in the House tonight, racing to save the commerce secretaryship for Henry A. Wallace.

Representative Spence)D., Ky.), chairman of the House Banking Committee, called a meeting on the bill for Tuesday and hoped it would be approved speedily without major change. Other Administration leaders said they would try to whip it through the House far in advance of the Senate's March 1 vote on Wallace's appointment—an action which it generally is believed would assure his confirmation.

But House Republicans and Southern Democrats threatened to upset the Administration plan either by delaying the bill or burdening it with so many restrictions the President will be forced to veto it, giving Wallace opponents ammunition to demand his rejection by the Senate.

Intent Of George Bill

The George bill would strip the department of its control over the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and leave Wallace to boss a routine Cabinet job. President Roosevelt's agreement to approve the bill virtually assured Wallace's confirmation.

Some of the Southern Democrats —outspokenly opposed to Wallace —indicated they would try to put the bill on the hook and force the Senate to vote on Wallace under such circumstances that his confirmation would give him control of the RFC along with the Commerce Department.

"If it is dangerous to turn the Department of Commerce with the RFC over to Wallace it is just as dangerous to turn the department over to him without the RFC," said Representative Rankin (D., Miss.), a leader among the Southern Democrats.

Rankin Sees "Storm Cellar"

"There is a feeling that this (George) bill ought to remain in the House Banking and Currency Committee until the Senate votes on the Wallace nomination. Many members feel this is just a storm cellar in which certain senators hope to escape the righteous wrath of an outraged public opinion."

House Republicans, meanwhile, fashioned amendments to the George bill which would take away President Roosevelt's power to assign Federal financial agencies and make it impossible for him to give any added jobs to Wallace as Secretary of Commerce. Southern Democratic sentiment developed for the amendments, amassing a coalition vote big enough if it sticks together to assure their adoption over Administration opposition.

Administration Democrats think the amendments would prompt the President to veto the bill.

LEWIS RETURN TO AFL IS UP

Green Has Letter Asking For Proposition

Miami, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Terms upon which John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers could return to the American Federation of Labor present a challenge to the AFL executive council as it convenes tomorrow.

William Green, AFL president, with a letter from Lewis in his pocket asking the AFL to make a proposition, has said the whole question would be submitted to the fifteen council members for action. The sessions, lasting from ten days to two weeks, begin here at 1 P.M. tomorrow.

The Lewis letter was in reply to Green's terse communication to the miners' chief, saying it was the wish of the AFL convention at New Orleans that negotiations toward reaffiliation be resumed.

Abandoned In 1943

They had been abandoned May 17, 1943, in a deadlock over jurisdiction in the chemical workers' field. Lewis has a strong chemical union in his Miscellaneous District 50. He has been out of the AFL since 1937.

Some of the sentiment to get Lewis back stems from the CIO's tart rejection of the olive branch, also extended at the New Orleans convention in November.

Lewis and the AFL are on the same side of the fence in the international field. Both are watching with interest the CIO's efforts in London to form a new world labor movement. Only the AFL has membership in the world trade groups now, and it means to keep out the CIO and Soviet groups if possible.

Turned Down Invitation

Lewis, like the AFL, turned down an invitation to a world trade congress in London, beginning Tuesday, in which the CIO and Soviet groups are participating.

This situation, in addition to throwing Lewis and the AFL together, may call for some action by the council before it leaves here, too. If a rival world trade organization is created, omitting the AFL, the council might be impelled to take some action to strengthen the International Federation of Trade Unions, in which it holds the sole United States representation.

Some British trade circles in the IFTU would like to have Lewis in their corner, and the easiest way to accomplish this would be to get him into the AFL.

Critical Shortage in Farm Labor Threatens Food Goals for Year

FEB 5 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — (AP) The Agriculture department listed scores of critical farm labor shortage areas today as food officials warned that an early end of the war in Europe would not ease a tightening food supply situation.

Farmers will need, the department said, part-time help from at least 4,000,000 non-farm workers in town and urban areas if they are to come anywhere near meeting production goals set up by the War Food Administration.

Contrary to expectations of many, a German surrender would not lessen demands on American food. Such an event would bring about increased demands for foreign relief feeding at a time when the armed forces were stepping up their purchases of reserves for the final campaign in the Pacific against Japan.

The department, in emphasizing that agriculture had its shortest labor supply in nearly 40 years, said an early victory in Europe would not return a large number of men from the armed services to the farms in time for work on 1945 production, owing to the problems involved in demobilization.

"Nor is any industrial reconversion that might follow the European war expected to solve the farm labor shortage," the department said. "History has shown that people who go to towns and cities in time of great industrial activity, do not return to the farms as long as well-paying jobs in business and industry are available."

Pierre Van Paassen Honored By Zionists

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP)—Award of a citation to Pierre van Paassen, author and lecturer, was announced today by the Zionist Organization of America.

Dr. Israel Goldstein, Zionist president, said the award was in recognition of van Paassen's "magnificent championship of human justice and particularly his masterful and fearless advocacy of the establishment of Palestine as a free and democratic Jewish commonwealth."

THE DOUGHBOYS PUSHED INTO THE SCHNEE EIFEL FOREST, WHERE VANGUARDS WERE NO MORE THAN THREE AND A HALF MILES FROM THE FORTIFIED COMMUNICATIONS CENTER OF PRUM. THIS WAS THE THIRD ARMY'S DEEPEST PENETRATION OF THE REICH.

ELSEWHERE ON THE THIRD ARMY FRONT, WHERE THE BRIDGEHEAD INSIDE THE REICH IS MORE THAN SEVEN MILES WIDE, PATROLS WERE OUT, BUT RAINS HAD SWOLLEN STREAMS AND WERE HAMPERING MILITARY OPERATIONS.

THIRD ARMY ARTILLERY SET ABLAZE THE GERMAN TOWN OF DAHNEN, 15 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PRUM. FARTHER SOUTH, THE GERMANS TRIED TO SEND THREE BOATLOADS OF TROOPS ACROSS THE MOSELLE INTO LUXEMBOURG, 11 MILES EAST OF THE DUCHY'S CAPITAL, BUT THEY WERE BEATEN OFF BY ARTILLERY.

FARTHER SOUTH IN THE MOSELLE VALLEY, WHERE THE THIRD ARMY HAS INVADED THE REICH FROM THE SOUTH, AN ENEMY PATROL WAS WIPED OUT TRYING TO LANCE INTO AMERICAN LINES IN WOODS NORTH OF THE BORDER.

IN SOUTHERN ALSACE, THE FRENCH FIRST ARMY WITH ITS ATTACHED U.S. DIVISIONS WAS STRIKING SWIFTLY IN AN ATTEMPT TO TRAP ELEMENTS OF FOUR DIVISIONS AND AN ARMORED BRIGADE STILL BELIEVED IN THE COLMAR POCKET.

IT WAS DISCLOSED THAT THE SECTION OF LT. GEN. JEAN DE LATTRE DE TASSIGNY'S ARMY POUNDING DOWN FROM THE NORTH WAS NOW PREDOMINANTLY AMERICAN.

THESE FORCES DROVE PAST STE.CROIX, FIVE MILES SOUTH OF COLMAR. THEY WERE WITHIN NINE MILES OF A JUNCTION WITH FRENCH TROOPS SWINGING UP FROM THE SOUTH, WHO CAPTURED A NUMBER OF TOWNS AND WERE NEARING ENSISHEIM, SIX MILES NORTH OF MULHOUSE.

DUE EAST OF COLMAR THE ATTACK HAD BEGUN ON WOLFGANTZEN, WHICH STRADDLES THE HIGHWAY AND MAIN RAILWAY OVER WHICH THE GERMANS ARE ESCAPING BACK INTO THE REICH.

ALTHOUGH THE GERMANS' WITHDRAWAL INTO THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSES WAS CONDUCTED FAIRLY SLOWLY--WITH GENEROUS HELP FROM THE WEATHER--IN THIS SECTOR IT STILL WAS EXPENSIVE IN MATERIAL. THE ROADSIDES ARE WELL SPOTTED WITH SELF-PROPELLED GUNS, HALFTRACKS, TRUCKS AND BUSES. MANY OF THEM WERE SHOT UP, BUT THERE WAS A NOTICEABLE PERCENTAGE APPARENTLY UNDAMAGED, INDICATING THAT FUEL SHORTAGES FORCED ABANDONMENT.

MOSCOW, FEB. 4-(AP)-FIVE FINE HIGHWAYS LEAD TO BERLIN FROM THE ODER REGION, AND THEIR TERMINALS AT OR NEAR THE RIVER MAY PROVE THE HOT SPOTS OF THIS WEEK'S FIGHTING.

BUT MARSHAL STALIN, WHO IS AS WILY ON OFFENSE AS DEFENSE--IS NOT THE KIND OF TACTICIAN TO DO THE OBVIOUS WHEN THE OBVIOUS IS EXPECTED. HE AND MARSHAL A.M.VASILEVSKY, CHIEF OF THE GENERAL STAFF, DO THE OBVIOUS ONLY WHEN THEY HAVE REASON TO BELIEVE THE GERMANS EXPECT SOMETHING ELSE.

OF THE FIVE HIGHWAYS THE MOST USEFUL IS THE STRAIGHT LINE ROAD BETWEEN FRANKFURT AND BERLIN. NOT SO WIDE, BUT STILL EXCELLENT IS THE ROAD FROM KUSTRIN TO THE CAPITAL. A GOOD ROAD LEADS NORTHEAST FROM BERLIN TO EBERSWALDE BEHIND THE ODER RIVER, AND A FEW MILES TO THE WEST RUNS THE BIG BERLIN-STETTIN HIGHWAY. THE HIGHROAD FROM SILESIA TO BERLIN APPEARS A LOGICAL THOROUGHFARE TO SUPPORT AN ATTACK ON BERLIN OR FOR A SOUTHERLY OUTFLANKING MOVEMENT.

OBVIOUS CALCULATIONS OF THE MOMENT WOULD SEEM TO CALL FOR MARSHAL GREGORY ZHUKOV TO HALT, BUILDING UP HIS TANK, ARTILLERY, AND INFANTRY STRENGTH AND TRANSPORTS BEFORE HE STORMS THE ODER. HIS TRANSPORTS HAVE BEEN UNDER ATTACK FOR SEVERAL DAYS. AND TODAY'S SUDDEN THAW HAS MADE THE TERRAIN AND SUPPLY MORE DIFFICULT.

ON THE OTHER HAND, THE RUSSIANS DO NOT LIKE TO LET UP WHEN THEY HAVE THE ENEMY REELING OR ON THE RUN.

THE QUICK MARCH ACROSS POLAND HAS NOT LED THE RUSSIAN HIGH COMMAND INTO THINKING THE GERMAN ARMY IS DESTROYED. THE RUSSIANS WELL KNOW THAT ALTHOUGH THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN GRIEVOUSLY WOUNDED, THE BULK OF THE NAZIS' EASTERN DIVISIONS ARE MASSED ALONG THE ODER. THEY HAVE BEEN BUTTRESSED BY GROUPS FROM THE WESTERN FRONT AND ITALY AND GREAT NUMBERS OF THE VOLKSSTURM AND VOLKSGRENADIERS. AND

ITALY AND GREAT NUMBERS OF THE VOLKSSTURM AND VOLKSGRENADIERS. AND THE GERMAN AIR FORCE IS STRONGER ON THE EASTERN FRONT THAN IN MONTHS.

AMONG FACTORS IN THE THEORY THAT ZHUKOV MAY WAIT BEFORE ATTACKING THE ODER ARE THE RUSSIAN DESIRE TO CUT THROUGH POMERANIA AND PREVENT LARGE GERMAN FORCES ON THE BALTIC FROM BEING TRANSFERRED QUICKLY TO THE BERLIN FRONT; A DESIRE FOR A REGROUPING OF MARSHAL IVAN KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINIAN ARMX USKLAL

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS,LUZON,MONDAY,FEB.5-(AP)-JUST 26 DAYS AFTER THEIR INITIAL LUZON INVASION, AMERICAN TROOPS SPEARED TO THE HEART OF MANILA YESTERDAY, FREED THOUSANDS OF CIVILIAN WAR PRISONERS, SEIZED THE GOVERNMENTAL PALACE AND PRESSED AGAINST LITTLE MORE THAN SNIPER FIRE TOWARD COMPLETE CONTROL OF THE PHILIPPINES CAPITAL.

GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR ANNOUNCED THE VIRTUAL ACHIEVEMENT OF HIS PRIME GOAL IN A TRIUMPHANT COMMUNIQUE TODAY. A DYNAMITED BRIDGE ON THE NORTHERN OUTSKIRTS PREVENTED THE GENERAL FROM ENTERING MANILA IMMEDIATELY. HE TURNED BACK TO FIND ANOTHER ROUTE.

VETERAN FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION FORCES MADE AN ENCIRCLING DRIVE IN DARKNESS SATURDAY NIGHT TO SEIZE THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP FROM THE EAST. ABOUT 3,000 CIVILIANS, MAINLY AMERICAN WOMEN AND CHILDREN, HAVE BEEN HELD AT SANTO TOMAS SINCE MAY 1, 1942.

A SHARP ENGAGEMENT OCCURRED AT THE CAMP. FRONTLINE REPORTS SAID THE GUARDS WERE KILLED AND THE PRISON WAS TAKEN OVER COMPLETELY AFTER ROOM-TO-ROOM FIGHTING. REMOVAL OF THE PRISONERS BY AMBULANCE BEGAN.

THE MECHANIZED CAVALRYMEN THEN CAPTURED MALACANAN PALACE, FORMER GOVERNMENTAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE PHILIPPINE COMMONWEALTH. JAPANESE OFFICIALS HAD FLED.

PARATROOPERS OF THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION EXECUTED A NEAT SURPRISE LANDING--FIRST OF ITS KIND IN THE PHILIPPINE CAMPAIGN--BEHIND ENEMY LINES TO MOVE ONTO MANILA FROM THE SOUTH, ONLY 18 MILES AWAY.

THESE PARATROOPS LANDED FRIDAY AHEAD OF YANKS WHO HAD INVADED THE COAST TO THE WEST LAST WEDNESDAY. THIS GAVE THE AMERICANS COMMAND OF A 2,000-FOOT HEIGHT ON A FINE HIGHWAY TO THE CAVITE NAVAL BASE AND MANILA ITSELF.

ELEMENTS OF THE 37TH DIVISION ENTERED MANILA FROM THE NORTH, CAPTURING THE GRACE PARK AIRDROME, AND PUSHED CAUTIOUSLY TOWARD THE WIDE AND DEEP PASIG RIVER WHICH RUNS THROUGH THE CENTER OF THE CITY. MOST OF THE BRIDGES OVER THE PASIG APPEARED INTACT.

THE AMERICANS HELD THE NORTHERN HALF OF MANILA, BUT SOUTH OF THE PASIG, IN THE COMMERCIAL CENTER, THE JAPANESE MAY PUT U A BLOODY FIGHT. DEMOLITION EXPLOSIONS WERE HEARD AND FIRES WERE SEEN IN THE SOUTHERN SECTION.

THE ENEMY OFFERED NO MAJOR STAND IN THE NORTHERN PART OF MANILA. THE MAIN THREAT WAS HARASSING MACHINEGUN AND SNIPER FIRE FROM HOUSES.

ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT FRED HAMPSON, WITH THE FIRST CAVALRY TROOPS, SAID THE LIBERATED FILIPINOS WERE DELIRIOUSLY HAPPY AS THE YANKS POURED INTO THEIR CITY.

"VICTORY!" "THE AMERICANS ARE BACK!" "GOD BLESS THE AMERICANS!" THESE WERE THE CRIES OF THE LIBERATED.

HAMPSON WALKED FOR FIVE MILES TOWARD THE MANILA WATERFRONT, AND WROTE THAT "A FEW BUILDINGS WERE SMASHED AND BURNED, BUT ON THE WHOLE THAT PART OF MANILA WAS NOT GREATLY DAMAGED. HOWEVER, OFF IN THE DISTANCE WE COULD SEE HUGE FIRES AND COLUMNS OF SMOKE. THE DOCK AREA WAS BURNING FIERCELY."

THE CAVALRY BRIGADE COMMANDED BY GENERAL CHASE, OF EL PASO, TEX., IS REPORTED TO BE HAVING VERY LITTLE DIFFICULTY IN THE CITY. CASUALTIES ARE COMPARATIVELY LIGHT.

OTHER AMERICAN ELEMENTS WITHIN THE CITY HAVE BEEN DEPLOYED AROUND MALACANAN PALACE AND A KEY PASIG RIVER BRIDGE.

LIBERATING TROOPS AT MALACANAN HAVE RECEIVED JAPANESE HEAVY ARTILLERY FIRE BUT ELSEWHERE IN THE CITY MOSTLY MACHINEGUN AND SMALL ARMS FIRE HAS BEEN ENCOUNTERED.

SEVERAL THOUSAND JAPANESE ARE DEPLOYED SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER, THE SOUTH BANK OF WHICH IS REPORTEDLY STRONGLY FORTIFIED.

THESE FORCES CONSIST MOSTLY OF NAVY TROOPS BUT ALSO INCLUDE SERVICE FORCES AND SURVIVORS OF THE RETREAT DOWN LUZON PLAIN.

AMERICANS STILL REMAIN TO THE NORTH OF THE PASIG RIVER. MAJOR UNITS OF CAVALRY ARE EXPECTED TO MOVE UP SOON.

AMERICAN PLANES BOMBED AND STRAFED JAPANESE AMMUNITION DUMPS AND OTHER OBJECTIVES OF THE JAPANESE-HELD PORTION OF MANILA.

SIXTH ARMY OFFICERS SAY THE RESCUE MIGHT HAVE FAILED WITHOUT THEM. THEY PROVIDED LAST MINUTE INFORMATION ON THE LOCATION OF JAPANESE GUARDS AND GUNS, CONDITION OF THE PRISON GATE, BARRACKS AND OTHER VITA

INTELLIGENCE.

THEY WORKED IN TWO SIX-MAN TEAMS WHILE THE THIRTEENTH, LT.JOHN M. DOCE, HOLLYWOOD, CALIF., TRAVELED WITH THE MAIN FORCE OF U.S. RANGERS.

THE TEAM HEADED BY LT.TOM ROUNSAVILLE ATOKA, OKLA., INCLUDED: T/SGT.ALFRED ALFONSO, HAWAIIAN-FILIPINO FROM HAPPY VALLEY, WAILUKU MAURI; SGT.ARNOLD HARD, (45 EAST WASHINGTON ST) COLDWATER, MICH.; PFC RUFO VACUILAR, FILIPINO FROM FRESNO, CALIF.; PFC. THESE TWO TEAMS PREVIOUSLY HAD WON BRONZE STAR AWARDS FOR DARING RESCUES OF DUTCH AND JAVANESE PRISONERS IN DUTCH NEW GUINEA.

THIS IS NOW THE ALAMO SCOUTS TOOK PART IN THE RESCUE:

THE TWO TEAMS STARTED FROM THEIR BASE AT MIDAFTERNOON ON JAN.27. THEY SKIRTED A GOOD-SIZED BATTLE BETWEEN YANK INFANTRYMEN AND JAPANESE, SWUNG SOUTH AND CROSSED BIG RIVERS TO REACH BALINCARIN IN THE HILLS BY 2 A.M. THE NEXT DAY--A 30-MILE MARCH.

ONCE THE SCOUTS TRIED TO SEND A MESSAGE BY RUNNER TO THE PRISONERS AT CABANATUAN TO FIND OUT THE PHYSICAL CONDITIONS OF THE PRISONERS, SO THEY WOULD KNOW HOW MANY LITTERS WOULD BE NEEDED FOR THE RESCUE TRI.

THE RUNNER NEVER RETURNED AND THERE WAS NO INFORMATION THAT HE EVER REACHED THE PRISONERS.

FEB 5 1945

BY 10 A.M., JAN.30, THE ALAMO SCOUTS WERE WITHIN 500 YARDS OF THE PRISON CAMP. ROUNSAVILLE AND ANOTHER SCOUT CRAWLED UP TO A DESERTED FILIPINO HUT DIRECTLY ACROSS THE ROAD FROM THE CAMP. NELLIST AND VAQUILAR MOVED UP ON THE CAMP FROM THE OTHER SIDE FROM WHICH THEY COULD ACCURATELY LOCATE THE POSITIONS OF THE JAPANESE GUARDS AND PINPOINT JAPANESE DEFENSES.

FROM 11:30 A.M. TO DARK THE SCOUTS KEPT SENDING RUNNERS BACK TO THE RANGERS WITH DETAILED INFORMATION ON THE CAMP.

WHEN THE RANGERS ARRIVED AND TOOK OVER THE ASSAULT ON THE CAMP IT WAS THE SCOUTS' JOB TO REACH THE PRISONERS AND GUIDE THEM OUT OF THE CAMP ALONG THE ESCAPE ROUTE. NELLIST FROM HIS COMMANDING POSITION, DIRECTED RANGER FIRE ON JAPANESE MORTARS.

ON THE ESCAPE TRIP HOMEWARD IT WAS THE SCOUTS' JOB TO BRING UP THE REAR AND KEEP AN EYE PELLED FOR ANY STRAGGLERS.

THEY WERE THE FIRST TO GO OUT AND THE LAST TO COME IN.

ON THE ROAD TO MANILA, LUZON, FEB.3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AMERICAN BIG GUNS ARE CLOSE ENOUGH FOR MANILA RESIDENTS TO HEAR THEM POUNDING THE JAPANESE OVER THE HEADS OF YANK INFANTRYMEN.

FORWARD UNITS OF THE 37TH DIVISION ARE PUSHING ONWARD RAPIDLY, CROSSING BLASTED BRIDGES AFOOT AND FIGHTING SMALL BATTLES WITH POCKETS OF BITTERLY RESISTING JAPANESE.

WHAT LIES AHEAD NOBODY KNOWS FOR CERTAIN. THE HIGHWAY LEADS DIRECTLY TO MANILA ACROSS FLATLANDS THROUGH LITTLE TOWNS WHOSE PEOPLE ARE DELIRIOUSLY HAPPY AND WHOSE ANCIENT, VENERABLE CHURCH BELLS PEAL THE CALL OF LIBERATION AS THE YANKS ARRIVE.

FILIPINOS DRIFTING OUT FROM MANILA SAY THERE ARE PERHAPS 12,000 JAPANESE MARINES, SAILORS AND SOLDIERS THERE PREPARED FOR A LAST DITCH DEFENSE FROM PILLBOXES, INSIDE MAIN BUILDINGS WHERE WINDOWS ARE REPORTEDLY CONCRETED WITH RIFLE SLITS. THOUSANDS OF MINES ARE PLANTED IN THE MAIN STREETS AND KEY BUILDINGS AND BRIDGES ARE REPORTEDLY PREPARED FOR DEMOLITION.

BUT THE YANKS ARE ANXIOUS TO GET THERE.

THE BIG GUNS OPENED A BARRAGE EARLY LAST NIGHT, HITTING JAPANESE CONCENTRATIONS AHEAD. MANILA CITIZENS COULD HEAR SHELLS AS THEY LANDED, SAID ARTILLERY OFFICERS, AND UNDOUBTEDLY WERE ABLE TO SEE FLASHES ACROSS THE DARK SKY.

THESE ARE THE FIRST AMERICAN ARTILLERY FLASHES CAPITAL RESIDENTS HAVE BEEN ABLE TO OBSERVE SINCE THE LAST STAGES OF THE BATAAN CAMPAIGN EARLY IN 1942.

BENEATH THIS ARTILLERY COVER SWEATY AND TIRED DOUGHBOYS MARCHED ALONG THE HIGHWAY IN LONG LINES TO THE INCESSANT CHEERS OF FILIPINOS. MANY OF THEM WORE FLOWERS IN THEIR HELMETS WHICH FILIPINOS HANDED THEM. OTHERS GRATEFULLY ACCEPTED DRINKS OF WATER FROM GIRLS ON THE HIGHWAY.

THEIR ROUTE LAY ALONG THE SMOOTH NATIONAL HIGHWAY AND ACROSS DRY RICE FIELDS. THEY MARCHED ACROSS PLANKS LAID ON BRIDGES WITH GAPING HOLES BURNED IN THE CENTER.

THEN SOMETIMES AT THE END OF A LONG MARCH THEY RAN INTO JAPANESE. THAT'S WHAT HAPPENED TO ONE COMPANY. THEY CAME TO A BLOWN BRIDGE IN THE EARLY MORNING DARKNESS AND SAW SOLDIERS 20 YARDS ACROSS THE RIVER WHICH SOME OF THE BOYS THOUGHT WERE YANKS.

STANDING UP THEY SHOUTED GREETINGS. THEN A MACHINE GUN OPENED WITH A VICIOUS CHATTER. THEY HAD STUMBLED ON A JAPANESE REAR GUARD. THE YANKS JUMPED INTO DITCHES ALONGSIDE RICE PADDIES, SUFFERING ONLY ONE CASUALTY A SERGEANT WHO WAS PREVIOUSLY WOUNDED ON BOUGAINVILLE, IN THE SOLOMONS, SUFFERED A SLIGHT ARM WOUND.

AN HOUR AND A HALF SCRAP FOLLOWED, THE JAPANESE USING KNEE MORTARS AND AUTOMATIC WEAPONS. A HEAVY WEAPONS COMPANY SECTION CAME UP UNDER 2ND LT. HERBERT TOLLEY OF (90 THIRD STREET) YUMA, ARIZ., AND BLASTED THE JAPANESE MORTARS.

TOLLEY AND SGT.ELDON ANDERSON OF MCGUFFEY, O., MOVED AHEAD TO A LITTLE NIPA SHACK ALONGSIDE THE BRIDGE AS THE FIGHTING RAGED.

"IT WAS HOT FOR A WHILE," TOLLEY SAID.

WITH THE 37TH DIVISION IN MANILA, FEB.4-(AP)-THESE 37TH DIVISION OHIO NATIONAL GUARDSMEN--THE BOYS FROM BOUGAINVILLE WHO BLITZED FROM LINGAYEN 100 MILES TO MANILA DESPITE MORE THAN 50 DYNAMITED BRIDGES AND A DOZEN SCRAPS IN 26-DAYS--ENTERED THE CITY IN CONSIDERABLE FORCE BY SUNDAY NOON.

MAJ.GEN.ROBERT S.BEIGHTLER, OF COLUMBUS, OHIO, WAS THE FIRST DIVISIONAL GENERAL TO ENTER MANILA. WHEN THE FILIPINOS SAW TWO STARS ON HIS HELMET THEY GREETED HIM LIKE A GOD.

LT.COL.WILLIAM JONES OF BOWLING GREEN,KY., WAS FIRST TO SET UP REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS INSIDE THE CITY. THE 148TH REGIMENT -- 3RD BATTALION--WAS THE FIRST DIVISIONAL TROOPS IN.

THE GRIZZLED 14TH CORPS COMMANDER, MAJ.GEN.O.W.GRISWOLD OF ELKO, NEV.,SOMETIMES CALLED "THE KING OF THE SOLOMONS" FOR HIS WORK ON GUADALCANAL, NEW GEORGIA AND BOUGAINVILLE, REFUSED TO ENTER THE CITY TODAY.

"BEIGHTLER AND THE 37TH DID SUCH A MARVELOUS JOB FROM LINGAYEN TO HERE, I WANT THEM TO HAVE THE HONOR. BUT I'M SO PROUD OF HIS OLD 14TH CORPS AND THESE DIVISIONS--THE 37TH, 40TH AND THE LATELY ATTACHED 1ST CAVALRY--THAT ALL I CAN SAY IS 'GOD BLESS YOU BOYS AND MANY THANKS'".

GRISWOLD AND HIS DIVISIONS' ENGINEERS, SUPPLEMENT ARTILLERYISTS, SIGNAAL CORPSMEN, AND AMPHIBS DID A NEAR UNBELIEVABLE JOB IN KEEPING THEIR HIGH-SPEED DRIVE MOVING.

THE JAPANESE HIT THEM HARD AT TIMES---PARTICULARLY IN THEHILL MASS AT DAMBAN--BUT MOSTLY THEY HAD TO CONQUER BRIDGES AND WIDE RIVERS. SOMEHOW THEY MANAGED TO KEEP THEIR GUNS, TANKS AND CREAKING LOADS OF SUPPLIES BEHIND THE FOOT SOLDIER DESPITE ALMOST EVERY OBSTACLE IN THEBOOK--FIGHTING JAPANESE ON ONE FLANK, KEEPING A HUGE SCREEN ON THEIR OPPOSITE FLANK AND STILL MAINTAINING THE LIGHTNING PACE DOWN THE MIDDLE OF LUZON TO MANILA.

WITH AMERICAN 11TH CORPS ON BATAAN FRONT, FEB. 2-(DELAYED)-(AP)-IN FACE OF SOME OF THE STIFFEST OPPOSITION ENCOUNTERED IN THE MANY-PRONGED LUZON CAMPAIGN, THE 38TH DIVISION'S SPEARHEAD ADVANCED SLOWLY TODAY ALONG A TWISTING HIGHWAY TO SEAL BATAAN PENINSULA FROM THE RETIRING JAPANESE.

AN ADVANCE OF 500 YARDS WAS MADE ALONG THE ZIG-ZAG HIGHWAY WHERE STRONG ENEMY EMPLACEMENTS, COMMANDING THE ROAD, HAD TO BE BLASTED OUT WITH ARTILLERY, MORTARS, GRENADES AND FLAME THROWERS. THE INDIANA NATIONAL GUARD'S 152D REGIMENT, LEADING THE PUSH IN ITS FIRST COMBAT ACTION, EXPERIENCED A VICIOUS JAPANESE NIGHT ATTACK REMINISCENT OF GUADALCANAL AND NEW GUINEA JUNGLE FIGHTING.

COL.ROBERT STILLWELL, REGIMENTAL COMMANDER AND UTILITIES EXECUTIVE FROM EVANSVILLE, IND., SAID THE MEN WERE KEPT TENSE ALL LAST NIGHT AS THE JAPANESE POURED MACHINE GUN, MORTAR AND ARTILLERY FIRE INTO THEIR POSITIONS. THE JAPANESE ALSO INFILTRATED THE AMERICAN POSITIONS WHILE THE YANKS WITHHELD THEIR FIRE TO AVOID DISCLOSING THEIR WHEREABOUTS IN THE DARKNESS.

"IT WAS A NIGHT OF HELL FOR THE MEN," SAID STILLWELL. "THEY'RE DEAD TIRED, BUT ARE KEEPING THEIR SPIRITS UP. THE ADVANCE IN THE NARROW DEFILES BETWEEN STEEP HILLS IS TORTUOUS AND SLOW BECAUSE A FEW JAPS CAN TURN LOOSE WITHERING FIRE FROM HIDDEN POSITIONS OVERLOOKING THE ROAD. THE BAMBOO FORESTS ARE SO THICK WE HAVE TO GET WITHIN A FEW FEET OF THE JAPS TO SEE THEM. IT IS THE KIND OF FIGHTING WHERE WE HAVE TO GO IN AND ROOT THEM OUT WITH GRENADES."

CASUALTIES, HOWEVER, HAVE BEEN LIGHT, STILLWELL REPORTED, DUE TO HAMMERING BY AMERICAN ARTILLERY DAY AND NIGHT IN SUPPORT OF THE TROOPS. FORTY DEAD JAPANESE WERE FOUND IN ONE WOODED POCKET AFTER A BOMBARDMENT.

FEB 5 1945

ALTHOUGH ON ROCKY TERRAIN, THE DOUGHBOYS ARE DIGGING DEEPER FOX-HOLES IN PREPARATION FOR RENEWED JAPANESE COUNTERATTACKS TONIGHT. GRIM-FACED MEN WIELDED SHOVELS AND BREWED CUPS OF COFFEE BEFORE CLIMBING INTO HOLES FOR ANOTHER HELLISH NIGHT.

AMERICAN PENETRATION INTO A FIVE-MILE ZIG-ZAG SECTION OF THE MOUNTAIN HIGHWAY IS ABOUT A MILE. HOWEVER, THE ROUGHEST GOING LIES AHEAD. ONE STRETCH OF THE HIGHWAY DOUBLES BACK LIKE A LETTER "S" WHICH HAS BEEN HIT ON THE HEAD WITH A HAMMER.

CAPT.JAMES RANSOHOFF (3659 WASHINGTON STREET) SAN FRANCISCO, WHO INSPECTED THE AREA FROM CUB PLANES, SAID THE JAPANESE HAVE STRONG EMPLACEMENTS COMMANDING THE CURVES.

FLANKING OF ENEMY POSITIONS IS DIFFICULT BECAUSE OF THICK WOODS ON THE SLOPES ON BOTH SIDES OF THE ROAD.

A LONE JAPANESE PLANE ATTEMPTED A PRE-DAWN ATTACK ON THE SAN MARCELINO AIRSTRIP NEARBY. IT WAS INEFFECTIVE ALTHOUGH IT CAUSED SOME CASUALTIES IN THE VICINITY. THE STRIP IS RAPIDLY BEING READIED FOR USE.

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY, LUZON, FEB.4-(AP)-"IT WAS THE WATER SITUATION THAT REALLY LICKED US ON CORREGIDOR," SAID MARINE PFC. DENNIS D.RAINWATER, JR., TODAY AS HE RECOUNTED EXPERIENCES FROM HIS CAPTURE BY THE JAPANESE TO HIS RESCUE FROM CABANATUAN PRISON CAMP.

RAINWATER, WHOSE PARENTS LIVE AT (ROUTE THREE) PARIS, ARK., WAS A MEMBER OF THE FOURTH MARINE REGIMENT SENT TO THE PHILIPPINES FROM SHANGHAI JUST BEFORE THE ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR.

ON CORREGIDOR, RAINWATER SAID, THE BOMBINGS, THE AMMUNITION SITUATION AND MALARIA ALL WERE BAD, BUT THAT THE WATER SHORTAGE WAS THE "STRAW THAT BROKE THE CAMEL'S BACK."

"JAP ARTILLERY FIRE AND BOMBING KEPT US FROM REACHING THE REGULAR RESERVOIRS AND WELLS. THE WATER WAS BAD BUT WE DRANK IT. WE WERE DESPERATE. THAT'S HOW ALL THE DYSENTERY STARTED ON THE 'ROCK.'"

RAINWATER WAS SENT TO BILIBID PRISON IN MANILA AND EVENTUALLY NORTH TO CABANATUAN.

A FORMER FARM BOY WITH AMERICAN INDIAN BLOOD, RAINWATER STILL LOOKS HUSKY DESPITE THE 45 POUNDS HE LOST IN PRISONS.

HE SAID: "WE CAME TO CABANATUAN WITH ONLY RAGGED CLOTHES. THE JAPS DOLED OUT BLUE DUNGAREES THEY HAD CONFISCATED FROM FILIPINOS. MOST OF US WERE TOO BIG FOR THEM. EVENTUALLY, AFTER WE ALL LOST WEIGHT, WE MADE GOOD USE OF THE PANTS.

"THE AMERICAN RED CROSS SENT IN SHOES, BUT THE DAMN JAPS TOOK THEM AWAY FROM US. AFRAID WE'D ESCAPE MORE EASILY. SOME OF THE FELLOWS MADE WOODEN SANDALS BUT MOST OF THE TIME WE WORKED IN FIELDS AND ON THE ROAD IN OUR BARE FEET."

RAINWATER SAID THAT OF 1,350 MARINES ORIGINALLY HELD AT CABANATUAN HUNDREDS WERE SENT TO MINDANAO, FORMOSA AND JAPAN IN LABOR BATTALIONS. STILL UNREVEALED IS THE NUMBER OF PRISONER DEATHS DUE TO FEVER, DYSENTERY AND BRUTALITY, BUT RAINWATER WAS ONE OF 19 MARINES RESCUED.

GRIMLY HE DESCRIBED THE PRISON HOSPITAL WARD WHERE PATIENTS IN SERIOUS CONDITION WERE HELD.

"IT WAS DUBBED ST.PETER'S WARD. DURING THE FIRST THREE MONTHS, AT LEAST FOUR OR FIVE DEAD WERE CARRIED OUT EVERY MORNING. I GUESS MOST OF US JUST HAD BETTER LUCK. SOMETIMES IT TOOK MORE THAN LUCK. A MAN HAD TO HAVE A HELLUVA STRONG WILL TO LIVE IN ORDER TO SURVIVE THAT TREATMENT."

DELIVERANCE CAME AT THE HANDS OF AMERICAN RANGERS, ALAMO SCOUTS AND GUERRILLAS THE NIGHT OF JAN. 30. NOW RAINWATER IS RESTING AND FATTENING UP.

"I DON'T KNOW WHETHER I WANT TO GO BACK TO THE STATES RIGHT AWAY," HE SAID. "I GUESS WE WON'T BE GIVEN ANOTHER CRACK AT THE JAPS BUT I LEARNED A FEW TRICKS IN THHE PRISON CAMP I'D LIKE TO TRY OUT."

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON LUZON,FEB.3-(DELAYED)-(AP)-CIRCLING SLOWLY OVER THE EVACUATION HOSPITAL OF CENTRAL LUZON AFTER RETURNING FROM A STRIKE THIS MORNING, MORE THAN 35 MARINE DIVE BOMBERS, ALL PILOTED BY OFFICERS, DIPPED THEIR WINGS IN TRIBUTE TO 19 ENLISTED MARINES OF THE OLD 4TH REGIMENT WHO WERE SNATCHED FROM JAPANESE CAPTIVITY AT CABANATUAN THE NIGHT OF JAN.30.

BATTERED, WORN BY THREE YEARS' CONFINMENT, MISTREATMENT AND MALNUTRITION, THESE MEN WERE STILL MARINES AND PROUD OF IT AND MORE THAN THAT--THEY WERE 4TH MARINES--EVEN IF THEY WERE THE ONLY REMNANTS OF THE PROUD REGIMENT THAT CARRIED THE U.S. FLAG FOR 14 TROUBLE-FILLED YEARS THROUGHOUT THE FAR EST AND AS PROUDLY FOUGHT THEIR GREATEST. THOUGH LOSING, FIGHT IN THE PHILIPPINES.

FEB 5 1945

PVT.EDWARD S.GORDON, (RAY MOND BLVD.) JACKSON, MISS., DESCRIBED THOSE THREE YEARS AS "HELL" AND THEIR LIBERATION AS "A MIRACLE."

GORDON WAS FIGHTING TO KEEP BACK HIS TEARS AND GROPED FOR WORDS AS HE TOLD OF SEEING FELLOW MARINES BEATEN BY GUARDS. "THEY DIDN'T DO ANYTHING. THEY WERE JUST BEATEN MERCILESSLY BECAUSE THE GUARDS THOUGHT THEY WERE BREAKING SOME LITTLE LITTLE RULE."

HE SAID PRISONERS WORKING ON FARMS "WERE DRIVEN LIKE CATTLE. THE JAPS SEEMED TO BEGRUDE US TIME TO EAT THE LOUSY RICE THEY FED US THREE TIMES A DAY FOR THREE YEARS. ALL OF US WORKED BAREFOOTED.

THE JAPS WOULDN'T LET US WEAR SHOES ANYTIME FOR ANYTHING."

WHEN THE RANGERS "POPPED UP FROM NOWHERE," RELATED GORDON, "I WAS EATING A PIECE OF BREAD I HAD MADE FROM RICE FLOUR. WHEN THE SHOOTING STARTED I FIGURED, AND SO DID ALL THE REST,THAT OUR TIME HAD COME TO DIE.

"I HIT THE DECK AND REMAINED THERE UNTIL I LOOKED UP INTO THE FACE OF A SIX-FOOT AMERICAN RANGER WHO YELLED: 'GET THE HELL OUT OF HERE-WE ARE YANKS.' I WANTED TO KISS HIM BUT I RAN LIKE HELL JUST AS HE TOLD ME TO FOR THE GATE."

"GOD KNOWS I FIGURE I AM ONE OF THE LUCKIEST MEN ALIVE IN THE WORLD TODAY. I DON'T KNOW QUITE HOW TO EXPRESS WHAT I FEEL ABOUT THE RANGERS, BUT I CAN TRY--THEY ACT AND FIGHTJUST LIKE MARINES."

ALL THE MARINES, WANTED TO KNOW SOMETHING ABOUT HOW THE WAR WAS GOING. THEY WRINKLED BROWS VAGUELY WHEN TOLD ABOUT THE SOLOMONS AND LOOKED BLANK WHEN THEY HEARD THE AMERICANS HAD TAKEN KWAJALEIN, AND ENIWETOK IN THE MARSHALLS--MOST OF THEM HAD NEVER HEARD OF THE PLACES.

THEY WERE WORRIED ABOUT THE "SHELLING" OF CA IFORNIA AND WERE VISIBLY RELIEVED WHEN TOLD THAT HAPPENED A LONG TIME AGO AND DIDN'T AMOUNT TO MUCH ANYWAY.

FEB 5 1945

THROUGH THREE LONG, BITTER YEARS, THESE MEN NEVER HAVE FORGOTTEN THEY WERE MARINES, BUT IT WAS ALMOST TOO MUCH FOR THEM TODAY WHEN COL.CLAYTON C.JEROME OF BURTON, KANS., COMMANDING DIVE BOMBERS OF THE FIRST MARINE AIR WING, AND COL.LYLE H.MEYER OF DEER ISLE, ME., (NOT IN POSTAL GUIDE) PRESENTED EACH MAN WITH A NEW UNIFORM AND MARINE CORPS INSIGNIA. THEY HANDLED AND GAZED AT THOSE UNIFORMS AS IF THEY WERE THE FINEST SUITS EVER MADE. MORE THAN ONE MARINE WEPT.

EW401PCW

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY LUZON, FEB.4-(AP)-ONE JAPANESE TRICK AT CABANATUAN PRISON CAMP WAS AN AMERICAN "SHOOTING SQUAD."

THIS IS THE WAY PVT.JOHN BRAUMBERGER, PORTLAND, ORE., EXPLAINED IT:

"THE JAPS DESIGNATED TEN MEN AS AN INDIVIDUAL SHOOTING SQUAD AND SAID THAT IF ANY OF THE TEN ESCAPED THE REMAINING NINE WOULD BE SHOT. THEY EMPHASIZED THAT ALL TEN OF US WERE RESPONSIBLE FOR KEEPING EACH OTHER FROM ESCAPING.

"THIS IS A PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION. FOUR OF US GOT TO KNOW A JAP GUARD AND BY BRIBES GOT HIM TO LET US LEAVE THE CAMP AT NIGHT TO FORAGE FOR EXTRA FOOD. ONE NIGHT OUR BRIBED GUARD WAS REPLACED WITH A NEW MAN AND WE DIDN'T KNOW IT.

"I WASN'T FEELING WELL AND DIDN'T HAPPEN TO GO OUT THAT NIGHT BUT THE OTHER THREE DID AND WERE PROMPTLY CAUGHT WHEN THEY RETURNED. THEY WERE IMMEDIATELY TIED TO POSTS AND SHOT.

"I AND SIX OTHERS WERE IN THIS SAME SHOOTING SQUAD, HENCE WE

FIGURED WE WOULD BE KILLED. THEY THREW US INTO THE GUARDHOUSE AND JUST FOR MEANNESS SAID WE WOULD BE SHOT UNTIL 4 P.M., THIRTEEN DAYS LATER SO THAT WE WOULD HAVE TO THINK ABOUT IT FOR A LONG TIME. DURING THE TIME IN THE GUARDHOUSE WE WERE FED NOTHING BUT A LITTLE RICE AND WATER. TWO OF US DIED.

"I'LL NEVER KNOW WHY, BUT AT 3:30 P.M. ON THE DAH OF EXECUTION, THE JAP COMMANDER SENT A REPRIEVE. MAYBE IT'S TYPICAL JAPANESE CRUELTY TO KEEP YOU COUNTING YOUR SECONDS AND MINUTES BEFORE YOU DI."

WITH THE 37TH DIVISION IN MANILA, FEB 4-(AP)-MANILA'S WELCOME TOOK MANY AND BEWILDERING FORMS.

WHAT WE SAW AND EXPERIENCED HAS BEEN GIVEN TO FEW MEN IN HISTORY.

A GREAT AND BEAUTIFUL CITY STRUGGLING THROUGH A PREBIRTH TO LIBERTY POURED OUT TO US--GRIMY, SWEATY, DIRTY, WEARY AND UTTERLY UNHEROIC IN APPEARANCE--SUCH A MEASURE OF THANKS AND ACCLAIM AS CAN ONLY COME AFTER LONG AND MISERABLE BONDAGE.

OLD WOMEN WEPT AND OLD MEN WEPT. A GAUNT, TOOTHLESS WOMAN IN RAGGED GOWN GRABBED THE HAND OF AN ABASHED REGIMENTAL COLONEL AND KISSED IT.

"VICTORY!" SAID THE FLUSTERED COLONEL.

"THE AMERICANS ARE BACK!" SHE QUAVERED. "GOD BLESS YOU, SIR, GOD BLESS YOU, SIR. GOD BLESS THE AMERICANS! GOD BLESS ALL THE AMERICANS!"

A BRIGADIER GENERAL IN OUR GROUP TURNED AND SAID:

"THERE IS AN ANSWER TO JAPAN'S DREAM OF EMPIRE! AFTER THREE YEARS OF THE ORIENT FOR THE ORIENTALS THESE ORIENTALS KISS OUR HANDS AND SAY 'GOD BLESS THE AMERICANS.'"

FEB 5 1945

WE WALKED GINGERLY AROUND A MINED SECTION OF THE STREET. AT THE END OF THIS BOTTLENECK--IT WAS ONE OF MANILA'S MANY CITY CENTERS--THE BATTALION COLUMN WAS TAKING A BREAK, AND FILIPINO WOMEN AND GIRLS WERE RUSHING AMONG THEM WITH COFFEE.

A FILIPINO URCHIN DARTED FROM THE CROWD AND HANDED ME AN EGG. "MY GEEFT, SAIR. WELCOME TO THE AMERICANS!"

WE PAUSED TO REST IN FRONT OF A BARREN SHOP. A MAN IN HORN-RIM GLASSES AND A PATCHED WHITE COAT PUSHED THROUGH THE CROWD WITH A BUNCH OF BANANAS AND DISTRIBUTED THEM AMONG THE TROOPS. "NO MORE JAPS. NO MORE JAPS," HE YELLED.

"YOU GLAD TO SEE US?"

HE WAVED HIS ARMS IN INARTICULATE JOY. "HALLELUJAH," I SUGGESTED.

"HALLELUJAH, HALLELUJAH! FOR THE AMERICANS," HE SHOUTED.

TINY CHILDREN DARTED OUT AMONG THE TROOPS AND GRASPED HANDS AND WALKED WITH THEM. A G.I. DROPPED FROM THE LINE AND TOOK A SIX MONTHS' OLD BABY FROM HIS FATHER'S ARMS AND HELD HIM UP AND COOED AT HIM AND HANDED HIM BACK WITH A SALUTE AND REJOINED THE MARCH.

"THE AMERICANS, THE AMERICANS THEY COME AT LAST," ANSWERED THE FATHER WITH TEARS COURSING DOWN HIS FACE.

ALL DAY IT HAD BEEN GOING ON AND FAR INTO THE NIGHT. HERE AND THERE OUR FLANKING PATROLS ON THE SIDE STREETS RAN INTO SMALL KNOTS OF JAPANESE AND SHARP CLEANUP FIGHTS ENSUED. BULLETS WHINED ABOUT BUT THE PEOPLE NEVER STOPPED THEIR CHEERS AND GREETING.

I WALKED FOR FIVE MILES TOWARD THE WATERFRONT. A FEW BUILDINGS WERE SMASHED AND BURNED UT ON THE WHOLE THAT PART OF MANILA WAS NOT GREATLY DAMAGED. HOWEVER OFF IN THE DISTANCE WE COULD SEE HUGE FIRES AND COLUMNS OF SMOKE. THE DOCK AREA WAS BURNING FIERCELY.

TO THE LEFT, MILES AWAY, THREE HUGE FIRES WERE BURNING IN MANILA PROPER. THEY APPEARED CONCENTRATED AND DID NOT COVER THE ENTIRE CITY. MANILA WILL BEAR DEEP SCARS FROM THIS FIGHT BUT I DO NOT THINK THEY WILL BE AS BAD AS WE FEARED.

BY FRED HAMPSON (150)

WITH U.S. TROOPS IN MANILA, MONDAY, FEB. 5-(AP)-THE BIGGEST HANDICAP IN OCCUPYING THE NORTHERN HALF OF MANILA IS THE CONGESTION OF ROADS BY THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS OF FILIPINOS FROM TOWN AND COUNTRY.

AS DOUGHBOYS ENTER THE CITY, THERE IS STILL NO INDICATION OF ANY LARGE SCALE DESTRUCTION OF THE "PEARL OF THE ORIENT."

HOWEVER THERE ARE MANY FIRES NEAR THE PASIG RIVER.

I HEARD ONE CUB PLANE OBSERVER REPORT "JUST ON THE SOUTH SIDE OF SAN LAZARO STADIUM, THE TOWN IS INTACT BUT MARKET BUILDINGS ARE BURNING AND SOME BUILDINGS ARE ALREADY DESTROYED."

BY MIDAFTERNOON YANK INFANTRYMEN HAD SWARMED PAST BEAUTIFUL SAN LAZARO RACETRACK AND SPEARHEADS WERE PROBING INTO SANTO TOMAS UNIVERSITY GROUNDS WHERE AT ONE TIME 3,000 BRITISH AND AMERICAN CIVILIANS WERE INTERNED.

(HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED EARLY TODAY THAT U.S. TROOPS HAD ALREADY THROWN A CORDON ABOUT SANTO TOMAS).

ONLY SPORADIC SMALL ARMS FIRE HAS IMPEDED THE YANKS.

THE CUB OBSERVER ADDED THAT "IN THE CENTER OF THE CITY THERE ARE 15 LARGE FIRES. MANY SEEM TO COME FROM THE LARGER BUILDINGS. THE BEAUTIFUL BUILDINGS AND RESIDENCES ON THE NORTH SIDE OF MANILA ARE LARGELY UNDAMAGED," THE PILOT SAID.

UTWITH PIPS (250)

BY RICHARD C.BERGHOLZ

U.S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, LUZON, FEB 3-DELAYED)-(AP)-LT.GEN.ROBERT EICHELBERGER PULLED A QUICK ONE ON THE JAPANESE ON BATANGAS PENINSULA WITH A SPECTACULAR PARACHUTE INVASION BEHIND THE ENEMY LINES 32 MILES SOUTH OF MANILA ON A GOOD HIGHWAY.

HIGHLY TRAINED ELEMENTS OF THE 511TH PARATROOP REGIMENT FLOATED DOWN AT DAWN TODAY ON SPINY TAGAYTAY RIDGE, 21 ROAD MILES EAST OF THE BATANGAS INVASION BEACHHEAD AT NASUGBU.

QUICKLY THE TOUGH PARATROOPERS ESTABLISHED ROAD BLOCKS ON THE ALL-WEATHER HIGHWAY WHICH SHOOTS DOWN TO CAVITE ON MANILA BAY AND THEN AROUND THE SHORE TOWARD MANILA.

THE DARING CAUGHT THE JAPANESE COMPLETELY BY SURPRISE. NOT A JAPANESE WAS IN THE IMMEDIATE VICINITY AND A STRONG FORCE OF THE ENEMY WAS CAUGHT BETWEEN THE PARATROOPERS AND OTHER ELEMENTS OF THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION DRIVING INLAND FROM NASUGBU.

IT WAS A PERFECT PARATROOP SHOW.

DURING THE DARKNESS LAST NIGHT EIGHT SCOUTS, LED BY LT.DAVID HOKER (CABLE COPY) ALBUQUERQUE, N.MEX., CREPT THROUGH STRONG JAPANESE LINES TO THE CREST OF 2,000-FOOT TAGAYTAY RIDGE.

WHEN THE FIRST RAYS OF THE SUN STARTED BREAKING OVER THE MOUNTAINS OF EASTERN LUZON, HOKER'S BAND LIT BRILLIANT FLARES OUTLINING THE DROPPING TARGET.

IMMEDIATELY BIG TROOP TRANSPORTS, WHICH HAD BEEN RENDEZVOUSING NEARBY, SWEPT OVER AND SPILLED OUT HUNDREDS OF PARATROOPS. WITHIN A MATTER OF MINUTES THE MAIN FORCE HAD HIT THE GROUND AND SPREAD IN A PREARRANGED PATTERN.

ALMOST BEFORE THE JAPANESE KNEW WHAT WAS HAPPENING THE ENTIRE FORCE, OUTFITTED WITH PARACHUTED ARMS AND SUPPLIES, SET UP IN STRONG POSITIONS WHICH COMMAND THE NETWORK OF HIGHWAYS WINDING FROM BATANGAS AND SOUTH TO THE PHILIPPINE CAPITAL.

THIS IS THE THIRD TIME IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC WARFARE A U.S. PARATROOP OPERATION HAS BEEN CARRIED OUT. IT IS THE FIRST TIME A DELICATELY TIMED PLAN HAS BEEN OF FIRST RANK STRATEGICAL IMPORTANCE.

THE FIRST PARATROOP LANDING CAME RELATIVELY EARLY IN THE WAR WHEN GEN.MACARTHUR THREW SCORES OF PLANELOADS OF PARATROOPS INTO NADZAB VALLEY AT PAPUA, NEW GUINEA. THE VALLEY WAS UNDEFENDED BY THE JAPANESE AND THE YANKS QUICKLY EXPANDED IT INTO A LARGESCALE AIRBASE.

THE SECOND AIRBORNE OPERATION WAS AT NOEMFOOR ISLAND AT THE MOUTH OF GEELVINK BAY, DUTCH NEW GUINEA, LAST SUMMER. HERE AGAIN THE PARATROOPS FOUND NO JAPS BECAUSE AMPHIBIOUS TROOPS ALREADY HAD SECURED THE AIRSTRIP, WHICH WAS THE DROPPING OBJECTIVE.

BUT THIS TIME, ALTHOUGH NO JAPANESE OPPOSED THE OPERATION ITSELF, U.S. PARATROOPERS SERVED THE HIGHLY STRATEGIC PURPOSE OF BLOCKING THE KEY HIGHWAY AND THREATENING THE ISOLATION OF THE ENEMY CAUGHT ON THE ROAD TO NASUGBU, BATANGAS AND SOUTH.

THROUGH TAYLOR AS SPOKESMAN, THEY TOLD THIS STORY FROM THE TIME THEY WERE CAPTURED AT THE FALL OF BATAAN:

"APRIL 9, 1942--WE KNEW SURRENDER WAS SCHEDULED FOR TODAY. THERE WAS AN EARTHQUAKE IN THE MORNING. WE SAT AROUND AND DIVIDED UP THE LAST TWO PACKS OF CIGARETTES. FILIPINOS WITH US BROKE AND AND CRIED.

"IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE A JAP PATROL MARCHED INTO OUR AREA. THEY SEEMED SURPRISED TO CAPTURE THE BRIGADIER GENERAL COMMANDING OUR OUTFIT. THE GENERAL FORMALLY SURRENDERED FOR ALL OF US TEN TOLD US TO STAY IN BIVOUAC AND STACK OURARMS.

"APRIL 13--TODAY WE BEGAN THE MARCH OF DEATH. WE MARCHED OUT OF MARIVELES AND MARCHED ALL DAY AND NIGHT. ONE JAP, A CIVILIAN INTERPRETER WITH THE ARMY, SLAPPED A LOT OF MEN AND URGED THE GUARDS TO USE BAMBOO POLES TO BEAT US.

"'I KNOW YOU AMERICANS,'" HE SCREAMED. 'I LIVED 14 YEARS IN THE UNITED STATES. I HATE YOU ALL.' THEY HAD US ON BURIAL DETAILS THAT NIGHT.

"APRIL 14--WE MARCHED ALL DAY. SUFFERED MOST FROM LACK OF WATER. PASSED BY SEVERAL ARTESIAN WELLS. SOME BROKE RANKS TO REACH FOR WATER. JAPS BEAT THEM WITH POLES WHEN THEY DIDN'T QUIT. I NEVER SAW A MERCY SHOT, ONE WHICH WOULD PUT THE POOR DEVI... S OUT OF THEIR MISERY.

"APRIL 15--TODAY THEY HAD US STRIP OFF ALL OUR CLOTHING AND STAND IN THE SUN ALL DAY. SEVERAL DIED OF SUNSTROKE.

"ANYONE FOUND WITH JAP SOUVENIRS SHOT ON SPOT.

"FROM HERE UNTIL WE REACHED SAN FERNANDO WE SAW SO MUCH HORROR WE MOVED IN A DAZE, UNABLE TO THINK OR TALK.

"MARCH1---WE LEFT BY TRAIN FOR CAPAS WHERE WE WERE UNLOADED AND MARCHED TO CAMP O'DONNELL. HERE IT SEEMED TO MOST US THE JAP TREATMENT GREATLY IMPROVED.

"UNTIL NOW THE GUARDS HAD BEEN JAP SOLDIERS WHO FOUGHT ON BATAAN.

"MAY 21---A PARTY OF TP MEN WAS TAKEN FROM O'DONNELL TO BILIBID PRISON CAM

"MAY 21---A PARTY OF 300 MEN WAS TAKEN FROM O'DONNELL TO BILIBID PRISON CAMP, MANILA, AND FROM THERE SENT TO TAYABAS PROVINCE. WE HAD TO MARCH THE LAST PART OF THE TRIP. THE JAPS MADE US CARRY THEIR PACKS, AS WELL AS OUR OWN.

"THERE WAS NO FOOD BUT FILIPINOS WERE PERMITTED TO FEED US.

"THE PACE WAS SO TERRIFIC THAT THE JAPS THEMSELVES BEGAN PASSING OUT FROM EXHAUSTION. SO THEY STOPPED THE MARCH AND BROUGHT TRUCKS.

"FOR THE NEXT TWO MONTHS THEY MADE US BUILD 40 KILOMETERS OF HIGHWAY THROUGH THE HEART OF A JUNGLE.

FEB 5 1945

"AUG.19--TODAY LEFT FOR CABANATUAN PRISON BY TRAIN.

"WHEN THE FIRST MEN ARRIVED AT CABANATUAN, THEY FOUND GRASS UP TO TEN FEET HIGH, SO LATRINES AND CRUDE BARRACKS WITH SLAT FLOORS. IT GOT VERY COLD IN THE MOUNTAINS. MANY MEN NEVER GOT BLANKETS AT NIGHT.

"THE JAPS HAD US CLEAN THE GRASS, THEN LET US BUILD LATRINES. WE IMPROVED THE SANITATION. WE ALSO HAD BURIAL SQUADS.

"ONE DAY THE JAP COMMANDER SENT FOR A TYPICAL UNITED STATES ARMY DIET. OUR LEADER COPIED THE ARMY RATION FROM AN OLD MEDICAL HANDBOOK. JAP SAID HE COULDN'T UNDERSTAND HOW THE ARMY COULD FEED SO MUCH. BUT HE PROMISES TO DO HIS BEST, BUT IMPOSSIBLE TO MATCH IT.

"SOON WE LET US SET UP A COMMISSARY AND LET MEN GO TO TOWN TO BUY WHAT FOOD THEY COULD FIND. OF COURSE THE JAPS TOOK TEN PER CENT OF THE SALES BUT FILIPINOS TRIED TO GET US ALL THEY COULD.

"THEN THELUZON BOMBINGS BEGAN I REMEMBER SEEING NAVY DIVEBOMBERS SWEEP OVER THE PRISON CAMP AND WAGGLE WINGS AT US. ONCE AN AMERICAN PLANE FLEW OVER AND DROPPED A MESSAGE. BUT THE JAPS SAW IT FALL IN THE YARD AND PICKED IT UP. AM SURE THEY WOULD HAVE SHOT ANYONE WHO MADE A MOVE TO PICK IT UP.

UNDATED MANILA-PHILIPPINES HISTORIC (550)
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

(ADVANCE) THE STORIED CITY OF MANILA, PEARL OF THE ORIENT, WAS THE FOCAL POINT OF THE PHILIPPINES WHEN THE JAPANESE LAUNCHED THEIR ATTACK DEC.8, 1941.

LIKEWISE, THE CAPITAL WAS THE PRIZED OBJECTIVE OF THE GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S LIBERATION FORCES SINCE THEIR OCT.25, 1944 LANDING ON LEYTE ISLAND TO THE SOUTHEAST.

ALL OF THE ENEMY LANDINGS ON LUZON ISLAND, FOLLOWING QUICKLY AFTER PEARL HARBOR, WERE BUT BRIDGEHEADS FOR THE GENERAL ASSAULT ON MANILA.

SPACIOUS MANILA BAY IS ONE OF THE FINEST HARBORS IN THE FAR EAST. AS A COMMERCIAL AND NAVAL KEY IT OCCUPIES A COMMANDING POSITION IN NAVIGATION TO SOUTHERN CHINA, THE FRENCH EAST INDIES AND AUSTRALASIA.

MIGUEL LOPEZ DE LEGASPI FOUNDED MANILA IN 1571, SIX YEARS AFTER HE HAD CONQUERED THE PHILIPPINE ISLANDS FOR SPAIN. THE SPANIARDS FOLLOWED TRAIL-BLAZING ERNANDO MAGELLAN, THE PORTUGUESE EXPLORER, WHO DISCOVERED THE ARCHIPELAGO IN 1521.

IT WAS IN MANILA BAY THAT ADM.GEORGE DEWEY DESTROYED THE SPANISH FLEET IN 1898, DURING THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR. THE AMERICANS ACQUIRED THE ISLANDS BY VIRTUE OF THE TREATY OF PARIS WHICH ENDED THE WAR.

AMERICAN CONTROL OF THE ISLANDS WAS DISPUTED BY FILIPINO INSURRECTIONISTS LED BY EMILIO AGUINALDO IN FIGHTING WHICH ENDED WITH AGUINALDO'S CAPTURE BY GEN.FREDERICK FUNSTON MARCH 23, 1901.

MANILA UNDERWENT EXTENSIVE MODERNIZATION UNDER UNITED STATES RULE OF THE ISLANDS. AMERICANS ASSISTED IN MODERNIZATION OF THE HARBOR, EFFECTED SANITARY IMPROVEMENTS, BUILT BRIDGES, BOULEVARDS AND INSTALLED THE CITY'S FAMOUS OPEN-AIR ELECTRIC TROLLEY SYSTEM.

THE CITY GREW INTO A METROPOLIS OF 14 SQUARE MILES WITH A POPULATION OF 623,362 (1939 CENSUS.)

FROM MANILA THE UNITED STATES GOVERNED THE 7,083 ISLANDS AND ISLETS OF THE PHILIPPINES THROUGH A GOVERNOR-GENERAL AND A COUNCIL OF STATE FROM 1899 TO 1935.

IN 1935 THE COMMONWEALTH OF THE PHILIPPINES CAME INTO BEING UNDER THE TYDINGS-MCDUFFIE ACT WHICH AUTHORIZED ESTABLISHMENT OF A FILIPINO GOVERNMENT AND PROVIDED FOR COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE JULY 4, 1946.

THE LATE MANUEL QUEZON BECAME THE FIRST PRESIDENT OF THE COMMONWEALTH, WHICH ALSO HAD A LEGISLATIVE CHAMBER AND COURTS. IN THE 10-YEAR INTERIM TO COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE, THE UNITED STATES RETAINED CONTROL OF CERTAIN GOVERNMENTAL FUNCTIONS, SUCH AS THE COMMONWEALTH'S FOREIGN AFFAIRS, AND MAINTAINED A GOVERNOR-GENERAL AT MANILA.

QUEZON WAS CHOSEN PRESIDENT A SECOND TIME AND WAS INDUCTED FOR HIS SECOND TERM IN DECEMBER, 1941, WHILE THE JAPANESE WERE OVERRUNNING THE ISLANDS. HE TOOK UP RESIDENCE ON CORREGIDOR, WAS LATER EVACUATED, WITH MACARTHUR, AND CAME TO THE UNITED STATES TO SET UP A GOVERNMENT IN EXILE. HE DIED AT SARANAC LAKE,N.Y., LAST AUG.1 AND VICE PRESIDENT SERGIO OSMENA, WHO HAD FLED THE ENEMY WITH QUEZON, BECAME PRESIDENT.

B13KX Q

LATER, THE JAPANESE ESTABLISHED A PUPPET GOVERNMENT IN THE ISLANDS AND DECLARED IT "INDEPENDENT" UNDER PRESIDENT JOSE P. LAUREL.

LAST JUNE CONGRESS ON PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S RECOMMENDATION PASSED LEGISLATION PROMISING THE PHILIPPINES INDEPENDENCE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE AFTER UNITED STATES FORCES CLEARED THE ISLANDS OF JAPANESE INVADERS.

WHEN AMERICAN TROOPS INVADED LEYTE ISLAND LAST OCT.20 IN THE FIRST LIBERATION THRUST IN THE PHILIPPINES, OSMENA WENT ASHORE WITH MACARTHUR AND IMMEDIATELY ESTABLISHED GOVERNMENTAL FUNCTIONS TO TAKE OVER LIBERATED AREAS.

MACARTHUR SAID THE PRACTICE OF THE AMERICAN MILITARY WOULD BE TO TURN THE GOVERNMENT OF TOWNS AND PROVINCES OVER TO LOCAL FILIPINOS AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE AFTER THE FIGHTING FORCES MOVED FORWARD.

(ADVANCE) GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR COMMITTED ELEMENTS OF AT LEAST TEN DIVISIONS--UPWARDS OF 100,000 MEN--FOR THE RECONQUEST OF LUZON AND ITS CAPITAL CITY OF MANILA. THEY WERE PITTED AGAINST EIGHT ELUSIVE JAPANESE DIVISIONS UNDER GEN.TOMOYUKI YAMASHITA.

THE PICTURE CONTRASTS SHARPLY WITH THE NUMERICAL STRENGTH OF LUZON'S DEFENDERS--THE MEN OF BATAAN--GEN.MACARTHUR GATHERED AROUND HIM IN 1941-42.

WHEN MACARTHUR PACKED HIS BAGS IN HIS MANILA HOTEL HEADQUARTERS FOR THE DEFENSE OF BATAAN, HE IN REALITY HAD JUST BEGUN HIS WORK AS PHILIPPINES DEFENSE COMMANDER.

AS PHILIPPINE FIELD MARSHAL UNDER THE REGIME OF PRESIDENT MANUEL QUEZON, THE COLORFUL AMERICAN MILITARY LEADER HAD STARTED THE REORGANIZATION AND TRAINING OF A WIDELY SCATTERED FILIPINO ARMY OF 40,000, PART OF 150,000 RESERVISTS.

JUST THE AUGUST BEFORE PEARL HARBOR, THE PHILIPPINE ARMY HAD ACTIVATED TEN INFANTRY REGIMENTS--BETWEEN 12,000 AND 15,000 MEN. MACARTHUR HAD BEEN CALLED BACK FROM VOLUNTARY RETIREMENT TO BECOME THE U.S.PHILIPPINES MILITARY COMMANDER.

HE PLOTTED THE ARCHIPELAGO'S OUTER DEFENSE IN 1941 ON AN OFFSHORE PATROL OF TWO TORPEDOBOATS, A 16TH NAVAL DISTRICT NATIVE PERSONNEL OF 150 OFFICERS AND MEN, AND A SKELETON FILIPINO AIRFORCE TO SUPPLEMENT REGULAR U.S.AIR FORCES.

MACARTHUR DISCARDED WHATEVER HE WISHED OF TRADITIONAL U.S.ARMY TRAINING, MINGLED WITH HIS MEN, HELPED THEM HAUL TANKS AND CANNON INTO PLACE, AND REPEATEDLY ASKED FOR WARPLANES AND PILOTS. THE BATTLE OF BATAAN PENINSULA IS A MONUMENT TO THAT MIGHTY ENDEAVOR.

THAT TIME BETWEEN THE FIRST JAPANESE LANDINGS ON LUZON DEC.19, 1941 TO THE SUBSEQUENT SURRENDER OF OUTNUMBERED PHILIPPINE DEFENDERS ON CORREGIDOR ON APRIL 9, 1942 IT WAS A CASE OF "TOO LITTLE, TOO LATE."

ON MACARTHUR'S REINVASION OF LUZON, HOWEVER, IT WAS A DIFFERENT STORY. HE CAME IN STRENGTH WITH THE 43RD, 25TH, 6TH, 38TH, 27TH, 40TH, 24TH, 37TH, THE 11TH AIRBORNE AND THE 1ST. CAVALRY DIVISIONS, PLUS THE SIXTH RANGER BATTALION AND THE 158TH REGIMENTAL COMBAT TEAM.

THEY OPPOSED YAMASHITA'S DIVISIONS IDENTIFIED AS THE 2ND ARMORED, 10TH, 12TH, 19TH, 23RD, 103RD AND 150TH PLUS THE 58TH INDEPENDENT BRIGADE, MARINE NAVAL ORGANIZATIONS, GARRISON AND SERVICE UNITS.

UNDATED LUZON CAMPAIGN (700)

(EDITORS--THIS MAY BE USED AS AN ADD TO THE RUNNING STORY, UNDER MACARTHUR'S HQTRS DATELINE, OR CAN BE USED AS SEPARATE STORY UNDER THAT DATELINE. IT WILL BE KEPT UP TO DATE WITH ADDS.)

(ADVANCE)--MACARTHUR'S LANDING ON LUZON INITIATED THE SECOND BIG PHASE OF THE PHILIPPINES LIBERATION CAMPAIGN, WHICH STARTED LAST OCT.20 WITH THE INVASION OF LEYTE ISLAND.

SEVEN AMERICAN DIVISIONS, COMPRISING THE 10TH AND 24TH CORPS OF THE SIXTH ARMY, BATTLED RUGGED MOUNTAIN JUNGLE TERRAIN, TYPHOON WEATHER AND DO-OR-DIE JAPANESE RESISTANCE TO TAKE LEYTE IN A LITTLE MORE THAN TWO MONTHS. MACARTHUR PRONOUNCED THE LEYTE CAMPAIGN CLOSED DEC.26, EXCEPT FOR MOPPING UP, WHICH IS CONTINUING.

JAPANESE LEADERS, FROM PREMIER KUNIAKI KOISO DOWN, SAID AT FIRST THAT THE OUTCOME OF THE LEYTE FIGHTING WOULD TELL THE STORY IN THE PACIFIC WAR. BUT WHEN THEY SAW THEY WERE LOSING THE ISLAND THEY TRANSFERRED THEIR CRISIS THEME TO LUZON AND SAID THE VICTOR THERE WOULD WIN THE WAR.

THE JAPANESE NAVY WAS BROKEN IN THE OCT.23-26 BATTLE OF LEYTE GULF, OFFICIAL NAME NOW GIVEN THE SECOND BATTLE OF THE PHILIPPINE SEAS. WITH 58 ENEMY SHIPS SUNK OR DAMAGED BY THE U.S. THIRD AND SEVENTH FLEETS, SIXTH ARMY UNITS NEXT LANDED ON THE SOUTHWEST COAST OF MINDORO ISLAND DEC.15, CAPTURING SAN JOSE TOWN AND AIRDROME WITH LIGHT GROUND OPPOSITION.

ARMY PLANES FLYING FROM LEYTE AND MINDORO AIRFIELDS HAMMERED JAPANESE AIRDROMES AND OTHER INSTALLATIONS ON LUZON, SUPPLEMENTING THE BEATING NAVAL PILOTS HAD GIVEN THE ENEMY FIELDS AND MANILA BAY SHIPPING THROUGHOUT THE LEYTE OPERATION.

ON JAN. 6, YANK GROUND FORCES SEIZED MARINDUQUE ISLAND OFF THE SOUTH COAST OF LUZON, AND TWO DAYS LATER OTHER UNITS TOOK THE TOWN OF PALUAN ON THE NORTHWEST COAST OF MINDORO.

THESE TWO OPERATIONS, PUTTING THE AMERICANS IN POSITION FOR SHORT OVER-WATER HOPS TO LUZON AND NOT MORE THAN 100 AIRLINE MILES FROM MANILA, APPARENTLY FOOLED THE JAPANESE COMMANDER INTO EXPECTING THE INVASION ON THE ISLAND'S SOUTH COAST.

AMERICAN CONVOYS RAN A TOUGH GAUNTLET OF JAPANESE AIRCRAFT STRAFING AND BOMBING TO REACH THE LINGAYEN GULF COAST ON WESTERN LUZON JAN.9 BUT ONCE ASHORE THE GROUND OPPOSITION WAS SLIGHT. NIPPONESE TROOPS WHICH HAD NOT BEEN MOVED SOUTH TO MEET THE EXPECTED YANK INVASION THERE, FLED INTO THE MOUNTAINS.

THE DOUGHBOYS ADVANCED INLAND ON THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAIN AT AN AVERAGE SPEED OF FOUR MILES A DAY. THEIR PROGRESS TOWARD MANILA MIGHT HAVE BEEN FASTER HAD NOT THE AMERICANS ENCOUNTERED HARD FIGHTING ON THE LEFT FLANK, AROUND ROSARIO.

FEB 1945

A103KX --WEST OUT--

AT ROSARIO THE JAPANESE BATTLED TO HOLD THE MOUNTAIN ROAD LEADING TO BAGUIO. BUT THE FIRST CORPS TOOK ROSARIO A FEW DAYS AGO, PREVENTING JAPANESE SALLIES FROM THE MOUNTAINS, AND

30.24 - 22705

THE 14TH CORPS BEGAN ROLLING ON THE RIGHT.

ON JAN. 22 THE AMERICANS TOOK TARLAC, CAPITAL OF THE PROVINCE BY THAT NAME, FINDING THE TOWN HAD BEEN RAZED BY THE FLEEING JAPANESE.

THIS PUT THE 14TH CORPS 65 MILES NORTHWEST OF MANILA. THE NEXT DAY THEY TOOK CAPAS, 11 MILES NEARER THE PHILIPPINE CAPITAL CITY.

FEB 5 1945

CAPTURE OF CLARK FIELD WITH ITS 17 AIRSTRIPS AND NEARBY FORT STOTSENBURG CAME ON JAN. 26. HERE THE JAPANESE FROM NEARBY HILL POSITIONS OFFERED THEIR FIRST STIFF RESISTANCE AGAINST THE 14TH CORPS' ADVANCE.

THE NEW AMERICAN EIGHTH ARMY CAME ASHORE ON THE SOUTHERN ZAMBALES PROVINCE COAST ABOVE SUBIC BAY JAN. 29 AND THE 11TH AIRBORNE DIVISION OF THE SAME ARMY LANDED ON THE BATANGAS PROVINCE COAST, JUST SOUTH OF THE ENTRANCE TO MANILA BAY, TWO DAYS LATER.

NOT A SHOT WAS FIRED IN THE ZAMBALES INVASION AS THE AMERICAN TROOPS, CHEERED ON BY FILIPINOS, STRUCK SOUTH TO TAKE OLGONGAPO, FORMER U.S. NAVAL BASE ON SUBIC BAY. THEY THEN TURNED INLAND TO STRETCH A LINE ACROSS THE NECK OF HISTORIC BATAAN PENINSULA, ON THEIR WAY TO MANILA.

THE BATANGAS LANDING ALSO CAUGHT THE ENEMY BY SURPRISE. MINOR RESISTANCE WAS BRUSHED ASIDE AND A "SNEAK" ATTACK BY TORPEDO-CARRYING ENEMY SEACRAFT ON THE INVASION CONVOY WAS BROKEN UP WITH BUT SLIGHT DAMAGE.

MEANWHILE, THE SIXTH ARMY, MOVING RELENTLESSLY DOWN THE CENTRAL PLAINS FROM THE LINGAYEN GULF RELENTLESSLY DOWN THE CENTRAL PLAINS FRTM THE LINGAYEN GULF STARTING POINT, MOVED THROUGH AND AROUND THE EAST SIDE OF THE PAMPANGA MARSHES, AND ON DOWN THE STRAIGHT HIGHWAY TO MANILA. THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, IN THE SWIFTEST ADVANCE OF THE PLAINS, DASHED AROUND THE EAST SIDE OF THE SWAMPS AND JOINED IN THE FINAL PUSH.

UNDATED MANILA COMEBACK CAMPAIGN (ASO)

FEB 5 1945

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

(ADVANCE)--THE AMERICAN FLAG FLIES ONCE MORE OVER MANILA, REPLACING THE JAPANESE SUN BANNER RAISED OVER THE CITY JAN. 2, 1942, AND ENDING A MARATHON CAMPAIGN UNEQUALLED IN MILITARY HISTORY.

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID "I WILL RETURN," THAT BITTER MARCH DAY IN 1942 WHEN A U.S. SUBMARINE BROUGHT HIM TO AUSTRALIA FROM CRUMBLING CORREGIDOR IN MANILA BAY.

A MIGHTY ARMY, NAVY AND AIR FORCE TEAM MADE HIS PROMISE COME TRUE.

THE JAPANESE LANDED ON THE LUZON ISLAND NORTH COAST DEC. 10, 1941, TO START THE INVASION THAT TOOK MANILA AND LATER HAMMERED THE WEAKENED AMERICAN-FILIPINO ARMY INTO SUBMISSION ON BATAAN AND CORREGIDOR.

IT WAS ONLY A 250-MILE JUMP FOR THE NIPPONESE, FROM FORMOSE TO THE LUZON NORTH COAST, AND NOT MUCH FARTHER, AS FAR PACIFIC WAR DISTANCES GO, TO MAKE THEIR OTHER LANDINGS ON THE WEST AND SOUTH COASTS OF LUZON.

THE AMERICANS TRAVELED 10 TO 20 TIMES FARTHER IN THEIR

COME-BACK.

IT IS 2,600 MILES FROM THE PAPUAN PENINSULA, NEW GUINEA, WHERE THE YANKS AND THE AUSTRALIANS TURNED BACK THE JAPANESE THREAT, TO PORT MORESBY, DOORWAY TO AUSTRALIA AND FARTHEST SOUTH PENETRATION OF THE NIPPONESE ARMY.

ONCE STOPPED OUTSIDE PORT MORESBY, THE JAPANESE BEGAN A RELUCTANT RETREAT SEPT. 26, 1942. THE YANKS WERE ON THEIR WAY BACK TO MANILA, VIA THE SOLOMONS, THE ADMIRALTIES, DUTCH NEW GUINEA AND THE MOLUCCAS.

THE PEARL HARBOR-MANILA STRETCH WAS TWICE AS LONG--5,350 MILES. THE BLOODY PATH STARTED AT TARAWA IN THE GILBERTS, NOV. 21, 1943, AND TOOK THE AMERICANS THROUGH OTHER JAPANESE ISLAND BASTIONS IN THE MARSHALLS, THE PALAUS AND THE MARIANAS.

MEANWHILE, U.S. FLEETS, TASK FORCES AND AIRMEN WHITTLED DOWN JAPANESE SEA POWER IN THE BATTLES OF THE CORAL SEA, MIDWAY, BISMARCK SEA AND THE FIRST AND SECOND BATTLES OF THE PHILIPPINES SEA.

THE NIPPONESE THREAT TO THE CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES WAS REMOVED IN THE ALEUTIANS, WITH THE DESTRUCTION OF ENEMY FORCES ON ATTU IN MAY, 1943.

WHILE THE AMERICANS WERE CLOSING ON MANILA, THE JAPANESE AT HOME HEARD THE CRASH OF BOMBS DELIVERED WITH INCREASING FREQUENCY BY SUPERFORTRESSES BASED ON NEWLY-WON SAIPAN.

URGING THEIR HOME FOLK TO PRODUCE MORE AND MORE PLANES AND GUNS, JAPANESE LEADERS SAID THE LOSS OF LUZON WOULD MEAN FOR NIPPON THE LOSS OF THE WAR.

THEIR WARNINGS WERE EMPHASIZED BY AIRMEN OF THE THIRD U.S. FLEET WHO ROAMED THE SOUTH CHINA SEA, RUBBING OUT JAPANESE WAR AND MERCHANT SHIPPING AND SHORESIDE INSTALLATIONS FROM INDO-CHINA TO FORMOSA (CQT) AND THE CHINESE COAST, SOMETIMES LESS THAN 200 MILES FROM JAPAN.

THIS WASN'T THE KIND OF WAR PLANNED BY THE JAPANESE MILITARIST, WHO NEVER GOT ANY CLOSER TO THE UNITED STATES THAN PEARL HARBOR.

(END ADVANCE TO BE HELD FOR USE WHEN THE FALL OF MANILA TO THE AMERICANS IS ANNOUNCED. MOVED FEB.3, 1945.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4--Gen. Walther von Seidlitz, captured German general and a member of the Free Germany Committee operating from the Soviet Union, broadcast an appeal to the German people today "to rise as one man and fell Hitler and end the war."

The broadcast from Moscow was quoted by the American Broadcasting Station in Europe in an announcement recorded by NBC. It described von Seidlitz' appeal as the most impassioned he has ever made to the German people and said he declared, "Continued resistance merely imperils the future of the German nation for years to come."

The OWI quoted the Free Germany Radio in Moscow as telling the Germans that starvation in the Reich "is no longer a menacing spectre but reality and millions will die of hunger in Hitler's war."

RUSSIAN FORCES CROSS ODER RIVER NORTH OF KUSTRIN

Soviet Troops Establish Bridgehead After Fierce Battle, Nazis Report.

GAIN IN EAST PRUSSIA

Patrols Penetrate Encircled Poznan; Capture Goritz, Tirpitz

FEB 6 1945

LONDON, Tuesday, Feb. 6—(AP) The Red army in massive strength surged up to the Oder river's east bank on a 73-mile front yesterday, capturing Zellin, 32 miles northeast of Berlin, while the German radio reported Soviet troops had crossed the strategic water barrier and were fighting on its west bank.

Moscow claimed no bridgeheads over the Oder, but Col. Ernest von Hammer, German military commentator, announced from Berlin:

Cross Oder River

"Northwest of Kustrin, they succeeded, after heavy fighting lasting several days, in establishing a bridgehead on the western bank of the Oder which is subjected to continuous artillery fire."

Von Hammer did not locate the crossing, but Swedish dispatches from Berlin said it had been made at Kienitz, eight miles northwest of Kustrin and 35 miles from Berlin.

At Zellin, Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army is 15 miles northwest of Kustrin and six miles southwest of Barwalde, captured Sunday.

The nightly communique broadcast from Moscow reported that Zhukov's troops had won positions on the Oder f... uth and southeast to ... miles southeast of Frankfurt.

Among the more than 100 towns taken in this push to the river were Goritz, between the bastions of Kustrin and Frankfurt, and 40 miles due east of Berlin; Tirpitz, five miles south of Goritz and five north of Frankfurt; Reipzig, five miles southeast of Frankfurt and less than a mile from the river; Rampitz, three miles from Furstenberg, a defense point on the west bank, and Radnitz, five miles from the stronghold of Crossen on the opposite bank.

Moscow also announced further advances in clearing the enemy from the Samland peninsula in East Prussia and in the Budapest area. The communique said Soviet troops had penetrated Poznan, Poland, where a German garrison estimated at 20,000 has been encircled for 10 days, and captured an armaments factory, collecting much booty.

One German broadcast said of the fighting northeast of Berlin:

"The Russians are trying with every means in their power to widen the small bridgeheads they have set up in the Kustrin sector. The weather has become colder and the ground harder, but recent warm winds have played havoc with ice on the Oder.

"Russian tanks which tried to cross the ice broke through and sank.

"The Russians have not been able to make much progress in bridgeheads farther north on the Oder."

This disclosure by the Germans of crossings farther north, although it did not locate them specifically, indicated the Russians might be even less than 30 miles from Berlin.

Reds Seize Goritz

With the capture of Goritz and other communications centers along the Oder, the Russians won a firm grip on all railroads and highways east of the Oder.

Another captured town, Schaumberg, is three and one-half miles northwest of Kustrin, the closest approach to that city officially announced by the Russians, although the Germans have reported Kustrin under fierce assault.

German accounts of the war on the Eastern front gave the Red army control of nearly all the Oder's east bank, winding 350 miles southward from the Baltic port of Stettin to Ratibor near the Czechoslovak border.

The Moscow bulletin ignored large sectors of this front, notably that southeast of Stettin in Pomerania and that in Silesia, where the Germans asserted Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army has established at least half-a-dozen bridgeheads.

Dispatches from Moscow indicated both Zhukov and Konev were preparing to move en masse across the Oder for the second stage of the mighty Russian Winter offensive.

The question confronting the German defenders was whether Zhukov would strike straight for Berlin, or whether Konev would strike first, swinging south of the capital.

Battle Rages at Brieg

A German transocean agency broadcast declared a "very bitter battle" was raging on both sides of Brieg, 23 miles southeast of Breslau, capital of Silesia, today, but gave no details.

Col. Ernst Von Hammer, German military commenator, said Soviet tanks had reached the area northeast of Grottkau, 10 miles west of the Oder and 12 miles southwest of Brieg.

Zhukov's control of the Oder, according to German accounts, began in the region west of Pyritz and about 20 miles south of Stettin, and reached its full strength around Kustrin, 40 miles to the south, which was under heavy assault. At least one attempt to force a crossing of the Oder northwest of Kustrin has been made by the Russians, Berlin said.

From Kustrin to the area south of Frankfurt, second of the Oder line fortress cities, Zhukov's troops were pressing to the east bank of the river in increasing numbers. In this sector, the Russians were 40 miles from Berlin.

Fifty miles southeast of Frankfurt, Zhukov's First White Russian army was ranged along another sector of the river in the neighborhood of Grunberg.

Konev's bridgeheads were reported by Berlin to begin below this point. The German radio has mentioned Soviet crossings of the Oder near Steinau, where a penetration 12 miles west of the river was acknowledged; near Breslau, Ohlau, Brieg and both sides of Oppeln. Moscow has been silent on Konev's operations in Silesia for several days and has confirmed none of these crossings.

Garrison Surrounded

Far behind the Oder line, German garrisons are surrounded at Poznan and Schniedemuhl. Kustrin, Breslau and Steinau are under assault in the line itself and Frankfurt probably soon will be added to the list of beleaguered German cities.

Konev's Forces 35 Miles From Nazi Capital

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Berlin radio said tonight that "particularly massive" Russian forces had reached the Oder River at Kienitz, northwest of the fortress of Kustrin and only 35 miles from Berlin.

Other forces reached the river below Frankfurt, the broadcast said.

The Germans said Marshal Ivan Konev had lashed out from his bridgeheads south of Breslau in Silesia and deepened his foothold to 12 miles.

Konev attacked from both sides of Brieg, about midway between Breslau and Oppeln, the Germans said, and reached the area of Grottkau, 12 miles west of the Oder and about 24 miles northwest of Oppeln.

Dresden Thrust Possible

A Soviet breakthrough in this area might send the Russians surging toward Dresden, a city of 625,000, 140 miles west of Breslau and 90 miles south of Berlin.

While this new attack was not conrmed by Moscow, dispatches from the Soviet capital indicated big news might be expected from Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army front shortly.

In the Central front, Berlin admitted that German bridgeheads on the east side of the Oder in front of Frankfurt had been cut down.

So far Moscow had not confirmed German reports of an attempt to storm the water barrier, but Moscow dispatches said big guns were duelling across the river, that Zhukov was marshalling heavy forces of men, guns and tanks and threatening to outflank Berlin from his front of 140 miles up and down the Oder.

Fierce Attack On Kustrin

The German high command said a violent Russian attack was breaking against the fortress of Kustrin, 40 miles east of Berlin.

Capture yesterday of Barwalde, 38 miles northeast of the German capital, placed Russian spearheads within 45 miles of the Baltic port of Stettin at the mouth of the Oder.

Threat To Stettin Grows

Marshal Zhukov's tanks thrusting toward Stettin in a threat to topple that port and circle Berlin on the north were traveling in radio silence, Moscow said, but fere believed to be cutting behind enemy groups and causing great damage.

German accounts told of Red Army penetrations to the area of Schwedt, on the Oder, 28 miles south of Stettin, and the region of Pyritz, 22 miles southeast of Stettin.

Simultaneously, Zhukov's forces in the Frankfurt bulge between the Oder and Warthe rivers poised a southward flanking threat by the capture of Ziebingen.

Bomb Ramps Reported

German underground reports received in London said the Germans already were building flying-bomb ramps 50 miles west of Berlin and facing the German capital for use against the city if it falls to the Russians.

Moscow dispatches failed to bear out German reports of Russian attempts already made to cross the formidable Oder in the Frankfurt-Kustrin area, where it is nearly 1,000 feet wide, but said widespread mopping-up was going on in numerous pockets along the river, stretching from the area south of Stettin to the Russian hinge midway between Frankfurt and Breslau, where the 1st White Russian and 1st Ukrainian armies join.

The big question was whether Zhukov would seek an immediate crossing, halt to build up his divisions and strengthen his lines of communications, or perhaps pause to allow the 1st Ukraine Army to go into action south of him.

There are about eighteen railway bridges between Stettin and Breslau—at least fifteen of them are believed standing. The Germans have mined them and those not already destroyed could be sent sky-high at a moment's notice.

The main crossings are at Kustrin and Frankfurt and, so far as is known, both bridges are still intact as the last Nazis are being driven across them from the east. The Germans are gambling with time until the last moment.

A thaw has been reported over the Eastern front and the mud and slush which followed the sudden rises in temperature are greatly hampering the movements of the Red Army.

All possibility of taking tanks—even light ones—across the Oder River ice has gone and front reports indicate that infantry also would not be able to cross, except by bridge or barge.

But rivers never before have proven insurmountable obstacles to the Red Army.

East Prussia Situation

In East Prussia German resistance was in its final stages, with enemy-held territory reduced to about 800 square miles and practically every small port in the Konigsberg area in Russian hands.

The Russian communiqué also announced new gains north and northwest of Konigsberg, in East Prussia, that split the German forces on the Samland Peninsula, where the Nazis were being pressed against the Baltic and annihilated.

Nazi Navy Helping

[The German Navy is supplying the German forces in East Prussia, according to today's German communiqué, Reuter reported, saying: "German naval craft repeatedly intervened in the fighting on the coast of East Prussia, bringing relief to the army."]

At Barwalde the Russians cut the railroad between Kustrin and Stettin, and at Neudamm the rail line from Kustrin to Soldin, nearest officially reported Russian approach to Stettin, also was severed.

Railroad Cut

At Ziebingen the railroad from Frankfurt southeastward was cut, hampering German communications with the Silesian front.

A crossing at the river bend northwest of Kustrin would establish a springboard for a Russian drive along the shortest route to Berlin from the Oder, and at the same time menace the main railway and highway links between the German capital and Stettin, vital Baltic port for Berlin.

Drive in Decisive Stage.

Moscow, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—The war on the eastern front entered one of its most decisive stages today as Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov massed his First White Russian Army along the Oder River from north of Breslau to the area south of Stettin. There were no indications in Moscow as yet that Zhukov had tried to storm the Oder east of Berlin.

The big question was whether he would seek an immediate crossing, halt to build up his divisions and strengthen his lines of communications, or perhaps pause to allow the First Ukraine Army to go into action south of him.

There are about eighteen railway bridges between Stettin and Breslau—at least fifteen of them are believed standing. The Germans have mined them and those not already destroyed could be sent sky-high at a moment's notice.

The main crossings are at Kustrin and Frankfort and so far as is known both bridges are still intact as the last Nazis are being driven across them from the east. The Germans are gambling with time until the last moment.

A thaw has been reported over the eastern front and the mud and slush which followed the sudden rises in temperature are greatly hampering the movements of the Red Army.

All possibility of taking tanks—even light ones—across the Oder River ice has gone and front reports indicated that infantry, also, would not be able to cross except by bridge or barge.

Yanks Through Siegfried Line

Strike Within Three Miles of Prum Against Weak Resistance.

SEIZE 2 ROER DAMS

Bradley Resumes Command of First Army; 10,000 Nazis Trapped.

PARIS, Feb. 6—(AP)—The U. S. Third Army smashed clear through the Siegfried Line today, knocked out a key communications center before Prum, and struck to within three and a half miles of that western German mountain stronghold against an astounding lack of resistance.

The battle of western Germany was taking a more ominous turn for the enemy, as the First Army to the north—which by one front account yesterday breached the Westwall where it divides into two defense belts—seized control of two vital Roer river dams.

Bradley Given Old Post

Supreme headquarters disclosed that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, skilled architect of the Normandy breakthrough, once more was in command of these operations, with the First Army again back in his 12th Army group.

The U. S. Ninth Army remained under Field Marshal Montgomery, who took over the First and Ninth when the Ardennes breakthrough split Bradley's group and left him in command only of the Third Army.

This arrangement possibly was reached in preparation for future joint British and American operations against an enemy weakened by 1,260,000 West front casualties since D-Day. SHAEF in a review said German losses equalled the strength of 110 divisions.

(A late German broadcast insisted that a big scale offensive north and east of Aachen was imminent. The drumming of American artillery fire along the Roer was increasing in intensity, it said, and "strong masses of troops" were arriving.)

As the whole front stirred restlessly, U. S. tanks and French colonial infantry slammed the door of escape on German forces in southern Alsace. Supreme headquarters reports indicated at first they might total 10,000 but a front dispatch said they probably would be nearer 1,000.

Simultaneously, the French First army, loaded with American units, swung south and cut the main escape road for enemy forces boxed against the Rhine east of those cut off in the Vosges.

The Third army drive, as much as seven miles inside Germany, sent forces on the north wing all the way through the West wall at a point where it is a mile and a half wide. There were few casualties. German pillbox defenders, with little fight left, quickly surrendered.

Overrun Brandscheid

Overrun was the bunker and pillbox-studded communications center of Brandscheid, which had defied assaults when the First army invaded that area last September.

While Doughboys cleared rows of pillboxes and took 300 prisoners in reaching the town from the north, other forces speared on a mile east of Brandscheid to within three and a half miles of Prum, big fortified communications center supplying the West wall.

It was through Prum that the main force of Germans streamed in the Ardennes break-through, and it was along the roads into and beyond the city that they were lashed by Allied air might as they retreated.

A front dispatch said the Third army's penetration all the way through the West wall came four and a half miles northwest of Prum, where the Doughboys drove through the dense Schnee Eifel forest.

They found the permanent fortifications to be about a mile and a half deep there, and ahead of them now were only scattered bunkers and pillboxes. Previously Third army troops south of there had been reported about three miles from Prum.

While the eastward push of the U. S. First army, now entirely inside the Reich farther north was slowed, a gain of nearly two miles northeastward was threatening the system of five dams by which the Germans control the water level of the Roer, main barrier to the Cologne plain.

Vanguards of the 78th Infantry division 17 miles southeast of Aachen were battling up the west bank of the Roer and were about two miles from the largest of the dams. The 78th dominated a smaller dam and the Ninth division farther south had seized another.

Elsewhere on the Western front, British and Canadian patrols roved along the Maas river in Holland. Berlin said heavy American artillery fire and troop movements marked the Roer front facing Cologne.

The battle of southern Alsace was drawing swiftly to a close.

After the trap had been shut suddenly at 5:30 a.m. today on German forces in the Vosges, French and American units opened the assault on larger enemy units which are backed against the Rhine and fighting furiously.

Smash toward Rhine

Elements of the U. S. 21st corps with the French First army stormed across the highway leading to the Rhine bridge one mile west of fallen Neufbrisach while other forces surged across a mile east of the city and fought into Volgelsheim.

The southbound U. S. 12th armored division—disclosed for the first time to be in action—met the northbound French Fourth Moroccan mountain infantry division this morning at Rouffach, eight miles south of Colmar.

Germans west of them found themselves in a 15-mile wide sack with French and American troops closing relentlessly.

Germans east of them were boxed against the Rhine and were racing back into the Reich, saved from the usual aerial scourging by the arrival of low rain clouds which blanketed the entire Western front.

30.24-22709

French and American forces met furious resistance, but they captured Neufbrisach near the Rhine due east of Colmar, and Wolfgantzen, a mile to the west straddling the main railroad.

The box was roughly 10 miles wide and 15 miles long, extending from Neufbrisach southward to east of Mulhouse.

The drive by four of Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army divisions as deep as 13 miles in western Germany menaced two key communications centers in the Monschau area southeast of Aachen 28 miles from the Rhine.

Supreme headquarters said it had no confirmation of front dispatches yesterday that the Ninth infantry division had broken all the way through the Westwall due east of Monschau.

But it reported the Second division just south of the Ninth was fighting inside the last one- to two-mile wide belt of the Westwall, was three-fourths of a mile from Schleiden, one of the communications centers, and two miles from the second at Gemund, three [illegible] north.

3 NAZI DIVISIONS TRAPPED IN VOSGES BY ALLIED TROOPS

U. S. Tanks and Moroccans Cut Colmar Pocket in Half by an Eight-mile Gain.

Paris, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—American tanks and French Moroccan mountain troops cut the Colmar pocket in two today, trapping elements of perhaps three German divisions in the Vosges mountains, south of Strasbourg. American tanks of Major-Gen. Frank W. Milburn's Twenty-first Corps crashed down from south of Colmar while the Moroccans advanced from north of Mulhouse in a combined gain of eight miles. The pocket, reduced to less than 200 square miles by midnight, was virtually erased and the threat to Strasbourg from the south was ended.

In the center of the western front, where the American First Army has penetrated the Siegfried Line, infantry captured one of the Roer River headwater dams and won high ground controlling another. The Americans were fighting thirteen miles inside Germany in the Schnee Eifel (Snow Mountain) and were within a mile of Gemund and Schleiden, Siegfried Line Bastions at the eastern edge of the last West Wall fortifications. Battle dispatches said that the line had been broken clear through between the German towns at a point twenty-eight miles from the Rhine city of Bonn and sixteen from the communications hub of Euskirchen.

3d Army Gains

As the 1st Army hacked away at the last concrete zone of the double Siegfried Line, the 3d Army just south drove a mile and a half into the single belt defenses against only mediocre resistance. The 3d was six miles inside Germany and 3½ miles from Prum, a Siegfried fortress.

As many as 10,000 Germans were perhaps doomed by the severance of the Colmar pocket. Maj. Gen. Roderick Allen's 12th Hellcat Armored Division linked up with the 4th Moroccan Mountain Division of the French 1st Corps this morning at Rouffach, midway between Colmar and Cernay. The Hellcats are the third division fighting in the 21st Corps, at present under French 1st Army command.

West of the cutoff was a collapsing German circle about 15 miles across. To the east the Germans were jammed into a box against the Rhine, about 10 miles wide and extending 19 miles along the river from besieged Neuf Brisach to a point east of Mulhouse.

The 9th Division captured the Urtalsperre dam and closed up along the southern side of the Urft Reservoir.

West Side Of Roer Reached

The 78th Lightning Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Edwin C. Parker, reached the west side of the Roer River in an advance east from Ruhrberg and occupied high ground controlling the little Pauluoff dam.

The biggest dam is at Hansfeld, tor or three miles ahead of American lines. The five water barriers control levels on the Roer River, behind which the Germans say General Eisenhower has massed 60 to 70 divisions for an imminent drive toward Cologne and the Ruhr.

Low clouds and rain curtailed flying to a few reconnaissance missions.

Dozen Alsace Towns Taken

Fighting within a mile of Neuf-Brisach, the United States 21st Corps repeatedly shelled the steel and concrete railroad bridge across the Rhine. More than a dozen Alsatian towns, including Cernay, were taken.

The 1st Army front, like that of the United States 9th Army along the Roer to the north within 20 miles of Cologne, was wholly inside Germany.

Supreme headquarters had no confirmation of field reports that the 1st Army had burst into the open beyond the last Siegfried fortifications. At places other than the spot where the clean break was reported, the 1st Army was fighting in the last mile stretch of the second section of the Siegfried Line.

Nazi Shrine Overrun

Moving to the Erft Lake, the 1st Army overran the Nazi shrine and officers training camp of Vogelcamp, often visited by Hitler, and captured its cluster of barracks 60 per cent intact.

The capture of Vogelcamp constituted a blow to Hitler's hopes of perpetuating the Nazi order after his death. It was here, in tier after tier of barracks, that the Nazis trained their future leaders and, lately fledgling officers. A "Tower of Wisdom" had been erected in the center of the camp where Hitler had intended to deposit his most confidential memoirs.

Hitler once said that he put the training camp near the western boundary of Germany "because the Reich frontiers will soon be expanded and Vogelcamp will not be at the edge but in the center of the empire."

Altogether, four divisions of the 1st Army were pouring through breaches of the western belt of Siegfried Line fortifications and closing up to the eastern chain of concrete positions on a 12-mile front.

Though storms and freezing rain made observation difficult, RAF heavy bombers overnight battered Bonn while smaller bombers attacked railway targets in the great triangle formed by Hamm, Cologne and Coblenz. They extended their attacks back to Hannover and Magdeburg.

Battleground Now Slush

A thaw was turning the battleground into slush. Clouds were barely treetop high this morning and rain in the north and fog all the way south to the Schnee Forest [illegible] handicapped operations.

British and Canadian troops at the extreme northern end of the Western front stepped up their patrolling along the Maas River, from south of Venlo to the Nijmegen bend.

The 3d Army, fighting south of the 1st, in its current operations had overrun 65 square miles of Germany, pressing 5 miles inside the Reich on a 13-mile front. It had penetrated the Siegfried Line at three places.

Resistance was only moderate and the 3d Army again found some pillboxes unmanned. Only sporadic German artillery fire was reported.

Lt. Gen. Bradley Resumes Command Over First Army

By WES GALLAGHER

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, Jan. 19—(Delayed by Censorship) Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley resumed command today over the U. S. First army—separated from his 12th army group by the Ardennes break-through—but the U. S. Ninth army will remain under Field Marshal Montgomery.

Bradley's group before the break-through consisted of the U. S. First, Third, and Ninth, but when the break-through split those forces, Montgomery took over command of the First and Ninth.

Follows Link of Forces

The return of the First army to Bradley's group followed a linking of the First and Third armies around Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt's Belgian bulge, from which British troops now are withdrawn.

There was no official explanation of why the Ninth army remains under Montgomery's control, but it is presumably for future military operations in which British, Canadian and American forces will work as one unit.

At present there is no strategic reason why American Army commands should remain split, because the Ninth army front has been dormant since the break-through in southern Belgium.

Gen. Eisenhower frequently has placed American forces under British control for specific operations, such as the final break-through in Tunisia in 1943 and the original Normandy landings.

It has been his policy, however, to keep Americans under American control and British under British control whenever possible because of the conflict of terms of language, supply difficulties, and the fundamental differences in military training.

Months before the break-through there was talk of placing another American army in Montgomery's 21st army group, which has been an Army group almost in name only. The British Second and Canadian First armies put together would form only one large army.

Placing of the Ninth under Montgomery evens up roughly the number of men and divisions placed under the three groups—Bradley's 12th, Montgomery, 21st and Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Dever's Sixth, which embraces the U. S. Seventh and French First armies.

Such equalization allows for a greater element of surprise along the long Western front.

Formerly the German High command could devote most of its attention to the 12th army group, which controlled by far the greatest number of troops on the Western front.

Surrender Not Anticipated If Berlin Falls

Allied Headquarters, Paris, Feb. 5 (AP)—While fall of Berlin to the advancing Red Army would seriously impair Germany's capacity for continued resistance, there seems little disposition here to believe that it would result in outright surrender.

Adolf Hitler's last speech on the anniversary of his ascendance to power shows how little inclined he is to call it quits, even in the hour of imminent collapse. Nazi control of Germany and SS (Elite Guard) domination of the army still are unbroken.

Isolated Strongpoints

The loss of Berlin probably would result in disintegration of the Nazi command and reduce fortress Germany into a series of isolated strongpoints.

While a formal surrender offer from the German Government is not anticipated, there is still the possibility that a group may arise to represent the German people in an attempt to salvage something from the wreckage.

No one here is inclined to believe that such a group could actually oust the Nazis. But, conceivably, it could create enough internal trouble to permit the Allies to smash in and enforce a revolution by weight of arms.

GERMANS QUIT TOWN FAST

Leave Nennig as Americans Near Without Waiting to Eat

NENNIG, Germany, Feb. 5 (AP)—This German town twelve miles southeast of Luxembourg City and a mile and a half inside the Reich was inhabited tonight solely by Americans.

German civilians hastily left without bag or baggage as the Ninety-fourth Infantry Division approached. Some took off so fast they did not eat food on the tables.

There is not much left of Nennig, once a thriving little community of several hundred citizens within sight of the Moselle River. More than anything it resembles a toy run over by a ten-ton truck.

The Americans, under the command of Maj. Gen. Harry J. Malony of Dundee, N. Y., do not feel at all sad about the fate of Nening. They have seen too many French villages ripped apart.

REMAINING JAPS FACE DESTRUCTION IN CAPTURED CITY

'Japan Final Goal,' General Says in Revealing Reconquest of Capital.

PRISON CAMPS FREED

Three Yank Columns Strike for Kill, Enemy Retreats to Corregidor.

MANILA, Tuesday, Feb. 6.—(AP) Manila, America's bright jewel of the Orient, was reconquered today.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur officially proclaimed its liberation as three Yank columns from north, south and east struck for the kill against any Japanese left in the city. He said "complete destruction" of the enemy is imminent.

Freedom came to 800 prisoners of war and 550 civilian internees at Filthy, torture-chambered Bilibid penitentiary. Released from the vermin-infested prison by 37th division Yanks, they made a total of about 5,500 when added to others liberated earlier at Santo Tomas by the First Cavalry division.

"Japan Final Goal"

"Japan is our final goal," General MacArthur said in his statement officially announcing the reconquest of the city which the Japanese occupied Jan. 2, 1942, one week after it was proclaimed an "open city."

The doom of any lingering Nipponese was sealed when the 11th Airborne division of the Eighth Army, which earlier seized Tagaytay ridge by paratroop action, rolled 35 miles to enter Manila from the south.

The First Cavalry made the original entry Saturday night from the east, followed by the 37th from the north. Both are elements of the Sixth army.

The First cavalrymen who held the cordon around Santo Tomas were joined yesterday by reinforcing columns, thus easing the situation there and assuring complete liberation of the internees there.

Troops pouring into the city were hampered in their movements by throngs of returning civilians, many carrying their belongings.

Bridges still were being rebuilt at the outskirts and crossings there had to be denied to thousands of civilians to permit military use of temporary bridges and ferries.

The damming up of crowds behind the rivers gave the military police a 24-hour headache as they tried to keep essential traffic flowing.

American Liberators began the spadework on the next jo[illegible], recapture of Cavite naval base, on the south shore of Manila bay and Corregidor island at the bay's mouth, by raiding both in great force Sunday.

"The fall of Manila was the end of one great phase and set the stage for another," MacArthur said.

"We shall not rest until our enemy is completely overthrown. We do not count anything done as long as anything remains to be done. . . . Our motto becomes 'on to Tokyo'."

Will Continue Campaign

The wording of MacArthur's statement could be interpreted as a bid for continuing command in the campaigns against Japan proper and a move to spike rumors that the Philippines would be the end of the road for the general.

The official proclamation made it clear a lightning cleanup could be expected.

Johnny Doughboy thus won the city back 28 days after the landing at Lingayen gulf and 80 days after the original Philippines landing at Leyte.

The three-way push left the Japanese no avenue of escape other than in the direction of Manila bay, an area under the constant bombsights of American planes.

ABSIE, American Broadcasting Station in Europe, quoted an NBC broadcast as saying the Japanese are withdrawing to Corregidor).

One temporary haven could be Bataan peninsula, where Americans and Filipinos made their heroic stand in 1942. Today's communique announced Eighth and Sixth army columns have junctured at the base of the peninsula and control all roads leading into it.

Capture Prison Camp

The Yank troops captured ancient Bilibid penitentiary in the heart of Manila and liberated 800 military prisoners and 500 civilians still held there. Only yesterday they liberated 3,700 civilian prisoners at the Santo Tomas camp.

MacArthur's communique today said a total of approximately 5,050 prisoners of war and civilian internees now had been released. Four thousand of these are Americans and the balance British, Dutch, Australians and other nationals.

MacArthur said every facility of the armed forces was being devoted to the care and attention of the rescued, and their names would be made pub[illegible]s quickly as they can be tabula[illegible]

The Japanese blew up the bridges in a futile effort to halt the American advance into the southern half Manila.

Bilibid penitentiary was such a filthy hole just before the war started that the Philippine government abandoned it as a penal institution.

Yet the Japanese confined thousands of American military and civilian prisoners in the vermin-ridden stone structure.

On the western Luzon front the Americans gained complete control of the base of the Bataan peninsula, trapping any Japanese in that area. The peninsula was sealed off as the American forces from Zambales on the west joined other Yanks coming west from San Fernando in Pampanga province.

The Japanese in the Cagayan valley of northeast Luzon, figured at many thousand strong, were definitely sealed into that area when American troops took the town of San Jose and also captured Balete pass, southern doorway to the valley.

Enemy Being Mopped Up

MacArthur, announcing the knockout punches against the Manila Japanese, said "our forces are rapidly cleaning the enemy from Manila.

"Our converging columns of the First Cavalry division from the east, the 37th Infantry division from the north and the Eleventh Airborne division from the south, after an overnight 35-mile advance from Tagaytay, simultaneously entered the city and surrounded the Japanese defenders.

MacArthur said "two of the four bridges over the Pasig river — the Quezon and the Ayala—were blown up by the enemy in a futile effort to block our advance."

Elements of the First (motorized) Cavalry division, culminating a spectacular 144-mile dash in a little more than 60 hours, were the first into Manila, entering Saturday night and spearing directly into the Santo Tomas internment camp. The 37th Division entered the capital from the north after capturing the Grace Park airdrome.

The Eleventh Airborne division drive took on fresh impetus Friday when the 511th paratroop regiment floated to earth and captured Tagaytay ridge which commands roads to the Cavite Naval base and Manila itself.

The Eleventh Airborne troops, finding no natural obstacles such as the wide and deep Pasig river which hindered the drive from the north, rolled straight into Manila down a fine highway.

In support of the ground operations, American heavy bombers raked the Cavite Naval base and Corregidor fortress at the entrance to Manila bay while attack planes swept enemy-held airdromes south of the capital city.

THREE YANK FORCES RING JAPS IN CITY

1,300 More Captives Released From Bilibid Prison

NIGHT Extra!

New York, Feb. 5—The Japanese are withdrawing from Manila to Corregidor, ABSIE, the American Broadcasting Station in Europe, said tonight in a broadcast reported by NBC.

MacArthur's Headquarters, Central Luzon, Tuesday, Feb 6. (AP)—Liberating Yanks have entered Manila from the south to join others from the north and east in a three-way clamp dooming the Japanese there and 1,350 more Allied war prisoners and civilians have been liberated by seizure of Bilibid penitentiary.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today the destruction of the Nipponese is imminent within the city where Bilibid and its torture chambers were emptied of a throng which was added to the more than 3,700 freed at Santo Tomas, ten blocks north of the filthy prison.

Rapidly Clearing City

MacArthur announced the Yanks "are rapidly clearing the enemy from Manila," first entered Saturday night by 1st Cavalry Division troops, which rescued Santo Tomas internees.

He said the Japanese inside the city were surrounded by three American forces, the 1st Cavalry Division from the east, the 37th Infantry from the north and the 11th Airborne troops from the south.

All these forces have entered the city. The paratroopers reached Manila after a 35-mile drive from Tagaytay ridge.

Total Freed Up To 5,050

The Yank troops captured ancient Bilibid penitentiary in the heart of Manila and liberated 800 military prisoners and 500 civilians still held there. Only yesterday they liberated 3,700 civilian prisoners at the Santo Tomas camp.

MacArthur's communiqué today said a total of approximately 5,050 prisoners of war and civilian internees now had been released. Four thousand of these are Americans and the balance British, Dutch, Australians and other nationals.

MacArthur said every facility of the armed forces was being devoted to the care and attention of the rescued, and their names would be made public as quickly as they can be tabulated.

Two Bridges Blown Up

Two of the main bridges spanning the Pasig River through the center of Manila were blown up by the enemy. These were the beautiful Quezon bridge and a structure named the Ayala to the south.

The Japanese blew up the bridges in a futile effort to halt the American advance into the southern half of Manila.

Bilibid penitentiary was such a filthy hole just before the war started that the Philippine Government abandoned it as a penal institution. Yet the Japanese confined thousands of American military and civilian prisoners in the vermin-ridden stone structure.

Civilians Hamper Troops

The 1st Cavalrymen who held the cordon around Santo Tomas were joined yesterday by reinforcing columns.

Troops pouring into the city were hampered in their movements by throngs of returning civilians, many carrying their belongings.

Bridges still were being rebuilt at the outskirts and crossings there had to be denied to thousands of civilians to permit military use of temporary bridges and ferries.

The damming up of crowds behind the rivers gave the military police a 24-hour headache as they tried to keep essential traffic flowing.

On the western Luzon front the Americans gained complete control of the base of the Bataan Peninsula, trapping any Japanese in that area. The peninsula was sealed off as the American forces from Zambales, on the west, joined other Yanks coming west from San Fernando, in Pampanga province.

General MacArthur said troops driving westward from San Fernando and eastward from the Zimbales-coast beachhead had effected a junction at Dinalupihan, and "we control all roads leading into Bataan."

The Japanese in the Cagayan Valley of Northeast Luzon, figured at many thousand strong, were definitely sealed into that area when American troops took the town of San Jose and also captured Balete Pass, southern doorway to the valley.

Destroy 25 Jap Tanks

The Americans who cut the road leading into Balete Pass engaged a Japanese force at Lupao and destroyed 25 enemy tanks, pillboxes artillery pieces and trucks in reducing a Japanese strong point at the highway junction of Munoz.

Elements of the 1st (motorized) Cavalry Division culminating a spectacular 144-mile dash in a little more than 60 hours, were the first into Manila, entering Saturday night and spearing directly into the Santo Tomas internment camp. The 37th Division entered the capital from the north after capturing the Grace Park airdrome.

The 11th Airborne Division drive took on fresh impetus Friday when the 511th Paratroop Regiment floated to earth and captured Tagaytay ridge which commands roads to the Cavite naval base and Manila itself.

The 11th Airborne troops, finding no natural obstacles such as the wide and deep Pasig river which hindered the drive from the north, rolled straight into Manila down a fine highway.

Bomb Cavite And Corregidor

In support of the ground operations, American heavy bombers raked the Cavite naval base and Corregidor fortress at the entrance to Manila bay while attack planes swept enemy-held airdromes south of the capital city.

American patrol planes ranging the China coast sank two small freighters off Amoy and strafed parked aircraft at the Swatow airdrome near by. Fires were started at Takao, on southwestern Formosa, and a fuel-laden coastal ship sunk off the coast.

An additional 733 Japanese were reported killed or found dead on Leyte Island, where the total was announced as 131,000 last week.

division forces controlled the northern part of Manila a few hours after entering the city late Saturday night, and Sunday penetrated as far south as the wide and deep Pasig River, which divides the city.

The First Cavalry Yanks, in an encircling move by night, speared immediately to the Santo Tomas internment camp from the east and liberated about 3,700 civilian prisoners, mainly American women and children, held there since May 1, 1942.

Room-To-Room Fight

A sharp fight, in which all the Japanese guards were killed, preceded the deliverance of the Santo Tomas internees. Fighting raged in some buildings from room to room for a time.

Sixty-nine American nurses and army medical technicians, heroines of Bataan and Corregidor were among those liberated. So were 32 members of the clergy and Dominican faculty of Santo Tomas University whose campus held thousands of captive men, women and children of many nationalities and all creeds.

Only last Tuesday night 513 American and British prisoners of war were freed from a stockade at Cabanatuan, 60 miles to the north in a daring raid by American Rangers and Filipino guerrillas.

First Cavalry units also seized Malacanan Palace, former governmental headquarters of the Philippine Commonwealth, finding no Japanese officials there.

Yanks of the 37th Division entered the capital from the north and pushed cautiously through the northern suburbs after capturing Grace Park airdrome.

Jap Admission

dash of some 144 miles in a little more than 60 hours down a highway that skirts the central Luzon plain on the east.

The Japanese offered no major stand in the northern half of Manila, just as they failed to oppose in force Gen. Douglas MacArthur's 120-mile push down the central Luzon plain from the Lingayen Gulf beachhead established just 26 days before.

This advance was co-ordinated with invasions along the west coast northwest and southwest of Manila last week.

Matched Foe's Feat

Nipponese troops also took just 26 days to enter the city from their beachheads to the southwest at the start of the war, but at that time Manila was declared an open city a week before the enemy stepped in.

MacArthur was prevented by a dynamited bridge from entering the city with one of the first spearheads. He turned back to find another route.

The northern section of Manila was taken fairly intact, Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson wrote.

"A few buildings were smashed and burned," he said, "but on the whole that part of Manila was not greatly damaged. However, off in the distance we could see huge fires and columns of smoke. The dock area was burning fiercely."

A heavy pall of smoke was over Manila all day Sunday.

Parachute Landing

The newest threat to Manila was the 11th Airborne's neat parachute landing on Tagaytay Ridge, southwest of the capital, just ahead of the Yanks who invaded the Batangas province beach last Wednesday.

Elements of the 511th Paratroop Regiment floated to earth just 32 miles from Manila in an operation that caught the enemy completely by surprise. Soon they were only 18 miles from Manila.

Associated Press Correspondent C. Yates McDaniel said these paratroopers and the two infantry divisions behind them could well deal Manila's Japanese defenders the knockout blow, "for their road from the south crosses no formidable river barriers and leads straight to the back door of the city."

River Could Be Barrier

The Pasig river could be a serious barrier for the forces pressing south.

Great crowds of Filipinos jammed Manila's streets to cheer their liberators. The Filipinos gave the Americans a rousing welcome, some weeping for joy, others lustily crying "Victory!" "The Americans

Correspondent Hampson said a toothless woman in a ragged gown grabbed the hand of a regimental colonel and kissed it, muttering "God bless you, sir!"

The colonel turned to his men and said: "There is an answer to Japan's dream of empire! After three years of the Orient for the Orientals, these Orientals kiss our hands and say 'God bless the Americans.'"

[President Roosevelt sent a message to Philippine President Sergio Osmena saying that "the American people rejoice with me in the liberation of your capital." The message was made public at the White House.]

Aerial Observation

While explosions and fires could be heard and seen across the Pasig River, aerial observers already flying light planes off the captured Grace Park airdrome said they saw no evidence of attempted wholesale destruction by the enemy.

Most of the Pasig River bridges were still intact, but crossing them presented a hazardous undertaking.

MANILA CLOUD OUTLASTS JAPS

Manila, P. I., Feb. 4 (Delayed) (A. P.).—A black thunderhead hovered over Manila all day today. It never moved. But the Japanese did.

MacArthur's Slogan Now Is 'On to Tokyo'

By The Associated Press.

ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, on Luzon, Tuesday, Feb. 6—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, hailing the "fall of Manila," said in a statement today:

"The fall of Manila was the end of one great phase of the Pacific struggle and set the stage for another.

"We shall not rest until our enemy is completely overthrown.

"We do not count anything done as long as anything remains to be done.

"We are well on the way, but Japan itself is our final goal.

"With Australia saved, the Philippines liberated and the ultimate redemption of the East Indies and Malaya thereby made a certainty, our motto becomes: 'On to Tokyo!'

"We are ready in this veteran and proven command when called upon.

"May God speed the day!"

'M'ARTHUR'S GREAT HOUR'

Australians Offer Acclaim on Entry Into Manila

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 5 (AP)—Australians today acclaimed the American entry into Manila as "MacArthur's great hour."

But Prime Minister John Curtin cautioned that, while the "enemy still holds a grip on many millions of enslaved peoples, the homeland of Japan still stands. Australia's rejoicing can best be expressed by complete devotion to duty until the last blow is struck."

Chungking Sees Blow To Free China Soon

CHUNGKING, Feb. 5 (AP).—This war-time capital was jubilant today at the news of the American entry into Manila. The event aroused fresh hope of early succor for China.

The official "Central Daily News" said this American success meant that Formosa or China might soon become an American battlefield. Unofficial quarters predicted that both Canton and Hong Kong would be retaken within the next six months.

Grew Expects Manila To Spur Jap Fighting

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, said today he believes the impact of Manila's fall will spur the Japanese to even greater effort.

At the same time he issued to his news conference a statement saying that "the remainder of the enemy-occupied areas in the Philippines are certain to be soon liberated."

Praising Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his officers and men, the statement added:

"The fortitude, courage and loyalty of Filipino people in their suffering and deprivation imposed upon them by the enemy have won the admiration of every American and of freedom-loving people everywhere."

Entry Into Manila Right On Schedule

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Yanks entered Manila right on schedule.

It can be disclosed now that February 4 had been known among highest War Department officials for many days as the date General MacArthur's schedule called for. MacArthur's formal announcement was flashed to the United States at 6.01 P.M. Sunday.

U.S. MAY DROP LUZON BASES

Navy Believed Looking For Ports To The South

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Luzon has lost its importance for the Navy, and the great bases there probably will not be rebuilt to their former status.

Although the Navy has played a major role in the battle to recapture Luzon, its interest essentially is in restoring use of the island as a base for army and naval aviation. The Navy's attention now is believed to be directed toward building a base or bases somewhere in the southern part of the Philippine group. There several excellent, deep-water anchorages exist—out of the typhoon belt.

On Luzon, when the Japanese captured that main island of the Philippines, were two naval bases. Cavite, a few miles southwest of Manila, then was the "Pearl Harbor" of the Western Pacific.

Important Base

A secondary but important base was at Olongapo in Subic Bay, on the west coast.

Naval experts say that even if control of Luzon had been retained, the bases probably would have lost their importance for the simple fact that the modern fleet would have outgrown the facilities. Manila Bay is too shoal to provide any extensive anchorage for a big force of modern battle craft with ships drawing up to 35 feet of water.

Luzon, however, will continue to be of immense value for aviation. Planes operating from its big airfields will have within their range the waters of the South China Sea through which Japanese traffic normally flows.

Cleanup Job

Once Luzon is secured, Filipino guerrillas probably will be given the job of cleaning out the Japanese from Philippine islands where American groups are not now established, military authorities said today.

With the possible exception of Mindanao, already largely held by guerrillas, the other islands were described as not strategically important to the Pacific campaign. By leaving them to the guerrillas, large numbers of American troops would be saved for more important assignments.

The guerrillas presumably would be armed and supplied by the American Army.

1,350 More Prisoners Liberated in Manila

Yanks Seize Bilibid Prison Bringing Total Released to 5,050.

By DEAN SCHEDLER AND FRED HAMPSON

SANTO TOMAS PRISON CAMP, Manila, Tuesday, Feb. 6—(AP) Liberating American troops freed some 1,350 American and Allied nationals from Bilibid prison in Manila Sunday after releasing 3,700 from this former university internment camp.

This brought the total released since the troops entered Manila Saturday to 5,050.

Of those freed at Bilibid, 800 were prisoners of war and 500 were civilian internees.

Majority Americans

Most of those released at the two places were Americans. The next largest group were British and Australians.

They were all half-starved, including women and children, after three years of Japanese captivity.

Troopers of the motorized First cavalry, who entered the Santo Tomas gates Saturday night behind a tank that knocked down the barrier, quickly emptied their packs to give the prisoners food, tobacco and candy.

The cavalrymen, hardened as they were by sights and sounds of war, were shocked at the emaciated condition of some of the prisoners. All were thin and weak from malnutrition.

Packs were turned over immediately, with rations, cigarettes and candy. These served as emergency relief until the arrival of a caravan of supplies, already rolling down the highway to Manila, for the released internees.

The work of evacuating them to other quarters was started almost at once.

Most of the prisoners were free the instant the tank smashed the gate, after the commander had shouted: "Open the goddam thing or I'm coming in anyway."

Japanese guards still in the camp retreated into the education building of the former Santo Tomas university, taking more than 200 internees with them as hostages. These were released 34 hours later in a truce exchange.

In order to save the internees, Brig. Gen. William C. Chase of Providence, R. I., commanding the First Cavalry brigade which made the rescue, allowed the 65 Japanese guards to leave. They were escorted to the edge of Manila and released.

The prisoners near the gate appeared almost afraid to hope when the tank—its white star marking and 75 MM gun serving as symbols of freedom—crashed into the enclosure.

Then, as from a single throat, a great cry arose. It was an agonized prayer of thanks and a shrill scream of welcome.

A sharp struggle took place as the Japanese retreated with their hostages. Some cavalrymen and prisoners were injured.

Physicians among the prisoners said their food allowances dwindled as the war turned against the Japanese. The death rate rose sharply, the major cause being starvation, in the last few months.

There was a somber note to the story, a forewarning to relatives of those who failed to survive the three years of confinement.

Names to Be Released Soon

(The list of prisoners freed will be announced by the War department from Washington, as soon as relatives of military personnel and civilian employes of the Army and Navy are notified).

Among the rescued were 69 American Army nurses and medical technicians, who had been captured with the fall of Bataan and Corregidor.

There also were 32 members of the clergy, including the dominican faculty at Santa Tomas university.

Some of the men prisoners had lost as much as 100 pounds. The average loss among them was 51 pounds. The average among the women was 32 pounds. The children were spindle legged and pale.

Other evidences of malnutrition included swollen legs and ankles.

The prisoners said they had lived almost entirely on rice, camotes (resembling sweet potato roots) and garbage can salvage.

(Raoul Bergman, mining engineer of Manx, N. D., was quoted in a Blue network broadcast by correspondent Arthur Feldman as saying the Japanese told prisoners "unless we give you more food you'll starve and we don't care if you do."

This was the largest number of Allied nationals held by the enemy anywhere in the South Pacific. The delivery followed by a few days the release of more than 500, mostly American Army and Navy prisoners, from a camp north of Manila by Army Rangers and scouts.

9 Newsmen Liberated

Nine newspapermen were among the first internees freed. They rushed out eager for news of the world. Roy Bennett, editor of the Manila Bulletin, wanted to know if the Bulletin building still stood.

The others were: Ford Wilkins, former Associated Press man and city editor of the Bulletin; David Boguslav, the city editor of the Manila Tribune; Allen Hammond, Reuters (British) news agency; Robert Crabb, United Press; Theodore Rogers and McCulough Vick of the Bulletin; Don Bell, Manila news and radio man, and Jack Percival, Sydney (Australia) Morning Herald.

Three former prisoners, who had been exchanged, were back as war correspondents to report the rescue. They were Russell Brines of the Associated Press, Royal Arch Gunneson, Mutual radio reporter, and Carl Mydans of Life magazine.

Frank Hewlett, United Press correspondent, who escaped capture by fleeing from Corregidor, was back to rejoin his wife, one of the internees.

Liberation of the first internees from Santo Tomas took place well before the occupation of major sections of Manila.

The blasting of bridges delayed the advance of the main column of cavalry and 37th infantry division into the city.

Lt. Col. Haskett L. Conner, 28-year-old Indianan, and Maj. James Gerheardt of Santa Fe, N. M., led the motorized cavalry patrol that broke into Santo Tomas.

Manila Captives Set Free As Tank Crashes Gate

Santo Tomas Prison Camp, Manila, Feb. 5 (AP)—Liberty was a steel tank with a 75-mm. gun for a a torch and a white star on its tempered flank.

The driver slipped the clutch and Liberty idled before the chained gate of this war prison which held some 3,700 men, women and children of the United Nations.

"Open up" roared the tank commander.

No Response

No hand appeared to slip the gate's bolts.

"Open the goddam thing or I'm coming anyway!" the commander shouted. Again the order brought no response.

Inside the prison a low speculative murmur had risen to a crescendo of cries with overtones of fear and doubt and hope. The prisoners sensed that this was not just another of the inexplicable Japanese orgies. The voice beyond the gate was American and contained a resolution of its own kind. But the gate did not open.

"Be Sure They're Japs"

"Go on in," the tank commander directed, quietly, "but don't shoot unless you have to. And be sure they're Japs!"

The snorting tank pushed against the gate. The engine clattered. The gate groaned, cracked and crashed under the treads.

Prisoners, gaunt, hollow-eyed, afraid of their own hopes, poured from the buildings. In the gathering dusk they saw this was an American tank. And as from a single throat they poured out an agonizing cry of relief and thanks and welcome.

Tank Stops On Gate

There was a pause as if they were still afraid to believe their eyes. The American tank stopped atop the twisted gate of Japanese bondage, and slowly the wretched captivity began slipping away from them.

On an upper floor of one of the houses on the campus, a Japanese prison commandant and his Formosan guards were ready for a last fight. The commandant, Colonel Hayashi, offered to surrender the prison in return for a guarantee of safe passage through the gates.

The tank commander answered Hayashi's messenger with: "Tell him nothing doing and I'll give him ten minutes."

Room-To-Room Fight

The Nipponese officer stood his ground and American troops of the 1st Cavalry Division swarmed into the building and began a room-to-room fight. Some prisoners were feared trapped with the Japanese. (Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced no prisoners or American troops were killed, although several were hurt.)

The Japanese held some prisoners as hostages. (There were 270 hostages, all later released.)

[A Blue network broadcast said the truce was finally arranged and 65 Japanese soldiers were escorted to a mile from Santo Tomas and were released.]

Other Tanks Pour In

Other tanks and dismounted cavalrymen poured into Santo Tomas. Almost 2,500 American prisoners engulfed them with embraces, kisses and handshakes.

All night long while the weary cavalrymen cleaned out the garrison, prisoners swarmed about them eager for a word of greeting and a touch of the hand of their countrymen after three years of suffering and the ignominy of captivity.

Behind the cavalrymen came Filipinos with a steadily growing roar of welcome.

Vitality Surprising

Buoyed by the liberation, the half-starved prisoners displayed a surprising and deceptive amount of vitality.

A more critical examination showed many of them bore evidence of malnutrition and illness. Among them were men who had lost as much as 100 pounds since internment. Most of the women were gaunt and carried deep marks of privation and insufficient food.

Doctors said the average loss of weight among adults was 51 pounds for the men and 32 for the women. With few exceptions, swollen legs and ankles gave evidence of deficient diet and health-breaking life under lock and key.

GI's Distribute Rations

The soldiers, startled at the welcome and the conditions of the prisoners, opened packs and distributed all of the rations they had along with cigarettes and candy. Cans of the formerly despised "bully" beef were actually fondled and shown off. Little fires sprung into life throughout the camp as prisoners hurried to warm and taste, for the first time in three years, something besides rice, namotes and garbage-can salvage.

Physicians among the internees said the death rate of late months had risen almost entirely from one cause—malnutrition.

One doctor said he was confined to his quarters for twenty days recently because he refused to sign a certificate ascribing a death to natural causes.

Press Internees Eager For News

By Dean Schedler

Manila, P.I., Feb. 3 [AP—Delayed]—Nine newspaper men who were among the first interests to rush out to greet us after a cavalry tank crashed through the Santo Tomas internment camp gates tonight were so eager to hear our news that it was hard for us to get them to tell us what we had come so far to find out.

They were Roy Bennett, editor of the Manila Bulletin; Ford Wilkins, former Associated Press man who was city editor of the Bulletin; David Boguslav, city editor of the Manila Tribune; Allen Hammond, Reuters; Robert Crabb, United Press; Theodore Rogers and McCulogh Vick, of the Bulletin; Don Bell, Manila newspaper man, and Jack Percival, correspondent of the Sydney (Australia) Morning Herald.

Bennett was so interested in trying to find out whether the Bulletin building was still standing and how long it would be before he could resume publication that he had little to say about eighteen months spent in "special confinement" or "investigation" by the Japanese.

Vick also had gone through "special" confinement, reserved for those whom the Japanese marked out for leisurely grilling.

Happiest reunion in the press-family at Santo Tomas tonight was between Frank Hewlett of the United Press, who was on Bataan in December 1941 and his wife who was cut off in Manila.

65 Jap Guards Freed To Save 213 Hostages

San Francisco, Feb. 5—Sixty-five Japanese soldier guards of Santo Tomas internment camp in Manila were granted freedom and escorted beyond American lines in order to save the lives of 213 internees they held as hostages, Arthur Feldman reported in a Blue Network broadcast from Santo Tomas today.

"With the rest of Santo Tomas in the hands of the 1st Cavalry and other internees being afraid, the Japs withdrew into the education building on the second and third floors with the internees," Feldman said.

Set Up Machine Guns

"They barricaded staircases and set up machine guns to cover entrances."

Lucien L. Rock, former Manila oil man, who was one of the hostages, was quoted by Feldman as saying "the Japanese privates inside were scared and wanted to surrender but the noncoms were tough about it."

Lieutenant Highest Rank

"Those internees," the broadcaster said, "were in the building with the Japs Saturday night and were there until Monday morning when, in order to save the internees lives, General Chase, of the 1st Cavalry (Brig. Gen. William C. Chase, of Providence, R.I.) allowed the Japs to go outside the city without being molested. The Japs left the building and were escorted by Americans to a mile from Santo Tomas.

"The highest ranking Jap in the group was a Lieutenant Shirati from the Japanese war prisoners headquarters who was in charge of feeding the internees and who was largely responsible for their starvation diet.

"Rock said: 'It's a damn shame that sneak got away.'

"The most pitiful sight here is seeing the frail, thin, spindle-legged children of the internees. Internees tell me their diet consisted of rice and salt water, and that the Japs delighted in slapping their faces and making them bow even to Jap civilians.

Convoy Nearing Manila

"A huge convoy of food, medicine and hospital equipment is now nearing Manila. Until the convoy arrives it's impossible to begin rehabilitation of the prisoners, who, while evidently not subjected to treatment as harsh as that undergone by military prisoners rescued at Cabanatuan, are badly in need of food and medicine.

"With rations cut by the Japs with each successive American victory in the Pacific, they were down to a mere handful of rice daily when we arrived.

"The Jap method of feeding is called 'scientific starvation' by Raoul Bergman, of Manx, N.D., a former mining engineer here. Bergman quoted the Japs as saying, 'Unless we give you more food you'll starve and we don't care if you do.'"

Japs Admit U.S. Entry Into Manila

San Francisco, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Japanese admitted today that American forces have entered Manila, the Federal Communications Commission reported.

The controlled Domei news agency said "part of the enemy forces managed to break into" Manila from the north at 5 P.M. Sunday.

The dispatch, directed to the United States, asserted Japanese troopers were "now furiously counterattacking in the vicinity of Santo Tomas University."

"Fierce Bombing"

Domei said Americans entered the Philippines capital "under cover of fierce bombing and shelling."

Another Domei dispatch admitted that about a regiment of United States paratroops landed at Tagaytay, south of Manila. The report asserted Japanese were "fiercely counterattacking" the paratroopers.

Yank Landing On Jolo Reported By Japs

San Francisco, Feb. 5—An unconfirmed Tokyo broadcast today said 3,000 American troops landed January 18 on Jolo Island, in the Philippines. Jolo is the largest of the Sulu group, lying midway between Mindanao and Borneo.

The broadcast claimed that up to January 27 the Japanese garrison on the island had inflicted casualties on the landing party "amounting to more than 300, the loss of one mountain gun, three amphibious tanks and twenty bivouacs, which were demolished."

The broadcast, recorded here, said the Yanks brought ten tanks ashore.

GERMAN OFFICIALS URGE PEOPLE NOT TO QUIT LEADERS

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP) Nazi authorities today urged Germans not to desert their present leaders and demanded "unconditional resistance" as the military situation grew worse and as neutral sources reported new internal clashes were occurring in the Reich.

Over news transmission services still intermittently chaotic after Saturday's devastating raid on Berlin by American bombers, Nazi military commentators reported a new offensive had been started across the Oder river by Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army in Silesia. The Germans also said further gains had been scored by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army closing in on the central Oder area 32 to 40 miles from Berlin.

Clashes Reported in Berlin

The Ankara radio reported that several clashes had occurred in still-smoking Berlin between the Gestapo and civilian peace rioters. The Ankara broadcast said that "in one clash 30 people, including several children, had been killed."

The Moscow radio also reported "numerous" clashes at the front between German army and SS formations, with the army men "killing SS officers and men who demanded futile resistance."

Berlin was proclaimed a "front line city" by labor front leader Dr. Robert Ley in a speech to arms workers reported by the German radio. "Everything has been done to make the capital ready for defense," he said, adding that "we know that even Wilsonian slogans can never achieve what Soviet tanks and the United States terror aircraft failed to achieve—the breaking of Germany's power of resistance."

The Ankara radio, commenting on these German preparations, said arms were issued even "to men as old as eighty."

Meanwhile, Nazi propagandists, attempting to stiffen the people against the expected "last surrender call" from the Big Three meeting, urged the masses not to desert them but to have only one slogan, "unconditional resistance."

Alfred Rosenberg, knocked out of his job as minister for German-occupied eastern territories by the Russian offensive, wrote in Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer that "Germany is face to face with its fate."

The German DNB agency, in an English broadcast, denounced Americans as "air war criminals" for raiding Berlin when it was refugee-packed.

Seek to Rally People

As Nazi leaders attempted to rally the German people, Stockholm reports said Nazi snipers in the northern towns of Germany were drilling "day and night" for the guerrilla warfare they reported hope to wage against the Allies in an effort to stave off a final decision in the war.

AP Correspondent Edwin Shanke in Stockholm said an estimated 3,000,000 refugees who struggled back from the east to Berlin, then on to Saxony and even as far back as Hamburg had upset the Nazis' carefully balanced food, clothing and fuel rationing as well as the transport system.

Fearful about foreign workers who might provoke the German people to strike and revolt, authorities in Hamburg, Bremen, Kiel, Lubeck, Rostock and other northern port cities are taking special precautions in these threatened areas, Swedish reports said.

Swedish correspondents reported that the rush of the Red army toward Berlin had caused the further withdrawal of German manpower from factories in order to bolster the front with Volkssturm battalions. The heads of the women's section of the German labor front have taken steps to replace these workers with women in a new call-up, they said.

Shanke reported that the German food situation is so serious that the press is filled with instructions on how to thaw and use frozen supplies and that the Germans have been told officially they must take a cut in rations. Similarly drastic measures have been taken in an effort to maintain German metal reserves, he said.

REICH FACES 1-3 REDUCTION

30.24-22713

Big 3 Ponder Border States' Annexation Demands

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—Claims on Germany territory by bordering nations which felt the first crushing blows of the Nazi armies would reduce Germany's pre-war territory by one third. Allied officials said today as it became generally accepted that the Big Three conference deciding the Reich's fate was under way.

The French telegraphic agency broadcast a report tonight that the Anglo-American-Soviet conference is being held at Sochi, a Russian resort town on the eastern shore of the Black Sea near the border of Stalin's home province of Georgia.

High on the agenda of the conference, it was believed, were the questions of border annexations, industrial supervision and the division of Germany for occupation by the various Allied armies—measures aimed at rendering Germany incapable of making war in the future.

Japs Fear Russian Blow

German propagandists still insisted that the meeting of Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin was being held somewhere on the Black Sea, possibly on a warship, and the Berlin radio reported today there was fear in Tokyo that Russia may enter the war against Japan as a result of the meeting.

The spheres of Allied military occupation were more or less agreed upon when the Big Three met, with French participation apparently the only issue left for agreement. The British, it was believed, would occupy Northwest Germany with the Ruhr Valley and the large seaports; the United States Army would occupy Southwest Germany and Russia would take over East and Northeast Germany. Austria and Berlin would be occupied jointly.

Six-Year Occupation At Least

Most observers believed the Big Three would consider occupying Germany for at least six years, possibly longer. Some quarters say the occupation must endure for at least a quarter of a century to teach Germans that war does not pay.

Before the three leaders were the claims of France, Poland and Czechoslovakia for border annexations and there was also the possibility that some German territory might go to Holland and Belgium. Moscow evidently favors Austria as an independent nation.

The provisional, Soviet-sponsored Polish Government now sitting in Warsaw has staked a claim to East Prussia and additional German territory east of the Oder River. France may claim all Germany west of the Rhine. Some quarters expressed belief it was likely that southern Schleswig and North Frisia would be awarded to Denmark as a move to internationalize the Kiel Canal.

Industrial Control Also Up

The problem of controlling Germany after the war includes the supervision of German industrial districts to prevent rearmament. Certain United States proposals made to the European Advisory Commission last December are understood to provide for the "complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries. These proposals called for wiping out the German aviation industry and control of German industries so they could not dominate European economy.

The European Advisory Commission has made available to the Big Three plans for controlling German finance both at home and abroad.

Nazis Say Tokyo Fears Results of Big 3 Meeting

Report Belief Russia Might Enter War in Pacific

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP).—The Berlin radio reported today that there was fear in Tokyo that Russia may enter the war against Japan as a result of the Big Three conference now generally believed to be in session.

"Undoubtedly the problem of common prosecution of the war against Japan is on the agenda of the Big Three, wrote the Japanese commentator of the newspaper "Asahi," as quoted by the German Transocean news agency. "Both Japan and the western powers are asking themselves what is Russia's position regarding the war against Japan since the war against Germany has entered its decisive phase.

"Just as in the war against Germany, a decision also must be reached in the war against Japan. For this reason we must keep our attention especially focused on this point today more than ever before."

Quoting German Foreign Office circles Transocean said there were indications that the Big Three Conference now was in session and was being held on a warship in the Black Sea or in a Black Sea port. German radio propagandists have stepped up their campaign for last-ditch resistance.

The Berlin radio warned the German people that they could expect from President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin a new appeal "to desert their present leaders" and surrender.

"But this time the Germans will not be taken in by this childish device," the broadcast said. "There is only one slogan — unconditional fighting."

"Annihilation Plans"

Seeking to stir up German fears of surrender, the Berlin radio quoted an officially inspired article appearing in all German newspapers to the effect that Premier Stalin would demand the services of 4,000,000 Germans to repair war damage in Russia.

"You may be sure the demand will soon be raised to 10,000,000," the article added.

"One can see that the annihilation plans of our enemies are aimed at forcing the German people at starvation level into a life of suffering and without joy for decades if not centuries after the war," the article said.

HEAVIES BOMB REGENSBURG

German Radio Reports Planes Heading For Berlin

London, Tuesday, Feb. 6 (AP)—The German radio warned early today that a strong force of Allied bombers was heading in the general direction of Berlin.

Allied heavy bombers based in Britain were grounded yesterday by inclement weather, but Italian-based United States 15th Air Force heavyweights blasted oil targets at Regensburg, 65 miles northeast of Munich.

Medium bombers from Italy joined the attack, sending bombs down on many points of the Brenner Pass between Italy and Germany.

These blows fell as fires still smouldered from night raids on western Germany by several hundred RAF heavy bombers, and flights of Mosquitos.

Results Not Observed

The 15th Air Force heavy bombers loosed their cargos by instrument in the overcast and were unable to observe results. Escorting Mustangs and Lightnings were unchallenged by the German Air Force but reported intense anti-aircraft fire.

The railway center of Bonn, Rhineland city supplying the Western front, and other industrial and communications targets in the Ruhr Valley were the targets of the Sunday night attacks.

There was no confirmation of a Berlin report that the Reich capital—with many rail lines to the Eastern front already cut by Saturday's raid—again had been struck.

Planes Reported Over Austria

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—Several hundred RAF heavy bombers smashed the railway center of Bonn in western Germany last night and the German radio reported today that American raiders were thundering over Austria in continuation of the Allied air offensive.

Other industrial and communications targets in the Ruhr Valley were attacked last night in conjunction with the assault upon Bonn, with both heavies and Mosquito bombers participating.

Rail Lines Cut

There was no confirmation, however, of a German report that Berlin—target of a record-breaking assault by 1,000 United States flying Fortresses Saturday—had again been hit.

Reports filtering through from Berlin via neutral sources indicated that the Saturday raid had cut many vital rail lines feeding the Eastern front, in addition to laying waste an area of two square miles in the heart of the city.

Last night's raiders split into five separate fleets over the Continent, striking also at the Nordstern and Osterfeld benzol plants and at factory districts in Hannover and Dortmund.

Five Bombers Downed

No fighter opposition was encountered, but five bombers were downed by flak.

Bonn, on the left bank of the Rhine and on the main line from Cologne to southern Germany, has one of the largest marshaling yards of the western Reich. The Air Ministry said that although it had been bombed before, the enemy repaired some of the damage and was moving considerable amounts of troops and supplies through Bonn.

Meanwhile, neutral correspondents telling of Saturday's devastating raid on Berlin said the city was burning furiously.

Photographic interpretation of the 1,000 Fortress attack disclosed crushing blows on at least five railway stations and several military and Government offices. The Templehof Airdrome and the central gas works were damaged severely.

The German Air Ministry received eight direct hits and other Government headquarters, including the Reich Chancellory, the Ministry of Propaganda and Gestapo headquarters were smothered under eighteen concentrations of high explosives.

Weather Forecasts Helped Raid

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—One 41-minute weather forecasts permitted United States heavy bombers in the record raid on Berlin Saturday to win a race between two severe weather fronts which threatened to blot out the German capital and seal off the planes' home fields.

The precise timetable called for the first of the 1,000 bombers to arrive over Berlin at 10.58 A.M. The first bombs went down at 11.02. Gales were forecast so accurately that the bombardiers aimed visually through the breaks in the remaining clouds after the storm had passed over.

KEEPS ROLLING ON, PLANE OR NO PLANE

London, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Sergt. Herbert Guild of the Bronx, New York city, said today that after what he had been through even going over Niagara Falls in a barrel would not seem like much of a thrill. It happened when his plane was returning to its British base from Germany. As the pilot dipped the Flying Fortress down through the fog for a landing guide, a tail gunner suddenly discovered that he no longer was among those present.

"The turret—my little feathered nest—had broken off from the rest of the plane," he said. "I was being banged around inside it as it bounced along a couple of hundred feet over a rocky pasture.

"Finally it stopped against some bushes. I felt myself. I was all there. The same chunk of guy that was there before. Of course, my shoulder hurt, but it was only dislocated, and I had a couple of bruises.

"I couldn't find the plane anywhere. It wasn't until later that I learned what happened to it after it unlinked me like a train does a caboose. That Fort flew on 100 more miles without me and the tail section which had snapped off."

He said that the pilot, Lieut. Lawrence de Lancey of Corvallis, Ore., finally landed the plane on one wheel without hurting any of the crew. Lieut. de Lancey won the Silver Star last October when he flew a noseless bomber home from Cologne after a direct flak hit had sheared off the front of the plane, killing the bombardier.

Lebanon And Syria Seek Complete Independence

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Governments of Lebanon and Syria, calling on Gen. Charles de Gaulle to end the remaining limitations on their independence from France, declared tonight they could not permit France or any other power to hold a "preponderent position" in the Levant.

Camille Chamoun, Lebanese Minister to Britain, said in a statement on behalf of his own Government and Syria that the Levant wanted "complete freedom" and would not commit itself to any treaty "which may act as a barrier to the entire collaboration of the Arab states."

Feeling against France was reported running high in the two countries.

De Gaulle Sets Forth France's Three War Aims

Paris, Feb. 5 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle put forth three major demands for peace today, declared France was determined to secure their fulfillment in her own way if necessary, and asserted that the French nation will not be bound by any inter-Allied decisions unless it has an equal voice in framing them.

In a radio fireside chat which probably coincide with the Anglo-American-Soviet meeting, the chief of the French Provisional Government set forth these demands which he said were essential war aims of the French nation:

Firstly, that the territories on the left bank of the Rhine and the Ruhr basin be amputated from the future German state or states.

Secondly, that French troops be stationed along the entire length of the Rhine.

Thirdly, assurance of independence for Poland, Austria, Czechoslovakia and the Balkan states "in friendship with the nations which will have to carry the principal burden of maintaining the peace of Europe."

De Gaulle did not specify which nations would carry most of this burden, but he obviously was referring to France and Russia.

Allies Show Understanding

Commenting on the exclusion of France from the Big Three conference, De Gaulle said the Allies had "shown great comprehension" of the French request for sole occupation of the Rhineland and predicted that French troops gradually would become the predominant element in the occupation of the Reich.

He added that France naturally could not guarantee the security of Europe alone.

"For that we need alliances," he said, explaining that this was the reason he had signed a twenty-year pact with Russia and his reason for seeking a similar agreement with Great Britain.

Seeks Pacts With Neighbors

France also intends to negotiate pacts of mutual security and economic co-operation with Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands, and in time to resume good relations with "renovated Italy," de Gaulle said. He omitted Spain from his list of French neighbor countries.

Finally, de Gaulle asserted that France would be ready—after the battles of Europe and the Far East are finished and France has recovered all her territories—to participate in "studies and negotiations from which no doubt will emerge a world organization to maintain peace."

Regarding this world organization, the French leader said it "will include the United States of America at its nead and will promise to each state a supreme guarantee of its life and development in human society."

"We Will Not Conform"

"Nor will we accept," de Gaulle continued, "anything which does not conform to objectives which we have drawn to guard against German aggression either against ourselves or against any other state to which we are allied."

Stressing that decisions regarding Germany are matters of "life and death" for France, de Gaulle asserted that "many men consider it quite strange that the chiefs of the three other great powers seem to be trying to determine the manner of bringing the war to an end and decide the regulations which will follow its conclusion without France being consulted."

He added, however, that the nation need not feel alarmed over this, and, calling for a greater French effort to beat Germany, predicted that within three months the French Army would be "double what it was in December, 1944."

Lists French Part In War

Regarding the actual conduct of the war, de Gaulle said French troops had been placed under an inter-Allied command similar to Marshal Foch's in the last war with an opportunity to present French views concerning general strategy whenever the occasion arose. He said this came about recently, and, in this, obviously referred to the Allied decision to defend Alsace.

"I must add that in this connec-

Text of Gen. de Gaulle's Broadcast

The text of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's speech, recorded and translated by the Federal Communications Commission, follows:

In this supreme hour of struggle, as in the peace that will follow, the rights and duties of France are in the front rank of all rights and duties.

In order that the enemy's resistance in the depths of German territory may be reduced from the western front, the efforts of France is clearly necessary despite all that her power may have temporarily suffered. It was thus in 1939, for it was by accepting all risks together with Great Britain that we gained for the whole world what enabled the others to see clearly and to prepare themselves.

It was thus again in November, 1942, when our African army, rousing itself from the lethargy of the so-called armistice, covered —with rusty arms but intact valor —the arrival of the American, British and Free French forces on a terrain where the enemy was well to the fore. It was the same later during the campaign that brought the Allies' armies from Naples to Florence and in which the French Expeditionary Corps played a capital role.

It was thus during the Battle of France, up to and including the victory that is being completed in Alsace struggle in the course of which, out of 825,000 Germans captured by the Allies since June 6, 1944, 210,000 were taken by the French: i.e., 120,000 by the First Army, more than 50,000 by the Second Armored Division alone, operating with one or another of the American armies, and 40,000 by the French Forces of the Interior.

Predicts Doubled Army

The effort of France will be of still greater relative importance tomorrow, since in three months we shall have twice as many men in the line as we had in December. Let us add that our ports, our railroads, our airfields have been the backbone of the common battle. As for the occupation of the whole of German territories—which will necessarily follow the hostilities—it is clear that the French Army will become little by little the dominant element in the west.

Whatever may be the length and the ups and downs of this war, it is superfluous to affirm that the settlements that emerge from it will be of vital importance to France.

For more than one and a half centuries our country has never ceased to be weakened in comparison to other countries, in as much as she has had to support gigantic wars that cost her a much higher total than any other people in the world. Naturally, her political stability, her economic and demographic development, her social progress—above all, the bond among citizens that is the condition of this stability, of this development, this progress —were thereby seriously compromised.

Our national life, inside and outside the country, has gone from upheaval to upheaval for generations, and each of these upheavals has been more ruinous than the preceding one. This time, France has literally just missed dying as a free nation, and the sources of her activity have been cruelly wounded. The rest of the world, and above all the peoples of Europe, have greatly suffered from her weakness; for it is a sort of law that no one is safe when France is in trouble.

Germany Called Main Peril

Now the cause of all our trials has always been Germany, favored by errors and illusions. That is to say, not only the future but the very life of France depends on what is done to the beaten Germans.

We know that many people consider it rather strange that, at this stage of the struggle, the heads of the three other great powers should appear to settle the manner in which this war is to be concluded, and the conditions governing its conclusion, without France. On this point, I assure the nation that it may await without alarm the development of events.

As far as the conduct of the war is concerned, and although for the time being we have accepted the placing of our military forces under inter-Allied command—as our Allies did with Marshal Foch at the end of the last war—the Government has means of introducing into the general strategy all that is needed so that our national interests may be safeguarded for the benefit of all and, above all, so that the best possible use may be made of our forces, as was already done on one recent occasion in particular. I hasten to add that in this connection a comprehension has been met on the part of the inter-Allied high command that will stand out in history.

As for the arrangement of the future peace or any other arrangement that would concern it, we have informed our Allies and we have said publicly that France would of course be bound by absolutely nothing that she had not had the opportunity to discuss and approve on the same ground as the others. A fortiori, she will accept only what conforms to the aims that she has set for herself in order to insure that no aggression by Germany will be possible in the future—either against herself or against any state with which she is or would be allied.

Summarizes Aims

I can state once more that the definite presence of a French force from one end of the Rhine to the other; the separation of the territories of the left bank of the river and of the Ruhr Basin from what will be the German state or states; the independence of the Polish, Czechoslovak, Austrian and Balkan nations in friendship with each of the nations that will have to bear the principal weight of maintaining peace in Europe—these are the conditions that France considers essential. We are extremely desirous that they shall be considered equally so by all our allies.

We are not disturbed about the possibility that we shall have to carry out most of them, since there are 106,000,000 of us, living closely assembled under the French flag in the immediate neighborhood of what interests us most directly. Naturally, we do not have the presumption to believe that we alone could insure the security of Europe. We must have alliances. It is for that purpose that we have concluded a great and good alliance with strong and courageous Soviet Russia.

It is for that purpose that we are desirous of signing one some day with brave old England, as soon as she may be willing to agree to what is vital for us concerning Germany, and as soon as we may succeed in eliminating among ourselves certain traces of an outmoded rivalry in certain points, traces to which our temporary misfortunes have given—and are still giving—an opportunity to show themselves. We count on being able to establish with each of our neighbors—the Belgians, the Luxembourgers, the Netherlanders—practical agreements for mutual security and economic cooperation. We hope that time is still kind to those who know how to use it and we hope in the future to resume good relations with a renewed Italy.

Sees U. S. Leading in Security

Finally, we shall be ready, when—after the battles of Europe and the Far East have been decided—we shall have recovered full liberty of action and all our territories, to take part gladly in the great studies and negotiations from which there will undoubtedly come a world peace organization. This will include the United States of America in the first rank and will promise every state the supreme guarantee of its life and development in human society.

Such is France's immediate plan for war and peace. Circumstances tend to be such that in order to realize it we have only to be willing and to act accordingly. In achieving this purpose we shall create for our country general conditions of dignity, strength and security, which she has lacked for so long and which the failure to recognize reality prevented us from obtaining after the great victories of 1918 and for the lack of which we have lived in an atmosphere of discontent, uncertainty and threats, which are contrary to our renovation. Conversely, without an inner renovation corresponding to our return to the first rank among nations, we should try in vain on this supreme occasion to succeed in placing our country in the best imaginable conditions among the other states, or to aid in building the finest possible structure for world cooperation, for we should have built nothing but illusion.

Now, we must make an enormous effort to raise ourselves to the rank where we wish to be. For the moment, it is quite true that the demands, the tests and the ruins of war are limiting us within this framework of ideas to the most pressing needs; that is, simply to make every effort to stay alive. But, as the sun of victory rises on the horizon, the nation is discovering the future and is wondering about the route that she must follow to rebuild and develop herself politically, economically, socially, demographically, morally.

I shall explain on a later occasion what the doctrine and action of the Government are in this matter. Everyone knows, in fact, that there must be in them, as for strength in foreign relations, a coherent ensemble of which no part would have any value without being one entity with the others. As for the inner strength, it can be nowhere but in the national will, for everything is linked with the life of a nation And greatness is not divided.

French View Understood

London, Feb. 5 (AP)—Gen. de Gaulle in a broadcast on the Paris radio tonight said the Allies had "shown great comprehension" of the French request for sole occupation of Germany's Rhineland. He predicted that French troops gradually would become the predominant element in the occupation of Germany.

To Register Parisian Men

PARIS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Lieutenant General Joseph Pierre Koenig, Military Governor of Paris, today ordered all males between eighteen and forty-eight years old to register before March 20 for possible induction into the French armed forces.

Herriot Reported In Good Condition

Lyon, France, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—An investigation by the International Red Cross has shown that the French leader Edouard Herriot was in good health in a German detention camp, the Mayor's office reported today.

14 Men Plead Guilty In Train-Looting Cases

Paris, Feb. 5 (AP)—Two United States Army courts-martial heard the guilty pleas of 14 enlisted men and sentenced them to terms ranging from five to ten years today in the swiftest session held since the opening of the railway battalion train-looting cases.

The defendants admitted they had disposed wrongfully of cigarettes, coffee, tobacco and other army supplies and asked the court for clemency and another chance to serve as soldiers.

The trial of a second officer charged with being involved in the supply lines thefts is scheduled to open tomorrow. The trial dates for four other officers against whom charges have been filed have not yet been set.

14 MORE SENTENCED

Enlisted Men Pleaded Guilty to Selling U. S. Property

PARIS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Sentences ranging from five to ten years' imprisonment were imposed by courts-martial today on fourteen enlisted men of the 716th and 724th Railway Operating Battalions after all pleaded guilty to charges of wrongfully disposing of Government property.

They were accused of pilfering coffee, tobacco, cigarettes and other Army rations from supply trains and selling them in the black market. Those convicted were:

Pvt. Walter L. Poole, Pfc. Arthur Danley, Pvt. Kenneth E. Kuhn, T/4 Beano E. Cass, Pvt. J. L. Stephens, T/4 Kenneth L. Shields and Pfc. Roy W. Thomas, all of the 724th.

Sgt. Maryl J. Marker, Pvt. Julius T. Massey, T/4 Clarence R. Walker, T/4 Donovan P. Beale, Pfc. Mike Bruzina Jr., Pfc. Ben V. Gibson and Pvt. Roy G. Ambrose, all of the 716th.

Yanks Retake Gallicano

Rome, Feb. 5 (AP)—Fifth Army troops have reoccupied Gallicano in the Serchio Valley area on the Italian west coast against only slight enemy opposition, Allied headquarters announced today.

Other advances were made along the Serchio River, regaining ground lost in December when the Nazis launched a short-lived offensive in the direction of Lucca.

In the central front area south and southeast of Bologna strong 5th Army raiding patrols ran into considerable German resistance. Casualties were suffered on both sides, and a number of Germans were captured.

The Mediterranean Allied Tactical Air Force yesterday continued the assault on enemy communications in northern Italy, with concentrated attacks on bridges and transport.

Rome, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—American Fifteenth Air Force Flying Fortresses and Liberators blasted oil targets at Regensburg, sixty-five miles northeast of Munich, today while large forces of medium bombers dumped tons of bombs on many points of the Brenner Pass line between Italy and Germany.

Party Leader Seized in Rome

ROME, Feb. 5 (AP)—Umberto Salvarezza, secretary of the "proletarian union" party, was arrested today on a warrant issued by the high commissioner for punishment of fascist crimes. The party has been criticized by the Roman press as an armed organization with a fascist background and subversive tendencies.

Antwerp Dock Strike Is Reported Settled

Brussels, Feb. 5 (AP)—A dock strike in Antwerp was reported today to have ended, removing one of the many problems with which Premier Hubert Pierlot must deal in a stand-or-fall oration before the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow.

Pierlot seeks a vote of confidence. The Socialist executive committee has demanded his ouster and directed five Socialist ministers in his Cabinet to resign.

FIFTH ARMY TROOPS SEIZE GALLICANO

ROME, Feb. 5 — (AP) Fifth army forces recaptured Gallicano and other ground about 15 miles north of Lucca lost to the Germans in December, but the Germans still were holding tightly today to their defense arc below Bologna.

Even small scale activities were hampered by rain and mist which settled over the mountains and reduced visibility. Snow is still waist deep in some of the mountain sector.

On the Eighth army front, patrols again were very active.

U. S. 15th air force heavy bombers hit oil targets at Regensburg, 6 miles northeast of Munich, today and fleets of medium bombers hurled tons of bombs on the Brenner Pass rail line between Italy and Germany.

The Brenner Pass line also was heavily hit Sunday during 1,100 sorties largely against communications in northern Italy. Sunday's operations cost 10 planes.

Italy Cartoon Irks Yanks

Rome, Feb. 5 (AP)—The army newspaper Stars and Stripes editorially rebuked today a Rome weekly which published a cartoon showing an American Negro soldier wearing shiny combat boots surrounded by Italians barefoot or with battered sandals.

The Negro was represented as saying: "And to think that I, who am not used to them, am forced to wear them."

Stars and Stripes said the cartoon published in Pettirosso, a subsidiary of the Socialist daily Avanti, was "offensive and shocking to Americans." The editorial added:

"The thousands of Negro soldiers in Italy are citizens of the United States. Many of them are living in the cold and discomfort of the Italian front and some are being wounded and killed.

"The Negro soldier is fighting, like all other Americans, against Fascism and Nazism and for a peaceful, democratic world. He is fighting and dying to help liberate the rest of Italy.

"The American Negro is not a stranger to shoes, literacy or ideas of democracy. If Italians don't have shoes it is certainly not because any Allied soldier has them."

AMERICAN EDITORS WILL CALL ON POPE

Rome, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—A committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, studying the basis for post-war worldwide freedom of the press, will meet tomorrow with newspaper editors of Rome to learn their attitude. The committeemen are Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune; Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of the Columbia University School of Journalism, and Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution.

The committeemen have a scheduled private audience with Pope Pius XII, probably tomorrow. They emphasized that they were dealing only with the post-war prospects of a free press and free exchange of information among peoples, when correspondents turned to a discussion of recent cases of press control in Italy, notably the suppression of an Italian weekly which had published the text of a Mussolini speech.

"We must avoid becoming involved in any local situation now prevailing, "Mr. Forrest said; "We don't see that it is our job to get mixed up in the current situation anywhere we go." Mr. McGill was a silent participant at the press conference because of a throat ailment so severe that doctors ordered him to refrain from talking. All three committeemen had colds contracted in long, chilled airplane rides and in unheated hotels in France and Italy.

City Of Mannheim Reported In Ruins

Stockholm, Feb. 5 (AP)—Julius Hagander, Swedish consul who has just returned from Germany, was quoted in an interview in Svenska Dagbladet today as saying that the Rhine city of Mannheim was virtually destroyed, but that 100,000 of its normal 300,000 population still live there.

Electric light, gas and water systems no longer function, but communal kitchens make it possible for people to continue to live in cellars, he added.

Hagander, who traveled by train through Germany, said Freiburg, in the southwest tip of Germany, was also virtually leveled, but that Dresden and Heidelberg had suffered only unimportant damage thus far.

POLES TO ANNEX LAND ALONG ODER

Luce

WARSAW, Feb. 2—(AP) (Delayed) Boleslaw Bierut, president of the Soviet-sponsored Polish National council, announced from the cold ruins of this blasted capital today that the new Poland would include land along the German Oder and in East Prussia and that Polish civil administrators were being sent to those regions.

"There will be Polish administration on what we regard as Polish soil, regardless of opinions to be expressed in international conferences," Beirut said. "We've seen the attitude of the major powers. We don't think anyone will interfere with us."

A representative of the Warsaw provisional government already has arrived at Oppeln in Silesia and others will proceed to other points, including East Prussia, "as soon as military conditions permit," Beirut said.

Beirut said the distribution of the Lithuanian and Polish population of East Prussia will determine the new frontier there, intimating that the northern section of East Prussia, including Konigsberg, probably would lie within the border of the Lithuanian Soviet Republic and the remainder within Poland. He said the question of the Teschen area taken from Czechoslovakia by the pre-war Polish government under the Munich agreement of 1938 would be settled in "friendly negotiations."

Beirut spoke of the future Poland in the center of one of the war's most devastated cities. The council President himself said that more than a year would be needed just to clear away Warsaw's debris and many years would be needed for reconstruction.

City Mounds Of Debris

On all sides are charred and ruined buildings, great mounds of debris. Three of the city's greatest boulevards—Jerozolimska, Marszalowska and Nowy Swiat—are lined with heaps of manonry. The central railway station is a pile of twisted steel. Of the Government ministry buildings only the Ministry of Education escaped with slight damage. It had been Gestapo headquarters.

Warsaw survivors tell of the ghastly efficiency of the Germans in their effort to wipe out the capital. Section by section, the city was knocked down by bombardment, artillery and fire.

Only places needed to shelter the garrison troops were spared. Several thousand civilians are living in the city, making homes under anything that provides a roof. Others live in the surrounding countryside, coming into the city daily to scavenge for furniture and clothing.

Chief Buildings Demolished

The opera house and the town hall are in ruins. In Palace Square, the bronze statue of the Seventeenth-Century King Zygmunt sprawls on the ground. The Royal Palace and St. John's Cathedral are completely wrecked. The Fukier wine tavern, famous for centuries, is ruined.

The panorama of destruction seems endless; street after street of blackened walls, debris, sidewalks lined with graves marked by crude wooden crosses. Government ministry after ministry, church after church, block after block of shops and office buildings all have been razed by fire or smashed by bomb and shell.

Poles To Take Control Of East Prussia, Silesia

Warsaw, Feb. 2 [AP—Delayed]. Boleslaw Bierut, president of the Polish National Council, announced at a press conference today that Poland is immediately assuming control of civil administration in German Silesia and East Prussia.

A representative of the Warsaw Provisional Government has already arrived at Oppeln, first large city on the Oder to be occupied by the Red Army in its drive through Silesia, he disclosed.

Similar steps to organize civil affairs will be taken elsewhere in Silesia, including Breslau, and in East Prussia "as soon as military conditions permit," Bierut said.

Expect No Interference

"There will be Polish administration on what we regard as Polish soil, regardless of opinions to be expressed in international conferences," he asserted. "We've seen the attitude of the major powers. We don't think anyone will interfere with us."

He added that the question of the Teschen area, the rich coal-mining district annexed by Poland from Czechoslovakia in 1939, will be taken up in "friendly negotiations."

Will Expand Along Oder

Bierut made it plain that his Government would complete Poland's expansion along the Oder from its mouth to southern Brandenburg, and along the Neisse where it flows into the Oder some 30 miles south of Frankfurt to the foot of the Sudeten Mountains.

In East Prussia "the distribution of Lithuanian and Polish populations there will determine the frontier," he said.

He intimated that the northern section of East Prussia, including Konigsberg, would probably lie within the borders of the Lithuanian Soviet Republic while the remainder would be taken by Poland.

"The Germans grabbed Polish lands in East Prussia although they had been Polish for centuries," he said. "These must be returned to Poland. Our administrators will go there when the fighting is concluded."

Undismayed By Task

Premier Edward B. Osubka-Morawski, who also attended the press conference, said that at his last meeting with Prime Minister Churchill in Moscow, "I asked him about support of Poland's policy regarding East Prussia and he replied it was 'obvious.'"

Bierut, who had moved the provisional government from Lublin to the Warsaw metropolitan area within the previous 24 hours, seemed undismayed by the enormity of the reconstruction task facing Poland.

Pleased by Czechoslovakia's recognition, he commented "We can only express the wish that America and Britain will recognize us."

Bierut asserted it is "utopian" to speak of rebuilding Warsaw in the near future with 150,000 German prisoners of war.

Will Need "Many Years"

"Just to clear away the debris will require more than a year and reconstruction itself will continue many years. Since Warsaw is one of Europe's greatest cities of culture and tradition, it would be appropirate if other cultural nations participated in the reconstruction."

He declared flatly that there is "no basis for rapproachment between the Polish Exile Government in London and the Warsaw Government now, or in the future."

240,000 JEWS KILLED IN LODZ

130,000 Nazis Captured There Lived As Master Race

Luce

Lodz, Poland, Feb. 3 [AP—Delayed]—Gray, dingy Lodz, whose 2,500,000 textile spindles earned it the title of the "Polish Manchester" before the war, today mirrors a host of economic and political problems facing Poland in the peace to come.

Of nearly 6,000,000 Poles still chained to forced labor in Germany, Lodz contributed its full share.

In Hitler's staggering five-year program of exterminating Jews the Lodz ghetto was reduced from a population of 250,000 to a mere 8,077.

A thousand German prisoners averted their faces today when marched past the barbed-wire fence around the ghetto, now silent and deserted.

Swaggerers

Of the city's present 500,000 inhabitants, 130,000 are a mixture of German-born and Polish-born Teutons who swaggeringly lived the life of Herrenvolk among the subject Polish race so long as the black and red flag of the Third Reich flew.

Now their Nazi food ration cards are valueless and whether they will be shipped to Germany after capitulation or be allowed to remain in Poland is the biggest question mark hanging over their future.

More than two weeks have passed since Soviet tanks drove a few scattered detachments of the German Army from Lodz, but the Poles exclaimed: "It's still like a dream."

"Hitler Platz-Liberty Square"

"Adolf Hitler Platz" again became "Liberty Square" in the center of which are the graves of seven Red Army men, covered daily with flowers, marked with postcard pictures of the Holy Virgin and lighted with candles by devout Poles.

In Lodz, as throughout the Polish province of Wartheland which Hitler annexed to the Reich, the economic and political exploitation of Poles for five years while their resources drained into German hands left wounds that perhaps may not heal for generations.

The Polish language was forbidden in shops, factories and public gatherings. Polish schools were closed, a measure the Nazis apparently hoped would breed a race of illiterates.

Boys, Girls Drafted

Polish boys and girls of 15 were drafted into the Reich's labor service and sent away. Special taxes reduced Polish wages to 40 per cent of that received for the same work by German nationals. Racially discriminatory food cards kept Polish rations 25 to 50 per cent below German rations, even for milk for children under 2 years.

Poles under 25 were forbidden to marry.

A Nazi decree stipulated the death penalty for any Pole convicted of physically striking a German national. Arrested Poles went without legal defense.

Whole Polish villages were expropriated to provide estates for German colonists brought in from the Baltic, Bessarabia and the Ukraine.

24 Hours At Slaughter

Stiff prison sentences were imposed on hungry Polish townfolk caught smuggling in foodstuffs from friendly farmers—a crime termed "sabotage of the German building of a new Europe."

Lodz's liberation was so sudden that the German garrison failed to execute its demolition program for factories and communications. Only airport installations were burned.

While the SS (Elite Guard) troops spent more than 24 hours slaughtering 1,000 to 3,000 Polish men in a suburban prison camp, they left the Scheibler and Grohman textile mills' 225,000 spindles intact, with 65,000 yards of wood-fibred cloth for the German Army untouched.

Hilary Minc's Job

In the downtown business section, hardly one store is open yet. They had become almost entirely German-owned.

The dozen or more Catholic churches—only two of which were open to Poles during the occupation—are again being opened to all.

The man responsible for energizing Poland's economy in regained western provinces and in territories to the Oder and the Neisse rivers now is making his headquarters in Lodz. He is Hilary Minc, Minister of Industry in Warsaw's Provision Government, a member of the extreme Left-Wing Workers Party.

His immediate plans are far from left wing, however. Rather they are a mixture of state and private capitalism.

"We are taking all possible measures to revive private enterprise," he told a press conference. "Large German-owned factories are ripe for state confiscation and operation, but retail businesses will be distributed to individual Poles, co-operative societies and artisans' guilds." He forecast an unprecedented peacetime development of Polish industry.

Warsaw Is Like Skeleton, Says Writer

By Daniel De Luce

Warsaw, Feb. 2 [AP—Delayed]. Once they called Warsaw the heart of Poland. Today it is like a skeleton strewn along the Vistula River by ghouls.

Warsaw is a shocking definition of what the Germans meant by "total war."

From across the river, the city's skyline is still proud and dignified, hiding behind charred and jagged water-front walls the emptiness of a desecrated grave.

Bridges' Spans Down

Spans of the great Poniatowski and Zygmuntowska bridges hang half hidden in river ice, but you cross over boards laid upon pontoons to get to a railroad viaduct built by Army engineers.

Near the huge Banknota printing plant, whose concrete and steel pillars are broken like match sticks. A Polish soldier has just shot a horse. Women, children and old men pulling sleds cluster around the carcass, scraping it bare with penknives.

Your truck weaves along streets lined with shattered buildings and then across a snowy clearing flanked by a long stone wall. Beyond the wall stretch acres of formless mounds covered with snow.

"This Was The Ghetto"

"This was the Ghetto," says Polish Col. Wiktor Grosz. "Look way over there—that one old building. It was the prison. It was the only thing the Gestapo left standing when the Ghetto was destroyed before Easter in 1943.

In the Ghetto 335,000 Jews once were counted.

You pass the stately opera house, gutted by fire, and the ruins of what was the Town Hall from which heroic Mayor Stefan Starzynski directed the defense of Warsaw in September, 1939, only to be sent to death or prison inside the Reich.

In the palace square, named after the official residence of the President of the Polish Republic, the bronze statute of Seventeenth Century King Zygmunt sprawls on the slushy ground.

Old Warsaw Described

Off to the left are the tightly packed ruins of Stara Warszawa—old Warsaw—whose tiny alleyways are clogged with barricades behind which patriots fought during most of the 63-day siege last summer.

The Royal Palace and St. John's Cathedral at the approaches to Old Warsaw rival each other in complete wreckage. In one surviving palace wing Mrs. Kazimiera Prochnik came back to live in a miserable basement room with seven other homeless refugees, four of them children. Her husband is a labor prisoner in Prussia. She melts snow or goes with a bucket to the river for water. For her bread ration she must cross the Vistula daily to Praga.

Couldn't Bear To Leave

Why did she come back? "My husband was the palace caretaker for eighteen years and I couldn't bear to leave," she said.

Stare Miasto—old city—where princes and rich merchants lived regally before the United States was born, is a quadrangle of desolation. The Fukier wine tavern, famous for 400 years, is a tottering ruin.

Grosz, peacetime writer and editor, left Warsaw in September, 1939, not to return until today. He looks incredulously at his city.

Destruction Seems Endless

The panorama of destruction seems endless; street after street of blackened walls, piles of debris, sidewalks lined with graves marked by crude wooden crosses. Government ministry after ministry, church after church, block after block of shops and office buildings all have been razed by fire or smashed by bomb and shell.

The central railway station is a maze of twisted steel. The Hotel Europejski has only two walls left. The university is littered like a battlefield.

What were Wilson and Hoover squares now resemble the remains of an extinguished inferno. Three of Warsaw's greatest boulevards, Jerozolimska, Marszalkowska and Nowy Swiat, are flanked with wreckage from end to end.

Few Buildings Escape

Few important buildings escaped major damage as the enraged German Army systematically laid waste to Poland's capital from August to December. One was the Hotel Polonia, used as a German military headquarters. Another was the National Museum, where a Nazi battalion was stationed until the final retreat.

The museum's director, Stanislaw Lorentz, tells how he begged the Germans to spare his life's work and how Polish Army sappers working at top speed removed demolition charges which would have destroyed the handsome building even after Warsaw was freed.

Museum Looted By Nazis

The museum was methodically looted but crates of paintings, antique furniture and other art treasures were left behind nevertheless.

Of all government ministries only the Ministry of Education was damaged only slightly. It was a Gestapo center in the years of Nazi rule.

After a six-hour trek back and forth across the man-made wilderness you are left with the impression that if four or five per cent of Warsaw can be made habitable in the next few months it will be a miracle.

Tell Of Ghastly Efficiency

Survivors of the Warsaw uprising tell of calculated ghastly efficiency on the part of the German high command to wipe out the capital that dared to rebel. Section by section the city was submitted to bombardment and fire.

Several thousand civilians have crept back into the city, moving into anything providing a roof over their heads. Thousands tramp into Warsaw daily, scavenging among the ruins for bits of furniture, bedding and clothing with which to make homes in the countryside.

Just to clear away the wreckage will be a gigantic task of many months.

British Fleet Hits Jap Oil Supply

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 5 (AP) — A powerful British East Indies naval force which included the carriers Illustrious, Victorious, Indomitable and Indefatigable has struck "the most damaging blow" at Japanese oil supplies with attacks on southern Sumatra, Southeast Asia headquarters announced today.

The first attack by carrier-borne planes was made on the refinery at Palembang on January 25, a special communiqué said.

The second attack, against Pelembang refinery, was made four days later, on January 29.

Japs Lose Many Planes

The Japanese heavily defended the installations with fighter planes from several airfields, an inner and an outer ring of anti-aircraft batteries and a balloon barrage, and in the widespread fights of the first day 13 enemy fighters were shot down and 34 more destroyed on near-by airfields, the communiqué said.

Eight more were shot down on the second day and four others destroyed on the ground.

Six more enemy planes were shot down in the course of attacks on the battlefleet, bringing the total in two days to 64.

British Lose 12

"Our total losses of aircraft in these operations involving, one of the largest forces yet used by the East Indies fleet were fifteen," the announcement added.

In addition to the aircraft carriers, some of which were veterans of the war in the European and Mediterranean theaters, it was disclosed that the battleship King George V and the warships Argonaut, Black Prince, Euryalus, Grenville, Kempenfelt and Ursa are now in the East Indies fleet and participated in the action.

None of the ships was damaged in the operations, it was stated.

Damage To Refineries

Numerous direct hits were scored on the refineries, the communiqué said, and photographs showed many of them afterward were burnt out by oil fires from near-by reservoirs.

The fleet was under the command of Rear Admiral Sir Philip Vian, a hero of numerous engagements in the Mediterranean and in the Sicilian invasion.

All the carriers, built from 1939 to 1942, were of the 23,000-ton class.

The Argonaut, Black Prince and Euryalus are new 5,450-ton cruisers. The Grenville, Kempenfelt and Ursa are destroyers.

British Carrier Planes Raid Japs' Sumatra Oil Centers

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 5 (AP)—Carrier-based aircraft of a British East Indies naval force have struck "the most damaging blow at Japanese oil supplies with attacks at Palembang in southern Sumatra, Southeast Asia Headquarters announced today.

The announcement said 64 enemy planes were destroyed in two days and added: "Our total losses of aircraft in these operations involving one of the largest forces yet used by the East Indies Fleet were fifteen." None of the British ships was damaged in the operations, it was stated.

23,000-Ton Attack

Rear Admiral Sir Philip Vian, a hero of numerous engagements in the Mediterranean and the Sicilian invasion, commanded the British fleet which included the carriers Illustrious, Victorious, Indomitable and Indefatigable, all of the 23,000-ton class.

Other British ships participating were the battleship King George V, the new 5,450-ton cruisers Argonaut, Black Prince and the Euryalus and the destroyers Greenville, Kempenfelt and Ursa. Some of these ships were veterans of the European and Mediterranean war theaters.

Meet Fighter Planes

Carrier-borne planes made the first attack againsto a refinery at Palembang on January 25 and hit a second refinery there four days later. Fighter aircraft from several airfields, an inner andouter ring of antiaircraft batteries and a balloon barrage were employed by the Japanese in defense.

Of the enemy planes destroyed, six were downed in attacks on the battlefield, the announcement said.

The British planes scored numerous direct hits on the refineries, the communiqué said, and photographs showed oil fires from nearby reservoirs added to the havoc.

Americans Capture Hill On Lashio Road

Calcutta, Feb. 5 (AP)—American troops of the Mars task force, blocking a Japanese retreat down the Lashio-Laiwing road in Burma, have killed 250 of the enemy and captured a hill west of the road and 79 miles north of Lashio, it was announced today.

Enemy troops had held strong defensive positions on the hill since the Americans had established a road block in that area.

On the west coast of Burma, charges by elements of 400 to 500 Japanese on British positions commanding the road to Taungup near Kangaw were reported. More than 900 Japanese were killed in recent fighting at Kangaw, 30 miles east of Akyab.

Lashio Block Riddles Foe

CALCUTTA, Feb. 5 (AP)—American troops of the Mars Task Force, blocking a Japanese retreat down the Lashio-Laiwing Road in Burma, have killed 250 of the enemy and captured a hill west of the road and seventy-nine miles north of Lashio, it was announced today.

Enemy troops had held strong defensive positions on the hill since the Americans had established a road block in that area.

Wolfram Center Menaced By Japs

Chungking, Feb. 5 (AP)—Japanese forces driving eastward from Kukong in Kwangtung province are advancing steadily and threaten imminent capture of the wolfram mining center of Namyung, 60 miles from Kukong, the Chinese high command announced today.

Exports of wolfram, a hardening substance used in the production of fine steel, were shipped by air to the United States from Namyung before the recent Japanese offensive split China in two. Today's announcement said Japanese troops reached the area south of Namyung on Saturday.

Loses To Both Heavy

Bitter fighting with heavy losses to both sides was reported north of Kanhsein, 230 miles north of Hong Kong in Kwangsi province. Observers here believed the Japanese would attempt to join their Namyung and Kanhsien forces with the object of embracing the entire wolfram area and creating a big protective zone east of their newly won Hengyang-Hong Kong corridor.

Farther north Chinese forces were reported to have made some progress in counterattacks from the southeast toward Chaling, Japanese stronghold 60 miles east of Hengyang.

Chinese troops were said to have repulsed a Japanese force in the mountainous region between Ichang and Pingshek in the Hunan-Kwangtung border region and to have recaptured a key position about 5 miles east of Ichang. This particular Ichang is situated a little more than 100 miles south of Hengyang.

Chinese circles here expected a cabinet crisis to develop in Tokyo as a result of the American entrance into Manila. It was regarded as the happiest coincidence that General MacArthur's troops crashed into the Philippine capital on the same day that the first supply convoy arrived at Kunming over the newly-opened Stilwell road from India.

(A dispatch from Kunming said the 113 vehicles in the convoy reaching that garlanded and flag-decorated city 1,100 miles from Ledo carried war supplies which included big guns fresh from American arsenals.

Jap Drive Perils China's Wolfram Mines

Chungking, Feb. 5 (AP) — The Japanese drive eastward from the Canton-Hankow railroad town of Kukong in Kwangtung province threatened today to engulf China's important wolfram mines.

The Japanese were nearing Namyung, famous wolfram center about 60 miles from Kukong.

Japs Peril Stilwell Road Convoy

Kunming, Feb. 5 (AP)—Japanese planes twice threatened to attack the first truck convoy from the Ledo railhead in India, which reached Kunming Sunday via the Stilwell road.

An American aircover spread over the convoy defeated the first attempt at the Burma-China border station of Wanting, where an enemy bombing and strafing would have caught a sizable assemblage of Chinese and American soldiers as well as officials attending a welcoming ceremony.

Cheering Welcome

Two days later the six-mile convoy had a "jingbow" (air-raid alarm) in the Salween gorge just before reaching the Weitung bridge. Gunners protecting the convoy unlimbered their weapons, but Japanese bombers failed to appear.

The 113 vehicle, including jeeps and weapon carriers which hauled 105-mm., 75-mm. and 37-mm. cannon fresh from American arsenals, ran a cheering gantlet of welcome in this staging center at noon.

It was a great day for the freshly garlanded and flag-decorated city 1,100 miles from Ledo.

Among the jeep drivers were several American Negro soldiers.

Iwo Jima Bombed Again.

United States Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—The heaviest fighter and anti-aircraft opposition of a fortnight was encountered Friday and Saturday nights by Army and Navy planes raiding Iwo Jima on the aerial Marianas-Tokyo route, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today in a communique.

Australian Forces Gain 20 Miles in New Britain

Make Amphibious Landing in Gazelle Peninsula Drive

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 5 (AP).—A new amphibious landing by Australian forces in New Britain has carried them twenty miles closer to Japanese concentrations in the Gazelle Peninsula, the Australian Army announced today. This was the biggest landing since the Australians struck ashore at Jacuinot Bay, on the southeast side of the island, about one hundred miles from Rabaul.

On Bougainville, where the Japanese are resisting an Australian advance to the north toward Buka passage, the Australians are in absolute control of 100 miles of the west coast of the island.

CAPT. WADDY YOUNG MISSING ON RAID

B-29 Base, Saipan, Marianas, Jan. 9 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Capt. Walter R. (Waddy) Young, All-America football star and collegiate wrestling champion of Ponca City, Okla., failed to bring his B-29 back from today's attack on Tokyo and it is feared that he and his ten-man crew are lost to enemy action.

Also missing is the Superfortress piloted by Major Joe P. Baird of Prescott, Ariz.

Capt. Young won All-America recognition in 1938 while attending Oklahoma University. He won several collegiate wrestling championships. He played professional football for Brooklyn in 1939 and 1940 until he went into the service.

He was flying "Waddy's Wagon" and participated in the first B-29 raid on Truk, the first on Tokyo and the first on Nagoya.

In Capt. Young's crew was Second Lieut. Bernard Black whose wife lives at 84-25 Eighty-fifth avenue, Woodhaven, Queens In Major Baird's crew were Staf Sergt. Harold W. Wagner o Great Neck, L. I., and Sergt. Fede Cardinali of 131 South Edwar street, Brooklyn.

was ditched, however, on the long flight back to the Marianas but the crew was rescued.

[Twentieth Air Force headquarters in Washington said that three Japanese fighter planes were destroyed, ten probably destroyed and 29 damaged.]

This is the third raid in force against Honshu since Maj. Gen. Curtis (Iron Pants) Le May took over the ever-growing Superfortress force in the Marianas.

[An unconfirmed Tokyo broadcast today indicated that the Superfortresses were over Kobe again. The Japanese said two planes flew over the city and dropped bombs several hours apart.

[An earlier Japanese broadcast admitted Kobe wharves and port facilities were American targets yesterday. The Nipponese also admitted the loss of three interceptng planes, but claimed destruction of six B-29's and damage to at least 30.]

Japs Observing

Lieut. Robert Sucky, of Berwyn, Ill., bombardier, said the Jap fighter planes didn't seem to be pressing their attacks, but rather seemed to be observing for artillery and guiding anti-aircraft fire.

"I don't think there were more than 50 fighters up, if that many," he said. "I couldn't see the target very well but I think we raised a little hell."

Navigator Howard Shively, of Toledo, Ohio, told of having to drop his bomb bay tanks in order to get his bombs away over the target because the bomb-release apparatus failed to function.

Baltimorean In Crew

Col. John Davies, of Piedmont, Cal., leader of one of the attacking elements, said his unit came through with one of the best jobs of formation flying over the target he had seen in fifteen years in the air corps.

Tailgunner John F. Angel, of 410 Bloomsberry avenue, Baltimore, said: "One Jap pilot flying a fighter zoomed so close I could see his face. That's the closest I've even been to an honest-to-goodness Jap."

Fires Burning In Kobe After Superfort Raid

B-29 Bomber Headquarters, Guam, Feb. 5 (AP)—Returning pilots from the first Superfortress raid on Kobe, Japan, reported today that more than 34 fires were visible as they left the city.

Twelve of the large ones were burning fiercely along the western edge of the Mitsubishi heavy industries which is primarily a ship-building plant covering 10,200,000 square feet and containing eighteen main buildings.

Other fires sprang up almost immediately in the center of the city. Two others were seen in the most congested part of Japan's sixth largest city, near the waterfront.

The sizable force encountered moderate fighter opposition and moderate anti-aircraft defenses but no B-29's were lost in combat. One

Rightist Party Calls For Political Reform

Mexico City, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Rightest Opposition Party, Accion Nacional, voted in national assembly yesterday to "prepare the citizens" for next year's presidential elections.

The party called for political reform and for "authentic social reform," and said there has been "monopoly in government" for 30 years.

Manuel Gomez Morin was re-elected head of the group.

At War Since 1941, Ecuador Declares

Quito, Feb. 5 (AP)—Ecuador, which broke relations with the Axis powers in January, 1942, announced today that she now considers herself at war with Japan.

A communique said: "The Government is pleased to declare that Ecuador, since the date of the attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, has been and is in a state of war with Japan."

The United States has been operating defense bases from Ecuadorean territory for more than two years.

Canadian Conscription Policy Receives Rebuff in By-Election

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Feb. 5—(AP) Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King's compromise conscription policy received a rebuff today when defense minister Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton was defeated by 1,305 votes in his bid to represent the Grey North constituency in Parliament.

Final results in the Grey North by-election gave Garfield Case, conservative candidate of the official opposition to King's government, 7,338 votes to McNaughton's 6,033. The candidate of the Cooperative Commonwealth federation, Air Vice Marshal A. Earl Godfrey, ran a poor third with 3,136 votes.

All Canada was studying the balloting tonight for its bearing on the Dominion's immediate political future. The Prime Minister's policy on conscription had been made the prime issue in the campaign in which McNaughton sought the seat in Commons, necessary if he was to continue to hold his post in the government.

An early dissolution of Parliament with a general election sometime in April or May is expected.

The government policy resulted in drafting limited numbers of Canada's conscripted home army for overseas duty. This policy was a compromise between the desires of anti-conscriptionist French-speaking Canada, opposed to any form of conscription, and those of a large section of the rest of the country favoring all-out conscription.

The Prime Minister issued a 300-word statement at Ottawa saying the outcome of the election "raises immediately the question as to whether or not any useful purpose can be served by having another session of Parliament before a general election."

"As everyone is aware, I have sought all along to avoid a general election while our men are fighting at the front," he said.

"The by-election has, however, raised the question of whether by their attitude in the present campaign the parties which have offered opposition to the government in the by-election have not created and fostered the very circumstances which make a general election inevitable and this at what may well prove to be the most critical of all stages of the war.

"To this aspect of the situation the government will give immediate and close attention."

King said the returns made it apparent that General McNaughton would have been elected if he had had more time to campaign instead of being restricted by his duties as defense minister.

McNaughton himself asserted in a broadcast that "the forces of Tory reaction have won the first skirmish in the great battle which must now be joined."

Case, 45-year-old insurance agent, commented that he did not look upon his victory as a personal one, but rather as one of my people.... and the boys overseas."

As a result of the by-election Prime Minister King is expected to dissolve Parliament shortly without another session, in which event Case will have been elected to a seat he can never take.

As another result of the voting, King is expected to delay the date of a general election, which he may set at his discretion, until events abroad or at home promise a more favorable showing for his liberal party.

Severe Blow To King

The showing of the CCF, aided by Canada's Political Action Committee, counterpart of the PAC in the United States, was weaker than had been generally expected. In the 1943 provincial elections they polled 3,777 votes in this constituency, against the Liberals' 5,400 and the Conservatives' 5,158.

The Canadian PAC was making its first campaign effort, directed chiefly among the 1,400 union members in small Owen Sound factories.

In electing Case the voters choice the only local candidate among the three, General McNaughton and Air Vice Marshal Godfrey residing in other Ontario constituencies. Case based much of his platform on this fact, although he alone with other speakers of his party made the Government's manpower policy the main issue.

In Ottawa, the Federal capital, General McNaughton's defeat was regarded as a severe blow to the King Government's prestige.

SEN. VANDENBERG PROPOSES TREATY TO INSURE PEACE

DETROIT, Feb. 5—(AP) Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), urging his plan for an immediate treaty against future Axis aggression, declared tonight it would help cure the differences now dividing the Allies.

Attributing those differences to one-nation actions affecting the interests of all, he said such moves are being made by Allies in fear of the Axis of the future and ignorance of where their friends—particularly the United States—will stand.

Keep Axis Disarmed

"Unless and until they know that they can depend upon America to join effectively in keeping Germany and Japan demilitarized, they will continue to go their own way," he added.

"Peace itself is the issue at this point," the senator asserted, arguing that "an unjust peace will break out of any strait jacket the wit of man can devise. It ought to."

The commitment he proposes, Vandenberg said, would give us the right to demend a voice in settlements and revision of any that have been made unilaterally in conflict with our and world interests.

"I do not pretend to say that we, by dictation, can have it all our own way," he said in an address prepared for the Variety Club here. "But I do presume to say that by the same token no other member of the Grand Alliance, by dictation, can have it all his own way either."

Asserting that "silence confuses our Allies" and even our own people, Vandenberg told his home state audience:

"It is time for us to say what we will do. It is time for us to say what we will not do."

He adopted the language of the Atlantic Charter which he called "the bone and sinew of our flaming forward march," and gave this as the outline of fundamentals for the world and for American self-interest:

To Prevent Future Wars

"First—the inexpressibly vital need to prevent World War number three through collective security. Second—the paramount importance of a just peace if it is to be a permanent peace. Third—the hazard to these objectives if each of the United Nations starts going its own way even before we have clinched our total victory."

"A hard and fast treaty" among the major Allies "to keep Germany and Japan out of piracy for keeps," Vandenberg said, would greatly simplify erection of the general peace machinery planned at Dumbarton Oaks. Enemies will have been dealt with, he pointed out, and "we have remaining only our friends to consider in charting the organization."

"The only real controversy inside America respecting Dumbarton Oaks," he said, "is whether the President shall have the power, without reference to Congress, to join our armed forces with those of the peace league to stop renewed military aggression."

The anti-Axis treaty, he continued, would make that question, from the standpoint of effectiveness, largely academic.

He explained that the list of possible major aggressors would be narrowed to those nations now our friends, and said that such a turnabout from friend to enemy never would be an overnight affair. The people, the Congress and the executive, he declared, would have time to reach full accord before the measures short of armed force were exhausted—investigation, conciliation, mediation, arbitration, world court action, perhaps even economic sanctions.

Text of Vandenberg's Program

DETROIT, Feb. 5 (AP).—The text of an address by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, before a meeting of the Variety Club tonight:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:

With deepest gratitude, I thank you for your generosity to me upon this fine occasion. Under pressure of the times in Washington, I rarely have an opportunity to get back to home, sweet home, during these days and nights which try the souls of men and test the fate of nations. You may understand, therefore, why I so deeply appreciate your hospitality. I shall respond by gratefully taking advantage of the occasion to tell you what is in my heart regarding the dedications which must be closest to yours.

One: America must win this war as swiftly and conclusively as possible, and no interruptions to the supply lines which sustain our intrepid soldier sons can be tolerated for a single, bloody instant. Two: America must seek a peace which justifies this sacrifice and martyrdom, which searches for justice as a substitute for force, and which plans a free world for free men.

In the time at my disposal I concentrate upon this latter aim. We have relative unity in this fraternity of battle. We sometimes drift dangerously away from a kindred but equally indispensable fraternity for peace. It is our responsibility to see to it that if this unity-for-peace disintegrates, it is not our America which shall be held at fault when the books of history are balanced. In my view, we cannot serve this solemn function by further silence in respect to our attitudes. That silence confuses our Allies. It often provides them with the reason which they plead to justify unilatereal decisions which collide with our ideals. It may dangerously invite the conclusion that our silence gives our own consent by default. It even confuses our own people who frequently cry out in anguish for the definition of our aims. It is time for us to say what we will do. It is time for us to say what we will not do. And it is time for us to start the doing.

That is my theme tonight.

A Few Fundamentals

As a basis for our thinking, let me lay down a few fundamentals. The first is the recognition of a physical fact. Since Pearl Harbor, the ghastly countenance of war has become more sinister than ever before in the nightmares of the human race. The awful science of mass murder has made more progress—what a word!—in three cruel years than in all the centuries since time began. And this new science is only in its lethal infancy. Contemplate the robot bomb in its maturity! Contemplate the refinements of "jet propulsion" when it still further reduces this fore-shortened world to an intimate neighborhood! Contemplate a war of push-buttons in which human flesh and blood are at the mercy of mechanized disaster! I need not labor the point.

This war, God knows, is bad enough. But world war number three will open new laboratories of death too horrible to contemplate. I propose to do everything within my power to keep those laboratories closed for keeps. I make this pledge in the name of humane common sense. But more than that, I make it in the name of American self-interest. Times have changed. The oceans are no longer moats around our ramparts. Once upon a time Detroit could wait for the enemy to get to Windsor. In the next world war, an enemy half way around the globe will be just as close. No nation hereafter can immunize itself by its own exclusive action. Only collective security can stop the next great war before it starts. Therefore collective security is to our advantage: and we serve America if we can help to make it work.

But this brings me immediately to my second fundamental. We can not make it work alone. Unshared idealism is not an asset: it is a liability. It takes something more than a "paper league" to keep the peace. An unjust peace will break out of any straitjacket the wit of man can devise. It ought to. Collective security will be no stronger than the merits of the cause it implements. Therefore it is to our own American self-interest also to keep this objective forever at our masthead—peace with justice! Not because we want to meddle in the problems of other continents, but because there can be no peace without justice! Let me be specific. I am talking about the basic aspirations of the Atlantic Charter. It is not just a nautical collection of fragmentary notes. It is bone and sinew of our flaming forward march. I quote:

"No aggrandizement, territorial or otherwise!"

"No territorial changes which do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned!"

"The right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live!"

"Sovereign rights and self-government restored to those who have been forcibly deprived of them!"

There Will Be Differences

There will be differences of opinion in the grand alliance about the meaning of these precious things. I do not pretend to say that we, by dictation, can have it all our own way. But I do presume to say that, by the same token, no other member of the grand alliance, by dictation, can have it all his own way either. I do not speak belligerently. I speak with deepest respect for the utterly magnificent contribution which each of our major allies is making to the coming victory. But I speak with equal respect for our own fabulous American contribution. I speak with a profound prayer that the friendly, helpful unity among us shall never fall apart. But I speak also in the belief that candor now will do more for this priceless unity than will disillusionment tomorrow.

This brings me to my third fundamental. The President has correctly said: "The nearer we come to vanquishing our enemies the more we become inevitably conscious of differences among the victors." How do these dangerous differences disclose themselves? Usually by unilateral decisions in which one or another among the United Nations makes its own announcement — pronounces its own ultimatum — regarding its own present or post-war plans and purposes. It puts its own interpretation upon its own rights regardless of the fact that these rights, for all of us, all flow from our common effort. I assert that all vital decisions should also flow from the same sort of a common effort.

Let me illustrate what I mean. The army that gets to Berlin first does not win for its nation the right to settle Germany's future just because it got to Berlin first. No nation's army would have reached Berlin at all except for the heroic, common combat of all the other nations' armies. This is just another way of saying that unity—unity for an ultimate lasting peace—is a constant, day-to-day necessity which must be nourished by all of us through constant, co-ordinated consultation—in war and then in peace—and through a reasonable regard for mutual sensibilities.

Now let's put these three fundamentals together and—in the name of honest, helpful candor—see whether they do not plainly point an immediate plan of action. You will remember the fundamentals. First: The inexpressively vital need to prevent World War III through collective security. Second: The paramount importance of a just peace if it is to be a permanent peace. Third: The hazard to these objectives if each of the United Nations starts going its own way even before we have clinched our total victory. Let's frankly face our American responsibilities in this connection.

It seems to me that the logic of the situation is fairly straight and simple.

Why do our allies take these disunifying steps? What's the reason given for partitioning Poland? For planning satellite conquests? For the Anglo-Soviet agreement of 1942, the Soviet-Czechoslovak agreement of 1943, the Franco-Soviet Treaty of 1944, and similar actions yet to come? What's the reason given for much of the resurgent movements toward alliances, and toward the old "power politics" which has been the world's prime curse? What's the reason?

It's Perfectly Understandable

It's perfectly understandable reason. It is a perfectly human reason. It is the frankly expressed fear of reborn Axis aggression in the years to come. Twice within one generation our continental allies have seen the German monster rise and overwhelm them. Twice within one generation they have been driven to the valley of the shadow by military aggression. They do not propose to be exposed again. Unless and until they know that they can depend upon America to join effectively in keeping Germany and Japan de-militarized, they will continue to go their own way. The truth of the matter is that it was the failure to keep Germany demilitarized after World War I which made possible World War II.

In the face of these circumstances, my fellow citizens, I ask you whether our immediate duty—our tremendously great, immediate opportunity — is not clear? America has the same self-interest in keeping Germany and Japan permanently and effectively demilitarized as have her closer victims. America has the keenest sort of self-interest in preventing the threat of reborn Axis aggression from driving the rest of the world into another era of separate alliances because that, too, is the road to another war. In other words, here is one, common danger—one, common objective — in which we have a complete and basic common interest.

Why not face it now? Why not act now? Regardless of any other peace plans, and regardless of whether we agree or disagree among ourselves regarding them, here is one thing that must be done regardless of whether we do anything else at all. Here is one thing that must be done—namely, the permanent demilitarization of Germany and Japan—unless we are blinder than bats in respect to history, following World War I, and unless we are to be guilty of the colossal sin of dissipating victory after World War II.

It is in response to this irresistible logic of events that I have proposed and continue to propose that America shall sign up now with all her major allies to join in a hard-and-fast treaty, solemnly ratified by the Senate of the United States, which pledges our constant armed co-operation, instantly and peremptorily available through the President of the United States without further reference to the Congress, to keep Germany and Japan out of piracy for keeps. I propose that we say—beyond misunderstanding—that this fiendish thing shall not rise again. I propose that we shall practice what we preach. I propose that no other nation shall have any further chance to use our silence as an alibi for ulterior designs, if such there be. I propose action instead of words. I propose action now—before it is too late. I propose it for the sake of a better world. But I say, "again and again and again," that I propose it for our own American self-interest.

Aside from the incalculable major advantage thus to be gained, there are at least two collateral advantages of scarcely secondary moment. I discuss them briefly.

Subject to Review

When we have relieved our allies of any legitimate fear of re-born Axis aggression, we also have relieved them of any legitimate need, each on his own unchecked account, to make unilateral decisions, from time to time, in the name of self-defense. We shall have earned the right to demand that whatever such decisions may have been made in the process of war—and I concede that such decisions may sometimes be unavoidable—we shall have earned the right to demand that all such decisions shall be subject to review and correction in the post-war peace by whatever international organization we set up to perpetuate the solidarity of the United Nations. In other words, and in plain terms, we shall have earned the right to demand peace with justice—the only kind of peace which can survive. A spoilsman's peace will not survive. Therefore, peace itself is the issue at this point. Furthermore, one of the greatest arguments against early action on the Dumbarton Oaks plan for a post-war league will have been substantially removed because, otherwise, it can be persuasively urged that America is asked to sign a warrant to help sustain an unknown future which may be too repugnant to us to deserve or to get any such fidelity from justice-loving America.

This brings me to the second collateral, but dreadfully important, dividend from this program. It brings me to Dumbarton Oaks. If we first deal with our enemies through unequivocal post-war restraits upon them, we have remaining only our friends to consider in charting the organization of our post-war peace league. This immensely simplifies our problem. The only real controversy inside America respecting Dumbarton Oaks is whether the President shall have the power, without reference to Congress, to join [illegible] our armed forces with those of the peace league to stop renewed military aggression. After we have given him this unquestioned power in respect to our enemies, I think I can prove that the creation of such a power for use against our friends becomes almost an academic question from the standpoint of reality.

Would Be a Former Ally

Remember, we are now arranging a peace formula with our friends. We have taken care of our enemies. Remember that we are now talking only about the future use of force against one of our present allies who subsequently becomes a military aggressor to threaten the peace of the world. Obviously it can be only one of our present major allies. It will have to be a present major ally who has broken a solemn pledge to abandon force as an instrumentality of foreign policy. It will have to be a major ally who has successfully defied all of the intervening machinery for the pacific settlement of disputes contemplated by Dumbarton Oaks. This means full investigation and report; then conciliation; then mediation, then arbitration; probably the intervention of international law through the medium of a new world court; perhaps even economic sanctions. The new crisis will not be a blitz. It will not come upon the world like a thief in the night. It will finally reach the last recourse—namely, armed force — only after the other United Nations (which is to say, the conscience of the world) has been put upon serial notice that one of our present major allies has turned brute beast and proposes to assault civilization.

Such a challenge would be of such gravity that no President in his right mind—whether he has the actual power or not—would think for an instant of committing America to such a war without knowing that he had his country and the Congress behind him. On the other hand, no Congress would hesitate for an instant to respond to such a challenge. We declared war on Japan in thirteen minutes and on Germany in five. That ought to be sufficiently expeditious. In other words, I repeat, it means nothing, in a practical sense, whether the President himself is given this final power or not, so far as the functioning of the peace league is concerned. But, in a practical sense, it may mean infinitely much in the decision of the American people as to whether they might reject the whole Dumbarton Oaks adventure, if they are asked to give the President this exclusive power against one of our present allies in the face of a plain constitutional injunction that only Congress can declare war.

Oh, but, you ask, if "only Congress can declare war," how can you give the President plenary power to use our armed forces to keep the Axis permanently demilitarized? The answer is that for 150 years the Constitution has permitted the President to use this plenary power for "the national defense" short of war—and it repeatedly has thus been used without question. The permanent demilitarization of the Axis, when once authorized by Congress through the Senate's ratification of a treaty, would not involve a new "declaration of war." It would only be the lengthened shadow of the present war. It would clearly fall within the Presidential authority under the Constitution.

Genius of Dumbarton Oaks

Now you probably ask: "Should the peace league have no force available, except against our erstwhile foes?" My answer is that the peace league certainly should maintain constant staff work in planning the ultimate mobilization of military force; it certainly should have peremptorily available, so far as we are concerned, such military force as is traditionally granted under the Constitution to the President for "national defense"; but, remembering there is to be unlimited force for use against our present foes, it does not need the final war power which the Constitution of the United States commits exclusively to the Congress of the United States.

My further, and fundamental, answer is that the genius of Dumbarton Oaks, in correct perspective, is not the use of military force at all. The genius of Dumbarton Oaks is the exact opposite. It is the substitution of justice for force. It is the substitution of international law for piracy. It is the substitution of peace for war. Its genius lies in the organization of these pacific mechanisms which shall stop future frictions short of the necessity for force. Its genius lies in the mobilization of the vigilant moral and spiritual power of enlightened civilization against the dark and evil forces of recurrent savagery. If this power has been dormant and impotent it is because it has lacked a vigorous world instrument for organized expression. In my deep conviction, Dumbarton Oaks, in proper form, can supply this tremendous instrument.

All of these benedictions become possible just as soon as we have permanently quarantined the Axis lusts. Oh yes, I have oversimplified the problem. I have no illusions that this tough old world will suddenly quit its sins because a formula is born. I promise no millenium. I am not so naive as to believe that the earth can suddenly rid itself of national rivalries. But I respectfully submit that here lies a way of hope. It, or something like it, will take us out of our foreign policy vacuum. It will untie our tongues and once more make us vocal in behalf of our ideals. It will save us from the dangerous misunderstandings which our continued silence might invite. It will certainly promise a better peace, and, therefore, a safer and a longer peace. And it is practical because it plainly conserves self-interest (unless "self-interest" involves ulterior and sinister designs) for all concerned in this great fraternity of allied war.

Insurance Against War

I do not object, my fellow citizens, to the vigilance of any nation in behalf of its own self-interest. That is what nations are for. I am frank to say that I want our intelligent, American self-interest just as vigorously protected by our spokesmen as British self-interest is always protected by Mr. Churchill and as the self-interests of the Soviets always are protected by Mr. Stalin. But I cannot escape the conviction that an insurance policy against World War III is basic in the self-interest of every civilized nation in this distraught world, America emphatically included.

Certainly that is an expression of American self-interest. We give up nothing except the inevitable curse of another involvement in another war if it ever comes. We do not sacrifice our independence. We join no world state. We do not desert the Constitution. We leave the Stars and Stripes in all their pride and glory on the domes of Washington. We simply join ourselves, in continued united fraternity with our battle comrades, in a great co-operative adventure for a better earth. We do it for the sake of free men in a free world. We do it in the name of justice. We do not do it if justice is denied. If we can start it now, our allied unity will have new vigor. The end of all our present wars will respond more quickly to our prayers. We shall vindicate our soldier-sons. We shall keep the word of promise to our hopes. We shall save our children's children. We shall have earned the right to beseech God's blessing on our dreams.

826 CIVILIANS SET FOR WAR EXCHANGE

U. S. Citizens and Others From the Americas, Freed by Reich, Await Trip Here

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The State Department announced today that 826 civilian citizens of Western Hemisphere countries, including many United States nationals, have arrived in Switzerland through an exchange arrangement with Germany.

As many of them as possible will be brought home on the exchange ship Gripsholm, but some will have to be left behind "because of the large number of seriously sick and wounded American and Canadian prisoners of war who are being given priority for accommodation on the vessel."

The department made public a list of the civilians arriving in Switzerland and said that, later, it will publish a second list showing those traveling on the Gripsholm.

The following persons were reported by the department as having died in Switzerland: Recha Kauffmann, Alfred E. Spanjaard, Hedwig Weinberg and Margarete Wiener, New York.

"In addition to the persons delivered in Switzerland," the State Department said, "thirty-four Cuban nationals who had already been delivered by the Germans in the spring under a previous agreement are now released for travel to their native country."

The department said those persons who could not be brought home on the Gripsholm would get "appropriate care" until transportation can be provided.

These are the names of the United States nationals received in Switzerland, with home towns in cases where addresses are known:

1,200 U. S. PRISONERS REMOVED TO GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—(AP) Twelve hundred American prisoners of war were removed to Germany from a camp near Posen, Poland, ahead of liberating Russian armies, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) was advised today.

The Senator said his information came from the United States embassy in Switzerland, through the State department.

From a camp identified as Oflag 64, at Schubin, Poland, the men were taken to Stalag camp No. 3-A, at Luckenwald, Germany.

Concerned about the fate of 65 Texans who were confined at Schubin, Connally last week directed a cable to the United States ambassador to Russia, W. Averell Harriman, inquiring whether Russian forces might have liberated the Americans held there.

The word from Switzerland telling of their removal was received in response.

U.S. SUB TANG BELIEVED LOST

Fails To Return From Patrol; 37th Missing To Date

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The submarine Tang has failed to return from a war patrol and is presumed lost, the Navy announced today.

The Tang was the thirty-seventh submarine lost since the start of the war. Thirty-one have been lost on patrol, four sunk accidentally and two destroyed to prevent capture.

While the navy communiqué did not state the area in which the Tang disappeared, virtually all American submersibles now operate in the Western Pacific.

Normal Complement 65 To 70

The Tang, the normal complement of which was about 65 to 70 men, was in command of Commander Richard H. O'Kane, 34. His wife, the former Ernestine Groves of Chapel Hill, N.C., lives in San Rafael, Cal.

Two other submarines on which O'Kane had served were lost after he had left them for other assignments.

Loss Of Tanker Announced

Earlier in the day the Navy announced the loss of an American tanker, the Fort Lee, in the Indian Ocean last November from an enemy torpedo.

The brief announcement said only:

"The S.S. Fort Lee, a medium-sized United States tanker, was torpedoed and sunk in the Indian Ocean early in November, 1944.

"Survivors have landed in the United States."

Peril Seen For World Money Pact

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, today said that if the advice of the American Bankers Association is followed, "chances are it would kill the whole Bretton Woods monetary agreement."

"I don't think their advice will be listened to," the Secretary told a news conference. "I hope not, anyway."

The ABA yesterday issued a report approving the general principles of international monetary co-operation adopted at the Bretton Woods (N.H.) conference, but advocated that the proposed international monetary fund be ditched and its function incorporated in the proposed international bank for reconstruction and development.

Agreement Reached

The fund and the bank were agreed upon by representatives of 44 nations. A bill will be introduced in Congress shortly for United States's participation.

Morgenthau said the ABA report was made by a committee of the association. He hopes, he added, that in the final analysis bankers will "see just a little further than their own immediate business and realize that no instrument can be perfect and will indorse Bretton Woods."

He said he was "disappointed" at the committee's suggestions, for "I thought their horizon would be a little broader."

Opponents of the League of Nations, Morgenthau said, gave it "the kiss of death by suggesting amendments."

"Up To Governments"

He added that "these people know that."

He then asserted that "it has been proven, as far as I am concerned, that people in the international banking business cannot run successfully foreign exchange markets. It is up to the governments to do it. We propose to do this, if and when the legislative bodies approve Bretton Woods.

Mongenthau said: "Of course, the Bretton Woods agreement is not a perfect instrument. Nobody said it is."

"The important thing," he asserted is: "Let's get something started."

"After all, this is the first agreement among 44 nations on any economic issue that will go to Congress. The rest of the world is sitting back and waiting for the United States to take the lead."

Bretton Fund Plan Hit By Bankers

New York, Feb. 5 (AP) — The American Bankers Association put the stamp of approval yesterday on the proposed $10,000,000,000 international bank for reconstruction, but turned thumbs down on its Bretton Woods twin, the international monetary fund.

In its long-awaited report on the monetary program which grew out of the Bretton Woods conference of 44 nations last July, the A.B.A. objected to the monetary fund as a method of lending which is "novel and contrary to accepted credit principles," and which goes far beyond the standards "heretofore accepted by the United States in recognizing and approving changes in currency values and maintenance of exchange controls."

"Satisfactory Principles"

The proposed international bank, on the other hand, "embodies satisfactory principles and procedures," the report said, "and if we assume good management, the institution should be able to operate soundly and effectively."

The fund, as approved by the Bretton Woods conference, would be constituted at $8,800,000,000, to be contributed by the various nations on a quota basis. Its main purpose would be the lending of money to nations who might need it to maintain their balance of trade with other countries.

The international bank would be set up to grant loans, or to guarantee those of private investors, for reconstrutcion and development purposes when the element of risk precluded the use of private capital. Its eventual capital would be $10,000,000,000, but only 20 per cent of each nation's contribution would be in gold or currency, the remainder being constituted as a guarantee fund callable as needed.

Need For Program Seen

Although it condemned the monetary fund, the bankers' report recognized a need for some form of currency-stabilization program and recommended that the international bank be given the "responsibility" for arranging agreements, removal of exchange controls and general rules of procedure in carrying out monetary policies.

It also recommended that the lending powers of the bank be "broadened sufficiently to allow it to make loans under the same safeguards as the other loans of the bank for the purpose of aiding countries in stabilizing their currencies."

"These provisions should enable the bank to carry out all the essential purposes of the fund in a sound and practical matter," the report said.

Fund Increase Suggested

Furthermore, the bankers suggested that the capital funds of the Export-Import Bank of Washington be increased from $700,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 to "provide means for meeting promptly deserving credit needs prior to the setting up of an international bank" and to "enable the United States to make loans in which this country has special interest and which can be made more effectively through a national institution than through an international body."

Finally, they recommended that the Johnson Act and "any analogous provisions in the Neutrality Act now standing in the way of private loans to certain foreign countries be repealed."

Test In Congress Near

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Bretton Woods international monetary fund will get its first crucial test in Congress probably this month.

Experts for the House Banking Committee, working with Treasury and State Department officials, now are drafting a bill to legalize United States participation in the international credit pool.

SOLDIERS' GRAVES IN FRANCE INTACT

Washington, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Congress received assurance today that the graves of 30,439 American dead of world war I in France and Belgium were not desecrated by the retreating German Army in recent fighting.

Major Charles B. Shaw, officer in charge of the American Battle Monuments Commission, told the House Appropriations Committee that the cemeteries suffered very little damage in the world war II fighting in France and Belgium.

Explaining, he said: "The Germans went by them so fast they made no stand."

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today 2,066 casualties in the European, Mediterranean and Southwest Pacific areas.

In all of these cases next of kin have previously been notified and have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status.

Says Big 3 Is Ready With Surrender Terms

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 5 (AP)—Julius C. Holmes, Assistant Secretary of State, said tonight Great Britain, Russia and the United States were ready to impose surrender terms on Germany "at a moment's notice."

The three nations, he said in a speech at a Kansas legislative dinner, pledged joint action at the Moscow Conference to enforce surrender terms imposed upon Germany.

"Since then the three governments have worked diligently together in the formulation of the necessary plans for such joint action. These plans are ready to be put into effect at a moment's notice.

"Similar arrangements will be made with respect to Japan by the nations at war with Japan."

Envoy To Ethiopia Named

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Felix Cole, of Washington, D.C., now secretary of the American legation at Monrovia, Liberia, was nominated by President Roosevelt today to be United States Minister to Ethiopia.

B-29 Production Up 13 Per Cent

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Production of the B-29 Superfortresses climbed thirteen per cent in January over December.

The increased production of the sky gaint was disclosed today by J. A. Krug, chairman of the War Production Board, in his monthly report on aircraft production.

While the January output of 6,535 planes fell four per cent behind the month's schedule, and was two per cent below the December output of 6,697 planes, total weight of planes increased one per cent.

How Many Not Disclosed

The weight increase, despite the numerically fewer planes produced, emphasizes the trend toward bigger and heavier planes, rather than larger numbers.

Krug did not announce how many B-29's were turned out by the four factories building them in January. The most recent figures of B-29 production were for December and these covered only two plants. The Boeing at Wichita, Kan., built 100 that month and the Boeing plant at Renton, Wash., turned out 35.

Transport Ouptut Low

Other plants building the B-29 are Bell at Marietta, Ga., and Martin at Omaha, Neb.

Krug described the output of four-engine transports as disappointing, missing schedule by twenty per cent. Production of two-engine and single-engine transports was up to schedule.

For the first time Krug announced an analysis of the month's output on a category basis. For January it was bombers, 2,397; fighters and navy reconnaissance, 2,907; transports, 653; trainers, 252; communication and special purpose, 326.

SENATE ACTION DELAYS PASSAGE OF LABOR DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 — (AP) The Administration's drive for swift enactment of manpower control legislation bumped into a delaying snag today.

After edging up last week to tentative approval of an amended version of the House bill, the Senate Military committee did an about face to work at assigned war tasks.

War, Navy Officials to Appear

Secretary of War Stimson, Undersecretary Robert Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal were asked to appear tomorrow morning and give their views at a closed committee session.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) said other witnesses—perhaps representatives from agriculture and labor—probably would be heard.

Asked if he thought the hearings could be completed this week, Thomas replied with a negative. He added, however, that "not many" witnesses would be heard and he thought the hearings could be concluded "readily."

Three Republicans—Senators Revercomb (W-Va), Robertson (Wyo) and Taft (Ohio)—meantime introduced in the Senate a proposed substitute for the House bill. Their measure would give statutory backing to the War Manpower commission's job referral plan and its "ceilings" on the number of persons an employer may hire. A similar bill failed in the House by 10 votes.

"The passage of this substitute," Revercomb declared, "will do away with the features of enforced labor and the absolute control of the government over individual citizens."

Under the "limited hearings" decision, the committee will hear only invited witnesses, will hear them in closed sessions, and will limit each witness to half an hour.

When it first took up the proposed legislation, the committee decided against hearings on the ground that the arguments pro and con already had been fully aired.

Fight Over Manpower Control

Back of today's reversal lay a controversy over the question whether control of manpower placement should be lodged under James F. Byrnes' office of War Mobilization or Selective Service.

As passed by the House and tentatively approved by the Senate committee last week, the bill would provide for the induction, imprisonment or fining of males in the 18-45 bracket who disregarded government orders to stay on the job or to transfer to other jobs deemed more essential.

The House version, however, would give local Selective Service boards the say about who should be shifted. The Senate committee changed this to put Byrnes in charge and authorize him to delegate the actual placement to any other agency of government. This amendment was backed by those who would rather see the program under the War Manpower commission than under Selective Service. The War department took an official stand last week in favor of putting the program under Byrnes. Senator Johnson (D-Col) angrily asserted Saturday, however, that the department had "doublecrossed" the committee and was secretly urging that the program be under Selective Service.

Today, Johnson said in a statement that Undersecretary Patterson had telephoned him saying the Department "made a mistake in suggesting any change" and was backing the plan to put the program under Byrnes.

A. F. L. Council Asks Voluntary Service Control

Denies Man-Power Crisis Exists, Says Cut-Backs Will Release 350,000

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 5 (AP).—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today threw its support behind the Taft bill, providing voluntary man-power controls, with the declaration that 350,000 workers will be released before June 1 because of cutbacks in war contracts.

The council, consisting of the fifteen top leaders of the American Federation of Labor, opened mid-winter sessions here by vigorously opposing the May work-or-jail bill and all forms of compulsory work legislation.

The measure offered as a substitute by Senator Robert A. Taft, Republican, of Ohio, would provide for voluntary transfers of man power.

"The man-power supply is adequate to meet the demand under a voluntary system," said the council, asking that the War Man-Power Commission be continued as the agency handling the problem, rather than the Selective Service System, as has been proposed.

"Even the exaggerated demands could be met," the council said, adding that the W. M. C. estimated the demand at 1,600,000 for the period from January through June, 1945. Of this number, 300,000 are critically needed in war plants, another 400,000 are wanted in war-supporting industries, and 900,000 are to be drafted into the armed services.

To meet the demand, the council said it took government figures to show that:

Released veterans returning to industry would number 400,000; young persons coming of age and new workers would total 550,000; workers released by cutbacks and runouts 350,000; increasing productivity will release 100,000; unemployed and released from government jobs 100,000; from non-essential industries 100,000.

Since there are 44,000,000 workers in non-munitions industries and farms, the council thought that the estimate of 100,000 which could be obtained from non-essential industries would be very conservative.

Increasing productivity in airplanes alone, the council said, had caused release of 300,000 workers from November, 1943, to September, 1944, while production was on the increase.

"There is no over-all man-power shortage, no man-power crisis," said the A. F. of L. leaders.

Contract Awards Criticized

The council suggested that providing pay for transportation and per diem allowance while living and working away from home would "liberate thousands to go to war jobs."

It said that in the fourteen critical war industries listed by the W. M. C. in January, man power was not a major problem in thirteen of the fourteen industries. "The chief bottlenecks were technical, growing out of the constantly changing needs of the battlefront."

They were critical of the procurement services, and said the military and naval branches did not plan contract awards so as to use facilities fully. In awarding contracts, the A. F. L. leaders said, "the armed services frequently permit a well-equipped plant with skilled man power to close down for lack of contracts, while work which the plant could do is awarded in a tight labor market creating a labor shortage."

They said nine shops were currently releasing 70,000 men, thousands of them highly skilled, because the landing craft program is completed and the procurement services have not awarded new work to these plants. Work calling for their skills is being sent elsewhere, the council said.

RUSSIA BALKS WRITERS' VISIT

Grew Reveals State Department Can't Open Up Balkans

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—Soviet Russia has a virtual stranglehold on news reporting in the Balkans and insists on maintaining it despite American urgings that correspondents be admitted freely into the area.

This was disclosed today in a series of developments here and in Rome, bringing to light one of the more delicate problems currently involving the leading Allied powers.

In Rome public relations officers at Allied headquarters said prolonged negotiations had failed to gain access for American and British correspondents as a group to any of the Balkan countries except Greece.

Greece Alone Is Open

Greece is a British military area. The rest of the Balkans is a sphere of Russian military operations. While those countries which were formerly enemy nations are controlled by Allied commissions, Russian officials and Russian policies generally predominate.

At his news conference today Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew was asked to comment on the Rome disclosures and he outlined the situation this way:

For some time the United States has asked that American correspondents be admitted freely into the Balkan countries and that the Soviet head of the control commission in each country be authorized to act on applications for admittance.

Mass Permission Banned

As the matter now stands the Soviet Government prefers to consider each application separately. Grew said it prefers this course for military reasons.

It is understood, he added, that one or more applications are now pending and it is the attitude of the State Department vigorously to support these applications.

The Rome report said Marshal Tito's Government has permitted one British correspondent to go into Yugoslavia but that otherwise no American or British correspondents had been given official permission to go from Italy to Yugoslavia since a press party made a brief trip to Belgrade in November.

In Albania, which, like Yugoslavia, is a liberated country, the administration has rejected all correspondents' requests, and it also was reported that correspondents in Italy had met with no success to go to any other places in the Balkans.

U. S. WANTS ALL BALKAN STATES OPEN TO PRESS

Grew Says Department of State Vigorously Backs News Freedom.

REFERS TO MOSCOW CONTROL

Soviets Now Prefer for Military Reasons to Consider Each Application Separately.

Washington, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Acting Secretary of State Grew said today that the State Department vigorously supports applications of newspaper correspondents to go into the Balkans and report what is going on there. He made it clear that Moscow policies and Moscow administrations control the area to which correspondents have not been freely admitted.

He discussed the situation in response to reporters' questions about news coverage in the Balkans and the amount of news freedom planned for correspondents in Germany after military occupation begins.

London dispatches predicting tight censorship in post-war Germany were called to Mr. Grew's attention. His only comment was that the State Department favors the principle of correspondents going into occupied areas as soon as possible in accordance with military necessities.

He then was asked about dispatches from Rome stating that Allied Headquarters after long efforts had failed to gain access for American and British correspondents as a group to any of the Balkan countries except Greece.

He replied that from the very beginning we have asked that the principle be accepted for American correspondents to be admitted freely into the Balkan countries and that the Soviet head of the control commission be authorized to take action when so requested.

As the matter now stands, Mr. Grew continued, the Soviet Government prefers for military reasons to consider separately each application of a correspondent for coverage in the Balkans.

It is understood, he added, that one or more applications now are pending, and said that it is the attitude of the State Department vigorously to support these applications.

Asked whether there are any Soviet correspondents in Belgium, France, Holland or other places under Anglo-American domination, he answered that he could not say.

WOULD REVISE WATER TREATY

Warren Favors Rewriting Pact With Mexico.

Washington, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Gov. Earl Warren of California recommended today the rewriting of the United States - Mexico water treaty. He suggested to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the changes include:

1. Substitution of two separate treaties fitting the diverse conditions on the Rio Grande and the Colorado River, whose waters are distributed between the two countries under the pact now before the Senate for ratification.

"As to the Tijuana River, the treaty is worse than none," he contended. "It is only a delegation to the International Boundary and Water Commission of the power to make a treaty in the future, without the scrutiny of this Senate."

2. A sliding-scale allotment of water to Mexico, on the basis of a percentage of the outflow from Boulder Dam.

3. Removal from the commission's jurisdiction of administrative powers over the rivers, leaving such matters to regular departments of Government, and subject to congressional control.

4. Recognition of the sanctity of the obligation of the (Colorado River) compact between California and the United States and the several States interested in the waters of the Colorado River.

5. A prohibition against the commission or the American section thereof taking title to public or private property at the discretion of the commission and in place thereof a requirement that local authorized public agencies, whether State or Federal, be used as instrumentalities for carrying out local functions necessary or convenient to treaty requirements.

6. Elimination of Mexican participation in power revenues from the all-American canal project which revenues have already been granted to American public agencies by Congress.

SOLDIER'S WIFE DEFENDS STAND

Sentenced To Death, She Says, For Loyalty To Belief

Vancouver, Wash., Feb. 5 (AP)—While awaiting official word that the Army had sentenced her husband, Henry Weber, 27, to death for refusing to bear arms, Mrs. Grace Weber said here today:

"That's what Henry believes, and I'll stand behind him in that conviction." Private Weber was confined at Camp Roberts, Cal., today under sentence of death by hanging, convicted by a general court-martial of violating the 64th article of war.

Authorities at the vast infantry replacement training center, beyond confirming that much, refused to discuss the case.

The camp public-relations officer would neither confirm nor deny information from unofficial sources that Weber had been court-martialed because he refused to drill—a refusal that, it was said, persisted in a 45-minute argument with two officers.

Review By Three Authorities

The officer emphasized, however, that the verdict will be reviewed by the camp commandant, the War Department and the President.

Surrounded by realitves, who gathered after reading press reports that Private Weber had been courtmartialed for refusing to obey orders, and sentenced to death, Mrs. Weber expressed amazement that she had had no ocial word from the Army.

As their young son, Wayn, 3½, climbed on her lap, she told of her husband's objections to bearing arms.

"That is something Henry has believed since I've known him," she said. "The Army has known it, too.

At Registration And Induction

"He told them when he registered that he did not believe in killing his fellow men. When he went up for his physical examination he told them again.

"When he reported for induction, he tol dthe officers there about it, and they checked back with his d___ board. Then an officer advised him:

"'Well, there doesn't seem to be much we can do. If I were you, I'd object every place you can. . . . When they order you to carry a gun, object.'

"Here he's only following orders and they're going to shoot him."

Socialist Labor Party

Henry's objection to carrying arms, Mrs. Weber said, does not stem from religious convictions. He is a member of the American Socialist Labor party, which, she said, teaches that such killing is wrong.

A native of Wisconsin, young Weber came to Washington when a small boy.

Mrs. Weber said "a noncommissioned officer" advised her that Henry was released from a stockade, and told to "shoulder that gun." He refused, she said she was told, and the order was repeated. When he advised the officer that he objected only to carrying a gun and to training to kill human beings, his arrest followed.

Said To Asked Medical Duty

"Before he was inducted," she said, "he did not request assignment to a conscientious objectors' camp. He asked to be ssigned to a medical units or something like that—just so he wouldn't have to kill people."

In Washington, D. C., Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) told the Senate it was his information that Weber had been convicted of refusing to join his squad for drill. Demanding an investigation, the Senator declared: "It is inconceivable to me that Army officers would sentence a man to death because he refused to drill."

SENTENCED TO DIE FOR DRILL REFUSAL

Washington, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Senator Wheeler (D.-Mont.) demanded in the Senate today an investigation of an Army court martial death sentence on Private Henry Weber.

Senator Wheeler said that it was his information that Weber had been sentenced for refusal to join his squad at drill. He declared:

"It is inconceivable to me that Army officers would sentence a man to death because he refused to drill. If the Military Committee does not take up this matter I shall introduce a resolution calling for an investigation.

Camp Roberts, Cal., Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Private Henry Weber, 27 years old, of Vancouver, Wash., is under sentence of death, the result, it was said today, of his refusal to drill.

Weber's conviction by a general court-martial here of violating the sixty-fourth article of war, dealing with striking or willfully disobeying an officer, was announced by the Public Relations Office, which gave no details.

Other informants, however, said that Weber was inducted last year at Portland, Ore., had been a foreman in a Vancouver, Wash., shipyard and that his court-martial followed his refusal after forty-five minutes of argument with two officers, to join his squad for drill.

He was quoted as saying that he was not a conscientious objector, but that he was opposed to a war in which any few could, or would, gain.

The death sentence is subject to review by the commanding officer, the War Department and the President.

Merchant Fleet Plans Revealed

FEB 6 1945

Land Says U. S. Will Operate 16 Million Tons—Would Sell 12 Million to Allies.

Washington, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—Plans of the Maritime Commission for post-war operation of a merchant marine fleet of approximately 16,000,000 deadweight tons were disclosed today by the House Appropriations committee.

The plans were outlined by Admiral Emory S. Land, head of the Maritime Commission, during consideration of the Independent Offices Appropriation bill, and contemplate the disposal of some 12,000,000 tons of Uncle Sam's merchant shipping to bring Allied nations up to their 1939 merchant tonnage.

The estimated size of the American Merchant Marine at the end of 1944, Admiral Land said, was approximately 50,000,000 deadweight, or cargo - carrying tons, including oceangoing, coastwise and Great Lakes ships. This represents about two-thirds of the world deadweight tonnage afloat in 1939. In 1939, he told the committee, the United States operated 11,000,000 tons of merchant ships, while in the post-war period the flag should fly on a minimum of 15,000,000 tons.

"I am not sure that a I could substantiate that from an economic point of view," he declared, "but I can from a 135,000,000 peoples' point of view."

Would Sell, Not Give, Surplus.

Excess shipping, he said, should be offered for sale—not as gifts—to Allied nations so they can have the equivalent of their 1939 tonnage, while an indefinite number of ships should be laid up in reserve "as an insurance policy against world war III."

From seven to twelve million tons, he explained, would be needed to bring Allied nations' tonnage up to their 1939 levels, while another 5,000,000 or more tons should be set aside for naval use.

Admiral Land said he favored encouraging China to set up a merchant marine and believed Germany and Japan should be limited to coastwise shipping and not be permitted to haul cargo internationally.

The present United States Merchant Marine of 5,633 ships, he testified, includes 9,700,000 tons of tankers, approximately 11,000,000 tons of other modern vessels (but very few passenger-cargo ships), 29,000,000 tons of Liberty ships, and 2,100,000 tons of military-type vessels.

3-Billion Agency Bill Goes To House

FEB 6 1945

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—A $3,218,808,000 independent offices supply bill was sent to the House today by the Appropriations Committee.

It will finance the activities of more than a score of agencies and their subsidiaries during the twelve months starting next July 1.

Except for the Veterans' Administration, carrying a huge and steadily increasing load growing out of World War II, almost every agency had its funds sharply cut. The total in the bill is some $5,321,042,000 below funds given the same departments for the current year.

An increase of 113 per cent is provided in the Veterans' Administration outlay.

No Shipbuilding Funds

The decrease was due primarily to the fact that no funds were sought for continuation of the Maritime Commission's ship construction program, which received $6,766,000,000 last year.

Congress has already financed the ship-building program, which has seen 4,561 large type and 1,215 barges and power boats added to the United States merchant marine since 1936, in addition to 1,300 vessels scheduled for delivery this year.

The $2,707,119,250 recommended for the Veterans Administration is a boost of $1,436,707,185 over current year funds and reflects the added costs of administering new legislation, including the GI Bill of Rights.

Veterans' Hospitals

The committee approved to the penny a budget recommendation of $79,339,886 for constructing hospital and domiciliary facilities providing 14,100 additional beds and establishing eghteen new hosptals.

Other major outlays approved for the veterans agency included $227,675,000 for administration and operation of existing facilities; $1,080,150,000 for compensation, pensions and allowances to veterans and their dependents, about half of which is for World War II veterans, and $1,000,000,000 for payments to the national service life insurance fund for obligations under service men's insurance policies.

Large outlays recommended for other agencies included: Civil service retirement and disability fund, $245,000,000; Federal Works Agency, $139,978,657.

Planning Fund Cut

The committee chopped $72,680,000 from a $77,680,000 fund requested for public works advance planning under the War Mobilization and Reconversion Act, commenting that "progress should be made slowly" on this project until a more accurate picture can be obtained from the states as to what the postwar demand will be.

Backing up his request for additional funds, Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, told the committee the average daily hospital load in veterans' facilities will reach 90,172 in 1946. These cases are in addition to veterans receiving treatment in army and navy hospitals. Eventually, Hines added, 300,000 beds will be needed by his organization.

During the coming year, Hines said, 600,000 loans to veterans under the GI Bill of Rights will be guaranteed, over 371,700 veterans will receive readjustment allowances, approximately 239,000 claims for insurance benefits will be received, nearly 400,000 veterans will be receiving education or vocational rehabilitation and the number of veterans and dependents of deceased veterans on pension and compensation rolls will reach 1,974,821.

VETERANS' AGENCY FUND IS APPROVED

FEB 6 1945

Supply Bill Lists 113 P.C. Increase For Bureau

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—A 113 per cent increase in funds for the Veterans Administration was recommended today by the House Appropriations Committee.

Sending to the floor a $3,218,808,000 over-all measure to finance more than a score of agencies during the twelve months starting July 1, the committee cited the increased load on the Veterans Administration as a result of climbing casualties of World War II and new duties imposed by veterans' aid laws.

Others Listed For Reduction

Except for the Veterans Administration, virtually every agency financed by the independent offices supply bill, first big appropriation measure of the Seventy-ninth Congress, was listed for reduced funds.

Due primarily to the fact the Maritime Commission received no new ship-construction money, the total in the bill was $5,321,042,000 below the same measure last year, which carried $6,766,000,000 for the commission.

The committee pointed out that the commission's ship-building program already has been financed, no new-construction money being sought for the next fiscal year. This program has produced 4,561 large-type and 1,215 smaller type craft since 1936 to give the United States a merchant marine estimated at 50,000,000 deadweight tons. Some 1,300 additional vessels are scheduled for delivery this year.

A large part of this tonnage—perhaps 16,000,000 tons in addition to a laid-up reserve—will be kept after the war, the committee was told, while about 12,000,000 tons may be disposed by sale to Allied nations to bring their merchant tonnage back to 1939 levels.

The committee approved almost to the penny the budget of the Veterans Administration, calling for an over-all outlay of $2,707,119,250, an increase of $1,436,707,185 over current year appropriations.

Construction of hospital facilities, providing 14,100 additional beds and including 18 new hospitals, will account for $79,339,886. Most of the balance will be used for administering existing facilities, paying pensions to veterans and their dependents, and handling benefits provided by the GI Bill of Rights.

ARMY ADDS 70,000 BEDS TO HOSPITALS

Wounded Coming From Overseas At 30,000-A-Month Rate

Washington, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Army announced today that the bed capacity of its general and convalescent hospitals will be increased by 70,000.

Sick and wounded soldiers are being returned from overseas at the rate of 30,000 a month, an increase of approximately 21,000 a month over the first six months of 1944.

At the time the hospital expansion was first contemplated, six months ago, the Army had 61 general hospitals with 21,000 beds and nine convalescent hospitals with 30,000. Since then some facilities have been added.

By Conversion And Expansion

Additional facilities will be obtained through the temporary conversion of four station hospitals to the general and convalescent type and the expansion of several convalescent hospitals.

The four station hospitals, which will be known as United States Army General Hospitals, are at Camp Edwards, Falmouth, Mass.; Camp Pickett, Blackstone, Va.; Camp Butner, Durham, N.C., and Camp Carson, Colorado Springs, Col.

Convalescent hospitals to be expanded include Camp Upton Convalescent Hospital, Yaphank, N.Y.; Fort Story Convalescent, Virginia Beach, Va.; Welch Camp Convalescent Hospital, Daytona Beach, Fla.; Wakeman General and Convalescent Hospital, Camp Atterbury, Ind.; Percy Jones General and Convalescent Hospital, Battle Creek, Mich.; Mitchell Convalescent Hospital, Campo, Cal., and Old Farms Convalescent Hospital Avon, Conn.

DECISION BARS 'OFFICIAL' RATE

Supreme Bench Upholds Importer's Contention.

Washington, Feb. 5 (A. P.).—The Supreme Court decided six to two today that the Secretary of the Treasury does not have authority to order customs collectors to compute tariff duties by the "official" rate only in converting British pounds into dollars.

Justices Frankfurter and Black dissented from the majority opinion of Justice Douglas. Justice Jackson did not participate.

The case arose over action of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in certifying to Secretary Morgenthau that there were two buying rates for converting English pounds into dollars.

One, designated the "'free" rate, is the rate in the New York open market for foreign exchange payable in pounds sterling. The other "official" rate, is the rate fixed by the British Treasury.

John Barr of New York, who imported woolen fabrics from England, protested the Secretary's order that the "official" rate of $4.035 be used in determining the dutiable value of the fabrics. The "free" rate at the time was $3.475138.

Mr. Barr's contention was upheld by the Court of Customs. However, the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals reversed the lower tribunal and Mr. Barr appealed to the Supreme Court.

Justice Douglas said that if the higher "official" rate were used in the valuation of the woolens involved in this case, "the cost of the goods would be distorted and an inflated value for customs purposes will be placed upon them. Such a result would be quite out of harmony with the history of the statutes involved."

Justice Frankfurter contended that the majority ruling "implies a radical curtailment of his (the Secretary of the Treasury's) historic and appropriate authority to protect the nation's fiscal interests." He added:

"Here we have an unforeseen

30.24 — 22723

problem with which Congress did not deal and yet, by not dealing with it, is said to have taken away authority theretofore belonging to the Treasury Secretary. If the problem itself was not in the contemplation of Congress, as this problem is not, how can it be said that Congress legislated concerning that problem unless it be that legislation is the product of absentmindedness."

DELAY PROMOTION OF COL. ROOSEVELT

Senate Defers Action for Week Because of Dog Incident.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 — (AP) Senators yelped a bit today about promoting Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, from colonel to brigadier general, then deferred action for a week. In the meantime there'll be some more baying on the air trail of his dog.

Senator Bushfield (R.-S. D.), who spearheaded Republican opposition to immediate approval of the advancement, conceded that the nomination "probably will be confirmed next Monday."

Argued in Senate

Republicans and Democrats barked back and forth about the promotion today but did little growling about what majority leader Barkley (D.-Ky.) called the "canine episode."

That was the coast-to-coast flight of Elliott's mastiff, Blaze. Three servicemen were squeezed off the plane which carried the pooch because he had a higher priority.

Barkley said he didn't know what effect the "unhappy, unpleasant, unfortunate" tale of the dog was having on Elliott's advancement, but he contended that "we ought to act now."

Bushfield remarked, however, that he had had insufficient time to "study the qualifications of the nomination," that the volume of his mail warranted looking into it, and that several Senators desired to be heard. He said he personally had nothing for or against this young man."

Barkley had to agree to the delay after minority leader White of Maine championed the right of any Senator to be heard.

Held up also were nominations of 77 other colonels to be brigadier generals. The Senate approved however, the promotions of three major generals to be lieutenant generals and 28 brigadiers to be major generals.

Meanwhile trouble was storing up for another presidential appointment.

The Senate Agriculture committee arranged to question Aubrey Williams tomorrow on his qualifications for Rural Electrification administrator. Williams is a former head of the deceased National Youth administration.

The Military committee, Barkley observed, now is looking into what happened in the case of Elliott's dog.

"I doubt," he added, "that it will shed any light on his qualifications as a military officer."

Included in the list of promotions approved was that of Maj. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, chief of staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, to be a lieutenant general and of Brig. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, the hero of Bastogne, to be a major general.

Ickes Held Clear Of 'Willful' Tax Error By Prosecutors

Chicago, Feb. 5 (AP)—Two assistant State's attorneys declared today they believed there was "no willful misstatement of facts" in the affidavit of Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, upon which was based an $8,500 reduction in Cook county real-estate taxes.

John S. Clark, county assessor, said the affidavit was signed by Ickes for the Board of Tax Appeals and contained "erroneous" information on the rent yield of a Loop building owned by Ickes. The $8,500 reduction was for 1943 and 1944.

The prosecutors, Jacob Shamberg and Gordon Nash, made their announcement after an hour-and-a-half conference with Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, former collector of internal revenue. They said the information in the tax complaint filed in Ickes's behalf represented "the conclusions" of Mrs. Reinecke, and that it was not furnished by Ickes.

"Not Furnished By Ickes"

"We are interested in facts," Shamberg said after the conference, "and we are certain that it is a fact that the $2,000 figure arrived at by Mrs. Reinecke as the monthly rental for the property was not furnished by Ickes."

"Our main objective is to determine if there was any willful misstatement of fact, and we don't think there was."

Mrs. Reinecke told newsmen it "is still my opinion" that the assessed valuation of the property "should be cut another $1,500."

In a statement to the State's attorneys, Mrs. Reinecke said:

"As president of the realty firm of George W. Reinecke, Inc., I have for some years represented Secretary of the Interior Ickes in certain Chicago property matters.

Asked To Prepare Papers

"Having advised him that the assessment of the properties was excessive, the Secretary asked me to prepare and file the necessary papers so that he could obtain a hearing before the Board of Tax Appeals for both his State street and Hubbard Woods (suburban) property."

Insurance, interest and taxes on the State street building, Mrs. Reinecke stated, "left the income at about $24,000, or $2,000 per month prior to general operating expenses. As a matter of fact," she continued, "the property is operating at a loss. This is no doubt why the figure of $2,000 was added on the form."

Mrs. Reinecke said "no effort was made by anyone at any time to misrepresent the size of the building or its income."

She said that within the last 90 days the corner of Jackson and State streets, across the street from the Ickes property, sold at $8,000 a front foot, and that Ickes's building was valued for tax-assessment purposes at $9,500 a front foot.

Georgia Ends Poll Tax, 'Speaks for Democracy'

Arnall Signs Repeal Measure Abolishing $1 Levy

ATLANTA, Feb. 5 (AP).—Georgia today abolished the $1 poll tax—both as a revenue measure and a prerequisite for voting.

With opposition dissolved, the Senate passed the House version of a repeal bill 41 to 3 and Governor Ellis Arnall signed it into law. The House passed the bill over a week ago 141 to 51 after Governor Arnall warned that unless the Legislature abolished the levy he would suspend it by Executive decree.

The action left only seven poll tax states in the South—Tennessee, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Virginia, Texas and South Carolina.

"Today Georgia spoke for democracy," commented Governor Arnall.

LIVERPOOL, FEB 5 -(AP)- FERRIES, TUGS AND OTHER RIVER CRAFT GAVE A SIREN WELCOME LATE TODAY TO THE LINER ARUNDEL CASTLE WHEN SHE BERTHED HERE WITH 764 SERVICE MEN WHO WERE REPATRIATED FROM GERMAN PRISONER OF WAR CAMPS. THE SHIP DOCKED AT DUSK AT THE LIVERPOOL LANDING STAGE WHICH WAS FLOODLIGHTED FOR THE FIRST TIME IN FIVE AND A HALF YEARS OF WAR.

(THE GERMAN RADIO SAID THE AMERICANS HAD PUSHED INTO SCHLEIDEN, 28 MILES FROM THE RHINELAND CITY OF BONN, BUT WERE DRIVEN OUT.)

A FEW MILES TO THE NORTH, THE U.S. NINTH AND 78TH INFANTRY DICISIONS SEIZED CONTROL OF TWO OF THE FIVE DAMS OF THE ROER RIVER SYSTEM WITH WHICH THE ENEMY CONTROLS THE WATER LEVEL OF THE STREAM WHERE IT BLOCKS A DRIVE OUT ON THE COLOGNE PLAIN FARTHER NORTH.

THE NINTH DIVISION SEIZED THE LARGE URTALSPERRE DAM AND CLOSED UP ALONG THE WEST AND SOUTH BANKS OF THE LARGE LAKE WHICH THE DAM FORMS.

IN THIS PUSH THE AMERICANS CAPTURED THE CAMP OF VOGELSANG--ADOLF HITLER'S PRIZE PROJECT FOR TRAINING FUTURE NAZI LEADERS.

THE 78TH DIVISION ON THE NINTH'S NORTH FLANK SEIZED RUHRBERG, 16 MILES SOUTHEAST OF AACHEN, PRESSED ON EAST TO THE ROER'S WEST BANK AND CAPTURED HIGH GROUND COMMANDING THE SMALLER PAULUSHOFF DAM.

TWO TO THREE MILES FARTHER NORTH IS THE BIGGEST DAM AT HASENFELD, WHICH WITH THE OTHERS CONTROLS THE WATERS OF THE ROER ALONG THE BRITISH SECOND AND U.S. NINTH ARMY FRONTS.

THIS WAS THE GENERAL PICTURE ON THE FIRST ARMY FRONT:

THE PACE OF ATTACK WAS SLOWING WHILE THE DOUGHBOYS GOT A BREATHER AND THERE WAS NO HEAVY CONTACT WITH THE ENEMY.

THE ENTIRE FIRST ARMY ONCE MORE WAS ENTIRELY ON GERMAN SOIL AND FOUR DIVISIONS WERE POURING THROUGH THE BREACHED WESTERN BELT OF THE TWIN SECTION OF THE WESTWALL ON A 12-MILE FRONT AND CLOSING ON OR FIGHTING INSIDE THE EASTERN CHAIN.

VANGUARDS WERE ABOUT 14 MILES FROM EUSKIRCHEN, THE COMMUNICATIONS LINK BETWEEN THIS FRONT AND THE ROER FRONT FARTHER NORTH. FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT SHUTTLED TROOPS AND ARMOR THROUGH EUSKIRCHEN IN THE ARDENNES CAMPAIGN.

TANKS MOPPED UP STRAUCH AND STECKENBORN, TWO MILES NORTHWEST OF RUHRBERG, AND WERE ABOUT THREE AND A HALF MILES FROM OTHER AMERICAN FORCES WHICH HAVE BEEN HOLDING THE ROER LINE SOUTH OF DUREN SINCE THE ARDENNES BREAKTHROUGH.

ADVANCING FOUR AND A HALF MILES THROUGH SNOW, SLEET AND FREEZING RAIN, LT.GEN.COURTNEY HODGES' TROOPS OUTFLANKED ENEMY DEFENSES ON THE DAMS OF THE UPPER ROER RIVER GUARDING THE RUHR AND THE RHINELAND.
WEAKENED BY WITHDRAWALS TO THE RUSSIAN FRONT AND HAMPERED BY AN ALMOST TOTAL LACK OF AIR SUPPORT, THE GERMANS SUFFERED REVERSALS ALSO IN SOUTHERN ALSACE, WHERE THEIR ESCAPE GAP IN THE COLMAR POCKET WAS NARROWED TO NINE MILES BY FRENCH AND AMERICAN FORCES.
A LATE FRONT DISPATCH SAID HODGES' TROOPS OVERPOWERED THE LAST SYSTEM OF GERMAN PILLBOXES EIGHT MILES EAST OF MONSCHAU. THEY CAPTURED THE TINY VILLAGE OF WOLLSEIFEN, A MILE AND A HALF FROM THE ROER RIVER DAMS, WHOSE GATES WERE OPENED BY THE ENEMY TO FLOOD THE VALLEY AND BALK THE ALLIED PUSH FARTHER NORTH.
(A FRONT REPORT FROM A BLUE NETWORK CORRESPONDENT SAID THE AMERICANS HAD REACHED THE SOUTH BANK OF THE LAKE FORMED BY THE DAMS, OVERRUNNING A NAZI YOUTH TRAINING CAMP.)

Aug Trennig, Germany (W.Ger) [illegible] ripped apart.

NENNIG HAPPENED TO BE IN THE FRONT LINE TODAY BECAUSE OF THE FLUID FIGHTING, AND WE DISCOVERED IT THE HARD WAY. SOMEONE HAD TOLD US THE GERMANS WERE SEVERAL HUNDRED YARDS FROM THE TOWN.

WHEN OUR JEEP DRIVER, PVT.EARL DELARRE, EBENSBURG, PA., WHEELED US PAST THE DRAGON'S TEETH THROUGH THE EDGE OF TOWN WE SHOULD HAVE BECOME SUSPICIOUS. NOT A DOUGHBOY WAS IN THE STREETS AND THERE WAS SPORADIC RIFLE AND MACHINEGUN FIRE. FEB 6 1945

LT.GEORGE C.WALSH, FORMER MIAMI, FLA., NEWSMAN, NOW A PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER, HAD BEEN IN THE TOWN BEFORE BUT HE WAS UNSUSPECTING.

SUDDENLY TWO SOLDIERS WITH MACHINEGUNS LEAPED FROM BEHIND A HOUSE AND CAME AT OUR JEEP FROM BOTH SIDES.

"WHERE DO YOU THINK YOU'RE GOING?" ONE OF THEM ASKED, UNSMILING.

"UP TO THE FRONT," WE SAID.

"YOU'RE THERE, BUT YOU'RE NOT GOING ANYWHERE EXCEPT WITH ME BACK TO THE COMMAND POST," HE DECLARED, "AND DON'T TRY ANYTHING FUNNY."

HE MADE US CLIMB OUT OF THE JEEP AND WALK INTO TOWN. AT THE COMMAND POST NO ONE WAS THE LEAST BIT FRIENDLY UNTIL MAJ.WILLIAM E. MCBRIDE, FITCHBURG, MASS., RECOGNIZED WALSH.

"YOU'RE LUCKY YOU WEREN'T SHOT, EITHER BY THE GERMANS OR US," MCBRIDE SAID. "YOU WERE ONLY 50 YARDS FROM THE KRAUTS. UR MEN ARE EXTREMELY CAUTIOUS ABOUT STRANGERS BECAUSE THEY CAUGHT FIVE KRAUTS WEARING AMERICAN EQUIPMENT ONLY A FEW HOUSES FROM HERE YESTERDAY."

HE INTRODUCED US TO THE CAUTIOUS [illegible]ICER WHO BROUGHT US TO THE COMMAND POST. HE WAS LT.JOSEPH CANCILLA, PITTSFIELD, MASS., WHO SMILED FOR THE FIRST TIME.

MAJ.ARTHUR W.HODGES JR., NEWTON, MASS., TOLD HOW SGT.LEONDE JACKSON, ORANGEBURG, S.C., AND PFC CHESTER RICHARDSON, 2601 NORTH AKARD ST., DALLAS, TEX., HAD FLUSHED THE FIVE GERMANS.

SUSPICIOUS OF A CERTAIN HOUSE, THEY TRIED TO OPEN THE DOOR, FOUND IT LOCKED, AND BROKE IT IN WITH AN IRON BAR. THERE WERE FIVE GERMANS INSIDE WITH PISTOLS DRAWN.

"COME OUT," JACKSON ORDERED IN GERMAN. FEB 6 1945

FIRST LEAD BRADLEY (230)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITONARY FORCE, PARIS, FEB. 5-(AP)-THE U.S. FIRST ARMY, WHICH WAS TRANSFERRED TO FIELD MARSHAL MONTGOMERY'S COMMAND WHEN THE GERMANS BROKE THROUGH THE ARDENNES, WAS RETURNED TO LT. GEN. OMAR N. BRADLEY'S 12TH ARMY GROUP AS SOON AS IT LINKED UP WITH THE THIRD ARMY DURING THAT BATTLE, SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCED TODAY.

AT THE SAME TIME, HEADQUARTERS DECLARED THE GERMANS HAD LOST 860,000 PRISONERS ON THE WESTERN FRONT, PLUS WELL OVER 400,000 IN KILLED AND LONG-TERM WOUNDED--A TOTAL OF 1,260,000 MEN--SINCE THE D-DAY LANDINGS IN NORMANDY.

THE FIRST DISCLOSURE THAT THE FIRST ARMY ACTUALLY HAD BEEN BACK UNDER BRADLEY'S COMMAND FOR SEVERAL WEEKS WAS MADE IN A WAR REVIEW CALLING THE ARDENNES OFFENSIVE A "COMPLETE DEFEAT" FOR THE ENEMY.

NO MENTION WAS MADE OF THE U.S. NINTH, WHICH WITH THE FIRST AND THIRD MADE UP BRADLEY'S ARMY GROUP, AND APPARENTLY IT IS STILL A PART OF MONTGOMERY'S 21ST ARMY GROUP.

30.24-22729

(A CENSOR-DELAYED DISPATCH FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT WES GALLAGHER, DATED JAN. 19, SAID THE NINTH WAS LEFT UNDER MONTGOMERY PRESUMABLY FOR FUTURE MILITARY OPERATIONS IN WHICH CANADIAN, BRITISH AND AMERICAN FORCES WOULD WORK AS ONE UNIT.)

FEB 6 1945

THE ANNOUNCED GERMAN LOSSES EQUAL 110 DIVISIONS, 10 TANKS AND ASSAULT GUNS, THE HEADQUARTERS RESUME SAID, THE GERMANS HAVE LOST ENOUGH TO REFIT 15 ARMORED DIVISIONS. SUPREME HEADQUARTERS SAID ALLIED GROUND LOSSES WERE A FRACTION OF THE ENEMY'S.

GERMAN LOSSES IN THE WEST DURING DECEMBER AND JANUARY WERE 220,000 MEN, HALF OF THEM PRISONERS, AND 1,450 TANKS AND ASSAULT GUNS PLUS THOUSANDS OF MOTOR VEHICLES OF ALL KINDS, THE HEADQUARTERS STATEMENT SAID.

"THE VAUNTED ARDENNES OFFENSIVE RESULTED IN A COMPLETE DEFEAT FOR THE ENEMY," IT CONTINUED. "FURTHERMORE, TO MAKE THE ATTEMPT HITLER HAD TO USE HIS ONLY STRATEGIC RESERVE AND PRACTICALLY EVERY OFFENSIVE DIVISION IN THE WEST AT A TIME WHEN HE SHOULD HAVE KEPT A STRATEGIC RESERVE IN GERMANY TO MEET THE RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE WHICH HE SHOULD HAVE BEEN EXPECTING.

"IT WAS THE CONTINUOUS AGGRESSIVE ACTION OF THE 12TH ARMY GROUP BETWEEN SEPTEMBER AND THE MIDDLE OF DECEMBER THAT DREW THE SIXTH SS PANZER ARMY TO THE WEST OF THE RHINE AND THEREBY PREVENTED IT FROM BEING AVAILABLE IN THE EAST WHEN STALIN AND THE MAGNIFICENT RED ARMY LAUNCHED THE GREAT RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE.

"MOREOVER, IT WAS THE ARDENNES VENTURE THAT BUTCHERED UP THE SIXTH SS PANZER ARMY AND SERIOUSLY WEAKENED ITS OFFENSIVE POWER FOR ANY FUTURE OPERATION. OUR GREAT RED ARLLY IS MAKING HITLER PAY HEAVILY FOR THESE MISTAKES."

THE FIFTH AND SIXTH SS PANZER ARMIES AND THE SEVENTH ARMY--WITH FORCES TOTALLING 24 DIVISIONS INCLUDING 10 ARMORED DIVISIONS--WHICH CONSTITUTED GERMANY'S ONLY STRATEGIC RESERVES, LAUNCHED THE ARDENNES ATTACK AT THE WEAKEST POINT OF THE ALLIED LINES, THE HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCEMENT CONTINUED.

IT DECLARED THAT BRADLEY STARTED HIS COUNTERATTACKS INSTANTLY FOLLOWING THE GERMAN BREAKTHROUGH AND KEPT ATTACKING UNTIL HIS FORCES HAD JOINED HANDS FIRMLY WITH THE TEMPORARILY ISOLATED GARRISON IN BASTOGNE.

FEB 6 45

"FROM THAT MOMENT ON THE ISSUE WAS NEVER IN DOUBT," THE STATEMENT ADDED.

GOING BACK TO THE MONTHS PRECEDING THE ARDENNES STRUGGLE, HEADQUARTERS SAID THE PERIOD FROM MID-SEPTEMBER TO MID-DECEMBER WAS ONE OF EXTREME ATTRITION FOR THE GERMANS WHO SENT NINE FRESH DIVISIONS INTO THE LINE BETWEEN NOV. 15, AND NOV. 26 ALONE. DURING THE MONTH BEGINNING IN MID-NOVEMBER THE GERMANS WERE LOSING DIVISIONS AT THE RATE OF FOUR TO FIVE A WEEK.

DURING OCTOBER AND NOVEMBER THE ENEMY SUFFERED MORE THAN 300,000 CASUALTIES OF WHICH 170,000 WERE PRISONERS, THE STATEMENT SAID.

THE HEADQUARTERS ANNOUNCEMENT SAID HITLER HAD PLANNED TO CARRY THE LINE OF THE MEUSE IN TWO DAYS AND ANTWERP IN THREE WEEKS. HE THOUGHT HE WOULD CUT OFF 38 ALLIED DIVISIONS.

JUST BEFORE THE BREAKTHROUGH A SERIES OF NAZI ORDERS OF THE DAY WERE ISSUED. HITLER, AFTER CASTING BACK TO FREDERICK THE GREAT, SAID: "IF THE PANZER GRENADIERS FAIL NOW, THEY WILL HAVE HAD THE LAST WORD FROM THEIR FUEHRER."

FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT, VIEWING THE EFFORT IN ITS TRUE LIGHT, SAID: "THIS IAN ALL-OUT GAMBLE."

TO THIS, FIELD MARSHAL WALTER VON MODEL ADDED: "WE WILL NOT DISAPPOINT THE FUEHRER AND THE FATHERLAND WHO FORGED THE SWORD OF RETRIBUTION."

NOT TO BE OUTDONE, GEN. HASSO ECKHARDT VON MANTEUFFEL BURST FORTH WITH: "ON TOWARD THE ENEMY AND GO THROUGH HIM X X X IN REMEMBRANCE OF THE TRADITION OF OUR PROUD WEHRMACHT."

GERMAN TROOPS WERE THEN DRAINED IN LARGE NUMBERS FROM THE LUFTWAFFE AND THE NAZI NAVY AT A TIME WHEN HITLER WAS TRYING TO OBTAIN AIR PARITY AND WHEN AN INTENSIFICATION OF THE U-BOAT CAMPAIGN HEAD BEEN PLANNED.

WHEN VON RUNDSTEDT STRUCK, DECISIONS HAD TO BE MADE QUICKLY. BECAUSE OF THE EARLY RUPTURE OF NORTH-SOUTH COMMUNICATIONS, MONTGOMERY TOOK TEMPORARY COMMAND OF THE NORTHERN FLANK. BRADLEY FOUGHT THE BATTLE SOUTH OF THE SALIENT.

TWO WEEKS AFTER THE ATTACK BEGAN MODEL HAD HAD ENOUGH. FROM THEN ON HE WAS GLAD TO PULL BACK INTO THE SIEGFRIED LINE. ALLIED TROOPS ON BOTH FLANKS SMASHED INTO THE NAZIS WITH REDOUBLED FURY AND THE ENEMY ESCAPED ANOTHER FALAISE POCKET ONLY BECAUSE OF EXTRAORDINARILY BAD WEATHER.

"TODAY THE BADLY BATTERED NAZI HAS DRAWN BACK INTO HIS LAIR," THE HEADQUARTERS STATEMENT CONCLUDED. "AND THE BOMBASTIC WORDS OF HITLER, RUNDSTEDT, MODEL AND THE OTHERS WHICH WERE INTENDED TO SPUR THE HUN ARMIES TO SUPERHUMAN EFFORT, MUST NOW RING TRAGICALLY IN GERMAN EARS AS THE WEHRMACHT FUTILELY TRIES TO STEM THE RUSSIAN ONSLAUGHT IN THE EAST."

"SO WHEN A CHANCE WAS OFFERED FOR REPATRIATION I TOOK IT, SWEARING AN OATH OF NEUTRALITY BEFORE I LEFT. THE GERMAN GOVERNMENT GAVE ME THE CHOICE OF SETTLING IN LODZ, LUBLIN OR POZNAN. I CHOSE LODZ. MY WIFE KNEW IT WAS A MISTAKE THE MOMENT WE ARRIVED. BUT IT WAS TOO LATE."

FEB 6 1945

UNTIL JAN. 10, LODZ WAS ONE OF THE PRINCIPAL CITIES OF WARTHELAND PROVINCE, WHICH HITLER CARVED OUT OF WESTERN POLAND AND ANNEXED OUTRIGHT IN 1939, THEREAFTER USING IT AS A DUMPING GROUND FOR "AUSLAND" GERMANS--THOSE OF GERMAN BLOOD RETURNED FROM THE BALTIC, UKRAINE, BESSARABIA AND ELSEWHERE.

MOSCOW, FEB 5-(AP)-A STORY OF NAZI HOUSEWIVES' BRUTALITY TO RUSSIAN "SLAVE LABORERS" IN SILESIA, RELATED TODAY BY PRAVDA CORRESPONDENT BORIS POLEVOY, TOLD OF SADISTIC LASHINGS, OF FUGITIVES BEING TORN APART BY HUNTING DOGS UPON RECAPTURE.

TWO RUSSIAN GIRLS--ONE A FORMER STUDENT AT THE LENINGRAD POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE AND THE OTHER A LIBRARY WORKER FROM MINSK--TOLD POLEVOY THEY WERE AMONG 120 WOMEN HELD ON THE ESTATE OF A GERMAN COLONEL ON THE ODER RIVER WEST KREUZBERG.

THEY SAID THE COLONEL'S WIFE TOOK A SADISTIC PLEASURE IN WATCHING THEM BEATEN WITH STICKS AND LASHES FOR THE SLIGHTEST DISOBEDIENCE. ONE GIRL WAS REPORTED TO HAVE DIED FROM THE BEATINGS. ANOTHER HANGED HERSELF. OTHERS DROWNED THEMSELVES OR WERE KILLED BY DOGS IN ATTEMPTS TO ESCAPE.

TEN TO 50 LASHES WITH A STRAP AND FIVE TO 25 BLOWS WITH A STICK WERE STANDARD PUNISHMENTS FOR SUCH THINGS AS REPORTING LATE OR FAILING TO DO THEIR WORK SATISFACTORILY.

MADRID, FEB. 5--(AP)---BLACK HEADLINES OVER COLUMNS OF DISPATCHES IN THE MADRID NEWSPAPERS TONIGHT PROCLAIMED THAT MANILA AGAIN WAS IN THE HANDS OF AMERICAN FORCES AND THE NEWS WAS IMMENSELY POPULAR.

SPANIARDS SNAPPED EVENING PAPERS FROM NEWSTANDS AS QUICKLY AS THEY DID ON D-DAY.

FEB 6 1945

MANILA'S RECAPTURE LED MANY ELDERLY SPANIARDS TO REMIND YOUNGER PEOPLE THAT THE SPANISH LOSS OF MANILA IN 1898 CARRIED NO SHAME. SPANIARDS PREFERRED AMERICAN RULE TO JAPANESE IN THE PHILIPPINES BECAUSE OF JAPANESE PROSECUTION OF SPANISH RESIDENTS.

THIS FACTOR AND JAPANESE ATTEMPTS TO CRUSH THE SPANISH LANGUAGE AND CULTURE IN THE ISLANDS LED TO FREQUENT NEWSPAPER PROTESTS.

TONIGHT, EVEN THE NEWSPAPER INFORMACIONES, WHICH IS NORMALLY FAVORABLE TO THE AXIS AND WHICH ONCE CALLED THE JAPS "THE SPANIARDS OF THE ORIENT," SAID, "LET US HOPE THE RECONQUEST WILL BE GOOD FOR MANILA." INFORMACIONES RECENTLY SAID SPAIN WAS A "MORAL BELLIGERENT" AGAINST JAPAN.

A TOKYO DISPATCH SENT THROUGH BERLIN AND THE TRANSOCEAN NEWS AGENCY TO THE SPANISH CIFRA AGENCY SAID THAT FIGHTING WAS BITTER AND THAT JAPANESE COUNTER ATTACKS WERE PROGRESSING AROUND SANTO TOMAS UNIVERSITY.

FEB 6 1945

THE RECTOR OF SANTO TOMAS, SILVESTRE SANCHO, WHO CAME TO SPAIN SEVERAL MONTHS BEFORE PEARL HARBOR AND, AFTER THE JAPANESE ATTACK, LECTURED ON [redacted] JAPANESE TOPICS HERE SAID TODAY "FORTUNATELY, THE RAPIDITY OF THE CAPTURE OF MANILA FREED IT FROM [redacted] AGONIES, RUINS AND LONG SIEGE."

THE COUNT OF MANILA, JOSE CLAVERIA BABE, ANNOUNCED HIS JOY AT THE LIBERATION OF THE CITY FROM WHERE HIS TITLE COMES.

ALBERTO V CASTRO GIRONA, PHILIPPINE-BORN LIEUTENANT GENERAL IN THE SPANISH ARMY, NOW RETIRED, ALSO WAS ENTHUSIASTIC. THE GENERAL, LEADER OF A SPANISH ECONOMIC MISSION TO JAPAN [redacted] IN 1940, SAID "WE MAY CONGRATULATE OURSELVES."

WITH THE 11TH CORPS ON THE BATAAN FRONT, FEB.5-(AP)- WHILE THEY HEARD REPORTS OF THE TRIUMPHANT AMERICAN ENTRY INTO MANILA, THIS CORPS ATTEMPTING TO DRIVE ACROSS NORTHERN BATAAN WERE LOCKED TODAY IN SOME OF THE MOST DIFFICULT FIGHTING OF THE PHILIPPINE CAMPAIGN.

IT WAS FIGHTING OF THE NEW GUINEA AND SOLOMONS JUNGLE TYPE.

JAPANESE WERE SEEMINGLY ENTRENCHED EVERYWHERE IN THE DENSE BAMBOO THICKETS OFF THE HIGHWAY. THEY WERE RESISTING CONTINUSOULY WITH MACHINEGUNS AND MORTARS BY DAY AND WITH ARTILLERY AND SKILLFUL PENETRATIONS OF THE AMERICAN PERIMETER BY NIGHT.

IT IS THE KIND OF FIGHTING MOST TROUBLESOME FOR THE YANKS. WHO

...RE UNDER ORDERS TO STAY IN THEIR FOXHOLES AFTER DARK.

LT.COL. JAMES J.MCMAHON, 38TH DIVISION CHAPLAIN OF ST.MARY ACADEMY, INDIANAPOLIS, SAID "THOSE JAPS ACT LIKE INSANE MEN. ONE CAME INSIDE THE PERIMETER CALLING FOR JACKSON, WHOSE NAMED HAD BEEN USED ON RADIO CALLS ALL DAY. ANOTHER KEPT REPEATING IN PERFECT ENGLISH HE WANTED TO SURRENDER UNDER INTERNATIONAL LAW. BUT THE MEN STUCK TO THEIR HOLES, REFUSING TO ALLOW THE RUSE TO DISCLOSE THEIR POSITION."

COL. WILLIAM W.JENNA OF LEOMINSTER, MASS., COMMANDER OF THE 24TH DIVISION ELEMENTS, SAID "JAPS ARE EVERYWHERE UP HERE. IT'S THE TOUGHEST SITUATION I'VE SEEN."

CAPT. WALTER NAQUIN, 1341 EAST STATE ST., ITHACA, N.Y., WHO WENT THROUGH 75 DAYS OF FIGHTING ON LEYTE, SAID IN SOME WAYS THIS BATTLE IS TOUGHER THAN BLOODY LEYTE'S MOUNTAINOUS ORMOC CORRIDOR.

FEB 6 1945

"JAP POSITIONS ARE SO WELL HIDDEN HERE WE CAN'T EVEN FIND THEM WITHOUT LOSING MEN," HE SAID.

MANILA RACE

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, LUZON,FEB.5-(AP)-THE "HELL FOR LEATHER" FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, THIS TIME RIDING ON RUBBER AND STEEL, WON THE RACE TO MANILA, BEATING THE 37TH INFANTRY DIVISION BY A FEW HOURS SATURDAY NIGHT WHEN A TANK SPEARHEAD OF THE TROOPER OUTFIT CRASHED INTO THE CAPITAL CITY OF THE PHILIPPINES.

THE DISMOUNTED BUT MOTORIZED TROOPS ALSO FULFILLED A HOPE EXPRESSED A YEAR AGO IN THE ADMIRALTY ISLANDS THAT THEY WOULD SPEAR-HEAD THE RETURN TO MANILA, THUS AVENGING THE CAPTURE OF THEIR FORMER COMMANDER, LT.GEN.JONATHAN M.WAINWRIGHT, BY THE JAPANESE WHEN CORREGIDOR FELL MAY 6,1942.

THE FIRST CAVALRY, NOW COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.VERNE D.MUDGE, GOT OFF ITS HORSES LONG AGO. IT POPPED INTO THE NEWS AS A DISMOUNTED DIVISION WITH THE INVASION OF THE ADMIRALTY ISLANDS FEB.29,1944. THERE GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S ADVANCE SWUNG WESTWARD TOWARD THE PHILIPPINES, AND THE HORSELESS SOLDIERS VOWED THEY WOULD BE FIRST INTO MANILA.

THE DIVISION WAS STILL DISMOUNTED WHEN IT LANDED ON LEYTE ISLAND LAST OCT.20. WHEN IT ENTERED THE LUZON CAMPAIGN IT WAS MOTORIZED AND WITH ARMORED RECONNIASSANCE.

THE 37TH, COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.ROBERT S.BEIGHTLER, WAS WELL ON ITS WAY DOWN THE CENTRAL LUZON PLAINS TOWARD MANILA WHEN THE TROOPERS STARTED A BLITZ FOR MANILA THAT HAS SELDOM BEEN EQUALED FOR SPEED. IN LESS THAN 60 SENSATIONAL HOURS THEY RACED DOWN THE EASTERN SIDE OF THE PLAINS, ON THE 37TH'S LEFT FLANK, TO COVER 144 MILES INTO MANILA.

OWEN SOUND, ONT., FEB 5-(AP)-FARMERS AND TOWNSFOLK OF THE REMOTE CONSTITUENCY OF GREY NORTH VOTED TODAY IN A PARLIAMENTARY BY-ELECTION WATCHED CLOSELY BY ALL OF TROUBLED CANADA AS THE FIRST PUBLIC TEST OF THE DOMINION GOVERNMENT'S COMPROMISE CONSCRIPTION POLICY.

BY MOTOR AND HORSE-DRAWN SLEIGH VOTERS MADE THEIR WAY THROUGH HEAVY SNOW TO TAKE PART IN BALLOTING REGARDED AS A PREVIEW OF A NATIONWIDE ELECTION TO BE HELD SOMETIME IN THE NEXT FEW MONTHS. APPROXIMATELY 23,000 ARE ELIGIBLE TO VOTE.

WITH DISORDERS STILL REPORTED FROM SCATTERED CAMPS OF HOME ARMY TROOPS NOW LIABLE TO BE SENT OVERSEAS AND WITH SOME 6,000 OF THESE TROOPS ABSENT WITHOUT LEAVE, THE ELECTION PROVIDED THE FIRST OPPORTUNITY FOR VOTERS TO REGISTER DIRECTLY THEIR REACTION TO THE GOVERNMENT'S COURSE.

PRIME MINISTER W.L.MACKENZIE KING'S GOVERNMENT AND HIS LIBERAL PARTY ASKED ELECTION OF DEFENSE MINISTER GEN.A.G.L.MCNAUGHTON ON THE PLEA THAT HE NEEDS A SEAT IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TO CARRY OUT HIS PROGRAM EFFECTIVELY AND ON THE GROUND THAT THE GOVERNMENT'S CONSCRIPTION POLICY IS THE BEST POSSIBLE.

THE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVES, ASKED ELECTION OF GARFIELD CASE, A FORMER MAYOR OF OWEN SOUND, AND CONTENDED THAT THE GOVERNMENT'S CONSCRIPTION POLICY HAS BEEN A FAILURE.

THE SOCIALISTIC CCF (COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH FEDERATION) SOUGHT ELECTION OF AIR VICE MARSHAL A.EARL GODFREY, A WELL-TO-DO INDUSTRIAL FIRM OFFICER WHO RECENTLY BECAME A SUPPORTER OF THE PARTY, CONTENDING THAT THE POLICIES OF BOTH THE OLD-LINE PARTIES ARE OUTDATED AND THAT A NEW LONG-RANGE APPROACH TO ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL AFFAIRS IS NOW NEEDED.

THE KING GOVERNMENT, FORCED TO ABANDON THE VOLUNTARY ENLISTMENT SYSTEM BY WHICH CANADA HAD FOUGHT FIVE YEARS OF WAR, LAST FALL RESORTED TO SO-CALLED "PARTIAL CONSCRIPTION" TO MEET INFANTRY REINFORCEMENT NEEDS ABROAD. THIS WAS A COMPROMISE BETWEEN THE VIEWS OF ANTI-CONSCRIPTIONIST FRENCH-SPEAKING CANADA, COMPRISING ALMOST ONE-THIRD OF THE NATION, AND ELEMENTS FAVORING ALL-OUT CONSCRIPTION.

FAR TO THE NORTH, IN THE BENGUET MOUNTAINS, BETWEEN 200 AND 400 OTHER AMERICANS AND BRITISHERS HAVE BEEN HELD IN CAMP HOLMES FOR MORE THAN THREE YEARS. THIS CAMP IS NEAR LA TRINIDAD, NORTH OF THE BAGUIO SUMMER CAPITAL. YANK FORCES ON THE MOUNTAIN ROAD LEADING TO BAGUIO ARE WITHIN 17 AIR MILES OF THE CAMP.
IN MANILA PROPER TWO OTHER CAMPS WHICH APPEAR TO BE OUTSIDE THE DISTRICT ALREADY HELD BY THE AMERICANS MAY HOUSE OTHER HUNDREDS OF AMERICANS. ONE IS HOLY GHOST CONVENT, WHERE UPWARDS OF 100 CHILDREN WERE BEING CARED FOR BY CATHOLIC SISTERS AND WOMEN VOLUNTEERS FROM SANTO TOMAS.
THE OTHER IS ANCIENT, FILTHY BILIBID PENITENTIARY. IT IS POSSIBLE THAT UP TO 600 AMERICAN SERVICE MEN, ARMY, NAVY AND MARINE CORPS, STILL ARE HELD THERE. MOST OF THE MILITARY PRISONERS AT BILIBID WERE, ACCORDING TO REPORTS FILTERING INTO THE UNITED STATES, REMOVED TO PRISON CAMPS IN JAPAN AND FORMOSA ABOUT A YEAR AGO.

CHIEF OF THE FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS MANILA BUREAU
THE FOUR PICTURES PRODUCED LATE MONDAY BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WIREPHOTOS SHOW TYPICAL SCENES WITHIN THE MANILA SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP WHERE YANK FORCES SATURDAY LIBERATED 3,700 AMERICAN AND OTHER UNITED NATIONS NATIONALS AND 69 U.S. NURSES FROM CORREGIDOR.
THE HUNDREDS OF WOMEN AND GIRLS HELD IN SANTO TOMAS MADE GOOD USE OF THE HAIR WASH SHOWER. THEY WERE NOT PERMITTED TO WASH THEIR HAIR IN REGULAR SHOWERS BECAUSE IT CLOGGED THE DRAINS. THE MEN OF THE CAMP DUG UP AN OLD BATHTUB, RIGGED A SHOWER NOSE OVER IT AND PRESTO--THE HAIR WASH DEPARTMENT IN THE REAR OF THE MAIN SANTO TOMAS BUILDING. THE METAL TROUGHS TO THE REAR OF THE HAIR WASH AREA, ALSO BUILT BY INTERNEES, WERE USED FOR WASHING DISHES AND CLOTHING.
THE GROUP PICTURE OF INTERNEES OBVIOUSLY WAS TAKEN DURING JANUARY, 1942, IN THE EARLY DAYS OF THE CAMP. IT SHOWS NEW INTERNEES ARRIVING, BEING HELPED BY SHIRTLESS MEN PREVIOUSLY CAPTURED. IN THE TOP REAR IS THE SPIRE OF SANTO TOMAS WITH ITS FAMOUS CROSS WHICH LATER WAS THROWN OUT OF LINE BY A HEAVY EARTHQUAKE.
THE BED ROOM SCENE IS ONE TINY SECTION OF A TYPICAL WOMANS DORMITORY. THE WOMEN, SEGREGATED FROM THE MEN AT NIGHT, SLEPT IN FORMER CLASSROOMS WITH BEDS JAMMED CLOSE TOGETHER. LIKE ALL OTHER INTERNEES, FROM 25 TO 40 WOMEN WERE IN EACH ROOM AND THEIR TOTAL SLEEPING SPACE WAS SIX FEET LONG AND 32 INCHES WIDE. THIS WAS JUST SUFFICIENT FOR A SMALL BED OR COT. ALL POSSESSIONS HAD TO BE UNDER THE BED.
THE LITTLE FILIPINOS PICTURED IN ANOTHER OF THE PHOTOS ARE STANDING JUST OUTSIDE THE SANTO TOMAS FENCE ADJACENT TO THE MAIN GATE THROUGH WHICH AN AMERICAN TANK CRASHED TO LIBERATE THOSE IMPRISONED MORE THAN THREE YEARS. THE SIGNS BEHIND THE CHILDREN, IN ENGLISH AND JAPANESE, INSTRUCT THE PEOPLE OUTSIDE TO SALUTE ALL JAPANESE SOLDIERS, BOW TO THE GATE SENTRY.
AS CHIEF CENSOR OF THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP FOR 21 MONTHS, PRIOR TO MY REPATRIATION, I WAS AMONG A GROUP OF INTERNEES ON DUTY AT THE GATE WHO ARGUED WITH THE JAPANESE GUARDS ABOUT FORCING THE FILIPINO PEOPLE TO BOW TO THE SENTRY. WE REFUSED TO HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH IT AND FINALLY THE JAPANESE PUT UP THE SIGNS THAT SHOW IN THE PICTURE.

Germans Evacuate Steinau Russians Within 30 Miles of Capital.

NAZI GENERAL SEIZED

Soviet Forces Report Minor Gains in East Prussia, Budapest.

LONDON, Wednesday, Feb. 7—(AP) The Red army has stormed across the Oder southeast of Breslau and penetrated 12 miles beyond its west bank on a 50-mile front, Moscow announced last night, while German reports said the water barrier protecting Berlin and the heart of the Reich had been crossed by the Russians in two other sectors as well.

Broadcasts from Berlin, again reporting Soviet successes long before their confirmation by Moscow, placed Red Army units west of the Oder northeast of Berlin, perhaps less than 30 miles from the battered capital, and northwest of Breslau in the area of Steinau, a Silesian city which the Germans said they had evacuated.

The announcement of the Silesian crossing, made first in an order of the day by Marshal Stalin and repeated in the nightly communique broadcast from Moscow, broke the silence that had blanketed operations of Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukraine army for several days.

Moscow Silent

But as the spotlight returned to Konev's forces, Moscow fell silent regarding Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army deployed along the river farther north.

The communique's only reference to this army was a statement that it had captured a Lt. Gen. Luebbe, commander of the 433rd German infantry.

Aside from reporting minor gains in East Prussia and Budapest, the Moscow bulletin ignored all the Eastern front except the Silesian sector.

Konev's drive across the Oder, it said, captured Brieg, 24 miles southeast of Breslau; Ohlau, nine miles northwest of Brieg and on the Oder's west bank; Grottkau, south of Brieg and 10 miles west of the Oder, and Thomaskirch, southwest of Ohlau and seven and one-half miles southwest of the river.

The announcement described all these points as "important communications junctions and powerful strongpoints of German defenses on the west bank of the Oder."

Also taken were Loewen and Schurgast, both approximately nine miles southeast of Brieg.

Konev's front west of the Oder thus extended from captured Oppeln, capital of upper (southern) Silesia, northwest to Breslau.

His offensive had been reported earlier by Berlin commentators, who said it might indicate a drive on Dresden, 160 miles to the west, as well as a move to outflank Breslau.

But German accounts stated this was not the only sector in which the Red army had crossed the Oder.

FEB 7 1945

Reds Make 6 Crossings

Broadcasts from Berlin said the river had been forced at six or more places in the Kustrin-Frankfurt sector, northeast and directly east of Berlin. Moscow has not yet announced any bridgeheads in that sector, but a Soviet broadcast declared:

"Kustrin and Frankfort are being outflanked. No miracle can save Berlin. Its fall can be delayed only for a few weeks at the most."

Furious struggles on the west bank of the Oder northwest of Kustrin, reported from Berlin, probably have brought the Soviet forces within 30 miles, perhaps less, of the Nazi capital. Official announcements from Moscow place Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army 32 miles from Berlin at Zellin, on the Oder's east bank.

The German Transocean agency said the newest Russian bridgeheads were at Furstenberg, 14 miles south of Frankfurt and at a point a little more than three miles south of that city. It said another "temporary" crossing was made north of Frankfurt.

Zhukov has broken into the outer defenses of Frankfurt itself, said Lt. Col. Alfred Von Olberg, German military commentator, but he claimed that Russian efforts to establish a bridgehead in the city had been repulsed.

"The Oder has become a stream deciding the fate of Germany," declared Lt. Gen. Kurt Dittmar, spokesman for the German High command, in another broadcast.

The enemy reported Monday that Zhukov's troops were on the Oder's west bank at Kienitz, nine miles northwest of Kustrin, and at two more unspecified points farther northwest.

A military spokesman for the German DNB agency stated, "On a front stretching from Kustrin to Frankfurt, the enemy's main forces already are in action," indicating Zhukov's armored columns were backed by infantry, artillery and tactical aircraft.

Reds Seize Steinau

The Germans also announced the loss of Steinau, a stronghold west of the Oder and about 30 miles northwest of Breslau in Silesia.

The Nazi garrison at Steinau, the German accounts said, resisted stubbornly when Konev's forces approached from the east but was unable to prevent river crossings on both sides of the town and its swift encirclement. Today the garrison ran out of ammunition and according to the German radio, retreated to German lines farther west.

FEB 7 1945

There also were enemy announcements of sharp encounters around Stargard, far to the north, where Zhukov's right wing was reported within 20 miles of the Baltic port of Stettin.

In Hungary, the Red army's growing offensive southwest of Budapest was beginning to take on steamroller proportions and Moscow indicated the Russians might once more be surging toward the Austrian border.

In East Prussia, groups of Germans badly split and disorganized were falling prey to roving units of Russian tommygunners as the Soviet campaign to annihilate the German defenders of the province continued. Most of East Prussia is under Red army domination, but its capital, Konigsberg—like Budapest—is proving a formidable bastion, and it may require days of close-quarter fighting to reduce it, Moscow dispatches said.

OTHER CROSSINGS REPORTED

Germans Say Zhukov's Troops Are on West Bank in Three Places Near Berlin.

30.24-22741

London, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The Red Army has smashed across the Oder River on a fifty-mile front southeast of Breslau in Silesia, Marshal Stalin announced tonight, and German broadcasts declared the Russians had flung three bridgeheads over the river east of Berlin, within thirty-five miles of the Nazi capital.

Stalin, still silent whether the Oder has been forced at its closest point to Berlin, disclosed the First Ukrainian Army had rammed fifteen miles beyond the Oder in Silesia, seizing six towns, including the west bank strongholds of Brieg, twenty-four miles southeast of Breslau, and Ohlau, fourteen miles southeast.

Berlin days ago had reported Russian crossings in this area.

German broadcast disclosing that the Oder had been crossed in the Frankfurt area thirty-eight miles east of Berlin declared ominously that the river "has become the stream deciding the fate of Germany.

Foe Reports Other Crossings.

Berlin officially declared the Russians had stormed the Oder in a third and middle sector, taking the west bank town of Steinau, thirty-five miles northwest of Breslau and 140 miles southeast of Berlin.

German broadcasts said Marshal Gregory Zhukov's First White Russian Army had established two bridgeheads south of Frankfurt and another northwest of Kustrin, thirty-five miles northeast of Berlin.

Stalin said Konev's troops had taken Grottkau, fifteen miles beyond the Oder southwest of Brieg. Loewen, Schuttgast and Thomaskirch also were captured, his order said.

Berlin said one of the latest crossings was at Furstenberg, on the Oder's west bank fourteen miles southeast of Frankfurt and forty-seven miles southeast of Berlin.

Soviet units won a third bridgehead about three miles south of Furstenberg, a Transocean broadcast declared:

It added that a "temporary" crossing had been made between Frankfurt and Kustrin on a line from thirty-eight to forty miles from Berlin, but that this bridgehead had been wiped out.

"Eastern front operations assumed the character of fighting for establishment and smashing of bridgeheads," the broadcast said. "Numerous Russian bridgeheads on the west bank of the Oder already have been narrowed down by German counter-attacks, while the enemy succeeded in widening some others."

FEB 7 1945

Siege Guns Pound Foe.

Red Army seige guns were bombing the Germans across the Oder on a seventy-three-mile front east of Berlin, and Moscow dispatches indicated imp ortant news might soon be announced in that sector.

A supplement to the German communique said Steinau, a town of 5,000 on the Oder's west bank thirty-two miles northwest of Breslau, had been abandoned, with the Nazi garrison fighting its way back to German lines.

Heavy Attacks Reported.

Moscow has kept silent for days on activities of Marshal Ivan Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army in Silesia, but Berlin has told of heavy attacks.

A push from Steinau would carry flanking threats to both Berlin and Breslau.

The new bridgeheads across the Oder to the north also outflanked Frankfurt and Kustrin.

A Moscow broadcast pointed this out, although Moscow had not officially confirmed the establishment of the bridgeheads.

"Kustrin and Frankfurt are being outflanked," said a German-language broadcast from the Soviet capital. "No miracle can save Berlin. Its fall can be delayed for only a few weeks at the most."

Zellin Captured.

The Russians captured Zellin, 32 miles from Berlin on the Oder northwest of Kustrin, and seized Damvorst, a suburb of Frankfurt, farther south. A tremendous gun duel raged there as Soviet artillery in Damvorst, on the east bank, laid curtains of shells into Frankfurt.

Zhukov's artillerymen were firing over open sights, a Moscow dispatch said, and there was extremely heavy fighting along approaches to Oder bridges north and south of Frankfurt.

The night glow of battle was plainly visible in the Reich capital, prisoners told their Russian captors.

Hand-to-hand battles raged in the suburbs of Kustrin, and the Soviets were only 2 miles from the heart of that important rail and fortress city, it was announced by the Russians.

Hand-to-hand battles raged in the suburbs of Kustrin, and the Soviets were but two miles from the heart of that important rail and fortress city, it was announced.

A Moscow dispatch declared the Germans had lost 20,000 killed in the last four days in the Frankfurt-Kustrin sector. The Germans' Twenty-fifth Motorized Division—said to have been rushed from the western front and sent across the Oder to delay Marshal Zhukov—was reported nearly wiped out yesterday.

Nazis Battle to Hold Bridge.

Moscow officials kept silent on whether Marshal Zhukov had spanned the Oder, but a dispatch from that capital said "There is good reason to believe that important news may be forthcoming from this sector."

Germans were fighting furiously to hold open a highway bridge over the Oder near Schwetig, just south of Frankfurt. Soviet guns shelled the road running along the river's west bank between Frankfurt and Kustrin, used by the Germans to shuttle troops.

The German High Command communique declared the Nazis had blown up a central Oder bridge near Furstenberg, fourteen miles south of Frankfurt.

The bulletin also said the First Ukrainian Army of Marshal Konev had enlarged its Oder bridgehead at Brieg, southeast of Breslau in Silesia. Berlin also has reported Soviet bridgeheads established northwest of Breslau and just below Marshal Zhukov's left flank.

The communique declared the Soviets had broken into the center of by-passed and surrounded Poznan in Poland, where perhaps 20,000 Nazi troops were holding out.

Marshal Zhukov's right wing was striking northward toward Stettin, but was maintaining radio silence on its progress.

Right Flank Drive Is Stressed.

This right flank was one of his most important areas of operation, however, and Moscow dispatches said the tank spearheads might already be relatively close to Stettin and behind many German-held cities.

Soviet snipers as well as artillery were firing across the Oder into Frankfurt. Soviet guns raked the northeast quarters of the city where artillery and mortars were concentrated, and shelled the railway station and freight yards in the southwestern sector.

The Reds pumped shells at the highway and railway bridge still standing at Kustrin. Here the German position was especially vulnerable because of the low western bank of the Oder.

The Russians also were shelling Lebus, midway between Frankfurt and Kustrin, and Furstenberg particularly heavily. The German communique said the German engineer who blew up the Furstenberg bridge was killed in the act. Crossen, farther up the Oder also was under bombardment.

Weather, still comparatively warm, handicapped Marshal Zhukov's communications, but Russian vehicles moved up all night in the mud and slush. German planes repeatedly hit at Marshal Zhukov's transports, and numerous air battles swirled over Germany and Poland.

Nazis Set Up for Kill.

Against this background of continuing victories, the Moscow radio declared in effect this morning that Nazi Germany is being set up for the kill.

FEB 7 1945

"The Red Army is stepping up its blows," this broadcast said. "Decisive blows are awaiting Hitler's Germany from the west, as well."

Capturing more than 100 towns in Berlin's home province of Brandenburg, Zhukov's forces yesterday advanced to the Oder on both sides of Kustrin and Frankfurt.

The newly won river towns ranged from Zellin to Radnitz, 33 miles southeast of Frankfurt. Between Kustrin and Frankfurt, Zhukov planted his troops firmly on the stream by capturing Goritz, 40 miles due east of Berlin.

In addition to the advances on the direct road to Berlin, the Russian communique announced gains in clearing the enemy from the Samland Peninsula in East Prussia northwest of Konigsberg. It also announced recapture of several Hungarian towns from German troops which have been counter-attacking southwest of Budapest. In Budapest itself the Germans were driven into a still tighter corner.

In driving to the Oder, Zhukov's army yesterday killed more than 5,000 Germans and took 1,350 prisoners, Moscow said.

A Moscow broadcast pointed this out, although Moscow had not officially confirmed the establishment of the bridgeheads.

"Kustrin and Frankfurt are being outflanked," said a German language broadcast from the Soviet capital. "No miracle can save Berlin. Its fall can be delayed for only a few weeks at the most."

The Russians captured Zellin, thirtyt-wo miles from Berlin on the Oder northwest of Kustrin, and seized Damvorst, a suburb of Frankfurt, farther south. A tremendous gun duel raged there as Soviet artillery in Damvorst, on the east bank, hurled shells into Frankfurt.

Marshal Gregory Zhukov's artillerymen were firing over open sights, a Moscow dispatch said, and there was extremely heavy fighting along approaches to Oder bridges north and south of Frankfurt, thirty-eight miles from Berlin.

Hand-to-hand Battles Rage.

The night glow of battle was plainly visible in the Reich capital, prisoners told their Russian captors. Smoke overhung the Oder, Moscow reports said.

MORE SETBACKS SEEN BY GERMANS

LONDON, Feb. 6. — (AP) Germans were told by their own propaganda spokesmen tonight that the Russian offensive could not be stopped at present, while Moscow broadcasts called on Berliners to revolt and spare their city "because no miracle can save Berlin any more."

Col. Ritter Von Schramm, DNB commenator, said "more territory will have to be yielded to further penetrating Russian masses and in General they still have the initiative." But he added:

"German countermeasuree are beginning to be felt and the Russians have not achieved their main strategical aim — the smashing of the German armies which would have resulted in quick, tragic defeat."

Other German commentators again werned that "great new attacks are being prepared in the west."

A Moscow broadcast addressed to Berliners appealed to civilians, Volkssturm members and soldiers to "act now to save Berlin."

"Do not tolerate the mining of houses and bridges," the broadcast said. "Kustrin and Frankfurt are being outflanked and no miracle can save Berlin any more. Its fall can be delayed for a few weeks at the utmast. It's up to you whether Berlin suffers the fate of Budapest or whether it will be saved like Krakow."

Yanks Now Set For Big Drive, Berlin Reports

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—The Berlin radio, in a broadcast to German forces in the field, declared today that Gen. Eisenhower has completed his preparations for a new offensive from the Roer River line and that the capture of Cologne appears to be his first major objective.

The broadcast warned that the zero hour for an all-out Allied attack in the west is near.

Berlin indicated the main blow was expected in the Linnich-Duren area, but reported increasing artillery activity on the British 2d Army front to the north. Nazi commentators speculated that increasing pressure by American forces east of Monschau was designed to pin down German troops and prevent reinforcements from being thrown into the line further north to meet a push there.

FIRES STILL BURN IN NAZI CAPITAL

LONDON, Feb. 6—(AP) Berlin was described tonight by a Transocean news agency reporter as still burning from last Saturday's 1,000-plane raid by American Flying Fortresses.

"I dictate my dispatch in the cellar of a house which on Saturday stood like a rock in a sea of flames," the reporter said. "Bombs dropped all around the house. My typist-secretary is wearing her air raid precaution dress.

"Typewriters rattle in the cellar. Telephones ring incessantly and from time to time one hears smouldering beams crashing to the ground. The subway races past my cellar with a noise similar to that of a land-mine. We do not pay any attention to this, but newcomers immediately fall flat on the ground to protect themselves."

"When entering our cellar to work," the German reporter continued, "we pass victims of the terror attack. They are covered with blankets. Some kind souls put some flowers or pine branches on them.

"It is true. Thick smoke columns from still-burning fires and glimmering embers hang over Berlin. This statement has been made by returning United States bomber pilots, but it is at the same time true when the Berlin press writes that Berliners have neither become panicky nor lost their courage.

"Today I had lunch with Swedish and Spanish journalists in the center of Berlin. We sat between cracked and sloping walls, beside shattered windows, but the table was covered with a white tablecloth.

"German talent for organization cannot be beaten, my foreign friends remarked. Where shambles was on Saturday people are selling food today. They were more than surprised that the Berlin subway was in operation twenty-four hours after the attack, that papers were appearing and that hundreds of thousands went to work, had their supper in restaurants at night or lived in hotels.

"Most of the rubble has been cleared from the roads," the German writer said. "Burnt out street cars have been removed and bomb craters have been more or less filled in. Fire-fighting still is in progress at some points. First aid and salvage squads are working continuously to extricate wounded and trapped persons from crushed buildings. Skilled workers repair the water pipes. Electric wires are being laid. Berliners can be seen walking through the streets carrying paper and cardboard for their former windows. As long as I live I will remember Sunday, the day after the attack. Tens of thousands came from the suburbs to lend a hand wherever necessary. Now, today, Berlin again is living and working."

GERMANS SENDING SUPPLIES TO FORTS IN MUNICH AREA

T. Hawkins

BERN, Feb. 6—(AP) New arrivals from Germany reported today that tremendous new stocks of supplies were being poured into mountain strongholds in the Munich area, where Adolf Hitler is preparing a last-ditch defense when Berlin and northern Germany are conquered.

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler, these sources said, will join Hitler in his mountain-top stronghold at Berchtesgaden after he conducts the defense of Berlin. He will aid in the command of thousands of fanatical Nazis expected to fight to the last to defend the Fuehrer.

Travelers Report Rumors

These travelers from Berlin and other parts of the Reich, who bring a fanatical array of rumors, reports, facts and half-truths, said that some leading Nazis were expected to flee or bargain for their freedom, but that preparation for the last stand was going forward at top speed. Civilian transport around Munich has practically ceased and the normal food supply is disrupted, these sources said.

One story is that last week women formed a line across a highway at Munich, stopped an Army truck and seized the food it contained.

The mountain defense ring is being prepared both for a final stand against Allied troops and for the eventuality that food riots, already reported in Berlin, should flare into revolt or chaos, it was said.

Much of last year's harvest in Poland, large stocks of coal and great stocks of food and armaments are being stored in caves around Munich, it was reported.

There is a rumor current in Berlin diplomatic circles that several high Nazis, including Reichmarshal Hermann Goering, hope to use King Leopold of Belgium and possibly Marshal Petain as hostages in a deal for their own liberty.

Himmler and Hitler are not mentioned among those reported maneuvering for their safety. Even anti-Nazi Germans expect them to fight to the end. Hitler is believed to be in Berchtesgaden already.

Political differences are hinted in the stories of some travelers from Berlin that Himmler and Volkssturm leaders are to direct the defense of Berlin without Army participation. The Berlin military commander is not included in the Berlin defense council, although this may mean only that he has moved closer to the Oder with his troops.

Can Hear Gunfire

With artillery fire from the front already faintly audible under favorable conditions, with Polish and Russian prisoners digging trenches in the city and thousands of other foreign workers being directed in the building of fortifications toward the Oder in plain view of refugees pouring in from the east, an intense personal and political crisis has developed which can take any turn any day, travelers say.

On the anti-Nazi side, Germans are forming together in groups irrespective of party to try to create a nucleus for a government when the Nazis fall. There are separate Communist cells, especially in the industrial sections, but a group likely to have much influence is the coalition of Socialist, Communist, Catholic and Reactionist elements.

The principal object of the group or groups is to stand ready to cooperate with the Allies, hoping to hasten the end of the war and bring about the restoration of Germany on peaceful, democratic principles.

Austria has had a provisional national committee in operation since December which includes the Social Democrat, Christian, farmer and fatherland front parties and, according to information direct from Vienna, is pledged to work for a Free Austria and cooperation with the Allies until a legal government can be established.

AMERICANS SMASH ROER DEFENSES IN DRIVE ON SCHMIDT

German Commentators Predict Allied Offensive in West Is Imminent.

THIRD RIPS WESTWALL

Yanks, French Continue Mopping Up Operations in Colmar Pocket.

Boalmer

PARIS, Wednesday, Feb. 7—(AP) American troops fighting in or beyond the Siegfried line's main emplacements along a broad front in western Germany extended their operations northward yesterday with a two-direction attack against the last enemy positions west of the Roer guarding the river's important dams.

(German commentators predicted last night that an imminent Allied offensive on the Western front would come at a point not now active and termed the operations in the Roer sector diversionary. They did not, however, predict where the blow would fall.)

Smash Siegfried Line

The U. S. Third army advanced up to a mile and one-half on an eight-mile front, while the American First army pushed within a half-mile of the Siegfried Line's permanent fortifications.

On the Alsatian front French First army troops with American aid continued cleaning out the halved Colmar pocket of Germans while the Americans placed the fortress city of Neufbreisach under siege.

The British, Canadian and U. S. Ninth and Seventh army fronts remained comparatively quiet.

At the extreme northern end of the active American front inside Germany, the First army's 78th division was squeezing the last Germans from the west bank of the Roer. This division advanced within 1,500 yards of the town of Schmidt, north of the dam network that controls the Roer's headquarters.

Enemy artillery forced the 78th to abandon an attempt to bridge the Paulushof reservoir on the upper Roer.

The village of Scheuren, a half-mile northwest of Schleiden, fell to the Ninth division. Schleiden is one of the last anchor points of the Siegfried Line's deep defenses, but it is not known what works the Germans have been able to erect hastily farther east.

Two and one-half miles southwest of Schleiden the Second division ran into stubborn German tank and infantry forces. Heavy fighting was in progress there in thawing weather which flooded some creeks. Resistance generally was spotty, however.

U. S. Third army men took a string of Siegfried zone towns and pressed within three miles northwest of Prum.

Nazis Strike Back

At Brandscheid, where the Third army broke clear through the Siegfried Line's main fortifications Monday, the Germans threw in a bitter little counter-attack. Field dispatches said there were only 250 Germans involved there and that the attack was broken after two-thirds of the Germans were captured in furious combat. One American column then pressed a half-mile eastward to the outskirts of Hontheim, three miles from Prum.

The Third army's 90th infantry division captured Habscheid, six and a half miles southwest of Prum, in a mile and a quarter gain and also took Lutzkampen, 11 miles southwest of Prum, in an advance of a mile and a half. Berg and Grosskampenberg, 10 miles southwest of Prum, fell in the same push.

The 90th's principal opposition was from barbed wire and minefields.

Schlausenbach, six miles northwest of Prum, also was taken in the Third army's advance against light artillery fire.

Fifty-odd Germans threw in a small counter-attack against the Third army positions in the Campholz woods 15 miles south of Luxembourg late Monday but were repulsed in 45 minutes, field dispatches said.

While opposition generally was not strong, there was no indication that the Germans had made any wholesale evacuation.

Tighten Vosges Pocket

American and French First army troops in Alsace meanwhile tightened the Vosges pocket to seven by ten miles in area, and cut off its western end, capturing the towns of Munster, Soutzeren, Stosswihr, Gieshouse and others.

The Germans were fighting stubbornly on the shoulders of their now-blunted salient in Alsace but one of their most savagely-held spots, Neufbreisach, was placed under siege by Americans who crossed the old city's moats during the night and closed in from three sides. One thousand Germans there were reported under orders to fight to the death.

YANKS DRIVE NEAR LAST SIEGFRIED FORTS

First Slashes Into Second Defense Belt—Nazis Fight Back Against Third—Foe Expects Big Drive Soon.

DAY

FEB 7 1945

Paris, Feb. 6 (A. P.)—Infantry of the American First Army slashed into the second concrete belt of German fortifications today to within 1,500 yards of Gemund and a half mile of Schleiden, last bastion towns of the Siegfried Line.

Just to the north, the Seventy-eighth Division drove through the West Wall fortifications to within 1,500 yards of Schmidt, north of the network of dams controlling headwaters of the Roer River. Two of the five dams have been captured.

The Third Army, fighting seven miles deep in Germany, captured the Siegfried Line village of Habscheid, six miles southwest of the fortified communication center of Prum. Germans, however, moved back into Brandscheid, where the Third Army had driven clear through the Siegfried Line.

Calmar Trap Shrinks.

The Second Division, commanded by Major-Gen. Walter M. Robinson, and the Ninth Division of Major-Gen. Louis A. Craig carried the assault to Gemund and Schleiden, both towns of about 2,500. The First Army captured Scheuren, half a mile northwest of Schleiden, and Hechelscheid, two miles southwest of Schmidt.

To the south in Alsace, the cut off pocket southwest of Colmar shrank swiftly to less than half its former size. Munster, ten miles west of Colmar, was taken. The Germans still fought hard at Ensisheim, seven miles north of Colmar.

American forces also besieged Neufbreisach, the one-time escape crossing of the Rhine, thirteen miles northeast of Colmar. Last night some of these forces managed to get across the moats and enter the city with scaling ladders. A heavy array of guns closed in from three sides on the fort, in which 1,000 or more Germans were holding out with orders to fight to the death.

To the east and southeast the Americans mopped up Volgelsheim, Vogelrun and Algolsheim.

To the west, where some 6,000 German troops were trying to escape, French units cut the Rhine pocket intwo at a new place, forging a junction near Lintsel, three miles northwest of captured Guebwiller.

Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army gained a mile and a quarter on an eight-mile front seven miles inside Germany. Despite the counter-attack of 250 Germans into Brandscheid, it was said at Supreme Headquarters that German resistance at some places appeared to be sagging.

Imminently threatened Gemund lies fourteen miles southwest of Euskirchen and twenty-seven miles from the large Rhine city of Bonn. Schleiden is three miles south of Gemund. Both are on the narrow Olaf River, which has been reached.

The First Army was advancing toward the Rhine against what Supreme Headquarters described as stiffening resistance in the last main row of the Siegfried Line.

Correspondents were told that once the Americans get through Gemund or Schleiden, they will be through the prepared defense zone. It was emphasized, however, that just as in the case of the original breach at Aachen, the troops could expect to run into recently completed earthworks which are extensions of the original line and could be defended stiffly. The country ahead is characterized by steep hills, deep valleys, and winding streams.

So far, however, resistance has appeared so spotty as to suggest strongly that the German Army had sapped its western strength too much in its alarm to speed troops to the Russian Front.

The German re-entry into Brandscheid temporarily sealed the breach in the main Siegfried Line defenses just west of Prum, which the Third Army caved in yesterday. Fighting continued inside the town at last reports. The Siegfried Line before the Third Army is a single chain of defense positions. It is double on the First Army front just north.

On the American 3d Army front to the south, however, 250 Germans burst back into the fortified village of Brandsheid where the Yanks had broken clear through the Siegfried Line late yesterday. Heavy fighting ensued and the issue was still in doubt.

Elsewhere, 3d Army troops advanced a mile and a quarter along an 8-mile front, capturing Habscheid, 7 miles southwest of Prum, and Schlausnbach, 6 miles northwest. At other points, the 3d Army was 7 miles inside Germany and just over 3 miles from Prum, where a spider web of railsand roads serves the German front.

Below Strasbourg, four American divisions and the French 1st Army widened to 5 miles their cutoff corridor which split the Colmar pocket between the Ill River and the Vosges foothills, where Nazi rearguards were hemmed in a death trap. The Allies were caving in the pocket with gains up to 5 miles in a day.

East of the cutoff the road between captured Neufbrisach and the Rhine railroad bridge was cut and German troops were boxed along the Rhine bank to the south, with only pontoon bridges and boats for their escape. A dozen or more Alsatian towns were taken.

With Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley back in command of the 1st and 3d Armies in his 12th Army Group, his troops applied steady pressure to the central sections of the West Wall fortifications.

Win Control of Two Dams.

The 1st Army already has won control of two of the five dams controlling levels on the Roer, a barrier stream at the edge of the Cologne Plain. Two and a half miles southwest of the three remaining dams, the 2d (Indian Head) Division engaged in heavy fighting on the narrow Olef River in the Hellenthal area. The 9th Division captured high ground near Scheuren, which overlooks Schleiden, at the extreme eastern fringe of the double Siegfried Line.

The Germans pulled back their jolted defense forces into an arc around both Schleiden and Gemund, also at the eastern edge of the Siegfried fortifications, for a last attempt to keep the 1st Army from ripping through the last pillbox chain and bursting into the open toward the Rhine, 28 miles away. The Americans fought within 14 miles of Euskirchen, a major traffic center.

Schleiden and Gemund both were presumably under artillery battering, with the 9th Division within sight of both.

There was no word of operations along Field Marshal Montgomery's front from just north of Monschau Forest to the northeast.

Showers and Thaws Continue.

Intermittent showers and continued thaws handicapped operations. Belgian and Luxembourg natives said the backbone of winter perhaps had been broken and that the unusually rigorous January might presage an early spring.

Texans and Oklahomans of the 3rd Army's 90th Division captured Habscheid, 4 miles inside Germany, in an advance of more than a mile. The town is part of the Siegfried Line. The division encountered barbed wire and mines. Other elements of the 90th Division secured high ground southwest of Habscheid in a 1-mile advance.

In the Campholz Woods, 15 miles southeast of Luxembourg City, 50 Germans counterattacked late yesterday, but were repulsed quickly. The 3rd Army took 420 prisoners yesterday. Supreme headquarters said 6,912 had been captured in four days ending February 4.

'Bird Song' For Nazi Youth Laid Stress On New Order

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

Ordensburg-Vogelsang, Germany, Feb. 6 (AP)—Despite its innocent name meaning "bird song," Vogelsang was anything but a place devoted to higher music or ornithology. It was war conquest and Herrenvolk ideology seared into the consciousness of every youngster selected for training in Vogelsang as a future Nazi leader.

At Ordensburg-Vogelsang I read a stack of revealing documents from its libraries, study rooms and lounges. One and all they breathe the same spirit of race superiority, German military invincibility and a fanatic belief in the Führer. Whether one looked at the printed word, a picture, a diagram or a map, the cliché was always the same: A new era begins for the world under the leadership of Gross-Deutschland, meaning the greater German Reich.

Foreword By Keitel

Take, for example, the illustrated textbook Die Wehrmacht. Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel wrote the foreward wherein he said, "A truly new era has begun. It is one man, one unique man, who felled the old and created the new era—Der Führer."

Neville Chamberlain's photograph in this volume is captioned, "the man who hurled Europe into war."

A little book of Nazi songs has a new version of "Deutschland uber Allies." Using the same melody, the youngsters are taught to sing "God preserve and protect our Hitler and or land through him made great, let him guard the united Deutschland, thus fulfilling the German fate."

Booklet Particularly Bitter

Particularly bitter is a booklet found all over Vogelsang, "By their deeds ye shall know them." A succession of scathing denouncements of the Catholic church makes the youngsters see priests in the roles of smugglers, perverts, drunkards, saboteurs and traitors. The private lives of bishops are pictured as scandalous.

In the Christmas edition of "The Storm Trooper," distributed to Vogelsang youths, praise was given to heathen customs surrounding Yuletide, but nothing was said of the Christ Child except to note in passing that out of the heroic sagas of the past to which Germany should revert when celebrating Christmas "there also arose the legend about a hero-child born on holy night."

Textbooks concerning Heinrich Himmler's Elite Guard abound. Evidently the Gestapo chief hoped to recruit SS Elite Guards from among Vogelsang graduates. One of the pamphlets outlines nineteen possible careers as noncoms in the Waffen-SS (meaning arms-bearing guards) and sixteen different careers as commissioned officers.

The Christian doctrine of the Trinity is put off in a guidebook as idle prattle of the clergy. "Your trinity lies in your blood, in your nation and in your children," the Vogelsang youngsters were taught.

RAINBOW DIVISION PART OF 7TH ARMY

With United States Seventh Army, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The famed Forty-second "Rainbow" Division under the command of Major-Gen. Harry J. Collins is now a part of the United States Seventh Army, it was permitted to be disclosed today.

Allied Review Calls Ardennes Offensive Another Hitler Error

By the Associated Press.

SUPREME ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Paris, Feb. 6—A supreme headquarters war review has written off the Nazi Ardennes offensive as a "complete defeat" for an enemy who has suffered 1,260,000 casualties since D day, and a strategic error on Hitler's part on which the Russians now are capitalizing.

At the same time the review, issued yesterday, disclosed that the United States 1st Army, which was transferred to Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's command at the outset of the offensive, was returned to Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th Army group as soon as the 1st linked up with the United States 3d Army in that battle.

No mention was made of the United States 9th Army, which with the 1st and 3d made up Gen. Bradley's group.

(A dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher, dated January 19 and delayed by the censor, said the 9th was left under Marshal Montgomery presumably for future military operations in which Canadian, British and American forces would work as a unit.)

The review placed the Nazi western front losses since the Normandy landing at the equivalent of 110 divisions. It divided the total into 860,000 prisoners and 400,000 killed and wounded. Allied losses were only a fraction of the enemy's.

In tanks and assault guns, the review said, the Germans lost enough to refit 15 armored divisions.

Probing Occupied Forces.

"It was the continuous aggressive action of the 12th Army group between September and the middle of December that drew the 6th SS Panzer army to the west of the Rhine, and thereby prevented it from being available in the east when Stalin and the magnificent Red Army launched the great Russion offensive," the review declared.

"Moreover, it was the Ardennes venture that butchered up the SS panzer army and seriously weakened its offensive power for any future operation. Our great Red ally is making Hitler pay heavily for these mistakes."

The announcement said 24 German divisions, including 10 armored, launched the Ardennes attack at the weakest point of the Allied lines, with the hope of carrying the Nazi line to the Meuse in two days and to Antwerp in three weeks.

3 YANK COLUMNS TIGHTEN TRAP ON DESPERATE ENEMY

Besieged Garrison Being Liquidated by Powerful U.S. Forces.

STREET FIGHTING RAGES

Japs Set Fire to City, Many Filipinos Believed Burned to Death.

MANILA, Wednesday, Feb. 7 — (AP) Liberated Manila's business district was ablaze Monday from Japanese torches, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today, but three American columns still were liquidating the desperate enemy in a tightening three-way trap.

(CBS Radio Correspondent William Dunn reported today the fires had been burning 36 hours.

City Raging Inferno

(Arthur Feldman of the Blue network said earth-shaking explosions were followed by sheets of flame Monday at sundown, and the business area was soon a raging inferno.

(He quoted a disappointed American doughboy as saying, "Well, there goes our good time in Manila!")

(Feldman said the number of persons who died in the burning of Manila probbaly will never be known, but "undoubtedly many Filipinos were burned alive.")

By yesterday morning the flames began to die down, but it still was impossible to assess the actual damage.

House to house fighting was in progress in some sectors as the Yanks of the First Cavalry, 37th Infantry and Eleventh Airborne divisions closed in for the final mop-up.

"The trapped and frustrated Japanese garrison has wantonly set fire to the downtown business district along the Escolta and is practicing general sabotage destruction which has no relation to the military operations," MacArthur announced.

Flames soared from building to building in the business section and spread toward ancient Bilibid prison, from which 800 prisoners of war and 500 civilian internees were freed by American troops Sunday.

Water mains were empty and the Manila fire department was helpless. The enemy blew up water pumping stations several days ago.

MacArthur told his men in a general order that "You have inflicted the greatest military defeat in its history on your enemy."

"You have redeemed a country's pledge to recapture its lost land," he said. "You are restoring to the East its destiny. You have fulfilled the sacred mission for our hallowed dead.

"For this we thank God."

MacArthur requested that Divine services be held throughout the sea, land and air command.

Meet Stiff Resistance

The Eleventh airborne spearhead pushing into Manila along two routes met stiff resistance around Nichols field, at the extreme southern edge of the municipality.

One of the very few American planes lost in the Luzon campaign was downed by antiaircraft fire over Nichols field yesterday.

Yanks advancing southward along the eastern edge of the Bataan peninsula, which forms a jaw of Manila bay, were moving only yards at a time against Japanese fighting from Bambo thickets and jungle.

The enemy is isolated on Bataan and in northeastern Luzon, and he has no hope of escape or reinforcement, but there is still fighting ahead—possibly hard fighting—for American forces of liberation before their task in the Philippines is completed.

In Manila alone there remained the dirty and dangerous job of digging the blasted Japanese out of their positions. Small groups of the enemy were holding out behind barricaded doors and from rooftops.

Softening up Manila bay defenses, Army Liberators dumped a record load of 180 tons on Corregidor fortress, where Japanese are reported to have fled from the Manila area.

Airdromes still in Japanese hands also were pounded in widespread air activity which reached again across the China sea to hit Formosa.

Enemy Attacks Repulsed

In ground actions on northwestern Luzon, Yank forces repulsed a Japanese night counterattack northeast of Rosario, south of the Philippine Summer capital at Baguio, inflicting heavy casualties.

San Jose, important highway town on the enemy's last road lifeline of the central Luzon plain, was captured by the Americans, who also seized most of the town of Lupao, to the south. Progress was made throughout the northern sector.

A small freighter was destroyed off the Sakishima islands, east of Formosa. Another was badly damaged.

Heavy bombers poured 91 tons of bombs on enemy airdromes on northern Borneo, and raked air and ship facilities throughout the Philippines, the Moluccas and islands north of New Guinea.

The trapped Manila Japanese sought to destroy what they could not hold as they put the torch to the city's business area.

Newly-freed Americans and Allied nationals joined soldiers in fighting the flames, which were spreading northward from Japanese positions on the Pasig river, which divides the city.

Japanese suicide units Monday night began the work of destruction. They planted explosives throughout the city's Escolta (business district) and put the torch to department stores, banks and office buildings.

Fanned By Stiff Breeze

Fanned by a stiff breeze from Manila Bay, the flames spread wildly.

Santo Tomas, the former university and internment camp, was an island of safety—well apart from the densely built areas, already burning or in the path of the fire.

Most of the 3,700 internees freed at Santo Tomas were still occupying quarters there, pending evacuation plans.

Explosions Shake Buildings

Buildings of the area were shaken repeatedly, however, by explosions in the business district and by the thunder of American guns pounding at the Japanese positions.

5,000 Prisoners Freed; Japs Flee Toward Bay Area

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Feb. 6.—Liberation of Manila and more than 5,000 prisoners from three years of Japanese subjugation was proclaimed today by Gen. MacArthur, who immediately took up the new war cry, "On to Tokyo!"

The knockout blow was delivered by paratroopers of the 11th Airborne Division, who drove into Manila from the south in a 35-mile overnight dash as 1st Cavalry and 37th Division Yanks smashed across the Pasig River barrier in the city's heart.

Complete destruction of the Japanese defenders "is imminent," Gen MacArthur announced. Caught in a three-way trap, the enemy can go only toward Manila Bay, which is constantly under American bombsights.

Bataan Sealed at North.

Corregidor fortress at the harbor entrance and the nearby Bataan peninsula could serve as temporary refuge. Bataan now is under American control, all its roads sealed off at the north.

Gen. MacArthur proclaimed "the fall of Manila was the end of one great phase of the Pacific struggle, and set the stage for another." He added:

"We shall not rest until the enemy is completely overthrown . . We are well on the way, but Japan itself is our final goal . . . Our motto becomes 'On to Tokyo!'"

The wording could be interpreted as a bid for continuing command in the campaign against Japan proper and a move to put down rumors that the Philippines would be the end of the road for the five-star general.

Manila Being Cleaned Up.

Gen. MacArthur made it clear a quick cleanup of Manila's remaining Japanese could be expected, announcing that his men were "rapidly clearing the enemy from Manila" after surrounding the Japanese garrison with the noose formed by the 1st Cavalry, the 37th and the 11th Airborne Divisions.

The enemy's "complete destruction is imminent," Gen. MacArthur announced, just 28 days after the Luzon invasion at Lingayen Gulf and 80 days after the first major invasion of the Philippines at Leyte Island.

Two of the four bridges spanning the wide Pasig River, which divides the capital city, were blown up by the Japanese in a futile attempt to block the American advance into the southern half. One was the big concrete and steel Quezon Bridge, the other the Ayala. Two bridges, however, were left intact.

Eight hundred prisoners of war and 550 civilian internees were freed Sunday from the ancient, vermin-infested, torture-chambered Bilibid Penitentiary in the center of the city, such a filthy hole it had been abandoned as a penal institution by the Philippine government.

No Fight at Bilibid.

The prisoners were liberated by the 37th Infantry Division, under Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler of Columbus, Ohio, only hours after the veteran 1st Cavalry Division, led by Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, freed 3,700 persons, mostly American women and children, from the Santo Tomas internment camp.

There was no fight for Bilibid. The prison staff fled ahead of the advancing Yanks. At Santos Tomas, the Japanese commander dramatically took 270 hostages, including prominent American businessmen, and bargained successfully for safe conduct for himself and 65 of his men.

The prisoners of the two institutions—4,000 of them Americans—were pitifully weak from malnutrition, beri-beri and dysentery, but deliriously happy. They beseeched newsmen to message their families that they were safe. American soldiers were quick to offer them food, tobacco and candy from their field packs.

Sixty-nine nurses from the historic Bataan and Corregidor capitulation of 1942 were freed at Santo Tomas, and within an hour some were caring for cavalrymen wounded in the sharp fighting there.

Gen. MacArthur said every facility of the armed forces was being devoted to the care and attention of the rescued, and their names would be made public as soon as they can be tabulated.

First Cavalry troops who put a cordon around Santo Tomas Saturday night were reinforced yesterday, thus easing a precarious situation there. American troops were pouring into Manila, hampered primarily by throngs of returning civilians dammed up at bombed-out bridges.

Japanese in the Bataan Peninsula, a jaw of Manila Bay, were trapped as Americn forces moving west from San Fernando and east from the Zambales Province coast beachhead joined at Dinalupihan after some of the toughest fighting of the Philippine campaign.

"We control all roads leading into Bataan," Gen. MacArthur said.

Associated Press Correspondent Jim Hutcheson, with the 14th Corps, wrote that the Japanese in Northern Bataan "were resisting continuously with machine guns and mortars by day and with artillery and skillful penetrations of the American perimeter by night . . . Japanese were seemingly entrenched everywhere . . ."

Thousands of Japs Sealed Off.

Japanese in the Cagayan Valley of Northeast Luzon, figured at many thousand strong, were effectively sealed into that area when American troops took the town of San Jose on the Cagayan highway leading to Balete Pass.

An enemy strong point near Munoz, to the south, was "reduced," Gen. MacArthur announced, and 25 Japanese tanks were destroyed along with pillboxes, artillery pieces and trucks.

American bombers in their steady neutralization of Manila Bay defenses pounded the Cavite naval base and Corregidor while attack planes swept enemy-held airdromes in areas south of Manila.

Patrol bombers ranged the China coast, sinking two small freighters off Amoy and strafing parked aircraft at Swatow airdrome. Formosa was hit again. Fires were started in the Takao area on the southwest coast and a fuel-laden coastal ship was sunk offshore.

MacArthur Asks Divine Services

Manila, Feb. 6 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur issued a general order today requesting that divine services be held throughout his sea, land and air command today as his liberating troops in Manila continued digging and blasting Japanese out of the city.

In requesting the divine services, General MacArthur told his troops:

"You will shortly complete the liberation of the Philippines.

"You have redeemed a country pledge to recapture its lost land.

"You have inflicted the greatest military defeat in its history on your enemy.

"You are restoring to the East its destiny.

"You have fulfilled the sacred mission for our hallowed dead.

"For all this we have to thank God."

Education Commissioner Freed.

Manila, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Luther B. Bewle, Commissioner of Education in the Quezon Government, when released from internment by American troops asked that his wife be notified through the Philippine Resident Commissioner at Washington that he is "fairly well."

Mr. Bewle weighed 140 pounds when released and said all he needed was food "and it is available."

Japs Belittle Military Value of Manila, Warn Of 'Bleeding Tactics'

By the Associated Press.

Dismissing the military worth of Manila as "of almost no value," a Tokyo brodacast today said "our force is about to take definite bleeding tactics against the enemy."

The radio said Japanese forces on Luzon had "completed the establishment of lines for our main forces in three districts . . . in the mountains northeast of Lingayen Gulf, in the vicinity of Clark Field, and in the high land area east of Manila.

"The coming of the enemy to Manila is exactly what our side waited for, and our bleeding tactics, which are our aim, will now enter the positive stage."

The broadcast was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

A Tokyo broadcast heard by the Blue Network said "the Americans in the northern part of Manila are paying high costs daily to landing parties of the Japanese Navy."

Japanese imperial headquarters acknowledged that American troops had "penetrated into a corner of Manila City," but claimed that Japanese units were "locked in heavy fighting with the invaders."

A Domei agency broadcast described American losses in the drive on Manila as "unprecedented in the world's war annals."

"There is no question," Domei said, "but that the desperate emphasis on the operations for the recapture of Manila has unbalanced the strategy of the Allied powers in Europe."

WATCHES FIRE SWEEP MANILA

Correspondent Also Tells Of Rescue Convoy's Dash

San Francisco, Feb. 6 (AP)—The removal to a hospital of the last liberated internees to leave Bilibid prison—one a little boy holding a teddy bear and excited over getting a ride in a truck—while embers of burning Manila fell about them was described today in a broadcast.

Arthur Feldman, Blue Network correspondent, went with the evacuation convoy from Santo Tomas after watching Manila's business district ablaze Monday night from a tower at the university.

Buildings Shake Through Night

"The buildings of the university, which had been a prison for thousands of Americans and Allied internees for over three years, shivered and shook from twilight on Monday through most of the night," Feldman said, "and when I looked at Manila in the gray light of Tuesday morning (after the Bilibid evacuation) there were still occasional explosions."

"Just about sundown Monday, the area north of the Pasig River began to mushroom into flames," Feldman said.

"As dusk fell, the flames spread and I went on up into the tower of the main building of Santo Tomas to watch Manila's business section turn into one great sheet of flame. I would be looking at a building and then suddenly there would be an explosion and there would be nothing but a great sheet of fire where the building was that would hide everything for a moment and then it would die down. Then I'd see the building again.

"There Goes Good Time"

"This time it would be burning steadily. A GI standing next to me up in the tower during the early evening hours was looking at the blaze and shaking his head; and then he turned to me and said sadly, 'Well, boys, there goes our good time in Manila.'"

[Feldman said in a later broadcast it was certain that many persons perished in the downtown district.]

"The attractive trees in the Santo Tomas campus were silhouetted against the crimson background," Feldman continued.

"The blaze was between us and the Pasig River, and a wind which came up in midevening began to fan the flames in our direction.

Embers Fall On Campus

"Scattered fires began blazing in other directions from us and soon after 9 o'clock buildings went up which were near enough so that burning embers began falling on the campus.

"Just before 10 o'clock, Brig. Gen. William C. Chase, of our 1st Cavalry, told me he was sending a convoy of ambulances and trucks from Santo Tomas to Bilibid prison. The fire at that time seemed to be sweeping dangerously close to Bilibid where over 1,300 civilian internees and war prisoners had been freed earlier by our 37th Division.

"General Chase wasn't sure whether or not they would have to be evacuated and, if so, if they had enough transportation. So shortly after 10 a great convoy swept out of the gates of Santo Tomas.

Applauded By Filipinos

"I rode in a jeep with a colonel named Courtney Whitney. We raced down the wide expanse of Quezon avenue, which was almost as bright as day. It is an actual fact that as our convoy sped along Filipinos, watching the downtown area of their home city aflame, cheered and applauded us as we raced past them on this errand of mercy into the flaming heart of Manila. . . .

"Bilibid stood almost empty, as it turned out, the dark towers atop the walls deserted. There were a few hundred people in civilian clothes outside the main gate and a few soldiers. . . .

"The stone buildings within which American prisoners had suffered and died were then deserted, and only a detachment of GI's were inside the walls. They were firmly dug in as protection against the flaming stuff which was coming down. They told us Bilibid had been evacuated of all internees and prisoners. Only the people we had seen outside the gates remained.

Internees "A Bit" Nervous

"We ran back there and we helped load them and their belongings onto the trucks. They were former civilian internees, men, women and children. They were a bit nervous and frightened but not too bad.

"One little boy sat in his father's lap in the firelight holding a teddy bear. As I lifted him onto the truck he said, 'Oh, boy! I'm going to get a ride on a nice big truck.'

"I'll never forget the tragic faces of these Americans on this night of the fifth of February as they sat in the trucks outside Bilibid prison with fire all around them. The trucks with the internees headed north to a hospital."

Put Gasoline In Buildings

George Thomas Folster, NBC correspondent, said the Japanese planted drums of gasoline under many buildings and the fires there got off to an immediate, roaring start.

Folster, watching the scene from a jeep, reported seeing thousands of Filipinos fleeing from the fiery scene, some carrying bird cages, others leading dogs, many pushing two-wheeled hand carts.

"It is a pitiful and mournful sight," Folster related, "but at least they are alive.

"There were many who were trapped in their homes and burned alive.

"The Chinese and Filipinos fell for the Jap official announcements that if the war came to the city of Manila civilians would be respected. But now the city in many places is dying, being consumed in flames. It is a terrible sight to see."

CHIANG HAILS FREE MANILA

Message to MacArthur Looks to Junction of Forces on Mainland

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 6 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek sent his congratulations to President Roosevelt, Gen. Douglas MacArthur and President Sergio Osment of the Philippines today on the liberation of Manila.

"The luster of your recapture of Manila gives unbounded cheer to the Chinese people, who look forward to speedy junction of American and Chinese forces in the task of driving Japan from the mainland," said the message to General MacArthur.

"My Government and people join me in sending the forces under your command our heartiest congratulations."

COUNTY RESIDENTS FREED FROM JAPS

SANTO TOMAS, MANILA, P. I., Feb. 6.—(AP) "Tell the people at home we are alive, free and well," said internees whose first thoughts were for relatives. Most internees had no word from relatives for many months.

Among those asking that relatives be notified were:

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Van Sickle, New Martinsville, W. Va. Mrs. Van Sickle is the daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Myron C. Cramer, Judge Advocate General of the Army, Washington, D. C.; Allan Thorndyke Sylvester, Bell Island, South Norwalk, Conn., engineering adviser to the Commonwealth government; Luther W. Lennox, 1146 Ninth street, Manhattan Beach, Calif., general superintendent of the Benquet Consolidated Mining company; W. L. Wellborn, 1550 East Broad street, Columbus, Ohio.

Christian Larsen, Care Orson Kilborn, Southport, Conn.; Joseph Foley, 223 Van Orden avenue, Leonia, N. J.

He Had Good Sleep, but Missed Rescue

Hampson

Evacuation Hospital, Luzon, P. I., Feb. 6 (A. P.).—"Somebody yelled, 'the Americans are here,'" said Edwin Rose.

"I thought they were there to stay so I rolled over and went back to sleep. Amusing, wasn't it?"

That was why the former resident of Toronto, Canada, wasn't rescued when the Sixth Rangers dramatically wiped out the Japanese garrison at Cabanatuan prison Janary 30 and whisked the prisoners to safety. His bunk was in a dark corner and he was overlooked by the hurried Rangers as they carried away the feebler prisons.

So Rose enjoyed a good night's sleep and awoke to find himself the only living occupant of the prison.

Sprawled clusters of dead Japanese and empty prison quarters told him what had happened.

Mr. Rose washed, shaved and made himself some breakfast. By that time some Filipinos arrived. They were amazed to find him still there. They hustled him off to a guerrilla camp since the Japanese—angry about the raid—were still thick in the area. For two days he remained with the guerrillas until they brought him through the American lines.

30,24—22745

Mr. Rose, 65-years-old and still suffering from a three-year-old shrapnel wound which had never quite healed, reached safety four days after the others.

He was a purser on a British ship plying between Hongkong and Singapore before the war. The ship put into Manila Bay for safety December 19, 1941. He was wounded, evacuated to Corregidor hospital and captured.

THREE MEN GUIDED 50 INTERNED BOYS

Santo Tomas, Manila, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The boy problem in the Santo Tomas internment camp here during more than three years of imprisonment was handled by self-sacrificing men who assumed leadership and guidance of fifty youths ranging in age from 8 to 16.

During the long internment the restless adolescents, whose parents were not in the camp, were taught and trained toward normal manhood by Bertram G. Leake of Valle Crucis, N. C.; Francis Gispert, secretary of the Associated Steamship Line, and Brother John E. Abrams, a Jesuit teacher from Fordham Road, New York.

Leake and his associates maintained a schedule of two hours of school classwork daily and a regular sports program until insufficient food made sports unwise. Moral training was one of the outstanding features of the program.

One of the Santo Tomas youths, thinking his father was in Bilibid prison, dashed there when he learned doughboys had liberated those held in the old penitentiary. He learned that his father had been transferred some time ago to a prison in Japan.

Bilibid, Jap Prison of Horrors, Unguarded as Yanks Arrive

(Russell Brines was interned in Santo Tomas prison camp shortly after Japanese occupation of Manila January 2, 1942, until the following September, when he was permitted to go to China and arrange for his repatriation.)

By RUSSELL BRINES,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

BILIBID PRISON, Manila, Feb. 6.—Musty, filthy old Bilibid, erstwhile Japanese prison of horrors, was a begrimed citadel of American freedom today.

Thirty-seventh Division infantry opened its doors Sunday for the liberation of its half-starved, ill-clothed 800 prisoners of war and 550 civilian internees, including women and children.

At Santo Tomas University, 10 blocks to the north, there had been some fighting prior to the complete liberation of its some 3,700 internees by the 1st Cavalry Division. In the end, it had been necessary to insure safe conduct for Lt. Col. Hayashi and 65 of his men to the enemy's lines in order to free 270 internees held as hostages in the education building.

This was not so at Bilibid. The Japanese fled their infamy there.

Old Bilibid was in such a deplorable condition that the ancient Spanish prison had been abandoned by the Filipino government before the war.

But the Japanese made full use of its torture chambers. Many an accused man was taken from Santo Tomas to Bilibid. If he came back at all, he came back a broken and shattered shell of himself.

Prisoners confined in the prison itself and not taken to the torture chambers, however, received generally better treatment than in other war prisons.

The Japanese prison staff left Saturday when the first Yanks entered the city, leaving behind a signpost saying, "Prisoners and war internees quartered here lawfully released."

Sunday while Capt. Theodore Winship, Virginia, Minn., was cooking his handful of corn and rice, he looked up to see a soldier.

"Hello, who are you?" Capt. Winship asked.

"I'm an American soldier of the 37th Division," was the reply. "We've come to free you."

"Where in the hell have you been?" Capt. Winship inquired. "We've been waiting three years for you."

"That's long enough," replied the Yank as he broke down the gate.

(George Thomas Folster, NBC correspondent who visited the prison, said all inmates were suffering from malnutrition, beriberi and dysentery after subsisting on a daily ration of 110 grams of corn, 50 grams of rice and 60 grams of beans.

(He said some inmates were British missionaries and mining engineers who had been transported south from Baguio, exposed to the blazing sun and without food on the trip.)

Many of the released felt as did H. T. Hutchinson of Pasadena, Calif., who sent out word to his wife, "My affection for you must be shared with Gen. MacArthur and his forces."

Jap Pockets Bypassed.

Bilibid and Santo Tomas both were liberated Sunday although Santo Tomas was reached Saturday night by several hundred 1st Cavalry Division Yanks. Those Yanks had passed right by pockets of Japanese in a mad dash to Santo Tomas and the situation at the university internment camp was tense until reinforcements got through the next day.

The impression made by the sudden appearance of the Yanks at Santo Tomas is depicted in the words of David T. Boguslav, editor of the Manila Tribune:

"The first tank which rounded the main building, housing 1,100 men, women and children, was nearly mobbed by a horde of joy-maddened internees, fearlessly defying for the first time the strict Jap curfew order."

A 70-year-old veteran of the Spanish-American War at Santo Tomas summed up the feelings of the liberated—"America has come back to us."

NEW YORK PRIESTS IN MANILA FREED

With First Cavalry Division at Manila, Feb. 3 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Four nationalities — American, British, Canadian and Dutch—were represented among thirty-two members of the Dominican faculty of Santo Tomas Catholic missionary priests and one Army chaplain whose release from captivity came tonight.

They were freed when motorized troops of the First Cavalry Division battered down the gates of the campus.

For more than two years, the Catholic clergy was permitted a certain degree of freedom, living in a building walled off from the main area of the university campus used by internees.

Six months ago, that barrier was torn down and the white-robed Dominicans and fellow clergymen were subject to the same treatment as other Allied nationals.

HOWARD HICKS SAFE

Santo Tomas, Manila, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Howard Hicks, former New York University basketball and track star, survived internment with the same broad shoulders, although tanned and considerably thinner.

Mr. Hicks was caught here while representing the General Foods Corporation of New York city.

Report New Island Landing

San Francisco, Feb. 6 (AP)—American troops have landed on the island of Poro in the Camotes Sea between Leyte and Cebu, the Japanese news agency Domei reported today in an unconfirmed broadcast intercepted by the Australian Department of Information which was received by the Blue network here.

The Japanese said about 3,000 United States troops made the landing.

[An earlier report said that American troops landed on Jolo Island in the Sulus, which is southwest of Poro.]

BRITON REVEALS 'BIG 3' IN SESSION

Trade Union Leader Announces Allied Leaders Are Now Conferring.

LONDON, Feb. 6 — (AP) It was disclosed definitely today that the Big Three actually are in conference, and the expectation was expressed in informed quarters in London that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin might already have tackled the thorny problem of halting future aggression.

Sir Walter Citrine, British trade union leader, explaining why Prime Minister Churchill was not present to address today's opening of the Trades Union Congress, announced that the British, American and Russian leaders were meeting "at this very moment."

Citrine did not hint as to the location. The German radio said the meeting was being held either aboard a warship in the Black Sea or at a Black Sea port, while the French telegraph agency said it was being held at Sochi, on the Black Sea's eastern shore at the foot of the Caucasus mountains.

With indications that the conference had been in progress for some days, it seemed that the more urgent problems of defeating Germany and controlling that nation might have been settled.

This would clear the ground for discussion of a future world organization and the unanswered question of Dumbarton Oaks, whether a majority or unanimity would be required to determine an aggressor.

The Big Three probably will discuss this, since the future of Germany is only a part of the larger issue of international security.

A difference of opinion rose at the Dumbarton Oaks conference between Russia and the United States on voting arrangements of a proposed security council, the Russians favoring unanimity while the Americans preferred decisions by a majority vote.

Informed sources expressed belief that Roosevelt and Stalin might compromise on an agreement to a majority vote on most questions but requiring unanimity when deciding upon military action against an aggressor.

Military End Of Reich First

Indicating German interest in the conference, the German press and radio carried thousands of words seeking to bolster the home front against an expected demand for German capitulation.

Foremost problem on the meeting's agenda undoubtedly was the military finish of Germany, then the political and economic aspects of reshaping Germany, Europe and the world. The conference was preceded by extensive exchanges of views and by personal conversations between the White House and No. 10 Downing Street, as well as by Harry Hopkins's "information tour" of Britain, France and Italy.

The British Press Association said no official announcements could be expected until the leaders had returned home, when simultaneous statements would be made in Washington, London and Moscow.

'Big 3' Meeting Now Being Held, Briton Reveals

Trade Union Leader Gives No Hint as To Site of Talks

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Sir Walter Citrine, British trade union leader, announced today that Prime Minister Churchill was meeting with President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin "at this very moment."

It was the first concrete disclosure from Allied quarters that the three leaders were in session. Citrine made the statement at the opening session of the British Trades Union Congress.

He did not give any hint as to where the meeting was being held. The French telegraph agency said the three men were conferring at Sochi, a Russian Black Sea port 20 miles above the border of Stalin's home province of Georgia.

The German radio declared the meeting was being held either on a warship in the Black Sea or at a Black Sea port.

Message of Greeting.

"Arrangement had been made for Mr. Churchill to address this congress," Citrine said. "But since that arrangement was entered into a conference was arranged between the great powers and it is taking place at this very moment."

Citrine, secretary of the congress, read a message of greeting from the Prime Minister.

The German press and radio still were giving top priority to the big three parley.

"Apart from his onslaught from the east," Berlin newspapers warned, "the enemy is going to demand capitulation from us. This demand, behind which stands the whole destructive will of our enemies, should prepare us for the same fate as those of our Allies which became weak."

The British Press Association said no official announcement of the conclusions reached at the big three conference "is to be expected until it has taken place and the leaders have returned to their capitals."

The news agency said simultaneous statements would then be made in Washington, Moscow and London.

Unions Face Knotty Problems.

The trade union conference, the first since the start of the war, will tackle such knotty problems as industrial readjustment to peace and future organization of world trade unionism.

Support of the Allied war effort to speed victory over Germany and Japan is the first subject on the agenda of the conference, but divergent opinions and lively debate are expected on succeeding topics, such as the attitude of trade unions toward peace settlement, acceptable bases for world-wide trade union federation and the broad problems of reconstruction.

White House Is Silent On Citrine's Statement

By the Associated Press.

The White House declined comment today on the statement of Sir Walter Citrine in London that the big three are meeting "at this very moment."

Jonathan Daniels, an assistant to the President, opened his daily meeting with newsmen by saying, "Again I have no news."

Asked about the Citrine statement, Mr. Daniels said he could only point out that Citrine "has no official position in the government" and that he is a labor leader "about in relation to the government like Bill Green (AFL president) in this country."

ROOSEVELT MAY TALK WITH POPE

London, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The Swiss radio quoted Rome reports today that President Roosevelt was making plans to meet Pope Pius. The broadcast said Myron C. Taylor, the President's personal envoy to Vatican City, was making the preparations and that Mr. Roosevelt may meet the Pope upon his return from the Big Three conference.

THREE GERMAN CITIES BOMBED

U.S. Heavies Raid Magdeburg, Leipzig And Chemnitz

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Allies sent nearly 4,000 warplanes over Germany in clearing weather today, while delayed-action bombs dropped in last Saturday's raid still exploded in Berlin.

More than 1,300 American Flying Fortresses and Liberator bombers hammered the communications centers of Magdeburg, Leipzig and Chemnitz southeast of Berlin, while fighter-bombers, also concentrating chiefly on railroads, ranged over Germany to within 29 miles of Schweinfurt and 100 miles of Berlin.

RAF bombers also joined the offensive and stepped up their attacks on V-2 launching sites in the Netherlands.

In Three Groups

The American heavy bombers split into three groups over Germany.

One of the groups attacked Magdeburg, center of Germany's synthetic oil refinery belt and only 65 miles from Berlin; a second struck Leipzig, Germany's fifth largest city with a population of 750,000 and site of large aircraft, tool and textile industries; the third hit Chemnitz, rail center and truck and tank factory zone 30 miles from the border of Czechoslovakia and 120 from Berlin. Chemnitz had been attacked only once previously, on September 11, 1944, on a shuttle mission to Russia.

Shielding the big bombers were 850 United States 8th Air Force Mustangs and Thunderbolts. The air fleets encountered no enemy aerial opposition.

The fighters destroyed at least sixteen locomotives, some motor transport and three German planes parked on an airfield.

Most of today's bombing was by instrument, heavy clouds blotting out the targets.

A Mustang squadron attacked an ammunition train and set off an explosion in one car. The blast touched another boxcar filled with high explosives. Huge craters were blown in the tracks and train wheels were hurled higher than the attacking fighter planes.

Nazis fleeing Berlin. Industrial Chemnitz is 40 miles farther southwest. Madgeburg is 70 miles west and south of Berlin.

Several other towns in Central Germany also apparently were hit. A preliminary announcement said the targets were industries and communications.

About 850 Mustangs and Thunderbolts flew escort.

The raid on Chemnitz, 35 miles from Dresden, represented a round-trip flight of 1,300 miles.

Delayed Bombs Exploding.

The day raids followed a night Mosquito attack on Berlin, where delayed action bombs planted in Saturday's huge Flying Fortress raid still were exploding.

A few of today's targets were bombed visually, but others were attacked through storm clouds that blacked out the view completely.

Only a few German planes were sighted and not a single bomber was challenged. Escorting fighters shot up sixteen locomotives near Leipzig and destroyed four Nazi planes parked on airfields.

From the Mediterranean Allied Air Force in Italy came word that the Germans' Brenner Pass line and main rail routes out of Italy to the northeast "are now thoroughly blocked despite frantic efforts of German repair crews" to maintain them.

Fast two-engined British Mosquitos kindled new fires in Berlin last night, and hit other objectives in Central and Western Germany. One plane was missing.

A Stockholm dispatch said the newspaper Aftonbladet was unable to reach its Berlin correspondent by telephone this morning, indicating the German capital was further disorganized in last night's attack.

2,200 U. S. Planes Attack Reich in One Of Greatest Raids

Leipzig, Magdeburg and Chemnitz Are Targets Of Smashing Assault

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Some 2,200 American planes today staged one of the greatest mass raids on Germany, attacking Leipzig, Magdeburg and Chemnitz, the latter less than 30 miles from the Czechoslovak border.

More than 1,300 Flying Fortresses and Liberators flew in the 250-mile-long sky train which broke into three sections.

Industries Among Targets.

RAF SPITFIRE BOMBERS BLAST V-2 INSTALLATION

LONDON, Feb. 6 — (AP) In a stepped-up offensive against V-2 installations, R.A.F. Spitfire bombers today gave the firing ramps and storage sites of the rockets in Holland one of their heaviest poundings.

The targets, all masked by intense flak, included a firing site at Huistonbosch—the famous "house in the wood"—and a storage depot at the Hague.

The R.A.F. said the attack at Huistonbosch was one of the most successful yet made.

LADY LUCK FLEW WITH FORT CREW

A United States Eighth Air Force Bomber Station in England, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—A Flying Fortress coming in over England exploded and burst into flames today.

Nine parachutes puffed through the smoke, barely escaping the wild zigzagging of the wounded plane. Bullets from 50 caliber gun belts, set off by the heat, whizzed by.

Then an entire bomb load of more than 5,000 pounds fell among the chutes.

As the men neared the ground they found they were falling into the path of a speeding train. But a gust of wind blew them to safety.

All landed unhurt.

"The terrific blast shooks us in the plane," said Lieut. Lawrence Flanelly of 127 North Portland avenue, Ventnor, N. J., the co-pilot. He said the escape hatch was tight from the air pressure. Combined weight finally forced open the door.

The last man to leave the plane was Sergt. Leon Hatch of Jacksonville, Fla., gunner. He rushed back to see if the tail gunner was safe and then realized he was the last man in the bomber. He had to struggle back through the flames to get out.

Plane On Practice Trip Saves 9 In Bomber Crew

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—Crewmen of an American flying boat who had never seen the North Sea from the air before they started on a practice flight Saturday ended as rescuers of nine men of a Flying Fortress down off the Dutch coast after bombing Berlin.

Lieut. Donald E. Combs, Fleischmanns, N.Y., the pilot, set the amphibian down in ten-foot waves, then took off minus part of the nose section, which had been shattered in the landing.

Without maps or navigational charts for that area, Navigator Lieutenant Stanley R. Wilson, Middletown, Ohio, improvised a chart and plotted the course back to England.

They landed in England after dark—and not until they were down did the crew know that they had hit their own field.

The Fortress survivors had been in the water three hours. One man drowned when the Fortress, hit by flack over Berlin, crash-landed in the sea.

Schilling Ends Fighting Days

AMERICAN 8TH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS, Feb. 6 (AP).—Colonel David C. Schilling, twenty-six years old, of Traverse City, Mich., one of the leading American fighter pilots, has relinquished command of the stop-scoring 56th Thunderbolt Group to become assistant intelligence chief at 8th Air Force headquarters.

Britain Sets Up War Bonus Fund

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—Britain today set aside $800,000,000 for tax-free cash bonuses to veterans of the present war, payable on a sliding scale based on rank and length of service.

Covering all the nation's armed forces, the grants range from $2 for privates and ordinary seamen to $15 for field marshals and admirals for each month spent in the service during the war. The bonus will be paid as soon as possible after discharge.

Sir John Anderson, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced the special appropriation in Commons as part of a Government program under which $2,000,000,000 previously had been set aside to provide postwar credit on civilian clothing for veterans, educational benefits and allowances of up to $600 for veterans wishing to start their own businesses.

Grants to nurses and women auxiliaries will be only two thirds of those paid to men of comparable rank and length of service.

Asked whether the plan applied to native troops, such as the African Rifles, the Chancellor replied: "That is not a question for me. Put it to the Colonial Secretary."

BRITISH PLAN BONUS

London, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Britain announced a bonus plan for discharged service men today with the basic payments ranging from $2 for privates and ordinary seamen to $15 for field marshals and admirals for every month spent in the armed forces during the war.

Sir John Anderson, Chancellor of the Exchequer, described the plan as "wider in scope and more liberal in benefits" than after the last war and said the payments would be made as soon as possible after a man's discharge. He said a $2,800,000,000 fund already had been set up.

Nurses and members of the women's auxiliaries to the Army, Navy and Air Forces will receive approximately two-thirds of the sums received by men holding corresponding rank.

Commons Passes Fair Wage Bill

London, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The House of Commons today passed a national fair wage standards bill which Labor Minister Ernest Bevin said would make for stability during the post-war resettlement period.

The bill provides for the establishment of wage councils in industries empowered to fix wages over the next five years.

'Federal Europe' Plan Rejected By Britain

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—A British Government spokesman rejected a "federal Europe" proposal today, declaring such an idea was "far from the realm of reality."

The Earl of Huntingdon, a Labor peer, proposed in the House of Lords an over-all federation, with an elective assembly to control every country's armaments and armed force. Under his plan, Germany ultimately would be eligible for membership.

Lord Cranborne, Government leader, replied that "in academic debate it might be argued that all the nations of Europe or of the world should be combined with a single legislature," and "that might ultimately be the solution of Europe's problems."

He said that "confederation—a more loosely knit organization than a federation—is a different thing, but even this is a long way off and the subject is only academic and no more."

Nazi Polish Official Executed, Germans Say

London, Feb. 6 (AP)—Police President von Dahlitz, of Bydgoszcz in Poland, a former SS general, has been executed "for cowardice and neglect of duty" on Heinrich Himmler's orders, the German radio said today.

Bydgoszcz, northeast of Poznan, was captured in the Soviet drive beyond Warsaw.

The broadcast said several other German officials "who neglected their duties and did not live up to the standard of German honor" have been handed over to a court-martial by Himmler. Three of these have been expelled from the Army and will be "assigned especially daring, difficult, and dangerous tasks," it added.

RED LEADER ASKS THE ISOLATION OF ARGENTINA, SPAIN

H. Cowan

LONDON, Feb. 6. — (AP) The Russian delegation urged before the World Trade Union Congress tonight that labor's strength be committed not only to the defeat of Germany but also to the political and economic isolation of Argentina and Spain.

The leader of 35 Soviet delegates, M. Kuznetsov, declared all three countries were Fascist-governed and said it was the duty of trade unions in Democratic countries to shut them off and "help their peoples wipe out Fascism."

He also slapped at Sweden, Switzerland and Portugal, telling the "working class and trade unions" of those two neutrals that they must "wage a decisive struggle against the policy of their governments—against their rendering assistance to Fascist Germany."

Argentina and Spain were not invited to the Congress, and there was no immediate reaction from the other countries included in Kuznetsov's declaration. The credentials committee still was busy certifying the delegations, and it was not certain that all countries invited were represented at the world parley, called to consider the problems of pressing the war to a speedy finish and the laying of peace plans.

The American Federation of Labor was absent, its leaders having said they were not convinced that the Russian delegation could act without domination by the Soviet government.

This Kuznetsov ignored — as he did also the absence of John Lewis' United Mine Workers—but George Isaacs, newly elected British member of the triumvirate of presidents, referred to it in his welcoming speech at the morning session.

"We profoundly regret the absence of important delegations we had hoped to welcome," he said. "Still more do we regret the causes of their non-attendance. Unity is our aim. Let us not lose sight of it at any stage of our work in this conference."

With this aim in mind the delegates came up with a novel "Big Three" organization for the two-week meeting. The three presidents —Isaacs, Kuznetsov and R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO)—will alternate in the chair.

Isaacs declared that the outlook for humanity was dark unless "trade unions can find a constructive policy." Experience has shown, he said, that the fulfillment of trade union aspirations "depends upon the stability and strength of democratic institutions."

American Railroad brotherhoods were represented as well as the CIO. Three vice presidents elected for the meeting were Vincent Lombardo Toledano, Mexico; Louis Saillent, France, and Chu Hsueh San, China.

TRADE UNION CONGRESS OPENS

Soviet Delegate Says Labor Must Isolate Fascism.

H. Cowan

London, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—A Russian delegate to the World Trade Union Congress declared today that it is the duty of trade unions in all democratic countries to "bring about the political and economic isolation" of "countries with Fascist governments such as Spain, Portugal and the Argentine."

The delegate, M. Kuznetsov, told the conference that trade unions in neutral countries also "are faced by the important task of destroying Fascism."

30.24—22747

Mentioning Sweden and Switzerland by name, he said "they must wage a decisive struggle against the policy of their governments—against their rendering assistance to Fascist Germany."

The conference opened today with representatives of the American Federation of Labor and United Mine Workers conspicuously absent from the American labor delegation.

Echoing Moscow's calls for an Allied offesive in the west, Kuznetsov asserted that "final victory must be won as quickly as possible. All our military might must be hurled against the wounded Fascist beast. We must not relax our efforts. Our forces must be put into play for the fulfillment of our task."

One spokesman termed the meeting opening today "the first of the peace conferences."

R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers of America (C. I. O.), was inducted as one of three presidents. The two others elected were from Great Britain and Russia.

Delegates represented thirty-eight national trade union groups in Allied nations and seven in neutral countries.

A. F. L. Absence Is Noted.

The absence of representatives of the American Federation of Labor was noted by George Isaacs, newly-elected British member of the triumvirate of presidents—although he did not mention the A. F. of L. by name. Isaacs spoke of "serious difficulties which beset our movement because of its internal divisions."

"We profoundly regret the absence from this conference of important delegations we hoped to welcome," he said.

The A. F. of L. had declined an invitation, saying that Soviet trade unions which accepted were dominated by the Russian Government and were not free. Isaacs hinted guardedly at some sort of peace effort.

Reaffirms Faith in Move.

"Still more do we regret the causes of their non-attendance. But we have never wavered in our belief that the effort to rebuild our trade union movement on the broadest possible basis should be made and that the time to make it is now."

To give broad representation to the other nations participating, vice-presidents will be nominated by France, China and the Latin American countries.

American railroad brotherhoods were represented as well as the C. I. O.

As the conference opened, the Moscow radio quoted the Soviet magazine War and the Working Class as urging abandonment of old international trade union forms and the creation of a "new, truly democratic international trade union federation." The article expressed hope for "international trade union unity in all the democratic countries."

DE GAULLE ASKS VOICE IN PEACE

Demands Occupation of the Rhine River

Paris, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, setting forth a three-point post-war program for the preservation of peace in Europe, declared last night that France would not be bound by any inter-Allied decisions unless she had a voice in framing them.

In a radio broadcast which coincided with reports that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin may even now be in conference, the chief of the French Provisional Government demanded:

1. Occupation of the entire length of the Rhine River—the traditional natural barrier between France and Germany.

2. Separation of the river's western banks and the Ruhr industrial area from the rest of Germany.

3. Assurance of independence for the smaller nations of Europe.

De Gaulle predicted that French troops gradually would become the predominant element in the occupation of the Reich and declared that the Allies had shown great comprehension of the French request for sole occupation of the Rhineland.

Outlining these aims as essentials, the French war leader asked assurance for the independence of Poland, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and the Balkan States in friendship with the nations which will have to carry the principal burden of maintaining the peace of Europe.

Omitting Spain from his lift of neighbor countries, De Gaulle said that France intends to seek mutual security and economic pacts with Belgium, Luxembourg and Holland and, in time, to resume good relations with "renovated Italy."

After the war France will be ready to negotiate for a world peace organization, he added.

"This organization will include the United States of America at its head and will promise to each State a supreme guaranty of its life and development in human society."

France To Wait Awhile On Spanish Question

Paris, Feb. 6 (AP)—France thinks it is too early to define her relations with Spain, Information Minister Pierre Teitgen told a press conference today.

When asked why Gen. Charles de Gaulle omitted any reference to Spain in his radio speech last night, Teitgen pointed out that the Allies have not yet decided on an attitude toward the regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

De Gaulle had said France hoped to sign mutual-assistance treaties with Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg, as well as with Russia and Great Britain, and to resume normal relations with Italy.

France To Keep Guard In Syria, The Lebanon

Paris, Feb. 6 (AP)—France intends to maintain armed surveillance over the republics of Syria and the Lebanon for the duration of the war, Pierre Teitgen, Information Minister, declared today in connection with a reported démarche from the Levant governments for immediate and complete independence.

7 MORE SOLDIERS GIVEN JAIL TERMS

PARIS, Feb. 6.—(AP) Eight enlisted men testifying in the court martial of Lt. Ario D. Pal Porto who is accused of conspiracy to defraud the United States and neglect of duty, today told how he took, or caused to be taken, large quantities of Army supplies from trains en route to the front.

One witness, T/4 Donald Beale, who was an engineer of a supply train, testified that Dal Porto questioned him when he stopped for water at Villiers, asking him what he was carrying. When he learned the cargo was rations Beale reported the officer said "drop some off."

Dal Porto was a first lieutenant in Company "C" of the 716th Railway Operating battalion.

He is charged specifically with receiving and converting to his own use various items, such as 50 pounds of beef, two cases of post exchange rations and one case of corned beef. He was accused of gross neglect of duty in failing to prevent the looting of trains and diversion of supplies from the fighting front "during a critical period of military operation."

Seven more enlisted men were sentenced to terms of from three to 10 years after pleading guilty to charges of wrongfully disposing of cigarettes and other army stores from trains which their battalions operated.

They were: Pvt. John D. Moore of Riddlesburg, Pa., four years; Sgt. J. B. Bennett of Amarallo, Tex., six years; Pvt. Robert D. Hake of Elroy, Wis., five years; Pvt. George M. McCall of Charlotte, N. C., 10 years; Sgt. Henry A. Murff, Birmingham, Ala., seven years, T/5 J. D. Shane of Pueblo, Colo., three years; T/4 Glen W. Thorpe of Venice, Ill., 10 years.

OFFICER ON TRIAL

Paris, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The trial of the Second United States Army officer involved in the railway battalion blackmarket cases opened before a court martial today. The defendant was First Lieut. Ario dal Porto of Company C, 716th Railway Operating Battalion. He was charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States by wrongful disposition of Government property and neglect of duty.

Dal Porto specifically was accused of receiving and converting to his own use various items taken from supply trains, such as fifty pounds of beef, two cases of post exchange rations and one case of corned beef. He was accused of gross neglect of duty in failing to prevent looting of trains and diversion of supplies from the fighting front "during a critical period of military operation."

One witness described a school near the Paris railway yards which had been requisitioned to house battalion railway men as a veritable warehouse of loot and said various men had assured him he could "make a fortune" selling pilfered supplies on the French black market.

Ex-Editor of Pro-Nazi French Paper Executed

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—Robert Brasillach, former editor of the pro-Nazi newspaper Je Suis Partout during the German occupation of France, was executed today by a firing squad for collusion with the enemy.

"Despite this, hurrah for France," he shouted as the rifles fired.

Courtroom crowds demonstrated against the death verdict when Brasillach was sentenced January 19.

To Aid Homeless Millions

U. N. R. R. A. Workers Will Train to Help Allied Armies

PARIS, Feb. 6 (AP).—United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration "welfare teams" will assist Allied armies in handling millions of homeless or displaced persons freed when Germany collapses, the civil affairs section of supreme headquarters announced today.

By spring, the announcement said, hundreds of U. N. R. R. A. workers, both men and women, most of them chosen from the United Nations in Europe, will be trained and equipped. Training camps already have been organized in France. A large number of workers are expected to be French to handle Frenchmen now held in Germany, estimated to number 2,500,000.

BRENNER PASS NOW BLOCKED

Germans Call In Vain On Air Force To Block Allied Raids

Stockholm, Feb. 6 (AP)—A Berlin military spokesman said today that the Allies, mainly the British, opened a major offensive in Italy on Monday from Bologna to Faenza, the Dagens Nyheter Berlin correspondent reported. According to his dispatch, the Germans suggested that Bologna was the Allies' immediate objective.

Rome, Feb. 6 (AP)—The German air force was sent into action today in a desperate effort to prevent any further destruction to the vital Brenner Pass rail line which had been cut by American bombers, leaving Marshal Albert Kesselring's Italian armies virtually isolated from the fatherland.

Mediterranean Allied Air Force headquarters announced that three German fighters were shot down when a force of 30—the largest met in Italy in many weeks—tried to intercept 12th Air Force Mitchell bombers headed for the pass. The battle took place between Lake Garda and Brenner Pass.

Nazi Planes Driven Off

A small force of Thunderbolts escorting the bombers drove off the Nazi planes, damaging several in addition to destroying the three Messerschmitts in the running battle. All the American fighters and bombers returned safely.

In addition to blocking the pass, Allied planes left in ruin an unusually large number of motor vehicles and railroad cars needed to supply Kesselring's armies.

The Mediterranean Allied Air Force headquarters announced that reconnaissance had shown the Brenner Pass route to Germany and other mainlines in northeastern Italy to Austria and Yugoslavia to be "thoroughly blocked."

5th Army Regains Ground

These vital routes, without which continued German resistance in Italy is almost impossible, have been cut before, but crews sometimes began reconstruction almost before the bombers were out of sight.

Fifth Army troops moving up to regain ground in the Serchio Valley north of Lucca lost last December ran into only light opposition.

However, patrols in other 5th Army sectors found slightly increased enemy resistance.

Pilots credited with victories in today's fight with the German air force were Lieut. William J. Hay, Jr., Oshkosh, Wis.; Lieut. Jack A. Rudd, Pasadena, Cal., and Lieut. Robert E. Williams, Grand Blanc, Michigan.

5TH ARMY GAINS ALONG SERCHIO

Rome, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Fifth Army troops advanced steadily up the Serchio River Valley today after virtually wiping out gains made by the Germans last December and taking three towns against light opposition.

The Allied troops occupied Albinano and Castel Vecchio Sunday and captured Lama Di Sotto yesterday in an advance on a 10,000-yard front spanning the valley. The gains virtually restored the line held before the enemy drove the American Ninety-second Division back several miles in December.

The tempo of activity increased in the Fifth Army area southeast of Bologna where an Allied combat patrol pierced enemy territory and engaged German forces.

Patrol brushes which left the lines unchanged were reported on the Eighth Army front. Fog and mist blanketed visibility over much of the front.

Allied planes were active, flying over 1,700 sorties yesterday with more than 500 United States Fifteenth Air Force heavy bombers battering oil storage facilities at Regensburg and rail yards in Germany and Austria. Large forces of medium and fighter bombers hammered the Brenner Pass rail line. Seven Allied planes were lost.

Pope Grants an Audience To Press-Freedom Group

Talks 20 Minutes With Three Americans Touring World

ROME, Feb. 6 (AP).—Pope Pius XII gave a private twenty-minute audience today to three American newspaper men here on a round-the-world tour in the interests of post-war freedom of the press.

The newspaper men, a committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, are Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune; Dean Carl W. Ackerman, of the Columbia University School of Journalism, and Ralph McGill, editor of "The Atlanta Constitution." They were introduced to the Pontiff by Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican.

LONE YANK KNOCKS OUT 31 GERMANS

With the United States Fifth Army, Italy, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The Germans made a slight mistake in getting Lieut. Orville E. Block riled up by potshooting at his company, because the little platoon leader wiped out a mountain-top full of the enemy practically by himself.

When the battle was ended, he personally had knocked out five machine-gun nests, killed possibly a half-dozen Germans, captured nineteen and wounded six more at Poggia village.

The Congressional Medal of Honor was pinned on Block today by Lieut.-Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, commander of the United States Fifth Army, at a special ceremony.

Lieut. Block thus became the first living member of the Eighty-fifth Division to win the nation's highest military award, although two others have been awarded Congressional Medals posthumously. Major-Gen. John B. Coulter, division commander, was present at the ceremony.

Lieut. Block, who is 29 years old and 5 feet 3 inches tall, comes from Streeter, N. D., where he worked his way through North Dakota State College. He received his diploma after entering the Army. When the war is over, he plans to make animal husbandry his career.

Stockholm, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The Swedish Red Cross ship Travancore docked at Goteborg yesterday with 1,000,000 parcels for Allied prisoners of war in Germany.

20 Million Cigarettes On Way to Sweden

Stockholm, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—A consignment of 20,000,000 American cigarettes is en route to Sweden by safe conduct ship, the newspaper Aftonbladet said today. It said the order was placed many months ago, but delivery was delayed. Last year Swedish smokers consumed 200,000,000 American cigarettes.

Berlin-Stockholm Air Trips Cut

Stockholm, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Swedish press, quoting Lufthansa, the German air line, said today air schedules between Berlin and Stockholm would be reduced from six to two trips weekly beginning Monday.

Greek National Crisis Seen Near Settlement

Athens, Feb. 6 (AP)—Peace talks between Greek Government representatives and EAM-ELAS delegates were resumed today amid definite indications that final agreement on a settlement of the national crisis may soon be reached.

A Government communiqué said tonight that "after letters were exchanged, and the EAM delegation had accepted the Government's views on the amnesty question, conversations between the two delegations were resumed."

It was reported that today's session was carried out in a spirit of mutual understanding.

2 AIR BASE SITES IN CHINA ARE LOST

Chinese Report Fall Of Namyung And Kanhsien

Chungking, Feb. 6 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced tonight the loss of Namyung and Kanhsien (Kanchow), sites of airbases which the United States 14th Air Force previously had evacuated.

Namyung, besides being an important airbase, also was a center from which wolfram, used in steel making, had been flown to the United states.

Cross Into Kwangsi

The Japanese, after taking Namyung, swept across the Kwangtung border into southern Kwangsi to a point 6 miles south of Tayu in the heart of China's wolfram district.

The high command claimed counterattacks were under way in three provinces—Hunan, Kiangsi and Kwangtung—with one column probing within 5 miles of Suichuan, another airbase recently abandoned by the Americans.

Press dispatches said Chinese troops operating behind Japanese lines in Kwangtung recaptured Lungmoon, 70 miles northeast of Canton.

YANKS ABANDON CHINESE AIR BASES

KUNMING, China, Feb. 6—(AP)—The current Japanese offensive from the Canton area forced abandonment of a third fighter base from which American planes had harassed Japanese shipping in the Shanghai- Hong Kong area, the U. S. 14th air force disclosed today.

The first base abandoned was at Suichuan, which was evacuated Jan. 21. The air force disclosed today that Kanchow, less than 50 miles southeast of Suichuan, was given up quickly and that Namyung, some 70 miles southwest of Kanchow, was evacuated Jan. 29.

The three bases had been mainly P-51 fighter etations from which Mustang squadrons commanded by Lt. Col. Edward O. McComas, and Maj. John C. Herst, ranking aces in the 14th, had waged guerrilla warfare against transportation since the loss of Nanning Jan. 19. The bases also were the 14th's closest to Japan.

The Japanese offensive which forced the 14th to abandon the three bases is a move to consolidate enemy communications and airfields in southeast China in the face of any American amphibious landing on the China coast. The push is similar to the Japanese drive last Summer which knocked the Americans out of eastern bases between Hengyang and Nanning.

The Namyung field was used successfully after the loss of Suichuan and Kanchow, with supplies being flown in by unarmed transport planes frequently without fighter protection. The bases were protected by guerrillas.

The evacuation of Suichuan was directed by Lt. Col. George B. Hightower, Atlanta, Ga. He was aided by Maj. William F. Bull, Rutherford, N. J., base commander, and Lt. Charles R. Taaffes, Chicago, Ill., base operations officer.

Troop-carrier planes under Col. John H. Williamson evacuated most of the personnel and equipment. The fighter pilots flew their own planes away.

NAMYUNG AIRBASE ABANDONED BY U. S.

Kunming, China, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Namyung Field, southwest of Kanhsien (Kanchow) has been abandoned as an air base along with Suichwan, the United States 14th Air Force disclosed today.

The 14th had maintained at Namyung Field a compact striking force not merely behind enemy lines but inclosed by the Japanese. Its hit-and-run attacks snared a bag of Japanese planes and shipping still being tabulated by headquarters.

Namyung Field was abandoned the afternoon of January 29, Kanhsien, which had to be left open as long as possible for aerial evacuation of personnel left aground at Suichwan and Kamyung, was finally abandoned on January 30.

Japs Push Across Irrawaddy River

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 6 (AP)—An indication that the Japanese intend to make a strong stand around Mandalay, second city of Burma, came today as troops which previously had been withdrawn to the south bank of the Irrawaddy crossed back to the north bank.

The Japanese pocket on the north bank, however, was almost obliterated by quick action from Allied fighter-bombers and by blows from British troops on that side of the river.

Japs Shell Bridgehead

The Allied bridgehead on the southern bank of the river north of Mandalay was heavily shelled, a communiqué announced.

The Japanese also have been employing massed artillery in an effort to break through British lines on Ramree Island, but it was disclosed that British units which landed on the southern end of the island several days ago now are advancing inland. A linkup of the two forces and elimination of Japanese positions on the island is expected soon.

RAF bombers and fighters spent the day attacking Japanese concentrations north of Mandalay.

JAPS FIGHT BACK BEFORE MANDALAY

Kandy, Ceylon, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Japanese resistance has stiffened before menaced Mandalay, Burma's second city, an Allied communique announced today.

Infiltrating Japanese have established a bridgehead on the right bank of the Mu River at its confluence with the Irrawaddy in the Nyaungyi area east of Myinmu. The Mu joins the Irrawaddy at a point about twenty-five miles west of Mandalay.

The Allied southern bridgehead east of the Irrawaddy and north of Mandalay was shelled heavily, the communique said, but on the north bank of the river just west of Myinmu, the strongpoint of Satpangon has been cleared.

In the north, troops of the Thirty-eighth Chinese Division have cleared the Burma Road down to about eighty road miles from Lashio in the area of Namkham, the communique said.

Kobe Photos Show Big Plant Wrecked

By the Associated Press

B-29 HEADQUARTERS, Guam, Feb. 6.—Sunday's Super Fortress attack on Kobe, Japan's sixth largest city, was described today as "moderately successful."

(Simultaneously, the Tokyo radio reported four B-29s made harassing raids Monday night and early today. An unconfirmed dispatch recorded by the Federal Communications Commission said two B-29s began disturbing Kobe's sleep at 11:40 p.m. Monday and were followed by single bombers at midnight and 1:40 a.m.)

Reconnaissance photos taken 24 hours after a sizable force of B-29s bombed industrial areas showed that no fires were burning. Photos taken during the strike, however, had established that many hits were scored and 34 blazes started.

A large, unidentified industrial plant in the center of the city, where six fires were observed, was substantially wrecked, the photos indicated.

Damage to the Mitsubishi heavy industries plant, which is believed to be engaged primarily in shipbuilding, was undetermined, but it was considered by no means substantial.

Haha Jima and Iwo Jima Bombed by Liberators

Storage and Barracks Areas on Island Bases Blasted

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Forward Area, Feb. 7 (Wednesday).—Hitting the air-way stations of Haha Jima and Iwo Jima on the Marianas road to Tokyo, Army Liberators bombed storage and barracks areas Sunday and Monday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz said today.

Continuing the widespread strikes of the Pacific, marine aircraft bombed barges and buildings in the Palau Islands and destroyed a pier and buildings on Yap in the western Carolines.

Flying through intense anti-aircraft fire, another group of marine planes hit Ponape in the Carolines. One Mitchell medium bomber was lost.

Navy planes continued to attack the Marshalls on Sunday, the communique said.

OLDENDORF IS DECORATED

Vice Admiral Gets Navy Cross for 'Extraordinary Heroism'

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 6 (AP)—Award of the Navy Cross to Vice Admiral Jesse B. Oldendorf for distinguished service and "extraordinary heroism" in the battle of Surigao Strait in the Philippines last Oct. 25 is announced.

The award, in the name of the President of the United States, was made by Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, Commander of the Seventh Fleet.

Admiral Oldendorf's battleship squadron, the citation said, engaged a "powerful detachment of the Japanese Fleet, consisting of battleships, cruisers and destroyers, and in short but decisive action practically annihilated the enemy force."

Admiral Oldendorf was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1909. His wife lives in Newport, R. I.

Sherwood Sees Nimitz

Playwright Confers With Admiral On Publicity for Pacific War

PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Forward Area, Feb. 6 (via Navy radio) (AP).—Robert E. Sherwood, playwright and former Office of War Information official, visited Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's headquarters today on a tour of the Pacific war areas at the request of James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy.

His visit dealt primarily with problems of sending home the fullest information on the war against Japan and emphasizing its importance. The playwright expects to take a cruise with the Fleet on a tour of the Philippine Islands.

Big Leaguers Play at Pearl Harbor

Pearl Harbor, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The Navy's all-big league baseball squad, as a prelude to its tour of the Pacific fighting front, plays here February 8 against the Army Air Force of the Pacific Ocean area, which is also sprinkled liberally with major league stars.

Lieut. Bill Dickey, Navy team manager, said that his squad would depart soon after the game for a tour which will take it to the Marshalls, Guam, Saipan, Leyte and possibly Australia.

All major league clubs except the Boston Red Sox and the St. Louis Cardinals are represented on the squad, which is split into two teams for exhibitions for the fighting men in the forward areas.

The clubs have been designated as the Third and Fifth fleets, but they were not chosen by their naval namesakes.

The players and their prewar clubs are:

The Air Force line-up for the February 8 game—Bob Dillinger, Toledo Mudhens, third base; Mike McCormick, Cincinnati, center fielder; Ferris Fain, San Francisco Seals, first base; Walt Judnich, St. Louis Browns, right field; William Hitchcock, Detroit, shortstop; Don Lang, Kansas City, left field; Dario Lodigiani, White Sox, second base; Al Lein, San Francisco Seals, pitcher; Bill Schmidt, Sacramento, pitcher.

An Aleutian Base, Feb. 3 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Fleet Air Wing Four Venturas surprised the Kurile Islands' Japanese again today with a successful rocket bombing attack on the radio station at Jurabu Cape airfield on Paramushiru. It was the second rocket bombing in the North Pacific operations by Navy planes.

Prime Minister King And His Cabinet Meet

Ottawa, Feb. 6 (AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King and his Cabinet met in brief session today, their first gathering since Defense Minister McNaughton was defeated in the Grey North byelection yesterday. So far as could be learned, it was a routine session, and the big question of the time for dissolution of Parliament and general election was not raised.

Because of the Grey North result, the general expectation was that Parliament would be dissolved soon and a Canadian general election held in April.

Party headquarters were busy making plans, and all three of the leading political organizations, Liberal, Progressive Conservative and C.C.F., professed themselves ready and eager for an election.

Canadian Parliament Facing Dissolution On By-Election Defeat

By the Associated Press.

OWEN SOUND, Ontario, Feb. 6.—Early dissolution of Parliament was in prospect for Canada today as a result of the defeat of Defense Minister Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton in yesterday's Grey North by-election and its implied rejection of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's compromise conscription policy.

Gen. McNaughton was defeated in his bid for a seat in the House of Commons by Garfield Case, former Mayor of Owen Sound, running on the ticket of the official opposition party, the Progressive Conservatives. Mr. Case received 7,338 votes, against 6,099 for Gen. McNaughton and 3,136 for Air Vice Marshal A. Earl Godfrey, the condidate of the socialistic CCF (Co-operative Commonwealth Federation).

The government arranged the by-election ostensibly simply to provide a seat in Parliament for Gen. McNaughton, who had been appointed to the cabinet from civilian life last November at the height of the conscription crisis.

Constription Main Issue.

The two opposition parties decided to contest the seat, and the government's conscription and general manpower policies were made the principal issue in one of the bitterest campaigns in recent Dominion history.

"As every one is aware," Prime Minister King said at Ottawa last night, "I have all along sought to avoid a general election while our men are fighting at the front.

"The by-election has, however, raised the question whether by their attitudes in the present campaign, the parties which have offered opposition to the government in the by-election have not created and fostered the very circumstances which make a general election inevitable, and this at what may well prove to be the most critical of all stages of the war.

"To this aspect of the situation, the Government will give immediate and close attention."

Case May Never Get Seat.

Thus Mr. Case has been elected to a seat he may never take. The normal five-year lift of the present Parliament, not now in session, expires April 17. Sometime before then the Prime Minister must announce the date of the general election. He may choose the date at his own discretion, except that it must allow at least 60 days for campaigning.

Gen. McNaughton, running here in his first political campaign, has announced that he will run in the general election in the constituency of Qu'appelle in his native Saskatchewan for a seat in Parliament now held by a Conservative.

The showing of the CCF was weaker than had been generally expected. The CCF was aided by the Canadian Political Action Committee, counterpart of the PAC in the United States, which was waging its first campaign. The Canadian PAC is affiliated with the Canadian Congress of Labor, Canadian prototype of the CIO.

6,000 Draftees AWOL.

Gen. McNaughton's chances may have been affected by disclosure during the campaign that about 6,000 home defense troops drafted for overseas duty had gone AWOL as they were about to be sent abroad.

The entire conscription controversy centers around a group of approximately 60,000 men drafted originally for service only in the Western Hemisphere. Canada until last fall had fought five years of war on the voluntary enlistment system, raising an armed force of nearly 1,000,000 men in this way out of a total population of 11,500,000.

Canadian Gobs Draw Spars' Ire

'Unfortunate Incident' Said to Have Cut Short Cruise of Coast Guard Show.

Vancouver, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Vancouver News-Herald said today that Canadian naval authorities are investigating "an unfortunate incident" Sunday afternoon which cut short a pleasure cruise in Vancouver Harbor on a naval tug arranged for the cast of "Tars and Spars," a United States Coast Guard stage show.

The show appeared in a Vancouver theater last week.

"Complaining that Canadian naval ratings on the tug were unfit for duty and were molesting them, Spars demanded to be put ashore after only forty minutes of what was planned as a three-hour cruise," the newspaper said.

"Lieut. Elmer Cook, officer commanding the Tars and Spars company, which leaves by train this morning for Seattle, admitted that there had been 'an unfortunate incident' on the tug, but declined to comment further.

"One witness declared that a crock which he believed contained rum was in plain view in the vessel's engine room. There were also reports of whisky bottles being flourished by Canadian naval ratings.

"Almost as soon as the tug left the wharf, it is reported, the Canadian ratings began molesting the girls," the paper continued. "After four complaints to a sub-lieutenant commanding the vessel, he ordered the vessel back to the wharf and the entire party came ashore.

"Indignant civilian members of the party say that the girls were in no way to blame for the situation but had accepted an official invitation from the Canadian Navy to take the cruise."

BOOST ASKED IN PUBLIC DEBT

Treasury Wants 260 Billion Ceiling Raised To 300

Washington, Feb. 6 (AP)—Congress will be asked this month to raise the public-debt limit again.

The Treasury wants the ceiling boosted from 260 to 300 billion dollars before the start of the Seventh War Loan in May or June.

Bills are expected to be introduced soon in both the House and Senate.

It became evident today that the present ceiling will be too low to allow for another bond drive—that is if the Seventh War Loan compares with previous drives in sales.

Government Securities Limited

The Treasury announced in a routine monthly statement that only $18,980,169,147 of United States Government securities (at face amount) can be issued before the debt limit is reached. That is, the debt when translated into face amount (maturity value) now is $241,019,830,853.

The actual debt, at current value of the securities, is around 233 billion, but you have to translate it into face amount—adding interest to be earned in the future by the securities—to compare the figure with the 260-billion limit set by Congress.

President Backs Boost

During the Sixth War Loan drive, more than 21 billion dollars of securities was sold, and that was the actual purchase price. The face amount would be considerably more.

President Roosevelt in his budget message January 3 merely commented that a further boost in the debt limit would be necessary some time before the end of the next fiscal year on June 30, 1946.

NAZI SPY BOARDED TANKER IN BOSTON

Clark Testifies Colepaugh Visited German Ship Several Times.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6—(AP) William Curtis Colepaugh, 26, on trial before a military commission as an accused Nazi spy, boarded a German tanker moored in Boston harbor on 21 days in 1940-41, a witness testified today.

Miss Agnes McLaughlin of Dorchester, Mass., a customs clerk, said the American-born Colepaugh visited the "Pauline Friedrich" as guest of either the captain or the first mate. On one occasion, she said, he stayed aboard a week.

Another witness—one of three who said Colepaugh boarded the ship—quoted him as saying he liked the people on board "better than the people ashore or in this country."

Colepaugh, a native of Niantic, Conn., evidenced keen interest in the testimony given in the first day of the trial of himself and German-born Erich Gimpel, 35. The FBI said the men landed secretly on the Maine coast Nov. 29 from a German submarine.

Standing before the tribunal, in a small room of a building on Governors Island in New York bay, Colepaugh and Gimpel pleaded "Not guilty" to each of three charges.

They lost motions for separate trials and for elimination of a charge that they conspired to commit sabotage and espionage. Severance was sought on the ground that they had made lengthy statements after their arrest, each giving information that defense counsel considered detrimental to the other.

Duncan A. Grant of Cambridge, Mass., collector of customs at Boston, identified Colepaugh in the court room.

Grant, whose duties included supervision of guards on ships in Boston harbor, said the German tanker arrived in Boston in September, 1939, from Texas with a cargo of oil and evidently sought sanctuary because of the impending war. The ship remained there until September, 1941, when it was moved after having been taken over by the U. S. government.

Grant said that in 1940 he saw Colepaugh on the ship chipping paint and said Colepaugh told him he was a visitor and not a member of the crew.

Miss McLaughlin, who compiled records based on guards' reports, detailed the 21 days she said Colepaugh visited the ship between March 2, 1940 and March 14, 1941.

On June 10, 1940, she said, he went aboard and stayed a week, and on July 2, 1940 he checked on at 5:15 p.m. and did not check off.

Vernon M. Tobey of Cambridge, Mass., inspector of customs at Boston, said that in the Spring of 1940 while he was on duty as a guard he saw Colepaugh going aboard.

Tobey said he asked Colepaugh why he wanted to do so and he quoted Colepaugh as saying he liked the people there. Tobey said Colepaugh told him he liked the people on board "better than the people ashore or in this country."

Colepaugh's voice was clear; Gimpel's barely audible.

The charges were read to them. They were (1) they violated the law of war by secretly passing through our military lines to commit espionage, sabotage and other hostile acts; (2) they acted as spies for Germany in violation of the 82nd article of war; (3) they conspired to commit certain acts of espionage and sabotage.

If two-thirds of the seven-member commission vote for conviction on the second count, the death sentence is mandatory. Conviction on either of the other two would bring long prison terms.

Counsel for both Colepaugh and Gimpel argued that the commission had no jurisdiction to try the conspiracy charge inasmuch as no commission of an overt act was charged.

The prosecution said the charges and specifications were essentially the same as in the sabotage trial in Washington in 1942, which led to the execution of six spies and prison sentences for two others. In that case the Supreme court upheld the commission's denial of similar motions.

Military Commission Opens Trial of Two Held as Nazi Spies

Governors Island Hearing Is Being Held Secretly; Death Penalty Possible

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—For the second time in this war, a United States military commission with power to impose the death penalty assembled today behind locked doors for a spy trial.

The defendants were William Curtis Colepaugh, 26-year-old native of Niantic, Conn., and Erich Gimpel, 35, German-born electrical engineer.

They are charged with slipping ashore near the remote Maine fishing village of Hancock Point November 29 after being brought to this country by a German submarine to commit "espionage, sabotage and other hostile acts" as agents of the German Reich.

Held in Guardhouse.

While awaiting trial, they were confined by the Army for the last two weeks to the 138-year-old Castle Williams, Governors Island guard house with stone walls 40 feet high and 8 feet thick.

The trial is being held on that 173-acre island, a mile east of the Statue of Liberty in Upper New York Bay.

The seven-member commission, headed by Col. Clinton J. Harrold, arranged to issue communiques twice daily, at 2 p.m., and 7 p.m., on the trial's progress. Reporters and photographers are not permitted to go to Governors Island for the trial.

In the summer of 1942, a similar commission sitting in Washington convicted eight Nazi U-boat-landed saboteurs. Six were executed, one was sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor and another to 30 years.

Formal Charges Listed.

The formal charges against Colepaugh and Gimpel, who the FBI said were trained in schools for spies in Berlin, Dresden and The Hague, were:

1. That they violated the law of war, that as enemies of this country they secretly passed through our military and naval lines for the purpose of committing espionage, sabotage and other hostile acts.

2. That they acted as spies for the German Reich in violation of the 82d Article of War.

3. That an enemies they conspired, plotted and planned to commit certain acts of espionage and sabotage.

A spokesman for the 2d Service Command said that if two-thirds of the members of the commission voted for conviction on the second charge—that they acted as spies—the death sentence would be mandatory.

Conviction on the other two counts would bring long prison terms, he said.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in announcing on January 1 the arrests of Colepaugh and Gimpel that they had been instructed in radio operation, photography and the use of high explosives and were dispatched to this country with $60,000.

Mr. Hoover said the two men told FBI agents they had been assigned to transmit information gleaned from listening to conversations of servicemen and civilians.

Members of the military commission in addition to Col. Harrold are Col. Lathrop R. Bullene, Col. John B. Grier, Lt. Col. Harlan Besson Maj. Thomas J. Maginnis, Maj Basil B. Elmer and Maj. Edward

A. Belanger.

Other officers assigned to the trial were: Maj. Robert Carey, jr., trial judge advocate; First Lt. Kenneth F. Graf, assistant trial judge advocate; Maj. Thayer Chapman, defense counsel for Colepaugh; Maj. Robert B. Buckley, assistant counsel for Colepaugh; Maj. Charles H. Reagin, defense counsel for Gimpel, and Maj. John E. Hagney, assistant counsel for Gimpel.

'FIREWORKS' MARK WAR GOODS PROBE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6 — (AP) A Senate investigation of surplus property sales exploded today in a search for $5,000, denials of previous testimony and a complaint that big names were being injected for "smear" purposes.

The Mead committee inquiring into an auction of government articles by Jacob Goldberg at Maspeth, L.I. heard:

1—Testimony by Don Brown, defense plant corporation official, that the goods were knocked down for $168,000 but only $163,000 was banked. Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) demanded that the "discrepancy" be explained by tomorrow.

2—An assertion by Leroy H. Harris, senior engineer for the DPC, that he never was offered a job by Goldberg. This contradicted earlier testimony by his superiors.

3—A complaint by Senator Connally (D-Tex) that there were attempts to "smear" Herbert Bayard Swope and Bernard Baruch—two nationally known figures—during the inquiry.

Senator Ferguson demanded of Brown:

"Where is that $5,000?" and Brown said it might be accounted for by adjustments made by the auctioneer.

ARMY OFFICIALS URGE LABOR DRAFT

Patterson, Stimson Tell Senate Group Bill Is Urgently Needed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. — (AP) Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson pleaded urgently today for passage of a manpower control bill, telling Senators "no one is entitled to a free ride in this war."

"Half hearted mobilization is not the way to bring about unconditional surrender at minimum cost in lives," he told the Senate Military Affairs committee which began belated hearings today on the House-approved work-or-jail bill.

Urges All Out Support

"The fighting men are doing the hard part. They should be given all-out support at home."

Patterson's testimony was given behind closed doors, as was that of his chief, Secretary of War Stimson, but later was made public by Chairman Thomas (D-Utah).

The undersecretary contended passage of the Limited National Service law would speed the prosecution of the war in these three ways:

"First, it will enable us to reinforce the Army and Navy with the men they need, and at the same time to step up the output of munitions for the fighting forces.

"Second, it will hearten the men on the fighting fronts—the men in Europe who are leaving their frozen fox-holes to carry the assault against the 'master race,'—the men in the steaming jungles of the Pacific who are fighting the 'sons of heaven' to a finish. It will give them the assurance that their supplies for those battles will be abundant.

"Third, it will serve notice on the Axis that they have no chance of a respite, that the momentum against them will be maintained until their final defeat is an accomplished fact."

Meanwhile Rep. Mary Norton (D-N.J.) and 24 other House members who voted for the House Manpower Control bill wrote Senator Thomas that they are pleased to hear the Senate committee is considering making the Office of War Mobilization or the War Manpower commission the administrative agency for the work.

"It is vital that an agency which provides a structure whereby both labor and industry can cooperate in solving manpower problems, should control such problems," the letter said.

Mrs. Norton added that the 25 signers represented "only a few of the great number of members who have expressed themselves as being opposed to the administration of the bill by Selective Service boards."

In his testimony today, Patterson renewed all the arguments he had used before the House committee and in his letter of Jan. 29 to Thomas urging Senate approval of the bill.

Their stand was hardly a surprise to the committee, since both have been on record for some time in favor of such legislation. Patterson not only testified before the House Military committee in favor of the manpower bill which later passed the House, but also wrote a strong endorsement of it to Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate committee last week.

Thomas termed their testimony today "glorious repetition."

WAR CHIEFS RENEW SERVICE BILL PLEA

Washington, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Secretary of War Stimson and Under-Secretary of War Patterson renewed today their urgent requests for enactment of a limited national service act. Senators emerging from a closed two-hour session of the Military Affairs Committee, which is considering the proposed act, said both officials stressed the importance of such a law as a morale builder for front line fighters.

Questioned by reporters after the meeting, Mr. Stimson gave his opinion that recent successes in battle have "not made the slightest change regarding the need for the bill."

Briefing reporters on the meeting, Senator Thomas (D.-Utah), the chairman, said Mr. Stimson and Mr. Patterson 'both want the bill, primarily for morale purposes and secondarily for military and production purposes—all of which is glorious repetition."

Mr. Patterson was to conclude his testimony this afternoon. Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Bard and War Manpower Commissioner McNutt are to testify tomorrow.

The committee's about-face decision to have hearings on the House-passed "work-or-jail" legislation raised doubts among some backers that the measure ever will become law.

GEORGE BILL GOES TO FLOOR

House Group Aids Wallace By Approval Unamended

Washington, Feb. 6 (AP)—Henry Wallace's prospect of becoming Secretary of Commerce was brightened today by the House Banking Committee's unanimous approval of the Senate-passed George bill.

The measure, which divorces the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and subsidiary lending agencies from the Commerce Department received favorable action after Democrats beat down a Republican attempt to repeal part of the President's war powers.

The Banking Committee's action transferred to the House floor the battle on the Republican proposal to fence in the former Vice-President further by repealing President Roosevelt's wartime authority to reshuffle Federal agencies. This probably will begin next week.

Democrats Hold Lines Solid

Committee Democrats held their lines solid to defeat the proposal, 15 to 11. Representative Wolcott (R., Mich.), ranking minority member, announced immediately he would carry the fight to the floor.

Representative Martin (Mass.), House Republican leader, contended that without the amendment the President could "give Wallace 25 or 30 Federal agencies other than the RFC."

The Senate has delayed action on Mr. Roosevelt's nomination of Wallace as Secretary of Commerce pending final disposition of the bill by Senator George (D., Ga.), which lifts control of the RFC and other Federal loan agencies from the Commerce Department.

Two Other Amendments Beaten

Before reporting the George bill to the House, Democrats in the Banking Committee defeated two other Republican amendments:

1. To pull from under the Secretary of Commerce the seat on the Export-Import Bank. The vote was 14 to 12 with one Democrat joining the Republicans.

2. To provide rigid audits of all corporations controlled by the Government. The bill now carries the amendment by Senator Byrd (D., Va.) calling for an audit of the RFC. This vote was 15 to 10.

Some leaders of the anti-Wallace forces hoped a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats could force amendments into the bill that would prompt a presidential veto and thus bring about outright Senate rejection of Wallace.

SUBMARINE TANG GIVEN UP AS LOST

Washington, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The submarine Tang, which figured last year in the dramatic rescue of twenty-two flyers shot down in Truk harbor, is overdue from war patrol and presumed lost.

Its skipper was Commander Richard H. O'Kane, 34 years old. He was also in command at the time of the Tang's most famous achievement.

Then, on April 29-30, 1944, after a carrier-based aircraft raid on the Japanese stronghold at Truk, the Tang went into waters which charts showed completely unnavigable. Besides saving the twenty-two flyers from the Japanese, the Tang took time out to shell the beaches. For that feat the crew, which normally numbered sixty-five to seventy men, received the Presidential Unit Citation.

The Navy announced the Tang's presumed fate late yesterday, saying that next of kin have been notified. It also reported the torpedo-sinking of a small United States tanker, the Fort Lee, in the Indian Ocean early last November.

Athlete on Missing Submarine

EASTON, Pa., Feb. 6 (AP)—Lieut. Lawrence Savadkin, formerly captain of the Lafayette College track team and champion for the half-mile run of the Middle Atlantic Association, was a member of the submarine Tang which has been reported long overdue by the Navy and presumably lost. Moves To Speed Ward Decision

Washington, Feb. 6 (AP) — The Justice Department said today it will petition the Supreme Court to assume jurisdiction in the Montgomery Ward case.

The department said that Solicitor General Charles Fahy "expects to present the petition within two or three days."

The move, if successful, would speed a decision on the constitutionality of the Government seizure of sixteen properties of the merchandising company in Chicago and seven other cities on December 28.

The Government has docketed with the United States Court of Appeals an appeal from a district court ruling that President Roosevelt acted without authority in ordering army seizure of the Ward properties because of the company noncompliance with a War Labor Board directive.

If the Supreme Court assumes jurisdiction, argument before the Court of Appeals would be obviated.

New 'Tailfirst' Fighter Plane Being Tested by Curtiss-Wright

NEW YORK, Feb. 6 — (AP) A [illegible] fast, highly maneuverable fighter plane that appears to fly backward is being tested by Curtiss-Wright Corp., G. W. Vaughan, president, announced today.

First flown in July, 1943, at Scott Field, Ill., the odd-looking XP-55 airplane-in-reverse developed at Curtiss-Wright's St. Louis plant early in the war has been cloaked in military secrecy until today.

Its disclosure should lend the puzzlement of many middlewest spectators.

The whole thing does look backward compared with conventional design: the 1,275-horsepower Allison engine and the pusher propeller are behind the pilot; the wings also are near the rear; the elevator control surfaces found in the tail assembly of a present-day plane are forward; the rudders are mounted near the tips of wings which angle sharply from beneath the single-place cockpit.

Curtiss-Wright claims these advantages for the tail-first plane: speed equal to or greater than in conventional planes of equal power; improved longitudinal control and maneuverability; improved visibility for shooting the nose-mounted guns; less noise in the cockpit and less fire danger to the pilot; better handling at high speeds since elevators bite cleanly into the wind instead of into the wake of the wings. Another new wrinkle is a device which enables the pilot to dump the propellor in emergencies so he won't run the risk of being struck by its blades as he jumps.

Technically speaking the XP-55 (X for experimental, P for Pursuit) is a low-wing, all-metal pusher type. It is to be known as the Curtiss-Wright "ascender" and, Vaughan said in his announcement, is one of several experimental types "which are expected to make a significant contribution to future aircraft design projects of the Army air forces."

Details of how fast the plane will climb and how fast and how high it flies are among performance figures still restricted by the Army.

This disclosure was made by Artemus L. Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air, in a speech made at Detroit last night and distributed here today. He said the plane's flight characteristics are still secret, "but be assured that it will play a spectacular part in forthcoming operations."

At the same time, Gates revealed that the Navy has already reorganized the [illegible] complements of the heavy carriers of the Essex class to include for the first time a large number of fighter-bombers.

"Security prevents me from giving exact figures," he said, "but I can say that henceforth the carriers of this class will carry a much augmented squadron of fighter planes which have been fitted out as fighter-bombers. These fast planes are capable of carrying a 1,000-pound bomb at 400 miles an hour within a limited range."

U. S. Fronts Have One in 7 Planes Built Since 1941

By the Associated Press.

Only one in six or seven of all warplanes in two major categories built since Pearl Harbor are fighting for the Army Air Forces overseas today.

Air Force officials brought out that point in a discussion of logistics—the service and supply for battle areas—and offered supporting data to show why the aircraft industry must continue to pour new planes into the long pipelines to war theaters.

Factories had turned out at a recent date 11,106 fighter planes of a particular make, but only 1,920 were in service in battle zones. Similarly, 26,478 bombers of one type were constructed, but only 3,592 were in operation overseas.

Where did the others go?

Lease-lend got some of both—about 10 per cent of the fighters and 8 per cent of the bombers.

30. 24 – 22751

The Navy got some of the bombers also. Roughly another 10 per cent is being repaired or in a reserve status, and about 5 per cent is in the pipeline between final assembly and battle zone.

The biggest item of all is around 40 per cent permanently lost through enemy action, or operational or training accidents.

1,229,296 Ship Tons Built in January

Washington, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—Merchant shipyards delivered 120 vessels aggregating 1,229,296 deadweight tons in January. The Maritime Commission, announcing this today, said the figures compare with 145 vessels aggregating 1,356,898 tons delivered in December.

Of last month's 120 ships, 90 were merchant types for merchant service, 8 were merchant ships delivered for military service and 22 were built as military types for Navy use.

SFA SEEKS SUNDAY MINING OF COAL

Washington, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The Solid Fuels Administration announced today that it is negotiating with eight steel and coke companies in the Pittsburgh-Youngstown-Wheeling area to provide for added production of currently scarce metallurgical coals by Sunday work on February 11 and February 25.

The companies operate twenty-one bituminous "river" mines, miners in which have already agreed to the extra work. "River" mines ship coal by barge. Double time would be paid under an agreement between the SFA and the United Mine Workers.

The plants affected are Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Republic Steel, Wheeling Steel, Crucible Steel, Pittsburgh Coke & Chemical and Weirton Steel.

Fifty representatives of anthracite mining companies met here today to name a committee to negotiate with the United Mine Workers of America for a new contract. The present contract, adopted last spring after months of negotiation, two strikes, Government seizure of the mines and intervention by the War Labor Board, expires April 30. Negotiations for a new contract, to run two years, will get under way probably late next month or early in April.

ALL BRIDGES.

"THE GERMANS CONSIDERED THE ODER AN IMPASSABLE OBSTACLE, BUT THE HEROES OF THE DNIEPER, THE BUG AND THE VISTULA HAVE OVERCOME THE ODER, TOO," THE BROADCAST DECLARED.

THE FORCING OF THE GERMAN LINE, IT CONTINUED, STARTED AT SEVERAL POINTS AND THE FIRST SOVIET DETACHMENTS ACROSS THE STREAM, 1,600 FEET WIDE IN THIS AREA, FOUGHT TENACIOUSLY TO MAKE IT POSSIBLE FOR LARGE RUSSIAN FORMATIONS TO FOLLOW THEM. SOVIET ENGINEERS WORKED UNDER GERMAN SHELLFIRE TO BUILD BRIDGES FOR THE TANK AND INFANTRY UNITS.

BRIDGEHEADS WERE ESTABLISHED ON BOTH SIDES OF OHLAU AND THE ENEMY EFFORTS TO PRESS THE LANDING FORCES BACK INTO THE RIVER WERE FRUSTRATED IN BITTER COMBAT, DESPITE FRESH GERMAN FORCES BROUGHT FROM THE REAR AND THE WESTERN FRONT, THE BROADCAST SAID. THE NEWLY ARRIVED GERMAN TANK DIVISIONS WERE THROWN INTO THE BATTLE WITHOUT REST AND WERE SOON REDUCED BY SOVIET ARTILLERY, IT ADDED.

"IN ORDER TO IMAGINE THE SCALE OF THE BATTLE ON THE WESTERN BANK OF THE ODER," THE RADIO ACCOUNT SAID, "IT IS SUFFICIENT TO SAY OUR ADVANCING TROOPS WERE FORCED TO SURROUND AND ANNIHILATE SOME 12 ENEMY STRONGHOLDS.

"HERE IS AN EXAMPLE OF HOW FIGHTING DEVELOPED IN THE AREA OF BRIEG, WHICH LIES ON THE RAILWAY BETWEEN BRESLAU AND OPPELN. TWO OF OUR BRIDGEHEADS ON THE WESTERN BANK OF THE ODER WERE SEPARATED BY THIS ENEMY STRONGHOLD. BRIEG WAS SKIRTED BY SEVERAL LINES OF TRENCHES, A BROAD ANTI-TANK TRENCH AND A LARGE NUMBER OF BLOCKHOUSES AND PILL-BOXES.

"ALL APPROACHES TO THE TOWN WERE SHELLED. FOLLOWING A POWERFUL ARTILLERY BARRAGE, TROOPS COMMANDED BY COL.GEN.ZHADOW DROVE SOUTHWARD AND SOUTHEASTWARD. AT THE SAME TIME, TROOPS COMMANDED BY COL.GEN. GUSEV WENT NORTHEASTWARD, OUTFLANKING THE TOWN. BY THE END OF THE DAY, THE TWO GROUPS JOINED, CUTTING THE RETREAT ROAD OF THE BRIEG GARRISON. THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT THE TROOPS FOUGHT CONTINUOUSLY. IN THE MORNING, THE BATTLE ENDED WITH VICTORY FOR THE RED ARMY."

THOUSANDS OF GERMAN DEAD WERE FOUND IN THE STREETS AND HOUSES OF BRIEG AND MANY PRISONERS WERE TAKEN. ARMAMENT AND WAR EQUIPMENT FACTORIES IN THE TOWN WERE CAPTURED.

AT GROTTKAU ALONE, 1,270 GERMANS WERE TAKEN PRISONER.

AT LEAST EIGHT TOWNS WERE CAPTUED AS THE ONCE POWERFUL VOSGES MOUNTAIN POSITIONS HELD BY THE GERMANS VIRTUALLY FELL APART. THEY INCLUDED GUEBWILLER, A CITY OF 11,000 POPULATION SOUTHWEST OF COLMAR.

THE JUNCTURE OF FRENCH AND AMERICAN FORCES OCCURRED AT ROUFFACH, EIGHT MILES SOUTH OF COLMAR. THAT PLACED THE GERMANS TO THE WEST IN A 15-MILE WIDE SACK, AGAINST WHICH FRENCH AND AMERICAN TROOPS PRESSED FROM ALL DIRECTIONS.

ONLY THE FOOT-SLOGGERS IN THIS PART OF GERMANY CAN APPRECIATE WHY PLATOONS WHO HIT VOGELSANG CALL IT A LUCKY BREAK. AFTER THE MOST SEVERE, SNOWIEST WINTER IN DECADES THERE HAVE BEEN WEEKS OF THAW--

WITH ROADS OFTEN IMPASSABLE.
WE WADED IN ICY, KNEE-DEEP MUD AS AN UNCEASING DRIZZLE ADDED TO EVERYBODY'S DISCOMFORT. THREE TIMES IN OUR ATTEMPT TO REACH VOGELSANG-WE WERE COMPELLED TO MAKE DETOURS OF MANY MILES BECAUSE BRIDGES HAD BEEN BLASTED BY THE RETREATING ENEMY.
ALL ALONG THE ROAD WE SAW SOLDIERS LIVING IN MUDDY FOXHOLES AND EATING WINTER-HARDENED RATIONS WITH ONLY A PIECE OF CANVAS OVER THEIR HEADS TO KEEP THE WEATHER OUT. THEY GOT LITTLE REST.
IT'S SMALL WONDER VOGELSANG SEEMED LIKE ANOTHER WORLD.

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY GROUP, ALSACE, FRANCE, FEB. 6-(AP)-AMERICAN THIRD DIVISION TROOPS, USING RUBBER BOATS TO CROSS MOATS, AND SCALING LADDERS TO ASCEND WALLS, KEPT UP TONIGHT THEIR MODERN SIEGE OF THE 17TH CENTURY TOWN OF NEUFBRISACH.
THIS MORNING THERE WAS AN APPARENTLY PREMATURE REPORT THAT THE TOWN HAD BEEN OCCUPIED, BUT WORD LATE IN THE DAY SAID ONLY A SMALL PARTY HAD BEEN ABLE TO GET INSIDE THE WALLS.
A THOUSAND OR SO GERMANS WERE INSIDE THE FORTRESS, UNDER HEAVY ARTILLERY FIRE, AND REPORTEDLY WERE MAKING A DEATH STAND.
OTHER UNITS OF THE FRENCH FIRST ARMY SECURED THE WESTERN APPROACHES TO THE RHINE BRIDGE AT VIEUXBREISACH AND CLEARED THE RIVER BANK SOME DISTANCE SOUTH IN ADVANCES OF SEVERAL MILES.
SOUTHWESTWARD THE GERMANS WERE REPORTED STREAMING BACK FROM THE ILL RIVER TO NEW POSITIONS IN A FIVE-MILE CORRIDOR LYING BETWEEN THE RHONE-RHINE CANAL AND THE RHINE RIVER.
ADVANCES UP TO A MILE WERE MADE AGAINST HEAVY RESISTANCE NORTH OF MULHOUSE AND THE TOWNS OF SAUSHEIM, BALDERSHEIM AND BATTENHEIM WERE CLEARED.

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, FEB.6 (AP)--THE LONG BESIEGED GERMAN GARRISON AT DUNKERQUE ESTIMATED TO NUMBER 12,000 MEN NOW IS REDUCED TO A DAILY RATI OF A HALF A POUND OF BREAD AND AN OCCASIONAL PIECE OF HORSEFLESH IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.

HOWEVER, DESPITE THE MEAGER DIET THERE WERE NO SIGNS OF THE ENEMY STRAVING AND NO INDICATION OF IMPENDING SURRENDER REPORTS SAID.

A SERIES OF EXPLOSIONS INSIDE THE HISTORIC STRONGHOLD, SCENE OF THE GREAT BRITISH RETREAT IN 1940, HAVE BEEN HEARD FOR THE LAST FOUR NIGHTS BUT IT WAS BELIEVED THE GERMANS MERELY WERE BLOWING UP HOUSES TO CLEAR FIELDS FOR ANTI-TANK FIRE.

FEB 7 1945

ONLY 500 OF THE ORIGINAL 15,000 CIVILIANS IN THE TOWN WHEN THE ALLIES BY-PASSED IT LAST SEPTEMBER STILL REMAIN. THEY ARE FORCED TO WORK ON FORTIFICATIONS FOR THE GERMANS. PRETTY YOUNG GIRLS AMONG THE CIVILIANS ARE BEING FORCED TO WORK FOR GERMAN OFFICERS.

THE GERMAN TROOPS IN DUNKERQUE ARE LED BY A NAZI FANATIC COGNAC DRINKING OFFICER NAMED HAUPTMANN TUERKE, WHO IS CALLED "COGNAC FLASCHE" LITERALLY "BRANDY BOTTLE."

WITH AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE, FEB 6 -(AP)- GERMAN TROOPS DEFENDING ~~BEHINDXXXX~~ SIEGFRIED LINE POSITIONS IN THE SCHNEE EIFEL HAVE SHOWN THEMSELVES TO BE BADLY ORGANIZED AND RELATIVELY WEAK SO FAR, BUT THE DOUGHBOYS WHO BREACHED THE MAIN PART OF THE WESTWALL WOULD BE THE LAST ONES TO SAY THE ENEMY IS COLLAPSING OR EVEN WITHDRAWING TO THE RHINE LINE.

"THE GERMANS HAVEN'T FOUGHT SMARTLY OR WELL SO FAR, BUT THEY STILL HAVE PLENTY TO GIVE US A ROUGH TIME AT ANY POINT THEY CHOOSE," SAID LT. COL. GEORGE GOFORTH OF SHELBY, N.C.

"I'VE BEEN UP AGAINST A PILLBOX DEFENSE BEFORE," HE ~~ASSAULTX~~ CONTINUED. "AND THEY'RE TOUGH IF THEY'RE WELL PROTECTED BY ~~MANY~~ MINEFIELDS AND BARB WIRE AND ARE BACKED UP BY ARTILLERY SO THAT OUR MEN HAVE TROUBLE CLOSING THEM.

FEB 7 1945

"ALTHOUGH THEY'VE HAD PLENTY OF TIME TO PLACE MINES AND STRING UP WIRE THIS TIME THEY HAVEN'T DONE A GOOD JOB OF IT, AND THEIR ARTILLERY HAS BEEN STRANGELY ABSENT.

"THE RESULT IS THAT WE'VE BEEN ABLE TO CLOSE QUICKLY WITH TANKS AND TANK-DESTROYERS. ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS SMASH INTO ONE OR TWO PILLBOXES WITH THESE AND THE FELLOWS IN THE OTHERS ARE PRETTY WILLING TO COME OUT WHEN THEY SEE WHAT HAPPENS."

CAPT. EDWARD W. MARTIN OF ASHEVILLE, N.C., WHO HAS JUST RETURNED TO A ~~THE~~ FRONTLINES ~~SAME~~ UNIT AFTER A STRETCH IN THE HOSPITAL WITH A WOUND, ~~DID~~ CONCURRED WITH GOFORTH, ADDING "IT'S A MISTAKE TO SAY THE GERMANS IN THESE PILLBOXES ARE FIGHTING ANY WORSE THAN EARLIER ONES I'VE SEEN IN SIMILAR STRONG POSITIONS. THEY ALWAYS HAVE BEEN PRETTY EASY TO GET OUT ONCE YOU COULD GET TO THEM. ONLY DIFFERENCE IS, ~~BUT~~ THIS TIME IT'S EASIER TO GET THEM."

CAPT. GEORGE BRIDGEMAN OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., THE OPERATIONS OFFICER WITH THE BATTALION WHICH TOOK BRANDSCHEID YESTERDAY, EXPLAINED THAT THE NAZIS BEING ENGAGED NOW ARE MOSTLY SECURITY AND FORTRESS BATTALIONS WHICH ARE MADE UP OF MEN WHO EITHER ARE TOO OLD OR TOO YOUNG."

FEB 7 1945

CLAIMING THAT THESE GERMAN SOLDIERS LACK INCENTIVE, BRIDGEMAN SAID: "TAKE THIS MORNING FOR INSTANCE WHEN FROM 250 TO 300 KRAUTS HIT US IN AN INFILTRATING ATTACK IN BRANDSCHEID BEFORE DAYLIGHT. THEY STUMBLED ON THE PERFECT TIME FOR SUCH AN ASSAULT, JUST AS ONE UNIT WAS RELIEVING ANOTHER, WITH ALL THE NATURAL CONFUSION WHICH ACCOMPANIES SUCH A SWAP IN THE DARK ON GROUND WHICH IS NEW TO THE RELIEVING TROOPS.

"AS A RESULT THE ENEMY PENETRATED QUITE DEEPLY AND SHOULD HAVE BEEN ABLE TO DEAL US VERY HEAVY CASUALTIES, IF NOT DRIVE US FROM THE TOWN, IF THEY'D BEEN GOOD AND DETERMINED FIGHTING MEN. INSTEAD, WITHIN A COUPLE OF HOURS WE NOT ONLY HAD HALTED THE ATTACK, BUT WE'D TAKEN ABOUT 200 PRISONERS. THEY FILTERED IN ALL RIGHT, BUT THEY EITHER COULDN'T OR DIDN'T WANT TO FILTER OUT AGAIN."

MAJ. CLIFFORD M. HENLEY, A HUSKY BLOND FROM SUMMERVILLE, S.C., [illegible] WARNED HOWEVER, THAT "WE'VE HAD THESE FELLOWS ON THE RUN PLENTY OF TIMES BEFORE AND HAVE FOUND THAT THEY CAN TURN AROUND IN A HURRY."

"MAYBE THIS TIME THEY WON'T TURN," HENLEY ADDED. "BUT I'LL BELIEVE IT WHEN WE MOVE INTO BERLIN."

FEB 7 1945

THESE VIEWS WERE ECHOED BY CAPT. JAMES YOUNGER, A RIFLE COMPANY COMMANDER FROM JACKSON, TENN., AND LT. EDWIN MORROW, A RIFLE PLATOON LEADER FROM BEAUMONT, TEX., WHO STOOD OUTSIDE A CAPTURED PILLBOX, [illegible] POINTED TO A DOZEN WOUNDED MEN BEING BROUGHT BACK FROM THE FRONT A FEW HUNDRED YARDS AHEAD, AND SAID GRIMLY: "THAT'S WHAT HAPPENS [illegible] ANY TIME WE GUYS UP HERE START UNDERRATING THOSE BASTARDS --- SOMETIMES IT HAPPENS ANYWAY, BUT IT ALWAYS HAPPENS WHEN WE UNDERRATE THEM."

SGT. ARTHUR RAISON OF 474 EAST 46TH ST., JACKSONVILLE, FLA., WHO IS A REAL RARITY AMONG INFANTRYMEN BECAUSE HE CAME IN ON D-DAY AND HAS BEEN FIGHTING EVER SINCE WITHOUT LEAVE OR WOUNDS, SUMMED IT UP BY SAYING: "I'VE BEEN UP HERE EVERY DAY MY OUTFIT HAS BEEN UP SINCE D-DAY AND I CAN'T SEE THAT TODAY'S ANY EASIER THAN ANY OTHER."

WITH THE U.S. 90TH DIVISION IN GERMANY, FEB 6-(AP)-LT.COL.BEN ROSSOW OF SIOUX FALLS, S.D., COMMANDER OF THE SECOND BATTALION OF THE 357TH REGIMENT, 90TH INFANTRY DIVISION, SAID TODAY THE GERMANS TAKEN FROM THE SIEGFRIED LINE WERE WELL INFORMED ABOUT THE RUSSIAN DRIVE INTO EASTERN GERMANY AND EXPRESSED THE FEELING THAT BERLIN WOULD BE AN EMPTY PRIZE FOR THE RED ARMY.

CPL.JOHN E.HARNESS OF 1513 CARROLTON AVE., INDIANAPOLIS, SAID "I TALKED WITH ONE WOUNDED GERMAN WHO SPOKE ENGLISH. HE SAID HE KNEW THE RUSSIANS WERE THREATENING BERLIN BUT SAID 'THEY'LL FIND NOTHING. BERLIN IS IN RUINS.'"

FEB 7 1945

LT.GEORGE C.YOUNG OF WESTHILL, MASS., REPORTED HE CAUGHT 12 GERMANS IN A SMALL WOODS IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE'S OUTSKIRTS.

"I ASKED ONE WHETHER HE HAD HEARD THE NEWS ABOUT THE RUSSIANS AND HE SAID, 'JA, THEY ARE 100 KILOMETERS FROM BERLIN.'" YOUNG RELATED. "I CORRECTED HIM, TELLING HIM THEY WERE ONLY 60 KILOMETERS OR LESS. HE SHRUGGED AND SAID, 'WELL, THE WAR WILL BE OVER THAT MUCH SOONER.' THEN HE WENT AROUND TO THE OTHER PRISONERS, TELLING THEM ABOUT IT AND SAYING, 'KEEP SMILING; THE WAR IS ALMOST OVER.'"

THE GERMANS IN THIS AREA ARE NOT NEARLY AS TOUGH AS THOSE AT DILLINGEN, IN THE OPINION OF LT.JOHN COLBY OF HOUSTON, TEXAS. THE 90TH DIVISION LEFT DILLINGEN A MONTH AGO TO HELP SMASH THE BASTOGNE BULGE.

COLBY TOLD OF A SQUAD LED BY SGT.EDWIN E.GOULD OF PITTSFIELD, MASS., THAT CAPTURED A GERMAN LIEUTENANT AND AN ENGLISH-SPEAKING PRIVATE ON THE SIEGFRIED LINE OUTSKIRTS.

"THE GERMAN OFFICER OFFERED TO SURRENDER HIS ENTIRE COMMAND AND WENT FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE TELLING HIS MEN TO COME OUT," SAID COLBY. "THEY CAME RUNNING IMMEDIATELY AND STARTED TRYING TO SEARCH THE AMERICANS FOR LOOT. IT TOOK THE GERMAN OFFICER FIVE MINUTES TO CONVINCE HIS MEN THAT THEY AND NOT THE AMERICANS HAD BEEN CAPTURED.

"THEY SHRUGGED: IT DIDN'T SEEM TO MAKE MUCH DIFFERENCE TO THEM. A MONTH AGO AT DILLINGEN THE ONLY GERMANS WHO SURRENDERED HAD BAD CASES OF RIGOR MORTIS."

WITH THE U.S. FIFTH ARMY, ITALY-FIRST ADD FEDER'S CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL (TOP ON A41) XXX HIS CAREER.

HIS COMPANY WAS STYMIED LAST SEPT.21 BY ENEMY MACHINEGUNS FIRING FROM THE STONE HOUSES OF POGGIA VILLAGE ON TOP OF A STEEP, 2,300-FOOT HEIGHT A SHORT DISTANCE NORTHEAST OF FIRENZUOLA. SO BLOCK PICKED THREE VOLUNTEERS AND WENT UP THE FOLLOWING MORNING TO HAVE A LOOK AROUND.

"I DON'T THINK I WOULD HAVE TRIED IT IF THE GERMANS HADN'T BEEN PICKING OFF OUR MEN SO FAST," BLOCK SAID. "I GOT SO RILED I GUESS I JUST DIDN'T REALIZE WHAT I WAS DOING.

"I GOT THE FIRST MACHINEGUN BY LEAPING INTO THE FRONT DOOR OF THE FIRST HOUSE IN THE FACE OF POINT-BLANK FIRE. I KICKED THE GUN OVER, WOUNDED THE GUNNER WITH MY CARBINE AND CHASED HIM INSIDE WHERE I FOUND FIVE MORE AND CAPTURED THEM BY BRANDISHING A GRENADE. THEN, GOING THROUGH A SIDE DOOR OF THE HOUSE, I ORDERED THEM TO SLIDE DOWNHILL ON THE SEATS OF THEIR PANTS TO WHERE THE REST OF THE PATROL WAS WAITING.

"DUCKING AROUND A SECOND BUILDING I SAW ANOTHER GUN EMPLACEMENT AND HEAVED A GRENADE, WHICH PROVED TO BE A DUD. I WOUNDED THE GUNNER WITH MY CARBINE AND PUT THE GUN OUT OF ACTION. I KILLED THE GUNNER OF A THIRD GUN WHICH WAS FIRING DOWN THE NARROW STREET FROM THE DOORWAY OF ANOTHER HOUSE."

THE FOURTH GUN CREW WAS TRYING TO RUN OUT PAST A NEARBY BUILDING BUT BLOCK WOUNDED SEVERAL AND CAPTURED THEM, ALONG WITH MORE GERMANS WHO HAD TAKEN COVER IN A DOORWAY. THIS DID NOT COUNT AS A WIPED-OUT MACHINEGUN NEST BUT FROM ONE OF THESE PRISONERS BLOCK, WHO SPEAKS GERMAN, LEARNED THE POSITIONS OF TWO MORE NESTS.

BLOCK FINISHED ONE BY WOUNDING THE GUNNER AND CAPTURING TWO OTHER NAZIS AFTER A PISTOL SHOT MISSED HIM BY INCHES. HE POLISHED OFF THE LAST GUN WITH A HAND GRENADE. ALL THIS TIME, THE THREE VOLUNTEERS HAD MOPPED UP MANY MORE PRISONERS.

BLOCK CAME OUT OF THE WHOLE ENGAGEMENT WITHOUT A SCRATCH. SIX WEEKS LATER, HOWEVER, HE HAD TO BE RUSHED TO THE HOSPITAL--WITH THE MEASLES.

MOSCOW, FEB.6-(AP)-RED ARMY ARTILLERY HAS ROLLED UP TO THE EAST BANK OF THE ODER RIVER FROM SOUTHEAST OF FRANKFURT TO THE HIGH CLIFFS NORTHWEST OF KUSTRIN AND HAS BEGUN SHELLING THE ENEMY ON THE OTHER SIDE, FRONT DISPATCHES SAID TODAY.

MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY REACHED THE STREAM IN STRENGTH YESTERDAY, CAPTURING ZELLIN, 15 MILES NORTHWEST OF KUSTRIN AND 32 MILES NORTHEAST OF BERLIN, AND ABOUT 100 OTHER TOWNS ON A WIDE FRONT STRETCHING TO THE RIVER 33 MILES SOUTHEAST OF FRANKFURT.

THERE HAVE BEEN NO INDICATIONS IN MOSCOW SO FAR THAT ZHUKOV HAS TRIED TO CROSS THE STREAM, ALTHOUGH FIELD DISPATCHES SAID THE SMOKE OF BATTLE WAS HANGING TIGHTLY OVER THE VALLEY.

EVACUATION OF THE FIRST OF THE TWO BASES IN KIANGSI PROVINCE BEGAN JAN. 21 AT SUICHWAN, THE MORE IMMEDIATELY THREATENED BASE IN THE JAPANESE DRIVE TO CONSOLIDATE THEIR POSITIONS IN TERRITORY ALREADY CUT OFF FROM FREE CHINA BY THE HENGYANG-TO-NANNING AIR BASE OFFENSIVE OF THE ENEMY. THE ABANDONMENT OF KANHSIEN, LESS THAN 50 AIR MILES SOUTHEAST OF SUICHWAN, FOLLOWED QUICKLY.

THESE TWO HAD BEEN PRINCIPALLY P-51 FIGHTER BASES FROM WHICH SQUADRONS COMMANDED BY LT.COL.EDWARD O.MC COMAS AND MAJ.JOHN C.HERBST, RAWKING ACES IN THE 14TH, HAD WAGED GUERRILLA WARFARE IN THE AIR AGAINST THE JAPANESE SINCE CHINESE LOSS OF NANNING JAN. 19. THEY STRUCK WITH TELLING RESULTS AT SHANGHAI AND HONG KONG, AMONG OTHER TARGETS.

OF ALL 14TH AIR FORCE FIELDS THESE WERE CLOSEST TO JAPAN.

SUPPLY OPERATIONS WERE CARRIED ON BY UNARMED TRANSPORTS, OFTEN WITHOUT FIGHTER PROTECTION. SINGLE MISSIONS OF B-24S DAY AFTER DAY FLEW FUEL ACROSS THE JAPANESE CORRIDOR TO SUSTAIN THE ISOLATED FIGHTERS.

THERE WAS NO PROTECTION FOR THE BASES EXCEPT FROM GUERRILLA FORCES AND THOSE SURVIVING PORTIONS OF THE CHINESE ARMIES WHICH WERE OUTFLANKED BY THE JAPANESE IN THE SOUTHWARD ENEMY DRIVE THROUGH HUNAN, ONLY LIGHT CASUALTIES WERE SUFFERED AND NOT A TANK WAS LOST.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: RUSSELL BRINES, ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR CORRESPONDENT, WAS INTERNED IN SANTO TOMAS PRISON CAMP SHORTLY AFTER JAPANESE OCCUPANT OF MANILA JAN.2, 1942, UNTIL THE FOLLOWING SEPTEMBER WHEN HE WAS PERMITTED TO GO TO CHINA AND ARRANGE FOR HIS REPATRIATION. NOW HE IS BACK IN THE PHILIPPINES AND SANTO TOMAS HAS BEEN LIBERATED. HERE ARE HIS IMPRESSIONS OF THE SCENE)
BY RUSSELL BRINES
SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, FEB.5-(AP)-THE EMOTIONS OF WAN, THIN MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN AT THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP IN MANILA WERE DRAINED TODAY AS THEY REMAINED BEHIND A STOUT AMERICAN GUARD WHILE OTHER YANKS PLUNGED INTO THE FINAL ROUND OF THE BATTLE.
THEY WERE HAPPY AND GRATEFUL TO BE ALIVE AFTER THE BITTER FIGHT AROUND ONE CAMPUS BUILDING WHICH CLIMAXED THREE YEARS OF PROGRESSIVELY WORSENING HARDSHIPS.
I REACHED SANTO TOMAS AFTER DUCKING THROUGH MORTAR, MACHINE GUN AND SNIPER FIRE. AS I MOVED OVER FAMILIAR STREETS, I PASSED BUILDINGS FILLED WITH GAPING HOLES. FILIPINOS WERE FLEETING BACK INTO THEM AFTER EMERGING TO GREET THE AMERICANS.
SMOKE FROM FIRES CAST A BLACK CURTAIN OVER THE CITY. MANY DEAD JAPANESE WERE IN THE STREETS. SHOTS COULD BE HEARD CONTINUALLY.
ALTHOUGH I HAD SEEN SIGNS OF HARDSHIP THROUGHOUT THE CITY, EVEN THESE DID NOT PREPARE ME FOR THE SIGHTS AT SANTO TOMAS OF FRIENDS WHOSE AVERAGE WEIGHT IS 115 POUNDS OR LESS.
THERE I FOUND PEOPLE LIKE ROY BENNETT, EDITOR OF THE MANILA BULLETIN WHO DECLINED REPATRIATION TO STAY ON IN THE CAMP; LIKE ARTHUR EVANS, THE BANKER OF SOUTH PASADENA, CALIF.; LIKE EARL CARROLL, OF HONOLULU.
THEY WORE RAGGED CLOTHES. THEY WERE THIN. THEY WERE PALE. YET THEIR GREETING WAS JOYOUS. THEY ASKED ABOUT HOME AND FRIENDS IMPRISONED ELSEWHERE.
THE SIGHT OF AMERICAN WAR POWER SEEMED TO REASSURE THEM AND TO ALLEVIATE THEIR NERVOUSNESS. THE FRONT OF THE CAMPUS CONTAINED AN IMPRESSIVE ARRAY OF SUCH POWER, RANGING FROM HEAVY TANK DESTROYERS TO BUSINESSLIKE MACHINE GUNS MOUNTED ON THE FRONT GATE, MANNED BY STERN-FACED YANKS.

FEB 7 1945

THE INTERNEES REMAINED IN THEIR NUMEROUS SHANTIES ON THE CAMPUS, TALKING OF RELEASE AND THE FUTURE. SOME CONFERRED WITH AMERICAN OFFICERS ABOUT SOLVING THE FOOD PROBLEMS.
SANTO TOMAS HAD CHANGED MUCH SINCE I LEFT IT IN SEPTEMBER, 1942. ALL CHANGES REFLECTED INCREASINGLY DETERIORATED CONDITIONS.
BASEBALL DIAMONDS AND ATHLETIC FIELDS WHERE INTERNEES USED TO FORGET IMPRISONMENT FOR A FEW HOURS WERE OVERLAPPED BY NEW JAPANESE BUILDINGS FOR INCREASED GARRISONS AND PILLBOXES. AMERICAN TANKS HAD CHARGED THROUGH, TOPPLING OVER SOME OF THE ENEMY FRAME BUILDINGS--WHICH INTERNEES HAD CONSTRUCTED.
EVEN THE PROUD SANTIES WHICH THE INTERNEES CAREFULLY BUILT WERE RAGGED AND RUNDOWN. COMMUNICATIONS WITH THE OUTSIDE HAD BEEN CUT SINCE DECEMBER AND NO FRESH FOOD SUPPLIES HAD BEEN RECEIVED SINCE.
ONE SIDE OF THE EDUCATION BUILDING, WHICH HAD BEEN THE UNIVERSITY'S NEWEST, WAS SCARRED BY THE RIFLE FIGHT WITH THE JAPANESE GARRISON WHICH PRECEEDED ITS SAFE CONDUCT TO NIPPONESE LINES IN RETURN FOR THE SAFETY OF THE INTERNEE HOSTAGES.
THESE THINGS MEANT LITTLE TO THE INTERNEES NOW. THEY GLANCED PROUDLY AT AMERICAN WEAPONS, AT SOLDIERS BIVOUACED IN THE CAMP, THEN GATHERED TO TALK EXCITEDLY OF RELATIVES BACK HOME. THESE PEOPLE, LIKE THOSE LIBERATED FROM CABANATUAN LAST WEEK, ARE PROUD THEY WEATHERED THE JAPANESE STORM.

NEW YORK, FEB.6-(AP)-THE FOLLOWING STORY WAS RECEIVED TODAY BY THE NEW YORK TIMES FROM FORD WILKINS, ITS MANILA CORRESPONDENT WHO HAS JUST BEEN LIBERATED FROM THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP WHERE HE HAD BEEN CONFINED SINCE THE JAPANESE CAPTURED MANILA IN JANUARY, 1942:

SANTO TOMAS CAMP, MANILA,,FEB.5--TWO HUNDRED CIVILIAN HOSTAGES WERE RELEASED BY THE JAPANESE AFTER THE LONG SIEGE OF A BARRICADED CAMP BUILDING IN AN EXCHANGE. BETWEEN LONG LINES OF HEAVILY ARMED AMERICA SOLDIERS, THE JAPANESE COMMANDANT, HIS STAFF AND GUARDS FILED FROM THIS INTERNMENT CAMP THROUGH THE CITY TO A JAPANESE STRONGHOLD ON LEPANTO STREET, A MILE AND A HALF AWAY.

THERE, IN A STIFFLY FORMAL CEREMONY, THE JAPANESE WERE RELEASED WITHOUT INCIDENT TO JOIN THEIR FORCES IN ACCORDANCE WITH AN AGREEMENT REACHED AFTER LONG NEGOTIATIONS. BRIG.GEN.WILLIAM C.CHASE RELUCTANTLY CONSENTED TO THE TERMS IMPOSED BY THE COMMANDANT, LIEUT.COL.HAYASHI, WHO THREATENED TO SHOOT IT OUT WITH THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS, KNOWING THAT IT WOULD MEAN DEATH AND INJURY TO INNOCENT CIVILIANS.

THE RELEASED CIVILIANS, WHO HAD BEEN CROWDED FOR TWO NIGHTS INTO CRAMPED QUARTERS ON THE THIRD FLOOR OF ONE OF THE LARGE RESIDENCE BUILDINGS OF THE CAMP, PART OF THE TIME WITHOUT FOOD OR BEDS AND CONSTANTLY UNDER THE THREAT OF GUNS, WERE WARNED NOT TO ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE AT THE END OF THEIR THREE YEARS AND ONE MONTH OF INCARCERATION.

THE THIN, RAGGED AMERICAN FORMER PRISONERS WEPT UNASHAMED AS THEY WATCHED THE STARS AND STRIPES RAISED OVER THE MAIN PLAZA OF THE CAMP WHILE AN AMERICAN BOMBER FLEW LOW OVER THE DRAMATIC SCENE. THEN CHEERS CAME FROM 2,000 THROATS.

FOR THREE YEARS THESE PEOPLE HAD NOT BEEN PERMITTED TO EXPRESS THEIR LOYALTY TO THEIR COUNTRY OR TO DEMONSTRATE THEIR FEELINGS. THEY HAD NOT SEEN AN AMERICAN FLAG, THE SYMBOL OF THEIR HOPES AND CERTAINTY OF EVENTUAL LIBERATION. THIS WAS THE FIRST DISPLAY OF THE AMERICAN FLAG IN MANILA SINCE THE JAPANESE INVASION LOWERED THE ONE IN FRONT OF THE HIGH COMMISSIONER'S RESIDENCE ON JAN.2, 1942, TRAMPLED IT UNDERFOOT AND RAISED IN ITS PLACE THE RED CIRCLE ON A WHITE FIELD.

THIS MORNING'S CEREMONY, AT 9:30 O'CLOCK, LACKED A BAND ACCOMPANIMENT AND SPEECHES BUT NOT SENTIMENT, WHICH BROUGHT "GOD BLESS AMERICA" TO WELL OUT SPONTANEOUSLY OVER THE CAMPUS OF THE OLDEST UNIVERSITY UNDER AN AMERICAN FLAG, WHICH ALWAYS WAS THE PROUD BOAST OF SANTO TOMAS. STILL WITHOUT ACCOMPANIMENT, THE CROWD OF WEEPING PEOPLE SANG "AMERICA," THEN "THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER."

FEB 7 1945

ARMY AND PRESS CAMERAS CAUGHT THE SCENE FROM VANTAGE POINTS ON ARMY TANKS, TRUCKS AND CIRCLING PLANES AND FROM THE ROOF OF THE CANOPY OVER THE MAIN ENTRANCE ON WHICH THE FLAGPOLE RESTED.

A FORMER PRISONER, FRANK JARRETT, FIRST DRAPED A FLAG OVER THE ENTRANCE AND RAISED A SECOND ONE ON THE SLANTING POLE WHILE GIRLS AND WOMEN WITH SMALLER FLAGS STOOD ALONGSIDE. THE FLAGPOLE WAS JUST UNDER THE FAMILIAR FACE OF THE CAMP CLOCK, WHICH FOR THIRTY-SEVEN MONTHS HAD TOLLED OFF THE MANY WEARY HOURS.

THE CROWD REMAINED STANDING IN THE PLAZA, GAZING UP AT THE FLAGS AS IF THEY WERE UNABLE TO FILL THEIR EYES.

THE RESCUE AT SANTO TOMAS CAME ON THE EVE OF THE 1,126TH DAY OF IMPRISONMENT FOR THE AMERICANS. IT CAME IN TIME TO PREVENT FURTHER DEATHS FROM MALNUTRITION, PRINCIPALLY AMONG VETERANS OF THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR, OLD MEN WHOSE DIMINISHING STAMINA COULD NOT WITHSTAND THE RAVAGES OF BERIBERI, PELLAGRA AND OTHER DISEASES.

THE FINAL JAPANESE GESTURE OF USING CIVILIAN PRISONERS AS SHIELDS WAS CONSISTENT WITH THEIR SCORNFUL TREATMENT OF AMERICANS, BUT HARDLY CONSISTENT WITH THE ROLE OF "PROTECTIVE" CUSTODY IN WHICH THEY HAD PLACED US AT THE BEGINNING OF OUR INTERNMENT.

BY RUSSELL BRINES AND FRED HAMPSON

BILIBID PRISON, MANILA, FEB.5-(AP)-THERE WAS NO LAST STAND BY THE PRISON GARRISON AND NO TRADING OF HOSTAGES FOR PASSAGE THROUGH THE LINES WHEN THE 37TH DIVISION LIBERATED ABOUT 1,350 PRISONERS OF WAR AND CIVILIAN INTERNEES HERE SUNDAY.

UNLIKE THE SANTO TOMAS GARRISON COMMANDER WHO HOLED UP WITH HIS FORMOSAN GUARDS IN AN UPPER STORY ROOM AND SWAPPED ABOUT 300 PRISONERS FOR A CHANCE TO REACH JAPANESE LINES, THE BILIBID PRISON STAFF FLED AHEAD OF THE INVADING AMERICS.

THE FLEETING GUARDS LEFT A SIGNPOST READING: "PRISONERS AND INTERNEES QUARTERED HERE LAWFULLY RELEASED. PLEASE DON'T MOLEST THEM UNLESS THEY MAKE POSITIVE RESISTANCE."

THE JAPANESE PRISON STAFF LEFT WHEN U.S. TROOPS ENTERED THE CITY AND THE SIGN WAS DIRECTED AT THE JAPANESE SOLDIERS REMAINING IN THE VICINITY.

IT FELL TO THE LOT OF CAPT. THEODORE WINSHIP, 107 NORTH 5TH AVE., VIRGINIA, MINN., TO BE THE FIRST TO RECEIVE THE WORD OF LIBERATION. HE WAS COOKING HIS HANDFUL OF CORN AND RICE NEAR THE PRISONER'S BACK GATE WHEN A FACE APPEARED AT THE OLD-FASHIONED GATE WINDOW.

WINSHIP FORMALLY SAID: "HELLO, WHO ARE YOU?"

"I'M AN AMERICAN SOLDIER OF THE 37TH DIVISION. WE'VE COME TO FREE YOU."

"WHERE IN THE HELL HAVE YOU BEEN," RETORTED WINSHIP, "WE'VE BEEN WAITING THREE YEARS FOR YOU."

"THAT'S LONG ENOUGH," REPLIED THE DOUGHBOY WHO WITH THE HELP OF HIS COMPANIONS THEN BROKE DOWN THE GATE.

BUT THE CASUALNESS WITH WHICH WINSHIP HEARD OF THE LIBERATION WAS NOT GENERAL AMONG THE 1,350 RELEASED PERSONS.

THEY DISPLAYED GREAT EXCITEMENT DESPITE THEIR WEAKENED CONDITION FROM MALNUTRITION, BERIBERI AND DYSENTERY.

SOME OF THE WAR PRISONERS WERE IN EXTREMELY POOR CONDITION, SAID CAPT.JAMES G.BRUCE (OF 120 MAPLE ST.), SPRINGFIELD,MASS., OF THE MEDICAL CORPS. HE WAS A CAPTIVE OF BATAAN.

MOST OF THE PRISONERS WERE TOO OVERCOME AT THE LIBERATION TO TALK COHERENTLY ABOUT IT.

LT.CMDR.WILLIAM M.SELLIPHANT, SAN GABRIEL,CALIF., SPEAKING FOR ONE GROUP, ASKED THAT THEY BE EXCUSED AS THE EMOTIONAL REACTION WAS TOO OVERPOWERING.

NAVY LT.J.G.BREWSTER, CORONADO,CALIF., A CHAPLAIN CAPTURED IN MANILA, SAID THE JAPANESE TREATED THE PRISONERS GENERALLY BETTER THAN IN OTHER WAR PRISONS. HE SAID THERE WERE SOME INDIGNITIES BUT NONE OF THE BRUTALITH OF CABANATUAN.

BILIBID WAS FULL OF WAR PRISONERS WHO HAD BEEN BROUGHT THERE AFTER COLLAPSING ON JAPANESE WORK PROJECTS, SAID CAPT.VAUGHAN SHAW OF DAYTONA BEACH,FLA. HE, TOO, WAS CAPTURED ON BATAAN.

"SOME OF THEM WERE DEAD WHEN THEY GOT HERE," HE CONCLUDED GRIMLY.

PHARMACIST'S MATE 1/C LOUIS NOVAK, 165 WEST THOMPSON ST., PHILADELPHIA,PA., SAID: "THE PRISONERS LOST AS MUCH AS A HUNDRED POUNDS. THE AVERAGE WEIGHT BECAME 115 POUNDS. FIFTEEN DIED IN CAMP DURING THE LAST TWO MONTHS OF MALNUTRITION."

F.I1220ACW

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, MANILA, FEB.5-(AP)-"THE FIRST TANK WHICH ROUNDED THE MAIN BUILDING, HOUSING 1,100 MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN, WAS NEARLY MOBBED BY A HORDE OF JOY-MADDENED INTERNEES, FEARLESSLY DEFYING FOR THE FIRST TIME THE STRICT JAP CURFEW ORDER."

THUS DID DAVID T.BOGUSLAV, EDITOR OF THE MANILA TRIBUNE, DESCRIBE HIS IMPRESSIONS OF THE APPEARANCE OF THE LIBERATING FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION.

FEB 7 1945

WHEN RAY CRONIN, CHIEF OF THE FORMER ASSOCIATED PRESS BUREAU AT MANILA, WAS REPATRIATED FROM SANTO TOMAS, HE ASKED BOGUSLAV TO LOOK AFTER THE ASSOCIATED PRESS' INTERESTS.

"A SIX-FOOT AMERICAN OFFICER, LOOMING UP LIKE ANOTHER GENIE, SUDDENLY APPEARED IN THE INFERNO-LIKE SETTING," BOGUSLAV SAID.

"HE WAS SEIZED BY THE INTERNEES AND DRAGGED OFF TO A HOSPITAL WARD HOUSING TUBERCULOSIS AND OTHER SERIOUSLY ILL PATIENTS. THE SCENE WHICH MET HIS EYES THERE WAS ENOUGH TO CAUSE THIS DOUR ARKANSAN--CAPTAIN WATERS (NO FIRST NAME OR ADDRESS)--OF COMPANY B, 44TH TANK BATTALION, TO BLINK HARD AND SWALLOW HARDER.

"A PARALYSIS-STRICKEN LADY OF 60 COULDN'T BELIEVE HE WAS ONE OF OUR BOYS UNTIL HE LET HER QUIVERING FINGERS STROKE HIS HARSH STEEL HELMET, GLIMMERING IN THE ILLUMINATION OF THE ROOM'S SINGLE LEROSENE LAMP.

"IN THE MEN'S WARD, A 70-YEAR-OLD VETERAN OF THE SPANISH AMERICAN AND FIRST WORLD WAR RAISED HIS HAND IN A TREMBLING GESTURE OF BENEDICTION.

"'WE ARE SAVED BUT THAT IS NOT ENOUGH,' HE SAID.

"'AMERICA HAS COME BACK TO US AND THAT IS EVERYTHING.'"

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, MANILA, FEB.6-(AP)-SPEEDY REPATRIATION FOR ALL OF THE THOUSANDS OF FREED CIVILIAN INTERNEES WHO WISH IT IS BEING ARRANGED BY AMERICAN OFFICIALS WITHIN THIS JUBILANT CAMP WHILE GUNFIRE IS STILL RINGING IN MANILA AND ARTILLERY BURSTS SAIL OVER THE CAMPUS.

ARMY RATIONS ARE BEING DISTRIBUTED IN THIS CAMP AND TO OTHER FREED CIVILIANS. MEDICAL SUPPLIES ARE AVAILABLE FOR THE FIRST ATTEMPT TO BUILD UP THE RUN-DOWN HEALTH OF THE ,3700 SANTO TOMAS INTERNEES.

COL. HOWARD SMITH OF THE ARMY MEDICAL CORPS HAS TAKEN OVER HOSPITALIZATION. COL. T.W.GRIMM, AN OLD TIME MANILAN AND NEW CAMP COMMANDANT, IS ASSISTED BY LT. COL. CHARLES SMITH, ANOTHER LONG-TIME PHILIPPINES RESIDENT WHO ESCAPED CAPTURE.

FOOD IS BEGING GIVEN SPARINGLY AT FIRST AS A HEALTH PRECAUTION FOR PEOPLE WHOSE STOMACHS SHRANK ON PROTRACTED HANDFUL-SIZE JAPANESE RATIONS.

K MENUS WILL BE BUILT UP GRADUALLY UNTIL PERSONS WHO ALMOST LOST THEIR TASTE FOR AMERICAN FOOD ARE RECEIVING REGULAR ARMY FARE.

FEB 7 1945

BEGINNING OF REHABILITATION FOR SANTO TOMAS' INTERNEES WAS NOT HAMPERED BY THE CONTINUING SPASMODIC BATTLE IN MANILA, WHERE SCATTERED FIRES AND NUMEROUS DEMOLITIONS ERUPTED DURING THE NIGHT.

SANTO TOMAS INTERNEES INCLUDED APPROXIMATELY 2,780 AMERICANS, 745 BRITISH, 100 AUSTRALIANS, 60 CANADIANS, AND 50 HOLLANDERS. THE REMAINDER WERE AN ASSORTMENT OF OTHER NATIONALITIES.

THE HANDIWORK OF SANTO TOMAS INTERNEES, WHO MADE THEIR CAMP THE BEST IN ASIA BY HANDLING MOST OF THEIR OWN AFFAIRS INCLUDING THE PURCHA OF FOOD WITH THEIR OWN FUNDS, STILL REMAINS, BUT THE PAST YEAR HAS BEEN ONE OF PROGRESSIVELY INCREASING HARDSHIPS. THE JAPANESE ARMY TOOK OVER THE CAMP FROM THE JAPANESE CIVILIANS IN FEBRUARY 1943 AND IMMEDIATELY ESTABLISHED SEVERE RESTRICTIONS WHICH LED TO STARVATION OF SOME INTERNEES AND A NUMBER OF DEATHS FROM MALNUTRITION AND BERI-BERI.

DR. TOLD STEVENSON, (156 FIRST AVE.) NEW YORK, A PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONARY WHO BECAME THE CAMP DOCTOR, WAS JAILED BY THE JAPANESE TWO MONTHS AGO BECAUSE HE REFUSED TO ALTER A DEATH CERTIFICATE STATING THAT MALNUTRITION CAUSED RECENT DEATHS. THE JAPANESE CLAIMED THIS REFLECTED DISCREDIT ON THE ARMY. HE WAS SINCE RELEASED.

BEFORE THE ARMY TOOK OVER INTERNEES WERE ABLE TO LIVE A RELATIVELY COMFORTABLE LIFE BY BORROWING HEAVILY FROM FRIENDS OUTSIDE THE CAMP AND PURCHASING FOOD ON THE MANILA MARKET. PURCHASES WENT BOTH TO THE FAMILY KITCHEN AND TO PRIVATE COOKSTOVES. THESE SUPPLIES AND OTHER MATERIAL AID CAME THROUGH THE "PACKAGE LINE" BY WHICH FRIENDS DELIVERED PARCELS ONCE A DAY.

ARMY AUTHORITIES SEVERED THE PACKAGE LINE. THEY CUT OFF ALL CONTACT WITH OUTSIDE MANILA. EXCHANGE OF NOTES WAS PROHIBITED. SICK INTERNEES WERE REFUSED HOSPITALIZATION OUTSIDE THE CAMP EXCEPT IN THE MOST URGENT CASES.

CASH PAYMENTS WERE ABOLISHED. THE CAMP COMMANDER PROMISED TO PROVIDE JAPANESE ARMY RATIONS. THE ORIGINAL FIGURES PROVIDED ONLY ENOUGH FOOD FOR A SCANTY DIET BUT THE JAPANESE FAILED TO FURNISH MORE THAN A THIRD OF WHAT THEY HAD PROMISED.

AS A RESULT, MEALS WERE LIMITED TO WATERY RICE, SWEET POTATOES, SOUP AND OCCASIONAL BITS OF DRIED FISH. SUGAR, MEAT, POULTRY AND MILK WERE NOT AVAILABLE. BUTTER AND BREAD WERE UNOBTAINABLE FOR TWO YEARS.

MILITARY COMMANDERS OF THE CAMP DEPRIVED INTERNEES OF

BADLY NEEDED LIVING SPACE FOR AN ELABORATE OFFICE. SEVERAL INTERNEES WERE TAKEN OUTSIDE TO A GERDARMERIE STATION FOR BRUTAL QUESTION.

ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAMS, WHICH ONCE INCLUDED MONTHLY MOTION PICTURES, GRADUALLY DIED OUT. THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM WAS ABANDONED WHEN THE ATHLETIC FIELD WAS TAKEN OVER. THE INTERNEES BECAME TOO WEAK TO PLAY, ANYWAY.

BLACKOUTS BEGAN AFTER AMERICAN RAIDS BEGAN IN SEPTEMBER 1944. NIGHTLY CURFEW AT 6:30 WAS STRICTLY ENFORCED.

INTERNEES WERE ALLOWED TO CONTINUE TO LIVE IN SHANTIES--600 OF THEM-- THEY HAD BUILT ON THE CAMPUS IN THE EARLY FLUSH DAYS WHEN MATERIALS WERE AVAILABLE. THEY RANGED FROM LEANTOS TO FAIRLY COMFORTABLE LITTLE HOMES FLANKED BY BANANA TREES, HEDGES, FLOWERS AND LAWNS.

MENTAL ATTITUDE OF THE PRISONERS GRADUALLY GREW WORSE UNDER CONSTANT, GNAWING HUNGER; DELAYED RESCUE, LONG PERIODS OF IDLENESS AND SAD, DARKENED NIGHTS. THE THIN, PALE YOUNGSTERS LOST THEIR CHEERFULNESS.

FEB 7 1945

A107FX

JAPANESE GATHERED UP ALL PERSONAL FUNDS IN THE CAMP. THEY CONDUCTED A SHANTY-TO-SHANTY, ROOM-BY-ROOM SEARCH FOR IT. THE MONEY WAS DEPOSITED IN THE BANK OF TAIWAN. INTERNEES WERE PERMITTED TO WITHDRAW 50 PESOS A MONTH FOR ADULTS AND 25 FOR CHILDREN. BUT THEIR PURCHASES WERE LIMITED TO THE CAMP CANTEEN WHICH FINALLY DISAPPEARED.

PRICES OUTSIDE SKYROCKETED AND THE JAPANESE BROUGHT SOME FOOD FOR RESALE WITHIN THE CAMP. ONE MAN PAID $300, PAYABLE AFTER THE WAR IN U.S. CURRENCY, FOR TWO POUNDS OF RICE. SUGAR COST $75 FOR TWO POUNDS. CHEAP CASAVA FLOUR WAS WORTH $80 FOR TWO POUNDS. A SMALL BOX OF CHEAP MATCHES SOLD FOR $5 OR MORE.

BY RICHARD BERGHOLZ (130)

SANTO TOMAS, MANILA, FEB. 6-(AP)-THE JAPANESE DELIBERATELY PURSUED A PROGRAM OF MALNUTRITION IN THIS INTERMENT CAMP, DR. TOLD STEVENSON, CHAIRMAN OF THE CAMP MEDICAL STAFF, CHARGED TODAY.

IT WAS METHODICALLY PLANNED FROM INVEPTION OF THIS ONE TIME UNIVERSITY AS A PRISON.

"THEY WOULD BRING IN TRUCKLOADS OF FOOD FOR THEIR TROOPS," THE TALL, QUIET FORMER PRESBYTERIAN MISSION DOCTOR SAID, "IN FULL VIEW OF THE HUNGRY INTERNEES, DISPLAYING TO OUR HUNGRY EYES BANANAS, MEAT, MILK, EGGS--EVERYTHING WE NEEDED AND COULDN'T HAVE.

"CHILDREN WOULD HANG AROUND WHILE THE JAPANESE UNLOADED, HOPING TO PICK UP SCRAPS, UNTIL THE CAMP COMMANDANT FORBADE ANYONE TO APPROACH THE FOOD TRUCKS.

"THEY COULD HAVE GOTTEN FOOD FOR US-THERE IS NO DOUBT IN MY MIND OF THAT. THEY WOULDN'T EVEN LET US USE OUR UNLIMITED CREDIT WITH THE OUTSIDE FILIPINOS WHO WERE WILLING ENOUGH TO BRING FOOD TO US."

DR. STEVENSON, WHOSE WIFE LIVED AT (156 SIXTH AVE.,) NEW YORK, SAID MALE INMATES 19 YEARS OR OVER LOST 51 POUNDS ON AN AVERAGE, ABOUT HALF OF IT SINCE LAST SEPTEMBER. WOMEN INTERNEES LOST AN AVERAGE OF 32 POUNDS. HE SAID THEIR FOOD RATIONS PROVIDED ABOUT HALF THEIR CALORIE NEEDS AND WAS BEING CUT STILL MORE.

MEDICINE WAS SHOT UNTIL AN AMERICAN RED CROSS SHIPMENT ARRIVED

IN DECEMBER OF 1943. WHEN DR. STEVENSON CONFRONTED THE JAPANESE WITH FACTS ON THE FOOD DEFICIENCY THE COMMANDANT RETORTED "YOU ARE BETTER PROVIDED FOR THAN THE FILIPINOS. YOU HAVE NOTHING TO KICK ABOUT."

SANTO TOMAS, MANILA, P.I., FEB 5-(DELAYED)-(AP)-APPROXIMATELY 250 AMERICAN INTERNEES WHO WERE HELD AS HOSTAGES BY 67 JAPANESE IN ONE OF THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP BUILDINGS WERE FREED TODAY WHEN THE JAPANESE WERE GIVEN SAFE CONDUCT TO NEUTRAL GROUND.

THE AMERICANS HAD BEEN HELD FOR 34 HOURS AS HOSTAGES.

WHEN AMERICAN CAVALRYMEN DRAMATICALLY SEIZED THE CAMP LATE SATURDAY NIGHT, JAPANESE OFFICIALS AND GUARDS WHO LIVED IN THE MAIN BUILDING RUSHED OVER TO THE EDUCATION BUILDING IN AN ATTEMPT TO NEGOTIATE TERMS FOR THEIR RELEASE RATHERN THAN SURRENDER. INCLUDED IN THE GROUP WAS THE CAMP COMMANDANT AND FOUR JUNIOR OFFICERS.

THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT AND DAY AMERICAN TROOPS MAINTAINED A CAREFUL GUARD AT THE EDUCATION BUILDING IN AN EFFORT TO PREVENT THE JAPANESE FROM ESCAPING AND TO SHOOT AT SNIPERS.

THE JAPANESE ASKED TO BE ALLOWED TO LEAVE WITH THEIR SIDEARMS AND PACKS AND BE GIVEN A FIGHTING CHANCE. OTHERWISE THEY THREATENED TO HOLD THE AMERICANS AND FIGHT UNTIL THEIR AMMUNITION WAS EXHAUSTED.

LT. COL. CHARLES BRADY OF ORANGE, N.J., LED TROOPS WHO FORMED TWO LINES OF GUARDS AROUND THE JAPANESE AND THEN TOOK THEM FROM THE CAMP TO AN AGREED POSITION ON THE ROAD OUT OF MANILA WHERE THEY WERE RELEASED.

FEB 7 1945

TWO WOUNDED JAPANESE WERE PUSHED IN SMALL THREE-WHEELED CARTS IN THE MIDST OF THE LINE OF MARCH. ANOTHER SMALL CART CARRIED OFFICERS BAGS AND PERSONAL EFFECTS.

ALTHOUGH CONFINED BY ENEMY GUARDS AND IN LINE OF FIRE FROM OUR GUNS TRYING TO KNOCK OUT THE JAPANESE SNIPERS HIDING IN BUILDINGS, NO AMERICAN HOSTAGES WERE WOUNDED.

WHEN THE COLUMN OF JAPANESE, GUARDED BY 100 AMERICAN SOLDIERS, WAS ABOUT A MILE AND A HALF FROM SANTO TOMAS, BRADY TURNED TO LT. COL HAYASHI AND SAID, "THIS IS AS FAR AS WE GO--HERE ARE OUR FRONT LINES.

HAYASHI, GARBED IN HIS FULL UNIFORM WEARING SIDEARMS SABER AND FIELD GLASSES, WENT FORWARD A SHORT DISTANCE WITH A JUNIOR OFFICER, TO CONTACT HIS OWN LINES. IN A FEW MINUTES THE COCKY, DAPPER LITTLE JAPANESE COLONEL RETURNED.

THEN BOTH THE JAPANESE AND AMERICAN TROOPS LINED UP AND MARCHED OFF IN OPPOSITE DIRECTIONS.

BILIBID PRISON, MANILA, FEB. 6-(AP)-AMERICAN AND BRITISH CIVILIAN INTERNEES, BROUGHT HERE RECENTLY FROM BAGUIO BY THE JAPANESE, REALIZED THEIR FULL LIBERATION TODAY WHEN THEY WERE EVACUATED TO ESCAPE ENEMY MORTAR FIRE FALLING WITHIN THEIR CAMP.

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN HAD BEEN CONFINED IN OR NEAR CAMP HOLMES AT BAGUIO SINCE DECEMBER OF 1941 UNDER CONDITIONS VARYING GREATLY FROM THOSE AT OTHER PLACES OF CIVILIAN INTERNMENT.

THE REMAINING 465 INTERNEES BROUGHT HERE FROM BAGUIO WERE REMOVED WITH 810 OTHER PRISONERS FROM THE ADJACENT PRISON COMPOUND TO SAFETY AT THE EDGE OF MANILA.

CARL V. ERCHBACH, DEARBORN, MICH., UNITED EVANGELICAL MISSION DIRECTOR, HEADED THE BAGUIO CIVILIANS, TWO THIRDS OF THEM WOMEN AND CHILDREN AND 88 PERCENT OF THEM AMERICANS CAPTURED WHEN THE JAPANESE OVERRAN BAGUIO ON THE ROAD TO MANILA.

THEY FIRST WERE INTERNED AT CAMP HOLMES, FORMER U.S. ARMY REST CAMP, AND THEN WERE TAKEN NORTHWARD INTO THE TRINIDAD VALLEY, BEFORE BEING BROUGHT TO MANILA.

THE JAPANESE IMPOSED SEVERE RESTRICTIONS ON THE INTERNEES, CUTTING THEM OFF FROM CONTACT WITH OUTSIDE TOWNSPEOPLE AND SEVERELY SEGREGATING MEN FROM WOMEN. A BARBED WIRE FENCE SEPARATED THE CAMPS. HUSBANDS AND WIVES WERE ALLOWED TO TALK TOGETHER ONLY TEN MINUTES DAILY AND WERE UNDER CONSTANT JAPANESE SURVEILANCE.

THE INTERNEES GREW THEIR OWN VEGETABLES IN THE TRINIDAD VALLEY'S RICH SOIL UNTIL THEY WERE TRANSFERRED TO MANILA. THEN THEIR DIET WAS CUT TO JAPANESE-ISSUED FOOD AND ABOUT 50 PER CENT OF THE CAMP SICKENED WITH 20 PATIENTS BEING CARED FOR IN THE CAMP HOSPITAL, DR. MARSHALL C.WELLS OF PASADENA, CALIF., SAID.

FAMILIES WERE PREMITTED TO LIVE TOGETHER LAST MAY FOR THE FIRST TIME, BEGINNING WHEN THEY WERE QUARTERED HERE IN THE FORMER CELL BLOCK IN WHICH FAMILIES ATTEMPTED MAKESHIFT HOUSEKEEPING SEPARATED FROM EACH OTHER BY PARTITIONS MADE OF SHEETS.

SANTO THOMAS CAMP,MANILA,FEB.6-(AP)-FRANK NEILD LOST 70 POUNDS IN THE SANTO TOMAS CAMP BUT THE HAPPY MAN FROM MASSACHUSETTS NEVER LOST HIS SANGFROID.

NEILD, MEMBER OF THE WANSUTTA CLUB, NEW BEDFORD,MASS., AND THE NEW YORK LAMBS CLUB, APPEARED OFTEN ON CAMP ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAMS. HE ARRIVED IN MANILA SHORTLY BEFORE THE WAR AND MANAGED THE PHILIPPINE COMMONWEALTH GOVERMMENT TEXTILE MILL.

BOTH NEILD AND FRED BERRY, PRESIDENT OF THE PHILIPPINE MANAGING COMPANY, WERE AMONG INTERNEES WHO ANNOUNCED PLANS TO REMAIN HERE, HOPING TO RESUME THEIR OCCUPATIONS AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

LUCIEN ROCKE OF BEDFORD,N.Y., CHIEF STANARD OIL MAN IN THE CAMP, ACTED AS BUILDING MONITOR.

AUBREY P.AMES OF BANDEN, (NOT IN POSTAL GUIDE) MAINE, STANDARD OIL SALES MANAGER, WAS CHAIRMAN OF THE DISCIPLINE COMMITTEE, WHICH MADE HIM A SORT OF JUDGE ADVOCATE.

DONALD A.VONGROPENHAISE OF SOUTH PASADENA,CALIF., A NETHERLANDER, WAS ACTIVE IN THE CAMP GOVERNMENT. HE SAID ALL OF THE APPROXIMATELY 50 DUTCH NATIONALS WERE IN FAIRLY GOOD CONDITION AND THAT THERE HAD BEEN NO DEATHS.

SENTO TOMAS,MANILA,P.I.,FEB.6-(AP)-THAT HALLMARK OF AMERICA--GOOD PLUMBING--DISTINGUISHED THIS WAR PRISON DURING THE THREE MISERABLE YEARS ABOUT 3700 INTERNEES LIVED IN IT.

THE INMATES WERE ABLE TO GET MATERIALS EARLY. FROM THEN ON IT WAS A CONSTANT STRUGGLE AS EQUIPMENT DETERIORATED AND NEW MATERIAL WAS DENIED THEM. BUT THE AMERICANS KEPT THEIR CHERISHED PLUMBING SYSTEM WORKING. TOILETS WORKED, SHOWERS WERE AVAILABLE AND THERE WAS HOT WATER.

THIS, COUPLED WITH A CAREFULLY ORGANIZED GARBAGE DISPOSAL, HELPED IN THE FIGHT AGAINST EPIDEMICS.

MOST INTERNEES LIVED AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE IN NIPA THATCHED SHANTIES BUILT ON SANTO TOMAS CAMPUS. THEY WERE OCCASIONALLY FLOODED OUT BUT ALWAYS PATIENTLY REBUILT.

WHEN TOBACCO PRACTICALLY DISAPPEARED SOME INTERNEES FOUND HIBISCUS LEAVES NOT TOO BAD A SUBSTITUTE. THESE LEAVES BOILED MAKE A KIND OF SOUP TO AUGMENT THEIR SCANTY RATIONS.

AMERICAN INGENUITY ALSO WAS REFECTED IN THE FACT THAT TYPEWRITERS IN THE BUILDINGS WERE IN GOOD OPERATING CONDITION.

THE INTERNEES SPENT MOST OF THE SECOND DAY AFTER LIBERATION READING RED CROSS MAIL AND EXCHANGING NEWS FROM HOME.

(WX) SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AN EXPLORER AND TWO NEWSPAPERMEN FOUND A JAPANESE MIDGET SUBMARINE TODAY THAT STRUCK A REEF AND EXPLODED AS IT WAS ATTEMPTING TO REACH A HARBOR WHERE A HUGE U.S.FLEET WAS ANCHORED.

THE ATTEMPTED ATTACK OCCURRED AT DAWN OF A CLEAR DAY. THE SUBMARINE APPARENTLY WAS ATTEMPTING TO SNEAK ALONGSIDE THE CORAL REEF FOR PROTECTITN WHEN IT STRUCK A PROJECTING CORAL SPIRE.

"THE PILOT WAS TRYING TO FIND A HOLE IN THE HARBOR DEFENSES THROUGH WHICH TO SLIP A TORPEDO RIGHT STEER," SAID LT.COMDR.IRVING JOHNSON, FAMED EXPLORER, WHO WITH THE TWO NEWSPAPERMEN LOCATED THE WRECKAGE.

"UNDOUBTEDLY WHEN HE STRUCK THE REEF, ACCIDENTALLY, HE SET OFF TWO TORPEDOES AND THE DETONATING CHARGE, BY WHICH SUBMARINES CAN BE DESTROYED TO PREVENT THEM FROM FALLING INTO AMERICAN HANDS."

THE EXPLOSITN BROKE THE SUBMARINE IN TWO PARTS BUT THE FORE PART WAS BLOWN TO BITS AND WAS SCATTERED OVER A WIDE AREA OF THE OCEAN FLOOR.

COMMANDER JOHNSON, LT.RUSSELL ANDERSON, A NAVY PUBLIC RELATITNS OFFICER WHO FORMERLY WAS A WRITER FOR AMERICAN WEEKLY, AND I FOUND THE AFT SECTITN IN ONE PIECE.

FEB 7 1945

USING DIVING GLASSES, WE FOUND A LONG PIECE OF HOSE FROM THE BODY OF THE SUBMARINE PILOT, ABOUT 100 FEET FROM THE WRECKAGE. IT WAS THE ONLY PIECE OF HIM THAT WE COULD LOCATE.

THE AFT PORTITN OF THE SUBMARINE CONSISTED OF A CYLINDER ABOUT THREE FEET IN DIAMETER WHICH UNDOUBTEDLY CONTAINED THE ENGINE. THROUGHOUT THE LENGTH OF THE WRECK WERE TINY SCREENED INTAKES THAT PROBABLY LED TO SMALL BALANCING TANKS BY WHICH THE SUBMARINE REGULATED ITS DEPTH. IT ALSO WAS COVERED BY A NIGHTMARISH MAZE OF COPPER TUBES, RUNNING ALONG THE OUTSIDE OF THE CRAFT, CARRYING OIL AND WATER.

IT UNDOUBTEDLY WAS DESIGNED ONLY FOR SHORT, SUICIDAL RUNS FROM THE "MOTHER" SHIP.

UNLIKE THE MIDGET SUBS THAT STRUCK AT PEARL HARBOR AND CARRIED TWO MEN CREWS, THIS ONE APPEARED LARGE ENOUGH FOR ONLY ONE MAN.

WE SIGHTED THE WRECK AFTER STARTING OUT IN A TUG FOR A SHORT OCEAN RUN TO COVER THIS "NEWS BEAT" AMONG MID-PACIFIC ISLANDS.

ASKED ABOUT COMMERCIAL CONSUMERS OF MANILA ELECTRIC, TEGEN SAID THE NATIONAL CITY BANK IS READY TO SEND ITS REPRESENTATIVES TO MANILA AS ARE THE GOLD MINING INTERESTS.

"THE GENUINE SPIRIT OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE TO GET IN THERE AND REESTABLISH THE ECONOMY IS IN APPRECIATION OF THEIR TREATMENT OF THE FILIPINOS," TEGEN SAID.

IN DESCRIBING HIS KNOWLEDGE OF THE PRESENT STATE OF THE MANILA PROPERTIES, TEGEN SAID ALL EMPLOYES HAD BEEN MADE PRISONERS OF WAR AND ONLY ONE -- EWALD SELPH, COUNSEL FOR MANILA ELECTRIC -- HAS BEEN REPATRIATED.

"WE ARE AT THE POINT WHERE AS DIRECTORS OF A GOING CONCERN WE ARE GOING TO BE CALLED ON TO MAKE DECISIONS AS TO SUPPLYING TECHNICAL SKILLS AND MONEY," TEGEN SAID. "IT IS OUR VIEW THAT IT WILL BE NEXT TO IMPOSSIBLE TO MAKE THESE DECISIONS SOUNDLY AS LONG AS A DIVESTMENT ORDER IS OUTSTANDING."

TEGEN SAID HIS COMPANY IS "IN AN EXCELLENT FINANCIAL CONDITION" AND "CONSIDERS IT AN OBLIGATION X X XTO TAKE AN ACTIVE PART IN HELPING THE LOCAL MANAGEMENT TO REHABILITATE ITS PROPERTIES."

THE FINANCING COULD BE DOWN PREFERABLY BY MAKING ADVANCES ON 10-YEAR NOTES, TEGEN SAID.

CAMP ROBETS, CALIF., FEB. 6---I HAVE INTERVIEWED PRIVATE

HENRY P. WEBER, 27-YEAR-OLD FORMER VANCOUVER, WASH., SHIPYARD FOREMAN, WHO IS UNDER A COURT MARTIAL SENTENCE OF DEATH FOR REFUSING TO DRILL AT THIS ARMY CAMP.

I WENT TO THE CAMP FOR THE EXPRESS PURPOSE OF OBTAINING PICTURES OF THIS CONDEMNED SOLDIER, BUT AT THE LAST MOMENT HE REFUSED TO PERMIT HIS PICTURE TO BE TAKEN UNLESS HE WAS GRANTED THE PRIVILEGE OF MAKING A STATEMENT TO THE PRESS. THIS PRIVILEGE WAS GRANTED BY THE CAMP AUTHORITIES.

THE FIRST STATEMENT WEBER MADE SURPRISED ME.

HE SAID: "I HAVE A REVOLUTIONARY MIND. WARS ARE CAUSED BY THE SOCIETY IN WHICH WE NOW LIVE, AND WHICH CANNOT PREVENT A THIRD WORLD WAR."

I ASKED WEBER ON TWO OCCASIONS IF HE DIDN'T FEEL THAT HE HAD CHOSEN THE WRONG WAY TO EXPRESS HIMSELF AND HIS IDEAS AND TO PUT HIS FEELINGS IN AN UNDERSTANDABLE WAY.

FEB 7 1945

TO THIS HE HAD NO ANSWER.

HE DID CONTINUE, HOWEVER, AND SAID: "I AM INTERESTED IN A WORLD IN WHICH ALL MEN CAN LIVE PEACEABLY. TO BE A GOOD SOLDIER YOU HAVE TO LEARN TO HATE AND TO KILL. I AM WILLING TO DO ANYTHING I CAN TO GET THE WAR OVER, AS LONG AS I DO NOT HAVE TO KILL OTHER PEOPLE."

RIGHT AFTER THAT STATEMENT, I ASKED WEBER IF THAT DID NOT MAKE HIM A CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR.

"I SUPPOSE SO," HE REPLIED.

FEB 7 1945

"ONE OF THE REASONS HE GAVE FOR REFUSING TO OBEY ORDERS AND DRILL WAS : "WITH MY REVOLUTIONARY MIND, TALKING WITH OTHER MEN IN THE ARMY WOULD ONLY DISRUPT THE ORGANIZATION AS THEY WOULD BE INCLINED TO MY IDEAS."

WEBER WAS ASKED IF HE DID REFUSE TO DRILL IN ORDER TO GET OUT OF THE ARMY.

HE REPLIED: "NO. I ASKED FOR A TRANSFER TO NON-COMBATANT DUTY THREE OR FOUR DAYS BEFORE THE INCIDENT FOR WHICH I WAS COURT MARTIALLED OCCURRED, BUT THAT WAS NOT GRANTED.

HE CONTINUED: "THE MEN AT THE CAMP KNOW OF MY FEELINGS IN THE MATTER BECAUSE I WAS COURT MARTIALLED FOR A SIMILAR OFFENSE SOME TIME PREVIOUSLY AND WAS SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS AT HARD LABOR."

HE FURTHER ADDED: "I WAS A FOREMAN IN A SHIPYARD IN PEACETIME (VANCOUVER, WASH.,) AND AM USED TO ASSOCIATING AND WORKING WITH MEN. I AM A MEMBER OF THE SOCIALIST-LABOR PARTY WHICH AIMS AT PEACEFUL REVOLUTION. WITH A REVOLUTIONARY MIND, YOU LOSE YOUR PLACE IN THE NEW SOCIETY AND WITH NO CHANCE TO HELP IN MAKING THE NEW SOCIETY IF YOU HATE AND KILL."

WITH THE INTERVIEW ENDED, WE SHOOK HANDS, AND WEBER TURNED AWAY, WITH NO SHOW OF EMOTION OR APPEARANCE OF CONCERN.

PARRAN WOULD DRAFT NURSES

Some for Military, Others for Civilian Service.

FEB 7 1945

Washington, Feb. 6 (A. P.).—The enactment of Selective Service legislation to provide nurses for military and civilian needs was advocated today by Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the Public Health Service.

Testifying before the House Military Committee on a nurse-draft bill, Dr. Parran said that nurses "who are not selected for military duty should be required at least to utilize their skills in the tasks which will contribute best to safeguarding the nation's health."

The Selective Service principle he advocated would apply to all graduate nurses not over 45 years of age.

"The major civilian health problems are still ahead of us," he said. "We shall see the cumulative effects of fatigue, long hours of work, worry, anxiety, and grief. In other words, there is bound to be a lower level of civilian health and greater susceptibility to disease. We have been fortunate up to now in not having had any serious epidemics. It is well within the realm of poscsibility that we may have a repetition of the 1918 influenza pandemic before this war is over."

Sees Much Luxury Nursing.

Dr. Parran said he believed it would be "unfair to the nurses selected for military service to allow their classmates to stay at home in non-essential positions."

"We still have too much luxury nursing service," he added. "I know of rich families who insist upon and secure a nurse on each of three shifts a day to care for illness which is not serious, while, in the same hospital, ward patients are suffering for the lack of nursing care.

"Some families are utilizing the skill of a graduate nurse for the constant care of their children. Private duty nursing often is more profitable than more essential nursing positions."

In recommending the selective service principle for nursing, Dr. Parran said he assumed that commissions would be given to nurses selected for service.

Big Three Are Holding Conference Somewhere Near Black Sea Shore

Report That Joint Plans Are Being Made for Control of Germany and for Peace Organization.

FEB 8 1945

Washington, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin, meeting in the Black Sea area, have reached "complete agreement" on joint military operations for the windup of the war against Germany.

This was announced today in Washington, London and Moscow simultaneously.

"Discussions of problems involved in establishing a secure peace have also begun," said the release issued here by the White House.

The first official disclosure made of the gathering of the Big Three listed these political questions now under consideration:

1. "Joint plans for the occupation and control of Germany."

2. "Political and economic problems of liberated Europe."

3. "Proposals for the earliest possible establishment of a permanent international organization to maintain peace."

Later Communique Promised.

The statement promised a communique at the conclusion of the conference.

There was no designation of the place of the historic gathering nor was there any indication of how long the conference would last.

But the fact that at this point a detailed declaration of subjects under discussion should be made indicated strong hopes among the conferees for a high degree of success.

Their purpose, the formal announcement said, "is to concert plans for completing the defeat of the common enemy and for building, with their allies, firm foundations for a lasting peace. Meetings are proceeding continuously."

It was stated that the three chiefs of state are accompanied by their foreign secretaries, their chiefs of staff and other advisers.

It was known ahead of time that Secretary of State Stettinius, Admiral William D. Leahy, presidential chief of staff, and Harry Hopkins were with Mr. Roosevelt. His other advisers included War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, a member of his official family.

FEB 8 1945

White House Statement.

The text of the White House announcement on the Big Three conference follows:

The President of the United States of America, the Premier of the Soviet Union and the Prime Minister of Great Britain, accompanied by their chiefs of staff, the three foreign secretaries and other advisers, are now meeting in the Black Sea area.

Their purpose is to concert plans for completing the defeat of the common enemy and for building, with their Allies, firm foundations for a lasting peace. Meetings are proceeding continuously.

The conference began with military discussions. The present situation on all the European fronts has been reviewed and the fullest information interchanged.

There is complete agreement for joint military operations in the final phase of the war against Nazi Germany. The military staffs of the three governments are now engaged in working out jointly the detailed plans.

Discussions of problems involved in establishing a secure peace have also begun. These discussions will cover joint plans for the occupation and control of Germany, the political and economic problems of liberated Europe and proposals for the earliest possible establishment of a permanent international organization to maintain peace.

A communique will be issued at the conclusion of the conference.

Marshall May Be There.

The announcement's reference to the presence of chiefs of staff indicated that Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, Navy chief, also were participating in the talks.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces, is not among those present, however. He was disclosed today to have gone to a convalescent hospital to recuperate from overwork.

While that part of the Black Sea arena in which the Big Three are meeting was not described, there has been speculation here for some time that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill would probably go to a Russian place because that would allow Premier Stalin to continue his personal direction of the great Red Army offensive on the eastern front.

Nevertheless, it must be remembered that Romania, Bulgaria, and Turkey also are on the Black Sea.

LEADERS TALKING OVER HOPES FOR A 'SECURE PEACE'

Military Plans for Sledge Hammer Blows Are Completed at Conference.

IN BLACK SEA AREA

Proposals for International Peace Force Believed Under Debate.

FEB 8 1945

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP) The "Big Three," in secret, historic session in the Black Sea area, have agreed to aim coordinated, knockout punches at fast-weakening Germany, and are now discussing a "secure peace."

This was disclosed late today in an official announcement that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin are in session with their highest diplomatic and military advisers.

The tone of the pronouncement indicated that they have substantial hope for achieving real Anglo-American-Russian cooperation for the future of Europe and the world.

A three-power statement issued in Washington, Moscow and London at 4:30 p. m., EWT, gave the first official word of the meeting which practically the whole world knew was taking place. The statement showed that the military phase of the talks has ended and the critical political discussions have begun.

Three overall political subjects were listed in the official report, released by the White House here:

1. Joint plans "for the occupation and control of Germany." The Big Three have long since agreed on unconditional surrender and on plans for the initial stage of military occupation the problem now is how to keep Germany weak and unable to start a new World War for many years.

2. The "political and economic problems of liberated Europe." Every liberated country in Europe now has a shortage of some kind of essential civilian supplies and all of them are real or potential powder barrels politically. Hottest spots are in the Balkans where British and Russian influences and interests conflict.

3. Proposals for the "earliest possible establishment of a permanent international organization to maintain peace." The main problem here has been the conflict between Russia and the United States over the question of a great power veto in the world security council. The British have been seeking a compromise and are expected to get it. A major question also is that of mandated territories such as the strategic islands formerly held by Japan in the central Pacific.

Seek Lasting Peace

The purpose of the Big Three is "to concert plans for completing the defeat of the common enemy and for building, with their Allies, firm foundations for a lasting peace," the official announcement said.

It promised that at the conclusion of the conference a communique will be issued. Possibly it also will be released simultaneously in the three capitals.

The "Black sea area" in which the historic conference is occurring covers the shores of three nations —Russia, Romania, and Bulgaria. It includes the Crimea, Russia's famous and beautiful resort area. But there are many other famous places to which the Big Three might have gone, ranging from Stalingrad, which is inland on the Don river, to Constanta in Romania on the western shores of the Black sea, and Batum in the Caucasus on the eastern shores.

The list of those accompanying Mr. Roosevelt on this long journey, though not as great as his 1943 visit to Teheran, was only partially indicated in the text of the announcement. That said the President, the Premier and the Prime minister were accompanied by their chiefs of staff and their foreign secretaries and other advisers.

The other advisers are understood to include Harry Hopkins and War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes, the former senator and Supreme court justice whose presence at the meeting presumably is intended to strengthen the President's reports about it to the senate upon his return.

The chiefs of staff include Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's personal chief of staff, General George C. Marshall of the army and Admiral Ernest J. King of the navy.

The formal announcement, being only a midway report, left many questions unanswered but seemed to suggest the answers to many speculations that have been raging in London, Washington and other world capitals from the time it became known more than two weeks ago that the historic conference was imminent.

To Appease DeGaulle

It seemed entirely possible that general Charles DeGaulle might be asked to participate in discussions having to do with plans for the control of Germany. DeGaulle has assailed the failure to include France in international talks on the future of Europe.

The statement made it entirely clear that the political discussions were just getting under way at the time it was dispatched and that left open the possibility of a call to the French leader.

Another point which has been speculated upon is the need for closest kind of cooperation between the Anglo-American armies advancing into Germany in the west and the Russian armies invading from the east. The announced "complete agreement for joint military operations" was immediately interpreted to mean that machinery for the cooperation had been achieved.

This interpretation was supported by the statement that "the military staffs of the three governments are now engaged in working out jointly the detailed plan."

Notably missing from the military paragraph of this statement was any ultimatum to the Germans to surrender.

The emphasis was on continuing military pressure until Nazi Germany is completely crushed. There was no use of the phrase "unconditional surrender," but all the United Nations are pledged to that objective.

In the political field the greatest problem before the Big Three is to work out a system of boundaries and settlements of centuries-old European problems which will at once satisfy the security demands of the great powers and yet not transgress on vital rights of the small nations. Otherwise, there is little hope among diplomatic officials here for the accomplishment of what the statement called "firm foundations for a lasting peace."

One of the main concerns of Britain and Russia has been whether the United States would participate in a world organization which would help guarantee the security of all nations or whether those two rival European powers would be thrown upon their own resources for the future. A complicating fact also is the long history of distrust between Russian communism and Anglo-American capitalism.

American diplomacy from the earliest days of the war has linked the problem of a permanent peace organization to the issue of political settlements in Europe. Roosevelt entered this conference with greater evidence than any president has ever had before that this time the United States intends to join an organization. This was regarded by his advisers as greatly strengthening his insistence on Atlantic Charter principles in handling specific European issues such as the problems of Poland and the Balkans.

The long range control of Germany is generally accepted to be a separate undertaking, at least in the early postwar years. Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) has proposed that the Allied powers should end any concern among them over this problem by combining now in a treaty to keep Germany and eventually Japan under strict control.

There was no reference in the statement to the possibility of Soviet participation in the war against Japan. Yet that possibility was not barred and it is not the sort of thing which would have been reported on, even though some decision may already have been reached.

White House Announcement

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The text of the White House announcement today that the Big Three are now meeting in the Black Sea area:

The President of the United States of America, the Premier of the Soviet Union and the Prime Minister of Great Britain, accompanied by their chiefs of staff, the three foreign secretaries and other advisers, are now meeting in the Black Sea area.

Their purpose is to concert plans for completing the defeat of the common enemy and for building, with their allies, firm foundations for a lasting peace. Meetings are proceeding continuously.

The conference began with military discussions. The present situation on all the European fronts has been reviewed and the fullest information interchanged.

There is complete agreement for joint military operations in the final phase of the war against Nazi Germany. The military staffs of the three governments are now engaged in working out jointly the detailed plans.

Discussions of problems involved in establishing a secure peace have also begun. These discussions will cover joint plans for the occupation and control of Germany, the political and economic problems of liberated Europe and proposals for the earliest possible establishment of a permanent international organization to maintain peace.

A communiqué will be issued at the conclusion of the conference.

News Of Big-3 Parley Read To Congressmen

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Representative Woodrum (D., Va.) read the White House announcement of a big-three conference to the House of Representatives a few minutes after it became public.

Less than a score of members were on the floor at the time. They applauded briefly as Woodrum, concluding the White House statement, said:

"I am sure this information will be received by the people of America with great satisfaction. The prayers of all people will follow the debates and conclusions of this conference."

Representative Rogers (R., Mass.) told the House she hoped President Roosevelt would bring about the inclusion of France in future meetings and expand the "big three" to a "big four."

Churchill Aides Killed In Crash

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Ten passengers, including six members of the British foreign office, were killed when a plane carrying some of Prime Minister Churchill's aides crashed while en route to the Big Three conference.

Five passengers were listed as missing and presumed killed, and five others were injured.

Foreign Office personnel killed were: Peter Noel Loxley, Armine Roderick Dew and John Chaplin, all first secretaries; Robert MacDonald Guthrie; Detective Sergeant H. J. Battley, and a woman typist, Miss P. M. Sullivan.

War Office personnel killed were Lieut. Col. W. G. Newey, Capt. A. K. Charlesworth and an Air Ministry group captain, P. S. Jackson-Taylor. Lieut. Col. I. S. H. Hooper, of the War Office staff, died later.

Those missing and believed killed were Capt. W. H. Finch, of the War Office, and four crew members.

FATEFUL HOUR

HELD AT HAND

British Papers Comment On Big Three Meeting

London, Feb. 7 (AP) — British newspapers headlined the official announcement of the "Big Three" conference tonight and edtorialized that the fateful hour for Germany and the Allies was at hand.

A News-Chronicle editorial said "The war is moving to a climax with ever-mounting speed," adding, "we may reasonably hope that before teh trees are in leaf again the Third Reich will be a thing of the past."

Urging that German hints for peace terms be unheeded, the Daily Express asked: "Do you believe we want a third World War? That on the eve of victory after five and a half years of fighting we are going to give them a streamlined peace? So they can start all over again? Not this time."

Present Methods Assailed

The Daily Herald, describing the current meeting of Allied leaders as the "most fateful" one, said: "We believe if they face the facts they will resolve that steps must be taken immediately to found a world authority, a new League of Nations, so that planning for post-war co-operation will be speeded up. Present slow and uneasy methods cannot continue."

The herald editorial also called for the "downfall of Hitler and the unconditional surrender of his dupes and accomplices."

After the Allied announcement was made of the Big Three meeting and its military agreement for the final defeat of Germany, the Berlin radio broadcast a "Washington" dispatch reporting an "interim communiqué" on the conference.

'Plans For Germany'

"The White House announces that the conference had begun with military discussions," the radio quoted the Transocean News Agency, "and that it later had been extended to peace problems and plans for Germany.

"Further political and economic problems are——" (and here the dispatch was broken off with call signals). When transmission was started again there was a discussion of American and British propaganda methods.

Later the radio took up the conference again, saying "the communiqué confirms that the meeting is taking place in the Black Sea region and implies that the conference hos nat finished yet."

Seek France in Conference

LONDON, Feb. 7 — (AP) Prime Minister Churchill is expected to urge the "Big Three" conference, now in session in the Black Sea area, to postpone settlement of Europe's frontiers until France can be included in the deliberations.

The announcement tonight that Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin had turned to wide-range political discussions after reaching complete agreement on military operations against Germany made no mention of the frontier problem.

A few hours before official disclosure that the conference is in progress, Minister of State Richard Law told the House of Commons that Britain believed the question of new European boundaries "must be decided later by all powers together."

In Washington Acting Secretary of State Joseph Grew reaffirmed the United States' "full realization of France's vital interest in the solution of the German problem and the part which France will inevitably play in maintaining the future peace."

FEB 8 1945

With French feeling running high at the apparent exclusion of Gen. de Gaulle from the meeting of President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, Richard Law, British Minister of State, told the House of Commons that Britain believed the reshaping of European frontiers "must be decided later by all the powers together."

This statement was interpreted to mean the Big Three might agree to leave the final shaping of Europe's frontiers until later. The fact that Law made the statement in the House of Commons, where he is substituting for Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, led most observers to believe the Prime Minister might have gone to the parley with a hope of persuading Roosevelt and Stalin to leave the frontier problems over until France could be represented.

Although the Big Three entered the meeting more or less agreed on most frontier problems, especially those concerning the lopping off of German territory, the biggest issue remained Poland's future borders.

Russia's extension of her frontier westward at the expense of Poland was expected to be discussed thoroughly.

SOVIETS CONTROL NEW BRIDGEHEADS

Seven Crossings Now In Russian Hands Nazi Sources State.

BITTER FIGHTING

Reds Expand Gains in Silesia, Capture 50 Additional Towns.

LONDON, Thursday, Feb. 8—(AP) Soviet troops, with seven bridgeheads over the Oder river a little more than 30 miles east and northeast of Berlin, have begun the main battle for the Nazi capital, German broadcasts indicated last night.

The Germans said the latest of the series of crossings in this key sector on the shortest route to Berlin, none of which has been confirmed by Moscow, was established south of the fortress city of Kuestrin yesterday, and from it the Soviets began shelling the Berlin-Kuestrin railroad.

The nightly Soviet communique broadcast from Moscow reported only that Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army was mopping up the Germans east of the Oder and had captured nine towns, north and south of Kuestrin, including Guestebese, on the river's east bank 33 miles northeast of Berlin; Zaekerick, little less than five miles farther northwest, and Kunersdorf, three miles east of Frankfurt, scene of the great German defeat by the Russians in 1759.

Reports Unofficial

Russian reports that Zhukov's forces were west of the Oder were unofficial. A broadcast from Moscow quoting the Red army newspaper Red Star said "Fighting is going on in the fortified forefield of Berlin."

The communique supplement broadcast early today described bloody battles as the enemy, "heedless of his losses, has been trying to keep some bridgeheads on the eastern bank of the Oder."

"In the course of the day (in the Kuestrin-Frankfurt sector), the enemy lost some 5,000 officers and men in killed alone," the supplement added.

Extending their 50-mile wide bridgehead in Silesia, where more than 50 towns were captured yesterday, the supplement said the Russians captured 19 tanks, 62 field guns, 1,000 trucks and many war material dumps in Brieg, taken Tuesday.

It also told of the capture of an order of the day issued by a Col. Gen. Reinhardt, exhorting the German troops of the central Eastern front to "Fight for every square meter of our soil" and to enter the year 1945 "With our heads raised proudly and with firm hope for victory."

"Once again life played a cruel joke on the Fascist generals," the Moscow supplement observed. "Hundreds of thousands of Hitlerites to whom General Reinhardt appealed quite recently are littering the vast battlefields. These mountains of German corpses speak more eloquently than any words of the extent of the tremendous defeat suffered by the German forces on the Soviet-German front at the beginning of 1945."

15,460 Prisoners

The regular communique announced that more than 15,460 Germans had been taken prisoner on the eastern front Monday and Tuesday and named eight generals of the Wehrmacht who had been killed between Jan. 11 and Feb. 4 and five generals and four top-ranking colonels who had been captured in the same period. Two of these officers were identified as commanders of army corps and 11 were named as commanders of divisions.

Further advances in East Prussia and in besieged Budapest were reported also by the Russian command.

Tuesday's communique from the German high command stated without elaboration that the Russians had been "able to widen a little" their bridgeheads both in Silesia and near Kuestrin.

German military commentators also turned their attention once more to Zhukov's right wing in Pomerania, announcing that Pyritz, 22 miles southwest of the Baltic port of Stettin, had been lost to the Soviets and then regained, while Russian pressure continued on a 90-mile front extending eastward from Schwedt, 33 miles south of Stettin, through Pyritz, Arnswalde and Deutsch Krone.

Moscow was withholding news of this front even before it imposed silence on Zhukov's operations in the Kuestrin - Frankfurt sector Tuesday.

Clear Oder Valley

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's Ukraine army in Silesia left the Oder farther behind in its new offensive, which dispatches from Moscow said appeared to be aimed at clearing the valley of the upper Oder as far west as the Sudeten mountain passes.

"This Russian drive seems to be aimed straight west," the German radio commented, "probably against the industrial area of Schweidnitz and Wuenschelburg."

Schweidenitz is 42 miles west of Brieg and Wuenschelburg is 23.

There were no fresh German reports of the Soviet bridgehead in the area of Steinau, which the Nazis announced they had evacuated Tuesday. This still had not been confirmed by the Russians, but it was possible that a Soviet force north of besieged Breslau might link up with forces southeast of the Silesian capital even before that city is captured.

Enemy accounts of fighting in the fraction of East Prussia which remains to its German defenders described a hard, swaying battle in which closely-besieged Koenigsberg, the capital, remained the main prize.

The sieges of Schneidemuehl in Pomerania, Elbing in East Prussia, Poznan in Poland, and Budapest, the ruined capital of Hungary, all continued, the German communique claiming all Russian efforts to wipe out their garrisons had been repulsed.

Reds Gain New Bridgehead On Oder

FEB 8 1945

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—A German military spokesman declared today the Russians had set up a new bridgehead over the Oder River south of Kuestrin and expanded another foothold above Kuestrin and within about 35 miles of Berlin.

The Berlin-Kuestrin railroad is under Soviet artillery fire, enemy broadcasts said. Russian gains in the trans-Oder breach in Silesia were acknowledged and Berlin said the Red Army had won and then lost Pyritz, 24 miles southeast of Stettin, a push aimed at the Baltic coast.

Called Small

The new bridgehead across the central Oder on the shortest route to Berlin was the seventh reported by the Germans. The broadcast termed it a small one, but said "it enables the Russians to shell the railroad leading from the west to the fortress of Kuestrin with their heavy artillery."

The Germans said twelve Soviet tanks had smashed "temporarily" into the center of Kuestrin itself, 40 miles from Berlin.

The Soviets are assaulting heavily "along the entire East front from Slovakia to East Prussia," the Germans said.

Hints Of Crossing

In an NBC broadcast over Moscow radio, Robert Magidoff was permitted to hint strongly that Zhukov had crossed the Oder and was fighting on the approaches to Berlin.

After describing difficulties overcome in forcing the Oder in Silesia, he said: "Some of these scenes will come to light as soon as the story of Zhukov's crossing of the Oder can be told. As it is, all I can say now is to cite the words of Red Star—'Fighting is going on in the fortified forefield of Berlin.'"

Moscow dispatches said Soviet reconnaissance flights over Berlin disclosed the entire eastern part of the capital appeared to be deserted and desolated.

12 Miles Beyond Oder

In Silesia Marshal Ivan Konev's 1st Ukrainian Army had breached the Oder on a 50-mile front and plunged 12½ miles beyond the stream in a drive menacing Berlin from the flank and the Berlin-Prague defense axis.

The Germans have reported numerous crossings of the Oder in the Kuestrin-Frankfurt area east of Berlin and farther southeast at Steinau, 32 miles northwest of Breslau. Konev's breakthrough was southeast of Breslau.

Close To Nazi Routes

Konev's flying columns, sweeping west of the upper Oder, fought close to the enemy's remaining railroad and highway routes along the Silesian side of the old German-Czechoslovak border. Other units pressed toward the rail junction of Liegnitz on the way to Saxony.

Konev was 150 miles from Dresden, and a push westward toward central Germany would imperil German plans for a stand in southern Germany and Bohemia after Berlin is lost. His troops in this broad crossing of the Oder were 180 miles southeast of Berlin.

East Prussia Situation

Front dispatches to Moscow said fighting east of Berlin had increased in tempo and that Red infantry had to push through a thick web of barbed-wire entanglements and a series of trenches covered by fire from portable, steel-turreted pillboxes sunk in the earth.

The Germans declared Soviet blows in East Prussia were checked with the help of naval bombardment.

Konev, who also had been the first to force the Dnepr, Bug and Vistula rivers, was hampered by mud and slush from a thaw.

In thrusting beyond the Oder in Silesia, the Russian forces were astride a superhighway running almost in a bee-line to Berlin, about 180 miles to the northwest.

In addition to posing an outflanking threat to Berlin, the Russian troops there were in position for a possible drive to the Dresden area, 160 miles to the west, across lines of communication to German troops in Hungary, Yugoslavia and Italy.

Combining propaganda with the military achievements of the westward-marching Russian armies, the Moscow radio urged the German people to revolt because "no miracle can save Berlin any more." The Germans themselves took a gloomy view in their broadcasts.

Crossing Difficult

A supplement to the Moscow midnight communiqué said the crossing was achieved only under "enormous difficulties," the river at that point being approximately 550 yards wide and frozen only at the edges.

From the bridgehead, Konev's tanks and motorized infantry were in position to cut in behind Breslau, capital of Lower Silesia. Its fall appeared only a matter of a few days. His forces already are besieging the city frontally and, by German account, are poised on the river to the northwest.

Konev's army already has cut a rail line leading to the German forces in eastern Czechoslovakia and was driving toward others in middle and western Silesia.

Aside from announcing that Marshal Konev's troops were steadily expanding the Silesian bridgehead, the latest official Moscow reports disclosed only minor advances in East Prussia and further progress in cleaning out the isolated Nazi garrison in Budapest.

Exodus From Berlin Is On.

Moscow, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—A gigantic flight of civilians from Berlin along roads to the southwest was described today by a Russian aerial photographer after a low-level hop over the Reich capital.

"Cars, carts and pedestrians moving in three lanes jammed all southwestern highways out of Berlin," said Lieut. Matvei Pinchuk, the photographer. "Here and there traffic jams had occurred. It was a contrast to the eastern section of the city, where streets appeared deserted. Only in the factory district on the west side did I observe smoke issuing from big chimneys."

Financial Confusion In Reich Suspected

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—The British Press Association said today that "one of the most significant proofs of the chaos that is developing inside Germany is that German bank notes are no longer printed on watermarked paper."

"This information," the agency said, "has been received officially in London and is regarded as of greatest importance as the watermark is vital to safeguard against forgery. Its absence must lead to growing financial confusion and instability."

Patton Invades Reich Anew On 22-Mile Front

FEB 8 1945

Paris, Feb. 7 (AP)—Gains of up to a mile were registered against the generally strong Our River positions of the enemy today at ten new river crossings into Germany.

Paris, Feb. 7 (AP)—Third Army shock troops crossed the flooded Sure and Our rivers into Germany on a 22-mile front today and fought half a mile into the Siegfried Line in a broad extension of the American drive toward the Rhine.

Parts of four divisions stormed across the Luxembourg frontier by boat and bridge at seven places between Echternach and a point five miles north of Clervaux. Small arms fire but little artillery opposed them.

The new attacks put the Allied line on or across the Reich's frontier all the 160 miles from the Dutch border to near the industrial city of Saarbruecken, now largely shelled from Allied bomb and artillery attack.

Masebenden Captured

North of the 3d Army, Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' 1st Army captured Masebenden, a suburb of Gemuend; besieged Schleiden; and advanced within 500 yards of the bloody village of Schmidt, north of the five Roer River dams controlling levels on that barrier stream.

All three villages were at the eastern extremity of the second Siegfried Line belt of fixed fortifications. Beyond, the Germans have dug trenches, thrown up earthworks, fortified villages and converted farmhouses into forts.

The 1st Army made slow, slithering progress to the dams because driving rains were rapidly washing snow from the hilly battlefront. Two of the dams have been captured.

78th Closing On Schmidt

The 78th Lightning Division got within 500 yards of Schmidt and also entered Kommerscheidt, 1,000 yards northwest. In three days the 78th alone has seized 159 Siegfried Line pillboxes. The 9th Division entered the Gemuend suburb and the 2d Division cleaned out Hellenthal three miles south of Schleiden.

The 1st Army was within two miles of two of the German-held Roer headwater dams which control the flood level on the whole river, along which the American 9th and British 2d armies were bivouacked in possible jumpoff positions.

For the first time since the Russian winter offensive broke through German defenses in the East, the Allied forces in the West appeared to have gathered strength into a mounting offensive that would take advantage of frantic German troop shifts.

YANKS PREPARING DRIVE TO SMASH NAZI'S WESTWALL

Third Army Again Punctures Permanent Siegfried Line Defense.

BATTLE IN STORM

Section Threatened with Outflanking Movement as Americans Advance.

PARIS, Feb. 7.—(AP) The U. S. Third Army thrust elements of four divisions across the Our and Sure rivers into Germany from Luxembourg at ten places on a 24-mile front today as the U. S. First Army burst through the last main zone of the Siegfried Line defenses in the Olef river sector near Schleiden.

This gave the Allies their second puncture of the permanent Siegfried Line defenses in the central sector of the Western front.

At the same time the Third Army forces already in Germany exploited the breach they had made in the Siegfried Line's permanent works east of St. Vith, making gains of a mile southeastward through the Schnee Eifel hills and taking Wascheid, three and one-half miles north of the strongpoint of Pruem.

These forces formed an arc around Pruem as close as three miles on the west down to seven miles away on the southwest with the capture of Hollnig.

Attack in Heavy Rain

First Army Doughboys, moving up in a heavy rain, cracked the Siegfried emplacements' innermost belt by capturing Hellenthal, two and one-half miles southwest of Schleiden and pouring across the Olef river.

There they left the main system of concrete barriers and pillboxes behind them and threatened to outflank the Schleiden-Gemund sector of the westwall.

Second Infantry division soldiers making the assault, reported that German civilians spread the alarm and awakened sleeping Nazi troops.

During the day the First Army also made gains north and southeast of the Roer river network of dams inside the Siegfried defenses east of Monschau, Germany, reached within 500 yards of the strongpoint of Schmidt and captured Malsbenden, a suburb of the Siegfried Line foundation town of Gemuend.

These two American armies under Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley thus were already through the Germans' most vaunted permanent defenses at two points besides the original 35-mile-wide Aachen gap, and standing at or inside the line's concrete emplacement zone for another ten miles.

The Allies appeared to be mounting an offensive to smash Germany's western defenses, which Hitler has weakened by troop shifts to the Eastern Front.

Today's thrust, made in fog and cold rain, put American troops up to or inside the German border on a solid 160-mile front from Roermond in the north to Saarbruecken in the south.

The Third army's divisions which made the river crossings into Germany were the Fifth infantry, the 17th Airborne, infantry of the Sixth armored, and the 80th infantry. Some of these divisions crossed at several different points along the two rivers forming the Luxembourg - Germany boundary and resistance varied greatly.

The 17th Airborne and the infantry of the Sixth armored, which made three crossings, encountered only light to moderate opposition and the enemy appeared to have been surprised by the pre-dawn thrusts.

To the north the 80th division took the town of Bettel, on the Sure river 4½ miles northeast of Diekirch, and crossed over against artillery and small arms fire which was sporadically heavy but never sustained

River Swollen by Flood

The river there was about 135 feet wide in contrast to its normal 50 to 60. Mud along both banks hampered operations.

The 80th made another crossing just northwest of the German town of Wallendorf against stronger artillery fire. In both crossings many assault boats were lost, but more were swept away in the swift current than to enemy fire.

The Fifth division, crossing the Sure in the Echternach-Bollendorf area, met the heaviest resistance and made the day's biggest penetration by the Third army, one mile.

Farther south another Third army division, the 94th, took the village of Sinz, 3½ miles inside Germany and 14 miles southeast of Luxembourg city.

German propagandists reiterated with urgent insistence their predictions that Gen. Eisenhower would strike soon with a full-scale offensive.

"He is now waiting only for more favorable weather because he wants to use airborne forces on the Arnhem and Nijmegen scale," said Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German radio military commentator.

Berlin's pointers - with - alarm chiefly eyed the Roer river front, predicting the British Second and the U. S. Ninth armies would strike there.

The German international information services said the Ninth army had laid down a violent artillery barrage on both sides of Dueren for three days.

On the Alsatian front in the south, U. S. Third division troops operating under the French First army command stormed and took the old Rhine river fortress city of Neufbreisach, taking more than 1,200 prisoners and clearing the Rhine bank for five miles south.

The day's biggest push, however, was by the U. S. Third army, which advanced up to one mile against stiff opposition from small arms fire by Germans in pillboxes and artillery farther back.

The new penetrations of German soil were made by crossing both the Our and Sure rivers, rain-swollen to widths up to 200 feet, making reinforcements of leading units difficult.

Use Luminous Tape

The attack began in rain and fog so thick that Doughboys followed luminous tape to the waters' edges.

The Fifth infantry division, against heavy resistance, speared across the Sure in the Echternach area, losing some of its rubber assault boats to enemy fire and submerged wire.

The Fifth division made the day's deepest penetration, one mile, and repulsed an armored counter-attack northeast of Echternach, front reports said.

The 80th Infantry division crossed the Sure southeast and northwest of Wallendorf to depths of a half-mile in considerable strength

Eisenhower Travels Victory Road, Confers with Patton

FEB 8 1945

By JULES B. GRAD
Stars and Stripes Staff Writer
Representing the combined American Press

WITH THE SUPREME COMMANDER IN BELGIUM, Feb. 7—(AP) Gen. Eisenhower yesterday sped eastward on a chewed-up ribbon of road the Germans once labeled "Der Weg Zum Sieg"—the road to victory.

Pounding over the same breakthrough route the Nazis used between Houffalize and Marche last December, the Supreme Commander's five-star sedan passed silent relics of perhaps the gravest—and costliest—battle of the Western front.

With Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, 12th Army group commander, "Ike" saw the gaping German artillery craters, smashed skeletons of C-47's and bomb-wrecked houses his troops used as last-ditch fortresses in the critical battle of the bulge.

The car whizzed by ugly mile-by-mile graveyards of mutilated Tiger and Sherman tanks, blasted ME-109's and Thunderbolts, charred Nazi troop carriers and burned-out U. S. six-by-sixes, upset Volkswagons and torn American jeeps.

Snow Shrouds Destruction

The stench of death was gone from the pocked fields nearby. All that remained was the clean smell of pine trees, but in countless places alongside the road snow mercifully shrouded gaunt shapes of enemy armor and twisted Yank command cars.

The narrow breakthrough road snaked through tiny Belgian villages—Bande, Raymont, Herbaimont—then widened into what was left of Bastogne.

Where once the air was shattered by the crack of mortars. And the boom of long toms, where once a one-star general had answered "Nuts" to a German demand for immediate surrender, all was quiet.

In the scarred barracks, the Supreme Commander met Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, Third army commander. As they talked quietly before a map, the only sound outside was the scraping of wooden cartwheels. Bastogne's evacuees were coming home.

Gen. Eisenhower's sedan turned north, sliced through the center of the bulge and into Houffalize, joining point of his First and Third armies a month ago.

Hours later, the Supreme Commander reached an advance headquarters. His face was relaxed, his smile genial.

"Der Weg Zum Sieg" was a road to victory, he believed. The Germans just forgot it had two directions.

German Civilian, 75, Holds Out 10 Minutes

With the 2d Infantry Division in Hellenthal, Germany, Feb. 7 (AP)—One of the defenders of this little town in the hills 3 miles southwest of Schleiden was a 75-year-old German civilian who fired a machine gun from a rooftop.

It took the attackers ten minutes to dispose of him and two days more to secure the town. The story of the old man was confirmed by the commander of one of the two battalions of the 38th Infantry Regiment who did the job, Lieut. Col. Olinto Barsanti, of Tonopak, Nev. It was verified also by other officers and enlisted men of his battalion.

"He was a mean old rascal," said Colonel Barsanti. "He kept struggling even after we captured him and finally somebody knocked him out with his fist."

G.I. Engineers Know Depth of Sure River

WITH U. S. 80th DIVISION on the Sure River front, Feb. 7—(AP) Almost knee deep in mud, Sgt. William Hmurciak of Lawrence, Mass., slogged wearily back through the heavy rain today after 16 hours of directing his engineer platoon ferrying infantrymen across the swollen Sure.

"That river was supposed to be about 50 feet wide and it was 135 and running like a millrace," said the soaked sergeant, "and it was about ten feet deep."

Cpl. Raymond Letellier of Biddeford, Me., quickly agreed with his sergeant and when asked how they knew how deep it was they replied almost in a chorus:

"We ought to know. We fell in often enough."

BRITISH BOMB KLEVE, GOCH

© CHAMBERLAIN

Towns Between Maas, Rhine Attacked; Mosquitos Out

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—More than 700 British Lancasters and Halifaxes poured high explosives on the small towns of Kleve and Goch, between the Maas and Rhine rivers, tonight while speedy RAF Mosquitos were out "in strength" raiding eight German industrial cities.

RAF bomber command announced that the heavies hit Nazi troops and equipment in the two towns while the twin-engined Mosquitos hit Magdeburg, Kassel, Mainz, Coblenz, Bonn, Hannover, Duesseldorf and Duisburg in multiple strikes.

The attacks were spread over a period of more than two and a half hours while enemy Achtung warnings were broadcast continuously throughout western Germany.

Brandenburg Alerted

As the British planes headed for the Reich the Nazi radio said "several formations" were approaching the province of Brandenburg, wherein Berlin is located.

Thick banks of clouds over the Continent kept Britain-based bombers grounded during daylight today, but four-engined heavies of the Italy-based United States 15th Air Force blasted Nazi oil refineries in the Vienna area—the most important remaining German motor-fuel source since the Red Army seized a large part of the Silesian oil fields.

Instrument Bombing

Specific targets for Maj. Gen. Nathan F. Twining's heavies were at Moosbierbaum, 22 miles northwest of Vienna, and Lobau and Schwechat, both 7 miles southeast of the former Austrian capital. All three targets produce gasoline for Nazi forces on the Eastern front.

Bombardiers dropped their explosives by instrument since smokescreens thrown up by German ground defenses covered target areas.

Meanwhile, B-25 Mitchells and P-47 Thunderbolts of the United States 12th Air Force continued their assault on Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's railway supply lines both through the Brenner Pass and into southern Austria and Yugoslavia.

Vienna Area's Oil Targets Bombed

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Oil refineries in the Vienna area, the most important remaining source of natural motor fuel for the Germans since the Russians seized a large part of Silesia, were bombed by U.S. 15th Air Force bombers from Italy today.

The German radio said Allied bombers were striking from the west also.

Specific targets of the Italian-based bombers were at Moosbierbaum, 22 miles northwest of Vienna, and Lobau and Schwechat, both 7 miles southeast of Vienna. The planes cast their bombs through a smokescreen put up by the Nazis.

Targets Produce Gasoline

All three targets produce gasoline, the bulk of which goes to German armies battling the Russians in the East.

The German air raid warning system announced at 3.25 P.M., that two bomber forces were over western Germany. One was over the Dortmund-Wuppertal-Cologne area and a second approached from Holland.

Earlier the Nazi radio reported American bombers from Italy were over lower Austria.

Rail Lines Hit

RAF fighter squadrons scored seventeen hits yesterday on rail lines feeding V-2 rocket sites in northern Holland and shot up several trains carrying rocket supplies, the Air Ministry announced.

A total of 49 locomotives and 94 railroad cars were destroyed or damaged in Germany and Holland.

Fifth Attacks Near Bologna

Americans Break Long Stalemate to Capture Initial Objectives.

Rome, Feb. 7 (A.P.).—United States Fifth Army troops have launched a strong attack against German positions southeast of Bologna and have gained their initial objectives, breaking a long weather-imposed stalemate on the Italian front, headquarters announced today.

"Jumping off after a short artillery preparation, we met enemy artillery, machine-gun and mortar fire as gains were made up to 500 and 600 yards against stiff opposition," said an official announcement.

The attack was described as intended to gain limited objectives.

Allied advances also continued in the Serchio Valley near the west coast. The villages of Monte Bono and Renaiao, east of the Serchio River, were occupied against only light opposition.

Nazis Fight Stubbornly.

With American Troops South of Bologna, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—American troops, striking out southeast of Bologna in the Fifth Army's strongest attack since last October, found the Germans resisting as stubbornly as ever today after forty-eight hours of fighting in the mud-clogged Apennines Mountains front.

FEB 8 1945

The attack opened Monday and ended a month of inactivity in this sector. It was pressed against two mountain strongholds in the enemy's Gothic Line. Veteran troops under Major Timothy Horan of Ludlow, Vt., and Lieut.-Col. Benjamin J. Butler of Milton, Ky., by early yesterday had gained up to 600 yards but suffered a number of casualties.

Attack Not in Great Strength.

The heaviest concentration of artillery fire in months—15,000 shells—was thrown at the Germans in a preliminary barrage. Tanks commanded by Lieut.-Col. Hyman Brush of Warren, Ohio, who led the armored units in Africa and earlier phases of the Italian campaign, were used as artillery support.

A heavy attack was not in large scale, as offensives go, but it was in enough strength and met enough resistance to demonstrate there has been no weakening of the German defenses protecting the Po Valley road hub before Bologna, where the Germans have been extremely sensitive to our limited patrol activities.

"They were sensitive as hell," said Lieut.-Col. Hubert Desmarais of Minneapolis. "In fact they were damn belligerent."

Butler's troops struck northeast and northwest of a village southeast of Bologna. They cleared a group of houses on one hilltop and occupied another—a 1,050-foot ridge. At the same time Horan's outfit struck at a 1,050-foot hill about a mile farther northwest, the tallest height remaining between this point and the Po Valley.

Capt. Raymond C. Stiliger of Bayonne, N. J., led one group which advanced about 400 yards through a thick mine field and machine-gun fire from nests in an old cemetery. Another group, led by Lieut. Anthony J. Jacobs of New Britain, Conn., also met bitter opposition and was forced to dig in in preparation for renewing the battle today.

Perhaps the stiffest fight of all fell to Lieut. James A. Gray of Sacramento, Cal., and his men who were moving forward to the west.

Approaching the peak of a hill near their objective, Lieut. Gray's outfit had to cross the top of a narrow ridge which gave the Nazis perfect obesrvation. The enemy fell back from their position and then laid a heavy fire on it, forcing the Americans to fall back to less exposed positions.

large scale offensive and headquarters described it as aiming at "limited objectives."

However, it was the Allies' biggest offensive gesture since bad weather settled over the Italian front last October. The heaviest artillery bombardment of months preceded the drive, which was supported by tanks. Some 15,000 rounds of ammunition were fired by American guns of all sizes.

Met Resistance.

Numerous casualties were reported.

"Jumping off after a short artillery preparation, we met enemy artillery, machine gun and mortar fire as gains were made up to 500 and 600 yards against stiff opposition," said an official announcement.

The men moved through thawing snow over mountainous terrain against strongpoints the Germans have defended through the icebound winter months.

Germans raked American columns with some 1,500 shells. Thick mine fields were encountered.

Allied advances also continued in the Serchio Valley near the west coast. The villages of Monte Bono and Renaiao, east of the Serchio River, were occupied against only light opposition.

German guns laid down one of the heaviest shellings of recent days on the Fifth Army lines and communications immediately south of Bologna. In a two-hour encountered heavy machine-gun fire in many areas.

Allied fighterbombers flew close support of the Fifth Army attack while medium bombers again were hitting the Brenner Pass supply lines. Two Allied planes were lost. Three ME-109s were shot down.

The Allied command announced that it was the Eighth Indian division which halted a Nazi attack in the Serchio Valley in December after the enemy had forced the United States 92d division to withdraw.

"Due to the prompt action of two Indian brigades the enemy's advance was stopped and by December 30 all the lost ground had been regained," Headquarters said.

Fifth Gains in New Attack

Americans Advance in Italy Despite Stiff German Resistance.

Rome, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—The strongest American attack in Italy since October has driven 600 yards into German lines southeast of Bologna and gained its initial objectives despite stiff enemy resistance, headquarters announced today.

United States Fifth Army troops which launched the attack Monday and broke a long winter stalemate pushed toward German strongholds of the mountainous Gothic Line guarding the Po Valley hub in front of Bologna.

The strong opposition encountered indicated there has been no weakening of German defenses despite reports the Nazis were shifting some troops from Italy to guard their Russian-menaced home front.

Front line dispatches said that the attack did not constitute a and 40 minute burst of action, the Germans pumped more than 400 artillery shells and 200 rounds of mortar fire into the area of Liverganano and other targets along highway 65—the main road to Bologna from the south.

For the first time in several weeks long range German 170 millimeter guns also opened up, landing their explosives in the area of Porretta, nearly thirty miles southwest of Bologna.

Only patrol clashes were reported on the Eighth Army front in the southeastern corner of the Po Valley. The Eighth's patrols

YANKS GAIN 600 YARDS IN ITALY

German Counterattacks Halt Limited Offensives

Rome, Feb. 7 (AP)—Attacking behind an artillery barrage, American 5th Army troops have fought forward up to 600 yards in a limited two-day offensive in the mountains southeast of Bologna, breaking a three-month stalemate on the central Italian front, Allied headquarters announced today.

German resistance to the attack was prompt and heavy. About 1,500 artillery shells were poured into the advancing Americans, who suffered numerous casualties.

Crest Of Ridge Reached

The attack, described by headquarters as aimed at "limited objectives," began early Monday after American artillery and tanks had laid down a short but intense barrage against German positions on two 1,100-foot ridges about a mile apart. Troops reached the crest of one ridge, but were forced to dig in and were engaged in sharp fighting with counterattacking German troops today.

Weather conditions were frightful, a sudden thaw in the Apennines having turned every little water course into a torrent and converted roads and trails into soggy masses that bogged men, animals and machines. Thick mine fields added to the burden of the attacking troops.

Nazis Shell Rear Areas

Supporting the defending Nazi ground troops, enemy long-range artillery pumped hundreds of shells into the 5th Army's rear areas and along Highway ply route into Florence and ...thern Italy. Allied fighters and b...mbers flew in close support of the attacking forces.

main Allied sup- mountains from

One unit of veteran American troops, pushing out from a village southeast of Bologna, cleared a group of houses on a hillside after an advance of about 400 yards. Of two other infantry outfits which attempted to drive the Nazis from dominating heights, one reached the crest of its objective, but the other was driven back by enemy fire when only halfway to the top.

Machine Guns Check Yanks

Nazi machine-gun nests concealed among the stones in a cemetery helped check one attacking Yank force. The enemy also laid down a thick curtain of smoke shells in front of the advancing troops.

Limited Allied advances continued in the Serchio Rivey valley near the west coast, where the villages of Montebono and Renaiao on the east side of the river were occupied against light opposition.

Fortress Crew Made a Pact of Silence

A United States Fortress Base, England, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—Six American airmen who almost died in the North Sea New Year's Day disclosed the details today. They had formed a pact of silence on their experience until the wife of one of them, an expectant mother, received a letter saying her husband was safe.

Three members of the crew drowned.

The husband in the war drama is Lieut. William F. Jordan of Washington Irving Gardens, Tarrytown, N. Y., who was rescued unhurt after ten hours in the icy water. He was bombardier on a Flying Fortress which fell in the sea 120 miles off the English coast.

The plane caught fire while four miles up and within ten seconds it broke in two. It disappeared in the mountainous waves, sucking two victims with it. They were Sergt. John E. Furrow Jr. of Roanoke, Va., and Lieut. Warren L. King of Sequim, Wash., the navigator.

Lieut. Jordan saved one of the gunners by pushing him out the radio hatch where Lieut. Jordan himself then stuck.

"Water poured in all over me," he said. "I thought it was the end, but somehow, by the help of the good Lord, I shot right up from about twenty feet under."

Lieut. Jordan and five others climbed into a dinghy cut loose from the wreckage. Fifty yards away they saw Sergt. Glen H. Cline of Albany, tail gunner, struggling in freezing water. They tried frantically for thirty minutes to reach him, but could not.

With frozen fingers, Sergt. James Schofield of Durham, N. C., radioman, sent distress signals which brought two lifeboat-laden British bombers and an air-sea rescue launch.

As the rescue vessel came alongside the men to take them aboard a British sailor shouted, "Happy New Year."

"We'll never appreciate a New Year's greeting like that one," said Lieut. Leonard Tebbs of Cheyenne, Wyo., the co-pilot.

Other survivors of the ordeal were Sergt. Niilo Isaacson of Kettle River, Minn., and Sergt. Elbert P. Huez of Mountain Grove, Mo.

Sinister Nazis Flee Reich: Vansittart

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Lord Vansittart told the House of Lords today that he personally knew of "certain very sinister Germans" who have been escaping from the Reich lately on false passports.

Vansittart, Privy Councillor and former Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, made the statement in calling on the Government to announce that the rights of neutrality did not extend to granting asylum to war criminals.

"If we admit the rights of neutrals in this sphere," he said, "these men will use neutral countries as a cover to organize sabatoge and political assassination in Germany and elsewhere, and they will use those countries as a base for organization of new German war potential."

Eire Criticized

"I personally have the names of certain very sinister Germans who have been getting out lately with false passports and I know not only the names on the passports but the identity of the creatures that they conceal," he said.

In Moscw, meanwhile, an editorial in the Russian naval newspaper Red Fleet charged that Argentina was "swarming with Hitler agents," and asserted that "every day from Stuttgart there arrive in Barcelona German planes with Hiterlites who then proceed to Argentina."

Vansittart specifically criticized Eire's refusal to give assurances that war criminals would not be allowed to hide there, and maintained that "it must be for the belligerents and not for the neutrals to decide who is for asylum and who for retribution."

Right Challenged

Eire has challenged the Allied right under international law to say whom she would admit, but announced that no one would be allowed to enter who would jeopardize the country's neutrality. A British Government official had said Eire's reply was vague, but that it was assumed refuge would be denied to Axis war criminals.

Sir John Simon, Lord Chancellor, said he did not think Vansittart's motion was "well timed," and declared "I cannot imagine a worse way of persuading the Irishmen that they should not admit crime-stained fugitives than by shouting at them that the British Houses of Parliament or one of them has resolved that they have no right."

Attacking other neutrals as well as Eire, Vansittart said:

"Our Allies, Turkey and Portugal supply our enemies with vital materials. The Swedes do the same and even allowed passage of German troops. Spain not only gave moral and material support to our enemies, but actually sent troops to fight our Allies."

NAZIS FLEEING, LORDS TOLD

Vansittart Demands Firm Stand With Neutrals

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Amid assertions that Nazi officials already were beginning to run, demands were voiced both in London and in Moscow today that the Allies crack down on neutral countries to plug escape gaps for Axis war criminals.

Lord Vansittart declared in the House of Lords that some "very sinister Germans" already were escaping the Reich on false passports. The Moscow radio broadcast a Red Fleet article charging that gentina was "swarming with Hitler agents," and asserted that "every day from Stuttgart there arrive in Barcelona German planes with Hiterlites who then proceed to Argentina."

Argentina Is Accused

Red Fleet, the Soviet Navy organ, declared Argentina was "swarming with Hitlerite agents" and that German investments in the country ran into hundreds of millions of dollars, "concentrated chiefly in war industry."

The Germans themselves took recognizance of reports that top Nazis were fleeing and in a home broadcast assured the people that Gauleiter Paul Joseph Goebbels and the rest of the Government still were in Berlin.

Vansittart, former Under Secretary of the Foreign Office and Britain's leading exponent of a harsh peace for Germany, threw the House of Lords into an uproar with a demand that the Allies bluntly warn neutrals they had "no right" to grant asylum to war criminals.

Lord Chancellor Sir John Simon, the Government spokesman, termed the motion so sweeping it would "cause all international lawbooks in the world to be rewritten." He said it was "not well timed."

Simon Urges Soft Approach

The Government staved off a vote on the motion after a fiery debate, with Lord Simon pleading that the Allied approach to the neutrals was wiser than using "a big stick."

Vansittart finally withdrew the motion, but announced he would raise the issue again "if I get any further evidence of abuse."

Vansittart asserted he had names and personal knowledge of Nazis escaping and said that right now some of the worst of the Gestapo butchers and torturers were in Norway with false papers ready to slip into Sweden.

Turkey, Portugal, Spain Named

"We can never again run the risk or court the certainty of a third world conflagration by letting the guilty live in safe refuge in countries which have not shared our sufferings," Vansittart said.

Turkey, Portugal and Spain, Vansittart said, sent war materials to the Germans, and Spain not only gave "moral and material support" but sent troops to fight the Russians.

Moscow, concentrating its attack on Spain, Switzerland and Argentina, said that in the case of Argentina the American and British press had criticized the protection afforded the Hitlerites there, but "no effective measures have been taken as yet against the pro-Fascist Government of Argentina."

POLES DISBAND

HOME ARMY

Action Announced By Exiled Government In London

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz of the exiled Polish Government in London announced tonight the disbandment of the Polish Home Army.

The leader of the London Poles issued an order of the day which said, "At the moment when the German invaders are being driven from Polish territory by the Red Army, armed activities in our country have ceased and detachments of the home army have been disbanded."

The order wrote an official finis to the force which engaged in the heroic but fruitless Warsaw uprising, then was compelled to surrender to the Nazis when an expected Russian push on the Polish capital failed to materialize.

Free To Choose

Raczkiewicz's action appeared to leave the members of the Home Army free to choose between the London Government, recognized by the United States and Britain, or the Lublin provisional Government, backed by the Soviet Union.

However, the order of the day reasserted the claims of the exiled Government, saying:

"Although we are forced by circumstances to disband the armed forces of the Polish Republic in the homeland, it is the duty of all of us to continue to believe in the justice of our aspirations, and to act so that our cause may find understanding in the conscience of the world and a just solution."

To Continue Struggle

The order referred to the five-year struggle of the underground fighters, and said "Polish armed forces abroad will continue the unbending struggle and are trying to be worthy of you, soldiers of the Polish Home Army."

The order concluded: "Long live a free and independent Poland."

Britain Supports French Voice

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Inclusion of France in a "big power" conference dedicated to the settlement of "political decisions on the redrawing of European frontiers" was indorsed today by the British Government.

With French feeling running high over the apparent exclusion of Gen. Charles de Gaulle from the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin talks Minister of State Richard Law told the House of Commons that Britain believed the reshaping of the European map "must be decided later by all the powers together."

Substitute For Eden

Law made his statements as a substitute for Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Prime Minister Churchill. He also represented the Government in foreign affairs debates last Wednesday.

The question was raised whether the British Government indorsed what was quoted as the "official statement made by General de Gaulle in Paris on January 25 that both east and west banks of the Rhine must belong to France."

Law replied that, according to all accounts he had seen of de Gaulle's press conference of January 25, the French leader did not say both banks must belong to France, but "referred only to the military occupation of certain areas by French forces."

Silent On Question

Law did not elaborate on his reference to a future big power conference on redrawing frontiers and remained silent when Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson, Conservative, asked whether there was "any permanent security for France until this traditional frontier is safe."

In a later discussion of the recognition of governments of newly liberated countries, Law reiterated Britain's stand in favor of free elections as soon as possible.

Law said the Government's policy was based on objectives broadly laid down in the Atlantic Charter, adding:

"But the Government does not regard any provision of the Charter as meaning that in no circumstances could any change of enemy territory take place without the consent of its present inhabitants."

British Assure Voice To French

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—The British Government indorsed today the inclusion of France in a future big-power conference on redrawing the European map.

Richard Law, British Minister of State, told the House of Commons that Britain believed the reshaping of European frontiers "must be decided later by all the powers together."

The proposal that France should sit in on future conferences was made when the question was raised in Commons whether the Government indorsed what was quoted as "the official statement made by General de Gaulle in Paris on January 25 that both the east and west banks of the Rhine must belong to France."

Law Disagrees

Law replied that all accounts he had seen of de Gaulle's press conference on that date did not say both banks must belong to France. He explained that the French provisional Government leader had "referred only to the military occupation of certain areas by French forces."

During the debate, Law said the British Government "does not regard any provision of the Atlantic Charter as meaning" that no change could take place in enemy territory without the consent of its present inhabitants.

"Does not that interpretation of the Atlantic Charter make it sound complete humbug?" asked Laborite R. Sorenson.

"No sir," Law replied.

To Supervise Election

Concerning countries which recently had been at war with Britain and her allies, Law said there was no intention of establishing diplomatic relations with Finland, Bulgaria or Romania during the armistice periods. He explained that the Soviet Government did not have diplomatic representatives in those countries.

Law declared the British Government would be prepared to assist in supervising free elections in newly liberated countries if invited by the governments and peoples concerned.

Asked if women would be allowed to ballot in elections supervised by the British, the Minister of State replied the voting would be on the "broadest possible democratic basis."

He added, however, that the British Government could not dictate to the governments concerned the exact conditions under which the elections were to be held.

TITO OPPOSES TWO OF KING'S CHOICES

London, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—Another crisis in Yugoslav political negotiations developed today with the rejection by Marshal Tito of King Peter's two nominees for the regency.

A high ranking Yugoslav official said that Tito cabled Premier Ivan Subasic that he could not accept Gen. Dusan Simovic, former Yugoslav Premier, and Dr. Juraj Sutej, former Finance Minister, who were nominated by the King last week.

Tito proposed instead Ante Mandic, a Croat leader, and Sreten Vukosavljevic, a Serbian leader and Minister of Agriculture in Subastic's government. Subasic called a meeting of his Cabinet today to consider Tito's proposals. He is expected to confer with Peter afterwards.

Peter appeared determined to fight for inclusion of his nominees on the council.

SEES ARGENTINA ALIVE WITH NAZIS

London, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—An editorial in the Russian naval newspaper Red Fleet, broadcast today by the Moscow radio, declared Argentina was "swarming with Hitler agents."

"It is well known that there are Hitlerite funds totaling many millions in Argentina and that money and materials to provide a basis for creation of a new German war machine are incessantly pouring into that country," the editorial said.

The newspaper said that, despite the statement by the Argentine Government that it would not grant asylum to war criminals nor permit them to invest money or acquire property there, "the facts tell a different story."

"Every day from Stuttgart there arrive in Barcelona German planes with Hitlerites who then proceed to Argentina," it charged. "The country is swarming with Hitlerite agents. German investments in Argentina are estimated at hundreds of millions of dollars, concentrated chiefly in war industry."

Swiss Will Be Asked To Stop Helping Nazis

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Dr. Laughlin Currie, representating the United States, and Dingle Foot, parliamentary secretary of the Ministry of Economic Warfare, will go to Bern shortly in an effort to persuade Switzerland to halt completely her exports to Germany, it was disclosed today.

Allied leaders are known to believe that if German resistance crumbles in the north, groups of Nazis might take refuge in strongly fortified areas in southern Germany which adjoin the easternmost tip of Switzerland.

RADIO HECKLER INTERRUPTS NAZIS

London, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—A "ghost heckler" consistently interrupted the German overseas radio's recital of war news this morning with demands:

"End the War—Finish with the Nazi gang—The German people want peace."

Talking for ten minutes about the "Big Three" conference, the German announcer was interrupted in every sentence.

London, Feb. 7, (A. P.).—Gauleiter Paul Joseph Goebbels still is in Berlin, the German radio commentator, Joseph Saal, said today.

"I have seen Dr. Goebbels today," Saal said. "I see him every morning and he is busy reorganizing the defense of Berlin."

Goebbels previously had been reported fleeing to Bavaria.

The British Press Association said today that "one of the most significant proofs of the chaos that is developing inside Germany is that German bank notes are no longer printed on watermarked paper."

"This information," the agency said, "has been received officially in London and is regarded as of greatest importance as the watermark is vital to safeguard against forgery. Its absence must lead to growing financial confusion and instability."

German General, 32, Is Killed in Action

London, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio early today quoted Hitler's headquarters as announcing that Gen. Harald von Hirschfeld 32 years old youngest divisional commander of the German Army, had been killed in action on the Russian front.

Youngest German General Dies In Action

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Col. Gen. Harold von Hirschfeld, 32, "the youngest general and divisional commander in the German Army," has been killed in action on the Eastern front, a Berlin broadcast reported to the OWI said today.

The broadcast said Hirschfeld had risen in seven years from first lieutenant in the reserve to colonel general.

Eubank Gets New Air Post

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Eugene I. Eubank has been appointed assistant deputy commander for operations of the United States Eighth Air Force, Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle announced today. General Eubank will work with Maj. Gen. Orvil A. Anderson, deputy commander for operations. The new assistant deputy once served under the late Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, champion of air power.

V-Weapons Hit England

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—German vengeance weapons fell on southern England between dawn yesterday and 7 A. M. today, causing damage and casualties, the British Air Ministry said.

Brereton Gets Legion Of Merit

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, commanding general of the Allied 1st Airborne Army, has been awarded the Legion of Merit by Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of the United States Strategic Air Forces, for his "outstanding service" while commanding the 9th Air Force from January 1, 1944, to August 7, 1944.

Debate At Trade Union Conference

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—British protests over the proposed inclusion of the one-time Axis partners, Finland, Bulgaria, Romania and Italy, in the world trade union conference threw the two-day-old meeting into a turmoil tonight before routine preliminaries had been cleared.

The report of the standing orders committee recommending that the four former Axis partners and the provisional Polish Government in Warsaw be invited to send delegates precipitated the first rift in the conference, which is expected to decide among other things labor's attitude toward the peace settlement.

Sir Walter Citrine, head of the British delegation, demanded that the report be returned to committee for reconsideration in a statement in which he denounced the move as "premature and directly contrary to the considered policies" of the labor leaders who convened the congress.

Big Debate In Offing

A spirited debate among Russian, French, Spanish and English-speaking delegates was in the offing when the day's session ended. The report was presented at the insistence of Russian, American and French delegates.

Earlier, Reid Robinson, a CIO vice president speaking in the absence of Sidney Hillman, told the congress of "our successful campaign in returning to the Presidency of the United States Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Robinson added the CIO would not rest until Henry Wallace "fits securely in the office to which President Roosevelt has appointed him—and as Secretary of Commerce helps to realize the goal of 60,000,000 jobs in the United States and world-wide good-neighborly relations."

Briton's Objections

The committee proposing the invitation of delegates from former Axis partners said there was little likelihood that the delegates would be able to attend, but said their "actual presence is not so important as recognition."

A Russian spokesman attested to the development of labor organizations in Finland, Romania, Bulgaria and Poland, and Americans who toured Italy said they found the "reconstructed trade-union movement active."

"Can't you see the embarrassment it would produce?" Sir Walter asked in opposing the move. "What questions could they help decide? Peace settlement? What terms to be applied to Germany or Japan, on whose side they have been fighting so long?

Opposed To Voting

"We want to deal only with stable and durable union bodies. Not those under dictatorship for years, some from countries only partly liberated."

The British laborite also opposed the committee's recommendation that questions be decided by a vote of delegations.

"We told the world this congress would be consultative and advisory only—not a conference where votes were to be taken," he said. "The Soviet delegation has half the total voting strength of the conference. I don't think they would say they are twice as important as the British and American delegations."

Heavy applause filled the chamber as he concluded, but the Russian delegates sat with hands folded in their laps. The session was dismissed so non-English-speaking delegates could go to translation rooms to find out what the argument was about. The debate will be resumed tomorrow.

France, China Ask Arms

A French delegate, M. Dupuis, expressed gratitude for Allied aid to France, but said his country hadn't been helped enough.

"France should not be regarded merely as a battleground," he said. "It can be an arsenal. Give us arms and equipment and we can put 1,000,000 men in the field to help strike the final blow against the Germans."

30.24 – 22777

M. Pauwels, Belgian delegate, asked the British and American delegates to bring pressure on their governments to provide more adequate feeding for war-stricken Belgium. The Chinese spokesman, M. Chu, pleaded for more weapons for Chiang Kai-shek's armies.

Clement R. Attlee, who said he was speaking as leader of the British Labor party and an old trade-unionist, declared that "in laying the foundations of a new and peaceful world, people as well as governments must play their parts."

"The United Nations' determination to prevent another world war must be backed by workers in all lands," Attlee said. "Governments can do much to insure freedom from fear and want, but the maintenance of complete freedom depends on the people themselves."

Recommendation Studied

The standing orders committee recommended that Finland, Bulgaria, Romania, Italy and the Polish provisional Government in Warsaw be invited to send delegates to the World Trade-Union Congress.

Wallace Victory Is PAC Goal, Conference Told

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—An American labor spokesman told the World Trade Union Congress today that political action by the CIO was "far from the least of our aids toward victory" and declared "we shall not rest" until Henry A. Wallace is Secretary of Commerce.

Speaking in the absence of Sidney Hillman, Reid Robinson, a CIO vice president, detailed the American war effort and then described the work of the PAC.

"CIO Has Given Leadership"

"Sidney Hillman led this great crusade," Robinson said. "The CIO has given the leadership, and the rank and file membership of the AFL has taken part.

"We leave it to your decision the amount of service rendered the war effort by our successful campaign in returning to the presidency of the United States Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Services Not Finished

"And you may be assured that the CIO has not finished its political services with this victory. As I speak, the CIO is joining with millions of other Americans in working to ratify the appointment of another great leader and friend of the common people—Henry Wallace.

"We shall not rest until he sits securely in the office to which President Roosevelt has appointed him—and as Secretary of Commerce helps to realize the goal of 60,000,000 jobs in the United States and world-wide good neighborly relations."

Robinson told the delegates that 6,000,000 CIO workers had "given an unconditional pledge of no strikes in wartime."

"And that pledge has been kept in spite of provocations and frequent injustices," he said.

Robinson appealed to the Congress to "lay aside prejudices and timidities so that we may emerge from these historic sessions bearing to our organizations sound, workable plans for a new international union organization."

Mr. Robinson added that the CIO would not rest until Henry A. Lieutenant Is Acquitted In Black-Market Trial

Paris, Feb. 7 (AP)—Lieut. Ario D. Dal Porto was acquitted by a court-martial today of all charges concerning conspiracy to defraud the United States and neglect of duty with regard to the United States Army black-market cases.

The acquittal came after Da Porto testified in his own behalf. He contradicted previous testimony that he had ordered boxes of army supplies tossed from trains a Villiers, where he was road foreman of an engineer unit.

Technician Accuses Him

Tech. 4/g Donald Beale, an engineer of front-bound supply trains, had testified yesterday that, when he had stopped for water at Villiers, Dal Porto questioned him, learned he was carrying rations and ordered him to "drop some off." Beale said Dal Porto once ordered him to toss off between 35 and 40 cases.

Dal Porto, a first lieutenant in Company C, 716th Railway Operating Battalion, and a resident of Tracy, Cal., said he had received various boxes of supplies, such as meat or ten-in-one rations, "because I was under the assumption they were authorized rations which had been sent to us." He denied taking the articles from supply trains or that he knew they had been pilfered.

Dal Porto testified he had no knowledge of any looting going on among the railway battalion men until military police raided the 716th Battalion and took some 500 men to Paris for questioning.

Claims Ration Shortage

Much of Dal Porto's testimony was devoted to a description of long hours of work and what he called inadequate housing and feeding of the battalion's men. He said his detachment of eight enlisted men never had a regular mess, and that rations either failed to arrive from battalion headquarters or arrived too scantily.

Dal Porto testified that he was 44, that he had worked 26 years railroading, 17 of them as a locomotive engineer. He said he was commissioned in January, 1942, directly from civilian life.

When he was ordered to active service in 1943, he testified, he was given a three-week officers' course, but failed to pass it. Nevertheless, he said, he was sent overseas.

Big Attack In West Due Soon, Nazis Say

Paris, Feb. 7 (AP)—With the American armies under Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley already through the Siegfried Line at one point south of the original 35-mile-wide Aachen gap and at or inside the line's last concrete emplacement zone for another 10 miles, the Germans said today the Allies were mounting an offensive to smash the western defenses which Hitler has weakened by troop shifts to the Eastern front.

German propagandists reiterated with urgent insistence their predictions that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would strike soon with a full-scale offensive.

"Waits Better Weather"

"He is now waiting only for more favorable weather because he wants to use airborne forces on the Arnhem and Nijmegen scale," said Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German military commentator.

Berlin's pointers-with-alarm chiefly eyed the Roer River front, predicting the British 2d and the United States 9th armies would strike there.

The German international information service said the 9th Army had laid down a violent artillery barrage on both sides of Dueren for three days.

It's Rue de Leningrad in Paris

PARIS, Feb. 7 (AP)—As a token of closer French-Russian relations, the Parisian City Council is catching up on Russian history. The council voted to change the name of the Rue de Petrograd to Rue de Leningrad. The name of Petrograd, formerly St. Petersburg, was changed to Leningrad in 1924 by the Soviets in honor of Lenin.

Four American Priests Are Received By Pope

Vatican City, Feb. 7 (AP)—Four American Catholic priests who came over with Archbishop Francis J. Spellman, of New York, on his last visit to Rome to arrange distribution of relief supplies donated by Americans were thanked by Pope Pius in an audience today.

They were the Rev. John P. Boland, Buffalo, N.Y.; the Rev. Thomas S. Markham, Boston, Mass.; the Rev. Caesar M. Rinaldi, Newark, N.J., and the Rev. Andrew P. Landi, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Father Boland plans to leave Rome soon to visit Cairo and Jerusalem.

Hints at New Role for Hitler

Sweden Hears That He May Become Reich's President With Von Papen as Chancellor.

Stockholm, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said today it believed that a reorganization of the German Government under which Adolf Hitler would give up the title of Fuehrer to become the Reich's President, with Franz von Papen as Chancellor, was imminent.

Its information was attributed to rumors in Berlin which reached German circles here.

Von Papen, an ace of the German diplomatic service, was Ambassador to Turkey when Ankara broke relations with Berlin on August 2 last.

The report had the earmarks of a German trial balloon designed to sound out Allied reaction to whether such a revamped Government would have any chance of suing for armistice terms.

It came while President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin were reported to be in conference with war problems, including Germany's fate.

Aftonbladet, which in the early stages of the war had a strongly pro-German attitude, said Hitler's reason for such a change was that he "is no longer able to manage both the matters of State and war leadership."

By becoming the President of the Reich—a post he abolished—Hitler would be "laying a favorable basis for taking up international negotiations," the paper said.

Schacht Would Get Post.

According to the report, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, would become Economic and Finance Minister, and Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, former commander in chief of the German Army, would become Minister of War.

Brauchitsch is one of the German generals reported at various times to have been executed in the blood purge following the assassination attempt on Hitler last July.

The newspaper said that Schacht was released from prison a few days ago after being under arrest since July 24 last.

"The objective of these measures would naturally be to set up the first condition for taking up armistice negotiations and at the same time to pave the way for reconciliation with inner opposition elements," Aftonbladet said.

Would Move to Dresden.

The newspaper quoted German sources in Stockholm as saying Germany's central administration would be moved to southern Germany—probably to Dresden—but that the pople would be encouraged to believe their Government was remaining in the capital to the last.

The decision to move remaining Government departments southward was reported reached Monday night in a meeting headed by Gauleiter Paul Joseph Goebbels.

[Moscow reports stated that Dr. Joseph Goebbels, military commander of Berlin, has been relieved of his post, the Ankara radio said today, adding that "the Berlin press received orders not to print this news." CBS recorded the broadcast.]

Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, was said to have been released a few days ago from prison where he had been reported held since July 24. Brauchitsch was among the German general's rumored executed after the July assassination attempt on Hitler.

"The objective of these measures would naturally be to set up the first condition for taking up armistice negotiations and at the same time to pave the way for reconciliation with inner opposition elements," said the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet.

That paper said Germany's government would be moved to southern Germany, perhaps to Dresden, although the people would be told the government was remaining in Berlin to the last.

The absence of any public pronouncement by Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda and now Gauleiter for the defense of Berlin, has puzzled many observers.

Goebbels' touch in current propaganda to bolster the people against a possible new surrender demand has remained obvious, however.

Meanwhile, a traveler arriving in Sweden said women Volkssturm members were prominently in evidence among workers building barricades and bunkers to protect Berlin. Male members of the Volkssturm are seldom seen, he said, indicating they may have been sent to the front.

Sweden Hears Hitler Ready To Relinquish Dictatorship

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 7—(AP) Reports published here today said Hitler was planning to relinquish his dictatorship of Germany with a view to bidding for peace, and that Franz von Papen was scheduled to become chancellor with Hitler as president.

Possibly Nazi-inspired, the reports met an attitude of skepticism in informed quarters here. They were circulated by the Free German News Service, which has not proved too reliable in the past.

Some observers said the reports sounded like trial ballons sent up to test Allied reaction to a government so revamped.

Neutral observers do not overlook the possibility of some similar governmental development, however, as the military pressure on Germans nears the breaking point.

M. Pauwels, Belgian delegate, asked the British and American delegates to bring pressure on their governments to provide more adequate feeding for war-stricken Belgium. The Chinese spokesman, M. Chu, pleaded for more weapons for Chiang Kai-shek's armies.

Clement R. Attlee, who said he was speaking as leader of the British Labor party and an old trade-unionist, declared that "in laying the foundations of a new and peaceful world, people as well as governments must play their parts."

"The United Nations' determination to prevent another world war must be backed by workers in all lands," Attlee said. "Governments can do much to insure freedom from fear and want, but the maintenance of complete freedom depends on the people themselves."

Recommendation Studied

The standing orders committee recommended that Finland, Bulgaria, Romania, Italy and the Polish provisional Government in Warsaw be invited to send delegates to the World Trade-Union Congress.

Wallace Victory Is PAC Goal, Conference Told

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—An American labor spokesman told the World Trade Union Congress today that political action by the CIO was "far from the least of our aids toward victory" and declared "we shall not rest" until Henry A. Wallace is Secretary of Commerce.

Speaking in the absence of Sidney Hillman, Reid Robinson, a CIO vice president, detailed the American war effort and then described the work of the PAC.

"CIO Has Given Leadership"

"Sidney Hillman led this great crusade," Robinson said. "The CIO has given the leadership, and the rank and file membership of the AFL has taken part.

"We leave it to your decision the amount of service rendered the war effort by our successful campaign in returning to the presidency of the United States Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Services Not Finished

"And you may be assured that the CIO has not finished its political services with this victory. As I speak, the CIO is joining with millions of other Americans in working to ratify the appointment of another great leader and friend of the common people—Henry Wallace.

"We shall not rest until he sits securely in the office to which President Roosevelt has appointed him—and as Secretary of Commerce helps to realize the goal of 60,000,000 jobs in the United States and world-wide good neighborly relations."

Robinson told the delegates that 6,000,000 CIO workers had "given an unconditional pledge of no strikes in wartime."

"And that pledge has been kept in spite of provocations and frequent injustices," he said.

Robinson appealed to the Congress to "lay aside prejudices and timidities so that we may emerge from these historic sessions bearing to our organizations sound, workable plans for a new international union organization."

neer of front-bound supply trains, had testified yesterday that, when he had stopped for water at Villiers, Dal Porto questioned him, learned he was carrying rations and ordered him to "drop some off." Beale said Dal Porto once ordered him to toss off between 35 and 40 cases.

Dal Porto, a first lieutenant in Company C, 716th Railway Operating Battalion, and a resident of Tracy, Cal., said he had received various boxes of supplies, such as meat or ten-in-one rations, "because I was under the assumption they were authorized rations which had been sent to us." He denied taking the articles from supply trains or that he knew they had been pilfered.

Dal Porto testified he had no knowledge of any looting going on among the railway battalion men until military police raided the 716th Battalion and took some 500 men to Paris for questioning.

Claims Ration Shortage

Much of Dal Porto's testimony was devoted to a description of long hours of work and what he called inadequate housing and feeding of the battalion's men. He said his detachment of eight enlisted men never had a regular mess, and that rations either failed to arrive from battalion headquarters or arrived too scantily.

Dal Porto testified that he was 44, that he had worked 26 years railroading, 17 of them as a locomotive engineer. He said he was commissioned in January, 1942, directly from civilian life.

When he was ordered to active service in 1943, he testified, he was given a three-week officers' course, but failed to pass it. Nevertheless, he said, he was sent overseas.

Big Attack In West Due Soon, Nazis Say

Paris, Feb. 7 (AP)—With the American armies under Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley already through the Siegfried Line at one point south of the original 35-mile-wide Aachen gap and at or inside the line's last concrete emplacement zone for another 10 miles, the Germans said today the Allies were mounting an offensive to smash the western defenses which Hitler has weakened by troop shifts to the Eastern front.

German propagandists reiterated with urgent insistence their predictions that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would strike soon with a full-scale offensive.

"Waits Better Weather"

"He is now waiting only for more favorable weather because he wants to use airborne forces on the Arnhem and Nijmegen scale," said Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German military commentator.

Berlin's pointers-with-alarm chiefly eyed the Roer River front, predicting the British 2d and the United States 9th armies would strike there.

The German international information service said the 9th Army had laid down a violent artillery barrage on both sides of Dueren for three days.

Brussels, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—Premier Hubert Pierlot and his Cabinet resigned today in the midst of a Chamber of Deputies debate on whether to overthrow his Government.

The resignation was accepted by Prince Charles, regent of Belgium, who quickly started a series of audiences, presumably seeking a man to head a new Government.

Belgium is so torn with strife, however, that it appeared possible no new Premier would be selected until next week by the 42-year-old former Playboy Prince who is ruling in the absence of his brother, King Leopold, held captive by the Germans.

The Socialist party expects one of its members to receive the post of Premier because it precipitated the crisis by instructing the five Socialists in Premier Pierlot's Cabinet to resign. Talk among the Socialists centered on Achille Van Acker, a Socialist who served under M. Pierlot as Minister of Labor, and former Premier Paul Henri Spaak, who was Foreign Minister in the Pierlot Cabinet.

Belgian Editors Back Americans' Aim for Press Clause in Peace

BRUSSELS, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Association of Brussels Newspaper Editors endorsed today the campaign of the American Society of Newspaper Editors for a peace treaty clause against barriers to free exchange of information among different countries. A resolution declared:

The Association of Brussels Newspaper Editors expresses its thanks to the American Society of Newspaper Editors for sending to the Belgian press a delegation having for its mission the emphasizing of the importance of free exchange of news between different countries and toward this end of obtaining insertion of a clause in the peace treaty.

It confirms that the Belgian press, in a country where liberty of the press is guaranteed by the Constitution, must necessarily join itself to any action attempting to assure, when peace is reestablished, the unhindered transmission of news without censorship.

It has decided to give in an express fashion its support to the proposal advanced by the American press tending to make sacred in the treaty of peace the unhindered exchange of news.

How To Make A Hit With Your Wife

By Harold V. Boyle

In Germany, Jan. 30 [AP—Delayed]—Peter J. Carroll, Associated Press war photographer, is a practical man. He accepted film star Marlene Dietrich's cap instead of her "scanties" as a souvenir because the cap was warmer.

The actress was appearing in a USO army show in a small Belgian town. Afterward she was the guest of Carroll and Harold Siegman, Acme photographer.

At the end of the evening Marlene turned to Pete with a smile and said:

"I was with the airborne boys the other day and they asked for my garters. What do you want for a souvenir—my scanties?"

"No, Thanks"

"No, thanks, but I sure could use that pilot's cap you're wearing—it's more practical," said Pete.

Marlene doffed the cap—a leather one with fleece lining and ear flaps—and tossed it to the photographer. Now Pete wears it to keep warm on long jeep rides along the front.

"You may be practical, but you sure ain't much of a gentleman," one of his press confrères told Carroll. "To pass up Marlene's scanties for an old Air Force cap—boy, you're crazy."

"I've got a little wife back in Boston who won't think I'm so crazy," answered Pete.

Soviet Writer Assails Pope

Calls Pontiff 'Preacher of Soft Peace'—Also Attacks U. S. Authors.

Moscow, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—K. Gofman, writing in Red Star today, called Pope Pius the mouthpiece of Germany and the "preacher of a soft peace" and apparently served notice that the Soviet Union would resist any Vatican interference in Germany, Austria, Hungary and Poland.

Gofman's sharply worded international review, without referring to the meeting of the Big Three, said the time was ripe for the Allied Powers to settle the post-war fate of Hitler's Reich.

The author singled out Dorothy Thompson, New York columnist, as an example of elements in the United States and Britain which he declared "try to break down Allied unity in the last stage of the European war, accusing the Soviet Union and Britain of unilateral actions."

[In New York, Miss Thompson's secretary said the columnist was out of town and not available for comment on the Red Star article.]

Quotes Harry Hopkins.

Using quotations attributed to Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's associate, and editorials in the Kansas City Star and the New York Herald Tribune, the author gave arguments supporting the Russian policy in behalf of the security system of Europe and against the Allied political record in Italy.

Mr. Hopkins, the writer said, exposed the presence of Fascists in Italy's Government and army.

But against the Pope the author mounted his strongest attack. He began with the charge that the Vatican's war-time policy had been pro-Nazi and had included attempts to "save Mussolini and prevent the democratization of Italy."

Gofman cited a French news agency report that the Pope was preparing a new message which would run contrary to the Allied program for post-war Europe.

Cites Polish Problem.

"The Vatican's anti-Soviet campaign on the Polish question is beng carried on by the Catholic press in England and the United States," he declared. "The Vatican's policy in Italy has been taken as a precedent for expanding it in Germany, Austria and farther east over Hungary and Poland. The Vatican is the last political shelter for London Polish bankrupts such as Raczkiewicz, Sosnkowski and Arciszewski (Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, president; Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, former Commander in Chief of the armed forces, and Tomasz Arciszewski, Premier of the London Polish Government).

"The Vatican is trying to turn back history, revive Russian-Polish hostility. Under the slogan 'back to Catholic Fascism,' terror bands are being organized to fight against democratic Poland."

U.S., Soviet Church Co-Operation Seen

Moscow, Feb. 7 (AP)—Metropolitan Benjamin of North America and the Aleutians said today that the final steps for close co-operation between the American Orthodox Russian churches with the mother Russian church would be taken this week.

Two American delegates to the All-Russian Orthodox Congress, Bishop Alexy Pontelaief and Father Joseph Dzvonchik, were expected to arrive here tomorrow, having been delayed by weather in the plane and train journey from the United States.

"Great Religious Moment"

"There are ten bishops with 300 American parishes which are being reconciled with the mother church," Metropolitan Benjamin said. "It is a great religious moment."

The next important function of the church convocation in Moscow will be the meeting of the synod of the Russian Orthodox Church Friday, to be attended by foreign prelates.

Two messages from the local council of the Russian Orthodox Church were disseminated throughout the Soviet Union yesterday by the Soviet radio and press.

Asks Prayer For Victory

One called for "all Christians to pray for complete victory over the enemy so that the vile teaching of Fascism may be wiped from off the face of the earth forever."

"Those who call for mercy for the murderers of children . . . cannot be called Christians, and become sharers of the guilt of the Fascists," it declared.

The other message noted "with regret a laxity on the part of the clergy in the performance of church duties and on the part of the faithful in their lives as Christians." It called upon the church to "serve as a support for the might and prosperity of the motherland."

Manila Center Ravaged by Fire, Yanks Cleaning Out Jap Squads

By C. YATES McDANIEL

MANILA, Thursday, Feb. 8—(AP) The fire-ravaged business district of Manila has been cleared of Japanese demolition squads by Yanks now holding all the area north of the Pasig river but American troops still are held up in the Pasay suburbs at the southeast edge of the city by continued bitter resistance at Nichols Field.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who visited the city yesterday during which a Nipponese shell fell within 100 feet of him, announced the slow progress in a communique today which listed enemy casualties in the Luzon campaign at about 48,000.

American casualties for the corresponding four-week period were reported as 7,076, including 1,609 killed.

Fred Hampson, Associated Press war correspondent, relayed field reports stating there still were a few small pockets of the enemy in the north sector of Manila which the communique reported "cleared."

He said Japanese troops were in the center of the city south of the Pasig and began burning part of it Wednesday. This district contains the Manila hotel, the Army and Navy club, the High Commissioner's residence and other historic buildings.

(Arthur Feldman, Blue Network war correspondent, said American soldiers viewing the fire-scarred sectors could be heard saying angrily, "Ok, if that's the way the Japs want to play, let's burn every city in Japan to the ground. Let the B-29s really go to work.")

The First cavalry and 37th divisions won northern Manila and adjacent Quezon City.

The Eleventh Airborne division still was mopping up in the vicinity of Nichols Field, on the southern fringes.

All bridges across the wide and deep Pasig river, which divides Manila, have been blown up by the enemy, MacArthur announced. This undoubtedly will hamper the American advance into the southern areas of the fire-blackened city.

Associated Press correspondent Russell Brines said Japanese artillery shelled northern Manila all day yesterday, causing some injuries in the Santo Tomas internment camp where 3,700 internees were freed last Sunday.

"The internees finally lost their supreme claim," Brines wrote. "There was no panic but fear written on the faces of these still thin people as they crowded to the rear of buildings and huddled against walls and prayed that shell fire wouldn't destroy their newly won freedom."

The shelling still was going on late yesterday afternoon.

American bombers dropped a record load of 204 tons of bombs on Corregidor fortress at the entrance to Manila bay. Many Japanese fleeing Manila are believed seeking refuge in the small, strongly-defended island where the Americans made a gallant stand in early 1942.

Attack bombers meantime hit Caballo island nearby, destroying a coastal defense battery.

MacArthur announced that enemy casualties for the four weeks of the Luzon invasion were approximately 48,000 against American casualties of 1,609 killed, 191 missing and 5,276 wounded—a total of 7,067.

MacArthur announced that Yank forces in the north made steady progress in cleaning the Japanese from the central Luzon plain in the San Jose-Lupao-Munoz area. He said his forward elements were operating near Rizal, on the eastern fringe of the plain nine miles southeast of captured San Jose.

In this area enemy tanks and many heavily-defended pillboxes were destroyed or captured.

Bombers hit enemy installations at Echague in the Cagayan valley of northern Luzon. This valley has been sealed off from the central Luzon plain by American control of the only highway between the two.

Patrol bombers in low-level sweeps of the eastern Luzon coast sank 28 barges and several speedboats.

Bombers ranging across the China sea started fires at Tainan airdrome on Formosa, bombed the waterfront at Kirun, Formosa, and destroyed buildings on Rasa island southeast of Okinawa, north of Formosa.

American bombers extended their air operations over Java, hitting hydroelectric plants at Siman and Mandalay.

(Concerning the situation within Manila, Feldman said it has been ascertained that the enemy made plans for this destruction "almost the very moment they marched in" Jan. 2, 1942.

(George Thomas Folster, NBC war correspondent, told of many suicide squads of Japanese being silhouetted by the fires they set, making them good targets for American weapons.

("The charred remains of these Japs with their arms and legs grotesquely sprawled, their skins black and burned, lay in Manila streets.")

Some American troops are on the south side of the Pasig, having reached there before the last two bridges were blown up.

(Feldman said in his broadcast "we are not over in great strength because our motorized forces and mobile supply units cannot cross.")

Manila, queen city of the Philippines, wore a ghastly crown of smoke and flames today while American artillery hammered Japanese last-ditch defenders of the city and Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned to the capital.

FEB 8 1945

The Japanese, hemmed south of Pasig river by American troops on the north and south, set off demolition charges which sometimes showered exploding ammunition over dozens of blocks.

MacArthur's historic pledge that he would return to the Philippines came into ultimate and dramatic fulfillment when he entered Santo Tomas internment camp in the burning city yesterday, to be greeted by internees who shouted:

"There's MacArthur again; he's back."

His entry with his staff was preceded by Japanese artillery fire which had hit some of the buildings of the Santo Tomas university campus, sending internees scurrying to safety and wounding soldiers.

Another shell plowed the ground within 100 feet of MacArthur as he drove away in his car.

Reluctantly, American artillerymen threw shells into the Japanese resistance center. The Yanks had hoped to take the city with minimum damage, but with the enemy buttressed behind flaming buildings, big guns were brought up to blast him out.

As he slowly walked through the internment area MacArthur was greeted joyfully by the 3,700 American, British and other Allied nationals freed when the First Cavalry division burst into Manila Saturday night.

Men and women who had known the general in peace time surrounded him. Some he failed at first to recognize because of the changes wrought by hunger and disease during their imprisonment.

troops and the Manila fire department were fought sometimes with dynamite.

Efforts of the fire fighters and of troops trying to get at the Japanese were hampered by streams of refugees fleeing the flaming sections.

"Manila was a beautiful city, but is not beautiful now," said one of the householders among the thousands who were escaping the inferno with only the pitifully meager personal belongings they could carry.

LUZON AIRFIELDS ENLARGED

Tokyo Reports Americans Have 1000 Warplanes Already in Operation at Bases There.

Manila, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—American doughboys picked off Japanese barricaded on both sides of the Pasig River today after the trapped defenders, in sheer vengeance, had set Manila's heart ablaze.

Under smoke-blackened skies, Gen. Douglas MacArthur told his men "you will shortly complete the liberation of the Philippines," and said they already had given Japan "the worst military defeat in its history."

He requested divine services throughout his command for "our hallowed dead."

[Americans have already concentrated between 800 and 1,000 war planes on central Luzon airfields, Radio Tokyo reported today.

[The unconfirmed broadcast, intercepted at San Francisco by the Blue Network, said that United States engineers throughout the area have been building airfields.

[The same broadcast said that the Americans now have ten divisions on Luzon, six of which are in the Lingayen sector, two in the Manila area and two in the Subic Bay sector.]

Flames appeared to be diminishing in the Escolta business district on the north shore of the Pasig, where the desperate Japanese touched off drums of gasoline and other explosives Monday evening.

Manila's water mains were empty, for the enemy had blown up the pumping stations several days ago, arnd the great fire raged unchecked through the closely built area, spreading before a brisk wind toward the east and north. Explosions hurled burning chunks of wood into areas still inhabited by many of the more than 5,000 war prisoners liberated Saturday and Sunday, but were extinguished.

Many Trapped in Homes.

Many Filipinos undoubtedly were tropped in their homes and burned to death.

[The Japanese Domei News Agency today blamed American "gunfire and incendiarism perpetrated by Filipino guerrillas" for the Manila fire which it asserted has "destroyed the whole of the city's business center along the Avenita Rizal north of the Pasig River."

[The broadcast, recorded by the FCC, was intended to offset American reports that Japanese demolition squads set the torch to the Philippines capital.]

[Blue Network radio reporter Arthur Feldman said: "There was nothing catch-as-catch-can about this fire. The Japs just put the finishing touches on months and perhaps years of preparations before they withdrew and the fruits of their efforts came with the convulsions that shook the city from sunset Monday onwards."]

Gen. MacArthur said the fire, "wantonly set" by the "trapped and frustrated" enemy garrison, had no relation to Japanese military operations.

Liberating Yanks of the First Cavalry and Thirty-seventh Infantry Divisions pressed the dirty and dangerous job of digging the enemy from their positions behind barricaded doors and from rooftops, while the Eleventh Airborne Division, which landed the coup de grace in a swift drive from the south, speared along two routes in the southern section.

The paratroopers met stiff resistance around Nichols Field, at the extreme southern edge of town. Enemy anti-aircraft fire yesterday knocked down one of the very few American planes lost in the Luzon campaign.

Corregidor Fortress at the mouth of Manila Bay, to which many Japanese are believed to have retreated, was bombed with 180 tons of explosives—the heaviest load yet delivered there.

To the north, on the Bataan Peninsula—another possible temporary refuge for the Manila defenders—American troops who have sailed off all peninsular roads at the base drove slowly southward along the eastern edge, moving only yards at a time against Japanese resisting bitterly from jungle and bamboo thicket positions.

[Tokyo radio said that Corregidor, island fortress at the entrance of Manila Bay, underwent a "violent bombardment" Monday and was shelled again yesterday (Tuesday) by American naval guns.

There was no American confirmation of the naval bombardment. The broadcast was recorded by FCC.

Tokyo interpreted the bombardment as "an indication of the enemy's design to reach Manila by going through the Strait north of Corregidor."]

Highway Key Captured.

On the east side of the central Luzon plain the important highway town of San Jose fell to the Yanks. This effectively sealed off the enemy's last road lifeline to the plain from the Cagayan Valley. Lupao to the north was half occupied. At Munoz, to the west, eleven Japanese tanks were destroyed as the Americans made steady progress against stubborn resistance.

An enemy night counter-attack northeast of Rosario, south of the Philippine summer capital at Baguio, was thrown back with heavy Japanese casualties.

A small freighter was sunk in the China Sea east of Formosa. Another was damaged.

Liberators poured ninety-one tons of bombs on Japanese airdromes on northern Borneo and raked air and shipping facilities throughout the Philippines and islands to the southeast.

Japanese suicide troops, destroying what they could not hold, planted explosives throughout Manila's business area and blew up banks, department stores and office buildings in a series of earth-shaking explosions, starting a little after 8 P. M. Monday.

Flames Spread Quickly.

The flames spread wildly, sweeping menacingly toward the infamous Bilibid Penitentiary whose 1,350 military and civilian prisoners had been reached Sunday by the Thirty-seventh Division. Laboring throughout Monday night, soldiers and newly freed captives who were able-bodied removed every man, woman and child from the old prison, some on stretchers.

Flames from the burning Escolta were reflected on the American artillery gun barrels and tanks which had moved up to supplement the infantry push over two Pasig River bridges into the enemy-occupied southern half of Manila.

Japanese shells poured into American positions all Monday afternoon but gave way to a night of vengeful flames.

Gen. MacArthur, whose new war cry is "On to Tokyo!", issued a general order requesting prayers throughout his command for American dead, telling his troops:

"You will shortly complete the liberation of the Philippines.

"You have redeemed a country's pledge to recapture its lost land.

"You have inflicted the greatest military defeat in its history on your enemy.

"You are restoring to the East its destiny.

"You have fulfilled the sacred mission for our hallowed dead.

"For all this we have to thank God."

Yanks Shelling Manila Japs South Of Pasig

Manila, Feb. 7 (AP)—Doughboys closed in on barricaded Japanese flanking the Pasig River and hunted them down in other sections of smoke-shrouded Manila today after the cornered garrison wantonly dynamited and set the torch to the most modern section of the city.

American artillery began bombarding areas south of the Pasig River in an effort to drive out the Japanese. The enemy force was strongest in the southern area and the American command resorted to the extreme measure of shelling it—something they had hoped to avoid—only when other efforts to rout out the enemy had failed.

Japs Not Giving Up

There was no indication that [illegible] solition squa[illegible] ender their [illegible] portion of the [illegible] south of the river. Already they have wrecked about a square miles of the metropolitan district north of the Pasig.

Japanese demolition crews added new explosive fires to those already kindled on both banks of the Pasig and in other sectors of the city. One appeared to center in Manila's Chinese hotel, near the Escolta. At least three other fires appeared to be burning south of the river. They were large but not widespread.

Damage south of the river is not yet extensive. It will become so unless the Yanks run down the demolition crews and incendiarists.

Loss Of Life Light

If the enemy hoped to catch American troops in the blasts they failed. The few soldiers in the area managed to draw back along with almost all of the Filipino population and the loss of life was light.

The exploding munitions spread the fire far beyond the zone of military stores. Each blast threw fire over dozens of blocks, sometimes into the residential area. But the main wreckage was in the city's business district.

This morning the already crowded roads were further choked by an exodus of householders fleeing the flames with their grotesque burdens of personal belongings. One said to an American soldier, "Manila was a beautiful city but it is not beautiful now."

Progress Hindered

Two things made the situation uncomfortable south of the Pasig River. First, American troops north of the river, more numerous than on the south, were confronted with destroyed bridges. Second, Americans on the south have not been able to push very deeply into the city. At last reports, they were engaged in cleaning up enemy knots of resistance around Nichols Field, on the southern outskirts.

Problem New To Them

The doughboys really had a job on their hands. Manila is a big city and the Yank forces within are not large. Destroyed bridges over deep rivers at the outskirts limit their efforts. They are busy chasing down clusters of last-stand Nipponese around the outskirts and in residential and outer business districts. They are trying to get at the demolitionists and to control the fires too.

They are spread thin and the problem is new to them. These men are jungle fighters. A battle in and against a burning city is not their specialty.

Earlier, Gen. Douglas MacArthur told his soldiers "you will shortly complete the liberation of the Philippines" climaxing Japan's "worst military defeat in its history."

He requested divine services throughout his command for "our hallowed dead."

[John Adams, CBS correspondent, reported from Manila that fires set by the Japanese in the downtown section subsided somewhat during the night but flared up again early today on the south side of the town, where trapped enemy troops still are attempting to destroy everything possible.]

Mile Square Destroyed

The mile-square area reported destroyed included all major buildings along the Escolta, among them some of the Orient's finest theaters. Associated Press Correspondent Russell Brines reported "a great black gash appeared to have burned in that section of the city north of the Pasig River."

Manila's water mains were empty, for the enemy had blown up the pumping stations several days ago, and the great fire raged unchecked through the closely built area, spreading before a brisk wind toward the east and north. Explosions hurled burning chunks of wood into areas still inhabited by many of the more than 5,000 war prisoners liberated Saturday and Sunday, but were extinguished.

[Arthur Feldman, Blue Network radio reporter, said: "There was nothing catch-as-catch-can about this fire. The Japs just put the finishing touches on months and perhaps years of preparations before they withdrew, and the fruits of their efforts came with the convulsions that shook the city from sunset Monday onward."]

"Wantonly Set"

MacArthur said the fire, "wantonly set" by the "trapped and frustrated" enemy garrison, had no relation to Japanese military operations.

Japanese suicide troops planted explosives throughout Manila's business area and blew up banks, department stores and office buildings in a series of earth-shaking explosions starting a little after 8 P.M. Monday.

Japanese shells poured into American positions all Monday afternoon, but gave way to flames at night.

Corregidor Bombed

Corregidor fortress at the mouth of Manila Bay, to which many Japanese are believed to have retreated, was bombed with 180 tons of explosives—the heaviest load yet delivered there.

To the north, on the Bataan Peninsula—another possible temporary refuge for the Manila defenders—American troops who have sealed off all peninsular roads at the base drove slowly southward along the eastern edge, moving only yards at a time against Japanese resisting bitterly from jungle and bamboo thicket positions.

Road Sealed Off

On the east side of the central Luzon plain, the important highway town of San Jose fell to the Yanks. This effectively sealed off the enemy's last road lifeline to the plain from the Cagayan Valley. Lupao to the north was half occupied. At Munoz, to the west, 11 Japanese tanks were destroyed in the Americans made steady progress against stubborn resistance.

An enemy night counterattack northeast of Rosario was thrown back with heavy Japanese casualties.

Jap Battle Fleet Penned In Harbor

London, Feb. 7 (AP)—A Japanese battle fleet including four battleships, an aircraft carrier, six cruisers and many destroyers was bottled up at least temporarily recently in the Southwest Pacific after surprise mine-laying raids by RAF long-range Catalina flying boats, the Air Ministry announced tonight.

The Catalinas, it said, have closed at least temporarily every important harbor in the Dutch East Indies in the last few months and are exacting a heavy and increasing toll of Japanese shipping.

Australian Catalinas were used to lay mines by special request of the American fleet, the Ministry said. They were the only heavy aircraft employed for long work in the Southwest Pacific, and round-trips of nearly 2,000 miles were considered a normal night's work.

The successful bottling up of the enemy battle fleet was accomplished at night after the air crews were briefed to mine an "important" bay, it was announced. Later reconnaissance showed the enemy fleet was at least temporarily penned in the bay.

Luzon's Carabao More Deadly Than Japs

By Fred Hampson

With the U.S. 6th Army, Luzon, Feb. 1 [AP—Delayed]—So far the carabao—Philippine water buffalo—has been a more formidable enemy than the Japanese in this campaign. One American soldier has been gored to death and one or two have been hurt. Most of the doughboys, however, have been nimble enough to avoid harm.

These carabao, stolid beasts of all purposes, don't like the Yanks. Filipinos think it's their different odor. Whatever the reason, the seemingly lethargic carabao have attacked several soldiers without warning, and three of the animals have had to be shot.

Embarrassing To Filipinos

The American soldier had little trouble with the beasts on Leyte, but the Luzon species is either pro-Japanese or anti-American or both. Filipinos, who are violently pro-American, are most embarrassed by the hostility of their animals.

Most carabao are about the size of large oxen with powerful shoulders and neck. Some have long, sharp horns. Filipinos plow with them, haul produce to town with them, ride them and sometimes eat them. They are usually tied in the rice paddies but occasionally they stray onto roads unattended.

Death Ride In A Sedan

A Japanese lieutenant commanding an outpost in the United States western beachhead sector didn't realize how close he was to an American roadblock.

The enemy officer drove directly in front of the roadblock—in his well-polished 1940 sedan.

An American machine gunner gawked in surprise, pulled the trigger. It was curtains for the lieutenant—and that's how the first American-made automobile was captured on Luzon.

Mortars Kayo Tanks

The 4.2 mortar has been a weapon of many purposes in the Pacific war but perhaps not until Luzon did it ever serve to knock out tanks.

Several of these formidable weapons were trained on a covey of Japanese tankerettes during the short fight for Port Sual at the western end of the American beachhead.

Capt. Howard Carlisle, Philadelphia, said the mortars hit three tanks and disabled them.

The tankettes were disabled long enough for tank destroyers to come up and finish them off along with their two-man crews.

Filipinos "Clothes Happy"

Some Filipinos are talking the American doughboys out of almost everything except their shirts on their backs.

Filipinos much prefer clothes or army rations to money, both as a medium for barter and as payment for work they do—and no wonder. There's little or nothing they can buy with money, and besides they are fascinated by army clothing and food.

Heart Of Manila Laid Waste

By Fred Hampson

A Corps Command Post Near Manila, P.I., Feb. 6 [AP—Delayed]. Demolitionists and delayed-action mines laid waste a part of Manila's metropolitan center in an inferno of blasts and fire that started at 7 P.M. February 5 and continued until dawn of February 6.

Information reaching this command post was delayed by incredible traffic jams on both sides of blown bridges. It indicated that something more than a square mile of Manila's business, theater, financial and shopping section had been blasted to rubble or eaten out by fire.

Black Gash Burned Out

From Santo Tomas prison in Manila Associated Press Correspondent Russell Brines managed to get out word that "a great black gash appeared to have been burned out in that section of the city north of the Pasig River. Fires were still smoldering late today (February 6)."

Brines said that Dr. Arthur Berzin, a Latvian resident of Manila, stumbled into Santo Tomas this morning, smoke blackened and shaky after escaping from one of the main buildings on the Escolta, Manila's famed avenue of shops, as the Japanese blew it up.

Escolta Buildings Destroyed

Dr. Berzin declared that all major Escolta buildings were destroyed. These include the theaters, among the most modern and luxurious in the Orient, and the Heacock building, which once was one of Manila's best known department stores.

This belated destruction was a bitter pill for advancing American troops who found Manila only slightly damaged on their entry February 4 and had hoped to clean out demolition charges in time to save the city, which was among the handsomest in the Orient.

Recurrent Explosions

From this military post not far from Manila's outskirts, the sky was flushed with recurrent explosions between 7 and 9 P.M. Monday night. From then until early morning the sky reflected the glow of the vast fire.

Observers reported that some of Manila's handsomest hotels were blackened skeletons. So were the stately bank buildings and beautiful department stores.

Municipal Building Not Hurt

Brines said that from a Santo Tomas tower he could see the post office, city hall and other municipal buildings on the south side of the Pasig. They appeared to be undamaged.

But the Japanese were still in that section of the city. Their demolition work there may not have been started.

Smoke also rose from more fires to the southwest, in the warehouse district.

Water System Destroyed

Previously demolition crews had destroyed part of the city's water system, handicapping what remained of Manila's fire department. The American Army was able to do little fire fighting since its troops were busy mopping up the Japs and most of the equipment that might have been converted to fire fighting was trapped behind bridges at the outskirts of Manila.

M'Arthur Greets Santo Tomas Internees

By Russell Brines

Santo Tomas Internment Camp, Manila, Feb. 7 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who promised when he left the Philippines, "I will return," returned today to the civilians who long awaited him here and then left the camp to the growl of a Japanese shell that landed 100 feet away on the campus of this historic college.

Enemy artillery had intermittently hit the campus through the night and today, wounding some soldiers, but although the internees had been ducking shell blasts all morning, they crowded around MacArthur when he arrived. The throng cheered lustily when the general and his staff alighted from their cars at the camp's main building.

"There's MacArthur again. He's back," they shouted.

Historic Moment

It was a historic moment against the backdrop of the still bitter fight for Manila. The honor guard long had been standing on the roadway fronting the main building and the internees had crowded around the entrance awaiting the general.

Shells had landed throughout the night on the campus near some internees' shanties. Several hits were scored on the university buildings.

But the internees were remarkably calm because, as one of them said, they had been dodging shrapnel and duds from Japanese anti-aircraft guns which had been placed around the university to fire at American planes raiding Manila.

The Japanese artillery fire may have been directed toward American gun positions some distance behind the camp or at the small concentration of troops within the camp.

Greeted Old Friends

MacArthur, with sober face, greeted old friends who mobbed him. Many of the former captives were so thin the general found it difficult to recognize them.

The general walked slowly through the press of people through two floors of the main building and on past the internee living quarters through the children's hospital.

At nearly every step MacArthur was halted while internees reintroduced themselves and told him they knew he would come back.

One of the first internees MacArthur met was Cy Nelson, former army clerk and an old-time Manilan. He also greeted T. J. Wolff, San Francisco, chairman of the American Red Cross chapter.

Several women grasped the general's hand and reminded him of the former social days in Manila.

Another to greet MacArthur was A. V. H. Hartendorp, of Denver, Col., editor of the Philippine Magazine.

One army nurse kissed the general. Col. Louis Hutchinson, of Aiken, S.C., dressed in a new uniform, saluted while standing on crutches.

SANTO TOMAS HIT BY JAPS' SHELLS

By RUSSELL BRINES

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, Manila, Feb. 7.—(AP) Japanese artillery fire wounded some of the internees of the internment camp at Santo Tomas university today a few hours after Gen. Douglas MacArthur visited the camp.

Army internee doctors and nurses attended the wounded in the camp hospitals. There was no immediate announcement of the number wounded, or their names.

The shelling was a continuation of the enemy fire which harassed the 3,700 internees last night and this morning but which did not dampen the enthusiasm of their cheers which greeted General MacArthur in his visit around noon.

Some of the shells earlier had wounded a few soldiers posted at the camp, and one of them exploded within 100 feet of MacArthur as he got into his car after the visit to leave with his staff.

The Japanese fire was intermittent throughout the afternoon. The enemy batteries evidently were reaching for targets in northern Manila. American artillery in the distance replied to the Nipponese fire, throwing shells into the area south of the Pasig river, where the enemy force is concentrated.

No Panic

While the internees lost the supreme calm which they had demonstrated in previous days, there was no panic as the Japanese shells hit buildings and several places on the university campus. The men, women and children so recently liberated after three years of imprisonment, crowded huddled against walls in the rear of the buildings.

But fear was plainly written on the faces of these thin people who prayed that the enemy shell fire would not destroy their newly won freedom.

One shell exploded in the women's room on the third floor of the main building, but there were few women in the room. Another hit a room on the second floor and a third ripped through the top of the building. In all, six rooms were hit.

Several shells fell on the campus and shrapnel splattered a wide area.

The shelling appeared to be from heavy mortars and three-inch guns. The area in front of the main building became a no-man's land as firing was resumed at 4 P. M. after a brief interlude.

Civilian internees took shelter several times today as Japanese artillery and mortar fire continued to bracket Santo Tomas camp grounds, but there was full attendance at the "chow line" as they anxiously awaited their first taste of hot American food.

The noon meal was delayed more than an hour as the kitchen staff, aided by the Army prepared bully beef and string beans. Children stood in groups talking about the new, strange food.

The menu for the day was posted in big chalk letters on the bulletin board. It read: "Hot American chow—plenty for everybody."

The evening meal was the most-talked about event of the day. It contained a real treat, fruit salad.

57th Regiment's Colors Delivered To MacArthur

Manila, Feb. 7 (AP)—Saved from surrender on Bataan and Corregidor and secreted for three years during the Japanese occupation, the colors of the 57th Regiment, Philippine Scouts, were delivered to Gen. Douglas MacArthur today.

Survivors of the crack scout regiment, part of the regular United States Army, carried the colors to Corregidor after their last fight on Bataan. When "The Rock" surrendered, Capt. Frank Oliver Andrews stuffed the colors in a pillow and carried it to Bilibid Prison. There he buried it.

Andrews dug up the flag when the prisoners were liberated February 5.

Jap Ships Bombed By Marine Flyers

Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Thursday, Feb. 8 (AP)—Attacking with rockets and bombs, marine Mitchell bombers hit a large ship in a convoy north of the Volcano Islands Tuesday and left another one north of the Bonins burning, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported today.

The ships were hit as marine bombers disrupted the two convoys with supplies for the Bonin and Volcano Island groups.

Army Liberators hit the installations at Chichi Jima and Ototo Jima in the Bonins on the same day.

In the Kurile Islands, 11th Air Force Liberators bombed the enemy base of Kataoko on Shimushu Tuesday.

Marine Corsair Fighters destroyed a bridge and set trucks on fire and struck defense positions on Babelthuap in the Palaus. Hits were made on a bridge and pier on Yap Island in the Carolines.

Bonins Hit Again.

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—Army Liberators hammered the Bonin and Volcano Islands on Sunday and Monday while Marine bombers struck barges and buildings on the Palau Islands, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz reported today.

Marine torpedo planes destroyed a pier and buildings on Yap, Monday, and Marine Mitchell bombers hit the airfield on by-passed Ponape in the Carolines, Tuesday, where they met intense ack-ack and lost one plane, the communique added.

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC, Feb. 7—(AP) Lieut. Col. A. A. Vandegrift, Jr., 33, son of the commandant of the Marine corps, has been awarded the Legion of Merit, a Marine Corps correspondent reported today. The award was made for inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy during the Saipan-Tinian campaign. Colonel Vandegrift was wounded in the leg.

Leyte, Philippines, Feb. 3 [AP—Delayed]—One wild night in the life of an anti-aircraft crew—a night that all fifteen men survived, although none thought it possible—a night that convinced all fifteen that there is a God:

Sunburned Pfc. Adrain Baker, of Lyon Mountain, N.Y., wiped the sweat from his eyes and stiffened. Over his headphones came the warning:

"Groups of bogeys (enemy planes) 20 miles southeast."

He yelled the message to the gun section of Sergt. Justilian Martin, Gretna, La.

On The Alert

In the big gun pit the crew of the 40-mm. Bofors, "The Spittin' Kitten," had been alerted. In another corner of the area, T/5 Steve Benkovich, Waukegan, Ill., operated the gasoline-driven power plant. If it quit, the Spittin Kitten could not use its automatic aiming mechanism.

The Spittin' Kitten's gunner, Corporal George Dimodica, Madison, Wis., gave a last quick twirl to the manual controls—just in case.

The loader and firer, Pfc. Leonard Brown, Jackson, Mich., put another clip of four shells up beside that already in the breech.

Acting as lookouts were four other men:

The Foe Arrives

Pfc. John Duboise, Abbeville, La., and Privates Bernard Hemenway, Niagara Falls, N.Y., Richard M. Mangan, Chicago, and Keith Beckwith, Greenville, S.C.

"There he comes!" everyone yelled at once. A Zeke sped in from the south at 1,800 feet.

The azimuth tracker, Pfc. Robert E. Gates, Seattle, Wash., twirled his wheel and the Spittin' Kitten swung horizontally.

Pfc. Richard W. Williamson, Wichita, Kan., was twirling another wheel until the oncoming Zeke was centered in his own scope.

The gun director, Corporal Harry L. Shock, Chicago, squinted across open sights, like those of a shotgun, and estimated the range—the distance of the Zeke. He cranked until that figure registered on a dial. The Spittin' Kitten swung automatically as he did so. Now she was aiming ahead of the plane—so shell and plane would reach the same place at the same instant.

All this was done in a split second. Then the Spittin' Kitten sp

Joining them from their separate pit were the three men who had been pounding away with their .50-caliber machine gun:

Pfc. Ray Martin, Gilroy, Cal., at the gun, and Privates John Watkins, Blue Diamond, Ky., and John F. Billotte, South Boston, Mass., passing ammunition.

As the Zeke was perked from its course and began to flame, a small bomb hurtled downward.

"That's for us!" yelled Gunner Dimodica, and all 15 men hit the dirt. It missed by 50 feet.

There was a lull of several hours and part of the crew slept in the pits, while others remained alert.

Second Warning

Then Baker, the telephone listener sounded a second warning—and this time the whole world blew up.

The enemy sent in a group of bombers. The Spittin' Kitten didn't cease firing so quickly this time. She still was spewing her stream of heavy tracers, and Private Martin's .50-caliber was pounding like a popcorn machine, when two huge bombs struck within 75 yards.

Sergeant Martin, standing erect at the moment, was blown flat into a foxhole—unhurt. One man felt the warm trickle of blood. A flying bit of shrapnel nicked his cheek. No one else in the gun section was hit, although all were blown from their feet.

Quick Recovery

The sandbagged sides of the Spittin' Kitten's pit bulged and caved in. The big gun was knocked from its moorings and jarred into one end of the pit. Sand, rocks and dirt jammed every working part.

Wounded were calling from other foxholes, and medics were trying to reach them—despite the fact shells stacked in the area were beginning to explode and send out their own terrible rain of shrapnel. Somehow every one of the fifteen men escaped injury.

By dawn all fifteen were at work, and by noon the section was ready for action again.

the bases have had to be abandoned.

To reach the bases American transports had to fly close to enemy airfields.

The bulk of the supply work was done by C-47's under Col. John H. (Luke) Williamson of North Carolina, flying in groups of as many as ten planes.

Williamson's crews flew two trips daily from a forward base to Suichan or Kanchow, both of which have now been taken by the Japanese. The same crews would fly every day for a week and then take a week's rest while fresh men operated the shuttle service.

Ten or eleven hours in the air was a common daily stint. They flew day and night, sometimes in weather which, as the saying goes, "had birds walking."

First Lieut. Andrew Vrabec of Milwaukee, one of Williamson's first pilots, said the ticklish thing was to run into Japanese raiders at Suichuan or Kanchow. The transports would wait at a distance from the field until the Japanese bombers finished.

"We could see the bomb explosions on the field and tracers going up into the sky," he said. "Sometimes the field would light up, indicating a Japanese bomber had hit parked planes. Once we almost collided with a Japanese bomber."

Unescorted flights were sweat jobs as this correspondent learned personally on a trip some weeks ago. I made the hop in a C-46 with Second Lieut. E. G. Youngs of Silverdale, Wash., and Louis Gottlieb of 63 North Henry street, Brooklyn. The weather went clear just before we flew over the Paoching airfield west of Hengyang.

We scanned the field for enemy planes, but saw none. I reasoned impulsively that they must all be in the air, perhaps even then getting ready to dive out of a sun spot upon us. None appeared, however, and we learned later that the Fourteenth Air Force's fighters and bombers had been making the Paoching, Hengyang and Kweilin fields so hot the Japanese seldom were able to use them except for fly-by-night staging of medium bombers.

Youngs is one of the coolest cucumbers you could imagine. He didn't even bother to take over the controls from the automatic pilot, just went on smoking in a bored fashion. We were only 7,000 feet up and I suggested it might be better if we went higher. Youngs didn't think so. He assuaged my nerves by giving me something to do—stand on a folding chair and keep a lookout through the astral dome.

Gottlieb, who had been navigating, said that if I saw any planes I was to yell out because they couldn't be on our team. Youngs remarked that anything could happen as we neared Hengyang, adding "we must be in their net by now."

At Suichuan we had to land on the taxi-strip, a tight squeeze for a big plane, because the runway still was geysering with delayed action bombs left by the Japanese.

The return trip several days later was made in a B-24 tanker. We had a close shave when five bursts from a 75mm. anti-aircraft gun exploded just off our tail.

I was visiting the waist-gunner, Corporal Raymond E. Spadaccia, 199 North Central avenue, Elmsford, N. Y., at the time. The closest explosion shook the plane and sounded like a nearby bomb blast. The pilot, First Lieut. William S. Johnston, Waterbury, Road, Thomaston, Conn., quickly took evasive action.

Supplying U. S. Bases in China One of Hardest Flying Jobs

By CLYDE FARNSWORTH.

Kunming, Feb. 6 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The story of how gasoline and supplies were flown across Japanese lines to American forward air bases in China's Kiangsi province has long been shielded by the United States Fourteenth Air Force for security reasons, but may be told now that

B-29'S ERASE BRIDGE IN THAILAND BLOW

HEADQUARTERS OF 20TH BOMBER COMMAND, in India, Feb. 7 (AP)—Winging out in strength on a 3,000-mile round trip double-header mission, B-29's today hit Japanese targets at Saigon, French Indo-China, and marked an "X" on the vital Rama VI bridge just west of Bangkok, Thailand, which had carried the bulk of enemy supplies to Burma.

"Good to excellent" results were reported by bomber crews on the mission to erase the bridge. Bombing was visual and observed results will not be something to make Japanese commanders on the Burma fronts, already desperately short of supplies, rest easier of evenings.

[At Washington the Twentieth Air Force announced that all the Superforts on both strikes returned to their bases, and that two-thirds of the center span of the bridge was left lying in the river.]

The Rama VI bridge is a 1,400-foot long structure over the Menam water course and is the most vital link in the Bangkok-Moulmein railroad. It was hit before by B-29's in a training mission, but was not put out of operation, although approaches were damaged.

The bombing of Saigon was impeded by a sudden shift in weather that blanketed the target. Bombing results were not observed. Saigon is one of the southwestern naval bases that have assumed extreme importance to the Japanese since their fleet was mauled in the series of actions around the Philippine Islands.

Bangkok is a high priority target. It is a major transportation center supplying the Japanese forces in southeast Asia, and has been bombed four times before.

British Are Clearing Foe From Area on Irrawaddy

Still Meet Resistance Near Burma River Confluence

KANDY, Ceylon, Feb. 7 (AP).—British 14th Army troops are still encountering Japanese resistance in the triangle formed by the confluence of the Irrawaddy and Chindwin Rivers in Burma, some forty miles west of Mandalay, an Allied communique said today.

But progress was reported in clearing the area east of Myinmu on the north bank of the Irrawaddy. Myinmu is about twenty-five miles west of the enemy stronghold of Sagaing, guarding direct approaches to Mandalay.

In north Burma the American Mars Task Force and the Chinese 38th Division were heavily engaged in hills west of the Burma Road, while troops of the 50th Chinese Division captured a village on the south bank of the Shweli River.

Flying from India bases, the B-29s of Brig.-Gen. Roger M. Ramey's Twentieth Bomber Command sprang the twin attacks in daylight. A war bulletin from General of the Army H. H. Arnold, commanding the Twentieth Air Force, did not disclose additional details.

The Japanese-controlled Saigon radio in Indo-China, in a broadcast recorded by FCC, said the Saigon-Cholon area was attacked before noon and that considerable damage was done to a hospital and residential quarters. A radio announcer was killed, the broadcast added.

Results of the missions will be announced when operational reports are received from the theater.

Possible targets were Bangkok, capital of Thailand; Saigon, chief city of Indo-China, and the fleet base at Camranh Bay, 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

Bangkok is the major transportation center supplying Japanese forces in southeast Asia. Four times it has felt the sting of Superfortress bombs—last June 5, November 27, December 14 and January 2.

[The Tokyo radio said that single B-29s thrice bombed the Kobe area today and last night but that "our side sustained no damage."

The broadcast, recorded by FCC and reported by the Associated Press, reported reconnaissance flights over the Shinetsu district, which includes Tokyo and Yokohama, by single planes.]

Japs Have Saigon Base.

In their first strike at Saigon on January 27 the B-29s plummeted multi-ton loads of destruction on this key naval base. Some 3,200 miles from the B-29s India bases, Saigon has a dock capable of handling repairs to medium sized vessels. Other high priority targets are three military airdromes, important oil storage tanks and railroad shops.

Recent reports indicated that Japanese skittering from the besieged Philippines have established new army installations at Saigon.

Some 1,000 miles from Luzon on the Indo-China coast, Camranh Bay is the nearest Asiatic fleet base from which the Japanese can dispatch or receive troops and material from the Philippines. Before the war it was Indo-China's chief commercial port.

In today's strikes the B-29s rounded out the fifty-first major mission in their long-range aerial offensive against Japan and its empire strongholds. Since January 1 the Superforts have uncorked eighteen attacks against such targets as Nagoya, Omura, Akashi and Tokyo in the Nipponese homeland; Formosa, Singapore and Iwo Jima in the Volcanos.

These latest B-29 operations coincided with widespread air activity by planes of other Pacific air forces. Heavy bombers dumped ninety-one tons of bombs on enemy airdromes on northern Borneo yesterday and raked air and ship facilities throughout the Philippines, the Moluccas and islands north of New Guinea. Army planes again spanned the China Sea to hit Formosa.

Mrs. MacArthur Silent Even on Fall of Manila

Policy of No Public Statements Imposed by General in 1942

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 7 (AP).—Even the fall of Manila could not break Mrs. Douglas MacArthur's policy of public silence, imposed by the general on their arrival in Australia three years ago.

Mrs. MacArthur's aid today answered a series of questions submitted to her on her reaction to the fall of Manila by saying:

"Mrs. MacArthur has never made a statement for publication. She cannot now alter that policy without authority from general headquarters in Manila. Only permission from there would enable her to speak. She does hope the press will appreciate her position."

Mexico City Visit Of Negrin Expected

Mexico City, Feb. 7 (AP)—Juan Negrin, last Premier of the Spanish Republic, is expected in Mexico City the second half of February, he advised in his recent cablegram from London, but the date depends upon travel facilities, Antonio Velao, his spokesman here, said today.

Negrin is scheduled to go to New York from Europe, and from there to Mexico City.

Julio Alvarez del Vayo, Secretary of State in the Negrin Government, returned to New York a few days ago after helping organize a "Negrin rally" here, at which refugee friends of the former Premier proclaimed his government the legal one.

The announced purpose of Negrin's visit is to help unite Spanish republicans, now spilt in opposing political camps.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Feb. 7 (AP) Adm. Sir Bruce Fraser, commander in chief of the British Pacific fleet, met today with the New Zealand war cabinet to discuss matters relating to the British fleet operation in the Pacific.

Ritual Finds Fresh Point In Quebec

Quebec, Feb. 7 (AP) — French-speaking Quebec, at odds with most of the rest of Canada on the issue of conscription, opened its twenty-second Legislature today with frequent reference to provincial autonomy.

Bith in age-old ritual and in a statement of policy announced by the new Union Nationale Government of Premier Maurice Duplessis, Quebec reasserted rights originally granted by the British crown, and jealously observed today in the strife over the issue of drafting troops to fight abroad.

Provincial Rights Emphasized

The Duplessis Government, elected last August on a platform of provincial autonomy and of opposition to the wartime policies of Dominion Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's Government in Ottawa, declared in the traditional speech from the throne:

"In order to be able to give to both the provincial administration and Legisuature the family, social and national orientation which the Government proposes, it is necessary that the province be able to exercise in all their integrity the rights, prerogatives and liberties recognized by the British North American Act (counterpart of the American Constitution).

Centralization Deprecated

"The Government considers that it belongs neither to a majority of the provinces, nor the Ottawa Government, to bring changes to the Canadian Constitution."

The speech added that the Government "believes that administrative and legislative decentralization is the very essence of the federative pact, whereas centralization is in the nature of Hitlerism which is deeply repugnant to the Province of Quebec."

On the British parliamentary pattern, the Government announced its policy and legislative program in an address from the throne read ceremoniously by the direct representative of King George VI, Lieutenant Governor Sir Eugene Fiset.

In French And In English

Before a gallery packed with spectators who had come from all parts of the province, the Lieutenant Governor read the speech, first in French, then in English, from a massive throne mounted on a dais carpeted in royal scarlet in the chamber of the Legsilative Council, corresponding to London's House of Lords. Quebec is the only province having a bicameral Legislature.

The ritual stressed the ancient authority of the British monarch as King of Canada, though this in Canada, as in England, is largely symbolic today. The Lieutenant Governor, as representative of the King, summoned the Assembly, representing the people, to appear before him.

Ritual Kept Unchanged

The members of the lower house thereupon appeared before the Lieutenant Governor in the Council chamber, but the Speaker of the Council, Alphonse Raymond, declared to them in words unchanged through the years:

"The Honorable Lieutenant Governor does not see fit to declare the cause of his summoning the present session until the Speaker of the Legislative Assembly shall have been chosen according to law."

Wit hthese words the Assembly members trooped back to their own chamber. Premier Duplessis nominated a Speaker, Alexander Tache, and he was elected, but according to tradition he protested on the theory that he might suffer bodily harm at the hands of the King.

From Days Of Charles I

This rite stems from the days of Charles I of England, when the people's representatives were not always in favor at court.

Duplesses then walked over to Tache and, taking his arm, led him away toward the upper house, where he stood before the throne and declared he would try to carry out his duties faithfully.

"I hope the House will sustain me in vindicating our rights and privileges, and in maintaining our rules and orders, and in securing the freedom of debate according to our established usage."

With their newly-chosen speaker, the Assembly members again strolled into the Council chamber.

People's Address To Throne

With the members present, Speaker Tache advised the throne that the peoples' representatives through him would "discharge their duty to their King and country" and that they would "humbly claim all their undoubted rights and privileges, especially that they may have freedom of speech in their debates, access to your person at all reasonable times, and that their proceedings may receive from you the most favorable interpretations."

In reply Speaker Raymond of the uppper House declared:

"I am commanded to assure you that the Legislative Assembly shall have ready access to the Honorable Lieutenant Governor upon all reasonable occasions, an dthat their proceedings, as well as their words and acts, will constantly receive from him the most favorable consideration."

Carried Out In Festive Mood

Although observed with scrupulous attention to the traditional ritual, the ceremonies in modern times are carried out in festive mood. Only the trappings are left from the days of despotic monarchies.

Bishop Coadjutor Omer Plante and the Rt. Rev. Philip Carrington, Lord Bishop of Quebec, attended today's ceremony as representatives of the Catholic and Anglican churches, respectively. They had no part in the proceedings.

2,000-Mile Pipe Line In China

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—A 2,000-mile lend-lease pipeline is being burrowed into the interior of China to power the Allied air attack on Japan, Leo T. Crowley, foreign economics administrator, disclosed today.

Crowley told the House Foreign Affairs Committee the pipeline, built through combined American, British, Chinese and Indian manpower and resources, "will increase manyfold the 15,000 tons per month that once moved over the old Burma road."

It will "enable the combined forces of the United Nations to mount new and greater offensives from China," he testified. Crowley went before the committee to urge a one-year extension of lend-lease, which otherwise will lapse June 30.

Many Other Such Projects

The pipeline, he said, is just one of many lend-lease operations aimed at stepping up military supplies for China and Allied forces in the East.

A fleet of 15,000 American trucks will be delivered to China over the new Ledo road to set up a Chinese transportation system. A thousand American technicians are in China or on their way there and 1,000 Chinese will be brought to this country for training to help their country "handle the greatly increased volume of lend-lease materials that will be moving in," he said.

2½ Billion From Britain

Crowley reviewed the whole history of lend-lease operations on all fighting fronts and said reverse lend-lease aid is coming to America's war effort from Britain at the rate of $2,500,000,000 a year.

"The value of reverse lend-lease aid that we have received from our other Allies has not been of the same magnitude," he added. "China and Russia have required all that they could produce besides what we could send them for fighting the invaders of their soil. . . .

"Doing What They Can"

"All, however, are contributing what they can for victory for all of us. For surely a nation which sends a plane or a tank into battle manned with its own soldiers contributes no less to victory than one which provides a plane or a tank without a crew as lend-lease or reverse lend-lease."

Crowley told the committee that Australia and New Zealand are furnishing 90 per cent of the food for American forces in the South and Central Pacific, under reverse lend-lease.

Representative Wadsworth (R., N.Y.), a committee member, described this as remarkable.

Crowley said America now is shipping only eight per cent of its total food production to Allies, under lend-lease.

Invasion Of Japan M'Arthur Task?

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "On to Tokyo" cry has given rise to speculation among military men here that he may well get from President Roosevelt the assignment to invade Japan.

Actually, the idea that the liberator of Manila would probably want to go beyond the Philippines has hit some of the ranking officers here as a surprising but—now that they think of it—entirely logical notion. Moreover, it fits in with indicated development of the final stage of the war to crush Japan.

Threefold Task

The task is threefold: To keep command of the seas and the ocean supply lines leading to Japan and the China coast, to invade Japan and to invade China.

The odds-on favorite for the China invasion assignment, despite his recent run-in with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, is Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, the Army's new ground forces commander.

Stilwell knows the Chinese better than any other top-flight American officer and is considered by most of his associates to be best equipped to plan the future grand-scale operations in China.

Full-Time Job

But the China assignment is a full-time job that may continue, assuming it starts first, long after the invasion of Japan. These will be separate operations, raising entirely separate problems of strategy and supply.

This is why speculation now centers on MacArthur for this top role in what will be the last act of victory in the Pacific.

The third leading character is Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, whose task is to crush what remains of the Japanese fleet while controlling the seas to support the large land operations.

Ocean Strategy

The responsibility for ocean strategy is Nimitz's, as is also the delivery of goods.

The conquest of all Luzon Island, soon to follow upon the capture of Manila, will make available to the Pacific command the large mass of land required for concentrating men and supplies for the final move to crush Japan, the move into China and the move into Japanese home islands.

The roles of America's real and potential Allies are now expected to complicate the command assignments. The British have control in the area of the Indian Ocean, Malaya and most of the Dutch Indies. There is no question of joint command there.

Russ Attitude In Doubt

If the Russians come into the war in the north it may be necessary for Nimitz to secure bases in the Kuriles to establish direct communications to Russia and also to advance the American northern flank toward Japan.

However, there is no expectation here that the Russians would any more desire a single Allied command in the Far East than they have in Europe.

It is not expected that there would be any problem with Chinese armies.

Ship Gripsholm Is Due In U.S. Late This Month

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Swedish steamer Gripsholm is scheduled to leave from Marseille tomorrow morning and arrive in the United States about February 21 or 22, the State Department disclosed today.

The exchange ship is carrying American wounded war prisoners and internees from Germany.

Mrs. Roosevelt's Secret Makes Him Unhappy

Washington, Feb. 7 (A. P.).—Representative Karl Mundt (R.-S. D.) said today that he feels unhappy as sole owner of a White House secret.

The secret:

A three-page letter from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt giving her view on what constitutes un-American activities—which she asked be kept confidential.

Mr. Mundt recently asked 100 prominent Americans for definition of such activities and, he told a reporter:

"Of the nearly fifty replies, the one from the President's wife was the only one which specified it not be made public."

Mr. Mundt is a member of the new permanent House Committee on Un-American Activities—outgrowth of the old Dies committee on which he also served.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, who also sent in a three-page letter, commented:

An Important Function.

"If the (new) committee and its recommendations are to carry any weight, it seems to me that it must first establish a reputation for fairness—a characteristic which its predecessor, the Dies committee, uniformly lacked."

Gov. Dwight Griswold of Nebraska said he believed its best function would be "to serve as a committee where any one who felt they had any story that needed telling might appear and get it off their chest. Under our system of government that is a very important function."

L. D. Kotchkiss, managing editor of the Los Angeles Times, said any statute, regulation, or usage "which enables a majority to trample upon the rights of a minority is to me un-American. The committee might well constitute itself the special guardian of the Bill of Rights."

"The sanctity of Americanism," said Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, "is not preserved by just a written document (the Constitution and its Bill of Rights). That document would be of no value without the spiritual validity that is Americanism. And this spiritual validity goes way back to 1776."

E. H. Taylor, member of the Country Gentleman editorial staff, asserted:

"Any organized movement which, operating secretly, clandestinely or under cover, seeks to undermine or change the American form of government shall be considered un-American."

FilipinoCitizenshipBillOffered

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP).—Native-born Filipinos would be eligible for American citizenship under a bill introduced today by Delegate Joseph R. Farrington, of Hawaii.

The War Department announces the names of 1,351 United States soldiers wounded in action in the European, Mediterranean and southwest Pacific areas and the names of 2,837 held as prisoners of war by Germany. In all cases next of kin have been notified and have been kept informed by the War Department of any change in status. Following are lists for metropolitan New York, New Jersey and Connecticut:

MANPOWER SET-UP FAILURE DENIED

McNutt Gives Tempered Approval to Work or Jail Measure.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7. — (AP) War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt delivered a tempered endorsement of the work-or-jail bill today. But senators who questioned him at a closed hearing said he expressed confidence that the current manpower problem could be handled by the existing voluntary system.

On the record, McNutt renewed his recommendation for the limited national service bill, amended to place overall control of the program in James F. Byrnes' Office of War Mobilization and reconversion. To enact the bill in the form it passed the House, with selective service in charge, would hurt rather than help the war effort, he declared.

His recommendation, McNutt asserted, "was not based upon any conclusion that our manpower program has failed, but upon a recognition of the fact that at this crucial period of the war he must be sure that there will be no failure in our ability to man urgent plants promptly."

Before McNutt's prepared statement was made public, however, Senator Chandler (D-Ky) told reporters:

"He definitely said that by voluntary methods he could supply the manpower needed in the present shortage without this bill. He wouldn't forecast, however, whether he could meet future needs without legislation."

Then Chandler added:

"I have reason to believe from what I've heard today that our manpower situation was better on Jan. 1 this year than it ever has been in history."

The Kentucky senator openly opposes the bill.

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) said that "the off-the-record information we got from Mr. McNutt was much more interesting than that on the record."

Earlier the Navy told Congress it wants the limited national service bill enacted to keep the momentum of the war going and bring victory quicker.

The spokesman, James V. Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, also informed reporters after his appearance before the Senate Military committee that V-E Day will only "sharpen up" the need for manpower controls, in the Navy's estimation.

"Our requirements for the Pacific war won't go down," he declared, emphasizing that West coast navy yards, currently suffering from a labor shortage, must be placed and kept in peak condition to handle any quick calls for repair work.

"Our numerical needs now are not tremendous," he said, "but they are very essential for such things as rockets, battle repairs, heavy duty tires and other things.

"We have the momentum going, and if we can keep it going we may shorten the war."

Forrestal said he had no doubt of the nation's willingness to provide the needed labor, if it just can be convinced the work is necessary. The bill which has passed the House and now is pending before the Senate committee should furnish that assurance, he thought.

30.24-22783

Manpower Need Is Stressed By Forrestal

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP) — Navy Secretary Forrestal said today that the need for work-or-jail manpower legislation "will sharpen up" after V-E day so far as the Navy is concerned.

"Our requirements for the Pacific war won't go down" after Germany falls, the Cabinet official told newsmen after testifying before the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

"Our numerical needs now are not tremendous," Forrestal said, "but they are very essential for such things as rockets, battle repairs, heavy-duty tires and other things.

"Momentum Rolling"

"We have the momentum going, and if we can keep it going we may shorten the war."

Saying that he had stressed to the committee "that time was of the essence," the navy chief added: "There is no question that the country is willing to provide the labor that is necessary if they are told it is necessary. This is a way of affirming that belief."

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), a member of the committee which yesterday began a series of closed hearings, expressed concern that passage of an all-embracing measure might cause confusion among workers, and lower, rather than increase war production.

"All Citizens Duty-Bound"

Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, who appeared along with Secretary Henry Stimson yesterday, had no such doubts.

Patterson told the senators that "no one is entitled to a free ride in this war." He declared that every citizen is duty bound to help win it, to the extent that the nation needs his services. . ."

are supplying, among other things, 90 per cent of the food for American forces in the South and Central Pacific.

"The rate of reverse lend-lease from Australia and New Zealand is ahead of direct lend-lease from this country," he testified. "The amounts they are supplying month by month is greater than the amounts they receive from us."

First Case Of Overbalance

It is the first case where lend-lease has overhauled United States aid to Allied nations, but officials expect reverse aid from Russia to increase soon as that nation returns to something near its normal economic life, Cox said.

He appeared before the committee as the Administration opened its case for a one-year extension of the lend-lease program, which otherwise would end June 30.

In a statement reviewing lend-lease operations Leo T. Crowley, foreign economic administrator, disclosed that a 2,000-mile lend-lease pipeline is being poked into the interior of China to supply fuel for Allied offensives against Japan.

Four Countries Aid In Job

The line—a product of American, British, Chinese and Indian manpower and resources—will increase many-fold the trickle of aid which once reached China over the old Burma road, Crowley said. In addition, a fleet of 15,000 American trucks will go to China, accompanied by 1,000 lend-lease experts who will rehabilitate the transportation system.

Cox characterized as "pure fiction" a report, brought to the hearing by Representative Mundt (R., S.D.), that American fighting planes are charged a service fee for using an airport in Scotland, built partly with United States lend-lease supplies.

Kept Informed By Britain

"The fiction is that we are charged a $7,000 fee," Cox smiled, "but the fact is: The United Kingdom makes no charge. Britain furnishes airfields and services under reverse lend-lease."

Cox said the British Government keeps the United States constantly up to date on its financial condition, trade balances and the like.

"Do we receive the same information from Russia?" asked Representative Flood (R., Pa.).

"No, sir, we do not," Cox replied.

Anzacs Ahead In Lend-Lease

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Reverse lend-lease supplies from Australia and New Zealand are now exceeding United States lend-lease shipments to those countries for the first time since war began.

Oscar Cox, general counsel for the Lend-Lease Administration, told the House Foreign Affairs Committee today those two nations

War and State Departments Announce Program for Internees' Repatriation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP).—General Douglas MacArthur has informed the War and State Departments that persons liberated in the Philippines will be sent home "as soon as the military situation permits."

A joint statement of the two departments was issued by Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew at a news conference.

The complete text follows:

"The War Department and the Department of State have had under consideration since November, 1944, plans for providing with the utmost dispatch whatever relief is essential for United Nations citizens liberated from enemy custody in the Philippine Islands and for the prompt repatriation for all those desiring it.

"General MacArthur has informed the War Department within the last week that he has taken all appropriate measures to provide for the welfare of all United Nations citizens and that those relief measures will be continued throughout the period of military administration by the civil affairs authorities of the Army. According to General MacArthur present arrangements for the care of liberated internees provide immediately shelter, clothing, food and medical attention for those in need of it. Such internees will be cared for in special camps provided by the Army pending their repatriation under the auspices of the theater commander.

"General MacArthur has further informed the War Department that as soon as the military situation in the islands permits, the Army is able to release shipping space for that purpose, arrangements will be made for the repatriation of those wishing to leave the islands. In the meantime, preparations are under way to enable next of kin in the United States to communicate with their relatives in the Philippines through facilities to be provided by the War Department, pending the re-establishment of regular postal and telegraph facilities.

"It is anticipated that the names of liberated internees will become available in the near future through appropriate War Department channels.

"At present the responsibilities before-mentioned are primarily those of the military authorities. As soon as civil officials again can function the Department of State will reopen the American Consulate at Manila."

HOUSE BILL ASKS YOUTH TRAINING

Broad Program to Aid Physical Fitness Suggested, With Grants to States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—A nationwide physical training program in schools was proposed today by Representatives Weiss of Pennsylvania and Hartley of New Jersey, who introduced a bill to create a national commission on physical fitness. At the same time they called attention to the high rate of draft rejections on physical grounds.

The bill asked a $25,000,000 allocation for extensive sports and exercises in schools to increase "the strength, athletic skill, stamina, endurance and morale of the people of the United States."

A three-point program is outlined in the measure:

1. Encouragement of activities relating to the physical development of the people and the maintenance of fitness through sports, athletics, gymnastics, swimming, hiking, camping and other similar pursuits.

2. Encouragement of provision of facilities for the conduct of physical activities.

3. Development of physical fitness through the amelioration of physical defects by physical exercise.

Besides the $25,000,000 fund for aid to States, the commission would get $250,000 as administrative expenses under the plan.

"The plan will not only prepare youth for the time of war but train them to meet the challenges in the peaceful pursuits of life," the sponsors said.

They declared that figures that more than 51.2 per cent of draftees had been rejected for physical defects had "astounded the nation," and that 1,000,000 other men, once inducted had to be released for bodily defects.

"Our sole objective is to make physical fitness training a mandatory part of the school program from kindergarten on up and to educate the youth of America, both boys and girls in the great need for physical fitness," they stated.

It would have been unnecessary to draft married men and "disrupt so many American homes," they contended, if all single men had been fully fit.

The first $25,000,000 would be allocated among the States according to population for equipment, facilities and trained directors in schools.

Establishment of State commissions is called for to draw up detailed plans. States, after the first year, would be required to supply matching funds.

The plan has the endorsement, they said, of Col. Swede Larsen of the Marines, former football coach at the Naval Academy; Comdr. John Kane, Navy pilot hero from Shreveport, La.; John B. Kelly, former Olympic star and chairman of the committee on physical fitness for the Federal Security Agency, and Col. Ted Banks of the Army, former Tulane University football coach.

Noel Coward Is Warned To Stay Away From U. S.

Dickstein, Champion of Brooklyn, Hears of a New Visit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP).—Representative Samuel Dickstein, Democrat, of New York, at odds with Noel Coward since the British actor, author and playwright referred to wounded Brooklyn service men as "mournful little boys," wants him to stay in England.

He expressed his desire to the House today after learning, he said, that Coward is planning a new visit to the United States on "important business."

"I hope," said Mr. Dickstein, "that it isn't the kind of business that will bring more slur upon our fighting men—the kind of business that will take additional millions of dollars out of this country for more of Noel Coward's writings on mournful little boys. He ought to stay away for the duration, at least."

The Brooklyn Congressman said he felt it to be Coward's duty to "apologize to the American public for his slurs upon our fighting men."

Coward's reference to Brooklyn service men was made in his book "Middle East Diary."

Congress Bachelor Urges Sending Wives Overseas

Fulton Would Let Them Stay Near Soldier Husbands

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP).—Representative James G. Fulton, a bachelor, a Navy man and a new member of Congress, came up today with this idea: Send wives of fighting men overseas to be with them everywhere but in advance combat areas.

The Pennsylvania Republican has just taken over his House seat after serving as deck officer for an aircraft carrier in the Pacific.

"I don't see why my idea wouldn't work," Representative Fulton declared in an interview. "I know it would be a great morale builder.

"Instead of taking a man from overseas and sending him home for a thirty-day furlough and then sending him back again overseas, why not let his wife make a one-way trip? She could bring along the children, too, without unduly over-burdening shipping."

Representative Fulton said he advocated the idea for occupation areas reaching now "almost across the Pacific, including the Philippines when they're cleaned up."

Many Pacific islands are held as garrisons, he said, and are "relatively free of danger and hardship with reasonable living quarters available."

"Lots of women still have the pioneer spirit and would want to go," said the former lieutenant who was with the Navy task force that softened up Luzon for General Douglas MacArthur's invasion.

One-time coach of the Harvard debating team, Representative Fulton is now forty-one. He's a Pittsburgh attorney, elected while in uniform overseas without "making a speech or spending a cent."

Le Havre Handles More Tonnage Than Ever

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP) — The French port of Le Havre, regarded by the Nazis as completely destroyed at the time it fell to Canadian troops last September 12, now is handling more tonnage than before the war.

Maj. Gen. C. P. Gross, Army transportation chief, made this report today in disclosing that a steady stream of supplies is pouring from the port along the "White Ball" highway to Beauvais and thence to front lines.

Gross, who recently returned from Europe, said the first Liberty ship cleared through the huge Lock Rochemont on December 16, although smaller craft began landing at the port within a few days after its capture.

Ecuador Ready to Sign Pact

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP).—Ecuador will sign next week the United Nations declaration, the thirty-seventh country to affiliate itself with the Allied group, it was learned today. Formal announcement of the signing is expected to be made later by the State Department.

The step follows Ecuador's declaration earlier this week that a statae of war had existed between her and Japan since Dec. 7, 1941.

Grew Reaffirms Vital Role Of France In Peace Shaping

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Acting Secretary of State Grew today reaffirmed "our full realization of France's vital interest" in the shaping of a European peace.

At the same time, he told a news conference that the United States hopes to see a Yugoslav government established at Belgrade, but is not entering into differences between King Peter and Marshal Tito.

Grew made his statement on France shortly after Richard Law, British Minister of State, gave his government's indorsement to the inclusion of France in a big power conference to redraw the map of Europe.

Text Of Statement

The acting secretary made no direct reference to the Big Three conference now reported to be going on or to any plans for possible future conferences.

The text of Grew's statement on France:

"We have stated our policy with regard to France on a number of occasions. I should like to refer particularly to the secretary's statement on November 11 at which time we invited France to full member ship on the European Advisory Commission.

Reiterates Appeal

"At that time we indicated our full realization of France's vital interest in the solution of the German problem and the part which France will inevitably play in maintaining the future peace."

In his reference to Yugoslavia Grew reiterated his recent appeal to the government of that country to hurry back to Belgrade so Americans and other diplomats could open embassies there.

Two Regents Rejected

Formation of a united Yugoslav

Government has been delayed with the disclosure this morning that Marshal Tito has rejected two of the three regents appointed by King Peter.

Asked whether the United States considers Tito's action "reasonable," Grew replied that this Government is not entering into discussions with Yugoslav personalities on points of difference among them.

B-29's Hit Thailand And Indo-China

San Francisco, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said that single B-29's thrice bombed the Kobe area today and last night, but that "our side sustained no damage."

The broadcast, recorded here, reported reconnaissance flights over the Shinetsu district, which includes Tokyo and Yokohama, by single planes.

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Separate fleets of Superfortresses lashed at Japanese military installations in Thailand and Indo-China today.

Flying from India bases, the B-29's of Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey's 20th Bomber Command sprang the twin attacks in daylight. A war bulletin from Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding the 20th Air Force, did not disclose additional details.

The Japanese-controlled Saigon radio in Indo-China, in a broadcast recorded by the FCC, said the Saigon-Cholon area was attacked before noon and that "considerable damage" was done to a hospital and residential quarters. A radio announcer was killed, the broadcast added.

Possible Targets

Possible target, in addition to Saigon, chief city of Indo-China, and the fleet base at Camranh Bay, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, was Bangzkok, capital of Thailand.

Bangkok is the major transportation center supplying Japanese forces in southeast Asia.

Saigon has a dock capable of handling repairs to medium-sized vessels. Other high priority targets are three military airdromes, important oil-storage tanks and railroad shops. Recent reports indicate that Japanese fleeing the Philippines have established new army installations at Saigon.

Camranh Bay is the nearest Asiatic fleet base from which the Japanese can dispatch or receive troops and material from the Philippines.

Heavy bombers smashed enemy airdromes on northern Borneo yesterday and raked air and ship facilities throughout the Philippines, the Moluccas and islands north of New Guinea. Army planes again hit Formosa.

VITAL JAP BRIDGE SMASHED BY FORTS

Span Used to Supply Foe in Thailand Cut by B-29 Raid.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — (AP) B-29s joined forces today with the campaign to isolate Burma from the Japanese sphere of influence.

Winging out of India, the Superfortresses contributed their share by smashing a bridge vital to the Japanese supply line.

In a twin strike, they hit the Rama VI bridge west of Bangkok, in Thailand, a span which has carried the bulk of enemy supplies to Burma, and banged away at the Indo-China port of Saigon.

Erasure of the 1,400-foot bridge which crosses the Menam watercourse, as reported by Associated Press Correspondent John Grover, hits the most vital link in the Bangkok-Moulmein railroad. Grover said the bombing results were "good to excellent."

His field report definitely put Saigon within the orbit of the targets. Until it was received, there had been no certainty about the Indo-China strike.

The Japanese newspaper Asahi made the claim of 890 B-29s lost in raids on Japan since June, 1944, along with 5,200 crew members. The publication immediately sought to dispel any feeling of optimism among the home populations however by relating:

"The irreparable loss of these many aircraft may not bring about any shortcoming in the fighting tactics of the United States, which rely on material strength and scientific knowledge."

The only Japanese-acknowledged result of the Saigon-Cholon area raid was "considerable damage" to a hospital and residential quarters and the death of a radio announcer. The broadcast from the Japanese-controlled radio in Saigon was recorded by the FCC.

In another effort to minimize the superfortress raids, the Tokyo radio said that single B-29s thrice bombed the Kobe area today and last night but that "our side sustained no damage."

The twin raids on Thailand and Indo-China were announced early in the day by General of the Army H. H. Arnold in a communique from War Department headquarters.

Details of this 51st B-29 mission were sparse until the operations reports were forthcoming from General Ramey.

The attacks were by daylight, presumably involving round trip flights of 3,000 miles or more.

Photos Show Span Fallen

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The War Department reported today that upward of 60 B-29's carried out the raid on the Rama VI bridge at Bangkok. Reconnaissance photographs taken after the attack, the 20th Air Force announced, showed two thirds of the center span of the Rama bridge had been broken and had fallen into the river.

Approximately 100 B-29's participated in the strike against Saigon, but results were not observed. There was no fighter opposition on either mission and anti-aircraft fire at both places was described as meager.

The Japanese newspaper Asahi said 890 B-29's were lost in raids on Japan since June, 1944, along with 5,200 crew members. The publication immediately sought to dispel any feeling of optimism among the home populations, however, by relating:

"The irreparable loss of these many aircraft may not bring about any shortcoming in the fighting tactics of the United States, which rely on material strength and scientific knowledge."

The only result of the Saigon-Cholon area raid the Japs acknowledged was "considerable damage" to a hospital and residential quarters and the death of a radio announcer. The broadcast from the Japanese-controlled radio in Saigon was recorded by the FCC.

U.S. ASKS LOOK INTO BALKANS

Grew Reiterates Concern With Russian Policies There

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—The United States reiterated today, as bluntly as diplomatic niceties permit, that it would like very much to get some outside observers into the Balkans.

There is growing concern among officials here that if Balkans politics, under Russian domination, continue to develop under censorship and secrecy some of the Atlantic Charter principles will have little chance of practical application there.

For the third time within a week the subject came up at a news conference held by Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State.

No Personalities

He was asked whether the United States considered "reasonable" the position taken by King Peter with respect to creating a regency for Yugoslavia to give the country political unity.

Grew said that the United States is not entering into discussions with Yugoslav personalities on their internal differences of opinion—that what this Government does want is a Yugoslav Government restored to Belgrade and the missions of friendly governments also re-established there.

It is the re-establishment of American and other diplomatic missions which is considered here to be of utmost importance. Grew emphasized the same point in a statement on Yugoslavia issued February 1. He took up the same general subject at his news conference Monday when he disclosed that the United States has been urging Moscow to facilitate the entrance of American news reporters into the Balkans. But so far he evidently has made no headway.

France's Position

The news conference today also touched briefly on the question of France's position in future European affairs. However, it was apparent that officials were waiting to see what comes out of the Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting before making further specific moves in line with their stated desires that France become again a great power.

Specifically Grew was asked whether the United States shares the official British view given to Commons in London today that France should be included in a future big-power meeting to determine the boundaries of Europe.

Terms Agreed On

Grew confined his reply to a previous declaration stating that we had "invited France to full membership on the European Advisory Commission."

"At that time," Grew said, "we indicated our full realization of France's vital interest in the solution of the German problem and the part which France will inevitably play in maintaining the future peace." Grew declined to comment on Stockholm reports that the German Government may be reorganized to try to negotiate a peace with the Allies.

Other officials, however, said that the Allies have long since agreed on terms to be imposed on Germany after unconditional surrender and that they foresaw no modification of those terms nor any willingness to negotiate them.

U.S. OFFICIALS ADMIT ERRORS

Tell Senate Group Of Poor Judgment In Surplus Sales

Washington, Feb. 7 (AP)—Three Government officials acknowledged before a Senate committee today that they made errors of judgment in connection with surplus war property sales.

The officers of the Defense Plant Corporation were testifying about auctions held by Jacob Goldberg at Maspeth, N.Y., and Burlington, N.J.

Walter E. Joyce, vice president of the DPC, testified he erred when he recommended employment of Jacob Goldberg to conduct the auctions.

"I don't think Goldberg is a first-class autioneer," he told the Senate War Investigating Committee, "and so reported to my superiors when I visited his sale at Burlington, New Jersey."

Had Arguments With Bidders

He said Goldberg was not "properly organized" and that he "got into arguments with bidders."

Goldberg himself insisted he had a good record and that the Government needs him as a liquidator of extra materials.

The difference of opinion climaxed the week-long hearings into the Goldberg auctions which members of the Meade committee said would lead to a specific program for disposal of surplus war property.

Under examination by Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.), Joyce said he and Hans Klagsbrunn, DPC executive vice president, had agreed they did not "intend to engage him (Goldberg) further."

Some Sale Money Spent

Joyce conceded he had recommended Goldberg's employment to a meeting of DPC's board of directors last September despite an unfavorable recommendation from DPC's New York office.

The hearing also developed testimony from William Marguilies, of Newark, N.J., a Goldberg accountant, that some of the money from the sales was spent on sandwiches and coffee for buyers. He said he considered that proceeds of the auctions belonged to the auctioneering firm until an accounting was made to DPC.

Senator Ferguson countered that the money belonged to the Government. Senator Hatch (D., N.M.) told the witness that "you make yourself perfectly ridiculous."

Could Not Explain Swope Angle

Joyce said he could not explain a letter in the files of RFC which said that Herbert Bayard Swope, who had indorsed Goldberg as a liquidator, had mentioned the fact that Swope's daughter, Jane, was married to Robert Brandt, son of Herman Brandt—a partner of Goldberg.

"Names don't mean a thing to us," Joyce asserted.

Previously, other Government officials had acknowledged "poor judgment" or "loose" supervision of the two auctions, but insisted that the auctioneer is under a $200,000 performance bond to make a "full accounting."

Records Not Complete

Don Brown, who supervised the sales for the Defense Plant Corporation, and James Kellehan, RFC attorney, said they had not objected to what Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) termed "illegal and immoral" price boosting ten days after the auctions.

They testified that Defense Plant Corporation records were "not complete" enough to enable them to account for a "discrepancy" of $5,000. Records showed gross sales of $168,000 at the two auctions against bank deposits of $163,000.

A full accounting, however, they contended had been delayed by the committee's seizure of Goldberg's records.

Ferguson replied that Goldberg's contract called for him to make a complete accounting within 30 days after the auctions closed, December 2, and that the committee did not get the records until January 5.

At the committee's suggestion, Brown said, a complete audit is now being made by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau.

First Lady's Pension

Philadelphia, Feb. 7 (AP)—The wife of the President of the United States will receive $12,000 annually when the time for payment arrives.

A court accounting yesterday revealed there are ample funds from the estate of Henry G. Freeman, Jr., a Philadelphia attorney who died in 1917, to make the payments.

Freeman provided the annuity in a 1912 will "because I feel the President of the United States receives such a miserable pittance for a man holding the greatest position on earth."

Income from the $1,700,000 estate has been used to distribute $12,300 yearly to twelve persons and the remainder has gone to Mrs. Mary C. Freeman, Paris, France, widow of Freeman's son.

Payments to the President's wife will not start until after the deaths of all present beneficiaries, the will provided.

Death Sentence For Soldier Cut To Life Term

Private Who Refused to Drill Is Expelled From Army in New Verdict

CAMP ROBERTS, Calif., Feb. 7 (AP).—The death sentence imposed by a court martial on Private Henry Weber, twenty-seven years old, for saving refused to drill was revoked today and he was sentenced to dishonorable discharge from the Army and life imprisonment at hard labor.

Last Monday a general court martial decreed death by hanging for the Vancouver, Wash., soldier. The charge was that he argued for forty-five minutes with two superior officers, and finally flatly refused to engage in Army drill, declaring he would rather be shot than take up arms.

The commanding general at the camp directed the court to reconsider its verdict. It reconvened, revoked its initial judgment and sentenced Weber to life imprisonment at hard labor, gave him a dishonorable discharge, and forfeited his pay.

Several members of Congress and spokesmen for some other groups took up the case of Private Weber when it became known Saturday that the death sentence had been ordered.

Yesterday, Weber disclosed that he was court martialed once before for a similar offense, and served six months at hard labor.

"I have a revolutionary mind," he said. "Wars are caused by the society in which we now live, and which cannot prevent a third war. I am interested in a world in which all men can live peaceably. . . .

"I'm willing to do anything I can to get the war over, as long as I do not have to kill other people."

His wife and a young son live at Vancouver, Wash. He was a logging camp worker.

Program to Avoid Depression

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7. — (AP) A program to head off a "real and alarming threat of depression after the war was proposed today by the American Federation of Labor's executive council.

Asserting that the nation has been "dangrously remiss" in not taking definite steps before the actual circumstances leading to depression arrive, the council set forth a seven-point program and urged its serious consideration by the congress, government officials and the public.

The council, holding its mid-winter sessions here, put off until tomorrow the issue of re-admitting John L. Lewis and his 600,000 United Mine Workers. Lewis left the AFL in 1937, but a new move is under way to bring him back.

Opposition will be voiced by three officials of the progressive miners, an AFL affiliate. President John Marchiando, council member Felix Goodnick, and Attorney C. C. Dreman arrived in Miami today and will appear before the council to fight Lewis' return.

The council's post-war proposals were:

1. Mobilization of government, labor, industry and agriculture on basic policies and principles.

2. Universal acceptance by industry of free collective bargaining with trade unions, "to promote industrial peace."

3. Congressional adoption of a reconversion program at once, providing for government loans to little business, intelligent disposal of surplus property, modernization of the social security system with regard to unemployment compensation so that "temporary and fluctuating post-war disemployment will not cause a major depression or plunge the government into more WPA experiments."

4. A public works program for local, county and state governments as well as federal agencies.

5. A comprehensive housing program.

6. Lifting of hourly wage rates to maintain purchasing power, beginning now with abandonment of the "Little Steel" formula on which present wage freezes are based.

7. Removal of government controls over industry, labor and agriculture as early as possible, including the self-imposed obligations of labor in the interest of the war.

This latter would include the no-strike pledge, but the council did not specifically mention that.

American Federation of Labor, hoping to end nearly a decade of organizational differences.

Lewis, who took his United Mine Workers out of the American Federation of Labor in 1937, has asked for the terms under which his 600,000 members can be brought back. The AFL had made the first move, by indicating in convention last November that it wanted the miners' chief to return.

To Take Up Question

The AFL executive council, in midwinter session, will take the question up today or tomorrow, depending on when William L. Hutcheson, carpenters' president, is able to attend. Hutcheson has been ill at his union's Lakeland (Fla.) estate.

Hutcheson, who exchanged blows with Lewis at one AFL convention in Atlantic City in 1935, is now the chief advocate of a reconciliation between Lewis and the AFL.

The miners' boss can also count on the vote of George Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, and can be fairly confident of support from George Meany and Matthew Woll, secretary-treasurer and vice president, respectively, of the AFL.

Daniel J. Tobin, head of the teamsters, friend of President Roosevelt, is not saying where he stands. Those close to him predict he will fight Lewis's readmission vigorously.

Green May Back Return Of Lewis To The AFL

Miami, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)—President William Green indicated today that he would support a move to bring John L. Lewis back to the a matter of hours."

Sgt. Robertson is here at the AAF redistribution station No. 1 awaiting his next assignment in the air forces. Before he leaves Atlantic City he will be given a thorough physical examination and will be interviewed by personnel specialists to determine how his experience can be put to the best use.

Too Old for Cadet

Too old when he entered the service to become an aviation cadet, Sgt. Robertson received his pilot's rating because he had had more than 60 hours of flying time as a civilian.

It fell to his lot to take part in something new in the history of warfare, when light Grasshopper planes were used to support the invasion of Burma for the purposes of evacuating wounded; reconnaissance, nad courier service. Called the "light planes with the big punch," they performed a score of jobs that other planes could not tackle.

When Lord Mountbatten inspected Sgt. Robertson's base during the operations, he was impressed by the skill and ingenuity of the American GI's flying the planes, particularly when he learned that these noncom pilots took care of their own planes, doing the work normally taken over by ground crews, and on top of that found time to do their own washing and cooking.

"Well, it's a lot easier to talk about than it was to do," concluded Sgt. Robertson.

State Pilot Flew Unarmed Over Jap Forces in Burma

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 7—(AP) Flying solo over Japanese-occupied territory in an unarmed L-B Grasshopper plane was the regular job of Staff Sergeant Stamford N. Robertson, Forestville, Conn. attached to the 1st air commando group, Col. Philip Cochran's outfit, as liaison pilot, Sgt. Robertson flew 103 combat missions during his 13-month tour of duty in Burma.

"There wasn't much sense in wearing a parachute when you had to fly at tree top level to avoid Jap fighters. If anything happened, you'd never have time to bail out," said the 36-year-old GI pilot.

"Our task was to evacuate the wounded—wingate men, who were mostly Indian Gurkha fighters and East or West Africans. The soldiers got to like us a lot. It made a difference to their morale to know that if they got hit deep in Jap territory they still had a chance of being flown out by us in

FBI Agent Says Spy Suspect Admitted Mission For Nazis

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—An FBI agent testified today that William Curtis Colepaugh, 26, an American citizen on military trial as a German spy, told him he came to this country by submarine to get information to be sent back to Berlin by radio.

Colepaugh and Erich Gimpel, 35, German-born electrical engineer, are accused of entering the United States the night of November 29, 1944, at Hancock Point, Maine, after being brought here by submarine, to commit espionage and sabotage.

If convicted as spies the death sentence is mandatory.

Colepaugh Quoted By Agent

The FBI witness, William O. McCue, of Richmond Hill, N.Y., said Colepaugh told him he went to Germany a year ago and was trained in Berlin at various schools for instruction in radio operation, sabotage, the use of explosives, photography and micro-photography.

At one of those schools, Colepath met a man named Green, with whom he came to this country, the witness related.

Testimony earlier today was that Colepaugh and Gimpel had registered at several New York hotels as William Caldwell and Edward Green.

"They both left Germany and came to the United States by submarine, coming ashore in Maine in a rubber boat," an army statement of the secret trial proceedings said.

Sabotage Is Denied

"Mr. McCue testified that Colepaugh told him his purpose in coming to this country was to gather information for the German Government and send it back to Berlin by radio," the statement continued.

On cross-examination by Colepaugh's counsel, the witness said Colepaugh told him sabotage was not part of his mission. He said Colepaugh talked freely and voluntarily.

Colepaugh's own description of himself as a man with an entrée in 1940-41 to the German Consulate in Boston was entered in evidence earlier.

Friends at the consulate, where he was invited to go "whenever I so desired," suggested to him, Colepaugh said, that he go to Germany to study at marine engineering schools.

Arrested In U.S. In 1942

Colepaugh's statement was taken by the FBI in August, 1942, when he was arrested in Philadelphia and charged with failing to keep his draft board advised of his whereabouts. The FBI said he left for Germany a year ago.

The seven-man military commission is hearing the case in closed sessions, but a communiqué issued to newspapers included parts of the statement.

Colepaugh said he shipped aboard an English boat in May, 1940, and returned to Boston that July, but, he declared:

"I had no contact with the German Government either prior to or subsequent to my trip on this vessel. This trip was not made in the interests of the German Government."

Identifies Colepaugh

Forrest Polley, of Ellsworth, Maine, taxi driver, identified Colepaugh as one of the two men he picked up in his taxi shortly after midnight last November 30 about 30 miles from Bangor, Maine. He left them in Bangor, but said he could not identify Gimpel as the second man.

Other witnesses identified Colepaugh and Gimpel as men who sought rooms in New York city. They were arrested here late in December.

Manila Springboard For Offensive Against Japan

By Thomas A. Boynton

New York, Feb. 7 (AP)—Manila is only 1,865 miles from Tokyo, and with its huge land-locked bay is a natural center from which to mount an Allied offensive leading to the battle of Japan.

Only 600 miles of water separate the Philippine metropolis from the coast of China, once described by Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander in chief of United States naval forces in the central Pacific, as "the steppingstone to Tokyo." All of Japan's shipping lanes north and west of Luzon will be within easy range of air and submarine bases in and near this strategic city.

The chief prize Manila offers from a military standpoint is its bay, one of the finest in the world, 120 miles in circumference, 770 square miles in area, and pock-marked with natural facilities for military and naval installations.

Excellent Docks

Prewar harbor dockage included several wharfs and piers, all the latter capable of berthing large ships. Pier No. 1 was used by warships. Pier No. 7—the pride of Manila—1,400 feet long and 240 feet wide, accommodated four large vessels on each side and one at the end. Its concrete and steel structure had heavy mechanical equipment to unload cargoes.

The Value Of Cavite

Manila is the site of Nichols Field, Nielson and Zablan airports and other former military and civilian strips in and near the city.

From these and captured Clark Field, 50 miles away, aerial attacks may be co-ordinated against prime targets—China Sea shipping, the Nanking-Canton railway, recently joined by the enemy, on port facilities of China and Indo-China, on Formosa and the Ryukyu Islands. Hong Kong is but 631 miles away; Singapore, 1,370 miles; Nagasaki, 1,306; Saigon and Hanoi, within 1,100.

Nine miles across the bay, and connected with the city by a 22-mile-long beach road and other secondary roads, is Cavite, former headquarters of the United States 16th Naval District and the site of submarine and seaplane bases. Offshore, guarding the narrow mouth of the curved bay and the toe of Bataan Peninsula is Corregidor and, on smaller, near-by islands, the fortresses Hughes, Drum and Frank.

Cavite was a prewar town of 20,000, capital of Cavite province. At the 50-acre, 146-building naval base, the United States Asiatic Fleet made its headquarters from December to May. Here, too, was a prime submarine base. Re-established, it may have "the run" of the China Sea.

Valuable also was the 54-building Canacao Naval Hospital and medical supply depot, a marine barracks, an ammunition and mine depot, communications center, visual signal station, storehouses, administrative offices and enlisted men's quarters.

Germans Won't Return, Says Tassigny

New York, Feb. 7 (AP) — Lieut. Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, commander of the 1st French Army, issued an order of the day to his troops today declaring: "The Germans have been chased away from the sacred soil of France. They will never return."

The order was broadcast by the French radio and recorded by the FCC.

AMS BUDGET (550)
NIGHT LEAD BIG THREE
BY JOHN A.PARRIS, JR.
LONDON, FEB 7-(AP)-A BROAD HINT THAT THE BIG THREE MIGHT POSTPONE A FINAL SETTLEMENT OF EUROPE'S FRONTIERS UNTIL AFTER THE DEFEAT OF GERMANY WAS GIVEN TODAY AS THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT ENDORSED INCLUSION OF FRANCE IN A FUTURE BIG-POWER CONFERENCE ON RE-DRAWING THE EUROPEAN MAP.
IN WASHINGTON ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE JOSEPH GREW REAFFIRMED THE UNITED STATES' "FULL REALIZATION OF FRANCE'S VITAL INTEREST IN THE SOLUTION OF THE GERMAN PROBLEM AND THE PART WHICH FRANCE WILL INEVITABLY PLAY IN MAINTAINING THE FUTURE PEACE."
WITH FRENCH FEELING RUNNING HIGH AT THE APPARENT EXCLUSION OF GEN. DE GAULLE FROM THE MEETING OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, PREMIER STALIN AND PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL, RICHARD LAW, BRITISH MINISTER OF STATE, TOLD THE HOUSE OF COMMONS THAT BRITAIN BELIEVED THE RESHAPING OF EUROPEAN FRONTIERS "MUST BE DECIDED LATER BY ALL THE POWERS TOGETHER."
THIS STATEMENT WAS INTERPRETED TO MEAN THE BIG THREE MIGHT AGREE TO LEAVE THE FINAL SHAPING OF EUROPE'S FRONTIERS UNTIL LATER. THE FACT THAT LAW MADE THE STATEMENT IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS, WHERE HE IS SUBSTITUTING FOR CHURCHILL AND FOREIGN SECRETARY ANTHONY EDEN, LED MOST OBSERVERS TO BELIEVE THE PRIME MINISTER MIGHT HAVE GONE

TO THE PARLEY WITH A HOPE OF PERSUADING ROOSEVELT AND STALIN TO LEAVE THE FRONTIER PROBLEMS OVER UNTIL FRANCE COULD BE REPRESENTED.

ALTHOUGH THE BIG THREE ENTERED THE MEETING MORE OR LESS AGREED ON MOST FRONTIER PROBLEMS, ESPECIALLY THOSE CONCERNING THE LOPPING OFF OF GERMAN TERRITORY, THE BIGGEST ISSUE REMAINED POLAND'S FUTURE BORDERS.

RUSSIA'S EXTENSION OF HER FRONTIER WESTWARD AT THE EXPENSE OF POLAND WAS EXPECTED TO BE DISCUSSED THOROUGHLY.

THE PROPOSAL THAT FRANCE SHOULD SIT IN ON FUTURE CONFERENCES WAS MADE WHEN THE QUESTION WAS RAISED BY INQUIRY IN COMMONS WHETHER THE GOVERNMENT ENDORSED WHAT WAS QUOTED AS "THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT MADE BY GEN. DE GAULLE IN PARIS ON JAN.25 THAT BOTH THE EAST AND WEST BANKS OF THE RHINE MUST BELONG TO FRANCE."

A215

LAW REPLIED THAT ALL ACCOUNTS HE HAD SEEN OF DE GAULLE'S PRESS CONFERENCE ON THAT DATE DID NOT SAY BOTH BANKS MUST BELONG TO FRANCE. HE EXPLAINED THAT THE FRENCH PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT LEADER HAD "REFERRED ONLY TO THE MILITARY OCCUPATION OF CERTAIN AREAS BY FRENCH FORCES.

DURING THE DEBATE LAW SAID THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT "DOES NOT REGARD ANY PROVISION OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER AS MEANING" THAT NO CHANGE COULD TAKE PLACE IN ENEMY TERRITORY WITHOUT THE CONSENT OF ITS PRESENT INHABITANTS.

"DOES NOT THAT INTERPRETATION OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER MAKE IT SOUND COMPLETE HUMBUG," ASKED LABORITE R.SORENSON.

"NO SIR," LAW REPLIED.

CONCERNING COUNTRIES WHICH RECENTLY HAD BEEN AT WAR WITH BRITAIN AND HER ALLIES, LAW SAID THERE WAS NO INTENTION OF ESTABLISHING DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH FINLAND, BULGARIA OR ROMANIA DURING THE ARMISTICE PERIODS. HE EXPLAINED THAT THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT DID NOT HAVE DIPLOMATIC REPRESENTATIVES IN THOSE COUNTRIES.

LAW DECLARED THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT WOULD BE PREPARED TO ASSIST IN SUPERVISING FREE ELECTIONS IN NEWLY LIBERATED COUNTRIES IF INVITED BY THE GOVERNMENTS AND PEOPLES CONCERNED.

ASKED IF WOMEN WOULD BE ALLOWED TO BALLOT IN ELECTIONS SUPERVISED BY THE BRITISH, THE MINISTER OF STATE REPLIED THE VOTING WOULD BE ON THE "BROADEST POSSIBLE DEMOCRATIC BASIS."

HE ADDED, HOWEVER, THAT THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT COULD NOT DICTATE TO THE GOVERNMENTS CONCERNED THE EXACT CONDITIONS UNDER WHICH THE ELECTIONS WERE TO BE HELD.

LONDON, FEB. 7-(AP)-PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL WAS SAID TONIGHT TO HAVE TAKEN TO THE "BIG THREE" CONFERENCE REPORTS FROM INSIDE THE REICH OF POSSIBLE DISINTEGRATION IN THE NORTHERN SECTIONS OF GERMANY BOTH MILITARILY AND POLITICALLY.

AS A RESULT OF THIS INFORMATION IT WAS CONSIDERED POSSIBLE THAT THE ALLIED LEADERS HAD DECIDED THE TIME WAS RIPE FOR LAUNCHING MASSIVE ASSAULTS FROM THE EAST AND THE WEST IN AN ALL-OUT, FINAL, COORDINATED OFFENSIVE TO CONCLUDE THE WAR NOW.

MOST QUARTERS HERE BELIEVED THE BLACK SEA CONFERENCE ONLY DECIDED ON GRAND STRATEGY LEAVING THE DETAILS TO BE FILLED IN BY A NEW JOINT MILITARY COMMAND. IT WAS FELT THAT ONE OF THE RESULTS OF THE MEETING MAY BE CERTAIN CHANGES AND REGROUPINGS OF ALLIED FORCES ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

THE PHRASING OF THE "BIG THREE" COMMUNIQUE SUGGESTED THAT THE NEXT PHASE OF THE XOVIET OFFENSIVE WOULD BE ACCOMPANY BY AN ALL-OV ATTACK FROM THE WEST.

NOTHING WAS SAID OF ANY DECISION TO MAKE AN APPEAL TO GERMAN

AT THIS STAGE AND THIS MAY INDICATE THAT A POLITICAL MOVE OF THE KIND FEARED BY THE GERMANS WOULD BE MADE ONLY WHEN BOTH OFFENSIVES ARE IN FULL SWING.

GOVERNMENT AND MILITARY SPOKESMEN HERE EMPHASIZED THAT THE AMERICAN, BRITISH AND RUSSIAN LEADERS LOST NO TIME IN MAKING KNOWN THE NEWS WHICH IS "THE MOST ENCOURAGING EVER GIVEN THE ALLIES AND THE MOST DEPRESSING EVER HEARD BY THE GERMANS."

NIGHT LEAD AERIAL (290)

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, FEB. 7-(AP)-THE GERMAN RADIO WARNED TONIGHT THAT SEVERAL ALLIED BOMBER FORMATIONS WERE APPROACHING BRANDENBURG PROVINCE IN WHICH BERLIN IS SITUATED.

THICK BANKS OF CLOUDS OVER THE CONTINENT KEPT BRITAIN-BASED BOMBERS GROUNDED DURING DAYLIGHT TODAY, BUT FOUR-ENGINED HEAVIES OF THE ITALY-BASED U.S. 15TH AIR FORCE BLASTED NAZI OIL REFINERIES IN THE VIENNA AREA--THE MOST IMPORTANT REMAINING GERMAN MOTOR FUEL SOURCE SINCE THE RED ARMY SEIZED A LARGE PART OF THE SILESIAN OIL FIELDS.

SPECIFIC TARGETS FOR MAJ.GEN.NATHAN F.TWINING'S HEAVIES WERE AT MOOSBIERBAUM, 22 MILES NORTHWEST OF VIENNA, AND LOBAU AND SCHWECHAT, BOTH SEVEN MILES SOUTHEAST OF THE FORMER AUSTRIAN CAPITAL. ALL THREE TARGETS PRODUCE GASOLINE FOR NAZI FORCES ON THE EASTERN FRONT.

BOMBARDIERS DROPPED THEIR EXPLOSIVES BY INSTRUMENT SINCE SMOKE-SCREENS THROWN UP BY GERMAN GROUND DEFENSES COVERED TARGET AREAS.

MEANWHILE, B-25 MITCHELLS AND P-47 THUNDERBOLTS OF THE U.S. 12TH AIR FORCE CONTINUED THEIR ASSAULT ON FIELD MARSHAL GEN.ALBERT KESSELRING'S RAILWAY SUPPLY LINES BOTH THROUGH THE BRENNER PASS AND INTO SOUTHERN AUSTRIA AND YUGOSLAVIA.

THE MEDIUMS STRUCK RAIL BRIDGES AT CHIUSAFORTE AND DOGNA NORTH OF UDINE, AND OTHER VIADUCTS AND RAILYARDS AT SAN MICHELE AND LAVIS ON THE BRENNER PASS ROUTE NORTH OF TRENTO.

A BRAZILIAN THUNDERBOLT SQUADRON WAS CREDITED WITH DESTROYING A RAIL BRIDGE AT PONTE DI PAIVE AND DAMAGING A 100-FOOT STEAMBOAT EAST OF VENICE.

RAF FIGHTERS SCORED 17 HITS ON V-2 ROCKET SITES IN NORTHERN HOLLAND YESTERDAY AND STRAFED SEVERAL TRAINS BRINGING ROCKET SUPPLIES TOWARD THE COAST, AN AIR MINISTRY ANNOUNCEMENT SAID. A TOTAL OF 49 LOCOMOTIVES AND 94 RAILROAD CARS WERE DESTROYED OR DAMAGED IN THE REICH AND HOLLAND.

LONDON, FEB 7-(AP)-RADIO MONITORS IN LONDON SAID TODAY THAT GERMAN WIRELESS COMMUNICATIONS, APPARENTLY HARD HIT BY RECENT ALLIED AIR ATTACKS UPON BERLIN, WERE STILL OUT OF GEAR THIS MORNING.

THE DNB NEWS AGENCY STARTED ITS MORNING NEWSCAST AS USUAL, WENT OFF THE AIR ABRUPTLY, RETURNED AFTER A BRIEF INTERVAL AND THEN FADED OUT AGAIN.

TRANSOCEAN STARTED A NEWSCAST ABOUT 8 A.M., BUT SENT ONLY TWO MESSAGES IN AN HOUR.

EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, FEB. 7-(AP)-LT.ELBERT WEEKS, NORTH HOLLYWOOD,CALIF., HAS BEEN AWARDED THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS FOR "EXTRAORDINARY HEROISM" IN PILOTING A FLAK-BATTERED FORTRESS TO A SUCCESSFUL EMERGENCY LANDING IN FRANCE.

DURING THE ATTACK ON LUDWIGSHAFEN IN GERMANY, WEEKS' PLANE WAS RIDDLED BY A BARRAGE WHICH SMASHED THROUGH THE COCKPIT WINDSHIELD AND KILLED LT.GILBERT WILLIS OF DOVER, DEL., THE CO-PILOT.

WEEKS' RIGHT HAND AND LEFT THIGH WERE RIPPED BY STEEL SPLINTERS. TWO ENGINES WERE KNOCKED OUT AND THE CRIPPLED BOMBER DROPPED FROM THE FORMATION. BUT WEEKS, DESPITE THE LOSS OF BLOOD AND SEVERE PAIN, FOUGHT THE 30-TON PLANE BACK INTO POSITION AND BOMBARDIER LT.MARVIN NACHSHEIM OF ENUMCLAW, WASH., BOMBED WITH THE REST OF THE ATTACKING FORCE.

UNAIDED, WEEKS SKILLFULLY SLID THE BOMBER TO A PERFECT LANDING ON AN EMERGENCY FIELD IN FRANCE. A THIRD ENGINE WENT DEAD AS THE

WITH AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE FEB 6-(DELAYED)-(AP) IN THE DARK, STINKING INTERIOR OF A CAPTURED GERMAN PILLBOX A SLIGHT, BESPECTACLED LIEUTENANT IN A BLOODSTAINED GI MACKINAW WORKED QUICKLY AND CALMLY.

HE BANDAGED THIS MAN'S BULLET-GASHED HIP, PUT A DRESSING ON THAT ONE'S LEG, AND DIRECTED ANOTHER TO TAKE PLENTY OF WATER WITH HIS SULFA PILLS. THEN HE PHONED TO THE REAR FOR MORE LITTER MEN TO HANDLE THE SAD BY-PRODUCTS OF AN ADVANCE WHICH WAS BEING MADE A FEW HUNDRED YARDS AWAY.

IN GENERAL, HE WAS GOING THE JOB OF A FRONTLINE SURGEON, BUT WHEN HE WAS ASKED HIS NAME HE SAID QUICKLY:

"I'M NOT A DOCTOR AND ALL I DO IS PATCH THEM UP A LITTLE BIT UNTIL OUR SURGEON CAN TAKE CARE OF THEM PROPERLY AT A COLLECTION POINT FURTHER BACK."

THEN IT DEVELOPED THAT LT.GEORGE KOZMETSKY, WHOSE HOME IS AT 1402 NINTH AVE., SOUTH, SEATTLE, WASH., HAD BEEN IN A MEDICAL ADMINISTRATIVE JOB UNTIL LAST SEPTEMBER WHEN A SHORTAGE OF SURGEONS PUT HIM INTO FRONTLINE AID WORK WHICH HE HAS BEEN DOING EVER SINCE.

HIS BACKGROUND FOR SUCH TASKS? "ABOUT AS BLOODLESS AS YOU COULD IMAGINE," HE EXPLAINED. "I WAS AN ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR IN THE UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON ECONOMICS AND BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION SCHOOL TEACHING ACCOUNTING AND STATISTICS."

DID HIS UNEXPECTED JOB APPEAL TO HIM? "I DON'T THINK ANYONE LIKES SUCH WORK," KOZMETSKY SAID. "BUT AT LEAST IT DOES MAKE ME FEEL THAT I AM HELPING A LITTLE."

WITH THE U.S. FIFTH INFANTRY AT THE SURE RIVER, FEB. 7-(AP)-THE FIFTH INFANTRY DIVISION IS MEETING HEAVY RESISTANCE IN THE ECHTERNACH AREA WHERE THE SURE RIVER IS SWIFT, THE BANKS ARE STEEP, AND SIEGFRIED PILLBOXES RUN RIGHT DOWN TO THE WATER'S EDGE.

ECHTERNACH WAS A LOGICAL RIVER-CROSSING SITE, SO THE GERMANS GOT SET HERE, PROBABLY THINNING THEIR LINES BEHIND OTHER LESS LOGICAL SITES.

THE FIFTH JUMPED OFF AT 1 A.M. AMID RAIN AND FOG. VISIBILITY WAS SO BAD THE DOUGHBOYS FOLLOWED FLUORESCENT TAPE TO THE EDGE OF THE SURE, NORMALLY ABOUT 125 FEET WIDE HERE, BUT NOW ABOUT 200.

MAJ.FERRIS CHURCH, CHARLOTTE, MICH., SAID THE FIRST DOUGHBOYS WENT ACROSS THE SURE IN RUBBER ASSAULT BOATS. JUST BEFORE THEY REACHED THE GERMAN BANK, THE BOATS SCRAPED AGAINST SUBMERGED BARBED WIRE WHICH APPARENTLY HAD BEEN STRUNG ALONG THE BANK BEFORE THE FLOOD.

THE GERMANS HEARD THE NOISES AND OPENED UP FROM NEARLY A DOZEN PILLBOXES, CATCHING THE YANKS IN BLAZING FIRE.

THROUGHOUT THE DAY THE FIFTH SUCCEEDED IN MAKING THREE SEPARATE CROSSINGS NORTHWEST OF ECHTERNACH.

THE FIFTH INFANTRY TRIED REPEATEDLY TO MAKE OTHER CROSSINGS, BUT FIRE FROM THE PILLBOXES WAS TOO INTENSE.

PVT.EDWARD J.ZIBOWICH, SECAUCUS, N.J., AMONG THOSE TRYING TO CROSS, SAID "THEY WERE LOOKING RIGHT DOWN OUR THROATS."

THOUSANDS OF SHELLS POURED INTO AND AROUND THE PILLBOXES SEEMED TO HAVE LITTLE EFFECT. TANKS, TANK DESTROYERS AND SELF-PROPELLED GUNS THEN WERE ORDERED TO GO TO WORK ON THEM.

LT.COL.PHILLIP W.MERRILL, GREENBAY, WIS., SAID "WE CANNOT DO MUCH MOVING UNTIL THOSE PILLBOXES ARE KNOCKED OUT."

THE FIFTH'S DEEPEST PENETRATION WAS ABOUT 800 YARDS JUST NORTH-WEST OF ECHTERNACH. BUT THE DOUGHBOYS AT THAT POINT WERE PINNED DOWN BY GERMAN ARTILLERY.

WITH THE U.S. 80TH INFANTRY ON THE SURE RIVER FRONT, FEB. 7-(AP)-DID YOU EVER WONDER WHERE YOU WOULD FIND DIVISIONAL, REGIMENTAL AND BATTALION COMMANDERS DURING A DIFFICULT OPERATION?

HERE IS WHERE SOME OF THE 80TH'S WERE TODAY AS THE BLUE RIDGE DIVISION DROVE INTO GERMANY:

COL. WILLIAM N. TAYLOR OF PALO ALTO, CALIF., WAS IN A PATCH OF WOODS LOOKING DOWN ON THE OUR RIVER -- AND CATCHING PLENTY OF ARTILLERY FIRE--DIRECTING THE CROSSINGS BY RADIO.

ONE OF HIS MOST IMPORTANT LIEUTENANTS, MAJ. ARTHUR CLARK OF BUFFALO, N.Y., WAS ACROSS THE OUR USING A CAPTURED GERMAN PILLBOX AS A COMMAND POST AND POPPING IN AND OUT AMID ARTILLERY SHOWERS.

ANOTHER, LT. COL. PAUL BANDY OF HILLSBOROUGH, TEX., WAS ON THE EDGE OF THE RIVER IN A WELL-SHELLED TOWN WHEN HE WAS NOT BUSY SUPERINTENDING THE CROSSINGS IN PERSON.

OVERLOOKING THE SURE RIVER, COL.J.S.LUCKETT OF PANAMA CITY, PANAMA, OCCUPIED A SIMILARLY EXPOSED VANTAGE POINT. SOMETIMES MAJ. JOHN P.WOODS OF LOUISVILLE, KY., WAS WITH HIM AND SOMETIMES DOWN ALONG THE RIVER A FEW HUNDRED YARDS AWAY WITH HIS MEN.

THE DIVISIONAL BOSS, MAJ.GEN.HORACE L.MCBRIDE OF ELGIN, NEB., AND ASSISTANT COMMANDER BRIG.GEN.OWEN SUMMERS OF PORTLAND, ORE., WERE SHUTTLING BACK AND FORTH BETWEEN THE DIVISIONAL AND REGIMENTAL COMMAND POSTS AND OBSERVATION POSTS.

WITH LT. GEN. OMAR N. BRADLEY, 12TH ARMY GROUP COMMANDER, "IKE" SAW THE GAPING GERMAN ARTILLERY CRATERS, SMASHED SKELETONS OF C-47'S AND BOMB-WRECKED HOUSES HIS TROOPS USED AS LAST-DITCH FORTRESSAS IN THE CRITICAL BATTLE OF THE BULGE.

THE CAR WHIZZED BY UGLY MILE-BY-MILE GRAVEYARDS OF MUTILATED TIGER AND SHERMAN TANKS, BLASTED ME-109'S AND THUNDERBOLTS, CHARRED NAZI TROOP CARRIERS AND BURNED-OUT U.S. SIX-BY-SIXES, UPSET VOLKSWAGONS AND TORN AMERICAN JEEPS.

WITH THE SECOND INFANTRY DIVISION IN HELLENTHAL, GERMANY, FEB. 7-(AP)-ONE OF THE DEFENDERS OF THIS LITTLE TOWN IN THE HILLS THREE MILES SOUTHWEST OF SCHLEIDEN WAS A 75-YEAR-OLD GERMAN CIVILIAN WHO FIRED A MACHINEGUN FROM A ROOFTOP.

IT TOOK THE ATTACKERS 10 MINUTES TO DISPOSE OF HIM AND TWO DAYS MORE TO SECURE THE TOWN. THE STORY OF THE OLD MAN WAS CONFIRMED BY THE COMMANDER OF ONE OF THE TWO BATTALIONS OF THE 38TH INFANTRY REGIMENT WHO DID THE JOB, LT.COL.OLINTO BARSANTI OF TONOPAK, NEV. IT WAS VERIFIED ALSO BY OTHER OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN OF HIS BATTALION.

"HE WAS A MEAN OLD RASCAL," SAID COL. BARSANTI. "HE KEPT STRUGGLING EVEN AFTER WE CAPTURED HIM AND FINALLY SOMEBODY KNOCKED HIM OUT WITH HIS FIST."

FEB 8 1945

THE BATTLE FOR THE TOWN WAS STILL ON IN A SMALL WAY THIS AFTERNOON. OUR ADVANCE THROUGH TO ITS EASTERN EDGE WAS OBSTRUCTED BY A FEW GERMANS, BUT SOME ARTILLERY AND MORTAR FIRE BLASTED THEM OUT.

THE GERMANS FOUGHT MORE STUBBORNLY FOR THIS LITTLE TOWN THAN THEY HAVE FOR MOST OF THIS AREA, PROBABLY BECAUSE IT IS A GOOD OUTPOST FOR SCHLEIDEN. THE SECOND AND THIRD BATTALIONS OF THE 38TH REGIMENT KILLED ABOUT 100 OF THE ENEMY AND CAPTURED APPROXIMATELY 100.

ONE PRISONER SAID THE ORDER WAS "HOLD HELLENTHAL UNTIL HELL FROZE OVER." COL.BARSANTI'S COMMENT WAS THAT THE ATTACK WAS MADE "ON A PRETTY COLD NIGHT."

JUMPING OFF FROM THE HILLS TO THE NORTH IN PITCH DARKNESS AND A COLD RAIN AT 4 A.M. MONDAY, BARSANTI'S THIRD BATTALION HAD MUCH BETTER LUCK THAN THE SECOND, COMMANDED BY LT.COL.JACK K.NORRIS OF PAYETTE, IDAHO.

BARSANTI SAID THE ASSAULT WOULD HAVE BEEN EASIER EXCEPT THAT SOME CIVILIANS AT THE EDGE OF THE TOWN SPREAD THE ALARM AND WOKE THE GERMAN SOLDIERS. HE ORDERED SAFE REMOVAL OF HELLENTHAL'S CIVILIANS AS THE BATTALION WENT PAST THEM--BUT NOT IN ACCORDANCE WITH HIS PERSONAL WISHES.

AND NOW THE THIRD ARMY HAS SMASHED INTO THE FOREGROUND AND PILLBOXES OF STILL ANOTHER 22 MILE STRETCH OF THE LINE BETWEEN PRUEM AND TRIER.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS CONFIRMED FRONT LINE REPORTS OF THE THIRD ARMY BREACH IN THE MAIN SIEGFRIED SINGLE BELT. CORRESPONDENTS WERE TOLD, HOWEVER, THAT EARTHERN DEFENSES HAVE BEEN COMPLETED BACKING UP THE OLD CONCRETE FORTIFICATIONS AND THAT THESE COULD BE STRONGLY DEFENDED IF THE GERMANS HAD ENOUGH TROOPS TO MAN THEM. THERE WERE CONSIDERABLE PRELIMINARY INDICATIONS THAT THE GERMANS HAD SAPPED THEIR WESTERN FRONT TOO THIN.

THE NEW THIRD ARMY ATTACK WAS INTO THE EIFEL MOUNTAINS, TEN TO 35 MILES NORTHWEST OF THE MOSELLE RIVER AND ABOUT 65 MILES FROM THE GREAT RHINE CITY OF KOBLENZ.

THE THIRD AND FIRST ARMIES CAPTURED 886 PRISONERS YESTERDAY.

INITIAL GAINS PUT PATTON'S MEN A HALF MILE INSIDE GERMANY AND AMONG PILLBOXES OF THE SEIGFRIED LINE.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS SOUTH OF BOLOGNA, FEB 7-(AP)-AMERICAN TROOPS, STRIKING OUT SOUTHEAST OF BOLOGNA IN THE FIFTH ARMY'S STRONGEST ATTACK SINCE LAST OCTOBER, FOUND THE GERMANS RESISTING AS STUBBORNLY AS EVER TODAY AFTER 48 HOURS OF FIGHTING IN THE MUD-CLOGGED APENNINES MOUNTAINS FRONT.

THE ATTACK OPENED MONDAY AND ENDED A MONTH OF INACTIVITY IN THIS SECTOR. IT WAS PRESSED AGAINST TWO MOUNTAIN STRONGHOLDS IN THE ENEMY'S GOTHIC LINE. VETERAN TROOPS UNDER MAJ.TIMOTHY HORAN OF LUDLOW, VT., AND LIEUT.COL.BENJAMIN J.BUTLER OF MILTON,KY., BY EARLY YESTERDAY HAD GAINED UP TO 600 YARDS BUT SUFFERED A NUMBER OF CASUALTIES.

THE HEAVIEST CONCENTRATION OF ARTILLERY FIRE IN MONTHS--15,000 SHELLS--WAS THROWN AT THE GERMANS IN A PRELIMINARY BARRAGE. TANKS COMMANDED BY LIEUT.COL.HYMAN BRUSH OF WARREN,O., WHO LED THE ARMORED UNITS IN AFRICA AND EARLIER PHASES OF THE ITALIAN CAMPAIGN, WERE USED AS ARTILLERY SUPPORT.

A HEAVY ATTACK WAS NOT IN LARGE SCALE, AS OFFENSIVES GO, BUT IT WAS IN ENOUGH STRENGTH AND MET ENOUGH RESISTANCE TO DEMONSTRATE THERE HAS BEEN NO WEAKENING OF THE GERMAN DEFENSES PROTECTING THE PO VALLEY ROAD HUB BEFORE BOLOGNA, WHERE THE GERMANS HAVE BEEN EXTREMELY SENSITIVE TO OUR LIMITED PATROL ACTIVITIES.

"THEY WERE SENSITIVE AS HELL," SAID LT.COL.HUBERT DESMARAIS OF MINNEAPOLIS. "IN FACT THEY WERE DAMN BELLIGERENT."

BUTLER'S TROOPS STRUCK NORTHEAST AND NORTHWEST OF A VILLAGE SOUTHEAST OF BOLOGNA. THEY CLEARED A GROUP OF HOUSES ON ONE HILLTOP AND OCCUPIED ANOTHER--AN 1,050-FOOT RIDGE. AT THE SAME TIME HORAN'S OUTFIT STRUCK AT A 1,050-FOOT HILL ABOUT A MILE FARTHER NORTHWEST, THE TALLEST HEIGHT REMAINING BETWEEN THIS POINT AND THE PO VALLEY.

CAPT.RAYMOND C.STILLGER OF BAYONNE,N.J., LED ONE GROUP WHICH ADVANCED ABOUT 400 YARDS THROUGH A THICK MINE FIELD AND MACHINEGUN FIRE FROM NESTS IN AN OLD CEMETERY. ANOTHER GROUP LED BY LT.ANTHONY J.JACOBS OF NEW BRITAIN,CONN., ALSO MET BITTER OPPOSITION AND WAS FORCED TO DIG IN IN PREPARATION FOR RENEWING THE BATTLE TODAY.

ROME, FEB 7-(AP)-BENIAMINO GIGLI, ITALIAN TENOR WHO WAS FORBIDDEN TO SING FOR ALLIED SOLDIERS AFTER THE LIBERATION OF ROME ON THE GROUNDS HE COLLABORATED WITH THE ENEMY, HAS BEEN REINSTATED BY THE COUNCIL OF MUSICANS SYNDICATE.

THE COUNCIL ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT THE CHARGES WERE "EXAGGERATED, NON-EXISTENT OR BROUGHT BY RIVAL SINGERS."

THE ANNOUNCEMENT ADDED THAT CHARGES NEVER WERE PREFERRED BY THE SYNDICATE ITSELF AND THAT THE REINSTATEMENT ACTION WAS TAKEN AS THE RESULT OF A REQUEST FROM THE ITALIAN PURGE COMMISSARIAT FOR AN OPINION ON THE CASE.

IN INSTANCES WHERE THE TENOR SANG "DUBIOUS" PERFORMANCES DURING THE OCCUPATION, THE COUNCIL RULED, HE WAS NOT A FREE AGENT BUT ACTED IN OBSERVANCE OF HIS CONTRACT WITH A THEATER WHICH ACTUALLY WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR HIS ACTIONS.

ALTHOUGH NOT ON THE PROGRAM, GIGLI SANG MONDAY AT THE REQUEST OF THE AUDIENCE AT A GRAND HOTEL CONCERT. HE IS SCHEDULED TO SING AGAIN AT A BENEFIT CONCERT FEB.12.

MOSCOW, FEB. 7-(AP)-METROPOLITAN BENJAMIN OF NORTH AMERICAN AND THE ALEUTIANS SAID TODAY THAT THE FINAL STEPS FOR CLOSE COOPERATION BETWEEN THE AMERICAN ORTHODOX RUSSIAN CHURCHES WITH THE MOTHER RUSSIAN CHURCH WOULD BE TAKEN THIS WEEK.

TWO AMERICAN DELEGATES TO THE ALL-RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CONGRESS, BISHOP ALEXY PONTELAIEF AND FARTHER JOSEPH DZVONCHIK, WERE EXPECTED TO ARRIVE HERE TOMORROW, HAVING BEEN DELAYED BY WEATHER IN THE PLANE AND TRAIN JOURNEY FROM THE UNITED STATES.

"THERE ARE TEN BISHOPS WITH 300 AMERICAN PARISHES WHICH ARE BEING RECONCILED WITH THE MOTHER CHURCH," METROPOLITAN BENJAMIN SAID. "IT IS A GREAT RELIGIOUS MOMENT."

THE NEXT IMPORTANT FUNCTION OF THE CHURCH CONVOCATION IN MOSCOW WILL BE THE MEETING OF THE SYNOD OF THE RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CHURCH FRIDAY, TO BE ATTENDED BY FOREIGN PRELATES.

TWO MESSAGES FROM THE LOCAL COUNCIL OF THE RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CHURCH

WERE DISSEMINATED THROUGHOUT THE SOVIET UNION YESTERDAY BY THE SOVIET RADIO AND PRESS.

ONE CALLED FOR "ALL CHRISTIANS TO PRAY FOR COMPLETE VICTORY OVER THE ENEMY SO THAT THE VILE TEACHING OF FASCISM MAY BE WIPED FROM OFF THE FACE OF THE EARTH FOREVER."

"THOSE WHO CALL FOR MERCY FOR THE MURDERERS OF CHILDREN X X X CANNOT BE CALLED CHRISTIANS, AND BECOME SHARERS OF THE GUILT OF THE FASCISTS," IT DECLARED.

THE OTHER MESSAGE NOTED "WITH REGRET A LAXITY ON THE PART OF THE CLERGY IN THE PERFORMANCE OF CHURCH DUTIES AND ON THE PART OF THE FAITHFUL IN THEIR LIVES AS CHRISTIANS." IT CALLED UPON THE CHURCH TO "SERVE AS A SUPPORT FOR THE MIGHT AND PROSPERITY OF THE MOTHERLAND."

MOSCOW, FEB 7-(AP)-RUSSIA'S INVASION HOSTS FLOWED TODAY TOWARD WESTERN SILESIA IN THE DIRECTION OF SAXONY AND THE SUDETENLAND, LEAVING THE ENEMY'S SHATTERED UPPER ODER RIVER LINE DEEP IN THEIR REAR.

THIS FRESH COLLAPSE OF GERMAN POSITIONS ON MARSHAL IVAN S.KONEV'S FIRST UKRAINIAN FRONT USHERED IN A NEW PHASE OF THE BATTLE OF GERMANY WITH THE RED ARMY FORCES RAPIDLY EXPLOITING AN OPPORTUNITY TO SLASH INTO THE SOUTHERN FLANK OF THE BERLIN-PRAGUE DEFENSE AXIS.

AT THE SAME TIME FROM POINTS 35 MILES OR LESS EAST OF BERLIN'S OUTSKIRTS MARSHAL GREGORY K.ZHUKOV'S FIRST WHITE RUSSIAN ARMY WAS HAMMERING THE ENEMY FORTIFIED ZONE THAT EMBRACES FRANKFURT AND KUESTRIN WITH A RECORD CONCENTRATION OF ARTILLERY. ZHUKOV HAS NOT YET CLAIMED A BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE ODER IN THAT SECTOR. FEB 8 1945

MARSHAL KONEV, FIRST TO CONQUER THE ODER, ALSO HAD BEEN FIRST ACROSS THE DNEPR, BUG AND VISTULA RIVERS.

POURING THE BULK OF HIS INFANTRY PAST THE BREACHED ODER LINE, HIS DEPLOYING FORCES TO THE WEST SPREAD OUT OVER A NETWORK OF PAVED ROADS, INCLUDING A WIDE SUPER-HIGHWAY LEADING DIRECTLY NORTHWEST TO BERLIN, ABOUT 180 MILES AWAY.

KONEV WON THE CROSSING, FIRST ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT BY MARSHAL STALIN IN AN ORDER OF THE DAY, DESPITE A THAW WHICH SET IN THROUGHOUT SILESIA ABOUT THE MIDDLE OF LAST WEEK. MOVING SWIFTLY HE AVOIDED A BOGDOWN IN THE MUD AND ROUTED ENEMY GARRISONS FROM A NUMBER OF TOWNS BEFORE THEY COULD SABOTAGE THEIR OWN ARMAMENTS.

SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP, MANILA, P.I., FEB. 6 (DELAYED) (AP)-FOR THE SECOND TIME IN THREE YEARS AMERICANS AND BRITISH IN THIS CAMP HAVE SEEN MANILA BLEEDING AROUND THEM.

A MAJORITY OF THESE PEOPLE HAD BUILT HOMES AND WORKED MANY YEARS IN MANILA, ONCE ONE OF THE ORIENT'S BRIGHTEST SPOTS.

I SPENT A NIGHT IN THIS CAMP WHERE I HAD BEEN INTERNED AT THE OUTSET OF THE WAR. I LIVED AGAIN AS AN INTERNEE AND WATCHED THE FIERY DRAMA OUTSIDE THE WALLS AS THE SLOW TASK OF ROOTING OUT THE JAPANESE GARRISON GOT UNDERWAY.

THIS WAS AN ISLAND OF RELATIVE SAFETY WITHIN THE EMBATTLED CITY. IT WAS HELD BY FLYING SQUADRONS OF THE FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION. THE REMAINDER OF THE FIRST AND 37TH DIVISIONS PROCEEDED SLOWLY SOUTHWARD.

THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT TANKS ON THE CAMPUS AND AMERICAN ARTILLERY NEARBY INTERMITTENTLY FIRED SOUTHWARD OVER THE HEADS OF INTERNEES TOWARD A VAST PILLAR OF FLAME SHOOTING UPWARD SOMEWHERE NORTH OF THE PASIG RIVER.

THE WHOLE SKY TURNED RED FROM DOZENS OF FIRES, MOSTLY DEMOLITION-

WHICH HAVE BEEN ERUPTING FOR TWO DAYS AMID SHATTERING EXPLOSIONS. THE FLAMES LEAPED SKYWARD COLORING LIGHT CLOUDS AND SPREADING A MANTLE OF GOLD OVER THE INTERNEES, MOST OF WHOM STAYED UP LATE WATCHING THE CULMINATION OF THE LONG DRAMA WHILE TALKING ABOUT THEIR OWN RELEASE.

THEY HAD WATCHED THESE FIRES OF WAR BEFORE. IN LATE 1941 AMERICANS DEMOLISHED MILITARY STORES BEFORE THE JAPANESE OCCUPATION OF MANILA AND THE BAY AREA, WHERE MOST OF THE INTERNEES HAD BEEN RINGED BY FIRE WHICH BURNED FOR DAYS. OIL STORES, MILITARY INSTALLATIONS AND EVEN CAVITE NAVY BASE ACROSS THE BAY WENT UP IN FLAMES.

A FEW WEEKS LATER THESE PEOPLE IN SANTO TOMAS WATCHED FLASHES OF GUNFIRE ON THE HORIZON AS THE BATTLE OF BATAAN WAS FOUGHT.

BUT THE CLIMAX OF THE DRAMA BROUGHT MUCH PAIN, FOR THE JAPANESE HAVE MADE MANILA BATTLEFIELD ON WHICH BUILDINGS INSTEAD OF ROCKS ARE SERVING AS PROTECTION FOR THE ENEMY GARRISON'S LAST-MAN FIGHT. FEB 8 1945

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO PENETRATE DEEPLY ENOUGH INTO THE CITY TO DETERMINE THE EXTENT OF THE DAMAGE TO AREAS BEST KNOWN TO THE AMERICANS. BY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON THE AREA SOUTH OF THE PASIG RIVER WHERE ARE LOCATED MANILA BAY VIEW HOTELS, THE U.S. HIGH COMMISSIONER'S RESIDENCE, THE ARMY AND NAVY AND ELKS' CLUBS, MOST OF THE APARTMENT HOUSES AND THE WALLED CITY, ALL WERE RELATIVELY UNTOUCHED BY FIRE.

B2KX

TWO PIERS ALONG THE WATERFRONT WERE BADLY DAMAGED AND FAMOUS PIER NO. 7, LARGEST IN THE ORIENT, WAS BLACKENED BUT STILL SERVICEABLE. THERE WERE A FEW SUNKEN SHIPS IN THE BAY, ONE OF THEM STILL BURNING.

BUT NEW FIRES SPOUTED YESTERDAY ALONGSIDE THE RIVER NEAR THE ESCOLTA, THE MAIN BUSINESS DISTRICT WHERE THE PRINCIPAL STORES AND THE NATIONAL CITY AND CHASE NATIONAL BANKS AND OTHER LANDMARKS ARE LOCATED.

BY YESTERDAY AFTERNOON THE MANILA BULLETIN BUILDING HAD STILL ESCAPED THE FLAMES.

THE THUNDEROUS GUNFIRE THAT WENT ON ALL NIGHT THROUGHOUT THE CITY DIED DOWN DURING THE EARLY MORNING BUT BEGAN AGAIN APASMODICALLY LATER IN THE DAY.

HEAVY ARTILLERY, MORTARS, MACHINEGUNS AND SMALL ARMS ROARED AS THE JAPANESE FOUGHT FROM TWO BIG HOTELS ON THE NORTH SIDE OF THE RIVER AND THE THEATRICAL DISTRICT. INDIVIDUAL MACHINEGUNNERS AND SNIPERS OPERATED FROM HOUSES.

WAR PRISONERS AND BAGUIO CIVILIAN INTERNEES WERE EVACUATED FROM OLD BILIBID PRISON NEAR THE CENTER OF HEAVY FIRE AFTER SEVERAL MORTAR SHELLS DROPPED WITHIN THE COMPOUND.

THE APPROACHES TO MANILA ALONG RIZAL AVENUE FROM THE BONIFACIO MONUMENT STANDING AT GRACE PARK TOLD OF BITTER IF SMALL SCALE FIGHTING. THE STREETS WERE STREWN WITH RUBBLE. MANY BUILDINGS WERE BLACKENED ALTHOUGH SOME LARGELY ESCAPED, BUT THE FILIPINOS HAVE ALREADY BEGUN TO SALVAGE ROOFING AND LUMBER FROM THE WRECKED BUILDINGS TO BE USED FOR THEIR HOMES.

THE ROUTE TOWARD TOWN WAS LINED WITH THOUSANDS OF CHEERING FILIPINOS. A MAJORITY APPEAR FAIRLY WELL FED. MANY GIRLS HAD DONNED LIPSTICK AND FRESH FROCKS. THE MEN WERE NEAT THOUGH MANY CLOTHES WERE PATCHED AND WAN FACES TOLD A STORY OF HARDSHIPS. OCCASIONALLY WE SAW BEGGARS--MERE WALKING SKELETONS--HOBBLING AMONG THE CROWDS. THERE WERE A COUPLE OF BODIES LYING ON THE PAVEMENT--FORLORN CASES OF STARVATION.

ARMED FILIPINO AND CHINESE GUERRILLAS ROAMED THE STREETS AFOOT

OR IN CARS WHICH THEY HAD TAKEN FROM THE JAPANESE. CIVILIANS FLOCKED ON SAFE STREETS WHERE THEY TALKED WITH GI'S AND WAVES HAPPILY TO ALL INCOMING TRUCKS.

BJKX

MANY OF THE RUBBLE STREWN STREETS WERE UNSAFE AND CORNERS WERE GUARDED BY AMERICANS OR GUERRILLAS WITH MACHINEGUNS. JAPANESE SNIPERS WERE OPERATING THERE AS WE DISCOVERED WHILE DRIVING DOWN ONE AND CARBINE FIRE OPENED UP ON US. THE FILIPINOS HURRIED BY, CARRYING SMALL POSSESSIONS IN THEIR HANDS OR IN MAKESHIFT CARTS. OCCASIONALLY AN AMBULANCE SPED BY WITH A WOUNDED DOUGHBOY OR A FILIPINO. SOME CIVILIAN BODIES WERE LYING ON THE STREETS NEAR JAPANESE BODIES GROTESQUELY SPRAWLED.

MORTAR FIRE FROM NEAR THE ESCOLTA CHURNED HOLES IN MANY STREETS, RIPPED THROUGH BUILDINGS AND MADE CIVILIANS PANICKY.

EVEN IN THE MOST FEAR-STRAINED FILIPINO FACE, HOWEVER, THERE WERE TEARS OF JOY. MANY SANG "GOD BLESS AMERICA." ONLY A FEW FAILED TO MAKE ANY SIGN OF RECOGNITION.

THE INTERNEES STOUTLY WITHSTOOD THE BOMBARDMENT, CONFIDENT THAT NEW AMERICAN POWER WOULD PROTECT THEM ALTHOUGH SHRAPNEL SOMETIMES FELL WITHIN THE CAMP AND GUNS THUNDERED ALL AROUND. MANY CONTRASTED FORMER FIRES WITH THE NEW ONES AND WERE BITTER TOWARD THE JAPANESE WHOM THEY BELIEVED INTENDED TO DESTROY MUCH OF THE CITY BEFORE CAPITULATING.

THE CALMNESS OF THE INTERNEES WAS STRIKING. DINNER OF MUNGO BEANS WAS SERVED LAST NIGHT AS USUAL TO LONG LINES WAITING FOR FOOD AS THEY HAD DURING THE PAST THREE YEARS. I JOINED THEM AS I USED TO, EATING IN THE SHANTY OF A FRIEND.

WE TALKED OF THE OLD DAYS, OF FORMER BASEBALL GAMES AND ENTERTAINMENT PROGRAMS, OF FRIENDS WHO HAD TRANSFERRED, AND SADLY OF FRIENDS WHO HAD DIED OF STARVATION, BUT ALL NOTICED IMMEDIATELY I HAD ADDED WEIGHT SINCE LEAVING SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP.

THE RELEASED INTERNEES REMARKED AT THE STRENGTH AND GOOD APPEARANCE OF THE AMERICAN SOLDIERS AND CORRESPONDENTS. THEY SHOWED THEIR OWN SHRUNKEN BODIES WHERE THE RIBS STUCK OUT. MANY HAD LOST 70 TO 80 POUNDS.

IT WAS EMBARRASSING TO BE AMONG THESE PEOPLE WITH MY PADDED MIDRIFF. BUT IT WAS A GREAT EMOTIONAL EXPERIENCE TO SEE THEIR RELEASE. MANY SEEMED TO GAIN ASSURANCE FROM SEEING OLD FRIENDS AND PEOPLE WHO UNDERSTAND WHAT THEY HAVE BEEN THROUGH.

SO THE FIRES BURNED AND THE ARTILLERY ROARED. WE FELT MANILA WOULD BE BADLY DAMAGED BEFORE IT WOULD BE SAFE FOR THE INTERNEES TO EMERGE AGAIN AND SEE THE LANDMARKS MOST HAD NOT VISITED FOR YEARS. FILIPINO FRIENDS WERE SOMEWHERE THERE AMID DANGER AND THAT WAS HARD TO THINK ABOUT

THE INTERNEES REACTED AS THEY HAD BEFORE IN PAST CRISES. THEY TURNED TO FAMILIAR THINGS AND FAMILIAR SUBJECTS. THEY HAD FOUND THAT WAS THE BEST WAY TO PROTECT THEIR OFTEN-SHOCKED MINDS FROM EMOTIONAL STRESSES WHICH WERE HARDER TO BEAR AS THEIR INTERNMENT EXTENDED.

MANILA WAS BLEEDING, BUT THIS TIME PROUDLY, FOR THE FLAMES WERE A PART OF VICTORY'S COST. AS I WRITE THIS BACK OF THE OLD INTERNEE RECORDS OFFICE LISTENING TO THE GUNFIRE, FRIENDS NEARBY ARE DRINKING BEER FROM A BARREL BROUGHT INTO CAMP BY THE ARMY. IT IS THEIR TOAST TO VICTORY.

SANTO TOMAS, MANILA, THURSDAY, FEB.8-(AP)-WHEN SANTO TOMAS INTERNEES WANTED EXTRA FOOD, MONEY OR FRIENDS BROUGHT INTO THE INTERNMENT CAMP FROM OUTSIDE THEY PASSED THE WORD TO BILL CHITTICK AND HE USUALLY MANAGED IT.

CHITTICK, OF SALEM, ORE., WAS VICE-PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER OF THE WESTERN EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLY COMPANY IN MANILA BEFORE THE WAR. IN THE CAMP HE HELD THE JOB OF RUNNING THE FRONT GATE LIAISON AND SUPERVISING THE "PACKAGE LINE"--A SYSTEM THROUGH WHICH OUTSIDERS COULD SEND FOOD AND OTHER THINGS INTO THE CAMP. SUCH THINGS WERE SENT INBY FRIENDS, HOUSEBOYS AND OTHER SERVANTS.

OFTEN THE PACKAGE LINE MEANT THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN STARVATION AND SURVIVAL. BUT IT WAS ABOLISHED BY THE JAPANESE ARMY IN FEB., 1944.

IN THE EARLY DAYS OF THE CAMP, OUTSIDE FRIENDS AND SERVANTS THREW PACKAGES OVER THE WALLS TO THE INTERNEES. LATER THE JAPANESE CIVILIAN ADMINISTRATION INAUGURATED THE LINE AND AN INSPECTION SYSTEM. THEY EXAMINED THE PACKAGES IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE INTERNEES--CHITTICK AND HIS CREW.

IN THIS POSITION CHITTICK WAS ABLE TO BUILD UP A PIPE LINE AND SEND FOOD AND CLOTHING ORDERS OUT SUBROSA. THE JAPANESE DIDN'T GREATLY CARE SO LONG AS THERE WERE "NO INCIDENTS AT THE GATE."

THE PACKAGE LINE REACHED FULL FLOWER IN MID-1942 WHEN 900 OUTSIDERS WERE SENDING SUPPLIES TO INTERNEES. MOST OF THE INTERNEES HAD UNLIMITED CREDIT.

AS THE FOOD SITUATION IN MANILA TIGHTENED, PACKAGE LINE TRAFFIC LESSENED AND RESTRICTIONS MOUNTED. IT FINALLY GREW INTO A SMUGGLING BUSINESS WITH CHITTICK AND HIS CO-WORKERS OPERATING ON BEHALF OF OTHERS. BRIBERY AND CAJOLERY AMONG THE JAPANESE GUARDS WAS THE BEST WEAPON.

CHITTICK THINKS HE MANAGED TO KEEP THE LINE WORKING BECAUSE THE JAPANESE GET A KICK OUT OF BEATING THEIR OWN RULES. OFTEN CHITTICK CAUGHT A GUARD PILFERING AND WENT IN FOR POLITE BLACKMAIL TO KEEP THE PRECIOUS SYSTEM OPERATING.

SANTO TOMAS CAMP,MANILA,FEB 6 (DELAYED)-(AP)-FANATICAL JAPANESE TROOPS PUT UP A LAST-DITCH BATTLE AT ONE OF THEIR NORTH MANILA STRONGHOLDS--THE BUILDINGS OF THE FAR EASTERN UNIVERSITY ON QUEZON BOULEVARD NEAR THE DOWNTOWN SECTION.

SUICIDE NIPPON TROOPS ESTABLISHED THEMSELVES IN THE BUILDINGS TO COVER THE AMERICAN ENTRY TO THE SANTO TOMAS INTERNMENT CAMP AND THE BUSINESS DISTRICT.

AS THE MOTORIZED FIRST U.S.CAVALRY DIVISION ROARED INTO THE CITY LAST SATURDAY NIGHT IT WAS AT THE FAR EASTERN UNIVERSITY CORNER WHERE IT ENCOUNTERED WITHERING FIRE, PINNING THE LEAD ELEMENTS TO THE GROUND FOR ALMOST AN HOUR. IT WAS DARK THEN AND WE HAD NO IDEA WHAT THE POSITION WAS LIKE. BUT TODAY, AFTER INFANTRYMEN HAD SLUGGED IT OUT WITH THE JAPANESE, WE LEARNED THAT IT WAS AMAZING THAT ANYONE CLEARED THE CORNER.

THE JAPANESE HAD USED THE BUILDINGS AS MANILA RAILROAD HEADQUARTERS AND A MILITARY CENTER FOR INTERNMENT CAMPS. THE BUILDINGS, OF WHITE MODERNISTIC DESIGN, TOOK A TERRIBLE BEATING. THE MAIN STRUCTURE WERE RIDDLED WITH BULLET AND SHRAPNEL HOLES AND EVERY WINDOW WAS SHATTERED.

ON EACH CORNER OF THE MAIN BUILDING THE JAPANESE HAD PILLBOXES AND ANTI-TANK GUNS MANNED BY SIZEABLE FORCES OF SOLDIERS. THE JAPANESE DEAD HERE REMAIN IN THEIR POSITIONS, DRAPED IN GROTESQUE MANNER OVER THE EDGES OF PILLBOXES AND GUN POSITIONS.

FILIPINO CIVILIANS GATHERED AROUND TO LOOK AT THE ENEMY DEAD. SOME SAID "JAPANESE--ALL DEAD--GOOD, GOOD." JUST ACROSS THE STREET WERE TRUCKS FILLED WITH JAPANESE BODIES.

WITHIN THE PILLBOXES AND GUN POSITIONS WERE PLENTIFUL SUPPLIES OF GRENADES AND OTHER AMMUNITION INDICATING THE JAPANESE THERE WERE ASSIGNED TO HOLD OUT AT ANY COST AGAINST THE ADVANCING YANK FORCES.

30.24 - 22797

IN THE MAIN ENTRANCE OF THE UNIVERSITY WAS A LARGE JAPANESE SIGN. IT READ "NOTICE--WASH YOUR HANDS INTO THIS BASIN BEFORE ENTERING THIS BUILDING." THERE WAS NO EXPLANATION.

CIVILIANS NEAR THE ENTRANCE SAID THE JAPANESE TOOK MANY FILIPINOS INSIDE FOR QUESTIONING AND MANY TIMES THEY WERE NEVER SEEN AGAIN. THE PEOPLE SAID THEY LEARNED IT WAS WISE NOT TO INQUIRE ABOUT THE MISSING.

ONE AMERICAN OFFICER WHO HAD BEEN IN THE CAPITAL SINCE THE TROOPS FIRST ENTERED LAST SATURDAY NIGHT, SAID THE DESTRUCTION FAR EXCEEDED ANY PREVIOUS DAMAGE. HE SAID THE JAPANESE HAD STORED AMMUNITION IN DOWNTOWN BUILDINGS AND WAITED UNTIL THE AMERICANS ENTERED THE CITY BEFORE BLOWING THEM UP.

IN THIS CASE, FIRST LT.EARL L.FRANK, PORTLAND, ORE., AND HIS JASCO TEAM GOT THE ASSIGNMENT. AT DUSK THEY REPORTED TO A FORWARD OBSERVATION POST, BEGAN LAYING A 500-YARD LINE OF WIRE, OFTEN BEYOND THE ADVANCED AMERICAN LINES AND WITHIN EARSHOT OF JAPANESE PATROLS.

THE NEXT MORNING FRANK DISCOVERED A SERIES OF CATACOMB CAVES. ONE TUNNEL EXTENDED THROUGH THE HILL AND LOOKED OUT ON THE BROAD FACE OF HILL 585 ACROSS THE VALLEY. TAKING A "WALKIE-TALKIE" RADIO ON HIS BACK, FRANK CRAWLED THROUGH THE TUNNEL ALONE.

"I SAT THERE IN THE TUNNEL ENTRANCE AND COULD SPOT THE ARTILLERY FLASHES WITHOUT ANY TROUBLE," FRANK RELATED. "TWICE JAP PATROLS PASSED WITHIN A FEW FEET OF ME. I COULD HAVE REACHED OUT AND TOUCHED THEM.

"THE GUNNERY OFFICER ON OUR DESTROYER, WHICH WE CALL THE 'WHIZZ BANG' WAS COMPLAINING BITTERLY BECAUSE MY MESSAGES WERE BEING WHISPERED OVER THE RADIO. BUT HE APOLOGIZED THE NEXT DAY WHEN HE FOUND OUT WHAT A TOUCHY SPOT I WAS IN.

"LATER WHEN THE INFANTRY MOVED INTO THE JAP ARTILLERY POSITIONS ONE OF THE GUNS WAS FOUND TO BE AN OLD U.S. COASTAL GUN PROBABLY BROUGHT UP FROM BATAAN."

MEMBERS OF FRANK'S TEAM INCLUDE:

BRUSSELS, FEB. 7-(AP)-WILLIAM EDMOND BUTLIN, HONORARY ADVISER TO BRITISH ARMY WELFARE AND THE NAVY, ARMY, AIR FORCES INSTITUTE CANTEEN ADMINISTRATION, TODAY REJECTED AN ASSERTION BY GENERAL SECRETARY DE LAET OF THE BELGIAN DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH, THAT ALLIED MILITARY CLUBS LED TO THE SPREAD OF VENEREAL DISEASE.

"DOCTOR DE LAET AT HIS PRESS CONFERENCE SPEAKS AS IF THE ALLIED SOLDIER IS NOT FIT TO MEET DECENT WOMEN OF BELGIUM AND WOULD PEFER THEM TO MIX WITH PROSTITUTES AND LOOSE-LIVING WOMEN TO BE FOUND IN MANY OF THE COMMERCIALLY-OWNED DANCE PLACES," BUTLIN SAID.

THE BRITISH OFFICIAL SAID MORE THAN 100,000 ALLIED TROOPS, CHIEFLY MEN ON 48-HOUR LEAVE FROM THE FRONT, HAD USED A SINGLE DANCE CLUB WHICH WAS ORGANIZED BY ALLIED MILITARY AUTHORITIES IN BRUSSELS, "AND NOT ONE SINGLE COMPLAINT HAS YET BEEN RECEIVED FROM MILITARY OR CIVIL SOURCES."

BUTLIN DECLARED THE WELL-ORGANIZED AMENITIES OF THE LEAVE CLUBS HAD RESULTED IN VENEREAL DISEASE FIGURES BEING "A FRACTIO OF WHAT THEY WOULD HAVE BEEN HAD OUR MEN BEEN MERELY TURNED LOOSE IN THE TOWN."

SOMEWHERE IN THE MARIANAS, JAN. 24-(AP)-A LIBERATOR WHICH COULDN'T QUITE MAKE IT BACK TO ITS BASE MAY HAVE BEEN BROUGHT DOWN BY ITS OWN BOMBS, ITS PILOT REPORTED TODAY.

THE "BIRD OF PARADISE" WAS BADLY SHOT UP OVER IWO JIMA, BUT RETURNED ONLY TO CRASH INTO THE OCEAN WITHIN SIGHT OF THIS BASE. THREE MEN DROWNED OR WERE KILLED IN THE CRASH LANDING. EIGHT MEN, INCLUDING THE PILOT, LT. JAMES B. FAGAN OF CRAIGSVILLE, PA., WERE RESCUED.

HEAVY ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE OVER IWO SPRAYED BOTH WINGS AND PUNCHED HOLES IN THE BOMB BAYS.

"SOME OF THE BOMB BAY HOLES MAY HAVE BEEN FROM OUR OWN BOMBS," FAGAN SAID.

"JUST AS WE DROPPED OUR FRAGMENTATION CLUSTERS, ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE CAUGHT ONE OF THEM SQUARELY ABOUT 50 FEET BELOW US, AND THE IMPACT MAY HAVE CAUSED ONE OR TWO TO GO OFF AND SPRAY OUR BELLY. IT WAS A FREAKISH DAMN THING."

THE GUNFIRE KNOCKED OUT THE PLANE'S HYDRAULIC SYSTEM, HIT THE ELEVATOR CABLES AND CUT THE RUDDER AND CONTROLS. FAGAN HAD TO FLY BACK MANUALLY, STEERING BY THROTTLE CONTROL -- REVVING UP THE TWO STARBOARD ENGINES TO SWING LEFT, AND THE PORT ENGINES TO SWING RIGHT.

[illegible] AND HIS CO-PILOT, LT. JOHNNIE U. [illegible], POMONA, CALIF., NURSED THE PLANE 670 MILES BACK FROM IWO JIMA. [illegible] BRYANT OF DUNN, N.C., SPLICED THE SHREDDED CONTROL CABLES BUT WAS UNABLE TO REACH THE AILERON WIRES.

ON THE LANDING APPROACH THE WHEELS FAILED TO [illegible]

FAGAN SWUNG AROUND THE FIELD, BRYANT CRANKED THE LANDING GEAR DOWN. AS BRYANT STARTED TO CRANK THE FLAPS DOWN, THE PLANE SLID OFF ON ITS RIGHT WING AND WITHIN 30 SECONDS STRUCK THE WATER AND BROKE IN TWO.

BRYANT AND THE NAVIGATOR, LT. DAVID K. SHELLEDY, NEW LONDON, IOWA, LOCKED HANDS IN THE WATER TO KEEP FROM DRIFTING APART. A P-T BOAT RESCUED THEM AND THE OTHER SURVIVORS WITHIN A FEW MINUTES.

BALKANS
BY FRANK O'BRIEN

ANKARA, FEB 7-(AP)-HOPE BEAT STRONG AMONG THE BALKAN NATIONS TODAY THAT THE "BIG THREE" CONFERENCE, NOW REPORTED IN PROGRESS, MAY OPEN THE WAY TO PEACEFUL POSTWAR COLLABORATION AMONG THE GREAT POWERS IN DEALING WITH SOUTHEASTERN EUROPE.

IT IS THE GENERAL CONVICTION IN THE BALKANS THAT THE CONFERENCE IS BEING HELD IN SOME PART OF THE BLACK SEA REGION AND THAT ITS PROXIMITY WILL SPOTLIGHT BALKAN PROBLEMS--PROBLEMS WHICH HISTORICALLY HAVE BEEN A HEADACHE TO THE PEACE OF EUROPE.

RUSSIAN-OCCUPIED BULGARIA, RUMANIA AND YUGOSLAVIA, BRITISH-OCCUPIED GREECE AND NEUTRAL TURKEY EYE THE CONFERENCE WITH MIXED FEELINGS OF HOPE AND FEAR.

IF THE MEETING ENDS WITHOUT AN UNEQUIVOCAL AGREEMENT GIVING AMERICAN AND BRITISH POLITICAL METHODS AND ECONOMIC PRACTICES AN EQUAL FOOTING WITH RUSSIAN INFLUENCE IN RUSSIAN-OCCUPIED COUNTRIES, THERE IS CERTAIN TO BE A CONVICTION IN THE BALKANS THAT THE WESTERN POWERS HAVE MADE A BARGAIN - AND TURNED THEIR BACKS ON SOUTHEASTERN EUROPE.

TURKEY WANTS GOOD RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA, BUT HER UNIQUE POSITION AS A BRIDGE BETWEEN THE MEDITERRANEAN, BLACK SEA, EUROPE, THE MIDDLE EAST AND THE BALKENS GIVES HER ADDED REASONS FOR DESIRING GOOD RELATIONS ON ALL SIDES AND NOT BECOMING THE SPECIAL DIPLOMATIC AND ECONOMIC PROPERTY OF EITHER RUSSIA OR ENGLAND.

A FINAL SOLUTION OF THE GREEK TRAGEDY ALSO MAY DEPEND ON A CONFERENCE DECISION. MOST GREEKS PROBABLY DESIRE A CONFERENCE-ESTABLISHED EQUILIBRIUM BETWEEN THE LEFT AND RIGHT FORCES WHICH WOULD PRODUCE DESIRED REFORMS WITHOUT ANOTHER REIGN OF TERROR.

BULGARS GENERALLY DEPLORE THE EXCESSES OF THEIR ARMISTICE GOVERNMENT AND WONDER WHAT HAS BECOME OF THE CIVIL RIGHTS, FREEDOM OF SPEECH, PRESS AND ASSEMBLY GUARANTEED BY THE ATLANTIC CHARTER. THE STRONG MEN OF THE PRESENT BULGARIAN GOVERNMENT ARE PREMIER KIMON GEORGEIV AND WAR MINISTER DAMYAN VELCHEV, WHO WERE LIKEWISE STRONG MEN IN THE PRO-FASCIST REVOLT OF 1932. THEY WERE NEVER KNOWN AS FRIENDS OF DEMOCRACY.

RUMANIA, WHERE THINGS ARE BETTER THAN IN THE FIRST UNPREDICTABLE DAYS OF THE RUSSIAN OCCUPATION, WANTS FROM THE CONFERENCE RECOGNITION AS A COBELLIGERENT AND AN AGREEMENT THAT THE ARMISTICE TERMS WITH RUSSIA AND THE ALLIES WILL BE APPLIED AS WRITTEN. THEY SAY THAT MISAPPLICATION OF ARMISTICE TERMS WAS ACCOUNTABLE, IN PART, TO MISUNDERSTANDING OF LOCAL SOVIET AUTHORITIES, BUT THEY WANT THESE MISUNDERSTANDINGS CLEARED AND ADEQUATE CHECKS ESTABLISHED.

IN GENERAL, THE BALKAN PEOPLES DO NOT WISH TO TRADE WAR-LIQUIDATED GERMAN DICTATORSHIPS FOR ANY OTHER OUTSIDE DICTATORSHIP OR HOME-GROWN "IRON FIST."

NOTE TO EDITORS (FOR PUBLICATION IF DESIRED)
THE THREE AMERICAN NEWS SERVICES, ASSOCIATED PRESS, UNITED PRESS AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE, HAVE ADOPTED CERTAIN ADDITIONS TO THE AGREEMENT THEY REACHED IN APRIL, 1944, FOR USE OF A UNIFORM STYLE FOR FOREIGN PLACE NAMES.
ONE CHANGE IS AGREEMENT TO INDICATE THE UMLAUT IN GERMAN NAMES BY THE CUSTOMARY DEVICE OF PLACING THE LETTER "E" AFTER THE VOWEL AFFECTED. NAMES IMMEDIATELY IN THE NEWS WHICH THUS WILL BE ALTERED ARE KUESTRIN INSTEAD OF KUSTRIN, DUESSELDORF INSTAD OF DUSSELDORF, JUELICH INSTEAD OF JULICH.
THIS CHANGE WAS MADE BECAUSE IT WAS RECOGNIZED THAT OMISSION OF THE UMLAUT LEADS TO MISPRONUNCIATION, THAT THE UMLAUT IS AN ESSENTIAL PART OF THE WORD.
THE 1944 AGREEMENT, WHICH ATTEMPTED TO END CONFUSION OF READERS ARISING FROM DIFFERING SPELLINGS OF NAMES IN THE WAR NEWS, PROVIDED FOR THE ADOPTION IN GENERAL OF THE STYLE OF THE NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY WITH CERTAIN EXCEPTIONS TO CONFORM TO GENERAL AMERICAN USAGE.
FROM THE 40,000 NAMES LISTED BY THE NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY THE THREE SERVICES THEN LISTED 78 EXCEPTIONS, PLACE NAMES WHOSE ANGLICIZED FORMS HAD BECOME A PART OF WESTERN CULTURE. NOTABLE EXAMPLES WERE ROME INSTEAD OF ROMA, ATHENS INSTEAD OF ATHENAI.
ON THE SAME BASIS THE FOLLOWING LIST OF FURTHER EXCEPTIONS HAS BEEN ADOPTED:

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
THE BIG THREE ARE MEETING IN THE BLACK SEA AREA, AND SPECULATION AS TO THE ACTUAL SITE RANGES FROM CITIES ON EITHER SIDE OF THE 700-MILE LONG SEA TO A WARSHIP OF RUSSIA'S BLACK SEA FLEET.
IT SEEMS LIKELY THE CONFERENCE IS TAKING PLACE ON RUSSIAN SOIL--OR WATERS--OR NEARBY TERRITORY OF ROMANIA CONTROLLED BY THE SOVIETS. MARSHAL STALIN IS OBVIOUSLY IN CLOSE AND EXCELLENT CONTACT FOR SUPERVISION OF THE RED ARMY OFFENSIVES BEATING TOWARD BERLIN.
CONSTANTA, SOCHI, ODESSA, AND BUCHAREST HAVE BEEN MENTIONED PROMINENTLY AS LIKELY SITES OF THE MEETING. SEVASTOPOL IS ANOTHER BUT LESS LOGICAL POSSIBILITY, FOR IT WAS WRECKED BY GERMAN SIEGE AND CAPTURE, AND RUSSIAN RECONQUEST.
CONSTANTA IS ON THE WESTERN SHORES OF THE BLACK SEA DUE EAST OF BUCHAREST. SOCHI IS ON THE OPPOSITE SHORE, ONLY A FEW MILES FROM STALIN'S NATIVE GEORGIAN REPUBLIC OF THE U.S.S.R.
ODESSA LIES ALONG THE NORTHERN COAST OF THE SEA NEAR THE DNESTR RIVER AND ROMANIA. ANOTHER POSSIBLE SPOT IS BATUM IN THE CAUCASUS.
IF--LIKE THE ATLANTIC CHARTER MEETING OF ROOSEVELT AND STALIN--THE MEETING IS ON A WARSHIP, STALIN IS PLAYING HOST ABOARD ONE OR A GROUP OF POWERFUL SHIPSNIN WATERS UNDER FIRM SOVIET CONTROL.

Big Blow Aimed At Northern End Of Siegfried Line

War Summary on Page 2

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

PARIS, Feb. 9 (Friday) (A. P.).—The Canadian First Army, striking behind a thunderous 11-hour barrage with flame-throwers and tanks, launched a grand-scale offensive yesterday morning apparently designed to turn the West Wall's north flank and break into the Ruhr and Rhineland.

In the first hours the assault along the long-dormant northern end of the Western Front southeast of Nijmegen, Holland, gained two miles and Canadian and British troops battled inside the West Wall's fortifications.

With two U. S. armies already battering three breaches in the West Wall on a 70-mile front inside Germany, and two others poised to strike along the Roer before Germany, the final battle for Germany may be at hand.

REICH'S GREAT INDUSTRIAL CITIES MENACED

Sorely pressed at the approaches to Berlin by the Russians on the east, the German armies in the west were desperately forced to try to hold back a tide threatening to spill out on to the Rhineland plain and engulf their great industrial cities.

A front dispatch said that Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery sent his British and Canadian divisions of the Canadian First Army—veterans of Holland's battles of rivers and dikes—into action on a five-mile front southeast of Nijmegen.

Stunned by the furious cannonading and battered by the bombs of more than 1500 warplanes blasting out a path, the Germans offered feeble resistance at first and gains up to two miles were recorded by the attackers at the outset.

DRIVE AIMED AT TIP OF WEST WALL

The exact location of assault was not announced, but the fact that the British and Dominion troops had fought into Germany's Reich Forest indicated that Marshal Montgomery was aiming at the tip of the West Wall, which terminates at Kleve east of the forest.

The Rhine, which crossses into Holland four miles north of Kleve, winds southeastward past such Ruhr and Rhine industrial cities as Emmerich, Wesel, Duesseldorf and Cologne, and a drive along its west bank would bypass powerful enemy defenses along the Roer.

The U. S. First Army assault to the southeast likewise was threatening to detour around the Roer line—which has held up the Allies since November—and break out into the industrial heart of Germany.

GERMANS REINFORCE CRITICAL SECTOR

Pilots patroling roads and railways leading to the Nijmegen battle zone said German troop movements toward the fighting line increased late in the day, indicating the enemy was rushing to bolster the critical sector.

The British and Canadian assault apparently signaled the start of a powerful drive to the Rhine and perhaps to the Ruhr beyond. The Ruhr is the only major industrial area left to the Germans now that the Russians have overrun Silesia.

The British and Canadian troops jumped off at 10.30 A. M. yesterday after the German lines had taken an almost unprecedented hammering.

They fought into the outer defenses of the Siegfried Line at the western edge of Germany's Reich Forest, capturing several hundred prisoners in what was described officially as good progress.

NAZIS PREDICTED BLOW

The offensive broke at an hour when the Germans were filling the air with broadcasts of an impending big blow from the west.

It was synchronized with heavy blows from the U. S. First and Third Armies, which were attacking along a 70-mile front to the south inside Germany and had battered three breaches in the West Wall.

(The German Transocean Agency, quoted by the United Press, said Thursday night that the U. S. Third Army had opened an offensive between Echternach and Dahnen.)

ADVANCES ON KLEVE

Marshal Montgomery's thrust was aimed at the enemy fortress of Kleve, which is the northern terminal of the West Wall just south of the Rhine. The Reichwald or Reich Forest screens Kleve on the west.

A thunderous artillery barrage lasting 11 hours preceded and supported the new assault, and more than 1500 Allied warplanes ripped into German positions, some of them within 1000 yards of the attacking troops, throughout the day.

Resistance in the first stages of the attack was described as small, indicating that the enemy was stunned by the gigantic preparation which began soon after midnight when more than 700 British heavy bombers blasted Kleve and Goch, important highway center to the northeast.

BATTERIES OPEN FIRE

Canadian batteries opened up with an artillery barrage at 5 A. M. and fired ceaselessly until 11 A. M.

Supported by tanks and flame-throwers, the British and Canadian infantry jumped off at 10.30 A. M. with hundreds of warplanes droning overhead. Progress was rapid over the soggy wooded terrain.

First announcement of the attack described it officially as an offensive, but gave few details. Neither the distance advanced the first day nor the exact location of the operations was disclosed.

The fact that the attackers reached the Reichswald places it in an area southeast of Nijmegen and within 10 miles of the Rhine where it crosses the German border into Holland.

PLANES BLAST PATH

Nearly 500 U. S. medium and light bombers joined more than 1000 British bombers and fighter bombers in beating a path ahead of the advancing British and Canadians.

Other fighters patrolled German air bases north of the Ruhr to keep down aerial opposition to the new ground assault.

British Mitchells and Bostons bombed the Germans within a thousand yards of the advancing troops. American Marauders and Invaders pounded troop concentrations, strong points and communications centers in Kleve, Calcar, Emmerich, Elten, Doetinchem and Gruenwald.

The weather was so thick that some of the planes made five bomb runs before dropping their explosives. There was no interference from enemy fighters.

Fighter-bombers also lashed troops and strong points ahead of the assault as well as communications routes to the battle area and ranged to the east side of the Rhine where Typhoons showered a dozen villages with anti-personnel bombs.

U. S. troops and tanks of the First Army tore a third hole in the buckling West Wall 27 miles from the Rhine in what appeared to be the start of a breakthrough to the Cologne plain.

NEAR TRIER AREA

A German broadcast said General Dwight D. Eisenhower's "preliminary offensive" — a prelude "to impending battles"—was extended last night to the area of Trier, Siegfried fortress standing six miles inside the Reich across the Moselle Valley route to the Rhineland.

Two First Army divisions drilled the newest hole in the Siegfried Line by capturing the stronghold of Schmidt, 15 miles southwest of Aachen, and were less than two miles from a giant dam whose pent-up waters have balked Allied plans for a smash out on the Cologne plain since last November.

FEB 9 1945

YANKS IN SIGHT OF BONN

The hills of Schmidt were considered the greatest military prize in the Siegfried Line in that area, and from their commanding summits doughboys could see the city of Bonn on the Rhine — 27 miles beyond.

Seven miles to the southeast, other First Army forces were beating at the defenses of Gemuend, threatening to break out into the plains and bypass the dams, whose floods could drown any Allied offensive across the Roer farther north.

Twenty-five miles south of Gemuend, the U. S. Third Army on the southern half of the blazing 70-mile front was fighting within a mile and a quarter of the besieged fortress of Pruem and bringing up fresh forces through an eight-mile wide breach in the West Wall.

Farther south, four divisions of the Third hacked out gains up to a half mile and were about a mile inside the Reich at a point 15 miles southwest of Pruem. More troops were pouring into Germany despite rising resistance.

If the German Transocean broadcast of attacks in the Trier area were true, then an American assault is under way 20 miles southeast of this latest invasion of Germany.

On the First Army's northern flank, the 78th Division in an advance of nearly a mile east of the fallen, rubble-strewn village of Schmidt entered Harscheidt.

Units of an unidentified division forced a crossing of the Kall River—another of the network of rivers on the route to Cologne—north of Kommersheidt, a mile northwest of Schmidt.

The battle of southern Alsace was ended except for the mop-up as the enemy blew up the last Rhine bridge at Chalampe, northeast of Mulhouse, leaving a few hundred Germans wandering in what one week ago was the powerful Colmar pocket.

CANAL IS CROSSED

The Rhine-Rhone Canal, where the Germans had tried to hold back an Allied tide from the west, was crossed repeatedly.

With the Canadian First Army in action, and with two American armies attacking, General Eisenhower had two others poised—the British Second and the U. S. Ninth—on the Roer before the Cologne plain.

Schmidt Falls; Pruem In Sight; Vital Roer Dams Neared

J. LONG
FEB 9 1945

Paris, Feb. 8 (AP)—The American 1st Army drove clear through the last barriers of the double Siegfried Line 15 miles southeast of Aachen today, captured Schmidt, and neared the Roer River dams and reservoirs that were a major factor in checkmating the Western front offensive last November.

[The German communiqué said "preparations for the big Allied attack continue along the Roer." The Nazis said a major offensive was imminent, with Cologne, the Rhine and the Ruhr as objectives. American troops outside Dueren are 20 miles from Cologne. Capture of the dams might prove the starting signal for the onslaught.]

The largest of the dams, the 985-foot thick Schwammenauel, is just over 2 miles from Schmidt. A combat team of the 78th Division reached the northern bank of its vast reservoir.

3d Gets Nearer Pruem

The dam system is capable of sending an 18-foot wall of water down the 36 miles of the Roer to Roermond. Any troops which had crossed the Roer to the Cologne Plain last fall could have been trapped by German-made floods.

Farther south, on the 70-mile active front, the 3d Army poured through a 7-mile breach in the Siegfried Line to within a mile and a quarter of Pruem, 53 miles southwest of Coblenz.

The attacks at Schmidt and Pruem appeared to be the beginning of a breakthrough to the Rhine. Schmidt, which was one of the strongest belt positions in the Siegfried Line, is 28 miles from the river. Ninth Army troops before Dueren are only 20 miles from the river and its greatest city, Cologne.

Blodelsheim Reached

In southern Alsace, American and French troops stamped out all but a few square miles of the German pocket below Strasbourg. Blodelsheim, 9 miles south of Neuf Brisach, was reached and six more miles of the left bank of the Rhine was cleared. About 12,500 Germans have been taken in the pocket.

The hard-hit West Wall appeared to be leaking badly. It has been run through at three places this week by the 1st and 3d armies; a 35-mile gap around Aachen was captured last fall.

Although the Siegfried Line was backed up by a depth of recently dug earthworks and hastily fortified villages, it seemed highly questionable whether these improvised defenses could be held after the stronger concrete permanent works gave way.

Full-Steam Offensive

General Eisenhower was turning his offensive on full steam—aimed at least at the Rhine, and likely beyond—even as the Big Three leaders on the Black Sea planned the final strokes of victory and the first moves of peace.

Already Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's 12th Army Group was on the attack. Field Marshal Montgomery's United States 9th and British 2d armies waited for the attack signal on the Roer.

Continued British air blows in the north today suggested that the Canadian 1st Army in Holland and Germany might be preparing to spring around the northern end of the Siegfried Line. Kleve and Goch were bombed in great strength last night; the Nijmegen area opposite Kleve was hit by 400 planes flying by instrument in foul weather today.

13 Miles Inside Germany

The 78th Lightning Division drove into the anchor bastion of Schmidt last night and had virtually cleaned it out by daybreak. Nearby Kommerscheidt was occupied.

The 310th Regiment, commanded by Col. Earl M. Miner, Bridgeport, Conn., took the village. Another combat force drove along the north banks of the Schwammenauel reservoir, backed up by the biggest dam in the system. Schmidt is 13 miles inside Germany.

Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's 1st Army has captured 159 German pillboxes in the sector west of Schmidt in the past three days, supreme headquarters announced.

Within Sight Of Pruem

Pruem, a major transit center for German defenses in the center of the Siegfried Line, was approached by 3d Army troops from several directions. The nearest column came within sight of the town, capturing Obermehlen, just to the northwest.

Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., swiftly fortified his new invasion positions on the 24-mile front where four of his divisions were fighting in the West Wall fortifications.

Patton's army was pressing upon Pruem from many directions, and indeed had outflanked that road and railway center. Due north of Pruem, a force that took Waschief after crossing the Schnee Eifel range sent patrols into the Pruem forest, 2 miles from the town. The 90th Division advanced half a mile to a point just less than 7 miles southwest. The 90th took Hollnich and cleared many Siegfried pillboxes.

The Germans made four counter-attacks in company strength with tanks in the Pruem area. All were beaten off.

Front-line dispatches reported no deepening of the ten new penetration areas of Germany opposite Luxembourg, but the troops across the flooded Sure and Our Rivers fanned out and widened their lodgments on the east banks. The 80th (Blue Ridge) Division took Wallendorf on the border at the confluence of the two rivers.

Farther north, the 17th airborne Division took Dasbourg in a half-mile gain. Nazi resistance along the Sure and Our remained sturdy. Two more counterattacks were repulsed in the area of the deepest penetration, half a mile north of Echternach.

Second Capture Of Schmidt

Schmidt had been seized by the 1st Army during the costly Huertgen Forest battle last November, but the Germans rewon the town.

In recapturing the village, Hodges's armor and infantry stormed through one of the strongest links of the Siegfried Line. The 78th Division had been fighting on the north and west sides of Schmidt since the night of January 6.

Schmidt is the graveyard of many an American. Just after the Aachen breakthrough last fall, two regiments (perhaps 6,000 men) were almost annihilated when they tried to batter their way past the high ground of the big dam last fall, Robert Eunson, of the Associated Press, reported from the front.

First Army troops trying to cross the Kall River, a mile and a half north of Schmidt, were still balked by one of the thickest minefields ever encountered on the Western front.

Russ-Allied Co-Operation

There was unmistakable evidence of co-ordination, at last, between the Allies in the West and the Russians in the East.

General Eisenhower was increasing his onslaught and feeding fresh power to the campaign, aimed not only at the Rhine—but this time beyond.

The 3d Army besieging Pruem had widened its gap in the Siegfried Line to 7 miles. The rugged terrain and mud bogs, however, seemed to preclude any swift advance. German defenses were not numerically great, but the Germans had plenty of fire power. In addition to the steep, wooded hills and a sketchy road network, two sizable rivers lie ahead. The Preum River flows from 3 to 12 miles east of present lines. The Kall is 7 to 20 miles beyond. Both are larger than the Our and Sure.

precaution against the danger of a sudden Russian airborne attack or a land breakthrough which would isolate either city.

'ODER LINE PIERCED'

The Russians were said to have ferried a large number of tanks and fresh troops across the Oder near the Axis capital as Soviet artillerymen laid down a withering barrage on German lines.

In East Prussia the Russians captured the German stronghold of Kreuzburg, 13 miles south of encircled Koenigsberg, killing 4000 Germans, a supplemental Moscow communique reported.

The Soviet communique was silent on the great battle roaring at Berlin's outer gates, but the Moscow radio declared. "The Oder line has been pierced and Berlin in panic is witnessing the crumbling of the last obstacle in its forefield."

KUESTRIN ENCIRCLED

German broadcasts said the Oder stronghold of Kuestrin had been encircled temporarily, told of Red Army crossings on both sides of Kuestrin, Frankfurt and Fuerstenberg on a 40-mile front and said there was "house-to-house fighting" at Pyritz and Arnswalde, 22 and 38 miles southeast of Stettin at the mouth of the Oder.

One Finnish broadcast recorded by the B. B. C. said: "Russian tanks have probed to the outs[illegible] Ber-

Russian Tanks Reported Across Oder Near Berlin

FEB 9 1945

By W. W. HERCHER

LONDON, Feb. 9 (Friday) (A. P.).—The Red Army, threatening to trap scores of thousands of enemy troops, yesterday drove a new spearhead within 38 miles of Berlin's Baltic port of Stettin, while the Germans reported that other Soviet shock units had expanded six bridgeheads across the Oder River 30 to 43 miles from the imperiled Reich capital.

Enemy broadcasts said Soviet armored columns striking through Pomerania northeast of Berlin were within 22 miles of Stettin, and reports reaching London said that Stettin and Berlin now have independent commands—a German lin," and a German-language broadcast from Moscow said Soviet units were "now only some dozen kilometers from burning Berlin according to front-line reports." Twelve kilometers is seven and one-half miles.

RED TANKS CROSS ODER

Berlin's danger further was emphasized in a German front report that the Russians had shoved a great many of their powerful T-34 tanks across the Oder.

"When the Soviet T-34 [illegible] crossed the Oder, our SS Motor Corps fought them with old training tanks and succeeded in holding the heavy Soviet tanks, although they were numerically superior," this broadcast said.

Striking toward Stettin on an 18-mile front southeast of the big communications center of Stargard, the Russians were declared officially to have captured Reetz, 21 miles from Stargard and 40 miles east-southeast of Stettin, and Bernstein, 39 miles southeast of Stettin.

100 OTHER TOWNS TAKEN

Between Reetz and Bernstein the Russians swept up more than 100 other Pomeranian localities in their effort to reach Stettin and seal off 13,500 square miles of German Pomerania, the Polish Corridor and Danzig.

Among the places taken were Rietzig, four miles east of Arnswalde, where the Germans reported heavy fighting, and Sammenthin, three miles southwest of Arnswalde and 38 miles southeast of Stettin.

Arnswalde, a German hedgehog position, already had been outflanked by a northern spearhead of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army which took Reetz, on the Schneidemuehl-Stettin highway and railway.

REDS INSIDE PYRITZ

The Germans said other Soviet units had broken into Pyritz, 22 miles west of Arnswalde and the same distance from strategic Stettin.

More than 1800 prisoners were taken Wednesday, Moscow announced, in this broad movement aimed at sealing off scores of thousands of Germans in northeastern Germany and lessening the danger of a Nazi flanking attack against Marshal Zhukov's central columns battling toward Berlin.

In Silesia the First Ukrainian Army under Marshal Ivan S. Konev gained up to four miles in the westward expansion of its bridgehead between Breslau and Oppeln, Lower and Upper Silesian capitals.

BRESLAU HIGHWAY CUT

Attacking on a 20-mile front, the Russians cut the Breslau-Strehlen highway with the capture of Kurtsch, 12 miles south of besieged Breslau and 11 miles west of captured Ohlau, Oder River crossing town.

Closing in on the 14-way road junction of Strehlen, other Soviet forces on this front seized Lorzendorf, five miles northeast of Strehlen, and Koechendorf, eight miles east of the junction.

Berlin reflected alarm at this offensive west of the upper Oder toward the heart of Germany, a push that eventually may outflank Berlin far to the south.

The Germans told of a new Soviet bridgehead at Maltsch, 21 miles northwest of Breslau and only 13 miles east of the big industrial city of Liegnitz. Berlin claimed that Nazi counterattacks had regained some territory near Steinau and Glogau.

Konev's troops took Hermsdorf, six miles east of Strehlen, and on the southern side of their expanding sixty-five-mile bridgehead seized Waldau, twenty-one miles west of Russian-held Oppeln on the Oder, and Gross Sarne, seventeen miles northwest of Oppeln. Waldau is thirteen miles north of Neisse, a German communications center near the Czechoslovakian frontier.

In southwestern Polish Silesia the Russians captured forty localities, closing in on the road junction town of Zywiec, forty miles east of Moravska Ostrava, Czechoslovakia's third city.

The Russian communique said 3,500 Germans had been captured Wednesday in the long siege of Budapest. During Wednesday on all fronts 146 German tanks were wrecked and thirty planes shot down, the bulletin said.

In East Prussia the Russians captured the road junction stronghold of Kreuzburg, thirteen miles south of Koenigsberg, killing 4,000 Germans. Berlin said German troops have been driven into the center of besieged Elbing, Baltic port, fifty-five miles southwest of Koenigsberg.

One hundred miles to the rear of the central Oder River front before Berlin the Germans still were holding out in the Polish city of Poznan, by-passed by the bulk of Zhukov's forces, but Berlin said Russian troops had captured the castle in the city and that the Nazi garrison was barricaded in the northern part of Poznan. Most of the city was afire as the Russians fought to annihilate what is left of a garrison originally estimated at 20,000.

In the struggle on both sides of the Oder the Germans said that Kuestrin, forty miles from Berlin, was under heavy attack by Russian forces "making concentric attacks upon the city." For a time the Russians encircled Kuestrin, but German counter-attacks broke the siege ring on the west, Berlin said.

Both Kuestrin and Frankfurt, sixteen miles south, were being shelled by Russian artillery, and the Red Army also was reported attacking on both sides of Fuerstenberg, fourteen miles upstream from Frankfurt.

Konev Gains in Silesia

The Germans asserted they had forced the Russians to abandon one bridgehead northwest of Kuestrin, but Berlin said strong Russian reinforcements were pouring across the Oder at Goeritz, five miles south of Kuestrin, threatening to envelop both Frankfurt and Kuestrin.

Berlin said one bridgehead was at Goeritz, five and one-half miles south of Kuestrin and forty - one miles east of Berlin.

The Moscow radio said that Heinrich Himmler had massed SS troops in the capital. Roads south and west of Berlin were reported jammed with the traffic of refugees in flight.

The broadcast from Moscow said Himmler had been intrusted with the defense of Berlin and a defense council had been formed in the city. Gauleiter Paul Joseph Goebbels, originally intrusted with the city's defense, had fled to southern Germany, Moscow declared. The Germans yesterday denied that Goebbels had left.

Massed Guns Pound Foe.

While Marshal Stalin had not confirmed the breaking of the Oder line on the Berlin front, Soviet advices said Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's massed artillery was pounding at the weakest link of the capital's defense, the low western bank of the Oder between Kuestrim and Stettin, where it runs northeast of Berlin.

A Finnish broadcast recorded by BBC said today that "Russian tanks have probed to the outskirts of Berlin."

[There have been reports for the past several days that scattered Russian tanks had entered Berlin suburbs, some as close as eighteen miles to the city.]

Officially, Moscow blacked out the progress of the fierce battle on the west side of the stream and told only of the liquidation of additional German pockets on the east side of the river.

Kuestrin About to Fall.

But Moscow dispatches said Kuestrin, forty miles east of Berlin and one of the chief fortified areas guarding the capital, was about to fall, with Soviet tommy-gunners fighting in the streets under cover from artillery batteries stationed only two miles from the northern outskirts.

German military commentators said Kuestrin was under "concentric attack by strong Russian formations."

The Russian communique, announcing victories northwest of Kuestrin where the low western bank of the Oder offers the least obstacle to the storming of Germany's last natural defense line in the east, said Alt-Drewitz, northern suburb of Kuestrin had been captured.

Broadening his north-wing threat to Berlin along the Oder, Marshal Zhukov seized Zaekerik, twenty-one miles northwest of Kuestrin on the east bank and only five miles from where the river bends north toward Stettin. Zaekerik is thirty-two miles northeast of Berlin. Other places captured on the east bank running down from Zaekerik to Alt-Drewitz were Alt-Lietzeggoericke, Guestebese, Haelse and Clewitz.

Zhukov Broadening Base.

Obvioiusly Marshal Zhukov was broadening the base of his east-bank wedge for an all-out operation against Berlin. He appeared to have almost complete control of the east bank from Fuerstenberg, forty-seven miles southeast of Berlin, to Zaekerik—a stretch of more than fifty miles.

On the Stettin Front.

Marshal Zhukov's right wing, pointed toward Stettin and the Baltic, had sent spearheads into Pyritz, twenty - four miles southeast of Settin, and Arnswalde, thirty - five miles southeast of Stettin. The German communique said there were house to house battles in these two places.

The Germans declared that on the whole, however, the Soviet advance in this direction had been checked on the Schwedt-Pyritz - Arswalde-Deutsch Krone Line about sixty - five miles from the Baltic, and that several villages had been recaptured.

In Silesia, the Germans reported further Soviet progress from the Soviet bridgehead northwest of Breslau at Steinau—which the Russians have not yet claimed although the Germans have announced its abandonment—and at Glogau, fifty-four miles northwest of Breslau.

Konev Takes 50 Towns.

A new bridgehead at Maltsch, twenty-four miles northwest of Breslau and nineteen miles east of Liegnitz, an important communications hub, was eliminated, the Germans declared.

South and southeast of Breslau, the Russians announced the capture of more than fifty towns in their drive toward the Sudetenland and Dresden—across the communication lines which the Germans would need for a withdrawal into their Bavarian and Moravian mountain fortress if their stand in Berlin fails.

Grossburg, on the Breslau-Moravia railway, twenty miles north of the old Czecho-Slovak border, was captured. Deutsche-Leipe, four miles northeast of Grottkau on the Breslau-Bratislava line, also was captured, along with Lichtenberg and Michelau, four to seven miles northwest and northeast of Grottkau.

These advances pushed Marshal Ivan Konev's First Ukrainian Army bridgehead about thirteen miles beyond the Oder below Brieg, and about the same distance beyond the Oder at Ohlau. Maerzdorf, along the Oder eight miles south of Breslau, also was captured.

In East Prussia, the Russians captured thirty more places and announced the capture of 2,260 more German officers and men, but the Germans said some advance Soviet units had been wiped out north of Koenigsberg and sixty-one amphibious tanks of American manufacture were captured or destroyed.

Moscow announced tonight that Red Army troops captured the road junction of Kreuzberg, thirteen miles south of the East Prussian capital.

Nazis Using Packs of Dogs.

The Russians said the Germans, counter-attacking in East Prussia, were sending packs of dogs with anti-tank mines tied to them against Russian tank formations.

Ten more blocks were captured in the encircled western part of Budapest, but the Russians said one block there was harder to take than ten blocks of the rest of the city. The Germans were dug into cellars three and four stories deep and manned tunnels and caves in the old hilly section commanding narrow, winding streets.

Refugees Fleeing Berlin Jam Roads South—Finland Reports Soviet Tanks Reach Outskirts of Capital City.

London, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—The Moscow radio said today the "Oder line has been pierced, and Berlin in panic is witnessing the crumbling of the last obstacle in its forefield."

FEB 9 1945

A prior broadcast by an American radio commentator said Marshal Stalin's capital was hourly expecting an official announcement that the First White Russian Army had smashed across the river in force, "signifying the complete breakdown of the Oder line."

Berlin accounts said the Russians had won seven bridgeheads on the Berlin front, one of them thirty miles northeast of the capital, and a dozen others along 185 miles of the river from Ratibor in Silesia to Gruenberg, fifty miles southeast of Frankfurt.

Germans Quitting Area North Of Strasbourg

GALLAGHER

With 6th Army Group, Alsace, Feb. 8 (AP)—Complete eradication of the Germans' Rhine Valley pocket north of Strasbourg appeared near tonight with announcement that Herrlishein and Offendorf both had been evacuated by the enemy.

Thus the so-called Gambsheim pocket where the Germans built up a bridgehead threat to the 7th Army's flank west of the Rhine in mid-December was well on the way to elimination.

Phila. Man Gave Nazi Flood Tip

FEB 9 1945

By WES GALLAGHER

WITH U. S. FORCES IN GERMANY, Feb. 8. (A. P.)—A young American lieutenant who swam in the Roer River as a boy first gave the Allied High Command the tip that the Germans planned to unleash flood waters upon the advancing American armies.

The lieutenant, who, in 1939, was locked in a concentration camp in Germany, and then was released through the aid of American friends, followed up his tip by uncovering detailed German plans for the Roer flooding.

He is Lieutenant Ernest Kaufman, 4725 N. Marvine st., Philadelphia.

NEW DAM A MYSTERY

More than two months before the American armies reached the Roer, Lieutenant Kaufman recalled that just before leaving Germany, residents near Dueren were puzzled by the sudden construction, on orders of Berlin, of the huge Schwammenauel dam on the Roer, which already was controlled by the Urft dam.

He told his commanding officer, who sent him on through Army channels to the commands of both the United States First and Ninth Armies.

"I was born and raised in a small town a few miles south of Dueren," Lieutenant Kaufman said. "After getting out of concentration camp and preparing to leave for America in 1939, I visited the area and every one wondered what the Nazis were building the big dam for, and when I got up here with the American army I remembered the dam."

AIDED TO FLEE REICH

He said he and his sister managed to get out of Germany because American friends aided them, and he went to Philadelphia and later joined the Army.

"As soon as Aachen was taken," he said, "I went to the power company there with some men who ransacked the offices.

"We went through the offices and found a detailed plan on what would be the result of flooding the Roer Valley. It was stuffed under a pile of papers."

The German study of the flooding had been made after the Royal Air Force blew up the Mohne and Eder dams.

Russians Seize U-Boat Parts

MOSCOW, Feb. 8 (AP)—A dispatch to the Army newspaper Red Star from liberated Poland said today that the Red Army had captured a plant making ball bearings for German submarines based at Bremen and had seized complete parts for twenty-five U-boats. Other plants, apparently located in Posen and Lodz, were producing ball bearings for Tiger tanks, Red Star said.

5TH ARMY ITALY PUSH

5th's Offensive Stalls Southeast Of Bologna

Rome, Feb. 8 (AP)—The limited offensive of American 5th Army troops in the mountains southeast of Bologna was stalled today against strongly fortified and heavily defended enemy positions, the Allied high command announced.

The doughboys were halted after forcing their way forward up to 600 yards in two days of bitter fighting in weather conditions made difficult by a sudden thaw in the Apennines Mountains.

Forced To Dig In

Attacking troops gained the crest of one ridge, but were forced to dig in and were engaged against counterattacking Nazi troops yesterday.

German resistance to the attack, which opened Monday, was prompt and vigorous and included artillery support.

Enemy resistance stiffened also in the Serchio Valley, where the village of Colle was taken.

Ground Lost, Regained

Fifth Army units lost some ground a mile north of Castel Vecchio but regained it in a new thrust and beat off several enemy counterattacks.

A report from headquarters of Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., commander of the 5th Army, said the American attack reached the base of Orbega ridge 9 miles southeast of Bologna and only 7 miles by road to the south of the main Bologna-Faenza highway—via Emilia—on Tuesday afternoon.

Highway Shelled

At the base of the ridge, the report said, the Americans encountered extensive mine fields and were halted by machine-gun and machine-pistol fire from the enemy "stoutly entrenched in rocks and caves on the slopes."

German long-range guns continued sporadic shelling of Highway 65—main 5th Army supply route south of Bologna. A total of 1,360 rounds fell in one area during Monday night.

Activity on the 8th Army front still was confined to limited patrolling. Melting snows caused a considerable rise in the Senio River.

German engineers were beginning to blow gaps in the Senio's flood banks, presumably to permit the stream to flood a wide area and form a protective barrier of water and mud against a possible 8th Army attack.

STOPPED BY GERMANS

ROME, Feb. 8 (AP)—Prospects of driving the Germans from their strong defensive positions in the mountains south of Bologna before spring faded abruptly today with the official announcement that a three-day attack by the United States Fifth Army in that area had been halted.

The Americans, having gained up to 600 yards, ran into withering fire from German machine-gun nests on Orbega ridge, nine miles southeast of Bologna, and were forced to dig in and resist fierce enemy counter-attacks, the headquarters report said.

[A field dispatch Wednesday indicated that the force of the American attack had been spent without having won its objectives, two 1,100-foot peaks held by the Germans.]

Streams still were out of their banks from melting snow both in the Fifth and Eighth Army areas, and the Germans were reported dynamiting dikes of the Senior River and flooding large areas in front of the Eighth Army near the Adriatic.

This flooding and deep mud elsewhere are likely to prove barriers against any possible Allied offensive in coming weeks, or even against a quick pursuit in the event the Germans should choose this period to begin a withdrawal to the Alps.

German resistance also was reported growing stiffer in the Serchio River sector near the west coast, where Fifth Army units lost some ground but regained it in a counter-attack.

Unit Flies 500,000 Sorties

ROME, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Mediterranean Allied Tactical Air Force became today the first Allied air force to fly 500,000 sorties. That mark was reached when Lieutenant Irwin B. Lebow, of 238 Beach 127th Street, Bell Harbor, Queens, N. Y., a Thunderbolt pilot, bombed enemy strongpoints on the 5th Army front. The M. A. T. A. F. was formed Feb. 18, 1943, during the battle of Kasserine Pass in Tunisia.

R. A. F. HAMMERS E-BOAT SHELTERS

London, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—R. A. F. Lancasters blasted German E-boat shelters at Ijmuiden on the west coast of Holland with 12,000-pound earthquake bombs today, hitting this hideout by daylight for the second time in six days. Spitfires escorted the bombers across the North Sea. No enemy planes were encountered and all the attacking force returned. Britain-based American heavy bombers were not in action today.

The German radio issued a stream of air raid warnings reporting bombers south of Emden, west of Muenster, over the Nordhausen area, north Friesland, Bremen and Hannover, as well as over Holland.

United States Fifteenth Air Force Fortresses and Liberators bombed the Vienna area again today, concentrating on communications targets. An overcast compelled bombing by instrument. The raid followed an attack on oil targets in the area yesterday.

Allied warplanes in the Italian theater carried out more than 2,000 sorties against German rail and oil supply hubs yesterday in their most active day recently, but also suffered their largest recent loss—thirty-four planes.

Intense flak over the Korneuburg oil refinery and other Vienna area targets accounted for many of the Allied losses.

ALLIES KEEP UP AIR BLOWS

German Fleet Units Reported Bombed At Copenhagen

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—Allied warplanes kept up their widespread attacks on the enemy today and tonight with a series of strikes into Denmark, Holland, Austria and Germany itself.

A dispatch from Stockholm said Allied bombers pounded the harbor at Copenhagen, Denmark, shortly after 10 o'clock tonight in a blow presumably directed at light units of the German Baltic fleet which have been reported there.

The German radio said other Allied bombers were over Pomerania tonight in small formations, probably indicating an RAF attack on German targets lying in front of Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's 1st White Russian Army.

E-Boat Shelters Hit

During the day British Lancasters made their second daylight assault in six days on German E-boat shelters at Ijmuiden on the west coast of Holland, and Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the United States 15th Air Force in Italy again bombed communications targets in the Vienna area.

The British heavy bombers, escorted by Spitfires, dropped 12,000-pound "earthquake" bombs in their attack on the E-boat hideout at Ijmuiden, just west of Amsterdam. No enemy planes were encountered, and all planes returned.

This action by the RAF followed up a heavy Wednesday night assault by British bombers on targets just behind the German West Wall. More than 700 RAF heavies took part in this attack, directed chiefly at enemy troop and equipment concentrations at Kleve and Goch, between the Maas and Rhine rivers.

Mosquitos Hit Magdeburg

A large force of Mosquito bombers carrying 2-ton blockbusters also hit seven key industrial and communications centers, including the great oil center at Magdeburg. The attacks were staggered over a two-and-a-half-hour period, keeping Germany under an alert until after midnight.

V-2 installations in Holland—the launching and supply sites for German rocket weapons which are still harassing southern England—were attacked in daylight by RAF fighter-bombers. Several direct hits were made despite severe flak.

13 Bombers Lost

Altogether more than 1,300 British aircraft were involved in Wednesday night's operations. The RAF lost thirteen bombers and two fighters while shooting down at least eleven enemy planes.

American heavy bombers based in England were held at their bases today, but the Mediterranean command was able to send its heavies into the Vienna area for the second straight day. Overcast compelled bombing by instrument, however. Flak was intense over some targets.

Medium bombers of the United States 12th Air Force turned from their routine daily hammering at the Brenner Pass railroad and hit rail bridges in northeastern Italy.

56th Fighters Get New Chief

AMERICAN EIGHTH AIR FORCE HEADQUARTERS in Britain, Feb. 8 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Lucien A. Dade Jr., 28 years old, a veteran fighter pilot from Hopkinsville, Ky., was named commanding officer today of the Fifty-sixth Fighter Group, the top scoring outfit in the Eighth Air Force. He succeeded Col. David Schilling of Traverse City, Mich., who was promoted to a headquarters job. Colonel Dade's former assignment as deputy commander was filled by Maj. Leslie C. Smith of Caruthers, Calif.

Hurl Grenades Slingshot-Style

WITH 29TH DIVISION, Germany, Feb. 8 (AP).—Ordered to take a Nazi position when they were so close to the German lines that shooting would have brought them under direct fire, members of Company A, 175th Infantry, stretched an old inner tube between two trees and hurled grenades slingshot fashion. It worked.

BIG THREE MAP DRIVES TO END NAZI GERMANY

Moscow's Press and Radio Say Conference Is on Sovie Territory.

Moscow, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—The Big Three are meeting on Russian soil, press and radio announced today.

The news was a prime topic of conversation in Moscow, but the official announcement came too late for comment by the morning press.

[Announcements in Washington and London said that the meeting was being held in the Black Sea area. The Black Sea touches Russian soil over a wide area, circling from the Prut estuary to eastern Turkey. One principal Russian city in the Black Sea area is Odessa.]

The Moscow radio announced the meeting shortly before midnight and repeated it twice before shutting down at 2 A. M. Newspapers printed the announcement at the top of page one, under the heading "Conference of Leaders of Three Allied Powers—Soviet Union, United States and Great Britain."

New Era In U.S. Policy Seen In Big 3 Plans

Moscow, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Big Three are meeting on Russian soil, press and radio announced today.

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Big Three plans for joint political action in Europe are expected here within the week.

Calling for active American participation in European settlements, they will mark the beginning of a new period in United States foreign policy.

The plans are being worked out by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin at a historic conference now believed to be at least half finished somewhere in the Black Sea area.

Joint Announcement

Possibly the meeting is in the Crimea in order to allow Stalin to continue his close supervision of the Red Army's invasion of Germany.

A joint announcement late yesterday, evidently direct from the conference, was released in London and Moscow as well as at the White House. This finally put the open secret of the meeting officially on the record and confirmed the fact that political problems of Europe are a prime concern of the meeting.

Talks Fall Into Two Parts

Actually the discussions have fallen into two parts, the military and diplomatic, developing along these lines:

1. The military talks led off the meeting and resulted in "complete agreement" for joint Anglo-Soviet-American Army operations "in the final phase of the war against Nazi Germany." The large military staffs which accompanied the three leaders to the Black Sea are now working out detailed plans.

2. As soon as the talk of fighting was completed, Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill took up "problems involved in establishing a secure peace." Under these they listed plans for the occupation and control of Germany, the political and economic problems of liberated Europe and proposals for the earliest possible establishment of a world organization to "maintain peace."

Facing Toughest Issues

The linking of all these problems was interpreted by officials here as showing a belief of the leaders that the effective control of Germany and the fair settlement of Europe's many bitter and centuries-old problems, so far as they can be settled fairly, are equally important with international organization if peace is to be secured.

The frank listing of political and economic problems as being on the agenda meant that President Roosevelt had at last come to grips with some of the toughest issues growing out of the European war.

End Of Era Seen

These are issues of Russian and British security, power of communistic minorities in liberated countries, of Anglo-Soviet conflict the the eastern Mediterranean and of American hopes to see Atlantic Charter principles applied to the peoples of the Continent.

30.24-22809

To diplomatic officials who have been watching political conflict develop in Europe as the war ends and who have seen this country's futile efforts to obtain settlements by statement, there was no doubt that the end of an era had been reached. They foresee a new period of more active diplomacy, aimed at eventual participation in world organization backed by force.

Probable Plans Cited

It was considered apparent that the troubles of many troubled countries would come up for discussion notably Yugoslavia, Poland, Italy and Greece.

Speculation as to the means of handling some of these explosive situations has centered chiefly on machinery for bringing the leading Allied powers together in frequent or constant consultations. This applies also to plans for the control of Germany. The following probabilities are foreseen in Washington:

1. A decision to follow up the period of military occupation of Germany already agreed upon with a prolonged period of joint civil control. In this, some policing by Allied armies would be continued to make sure that Germany did not again build a great armament industry.

2. Expansion of the authority of the European Advisory Commission to deal with broader inter-Allied problems than simply the questions of German occupation plans.

System Of Commissions

3. Agreement on periodic conferences of Allied Foreign Ministers, with the creation of a secretariat which might have the duty of anticipating difficulties among the Allies and forestalling them.

4. A system of advisory commissions functioning in liberated territories where the authority of a government is challenged until such time as elections can be held.

5. Agreement on the need for alleviating human suffering throughout the liberated areas as rapidly as possible and agreement on industrial conditions of the countries so that economies may once more function effectively.

A single paragraph in the official announcement yesterday set the tone for future disclosures by the Big Three.

"Their purpose," it said, "is to concert plans for completing the defeat of the common enemy and for building with their Allies firm foundations for lasting peace." It was added that "a communiqué will be issued at the conclusion of the conference."

Capital Awaiting Full Report On Big 3 Talks

FEB 9 1945

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—The capital classed the Big Three meeting today as one of the war's most poorly guarded secrets—and wondered when all the facts will be out.

Legislators, however, generally applauded the fact that President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin were conferring. They hinted that they expected a report on the meeting when the Chief Executive returns.

Chairman Connally (D., Texas) of the Foreign Relations Committee said he will make a statement himself on "the entire foreign situation" then.

Censorship Cited

As for the secrecy—or rather lack of it—six weeks before the President and his staff left people who weren't supposed to know did know the departure date and the approximate area in which the conference would be held.

Yet tight restrictions were clamped on the American press. Censorship on grounds of security forbade factual or speculative stories about the meeting, even though reports about the conference and its preliminaries were pouring in from European capitals—both enemy and friendly.

Absentee List

To Washington, it was evident that certain top executives were out of town for only one reason. Starting with the President, the absentee list included:

Secretary of State Stettinius; War Mobilization Director Byrnes, often called the "Assistant President;" Harry L. Hopkins, chairman of the Munitions Assignment Board; General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the fleet; Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the President; Stephen Early, presidential secretary, Maj. Gen. E. M. Watson, secretary and military aide to the Chief Executive—and others.

No "Acting President"

That left Treasury Secretary Morgenthau as the ranking cabinet member in town. But he wasn't running the Government.

Actually, there's no "acting" president when the Chief Executive leaves the country. He's still President wherever he is, and performs the functions of his office to the extent permitted by distance and coded communications.

But the man who kept the White House running after the President left was Maurice Latta, the executive officer. He determined what should go into the mail pouches or what matters were so important they had to reach Mr. Roosevelt by quicker means.

Carrying on in Byrnes's office at the White House were assistants Donald Russell and Brig. Gen. Lucius Clay and Counsel Benjamin Cohen.

Byrnes's Role Puzzling

Washington puzzled a bit about Byrnes's role in the Big Three meeting. The most ready explanation was that as boss of the home front he would be in a better position than anyone else to advise the American delegation what commitments could be made as to military supplies, civilian supplies for liberated areas and the use of shipping.

In addition, as a former senator, he commands a measure of influence with Congress that might be helpful in wangling approval of any treaties which may evolve from the Allied consultations.

FRENCH SORE AT BIG THREE

Astonished At First Communique—Not Told Of Meeting

Paris, Feb. 8 (AP)—French Foreign Office quarters expressed astonishment and disappointment today that the Big Three were deliberating Germany's fate without consulting France.

A spokesman from the Quai d'orsay declared that France demanded "a predominant role" in the occupation of the Reich.

Officials said they were "astonished" by yesterday's communiqué from the Black Sea conference of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

Had No Advance Notice

The most surprise was caused by the communiqué's disclosure that discussions on settling the German question had opened without French representation. The Foreign Office did not even receive advance notice that the conference was taking place, the spokesman said.

He termed hypothetical a question as to whether France would send a delegation if she received a last-minute invitation.

The official said the Foreign Office had no information on a reported projected meeting of American, British, Russian and French Foreign Ministers and said:

"We should have time to study the decisions taken by the chiefs of the three governments."

Rhineland Chief Issue

The spokesman said the Rhineland remained the biggest question blocking signature of a British and French alliance. Near Eastern rivalries were dismissed as "secondary."

"England has not yet communicated her policy with regard to the Rhineland, which to us is the most important," he said.

The official declared that the French Government distrusted all so-called "Free German" committees on the grounds that they were probably seeking to avoid just punishment for Germany's part in the war.

Asked if the Free German committee at Moscow was included in that statement, the official said it was if such was its purpose.

Nazis' Discord Hopes Killed

FEB 9 1945

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—Announcement that the Big Three have reached speedy "complete agreement" on military prosecution of the war today doomed Nazi hopes that a disagreement among Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin might delay or upset the total defeat of the Reich.

This was reflected in the defensive tone taken by Berlin propagandists in broadcasts to embattled German troops nine hours after it was announced officially that the historic conference was in full swing in the Black Sea area.

Haranguing Motif

"The Allies want to get the German people to surrender," the Berlin radio said. "In past years the enemy could not persuade the German people to capitulate. They will not succeed now either."

The significant feature of the broadcast was its political haranguing motif. Normally, broadcasts piped to the Nazi soldiers are factual discussions.

Izvestia, official Soviet newspaper, was quoted in a Moscow broadcast as saying the conference shows that German hopes of discord among the Allies have utterly failed again.

Growing Belief Cited

"The final phase of the war will see the carrying out of the death sentence passed by all freedom-loving humanity on Hitlerite Germany," Izvestia said.

Meanwhile, there was a growing belief here that the Big Three conference would postpone discussion of Europe's postwar frontiers until France can be included in the negotiations.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle has demanded a strong role for France in the postwar policing of Germany and Acting Secretary of State Grew in Washington reaffirmed yesterday the United States's "full realization of France's vital interest in the solution of the German problem. . . ."

"Fateful Hour Near"

Acting in the absence of Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden, Richard Law, British Minister of State, told the House of Commons yesterday that Britain believed reshaping of European frontiers must be decided later by all the powers together."

British newspapers said the fateful hour for Germany was near as a result of the conference and that "Germany definitely is beaten."

London newspapers also reported that President Roosevelt may visit London "later in the year if possible," adding that the President was forced to decline an invitation from the British King and Queen to visit London while en route to the conference.

However, the time has now come when political issues and postwar problems must be tackled. Otherwise, the unity of our three countries may be imperiled by the fact of victory itself.

I hope in the first place that the Big Three, with the aid of their foreign ministers and expert staffs, will come to such complete agreement on the need for security that they can translate the Dumbarton Oaks scheme into concrete proposals. These then could be laid before Congress and Parliament and formally approved. There is no doubt that if Europe knows the United States is committed to keeping the world's peace, it will have a profound effect.

Peace Must Be Made By All

The next major subject for discussion will presumably be the peace settlement. Can there be a pronouncement that the settlement will be an affair of all the Allies, not a patchwork of unilateral settlements? That principle once settled, we come up against the question of frontiers.

It is impossible for the Big Three to settle frontier details now. But they can and I hope will agree to a principle that frontier settlements need not wait for a peace conference at some comparatively distant date, but may be made or at least agreed upon in broad outline as soon as possible after an ally has been liberated or an enemy defeated. Poland, for instance, cannot wait long.

This involves the future of Germany. We have proclaimed that we not fighting for territory, but

Huxley Urges 'Complete Agreement' By Big 3

[The following article was written for the Associated Press by Julian Huxley, British scientist-philosopher, writer on an astonishing variety of subjects, lecturer, radio and film commentator. It gives Dr. Huxley's idea of what should come out of the Big Three conference.]

By Julian Huxley

FEB 9 1945

[Written for the Associated Press]

London, Feb. 8—First of all, in the conference of the Big Three, there was bound to be discussion of purely military matters. There I think everyone would hope for maximum co-ordination. There should not arise even suspicion that one of the great powers is striking without fullest consultation with others.

this should not preclude our making territorial adjustments for the sake of future security. So I hope strongly that the future of East Prussia and the west bank of the Rhine will be discussed. I also hope the idea of splitting up what is left of Germany into a number of separate nations will be turned down, as it seems much too artificial a solution to last.

Opposes Morgenthau Plan

Almost more important is the economic future of Germany. We cannot allow Germany to build up great armament potentials ever again. But neither can we afford to reduce Germany's production to too low a level. Such schemes as the so-called Morgenthau plan, in enforcing a return from high industrialization to the more primitive, mainly agricultural, economy, would create a void in the center of Europe and rob the world of skill which it can ill spare.

This dilemma must be discussed and some policy decided on. The Russians, it would appear, want the hardest possible peace. If so, they will, I hope, adjust themselves to the idea that even Germans must have something to live and work for. We must accustom ourselves to the need for some skilled Germans to be moved into other countries and American individuals will have to swallow the idea of planned control.

If so, we shall see industries of the Ruhr and German Silesia operating under the management of international commissions and German technicians drafted to help establish new industries in neighboring countries. German labor will undoubtedly be needed to help in repairing the physical damage that German armies and German occupation have caused, and also for a time in producing capital equipment for their reconstruction.

Can Slow Recovery

With some planned control of imports into Europe we could exact reparations from the Germans by making their rate of recovery slower, while not robbing them of the hope that they can achieve recovery or of the belief that they are working for themselves as well as for others. This will mean in its turn a discussion of an international monetary fund and bank. The American bankers have tried to whittle this down, but without a decision on this point we shall not go very far, especially in helping the smaller countries.

On the political side I hope the question of an alternative German government will be discussed and I expect that the free Germans now in Russia under von Paulus will be chosen to furnish the nucleus of such a government, to be proclaimed as soon as sufficient German territory is in Allied hands.

Politics Inseparable From Relief

The politics of the liberated countries will certainly come up for discussion too. There will be criticism of undemocratic interferences. But there will also be criticism of irresponsibility. There must be a decision on methods of insuring that the United States not only knows of, but shares in, any action Britain has to take to keep peace, and the principle of a free democratic election, combined with the need to prevent undue disorder, must be recognized by all three powers. The future of Franco is another item which I hope will be on the agenda.

At the back of everyone's mind is the question of whether the U.S.S.R. will join in the war against Japan after Germany has been defeated. It is arguable whether this point should be discussed at the present meeting. Personally, I hope it will be, and the way paved for a public declaration of Russia's participation.

Regional Associations Suggested

If that decision is made, then another subject which ought to be discussed is that of regional associations for colonies and dependent peoples. When some other powers have special interests, strategic or economic, in a particular colonial region, they should be invited to participate with the colonial powers concerned in a regional association responsible for a broad policy and development. Our Colonial Secretary has given public approval of the general idea and something of the sort is already operating between Britain and the United States in the Caribbean.

If Russia participates in the Far Eastern war, her interest in colonial territories of that area will be kindled. The sooner some decision on the question is reached, the better.

In a sense, the basic job of this conference is to promote an understanding of the divergent points of view which, let us be frank, are leading to dangerous suspicions on all sides. It is to insure that the agreement among the three great powers will continue after the end of the German war and be merged into an international agreement for peace, and to proclaim that agreement and the principles on which it is based in a simple statement which will inspire the freedom-loving millions all over the world.

NAZIS ORDER GRAIN SEIZED

FEB 9 1945

Decree Calls For Bread Even If Live Stock Is Starved

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Nazi Government commandeered all German grain stocks for bread today as the food crisis increased within the Reich and Heinrich Himmler was reported to have taken over the death-stand defense of Berlin.

A drastic decree broadcast by the German Ministry of Agriculture ordered peasants to surrender immediately all wheat, barley and rye for bread production, even if their live stock should starve as a result.

Laid To Grave Situation

"A grave food and transportation situation has forced the Minister of Food and Agriculture to issue this decree," said the special announcement on the German radio.

The bin-scraping measure apparently was forced by loss of vast eastern agricultural territories and by demands for feeding hundreds of thousands of refugees who have streamed into the interior to escape the Russian armies.

The grain decree followed several recent ration reductions. It forbade feeding grain to live stock "except under special permission to be granted in the rarest cases," and ordered "drastic reduction" in the number of hogs.

Reports On Himmler Differ

The report that the Gestapo chief, Himmler, had taken command in Berlin came from the Moscow radio.

A German broadcast, however, indicated Himmler had taken charge of an army group on the Eastern front. Reporting the fall of Torun (Thorn), in west Poland, a Propaganda Ministry official said "this heroic Torun garrison was in a region which was under the command of Himmler personally."

Apparently the army group Himmler was reported commanding was one which was split by Marshal Rokossovsky's breakthrough across East Prussia to the Baltic in the area of Elbing.

Describes Berlin Panic

Moscow also said that "Berlin is swept by a new wave of panic," and said that special elite guard detachments had been formed to shoot soldiers who tried to surrender.

The Germans broadcast also that preliminaries for an all-out Allied offensive in the west already were "violently shaking" the defenses of that front.

Paul Joseph Goebbels, Propaganda Minister, in his weekly article in the magazine Das Reich, wrote that "the German people are undergoing such superhuman suffering" because "there is no other way out."

Goebbels, in a gloomy review of the military situation, admitted that territories which had been lost "played a most important part in our war calculations industrially as well as for food supplies."

HOLLAND CABINET GIVES UP OFFICE

Queen Asks Premier To Form Broader Government

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Dutch Cabinet resigned today and Queen Wilhelmina immediately asked Premier Pieter Gerbrandy to form a new Government, broadened to include leaders of the anti-Nazi resistance movement.

Gerbrandy asked for time to consider whether he could undertake the mandate, which would involve settlement of several internal conflicts.

The Government issued a statement noting that the southern Netherlands had been liberated since June 19, but that northern portions of the country still were in German hands.

Statement Of Cabinet

"The Netherlands Government, which meant to resign on total liberation of the country, has now, in connection with the above circumstances, authorized the Premier to offer the resignation of the Cabinet to her Majesty the Queen," said the statement.

"This was done to enable her Majesty to bring the Cabinet into line with altered circumstances, but does not in any way affect the original decision of the Government to resign on total liberation of the country."

It then explained that J. W. Albarda, Minister of Public Works, and Dr. J. Van Den Tempel, Ministeer of Social Affairs, had resigned for the additional reason that "they found themselves in disagreement with the procedure followed by the Premier in furthering the resignation of J. A. W. Burger, former Minister of the Interior."

All-Faction Ministry Sought

Burger quit ten days ago and Dutch sources indicated then that he had been forced out after making a broacast in Holland regarding treatment of persons who had collaborated with the Germans.

The Government statement said, "Her Majesty has taken the resignations into consideration and asked Dr. Gerbrandy to reconstruct the Cabinet with a view to representing in it areas already liberated and also concentrating all forces of the liberated Netherlands to the utmost on measures to be taken in regard to liberation of the north."

U.S. Compromise Accepted In Labor Row

FEB 9 1945

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—The World Trade Union Congress accepted an American compromise plan today for settlement of a stormy dispute over a proposal to invite delegates from former Axis-dominated countries to the labor meeting.

The delegates, who once rejected an American move to refer the question back to the standing orders committee, reconsidered after an impassioned plea for unity by R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers of America.

Thomas arrived a few hours earlier by plane from the United States. He urged that controversial questions be threshed out in committee and that the committee consider adding new members in cases where representation was criticized.

"We Can't Disagree"

Speaking after Russian, Spanish and French-speaking delegates had demanded a showdown on inviting former enemy countries, Thomas insisted "we can't have disagreement."

"If democracy is going to win out in the world we must come closer and closer together," he said.

George A. Isaacs, British delegate and one of the Congress's three presidents, earlier had ruled out of order a motion by James B. Carey, CIO secretary-treasurer, to refer the question back to committee.

Opposed By British

The recommendation that Italy, Bulgaria, Romania, Finland and the Polish Provisional Government in Warsaw be invited to send representatives to the Congress came to the floor yesterday with the unanimous indorsement of the committee and with Russian, American and French support. Sir Walter Citrine, Secretary of the British Trade Union, denounced the proposal as "premature and directly contrary to the considered policies" of labor leaders who convened the Congress.

Speakers from many countries were drawn into the debate.

Polish Issue

Jan Stanczyk, Minister of Labor in the Polish Government in Exile, argued against the invitation of Warsaw Poles. The Polish Press Agency, sympathetic with the provisional regime, distributed circulars in the corridor saying: "Our trade union movement is at the moment not represented. Stanczyk does not represent Polish trade unions."

Louis Saillant, leader of the French delegation, favored the committee plan, declaring:

"This is not a conference of representatives of states or governments but a conference of representatives of workers only."

Saillant's Sally

Mikhail Tarasov, a Russian delegate, described Citrine's arguments against as "extremely unpersuasive."

The Russian delegates applauded a speech by Louis Saillant, leader of the French delegation who declared, in defense of the convention voting system:

"I don't know whether it is implied that the Russians will vote against the interests of the working classes, but I might say that the existence of a large Russian army has been helpful recently and it is conceivable that a large Russian delegation here might be of some help."

Union Congress Accepts Compromise

FEB 9 1945

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—An impassioned speech for unity by R. J. Thomas, president of the United Automobile Workers of America, persuaded the World Trade Union Congress today to accept a compromise method of settling a dispute over inviting delegates from former Axis-dominated countries.

Striding to the platform two hours after arriving from the United States by plane, the husky former welder, who is one of the three presidents of the congress, outshouted Russian, Spanish and French-speaking delegates in demanding a compromise.

Wins Unanimous O. K.

Thomas won unanimous acceptance of his proposal that the controversial question be threshed out in the standing orders committee. The convention earlier had rebuffed American efforts to avoid a floor fight.

The committee met immediately and recommended that the trade-union movements of Finland, Bulgaria, Romania and Italy should be invited to send representatives and that the credentials committee should decide whether they should be seated as delegates or observers.

The committee left undecided the question of admitting rival Polish delegations. The Soviet-recognized Polish provisional Government in Warsaw has applied for seating. The conference already has a delegate from the London Polish Government, whose credentials the Warsaw Poles have disputed.

Insisting that "we can't have disagreement," Thomas said, "if democracy is going to win out in the world we must come closer and closer together."

Sir Walter Citrine, secretary of the British Trade Union, precipitated the battle by denouncing the proposal when it first came to the floor yesterday with the unanimous indorsement of the committee and with Russian, American and French support. Citrine also criticized the voting method which gave the Russians half the congress voting strength.

Labor Report Assails ELAS

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—The British Trades Union Congress delegation which investigated conditions in Greece declared tonight that Communists dominated the EAM-ELAS organization and quoted British Tommies as saying the ELAS forces were such dirty fighters that the Germans were gentlemen in comparison.

The delegation, neaded by Sir Walter Citrine, said in a 5,000-word report it was "the universal opinion of large numbers of British troops we interviewed" that there would have been a wholesale massacre in Athens if the British had not intervened against the ELAS forces last December.

At Least 10,000 Murdered

The report said that British soldiers described the ELAS as "the lousiest, dirtiest, scruffiest lot of fighters our men ever came across, and compared with whom the Germans were gentlemen."

These stories, the report said, were told "by ordinary British Tommies—not officers or generals."

It went on to say that "we were informed by the regent that, so far as they could estimate, the number of persons murdered was at least 10,000."

British who had been taken prisoner told of being marched 150 to 200 miles, sometimes moving for 30 hours without food, and said they were robbed of money and rings, although belongings to one group were returned when an ELAS officer intervened, the report stated.

Doubts Resistance Extent

It also questioned the amount of fighting the ELAS group had done against the Germans during the occupation.

"Undoubtedly the ELAS was much more concerned with returning to Athens to seize power than with fighting Germans," the report said. "It was stated that as our troops were moving north in pursuit of the Germans they passed ELAS forces marching in the opposite direction."

British soldiers in Greece were said to have expressed "universal resentment at what they consider the inadequate and unfair manner in which recent events in Greece have been presented to the British public."

"We are firmly of the opinion that when the full history of this struggle has been written, the people of our country will be proud of the courage, cheerfulness, restraint and steadfast behavior of our forces in Greece under circumstances of the greatest difficulty," it was added.

Leaders Looked Shamed

Citrine said that when his group confronted four members of the EAM-ELAS central committee with stories of atrocities, "I never saw men look more shamed than they did. . . . In my presence there was no repudiation or denial of it, but I think they were all struck as though they were learning things for the first time."

Describing conditions in Greece at present, the report said there had been "almost complete dislocation of the industrial and commercial life of the country."

While expressing belief that the bitterness caused by the civil war would "take many years to assuage," the labor group said "there seemed to be a universal desire among the people we met for the fullest possible democratic expression of both industrial and political ideals which, if effected, should assist in solving many problems."

Talk Trouble At Parley

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—Delegates to the World Trade-Union Congress—they come from 56 countries—are having language difficulties.

George A. Isaacs, British president of the congress, was presiding today when a Mexican delegate took the microphone to raise a point of order.

After listening five minutes, Isaacs rapped the gavel and said: "I don't speak your language, but it sounds like you are making a speech instead of a point of order. Will somebody tell me what he is saying?"

A translation was rushed to the rostrum.

"He's making a point of order all right," Isaacs conceded.

Rescued From Death Camp

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Red Army has rescued 4,500 persons held in a Nazi death camp at Brzescze, 35 miles southeast of Krakow, the Moscow radio said today. The broadcast said the camp had four gas chambers and twelve incinerators.

FINDS LIBERATED EUROPE HUNGRY

London, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Earl Winterton, a Conservative, asserted in the House of Commons today that, contrary to British Government statements, "millions of people in liberated Europe are on the verge of starvation and in a worse state than under German occupation."

Taking sharp issue with a declaration by Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee that there was no indication of serious malnutrition except in areas where it existed before the liberation, Winterton said "independent evidence completely contradicts your statement."

"I have stated the facts on information to us from official reports," Attlee said. "I agree that conditions are not as we would wish them."

CHURCHILL AIDS KILLED IN CRASH

London, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Six members of the British Foreign Office were among ten passengers killed when a plane carrying aids of Prime Minister Churchill crashed while en route to the Big Three conference.

Five passengers were listed as missing and five others were injured. It was not revealed where the crash occurred.

Foreign Office personnel killed were: Peter Noel Loxley, Armine Roderick Dew and John Chaplin, all first secretaries; Robert MacDonald Guthrie, Detective Sergeant H. J. Battley and Miss P. M. Sullivan, a typist.

War Office personnel killed were Lieut.-Col. W. G. Newey, Capt. A. K. Charlesworth and Air Ministry group Capt. P. S. Jackson-Taylor. Lieut.-Col. I. S. H. Hooper died later of injuries.

Air Commodore H. A. C. Sanderson, of the Air Ministry, was among the injured.

British Hope For Cash Business After War

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—Great Britain's postwar trade policy will be aimed at doing cash business rather than giving long-term credits in bidding for markets, Harcourt Johnstone, secretary for overseas trade, told Commons today.

After several members suggested reducing Government guarantees to exporters as the best way to get foreign currency, Johnstone commented:

"There will be no inclination on the part of the Government after war to lengthen terms of credit. On the contrary, our inclination will be to secure as much cash as rapidly as possible and not to fish unnecessarily for business by dangling very long credit terms before customers."

"Only For Cash"

Sir Herbert Williams (Conservative) argued that for two or three years after the war, we ought to export only for cash."

"This is the only way to insure getting foreign currency with which to pay for our necessary imports and so on and foodstuffs of which we have been deprived during the war," he added.

The Government bill provides for setting aside a $500,000,000 fund to over exporters on bad risks.

Sir Herbert, who offered an amendment reducing the bill, withdrew it after Hugh Dalton, president of the Board of Trade, assured members that "credits will not be given needlessly."

"Guarantees to insure credits will only be given where it is thought necessary in the interests of British trade," said Dalton.

Queen Jokes About the Cold

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth inspected a kitchen exhibit today and peeped inside a plastic coke bin on a prefabricated heating unit. "Oh," she exclaimed. "No coal! just like most houses now." Then she observed, "My goodness, it has been cold in Buckingham Palace."

Ancient Castle Of Berlin Burned

LONDON, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—The German news agency D. N. B. told the Germans tonight that Berlin's center felt the full force of Saturday's daylight raid by U. S. heavy bombers and that "the Castle, a monument of Berlin and probably one of its most ancient buildings, is completely burned out."

The report said direct hits inflicted heavy damage on the Berlin State Opera House and asserted, "it may give satisfaction to British and American men of culture to have inflicted such wounds on us."

Britons Say U.S. Embassy Is Trade-Promotion Base

Cite Letters Offering Planes to British Air Lines

LONDON, FEB. 8 (AP).—The British aviation journal "Aeroplane" asserted today that American salesmen are showing indecent haste in their anxiety to collar the world's markets," and said that letters had gone out from the American Embassy at London offering planes for sale to British air lines.

London newspapers have reproduced a letter signed by Rutledge Bermingham jr., of the American mission for economic affairs, advising air-transport operators in Great Britain that "a limited number" of Douglas (C-47) Dakotas were available at $100,000 each and Lockheed Lodestars at $67,000.

When foreign embassies are used as bases for trade promotion organizations, we consider that the level of international diplomacy and official representation is acutely deteriorating," the magazine said. "When this is done at the most critical phase of the world's greatest war, the action seems doubly disagreeable."

There was no immediate comment from the American Embassy.

The letter cited by "Aeroplane" did not state where the transport craft offered for sale were stored. It was understood these were second-hand planes discarded by the Air Transport Command or as troop carriers in Britain.

Makes Up for Failure To Bomb Berlin in '18

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP)—Captain Richard V. Grace, forty-seven-year-old Hollywood stunt flyer who never attained his wish to bomb Berlin in the World War, finally has realized his ambition and now wants to go to Tokyo.

Grace, who wrecked airplanes for forty-seven films, is an operations officer at an American Flying Fortress base. A veteran of more than twenty combat missions, he made the trip to the German capital last Saturday.

Members Of Dutch Cabinet Resign

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—Dutch Cabinet members submitted their resignations tonight to Queen Wilhelmina as the result of a controversy over policy and the Queen immediately asked Premier Pieter Gerbrandy to reconstitute a government.

Gerbrandy asked for time to consider whether he would accept the assignment.

The Dutch Government was the second in two days to fall as a result of Western Europe's liberation troubles. The Belgian Government in Brussels quit yesterday.

If M. Gerbrandy remains as Premier it will involve broadening the Government to include resistance leaders and a settlement of several internal conflicts.

A statement explained that the Government had taken the action to meet the "altered circumstances" that the country is half liberated and half occupied.

It does not affect the original decision of the Government in 1944 to resign when the country is completely liberated, the statement added.

There was no immediate clear-cut explanation of the Dutch crisis.

Collaboration Issue

Evidence of dissension came ten days ago when Jacob Burger, Minister of Home Affairs, stepped out. It was understood that his resignation was requested because a broadcast he made regarding collaborators was not in line with the Government's policy.

Belgium, meanwhile, sought a new Premier to succeed Hubert Pierlot, who resigned yesterday along with his entire Cabinet.

Members of the Socialist party executive committee, which precipitated the crisis ending Pierlot's premiership, said Achille van Acker was "looking around for Ministers"—an indication he may be designated Premier if he can form a Cabinet. Van Acker was Pierlot's Misister of Labor.

Statement May Come

A Netherlands Government spokesman said that a statement might be released later.

Coincidentally, it was learned that the Netherlands Government had asked the Big Three conference now in session to give smaller nations a stronger position in the proposed security council. The Dutch were reported to have laid before President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Marshal Stalin a 6,000-word document hinting that the Netherlands might hesitate to join the world security organization planned at Dumbarton Oaks if Russia's proposal to enforce unamimity rule among the five permanent members of the proposed council was adopted.

Injured U.S. Ace On Way To Recovery

London, Feb. 8 (AP)—Lieut. Col. John C. Meyer, the highest scoring fighter pilot in the U.S. 8th Air Force, soon will be completely recovered from injuries he received in an automobile accident in France, a U.S. Army Hospital spokesman said today.

Meyer, 25, of Forest Hills, Long Island, N.Y., received deep cuts and bruises on his legs in the motor accident while he was en route to Paris to make a radio broadcast January 9.

He had flown 450 combat hours without a mishap, shot down 24 German planes and destroyed thirteen more on the ground.

Houses, Cars, Trees Aflame From Barrage

London, Friday, Feb. 9 (AP)—Canadian troops pushed off in their big offensive yesterday through a "valley of hell in which houses, German vehicles and even trees were aflame from hours of artillery bombardments," an eyewitness dispatch from a British correspondent said today.

"I counted 200 fires and then gave up," said the writer. "If ever an attack had fire support this one did."

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP)—German V-weapon attacks on southern England caused additional casualties and damage during the twenty-four hours ended at dawn this morning, the Air Ministry announced today.

Dunkerque Shelled by Allies

DOVER, England, Feb. 8 (AP).—Allied troops besieging the French Channel port of Dunkerque started an artillery barrage at 2 p. m. today and sounds of the shelling still rumbled across the stormy waters three hours later.

Nazi Captives Riot At English Camp

LONDON, Feb. 9 (Friday) (A. P.).—News of Russian victories on the Eastern Front caused a riot yesterday between youthful Nazis and older German soldiers at a prisoner of war camp in northwest England.

A group of young Nazis were told upon their arrival at the camp the true story of the Eastern Front situation. They accused the older men of being defeatists and lying listed men today to prison terms ranging from three to ten years after all had pleaded guilty to charges of wrongfully taking or disposing of army supplies.

Only 23 enlisted men still remain to be tried in the present series of train-looting black-market cases, and there is a possibility that charges against some of these will be dismissed.

For example, one man cited for bravery in saving a supply train may be given the benefit of doubts concerning the adequacy of evidence against him. A psychiatrist's report may eliminate another and there is a question of adequacy of evidence in other cases.

Officers Face Trial

There still are four or five officers to be tried, however, and it is doubtful whether the trials can be finished by the end of next week.

The men sentenced today and the terms imposed on them:

Pfc. Lester P. Davis, three years; Sergt. Richard Ustampley, Jr., eight years; Private Fred Vuga, nine years; Tech. 5/g Louis J. Waeghe, ten years, and Private William C. Wingard, five years, all from the 716th Railway Operating Battalion; Tech 5/g Alfred Innella, five years; Tech. 5/g Phillip A. Kiersztyn, five years; Pfc. Fred G. Maples, five years, and Private Victor R. Stelljis, six years, all of the 757th Railway Operating Battalion, and Tech. 4/g Edward Yanke, six years, of the 728th Railway Operating Battalion.

Seven Others Sentenced

Seven men who pleaded guilty to a charge of wrongfully disposing of cigarette rations from army supply trains were sentenced yesterday to prison terms ranging from three to eight years.

Sergt. William H. Hudson, of St. Louis, was given three years; Sergt. William E. Houston, of Terre Haute, Ind., eight years; Private Dorrance Brewer, of Cameron, Texas, six years, and Private Nicholas F. Beltrami, of Hazelton, Pa.; Tech. 4/g Heber W. Foster, of Birmingham, Ala., and Tech. 4/g Aaron Whitehouse, of Canton, Ohio, five years each.

The name and address of the seventh were not immediately available.

PARIS, Feb. 8 (AP)—Sentences of from three to ten years were imposed by courts-martial today on ten American enlisted men as the series of train looting-black market trials neared

...reared an end. Only twenty-three soldiers still await trial.

Indications were that charges against some of these would be dismissed, leaving about fifteen for actual trial. Four officers are awaiting trial.

The men sentenced today and the terms imposed on them: Pfc. Lester P. Davis of Quincy, Ill., three years; Sgt. Richard U. Stampley Jr. of Cleveland, Miss., eight years; Pvt. Fred Vuga of Auburn, Wash., nine years; T/5 Louis J. Waeghe of Gladstone, Mich., ten years, and Pvt. William C. An Editorial Explained.

Paris, Feb. 8 A. P.).—Lieut.-Col. Arthur Goodfriend, editor of Stars and Stripes, said today that an editorial supporting national service legislation in the United States was inspired by recent remarks of Under-Secretary of War Patterson. He was commenting on a protest by certain staff members of the Army newspaper against what they described as brass-hat interference with service publications.

Col. Goodfriend said the text of the editorial had been called at Mr. Patterson's request to the United States so it would be in his hands in time for Senate hearings on the May work-or-fight bill.

"That editorial was based on a news story quoting Secretary Patterson asking for passage," Col. Goodfriend said. "It also is my own personal view. I wrote it before I knew the Secretry was the least bit interested."

A meeting of the newspaper's staff was called for this afternoon. Some staff members have said they opposed use of the publication to promote the ideas of "higher ups," and that they felt on several occasions that Col. Goodfriend's editorials were resented by the troops at the front.

Sees Regimentation Move.

Senator Brooks assailed the work or jail measure as "stepping further and faster toward complete regimentation of the civilian population of our country."

The fact that such a bill is being considered, he said, "is an indictment against the leadership of our country."

The fact, he added, that 7,000,000 men have been sent to overseas battle fronts and more than 4,000,000 are in service at home, with a lack of civilian production to sustain and maintain them, "is proof of the measure of the present administration to give intelligent, inspirational leadership to our free people."

He contended that the administration had played politics with man-power problems in both 1940 and 1944.

Many people believe, he asserted, that the administration launched a march to "unprecedented centralization of power" by creating "continued emergencies and crises under which Congress is always put in a bad light if it does not yield to the request of the President."

Asserting that the founders of the nation feared an oversized military establishment under the control of a central government would some day destroy the peoples' liberties, Senator Brooks added: "Strong leaders throughout history have used vast military force and military regulations and necessities to promote their own ambitions, and the liberties of the people were lost."

ROME, Feb. 8 (AP)—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal representative to the Vatican, today denied that he was preparing for a meeting of the President and Pope Pius XII.

A report had been carried by the Rome press and the Swiss radio that President Roosevelt expected to visit the Holy See after conclusion of the Big Three Conference.

"I don't know of such a visit," said Mr. Taylor.

ROME, Feb. 8 (AP)—Col. Charles Poletti has returned to Rome following conferences in Washington on Italian problems. He is slated to become regional commissioner for the Milan region after that territory has been liberated.

77 Bulgar Pr[o] Nazis To Die

Bern, Switzerland, Feb. 8 (AP)—A Bulgarian dispatch from Sofia said today that people's tribunals at Vienna and Vidinne had sentenced to death 77 persons accused of pro-German activities under the former government. The list included Ivan Rainov, former chief of the national police.

23 Swedes Barely Escape Red Army Tide In Reich

Stockholm, Feb. 8 (AP)—Twenty-three Swedes and naturalized Swedes of German birth arrived at Malone today in the first contingent of an estimated 250 to 300 fleeing the Red Army advance into Germany.

They said the Germans permitted them to take only such belongings as they could carry and ten reichsmarks ($2.40).

One of them was Adolf Wall, Swedish Foreign Association representative from Breslau, whose wife barely escaped from East Prussia several days ago before the Russians cut off the province.

Quisling Aide Slain in Norway

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Karl Marthinsen, Norway's State Security Police chief appointed by Premier Vidkun Quisling, was slain from ambush as he drove to his office this morning, it was announced officially in Oslo tonight.

A dispatch from the Norwegian capital said the chauffeur was badly wounded.

Nazi Fleet Bombed At Copenhagen

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Allied bombers attacked the Copenhagen harbor tonight, reports from Malmoe said, apparently aiming at units of the German Baltic fleet which reportedly had fled there from eastern bases threatened by the Russian advance.

Madrid Trolleys Carry German Propaganda

Madrid, Feb. 8 (AP)—Streetcars in Madrid have been plastered with Nazi propaganda posters headlined: "The Patrimony of European Culture." These picture the Monte Cassino Monastery in Italy and depict damage to the Cathedral of Aachen, in Germany.

Use of Spanish streetcar posters as a propaganda medium is not new to the Germans, but they concentrated previously on an "anti-Communist" campaign.

'Japs Getting Set For China Landing'

Chungking, Feb. 8 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer said today that the American success on Luzon Island came more swiftly than the Japanese expected and had caused the enemy to accelerate preparations to meet an American landing in China.

The Japanese hope to establish a deep belt in Asia to meet this contingency, the commander of United States Army forces in China told correspondents.

Limited Drives Possible

"Everything they do in China is based on strategic defensive considerations," he declared, "but this does not preclude the possibility of limited offensives."

Asked if he envisaged shuttle bombing between the Philippines and China, Wedemeyer countered, "the Japanese do."

Chinese Check Jap Drive

Chinese forces have checked a Japanese drive on Tayu, important wolfram mining center in southern Kiangsi province, but heavy fighting continues 6 miles to the south, the Chinese high command announced today.

Another enemy column was striking southward in Kiangsi from the town of Kanhsien and by Monday had forced a crossing of the Kan River, 2½ miles from the city.

An Air Base At Kanhsien

At Kanhsien was located one of three air bases east of the enemy's China-Indo-China corridor that the United States 14th Air Force has acknowledged evacuating in recent days. The Japanese drive on Tayu was based at Namyung, in northern Kwangtung province, site of another of the lost air bases.

The high command also made belated announcement of a Japanese drive eastward from Lokchong, in Kwangtung, 150 miles north of Canton. Advancing from Lokchong on January 28, the enemy occupied Yanfa, 25 miles distant, on February 1, but the Chinese recaptured it the next day. Fighting was said to be continuing in that area.

Of the fighting in Hunan province the Chinese command also had only delayed reports.

Withdrawals Reported

Meanwhile, Gen. Chen Cheng, War Minister, declared that Chinese newspaper reports that the Japanese are withdrawing from Central and South China, although merely rumors, cannot be disregarded in the light of the Japanese collapse in the Philippines.

Chen Cheng said the Chinese Army was being brought to its full numerical strength but declined to predict the deadline for any general Chinese counteroffensive.

Jap Force Nears China Mine Area

FEB 9 1945

CHUNGKING, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Heavy fighting is in progress between Chinese and Japanese forces at a point six miles south of the important wolfram mining center of Tayu in southern Kiangsi Province, toward which the invaders headed after capturing the American air base site at Namyung in Kwangtung Province, the Chinese High Command announced tonight.

There was some confusion over the situation at Kanhsien, another former U. S. air base in Kiangsi Province east of the enemy's corridor accross China to Indo-China.

The morning Chinese communique admitted the loss of Kanhsien and said the Japanese had pushed on from the city and forced a crossing of the Kan River, two and a half miles to the south. Tonight's announcement, however, said severe fighting was in progress inside Kanhsien.

Hard fighting also was reported near the Canton-Hankow rail town of Chenhsien, 80 miles south of Hengyang. The Japanese, after receiving reinforcements, were said to have reached the Tungkiang area, 15 miles northeast of Chenhsien.

334 JAPANESE BAGGED BY 14TH IN JANUARY

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 8 (AP)—The United States Fourteenth Air Force set a new monthly record for China operations in January by having destroyed 334 Japanese aircraft, including ninety bombers, headquarters announced today. In addition, forty-eight planes were reported probably destroyed and 216 damaged.

January's bag brought the total of enemy craft destroyed in this theatre since July 4, 1942, to 1,255, with another 554 probably destroyed, a communiqué said.

The air force brought down 14.8 Japanese craft for every American plane lost in air combat during that period.

Fifteen Japanese vessels, totaling 13,500 tons, and eighty-nine smaller vessels were destroyed during January, with six others probably destroyed, bringing the total destruction of shipping since July 4, 1942, to 392 ships of 859,489 tons and 2,961 smaller craft.

war Minister General Chen Cheng said that Chinese newspaper reports that the Japanese were withdrawing from central and south China were merely rumors, but that they could not be disregarded in light of the Japanese collapse in the Philippines.

Lieutenant General Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. Army commander in China, said the Japanese were accelerating preparations to meet an American landing in China.

"Everything they do in China is based on strategic defensive considerations," he declared.

[The Yenan radio reported the Chinese Communist capture of Szeshui, in Shensi Province, sixty-five miles southeast of Tsinan, after a two-day battle Feb. 1 and 2 in which 200 Japanese and pro-Japanese soldiers were killed and 1,100 taken prisoner. The Federal Communications Commission recorded the broadcast.]

Chinese Ministry Urges Prohibition

CHUNGKING, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—The Ministry of Food petitioned the Government today for a ban on the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquor, which it said would conserve grain for food or for conversion into military alcohol.

The sale of wine in restaurants long has been forbidden, but this was the first formal proposal for national prohibition in China.

ALLIES MASS FORCE TO STRIKE MANDALAY

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 8 (AP)—Forward elements of three British and Indian columns closing in on Mandalay beat off Japanese counter-attacks today while men and supplies for a general assault on the great river port were being drawn up along a 100-mile front.

By land, air and river troops were converging on the west and north banks of the Irrawaddy for sixty miles above and forty miles below the elbow of the stream on which Mandalay is situated.

While the stage was being set for the battle of Mandalay, fierce but small-scale fighting continued on two other sectors in Burma. The main clashes of the past twenty-four hours were on the old Burma Road above Lashio, where the American Mars Task Force and the Chinese Thirty-eighth Division are beating southward.

Opposing the Americans and the Chinese in that area were remnants of the Japanese divisions that were thrown out of northeastern Burma and ordered to defend the rail terminal of Lashio. The Americans brought their mule-carried artillery into play in support of Chinese infantry charges.

Japanese troops counter-attacked almost constantly from the hills beside the road, but fell back under heavy fire from American 75-mm. guns.

Engineers Blow Up Works Finished 9 Days Earlier

Kunming, China, Feb. 8 (AP)—Destruction of another American airfield east of the Japanese corridor bisecting southeastern China was announced today.

This base was at Sincheng, in Kiangsi province, between Namyung and Kanchow, two other fields which the Americans also have lost.

Completed Only 9 Days

The Sincheng field, big enough to accommodate the B-29 Superfortresses, was completed only nine days before it was given up January 29 and never had become operational.

A small group of engineers who had been supervising the work of thousands of coolies for several months during construction of the huge installation behind Japanese lines, blew up the runways with buried bombs. They also were believed to have diverted a small river onto the base. The engineers have not yet been evacuated.

January's bag brought the total of enemy craft destroyed in this theater since July 4, 1942, to 1,255, with another 554 probably destroyed, the communiqué said.

The Chinese Communist radio at Yenan reported the Chinese Communist capture of Szeshui, in Shensi province 65 miles southeast of Tsinan, after a two-day battle February 1 and 2 in which 200 Japanese and pro-Japanese soldiers were slain and 1,100 taken prisoner. Air Cargo to China Establishes Record

KUNMING, China, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—The Air Transport Command carried 44,000 tons of war materials from India to China during January, Brigadier General William H. Tunner announced today.

This was more than double the tonnage carried by the old Burma Road at its peak and established a record. China-bound planes crossed "The Hump" every two and one-half minutes, 24 hours a day during the month.

Egypt Premier Moves To End British Rights

Cairo, Feb. 8 (AP)—Premier Ahmet Maher told Egypt's Chamber of Deputies today that Great Britain's reservations in Egypt under the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty should be abolished. It was assumed he referred to "the ambiguous status of Sudan."

The Premier said Britain's lack of confidence in Egypt's friendship caused the extra-territorial rights in the treaty, but Egypt had proved her friendship in the war.

YANKS CROSS PASIG RIVER IN MANILA FIGHT

37th Reaches Southern Sector By Amphibious Vehicles

Manila, Friday, Feb. 9 (AP)—Riding in amphibious vehicles, Yanks of Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Division crossed the Pasig River yesterday near Malacanan Palace to root out Japanese who had wrecked the river bridges and have kindled fires in the closely congested Intramuros district.

The point of crossing into the last sector of Manila in which the Japanese suicide squads are extensively active was nearly 2 miles east of [illegible]

the [illegible]

Suggests Circling Move

This suggested a wide circling movement around the Intramuros (walled city) and docks toward the 11th Airborne Division of Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing, trying to break into Manila from the south by way of suburban Pasay.

Considerable fires were reported burning in the Intramuros which is a commercial-residential section, heavily populated particularly by Filipinos and Chinese.

[Arthur Feldman, Blue network correspondent, said the hot blasts of the Intromuros fires could be felt on the north side of the river.]

Across the Pasig from Malacanan is a recreation area and near by is Pandacan where the Americans had extensive oil stores prior to the Japanese occupation in 1942.

Jap Shelling Dies Down

Japanese artillery, which had been dropping shells into the liberated north part of the city, died down after two days.

The 37th, after establishing a bridgehead on the Pasig's south bank near the presidential palace, worked south and southwest through comparatively open spaces around the gas works toward the walled city and dock sector.

There was nothing to indicate that the 11th Airborne Yanks, 5½ miles south of the Pasig, even yet had succeeded in eliminating or bypassing enemy pockets at Nichols Field. The 11th reached that point Sunday.

Three Towns Captured

In the north part of the central Luzon plain, MacArthur's 6th Army men captured the towns of Munoz, Rizal and Lupac in pushing the Japanese into the eastern foothills.

The general reported that enemy losses had been "very heavy" in both personnel and materiel in this stubbornly held sector.

At Munoz alone, 1,242 enemy troops were killed. Forty-two tanks were captured or destroyed along with 62 armored cars or artillery vehicles and 22 guns.

Wipe Out Over 200 Tanks

MacArthur said more than 200 enemy tanks of the 2d Japanese Armored Division—more than two thirds of its striking power—had been wiped out, and "remaining elements are now so scattered that this division is no longer an effective fighting unit."

Earlier MacArthur estimated the total Japanese personnel casualties at 48,000 for four weeks of the Luzon campaign.

Again Liberator bombers poured a heavy bomb load on Corregidor, the fortress at the entrance to Manila Bay where many Japanese may be seeking refuge. Coastal defense positions were damaged, with large fires resulting.

Two Freighters Sunk

Two small freighters were sunk and two others damaged off the China Sea coast.

Borneo took an 82-ton bombing. The Tawao airdrome on the east coast and oil refineries and supply areas in the northern area were the prime targets.

MacArthur's communiqué said patrol torpedo boats sank two troop-laden coastal vessels in the central Philippines with "considerable" personnel losses.

Enemy-held airdromes in the Philippines and islands to the southwest were effectively pounded. Frabriera airfield on Negros Island was hit so destructively by attack planes that widespread fires were still seen burning seven hours later.

Starvation and an outbreak of looting increased Manila's suffering today.

American troops, fighting the Japanese across the Pasig River, had little time or means to attend to the less immediate problems.

Filipino and Chinese residents were reported dying from starvation at the rate of several hundred a day.

Japs Among Looters

The looters included the retreating garrison of Japanese, who already had burned and blasted the business heart of the city.

As the Nipponese retreated, the people of Manila reported, they ransacked even private homes for hidden food.

Other looters took what they could, said Felipe Buencamino, former Manila newspaper man, after a tour through the liberated parts of the war-torn city.

"Not only furniture but even walls and floors are being carted away," he told Richard Bergholz, Associated Press correspondent. He said those participating in this form of desperation looting included women and children.

Buildings Destroyed

Buencamino reported these buildings destroyed: The city's Opera House on Avenida Rizal; the Ideal, Avenue, State, Life and Grand theaters; the Great Eastern and Marco Polo hotels; Heacock's, Manila's largest department store; the Philippine National Bank, Philippine Trust Building, Chartered Bank, Bank of India and the Hong Kong-Shanghai Bank.

Half of Chinatown, one of the most densely populated parts of the city, was in ruins. Many lives were lost there, Buencamino said.

Some fires also were burning in the Japanese-held south part of the city, where such well-known structures as the Manila Hotel and the Army and Navy Club are situated.

Killed Fleeing Crowd

Bergholz told of two incidents in which Filipinos carrying bags of rice were attacked by hungry crowds. One fled onto a bridge just as a Japanese demolition mine went off. He and his rice and cart vanished.

Food prices, Bergholz added, had reached ridiculous figures. He mentioned 20,000 pesos for a 110-pound sack of rice, which used to cost 8 pesos.

The army was providing rations for some 5,000 prisoners of war and American and Allied civilian internees released from Santo Tomas and Bilibid prison.

Manila's Show Places Wrecked

Jap Torch and Bombs Ravage Business Buildings, Theaters and Banks.

BERGHOLZ

FEB 9 1945

Manila, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Seared, twisted steel and empty, fire-blackened walls were all that remained today of much of Manila's show places and leading business establishments after three days of Japanese demolition.

Eyewitness accounts of destruction said that extensive business, entertainment and residential areas on both sides of the Pasig River were badly hit by fires and explosions.

Felipe Buencamino, former Manila newspaper man who crept through the war-ravaged city, said that from the old opera house on Avenida Rizal, where internationally famous singers entertained Manilans in pre-war days, to the popular Plaza Lunch, favorite gathering place for soldiers and sailors, nothing stands but the empty steel and concrete frameworks of buildings.

Theaters Burned.

The Ideal, Avenue, State, Life and Grand theaters were burned down, Buencamino said. The Great Eastern and Marco Polo hotels were destroyed by Japanese incendiaries.

Enemy demolition squads blew up the Philippine National Bank, Philippine Trust, Chartered Bank, Bank of India and Hong Kong-Shanghai Bank.

Heacock's, Manila's largest department store and one of the tallest buildings in the city, was destroyed. Its colorful crystal arcade looks like a gigantic tangle of crooked, charred steel.

Mr. Buencamino said that practically half of Chinatown, one of the heaviest populated and oldest districts of Manila was leveled by a Japanese mine-laying detachment. Many Chinese perished in the raging fire.

All day yesterday Chinese poked through debris, searching for the bodies of missing relatives and friends.

Two nights ago, Buencamino said, all residents of one section were lined up by Japanese soldiers in front of a hardware store. The reporter said:

"A half-drunk Japanese officer, brandishing a samurai sword, shouted, 'For two years we Japanese have tried to liberate you Filipinos. But you are all pro-Americans. Now I will kill you all.'

Guerrillas Saved Houses.

"But an elderly Japanese civilian intervened and pleaded with the officer. After a long harrangue the officer agreed to spare the civilians, but said, 'You may all go, but I will not rest until I burn all of your houses.'"

Shortly after this incident guerrillas attacked Japanese demolition squads and prevented total destruction of the area.

In one section of the city Chinese guerrillas formed water brigades to check fires in the thickly populated section on the north side of the Pasig River. Throughout the night the long bucket brigades passed water despite continuous sniper fire.

Mr. Buencamino said that looting was adding to the city's suffering.

"Not merely furniture, but even walls and floors are being carted away," he said. "It is not an uncommon sight to see men, women and children carrying a plank, a chair and a sheet of galvanized iron roofing."

Starvation still was present in Manila today. Ordinary food channels into Manila have been cut since December, when the Japanese clamped on an embargo and started seizing everything in sight. All markets are closed. The only money most civilians have is the now worthless Japanese occupation currency.

Palace Is Standing.

Historic Malacanan Palace, where Spanish and American governors-general and subsequently the Philippine President lived and worked, is still standing in fair condition. Several Japanese shells exploded in the palace yesterday near the former bedroom of the late President Manuel Quezon.

A huge crater gapes near the Executive Building.

At 2 P. M. yesterday a heavy Japanese barrage pounded Aviles street in front of the palace. The Malacanan Guards, a special unit of the Filipino constabulary detailed to guard the palace against all attacks, turned over control to American officers and offered their co-operation.

Yanks Reported To Be Across Pasig River

Manila, Feb. 8 (AP)—The broad Pasig River, its bridges blown up by a desperate foe, was the front line today in the heart of Manila—a heart torn by sporadic house-to-house fighting, exploding shells and great fires set by Japanese suicide squads.

The sprawled and blackened bodies of slain Japanese, among 48,000 enemy casualties so far accounted for on Luzon, dotted scenes of wanton destruction in the liberated sector north of the river. South of it, demolition groups started more fires.

[NBC Correspondent Pat Flaherty broadcast from inside Manila today that American troops have crossed the Pasig River.

["American troops have crossed the Pasig River and the Allies are on the march to seal the fate of Jap pockets of resistance," Flaherty said. "The pressure is being applied from the north, east and south."]

Wish To Spare City

The liberating Yanks, whose Luzon casualties total 7,076, are superior in armored might and have a monopoly in air and naval support, but desire to save as much as possible of this pearl of the Orient.

Artillery dueled across the Pasig, a river varying from 200 to 300 yards in width. The screaming shells of the Nipponese tore holes in buildings at Santo Tomas University. They wounded soldiers there and also some of the more than 3,000 internees who had undergone three years of imprisonment before being reached Saturday night by the first Yanks to enter the city.

The 1st Cavalry and 37th Infantry divisions have won all the city north of the Pasig, including the Escolta business district, where the enemy devastated a square mile area of office buildings and other nonmilitary structures by firing gasoline drums and touching off explosives.

Bridges Destroyed

Japanese still operated in strength south of the river. Some American troops also were on the south bank but the destruction of four big bridges delayed a crossing in strength.

The fate of these Japanese was sealed by the presence of the United States 11th Airborne Division below them. These Yanks, 5½ miles south of the Pasig, were held up, however, by a stiff scrap around Nichols Airfield at suburban Pasay, near Manila Bay.

Out in the bay, the fortress of Corregidor, which the Japanese are holding to deny American naval entry into the great harbor, was pounded anew by 204 tons of explosives dropped by four-engined Liberators. It was the heaviest blow so far dealt "The Rock."

Battle For Bataan

Across the bay at Bataan, a grim jungle fight at the peninsula base between United States 38th Division Yanks and well-concealed Nipponese was reported by Associated Press Correspondent James Hutcheson.

In Luzon's Nueva Ecija province, elements of the 32d Infantry Division have cut the Balete Pass road leading to the Cagayan Valley, 24 miles north of San Jose. This blocks the escape route for Japanese caught south and east.

Today's communiqué did not break down the enemy casualty figure of 48,000, but it listed the American figure of 7,076 as consisting of 1,609 killed, 191 missing and 5,276 wounded.

500 Filipinos Seized By Japs Disappeared

Manila, Feb. 7 [AP—Delayed]—In the days preceding American entry into Manila more than 700 Filipinos were taken in a mass arrest in the suburbs because some were suspected of being American sympathizers.

The Japanese officials herded them into a church and kept them there several days without food and water.

Finally, in desperation, a hooded informer was forced to mount the church pulpit and point out persons he believed were guerrillas. Five hundred so designated from the large mass were taken away. They have not been seen since.

Then as these once-proud Japanese conquerors of Manila began to leave the city, they commandeered everything with wheels—even bicycles and pushcarts—to make their getaway faster. This scene was too much for the Filipinos' sense of humor. They quipped: "There goes Yamashita's pushcart army to meet MacArthur's mechanized force."

MacArthur Proposes Promotion For Chase

Manila, Feb. 8 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today he has recommended Brig. Gen. William C. Chase, of Bridgeport, Conn., for promotion to a major general and already has appointed him to command a division.

General Chase led the first flying columns of Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge's 1st Cavalry Division in the dramatic dash into Manila last Saturday night which liberated the Santo Tomas internment camp.

General MacArthur visited the camp Wednesday and personally congratulated General Chase.

Marine Bombers Hit Convoy In Bonins

Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Feb. 8 (AP)—In the 62d consecutive day of aerial attack on the Bonin Island area, midway on the B-29 road to Tokyo, marine bombers Tuesday attacked two convoys, damaging one large ship with rockets and leaving another smoking after an explosion had shaken it. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced the attack today.

On the same day Army planes hit Chichi Jima and Ototo Jima in the Volcanos. Three enemy fighters were sighted but they offered no opposition.

Liberators Twice Hammer Iwo Jima

Fleet Headquarters, Forward Area, Friday, Feb. 9 (AP)—Army Liberators bombed Iwo Jima in the Volcano group for the 62d and 63d consecutive times on Tuesday and Wednesday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

Iwo is midway on the Superfortress route from Saipan to Tokyo.

Okimura town on Haha Jima in the adjacent Bonin Islands was hit Wednesday and three big fires started.

Army, marine and navy planes teamed up in far-ranging attacks on other enemy bases in the Caroline, Palau and Marshall islands. Rota, in the Marianas south of Saipan, also was bombed.

Quebec Rift Flares Anew

Quebec, Feb. 8 (AP)—French-speaking Quebec's jealously guarded provincial rights are likely to provide a main issue for debate in the new session of the Provincial Legislature which opened yesterday under leadership of the Union Nationale Premier, Maurice Duplessis.

The Premier, who was voted into office in August on a platform of provincial autonomy and of opposition to the wartime policies of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's Liberal Dominion Government in Ottawa, announced in an opening statement of policy that "it is necessary that the province be able to exercise in all their integrity the rights, prerogatives and liberties" recognized by the British North America Act, which is Canada's counterpart of the United States Constitution.

Family Allowances An Issue

In addition, the Government gave notice it intends to introduce legislation dealing with family allowances, which is the subject of a new Federal law now being put into effect over Premier Duplessis's protest.

The new Government is expected to set up its own provincial system of family grants, or to enact a provincial law to work in conjunction with the Federal law, but on terms regarded by Duplessis as not infringing on Quebec's provincial rights.

Nazi Captives In Canada Hang Fellow Prisoner

Lethbridge, Alta., Feb. 8 (AP)—German prisoners of war erected a crude scaffold in a Medicine Hat camp in July, 1943, and hanged a fellow prisoner they accused of making derogatory remarks about Hitler, the Lethbridge Herald said today.

The inmates used planks and timber found at their barracks and improvised the noose from electric wire, the newspaper reported, saying the death could only now be disclosed with Canadian censorship approval.

Another prisoner found dead at the camp last year evidently had been strangled, the Herald said.

Dutch Ask 'Interested' Powers Be Denied Veto In League

FEB 9 1945

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Netherlands Government, broadly indicating that its adherence to the Dumbarton Oaks peace plan may hinge on the point, urges abandonment of the idea of a veto for the great powers on decisions affecting themselves.

In a memorandum presented to the Allies and presumably under study by the Big Three in their Black Sea conference, the Netherlands also proposes in effect a moral court of appeals to pass on decisions of the proposed security council, and a generally stronger voice for the smaller nations.

Not Final Decision

The 6,000-word memorandum, emphasizing that it does not represent final decision, was made public tonight by the Netherlands Embassy after London sources had revealed part of its contents.

On the points raised, it says, the Netherlands is so concerned "that the adhesion of the country to the plan may well prove to be conditioned" by the solutions found.

On the issue of the great power veto, which the Russians have backed through a requirement that the great powers be unanimous in council decisions, the document had this to say:

". . . If the great powers were given the right of veto in cases to which they are a party, the Dumbarton Oaks plan would only be useful for promoting the orderly settlement of international disputes between smaller states, and even this only on a limited scale because of the right of veto of the great powers.

'Freedom From Fear?'

"In cases of disputes between great powers, or between a great power and a smaller state, the plan would afford no protection. 'Would this produce freedom from fear?'"

The Dutch propose that no state have a veto in any question involving anything less than the actual use of force. On that final recourse, the document proposes that every nation, large or small, council member or not, be allowed to make its own decision whether it shall participate.

The memorandum strongly questions whether in any case, even the use of force against third parties, any nation should have a reservation right which would "prevent the whole organization from acting."

Premium On Pressure

On the small power voting issue, the Netherlands proposes that three votes from among the six nonpermanent council members shall be required for decisions. The memorandum points out that with five great powers holding permanent seats, one smaller nation voting with them would provide a majority, and asks:

"Is it not to be feared that in the hard practice of international relations one such vote will always be available?"

Asserting that the Dumbarton Oaks plan contains no full commitment that justice shall govern decisions, the memorandum asks, "Is it not tantamount to putting a premium on pressure brought to bear by stronger on weaker states?"

Independent Body

"A statement, duly embodied in the proposals where its absence is very striking," the document says, "to the effect that some standard of justice will always be observed, would go a long way toward dissipating anxieties, and it appears difficult to see why, if the thing is self-evident, there could be any objection to making such a statement."

As a solution, the Netherlands suggests appointment of "an independent body of eminent men from a suitable number of different countries, men known for their integrity and their experience in international affairs, who should be readily available to pronounce upon decisions of the security council whenever an appeal to that effect were addressed to them."

'How Far Power'

The memorandum acknowledges that "in the present state of the international community it is necessary to invest power with special rights if there is to be a chance of building a new organization for the maintenance of peace and security."

It says the question is "how far that power should go" and asserts the views expressed "not animated by a spirit of perfectionism rejecting a sufficient minimum of good which is attainable for still more which is not."

FRANCO PLAN TURNED DOWN

Rejection Of Anti-Soviet Proposal Cleared Air For Big 3

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Flat rejection by Prime Minister Churchill of any idea of a combine against Russia helped clear the air for the current Big Three meeting, it is said here.

The point came up specifically in a proposal from the Spanish dictator, Francisco Franco, for a western European alliance against the Soviet Union.

Churchill turned him down bluntly, it was learned here, and went far beyond the immediate issue by making it entirely clear, in the view of authorities here, that British policy calls for co-operation with Russia and the United States toward a future peace. The Prime Minister sent copies of the correspondence to President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin.

Mediation Offer

The gesture by Franco, one-time friend of Hitler, included an offer of his services as mediator between the Allies and their enemies—that is, he was willing to help negotiate a peace if Churchill was interested. Churchill also turned that proposal down.

The offer by Franco was made last November.

The reply from Churchill, who spoke "kindly words" about Spain in a speech earlier in 1944, left no doubt that the British Government looks with little warmth upon the present regime at Madrid.

Washington Shares View

The British view is shared in Washington, where great emphasis is laid on the need for giving every evidence of Allied co-operation, as a means of furthering plans for future peace as well as making certain of final victory in this war.

Franco wrote Churchill saying he assumed as a matter of course that the political interests of Spain and Britain were intertwined. He suggested a Spanish-British "undertaking" to protect western Europe against Soviet Russia.

The Prime Minister's reply rejected any idea of a pact designed to keep Russia out of Europe and made it entirely clear, according to authorities here, that he was not interested in the Franco solicitude for the political future of Britain.

NO LAND CLAUSES IN ITALIAN TREATY

FEB 9 1945

Washington, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Acting Secretary of State Grew disclosed today that the Italian Armistice leaves open completely the question of Italy's frontiers and colonies.

"The surrender instrument does not contain any provisions with respect to future settlements," Mr. Grew said.

He added that in view "of the co-belligerency of Italy it has not been necessary to apply the terms as originally drawn up."

The Armistice terms were signed in September, 1943.

Mr. Grew reiterated Allied statements promising all possible aid to Italy and applauded the Italian war effort.

"Italy's economy is being devoted to the prosecution of the war in the same sense as is that of the other countries fighting Germany," he declared.

The Italian Armistice terms never have been made public, although later pacts with Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland were published immediately. Mr. Grew said that he could not publish the text of the surrender terms now because of "overriding military considerations."

U.S. Gives France Big Supply Plan

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—The United States handed French plenipotentiaries tonight a proposal for an over-all supply program unofficially estimated at about $2,500,000,000.

The proposal, which was submitted to Jean Monnet, top economic envoy for the French provisional Government, includes lend-lease and reciprocal-aid agreements.

In a statement issued by the State Department no mention was made of how much of the total supply program would be based on lend-lease and reciprocal aid and how much was to be placed on a cash-and-credits basis.

One usually reliable source said, however, that the lend-lease agreement totaled about $1,500,000,000, and that the rest of the proposed United States program would be supplied according to American dollar values on deposit here in French credit.

Earlier, American officials who have been in negotiation with Monnet since his arrival here some two months ago, said the proposed supply program was formulated "on a parity basis" with the British and Russian supply agreements. They said it also took into account French reciprocal aid in both supplies and services received to date under a Franco-American mutual aid understanding.

The next move is up to General de Gaulle and his Government's leaders to accept, decline or modify the United States offer.

Pampering Of Prisoners Again Denied By Stimson

FEB 9 1945

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson reiterated today that "there is no pampering of prisoners of war held in the country by the Army."

Replying to news conference questions about complaints published in some overseas service papers that Italian prisoners of war are treated too kindly, Stimson said the War Department's policy "is to comply strictly with the provisions of the Geneva Convention of 1929, to which this country is a party." He said that convention was adhered to "out of regard for our own men in enemy hands, as well as honoring our pledged word."

30.24 – 22815

Italian Service Units

Referring to Italian service units, formed from volunteers among prisoners, Stimson said:

"Despite all stories, their 'privileges' are relatively few. They are allowed to go about their work without armed guards. This is a personal saving for us.

"The yare permitted to make visits to post exchanges, theaters and chapels on the post, and occasional supervised group trips out of camp. The War Department also permits them to be visited by friends and relatives whom many of them have in this country.

Can Be Restricted

"These privileges can be restricted any time the post commander considers it desirable. If at any time they fail to carry out their work, they are immediately returned to regular prisoner of war status."

Italian prisoners are divided into two groups, he explained, one group treated as regular prisoners of war and the other composed of those who have volunteered to assist our war effort. The big difference, he said, is that the volunteers can be used on any task short of combat, whereas regular prisoners of war cannot be used in tasks having direct relation with war operations.

The Army, in a report made coincidentally with Stimson's discussion, disclosed there are now 50,561 Italian prisoners in the United States. German prisoners, as of February 1, totaled 305,867, and the balance of the overall total of 359,248 is made up of 2,820 Japanese.

Marshall And King Accused Of 'Wasting' Manpower

Washington, Feb. 8 (AP)—Senator Brooks (R., Ill.) contended today that Gen. George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King had failed to use military manpower to the best advantage. He also charged them with responsibility "for vast overproduction of billions of dollars' worth of surplus goods."

The Illinois Republican took the Senate floor to criticize House-approved work-or-jail legislation after these swiftly paced developments:

1. Senators Tydings (D., Md.) and Reed (R., Kan.) called for a reaffirmation of farm draft demerments and a congressional inquiry to determine responsibility "for the wholesale inductions" of essential farm workers for whom they said no replacements are available.

Hershey Backs Byrnes

2. Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey told the Senate Military Committee that he supports an amendment permitting War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes to direct actual placement of workers under the measure.

3. J. A. Krug, War Production Board chairman, testified that more and more war production will be lost each week without enactment of the bill.

Brooks, reading from a prepared manuscript, termed Marshall and King—both of whom have supported the measure—professional military men, untrained in "the art [Co... ...] bor and management co-ope... so necessary to maximum pro... ion."

Cites Overconfidence

"In fact," Brooks declared, "they are, in a measure, to blame for the over-confidence on the part of our civilian population. Under the guise of military and naval secrecy and security they have helped play down our real reverses and losses, and under the guise of 'morale' have played up the successes of our forces. . . .

"As the heads of the Army and Navy, they are responsible in part for the failure to fully utilize the vast manpower already in the armed forces.

"They are responsible for vast over-production of the billions of dollars' worth of surplus goods now being sold back to the public at a loss."

Against "Slave Labor"

Brooks, a frequent critic of Administration ... said "I have never felt tha... dated, forced or slave labor ...uld or would equal the pr... of our free American peo...

While the Se... Military Committee was hearing additional demands for work-or-jail manpower legislation, Senators Tydings and Reed introduced a measure reaffirming the policy of the Tydings amendment to the Draft Act and calling for the inquiry.

The Tydings amendment specifies that essential agricultural employés shall not be drafted unless replacements for them are found.

Criticizes Hershey

Tydings told the Senate that selective service has attempted to "brush aside" the amendment. He said that Hershey in effect told local draft boards to "go to it" if they desired to take farm workers for whom there are no replacements.

Reed said senators had talked with Hershey and that the draft director "made clear he had no intention of complying with the Tydings amendment."

Tydings asserted that when a manpower bill comes to the Senate floor he expects to see attached a rider "that will go further than the Tydings amendment ever did."

Not A Threat, He Says

He was not "making a threat," Tydings added, but was just stating what he thought would happen if selective service does not take clarifying action within a week.

Tydings asked that the bill he and Reed introduced "lie on the table" until a "work-or-jail" measure is reported.

The committee considering the coercive legislation heard Krug call for its enactment and heard Hershey agree to amendments that would allow Byrnes to direct the actual placement of workers.

House Bill's Provisions

As the bill passed the House, local draft boards not only would say who would have to take war jobs but would tell them what jobs to take. The proposed Senate amendment would let the local boards select the men but permit Byrnes to designate the War Manpower Commission as the placement agency.

Krug said that while voluntary placement "worked amazingly well" in the early stages of the war, it is not sufficient now.

"Under existing conditions, war production already is suffering badly from lack of labor," he told the committee.

Fears Weekly Loss

"Without legislation we can be quite certain that as each week passes more and more war production will be lost for lack of sufficient workers," Krug said.

Placing the present need for workers in "must" plants at "somewhere between 250,000 and 300,000 today," Krug added that such plants represent only about one fourth of the nation's war industries and war-supporting activities.

Goldberg Tells Senate Inquiry Accusers Lied

Surplus Goods Auctioneer Defends Methods Now and After World War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—A lusty-voiced auctioneer banged his fist before a Senate committee today, declared his handling of surplus war property has been on the level now, and was after the World War, too.

Jacob Goldberg, who conducted auction sales at Maspeth, L. I., and Burlington, N. J., last December, testified to the Senate War Investigating Committee:

That he did nothing in the conduct of the sales, now under inquiry, unless by instructions from Defense Plant Corporation officials.

That another witness lied when he told the committee that Mr. Goldberg offered a $20,000 job to a government official to get a favorable attitude within the D. P. C.

Mr. Goldberg climaxed a dramatic defense of his record under stormy Senatorial cross-examination with fervent protests against what he called attempts to "brand" him for post-war activities two decades ago.

His appeal to Senator Homer Ferguson, Republican, of Michigan, against questions dealing with the sale of Camp Funston in Kansas after the last war closed three hours of testimony replete with emotional outbursts.

The committee heard the gray-thatched fifty-five-year-old auctioneer read a 2,000-word defense of his sales, then pounced upon him with a barrage of questions.

Denies Hotel Room Offer

Senator Ferguson asked whether Mr. Goldberg once offered an auctioneer $25,000 in a hotel room in Junction City, Kan., as part of an effort to buy Camp Funston. That brought the witness to his feet.

"I don't want to use an ugly word," he said, "but that is a wholly untruth made up by some one to injure me. My life is a clean, open book.

"Please don't brand me by insinuation a criminal twenty-four years ago."

Senator Ferguson repeatedly got the same answer, that the witness didn't recollect, when he asked if Mr. Goldberg bid $90,000 for the camp.

He could not remember when Senator Ferguson asked if his original bid was raised to $110,000 and if the camp wasn't finally sold for $200,000.

He had no "difficulties" with the government after the last war, he said, but "was called on to answer questions like I am now."

Testimony of John Vanginhoven, a D. P. C. engineer, that he had been offered a $20,000 job with Mr. Goldberg in the latter's hope of getting a favorable report on the Surplus Liquidators, Inc., brought this comment: "Vanginhoven told a lie to you gentlemen." Mr. Goldberg is president of Surplus Liquidators.

Mr. Goldberg said that some prices were raised 20 per cent several days after the Maspeth auction, despite a contract provision against changes after forty-eight hours. However, he always acted under instructions from Don Brown and other D. P. C. engineers, he added.

Accused by Hatch

At one point, Senator Carl A. Hatch, Democrat, of New Mexico, accused the witness of making a "reckless statement" when he said members of the committee drove through the Maspeth storage buildings at "twenty-five miles an hour" when they inspected it.

The witness apologized.

"I'm an auctioneer," he said. "I speak awfully fast."

Insisting, however, that he did not see the Senators leave their automobile, he added: "My veracity will stand on its own legs."

He defended "signal bidding" at the Maspeth auction, which Senators contend made it difficult for other than professional buyers to make purchases.

"If one man bids $20, and his competitor hears, the latter will bid $21," he said, adding that it is, however, for "the best interest of the government."

He didn't recall "knocking down" an item to one of Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's New York policemen who "happened to blow his nose or wipe his eye," although he said it could have occurred.

"I'd like to see the Mayor on an auction stand and see how well he would do," Mr. Goldberg continued.

He said there were a great many signals, including "face scratching."

He said that an apparent "discrepancy" between gross receipts of $168,000 and bank deposits of $163,000 could be accounted for by changes in price authorized by D. P. C. auctioneers.

SAYS JENKINS OWNS LAND TREATY HELPS

California Attorney General Brings Ex-Consul in Mexico Into Water Controversy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—Attorney General Robert W. Kenny of California asserted today that William O. Jenkins, former United States Consul at Puebla, Mexico, whose career he said once brought Mexico and the United States to the brink of war, was owner of two-thirds of the Mexican land which would benefit from a United States-Mexican water treaty.

Mr. Jenkins owned more than 500,000 acres below the border, Mr. Kenny asserted, and he asked the Foreign Relations Committee to call for the records of the State Department, FBI and censorship on his background.

"I'm going to take you behind the woodpile," Mr. Kenny told the Senate committee at the start of his testimony.

He then read a letter written to him by the late Harry Chandler, publisher of The Los Angeles Times, stating that Mr. Jenkins bought his Mexican holdings at about the time the treaty was being negotiated last year, for about $360,000, or about 50 cents an acre.

State Department Comment

State Department officials said later the sale was made after completion of treaty negotiations, and described Mr. Jenkins as the department's "consular agent" at Puebla from 1918 to 1930, appointed by the Secretary of State.

"I make the charge," the California official added, "that the records will show he (Jenkins) is perhaps the most dangerous enemy to the good neighbor policy we have had."

Mr. Kenny then related these incidents which he said were from Mr. Jenkins' career:

Mr. Jenkins was reported kidnapped by Mexican rebels in 1919. Friends paid his ransom and he was released. Soon afterward, however, he was jailed by the Puebla Governor after Mexican newspapers had charged that he ...ved their Government 200,000 ...sos for revenues.

Sharp exchanges between Mexico and the United States, Mr. Kenny said, were followed by a War Department estimate that 450,000 troops would be needed in case of war.

The Californian said the incident occurred at a time when there was much sentiment in the United States for annexation of Mexico. These advocates, he explained, were led by the late Senator Albert Fall who introduced a resolution to break relations with Mexico.

Outcome of the Case

The case dragged on for about ten months, according to the witness, coming to a "sudden" close after the assassination of President Carranza of Mexico in 1920. The Superior Court in Mexico City dismissed charges against Mr. Jenkins, ordered his freedom and return of bail which had been furnished to get him out of the Puebla jail.

Mr. Jenkins was subsequently charged by Mexico with evasion of alcohol taxes, Mr. Kenny continued, and in 1937 his estates, believed to be among the largest owned by any American in Mexico, were slated for distribution among peasants. Peons complained at that time that Mr. Jenkins paid wages lower than the minimum fixed by labor law regulations, said Mr. Kenny, adding: "Unless Mr. Jenkins has reformed, this treaty will not be of benefit to many workers."

The testimony followed reports to Californians that Mexican labor leaders had urged Mexican agricultural workers not to work in California because of that State's opposition to the treaty.

It is not known whether Mr. Jenkins remained an American citizen or became a Mexican subject to protect his holdings there, Mr. Kenny asserted.

U. S. Casualties 764,584, Equal To 50 Divisions

Rise 27,242 for a Week; 359,248 Prisoners in Camps in This Country

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Ameri-

casualties in all war areas now total enough to man fifty divisions.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, said today that Army casualties—killed, wounded, missing and prisoners—totaled 676,796 on the basis of individual names compiled in Washington through Jan. 24.

The Navy's 87,788 casualties put the combined list at 764,584, an over-all increase of 27,242 since last week's report. However, about 200,000 of the wounded have returned to duty.

Mr. Stimson also reported that 865,000 German prisoners have been taken on the western front since D Day.

Simultaneously, the War Department reported that 359,248 prisoners of war are now held at camps in this country. Included are 305,867 Germans, 50,561 Italians and 2,820 Japanese.

Mr. Stimson reiterated at his news conference that there is "no pampering" of prisoners of war and suggested that the position of Italian service units is some times misunderstood.

Men in the service units, he said, are volunteers for war work assignments and can be used for any task short of combat. Italians in the strict category of prisoners of war, on the other hand, he said, cannot be used in any work directly related to war operations.

Members of the service units, Mr. Stimson said, are given some privileges, but they are "relatively few." For example, he said, they are permitted to do their work without being guarded, visit post exchanges, theaters and churches and make occasional supervised trips away from camps.

A breakdown on the Army's casualties and corresponding figures for last week follows: Killed, 130,266 and 121,676; wounded, 396,176 and 379,638; missing, 91,476 and 91,573; prisoners, 58,878 and 57,533. Mr. Stimson said 4,522 of those killed previously had been listed as missing but now have been declared dead.

Similar figures on the Navy breakdown: Killed, 33,192 and 32,889; wounded, 40,248 and 39,807; missing, 9,873 and 9,750; prisoners, 4,475.

Red Cross Aid on Way To Philippine Internees

636,000 Articles of Clothing Ready Before Manila Fell

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—More than 636,000 articles of clothing are on the way to the Philippines for distribution among liberated American internees and Filipinos.

Basil O'Connor, chairman of the American Red Cross, in making the announcement today, said the shipments were prepared at the request of General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters well in advance of the fall of Manila.

In addition to garments made in Red Cross chapters, Mr. O'Connor said, clothing and comfort articles have been purchased. The latter include shaving supplies for the men, cosmetics for the women, dried milk, gift boxes and hard candy for the children.

MANILA SEEKS NEWSPRINT

Bulletin's Owner Asks WPB Aid to Resume Publication

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—The Manila Bulletin, English-language daily, applied to the War Production Board today for newsprint to resume publication.

The application was filed by John B. Long, general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Association, in behalf of Carson Taylor of Los Angeles, publisher of The Bulletin.

Mr. Long said Mr. Taylor estimated that the newspaper would need 720 tons of newsprint during 1945.

Mr. Long said Col. J. Hale Steinman, director of the War Production Board's printing and publishing division, had promised to help obtain priorities to ship newsprint and other publishing equipment to Manila.

A.A.F. Rotating 18,000 a Month

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Army Air Forces personnel are coming home under the rotation plan at the rate of 18,000 a month, and the rate is expected to increase. The men are virtually all air crewmen. Reporting this today, the A. A. F.'s official publication "Air Force" said that "the odds are against returning any large numbers of ground personnel by rotation before the war ends."

Senate Confirms 5 Ambassadors

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (A. P.).—The Senate today confirmed these Ambassadors:

Ely E. Palmer, of Rhode Island to Afghanistan; Joseph F. McGurk of New Jersey to the Dominican Republic; Edwin Jackson Kyle of Texas to Guatemala; R. Henry Norweb of Ohio to Panama; and Herman B. Baruch of New York to Portugal.

Mr. Baruch is a brother of Bernard M. Baruch, New York financier and adviser to the Government.

PRICE PRAISES EDITORS

Extols Restraint of Press and Radio on Black Sea Parley

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—Byron Price, director of the Office of Censorship, today issued this note to editors and broadcasters:

"The responsible editors and news broadcasters of the United States are entitled to great credit for their conduct, under voluntary censhorship, with respect to the international conference in the Black Sea area.

"The difficulties have been many but in spite of strong provocation from abroad domestic news columns and broadcasts in this country have been, on the whole, remarkably free of aid to the enemy. That he still is confused about major points of security connected with the conference is demonstrated amply by the outgivings of enemy propagandists.

"The office of censorship offers its thanks and appreciation."

Text of Governor Dewey's Lincoln Day Address on U. S. Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Following is the complete text of a Lincoln Day address here tonight by Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York:

At this Lincoln Day dinner we Republicans traditionally take stock of ourselves. We ask ourselves how far we have strayed from the fundamentals of our political faith. We rededicate ourselves to the eternal principles of human freedom for which the name of Lincoln stands.

It is particularly important that we re-examine our faith after a national election. It fell to us to conduct a campaign when our country was engaged in the greatest war of all history. That was a grave and difficult responsibility for an opposition party, because any campaign has within it the dangers of divisions on national purposes. Instead, the campaign made it clear to all the world that the united determination of the people of America to fight the war to total victory was greater than ever before. Moreover, our will to build a lasting peace was lifted by our party above partisanship, and we made a lasting contribution toward the actual building of the structure for international peace.

At the same time we vigorously performed our duty as the party of the opposition in pointing out the defects in the policies of the present Administration and the startling contradictions between its promises and its performances.

As Americans we accept with good grace the verdict of the majority. As members of the party of opposition we shall stanchly carry forward the banner of our political faith. There are 22,000,000 of us—nearly 48 per cent of the voters—who believe today in that political faith.

Says Tragedy Stalks World

We have no excuse for existence as a political party—we have no excuse for our service in public office—unless we are deeply conscious of the overwhelming tragedy which stalks the world today. The normal life of a majority of the people of the world has either been uprooted or its natural development set back. Tens of millions of young men have been giving their most productive years to warfare. An appalling number of them will come back to their homes with deep scars, and many will never come home.

Over almost every home in our land there is a sense of brooding fear or of irreparable loss. At the same time there is a gallant courage and determination in the heart and mind of every American to beat down the forces of evil and this time to keep them down.

Certainly this is the time for re-examination and re-affirmation of the things we believe in. It is the time to cast aside those things that are not fundamental and to re-affirm those things that are true.

It is increasingly clear to every one that neither justice nor freedom can long continue to exist in a world beset by periodic total wars. Modern warfare strikes down the youth of the world. It also strikes at the heart of freedom itself. By its very nature it forces even freedom-loving countries to regiment their people in order to fight total war.

Moreover, the terrifying developments of science have made war no longer a matter between next-door neighbors. We have learned to our sorrow that aggression anywhere in the world endangers all the rest of the world. We now know that, in the future, aggression will be possible by air from bases thousands of miles away. If there is an aggressor anywhere in the world, all of us are his imperiled neighbors.

"Must Not Risk Another War"

It is obvious that we cannot and must not risk another great war. It is equally obvious that aside from adequate military forces and bases for our defense in the future our only hope of avoiding war lies in effective international co-operation for peace.

War is an evil which has scourged mankind from the beginning of time. It is not likely suddenly to disappear from the earth of its own accord. As I have said so often, peace must be waged with all the vigor and skill with which we wage war or we shall always be having to wage war.

We have nailed to our masthead one principle to which I believe we must everlastingly adhere, or principles will count no more in the face of force. That is, that we, as a nation, can, we will, and we must take a full, responsible part in the establishment of collective security among nations.

The opinion of our people has crystallized. They want the United States to accept its responsibilities for the vital decisions affecting the future of the world. Those who speak for our country need no longer hide behind fine phrases and glittering generalities. There need no longer be any doubt anywhere that the American people are prepared to exercise their great power actively, continuously and effectively in the interest of a just and a lasting peace.

There is now in progress a conference among the three great powers among the United Nations. The results of that conference will go far to determine the course of the rest of the war and the nature of the peace to come. At that conference the President of the United States has, I am sure, the wholehearted support of both political parties and the prayers of the American people for his every effort in the interest of our country and of world peace.

Our people are prepared to uphold the hands of their own representatives. They ask in return that the decisions to be made shall be in harmony with our American ideals of liberty and justice. They ask that the actions to be taken shall not be concealed and shall not be devious. They ask that they shall not ignore the opinion of mankind. Our people insist that mighty decisions shall not be made in the cynical spirit of power politics. The structure of international peace must progress further and faster or it will be left behind in the swift movement of world events.

"Our Government Was Absent"

In the last three months the liberation of peoples and nations has pressed forward with increasing speed. The governments of Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Italy and Greece, the government and boundaries of Poland have one after the other in rapid succession required action and decision. Yet we learned, day after day, that events required action and our own government was absent from the scene. We have seen the American people in the humiliating situation where they were compelled to learn of these tremendous events from the debates in the British House of Commons. Moreover, we learned from those debates that while the powder kegs of Europe were being dealt with once again, the representatives of our own government were uttering pleasant generalities and leaving our Allies to decide the fate of the world.

During all of that critical three-month period the clearest call for constructive action came from the distinguished senior Senator from Michigan, Arthur H. Vandenberg.

In giving their wholehearted support to decisions to be made at the present conference and to action in the future our people are perfectly aware that they cannot have everything just as they want it. Our allies have strong views of their own. We know that conflicting views must be reconciled. But we insist that decisions be made with us and not without us, with our representatives in the discussion every day on every subject, and not occasonally or part of the time. Our people cannot accept compromises without a new, firm knowledge that the American government took its part and did its best in advancing the principles and faith for which Americans are dying all over the world. We shall accept neither isolationism or abdication.

The time has come for the hard, painstaking labor of translating ideals and generalities into reality and action. The conference now in progress is, we hope, a great step to that end. From now on these problems cannot hang in suspense for many months at a time. They cannot be left to the rare meetings between the heads of nations. Time and events move too fast. Ideals and great purposes are too easily lost by default. We are not content that our government sit idly by and merely, as we have been told, be "kept informed." Millions of Americans are in the front lines of battle. Our government must likewise be in the front line of decisions which flow from these victorious battles.

Have Support of People

30.24 - 22817

There have been those in other countries and some in our own who choose to interpret the almost equal division of the American people between candidates and parties in the last election as proof of division in our fundamental purposes and intentions. The fact is that our differences concerned only who were the most effective individuals and what were the most effective methods of carrying out the ideals and purposes upon which we as a people are strongly united. Let it be understood by every one, everywhere in the world. Let is be understood that the representatives of our government have the wholehearted support of the American people in every step they take which advances the cause of a just and lasting peace.

So as we give all-out support to action toward carrying out our ideals, we want to be sure that those ideals have been vigorously represented. We want to be sure of action guaranteeing the permanent disarmament of Germany and Japan. We want to be sure of action to transform the agreements reached at Dumbarton Oaks from pieces of paper into living reality. We want to know that the things left unfinished are moving toward solution.

As a nation we have strong views concerning the freedom of the peoples of Europe. We want to know that these views are represented in the decisions concerning the future of the people who have suffered so much through conquest and re-conquest and final liberation. We want to know that it is liberation in truth—that we have in fact crushed out war-breeding totalitarianism wherever it infected those nations. We want to know that we have not fought this war in vain.

As, in the name of Lincoln, we take stock of our purposes in the world, we must also inquire whether we are upholding his ideals at home.

Our nation was founded upon the classic liberal principle that government is the servant of its people and not their master. Hand in hand with this political idea of human freedom went the belief that men may be free politically only so long as they are free economically. These were the contagious, compelling, exciting truths out of which our country was established and became great.

"Not Our Ideals Alone"

These were not our ideals alone. They were in response to the clarion call to human freedom which swept over the western world in the eighteenth century. During that century the French Revolution and the American Revolution were fought to establish the right of people to rule themselves and the right of the individual to be free. By evolution the same principles were then also being established in Great Britain and elsewhere.

Today these liberal principles are under challenge. They are no longer self-evident to a large portion of the world. It is said that individual freedom can no longer exist in a modern industrial society: that government must be supreme, and the people must be its dependent servants.

The wheel has had a full turn between the eighteenth and twentieth centuries. The intrusive idea today is again that all wisdom is in government, and that it should exercise all power. Even as we fight a total war against that idea, it infects the minds of people everywhere.

We find people from all walks of life and of all shades of political thoughts right here in our own country who are afraid that we cannot have security and full employment and at the same time maintain the liberty and dignity of the individual. There are others who joyously proclaim that the new road to Utopia is through government action alone, which leads inevitably to totalitarian control over our people. While professing their concern for the individual they would crush him, leaving only a soulless automaton who takes his orders from the State.

Adding together those who are afraid for human freedom and those who basically have no interest in it, we have a large body of opinion in our own country going down the primrose path toward totalitarianism.

Core of Every Decision

How to achieve our objective, security and full employment, and also preserve individual liberty! This is the crucial question of our time. It is the hard core of every political decision we make.

We have seen in our country a long, persistent effort to increase the power of government over the individual. We have seen a cavalier willingness to saddle the people with unlimited debt in the peace time behind us and in the plans for the peace ahead of us. We have seen a smooth willingness on the part of government to find pleasant excuses in the name of false liberalism to bring the daily lives of our people under its increasing control.

There are those who want to take the easy way of spending the nation into bankruptcy and chaos, while the government takes over the control of the lives of every individual. They believe that to cure every ill you pass a law and appropriate $1,000,000,000. They would like to have the government finance every business, from a gasoline station to a steel corporation, while it quietly takes over control of every aspect of our economy. It is by that process that life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness would be stifled and liberalism would become a dead thing in history.

Here is the real battle of the years to come. Must the people of America deny their own heritage and surrender to an absolute state? Must we, too, when peace comes, join the march backward 200 years to individual subservience to the master state? Let us on this occasion proclaim our faith in a better way. It is the way of progress not only toward ever-increasing security but also toward ever-greater freedom of the individual. At times it may be the slower, harder road. But it is the only road for Americans to take.

Cites Production Record

It is perfectly obvious to the rest of the world and it ought to be to us that America has staggeringly outproduced every other nation in the world. Our 130,000,000 people have produced many of the winning instruments of war for Great Britain, Russia and China as well as for ourselves. It is obvious to the rest of the world, and it ought to be to us, that this is because of the enormous initiative and inventive genius which springs from the very heart of our system. Ours is a system which rewards achievement, in which men can create and build with the full knowledge that they and their families will benefit, as well as society as a whole. Ours has been a system whereby labor is free to work, to organize and to share to the limit of its productive capacity in the good things of life which are produced by all.

The very heart of that system is the classic, liberal concept that every man is his own master and that government exists to keep him free. It is in the natural development of that system that we assert that neither accumulations of great wealth nor monopoly — that neither government nor any individual—shall control the lives of other Americans. It is that system which guarantees and must make effective equal rights for all, regardless of race, color, creed or national origin.

These are the principles for which Lincoln lived and died. If we are to justify the purpose for which we exist we must follow in the path he set. It is of little importance whether the course is popular or unpopular at the moment.

What is important is that we follow unfalteringly the road of freedom on every issue. It is that road which 12,000,000 young Americans will want to take when they come home to enjoy the peace they have won. It is that road which opens to them unlimited vistas of achievement. To travel that road is their inalienable right. It is the right freely to produce to the maximum for their own enjoyment. It is the right to join a union free from the dictation of either government or employer. It is the right to become an employer without government dictation, whether on a farm or in a shop.

"Right to Use Initiative"

It is the right to use the initiative, the character and skill these young Americans have developed in these dreadful years of warfare for the advancement of their country and themselves and for the security of their families. It is the right to enjoy social security without any leader or party claiming a political debt for it.

It is the right of 12,000,000 young Americans to come home to a country where we have preserved and enlarged the area of human freedom while they fought and bled for it. It is the right to come home without finding the heavy hand of government telling them where they shall work, at what and for how much. It is the right to have a government which knows that it is their servant and not their master.

If we who follow the faith of Abraham Lincoln will hold high the principles of that faith, liberal government under God shall not perish from the earth.

Nazis Made a Death Trap of Helpless Yank

Temple, Tex., Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Private William H. Edwards's foot was blown off and he was crying for water, but the three Germans ignored his pleas. They wired explosives to his body, and left him—a human booby trap.

The soldier told his strange story today at McCloskey General Hospital here . . . how his right foot had been blown off by a mine . . . how the Germans fastened the explosives to him . . . how he knew that if he moved he was doomed . . . or if help came when he was unconscious, he and his rescuers would be killed.

And he lay there for hours between American and German lines in the Huertgen Forest, under a constant artillery barrage. German 88 shell fragments hit his left leg as he waited.

Private Edwards, a member of the Fourth Infantry Division, who has a wife and six children in Hayti, Mo., had begun what [illegible] to have been a forty-minute patrol. Near the German he stepped on the mine. He lay quietly until morning, fearing that any sound would betray his comrades.

A Medic Whispered.

He could not bandage his wound, but fortunately it was one of those curious injuries in which the veins and arteries are forced upward so they are, in a manner, sealed.

At 10:30 A. M. he called for a medic. The enemy heard him and began a search, but did not find him.

Soon afterward a pebble hit [illegible] and he heard an American whisper: "Are you a G. I.?"

"Hell, yes, I'm a G. I.," he replied.

"Don't make any noise and we'll get you out," the medic whispered.

They crawled to him and lifted him from the ground, but the Germans had seen the rescuers and sent a rifle bullet crashing into the hand of one of the medics. Unprotected, they dropped back. Later they tried to get to him again but German fire drove them away.

Stole His Cigarettes.

When darkness of the second night fell, three Germans came. He asked for a drink of water. They refused it. They took his field jacket, divided up five packages of cigarettes in the pockets, then set to work booby-trapping him.

I lay on the charge the next day and into the night," he said. "I smoked some cigarettes the Germans failed to find in my shirt pocket. I sure thought I was a goner. I knew I would never leave the forest alive."

About 2 A. M., two men of another company came in to get the wounded. Still conscious, he directed the cutting of the wires to the charge under his back. And they carried him away.

He had lain there for seventy hours.

LEWIS REUNION HITS OBSTACLE

Welcoming Terms Stalemate Mine Boss' Reconciliation

Miami, Fla., Feb. 8 (AP)—The prospects of reunion between John L. Lewis and his one-time associates on the AFL executive council were dulled somewhat today when terms of the welcome became an issue.

Some members of the council expressed hope that Lewis would make a formal offering in writing of the sort of terms which he discussed with William Green, AFL president.

It is understood that the Mine Workers' president assured Green he wanted to come back "as is" and leave the jurisdictional question raised by the UMWA's Catchall District 50 to be finally disposed of by the council.

Limits Council Authority

Lewis, in his previous discussions about returning to the AFL, had not indicated he would concede this much authority to the council.

The council, consisting of fifteen top men in the American Federation of Labor, discussed for three hours the conditions they would have imposed and "the implications" inherent in bringing the 600,000 United Mine Workers, which Lewis heads, back into the AFL.

Lewis left the AFL in 1937, after organizing the CIO. He walked out of the CIO in a bitter fight over President Roosevelt's third term, making an independent union of the UMWA. Lewis favored Republicans Wendell Willkie in 1940 and Thomas E. Dewey in 1944.

Friends of Daniel J. Tobin, boss of the teamsters, say he wants to dictate the terms by which Lewis can get back in the Federation.

Old Foe Friendly

William L. Hutcheson, head of the carpenters and a long-time Republican, is openly leading the fight to get Lewis back in the Federation. This despite a fist fight he and Lewis once engaged in at Atlantic City.

Green said all the questions involved in bringing back Lewis were discussed "in a very interesting way, broadly and fully."

But no conclusion was reached, and the talks will continue tomorrow. The council's midwinter meeting will continue through most of next week.

Tobin hinted at his position with the declaration that he favored Lewis's readmission "on terms agreed to by the council."

"There are certain principles which govern the AFL, and they must be lived up to," the teamsters' president said.

Lewis, in addition to heading the predominant organization of miners, has established a miscellaneous District 50.

Laurel Flees North: Japs

San Francisco, Feb. 8 (AP)—The puppet Philippine Government, headed by President Jose Laurel, has fled from Manila to northern Luzon, the Japanese Domei news agency said today.

"Recent events necessitated removal of the seat of government from Manila to a new locale," the broadcast continued. "Laurel and his followers are more confident than ever before of the ultimate Japanese destruction of the American invasion forces."

Philippine's Puppet In Northern Luzon

The Tokyo Domei agency said yesterday that the puppet Philippine Government, headed by President José Laurel, "continues to function" somewhere in the northern part of Luzon and that Laurel and his followers were "more confident than ever before of the ultimate Japanese destruction of the American invasion forces."

As recorded by The Federal Communications Commission, the Domei English-language dispatch said that Laurel and his government had moved to a "predetermined new site" prior to the American invasion "into a part of Manila."

Domei added that it had learned "authoritatively" that Laurel and all puppet Government officials "continue to do their utmost to extend full cooperation with the Japanese Army, despite the recent turn of events that necessitated removal of the seat of Government from Manila to a new locale."

Japs Seek Army Of Production

San Francisco, Feb. 8 (AP)—Tokyo radio said today that more than 250 influential members of the House of Representatives, concerned over "the critical war situation," have demanded that Premier Kuniaki Koiso convene a special session of the Diet to create "a production army."

The broadcast of a report by Domei news agency was recorded here.

"Key To Victory"

"The House members were motivated by the belief that production is the key to victory and that mobilization of the nation's manpower resources and the total utilization of all industrial resources are essential if the nation's fighting strength is to be augmented," the dispatch said.

The demand was unanimously decided" at a meeting of the Imperial Rule Assistance Political Society which recently has led criticism of the Koiso Government.

The present regular session of the Diet is nearing its close.

B-29's Hit Kobe, Japs Report

FEB 10 1945

San Francisco, Feb. 8 (AP)—Kobe was bombed again today by lone American Superfortresses, the Tokyo radio reported, admitting that one attack caused "slight damage."

The unconfirmed broadcast, recorded here, said that Kobe had been bombed at 3 A.M. and again at 5 A.M. today (Japanese time). "No damage" was caused in the 3 A.M. raid, but "extremely slight damage" was caused by small bombs in the 5 A.M. strike.

Tokyo reported a raid by a single Superfortress on Kochi prefecture on the home island of Shikoku, but claimed "no damage."

San Francisco, Feb. 8 (AP)—Saburo Kurusu, special Japanese envoy who talked peace in Washington before the attack on Pearl Harbor, has retired from the diplomatic service. A Domei News Agency broadcast said Kurusu had accepted an offer to "act in an advisory capacity for the Japanese Foreign Office."

JAPAN'S FATE LIES ON LUZON, FOE SAYS

Tokyo Radio Promises Huge Counter-Blow, Supported by an 'Invincible Navy'

Japan cannot lose the Battle of the Philippines and survive as a nation, the Domei news agency said yesterday in a broadcast reported by The Associated Press.

"The Luzon battle is fought for very high stakes," it said. "If Japan is to survive and play a leading role in world affairs, she must snatch victory in this war."

"Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita can depend on the Navy to protect his flanks and keep him in operational contact with Japanese-held islands to the south, if he plans to retire to the southern part of Luzon Island," Domei continued. The broadcast was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

"It is sheer nonsense for Americans to talk of having won the battle for the Philippines, or for [Gen. Douglas] MacArthur to be talking of Tokyo as his next goal," the Japanese broadcast added.

A continuation of Domei's commentary, also reported by the Federal Communications Commission, said the present situation in the Pacific "is fraught with immense possibilities," adding that a blunder or miscalculation at this stage "might well lead that combatant who blunders to total destruction and defeat.

"On the other hand, wise planning and its clever execution at this critical moment will pave the way to final victory."

And while America can afford to lose the battle of Luzon and still survive as a nation, "it is not so with Japan," Domei admitted, and continued:

"The coming battle for the Philippines, and subsequent ones to be fought, will decide the fate of Japan and other nations of the East. If Japan is to survive and continue to play a leading role in world affairs she must snatch victory in this war."

First Free Election Held In Germany at Aachen

Farmers Name a 'Vertreter' Rather Than a 'Fuehrer'

The first free elections in liberated German territory were held at Aachen four days ago, the American Broadcasting Station in Europe (ABSIE) said yesterday. The farmers of surrounding districts voted by secret ballot for a member of the food commission and elected Joseph Driessen as their representative, or "Vertreter," the broadcast said.

This title was said to have been chosen at a conference held after the election. When an officer of the Allied military government proposed the title of "Fuehrer" for the newly elected representative, the broadcast said, "the farmers thought that this did not sound very well in Germany today" and agreed to call him "Vertreter" instead.

The broadcast was beamed in German to the German armed forces and was recorded by the Office of War Information.

14 More Listed as Freed At Santo Tomas Camp

Include S. W. G. Lehman, of Standard Vacuum Oil Co.

A few additional names of internees came through yesterday from Manila, but the complete list yet remains to be made public through official sources.

In one Associated Press dispatch the following names of Santo Tomas internees who had been freed were listed:

Eddie Tait, identified as a well-known circus man, of San Francisco.

George Kallman, of R. K. O. Pictures.

Howard F. Myers, of Cincinnati, listed as a pre-war executive of Proctor & Gamble.

Edward Atkinson, listed as assistant treasurer of the Westinghouse Electric Company.

W. H. Phillips, of San Francisco, identified as "with Globe Wireless."

Samuel S. Hamilton, of Greensburg, Pa., identified as "with the National City Bank."

Pan-American Airways employees, including R. D. Willard, of Alameda, Calif.; Eugene M. Brush, of Modesto, Calif.; R. E. Straub, of Dubuque, Iowa; Don McCann, of Seattle; Thurman Ericson, of Alameda, Calif., and Joe Johnson, of Los Angeles.

S. W. G. Lehman, of Standard Vacuum Oil Company, New York City.

Frank Corless, of Boston, with the International General Electric Company.

Bombers Get Nazi Judge

New York, Feb. 8 (AP)—Dr. Ronald Freisler, president of the German People's Court, "lost his life in the American mass air attack on Berlin last Saturday," the British radio said today.

The broadcast, which quoted Swedish correspondents, was recorded by the Office of War Information. It said Freisler presided at the secret trial in which four German general were sentenced to death on charges of participating in the purported bomb attack on Hitler last July.

Freisler formerly was state secretary for the Ministry of Justice. In 1935 he laid down a new penal code defining opposition to the Nazi party as treason punishable by death.

Classmate Says Colepaugh Feared German Colleague

New York, Feb. 8 (AP)—William Curtis Colepaugh, 26, an American accused as a Nazi spy, suspected and feared German-born Erich Gimpel soon after they arrived here from Germany, a witness testified today at their military trial.

Colepaugh confided his suspicions to an old classmate, who in turn told the story to a seven-man commission hearing charges that Colepaugh and Gimpel sneaked into this country November 29 from a submarine to commit espionage and sabotage.

The witness was Edmund F. Mulcahy, 28, Jamaica, N.Y., shoe salesman and a former student with Colepaugh at Admiral Farragut Academy in Toms River, N.J.

Visited Colepaugh

Mulcahy said Colepaugh came to his place of employment in December, lunched with him and met him that night by appointment near his home.

A communiqué of the secret trial proceedings at Governors Island said:

"The witness said Colepaugh told him he was in trouble, and said he had just come back from Germany.

"The witness said Colepaugh told him he had come to the United States with another man named Green, but that he, Colepaugh, was suspicious of his partner and was trying to get away from him.

In Fear Of Colleague

"The witness stated that from his observation in conversations with Colepaugh that the accused repeatedly indicated he was in fear of Gimpel or Green."

Mulcahy said Colepaugh identified Green as Gimpel.

Thomas J. Donegan, FBI agent, testified that Colepaugh had signed a statement last December 26, in which he said he had wanted to go to Germany "to join the German Army."

"At the beginning when German went through Austria, they flooded America with propaganda about the German Army, and I got the idea that was something I wanted to get into, because the army was a good army and not because they were going into other countries," the statement, entered in evidence, said.

Admired German Army

"Did you express admiration for the German Government?" he was asked.

"No, for the German Army, mostly," he was quoted as replying.

Another agent had testified yesterday that Colepaugh said he became greatly discouraged when he learned he was to be sent to this country as an agent because he had admired the efficiency of the German Army and wanted to serve in it.

Colepaugh denied in the statement he had ever belonged to a bund or attended a bund meeting.

He also said he had been asked by the secretary to the German consul in Boston to sail on a British ship and report to the consul when he returned. He said, "When I got back the German consulates were closed."

Another agent, Charles M. Nelson, said that Gimpel, when arrested in midtown New York, had in his possession $10,574 in American currency and a packet containing 99 diamonds.

Agent Earl J. Connelley, of Cincinnati, said two revolvers were found in Gimpel's bags.

Mulcahy said Colepaugh told him that he took two bags containing money and some of his partner's identification papers, and he described Colepaugh as pleased that he had done so.

The communiqué did not develop this incident, but an FBI agent testified yesterday that Colepaugh related he checked in Grand Central Station two suitcases, in one of which was most of the $50,000 given them in Germany.

A checker testified that a man known as Edward Green said he had lost his checks but received the bags when he identified them. He could not identify the man in court.

Colonel Who Led Relief Of Bastogne Is Killed

New York, Feb. 8 (AP)—Col. Lansing McVickar, 50, commander of the 3d Army's 318th Regiment, the first unit to break through the German encirclement of Bastogne and relieve the 101st Airborne Division, was killed January 14 in Luxembourg, the War Department has notified his wife, Mrs. Erna-Marie McVickar, of Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island.

Colonel McVickar's regiment was part of the 80th ("Blue Ridge") Division, which repeatedly spearheaded Lieut Gen. George S. Patton's dash across northern France last summer and early autumn. The division was noted for its role during the battle of Falaise Gap, when the German 7th Army was trapped and decimated following the Allied breakthrough at St. Lo.

$100,000,000 Credit Is Granted Holland

New York, Feb. 8 (AP)—A loan agreement between a group of New York banks and the Royal Netherlands Government was signed today providing the Netherlands a credit line approximating $100,000,000.

The credit is for approximately three years and carries an interest rate of 1½ per cent annually on all sums advanced. The loan was secured by equivalent gold assets of the Dutch Government in the United States.

The loan is the first private arrangement of its kind extended to a liberated country to facilitate rehabilitation and postwar reconstruction. It is regarded as an interim affair, subject to prepaying in whole or part without premium or penalty on 30 days' notice.

It was understood the Netherlands fiscal officials contemplate a refunding operation as soon as practicable after the war in order to place the credit on a more permanent basis. When it was negotiated several months ago, it was stated the transaction had the full approval of the State Department.

The Chase National Bank of New York will act as manager of the banking group, which consists of thirteen other institutions.

Dr. Alexander Loudon, Netherlands Ambassador, signed for his Government.

LE GALLIENNE SAFE

The first news of Richard Le Gallienne and his wife received here since early 1943 came today in a letter from J. H. Heckman, executive director of the American Red Cross, to Charles Hanson Towne, poet, critic, journalist, and a friend of Mr. Le Gallienne. The letter said that a report had just been received by the British Red Cross representative in Paris stating that Mr. and Mrs. Le Gallienne were in excellent health and were comfortably situated at 3 Avenue des Citronniers, Monte Carlo.

Mr. Le Gallienne is well known to readers of The New York Sun as the author of "From a Paris Garret," which appeared regularlyly in The Sun until early 1945, when he was last heard from by friends here. Friends had been anxious about what might have befallen Mr. and Mrs. Le Gallienne in the troubled situation under the Vichy Government and during the Allied invasion of the continent.

CZECH DELEGATE REACHES KOSICE

Frantisek Nemec, Czecho-Slovakian Government delegate to liberated Czecho-Slovak territory, has arrived in Kosice, recently liberated by the Red Army, and set up an office for the sub-Carpathian-Ruthenia in Uzhorod and appointed as its head Ivan Petruszak, Ruthenian member of the Czecho-Slovakian State Council in London, who left London two months ago, Radio Ankara, heard by NBC, said today.

Election of members for the local national committees are being carried out everywhere as soon as the Germans are driven out and recruiting a Czecho-Slovakian army is proceeding satisfactorily, the broadcast added.

LONDON, FEB.8-(AP)-GERMANY'S WIRELESS NEWS SERVICE STILL WAS CHAOTIC TODAY ON THE FIFTH DAY AFTER THE MASSIVE AIR STRIKE AT THE HEART OF BERLIN BY AMERICAN HEAVY BOMBERS.

TRANSMISSION WAS DELAYED IN STARTING FROM ONE TO THREE HOURS AND 45 MINUTES IN THE HOME SERVICE, DNB'S EUROPEAN SERVICE AND TRANSOCEAN SERVICE. THE THREE SERVICES USUALLY START TRANSMISSIONS AT 6:00 A.M. OR 6:30 A.M. BERLIN TIME.

LONDON, FEB. 8-(AP)-A GERMAN TRANSOCEAN NEWS AGENCY BROADCAST AT 11:15 P.M. TONIGHT SAID THAT "WITHIN THE LAST TWO HOURS EISENHOWER HAS EXTENDED HIS PRELIMINARY OFFENSIVE FURTHER TO THE SOUTH."

TRANSOCEAN CORRESPONDENT GUENTHER WEBER SAID IT NOW REACHED "FROM ROERMOND TO THE AREA OF TRIER. THE OFFENSIVE IS THE PRELUDE TO IMPENDING BATTLES."

TRIER, MOSELLE VALLEY FORTRESS ON THE ROUTE TO THE RHINE, IS SOME 20 MILES SOUTHEAST OF WHERE THE THIRD ARMY NOW IS ATTACKING IN THE DIEKIRCH AREA ACROSS THE LUXEMBOURG BORDER INSIDE GERMANY.

FEB 9 1945

LONDON, FEB.8-(AP)-PROPOSALS FOR STRENGTHENING THE POSITION OF SMALLER NATIONS IN A PROJECTED WORLD SECURITY LEAGUE WERE BELIEVED TONIGHT TO BE UNDER DISCUSSION BY THE BIG THREE AFTER THE DUTCH GOVERNMENT CHALLENGED THE RIGHT OF BIG NATIONS TO JUDGE ALL CHARGES AGAINST THEMSELVES.

VOICING OBJECTIONS TO A SOVIET PROPOSAL TO ENFORCE A UNANIMITY

A GERMAN GARRISON ESTIMATED AT 12,000, COMMANDED BY A SQUAT, HARD-JAWED PRUSSIAN, VICE ADM.FRISIUS, HAS HELD DUNKERQUE AGAINST BRITISH, FRENCH AND CZECHOSLOVAK TROOPS SINCE IT WAS BY-PASSED IN SEPTEM

ONLY ABOUT 500 CIVILIANS ARE BELIEVED LEFT IN THE RUBBLED CITY.

MT136PEW

RULE AMONG FIVE PERMANENT MEMBERS OF A SECURITY COUNCIL, THE DUTCH WERE REGARDED AS EXPRESSING VIEWS SIMILAR TO THOSE HELD BY OTHER SMALL NATIONS.

WHETHER THE DUTCH STAND WOULD HAVE ANY WEIGHT WITH THE BIG THREE WAS A QUESTION THAT COULD BE ANSWERED ONLY AFTER CONCLUSION OF THE CURRENT TALKS AMONG PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL AND PREMIER STALIN, WHEN THEY ARE EXPECTED TO DISCLOSE PLANS TO SECURE WORLD PEACE.

A RELIABLE SOURCE DISCLOSED THAT THE DUTCH GOVERNMENT HAD

30.24 - 22819

DISPATCHED A 6,000-WORD DOCUMENT TO THE BIG THREE BEFORE THEIR BLACK SEA AREA MEETING, HINTING THAT THE NETHERLANDS MIGHT HESITATE TO JOIN A WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION IF THE RUSSIAN PLAN WAS ADOPTED.

ALTHOUGH THE DUTCH CABINET RESIGNED TODAY SHORTLY AFTER ITS STATEMENT BECAME KNOWN, THE TWO DEVELOPMENTS WERE NOT LINKED, AND THE DUTCH POSITION ON THE SECURITY ISSUE APPARENTLY REMAINED UNCHANGED.

IT BROUGHT INTO THE SPOTLIGHT AN UNSOLVED QUESTION OF THE DUMBARTON OAKS CONFERENCE: UNANIMITY OR A MAJORITY VOTE ON DEALING WITH AN AGGRESSOR. MOST QUARTERS HERE BELIEVED THAT THE BIG THREE WOULD AGREE TO A MAJORITY VOTE ON MOST PROBLEMS CONCERNING WORLD SECURITY, BUT WOULD APPROVE THE UNANIMITY PRINCIPALE ON TAKING MILITARY ACTION AGAINST ANY AGGRESSOR POWER.

A86

THE DUTCH ARGUED THAT UNDER A UNANIMITY RULE, THE GREAT POWERS WOULD IN EFFECT BE GIVEN A VETO RIGHT IN CASES TO WHICH THEY WERE A PARTY, AND THAT "THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN ONLY WOULD BE USEFUL FOR PROMOTING ORDERLY SETTLEMENT OF INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES BETWEEN SMALLER NATIONS," WHILE "IN CASES OF DISPUTES BETWEEN GREAT POWERS OR BETWEEN A GREAT POWER AND A SMALLER STATE, THE PLAN WOULD AFFMRD NO PROTECTION."

THE STATEMENT ASKED, "WOULD THIS PRODUCE FREEDOM FROM FEAR?"

ON THE OTHER HAND, THE DUTCH NOTED THAT IF A MAJORITY VOTE PREVAILED ON AN 11-NATION TRIBUNAL THE BALLOT OF A SINGLE SMALL NATION WOULD GIVE THE FIVE GREAT POWERS A MAJORITY FOR A DECISION.

AS A SAFEGUARD, THE DUTCH PROPOSED AN AFFIRMATIVE VOTE OF AT LEAST THREE OF THE SIX NON-PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL BE REQUIRED, AND THAT EVERY NATION OUGHT TO BE FREE TO FECIDE WHETHER IT WOULD TAKE PART IN APPLYING ARMED FORCE.

MEANWHILE THE BIG THREE MADE IT CLEAR THAT THEY WERE DISCUSSING POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC PROBLEMS OF LIBERATED EUROPE IN CONNECTION WITH PLANS TO SECURE PEACE.

FEB 9 1945

BRITISH DIPLOMATIC QUARTERS WELCOMED THIS, POINTING OUT THAT ALL REPORTS REACHING LONDON EMPHASIZED THE URGENCY OF SETTLING SUCH POLITICAL PROBLEMS AS THE POLISH, GREEK AND YUGOSLAV DIFFERENCES AND THE FEEDING OF THE CONTINENT.

ON ECONOMIC ISSUES, THE BIG THREE WERE BELIEVED TO BE CONSIDERING THE NEED FOR LARGER SHIPPING ALLOCATIONS TO CARRY CIVILIAN SUPPLIES TO EUROPE.

IN RECENT WEEKS BELGIAN, DUTCH, FRENCH, GREEK AND YUGOSLAV REPRESENTATIVES HERE HAVE APPEALED TO THE ALLIES TO SEND FOOD IMMEDIATELY LEST THEIR PEOPLE FACE STARVAION.

IMMEDIATELY LEST THEIR PEOPLE FACE STARVAION.

IMMEDIATELY LEST THEIR PEOPLE FACE STAVATIONXX STARVATION.

IN VIEW OF THESE APPEALS, IT SEEMED LIKELY THAT THE BIG THREE MIGHT MAKE A NEW SURVEY OF SHIPPING TO AVERT ECONOMIC COLLAPSE IN EUROPE.

30.24 - 22821

REPORTS OF GROWING CHAOS INSIDE GERMANY ALSO ADDED TO THE IMMEDIACY OF THE BIG THREE DISCUSSIONS FOR DEALING WITH GERMANY AND WITH THE EUROPEAN AREAS YET TO BE CLEARED OF THE ENEMY.

LONDON PAPERS HAILED THE BIG THREE MEETING AS SEALING GERMANY'S MILITARY DOOM, BUT MOST EDITORIALS DWELT ON THE POLITICAL AND ECONOMIC QUESTIONS STILL TO BE ANSWERED.

A GERMAN FOREIGN OFFICE SPOKESMAN SAID POLITICAL PROBLEMS WERE FIRST ON THE BIG THREE AGENDA BECAUSE "TO BRING ABOUT A MILITARY AGREEMENT CHURCHILL AND ROOSEVELT WOULDN'T HAVE TO MAKE A JOURNEY HALFWAY AROUND THE WORLD."

FEB 9 1945

MOST OBSERVERS BELIEVED THAT ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL MIGHT SEEK SOME SETTLEMENT BETWEEN RUSSIA AND POLAND. CHURCHILL WAS BELIEVED TO HAVE GONE TO THE CONFERENCE WITH A PROPOSAL FOR SETTING UP AN ENTIRELY NEW POLISH GOVERNMENT, POSSIBLY UNDER FORMER PREMIER STANISLAW MIKOLAJCZYK, BUT IT WAS AGREED GENERALLY THAT STALIN WAS UNLIKELY TO ACCEPT THIS BECAUSE RUSSIA ALREADY HAS RECOGNIZED THE SOVIET-SPONSORED POLISH REGIME NOW IN WARSAW.

ALTHOUGH THERE WERE SOME REPORTS THAT THE BIG THREE ALSO MIGHT SEEK TO SETTLE YUGOSLAV DIFFERENCES, MOST QUARTERS EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT THEY WOULD GIVE LITTLE TIME TO THAT ISSUE BECAUSE THEY ALREADY HAVE AGREED ON THE REGENCY PROGRAM OF MARSHAL TITO AND PREMIER IVAN SUBASIC.

LONDON, FEB. 8-(AP)-THE NETHERLANDS GOVERNMENT HAS CHALLENGED THE RIGHT OF THE MAJOR POWERS TO JUDGE ALL CHARGES AGAINST SMALLER NATIONS AND HAS PROPOSED STRONGER POSITIONS IN THE PROPOSED WORLD SECURITY COUNCIL FOR THE SMALLER COUNTRIES, A RELIABLE SOURCE SAID TODAY.

NETHERLANDS MIGHT HESITATE TO JOIN A WORLD SECURITY ORGANIZATION AS PLANNED AT DUMBARTON OAKS IF SOVIET RUSSIA'S PROPOSAL TO ENFORCE UNANIMITY OF RULE AMONG THE FIVE PERMANENT MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL WAS ADOPTED, THE SOURCE SAID.

"IT IS DIFFICULT TO SEE WHAT ADVANTAGE THE PLAN WOULD HAVE FOR THE NETHERLANDS," THE MEMORANDUM WAS QUOTED, "IF THE RIGHT OF VETO WAS GRANTED TO THE GREAT POWERS IN THEIR OWN CAUSE."

FEB 9 1945

THE DUTCH WERE SAID TO HAVE ARGUED THAT IF THE GREAT POWERS--THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN, RUSSIA, CHINA AND FRANCE--OBTAINED THE VETO POWER IN CASES TO WHICH THEY WERE PARTY, "THE DUMBARTON OAKS PLAN WOULD BE USEFUL ONLY FOR PROMOTING ORDERLY SETTLEMENT OF INTERNATIONAL DISPUTES BETWEEN SMALLER NATIONS."

"IN CASES OF DISPUTES BETWEEN GREAT POWERS OR BETWEEN A GREAT POWER AND A SMALLER STATE, THE PLAN WOULD AFFORD NO PROTECTION," THE MEMORANDUM WAS QUOTED. "WOULD THIS PRODUCE FREEDOM FROM FEAR?" IT ASKED.

THE DOCUMENT IS SAID TO DECLARE THAT EACH NATION, UNLESS COMMITTED TO CERTAIN ACTION BY SPECIAL REGIONAL ARRANGEMENTS, SHOULD BE FREE TO DECIDE WHETHER IT WOULD TAKE PART IN APPLYING ARMED FORCE AND SHOULD REFUSE TO LET THE SECURITY COUNCIL PLUNGE IT INTO ANY WAR IN WHICH IT DID NOT BELIEVE.

BULLETIN

BY EDWARD D.BALL

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY, FEB.8-(AP)-LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES' INFANTRY AND ARMOR OCCUPIED SCHMIDT TODAY AFTER STORMING THROUGH ONE OF THE STRONGEST LINKS IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE AGAINST THIS BASTION NORTH OF THE ROER RIVER DAM NETWORK.

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY--FIRST ADD SCHMIDT (BY BALL)
X X X DAM NETWORK.

THE 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION AND SUPPORTING TANKS MOVED INTO THE STRATEGIC CENTER AT THE EDGE OF THE HUERTGEN FOREST DURING THE NIGHT.

THEY HAD CLEANED OUT ALL BUT MINOR RESISTANCE BY DAYBREAK. ON THE ROAD TO SCHMIDT THE 78TH ALSO COMPLETED THE OCCUPATION OF KOMMERSCHEIDT, A HALF MILE NORTH OF SCHMIDT. FEB 9 1945

TROOPS SEEKING TO CROSS THE KALL RIVER A MILE AND A HALF NORTH OF SCHMIDT STILL WERE BALKED BY ONE OF THE THICKEST ENEMY MINEFIELDS EVER ENCOUNTERED ON THE WESTERN FRONT.

THE OCCUPATION OF SCHMIDT WAS THE SECOND TIME THE AMERICANS HAVE FOUGHT THEIR WAY INTO THE TOWN. IT WAS SEIZED DURING THE BLOODY HUERTGEN FORST FIGHTING LAST NOVEMBER, BUT WAS LOST TO A STRONG ENEMY COUNTERATTACK.

JP758AEW

WITH THE U.S.FIRST ARMY--SECOND ADD SCHMIDT (BY BALL) X X ENEMY COUNTERATTACK.

THE ROER RIVER DAM NETWORK OVER WHICH THE FIRST ARMY HAS WON PARTIAL DOMINATION PROVIDED ONE OF THE MAIN STRATEGIC FACTORS BEHIND FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT'S PRE-CHRISTMAS ARDENNES BREAKTHROUGH.

THE DAMS--THERE ARE TWO MASSIVE ONES AND NINE SMALLER--WERE BUILT FOR FLOOD CONTROL AND POWER PRODUCTION. THEY LIE IN A SERIES AT THE ROER'S HEADWATERS, NINE MILES NORTHEAST OF MONSCHAU. IN GERMAN HANDS THEIR POSSIBLE DESTRUCTION CARRIED THE THREAT OF FLOODING A WIDE AREA ALONG THE ALLIED ROER FRONT FOR SOME 40 MILES NORTHWARD TO ROERMOND, IN THE BRITISH SECTOR.

AFTER THE ALLIES DROVE TO THE ROER IN NOVEMBER THE DAMS DICTATED THE MOVEMENT OF FIVE ARMIES--THE U.S.FIRST AND NINTH AND BRITISH SECOND AND THE GERMAN SIXTH PANZER AND THE GERMAN 15TH.

LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES. COMMANDER OF THE FIRST. MADE ONE EFFORT TO CAPTURE THE DAMS IN NOVEMBER. HIS DRIVE FROM THE NORTH WAS HALTED IN THE SCHMIDT AREA. HE SHIFTED HIS ATTACK TO THE WEST OF THE DAMS AND WAS EIGHT MILES AWAY WHEN VON RUNDSTEDT STRUCK DEC.16.

AT ONE TIME THE ALLIES THEMSELVES TRIED TO DESTROY THE DAMS AND GET IT OVER WITH. BUT BRITISH LANCASTER BOMBS SUCCEEDED ONLY IN DIGGING CRATERS IN THE MASSIVE STRUCTURES.

VON RUNDSTEDT, WHO WAS WELL ACQUAINTED WITH THE ALLIED PREDICAMENT WAS ABLE TO MOVE HIS SIXTH PANZER ARMY UP FROM THE SOUTH FOR THE ARDENNES THRUST, LEAVING ONLY A TOKEN FORCE ON GUARD. HE ALSO DIVERTED HODGES FROM THE DAMS, FORCING HIM TO THROW HIS FIRST ARMY INTO THE TASK OF STEMMING THE BREAKTHROUGH.

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THE DAMS ARE THE URFTTALSPERRE, STRADDLING THE URFT RIVER NEAR ITS CONFLUENCE WITH THE ROER, AND THE SCHWAMMENAUEL, AT THE NORTHERN END OF THE ROER'S SERPENTINE BEND.

THE FORMER, SMALLER OF THE TWO, WAS THE FIRST TO COME UNDER ALLIED CONTROL. IT IS A CONCRETE STRUCTURE OF THE GRAVITY ARCH TYPE, 177 FEET HIGH, 740 FEET LONG, 17 FEET WIDE AT THE TOP AND 166 FEET WIDE AT THE BASE. IT HAS A DRAINAGE AREA OF 145 SQUARE MILES. ITS MAIN FUNCTION IS TO FEED THE HEIMBACH POWER STATION.

FEB 9 1945

A108

THE OTHER, LARGEST AND NORTHERNMOST OF THE DAMS, IS EARTHEN, EXCEPT FOR A SMALL CONCRETE CORE, 30 FEET HIGH IN THE CENTER. THE ENTIRE STRUCTURE IS 1,080 FEET LONG, 180 FEET HIGH, 985 FEET WIDE AT THE BASE AND 34 FEET WIDE AT THE TOP. IT HAS A DRAINAGE AREA OF 258 MILES.

IT WOULD BE A DIFFICULT TASK TO DESTROY THE DAMS, EVEN WITH HAND-PLACED CHARGES. SOME AUTHORITIES ESTIMATE IT WOULD TAKE TEN DAYS TO LEVEL A SINGLE DAM.

BY EDWARD D.BALL

SCHMIDT, GERMANY, FEB.8-(AP)-THE 78TH DIVISION WON THIS KEY SIEGFRIED BASTION DOMINATING THE NORTHERN APPROACH TO THE MASSIVE ROER RIVER DAM NETWORK IN A SLUGGING MATCH TODAY WHICH FORCED THE GERMANS EASTWARD TOWARD THE ROLLING COLOGNE PLAIN.

WITH THE NINTH DIVISION IN THE VICINITY OF GEMUEND ON THE SOUTH, THE CAPTURE OF SCHMIDT FORGED A SEMI-CIRCLE OF STEEL ABOUT THE DAMS WHOSE CONTROL OF THE ROER'S HEADWATERS HAS BALKED AN ALLIED DRIVE ON THE RUHR INDUSTRIAL REGION SINCE EARLY NOVEMBER. FEB 9 1945

ALTHOUGH THE GERMANS NO DOUBT HAVE PLACED DEMOLITION CHARGES IN THE DAMS WHICH MAY SEND A FLOOD TIDE CASCADING THROUGH THE ROER VALLEY, THE AMERICANS IN NEW-WON POSITIONS ARE NOT OVERLY CONCERNED BECAUSE THEY CAN CHOOSE THEIR DIRECTION OF ATTACK.

IT IS PROBLEMATICAL WHETHER THE GERMANS WILL ATTEMPT TO DESTROY THE DAMS, BECAUSE THE SITUATION IS NOW CHANGED FROM THAT EXISTING BEFORE FIELD MARSHAL KARL VON RUNDSTEDT'S ARDENNES BREAKTHROUGH.

AT THAT TIME, TWO ALLIED ARMIES AND A PART OF A THIRD WERE STANDING ON THE WEST SIDE OF THE ROER, WITH TWO GERMAN ARMIES OPPOSING THEM ON THE EAST.

THE OCCUPATION OF SCHMIDT ITSELF NETTED THE DOUGHBOYS VIRTUALLY NOTHING, FOR THERE IS HARDLY A RESPECTABLE BRICKBAT LEFT IN THIS PLACE, BUT THE SEIZURE OF HIGH GROUND IT OCCUPIED WAS ONE OF THE BIGGEST PRIZES WITHIN THE SIEGFRIED FORTIFICATIONS.

FROM A CAPTURED SIEGFRIED PILLBOX NEAR HERE, THE COLOGNE PLAINS COULD BE SEEN TODAY, ROLLING UP TO THE HILLS BEHIND THE RHINE 27 MILES AWAY.

"DURING A CLEAR SPELL THIS MORNING I WAS ABLE TO SEE THE CITY OF BONN," SAID MAJOR JAMES W.SEARS, DURHAM, N.C. FEB 9 1945

"WONDER WHAT THAT HARVARD OF GERMANY AND THE HOME TOWN OF BEETHOVEN WILL LOOK LIKE WHEN THE YANKS GET THERE?"

THE GERMANS ARE DOING EVERYTHING THEY CAN TO DELAY THE YANKS ELBOWING THEM EASTWARD. THEY ARE FIGHTING FIERCELY AS THEY FALL BACK SLOWLY AND ARE LOBBING A STEADY DRUM OF MORTAR SHELLS INTO THIS SHATTERED TOWN.

THE MUD-OOZING ROAD INTO TOWN FROM THE SOUTHWEST WAS CARPETED WITH MINES. DURING THE AFTERNOON VEHICLES STILL WERE BLOWING UP ALONG THE ROAD.

A JEEP CREEPING ALONG BEHIND A TANK BLEW UP ON A MINE. THE HIDDEN CHARGES WERE ENCASED IN WOODEN CONTAINERS, WHICH THE ENGINEERS' DIVINING RODS FAILED TO DETECT.

COL.C.M.WILLINGHAM, DALLAS, TEX., SENT HIS 311TH REGIMENT INTO SCHMIDT LATE YESTERDAY AND THIS AFTERNOON RIFLES STILL WERE CRACKING AS ISOLATED GERMANS FOUGHT AND DIED, RATHER THAN SURRENDER.

"LAST NIGHT IT WAS LIKE THE FOURTH OF JULY," SAID CAPT.JOHN GAPEN, GREENSBORO, PA. "TRACERS WERE ALL OVER THE PLACE AND THEY WHIZZED PAST MY HEAD MUCH TOO CLOSE--MUCH TOO CLOSE." FEB 9 1945

"THE GERMANS WERE SHOOTING A LITTLE WILD," ADDED MAJ.JOHN R. GUTHRIE, CASPER, WYO. "I WAS ON THE OUTSKIRTS OF TOWN DURING THE NIGHT AND THEY SEEMED TO BE SHOOTING IN ALL DIRECTIONS AT NOTHING IN PARTICULAR."

BATTALION COMMANDERS WHO WERE KNOWN TO HAVE PARTICIPATED IN THE TURE OF SCHMIDT INCLUDED MAJ.LYLE J.KENNEDY, NORTH DAKOTAN

SCHMIDT, A SHELL-TORN VILLAGE IN A CLEARING OF BLOODY HUERTGEN FOREST, FELL TO THE FIRST ARMY'S 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION, WHICH SLASHED ALMOST TO THE BANK OF A BIG RESERVOIR FORMED BY THE 1,080-FOOT LONG SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM.

FEB 9 1945

THIS DAM, 180 FEET HIGH AND 985 WIDE AT THE BASE, CATCHES THE WATERS OF A DRAINAGE AREA OF 258 SQUARE MILES, AND IN FOUR HOURS IT COULD LOOSE AN 18-FOOT TIDE OF WATER DOWN THE ROER RIVER ALONG THE U.S. NINTH AND BRITISH SECOND ARMY FRONTS NORTH AND EAST OF AACHEN.

IT IS A MILITARY PRIZE THAT THE FIRST ARMY TRIED UNSUCCESSFULLY TO TAKE LAST FALL AND IN THE FIRST WINTER OFFENSIVE, SINCE WITH IT INTACT ANY ALLIED DRIVE ACROSS THE ROER ON TO THE COLOGNE PLAIN COULD BE CUT OFF AND ANNIHILATED BY ~~THE GERMANS BY THE~~ FLOODING OF THE VALLEY.

FRONT DISPATCHES CALLED THE CAPTURE OF SCHMIDT A BREAK IN THE WEST WALL DEFENSES THERE, AND SAID THE 78TH SWUNG ON MORE THAN HALF A MILE EAST OF THE TOWN AS MOP-UP SQUADS FLUSHED THE LAST FEW ENEMY SNIPERS FROM THE TOWN'S CELLARS.

PARIS--FIRST ADD FIRST NIGHT LEAD WESTERN FRONT X X X CELLARS.

SCHMIDT WAS CAPTURED LAST NOVEMBER, WHEN LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES ATTEMPTED TO SEIZE THE ROER DAMS, BUT WAS LOST TO A COUNTERATTACK. THE ALLIES TRIED TO DESTROY THE MASSIVE SCHWAMMENAUEL BY BOMBING TO ERASE THE FLOODING THREAT, BUT COULD ONLY DIG CRATERS IN ITS EARTH-WORKS.

TEN MILES SOUTH OF SCHMIDT, THE FIRST ARMY ALREADY HAD CUT THROUGH THE WALL AT HELLENTHAL, AND THE VITAL ROAD CENTERS OF GEMUEND AND SCHLEIDEN BETWEEN THE TWO FORCES WERE CLAMPED IN A NUT-CRACKER.

THE THIRD BREAK HAD BEEN FORCED IN THE LINE EARLIER BY LT.GEN. GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY NORTHWEST OF PRUEM, AND GAINS TODAY WIDENED THE BREACH TO SEVEN MILES AND CARRIED FORCES THROUGH THE VILLAGE OF OBERMEHLEN, ONLY A MILE AND A QUARTER FROM THE CITY.

EXPECTING THAT THE FORTIFIED SYSTEM OF BUNKERS, PILLBOXES AND CONCRETE TANK TRAPS WOULD GIVE WAY BEFORE ALLIED PRESSURE--JUST AS THEY DID NORTH AND EAST OF AACHEN--THE GERMANS HAVE RUSHED EARTH-WORK DEFENSES WHICH STRETCH ALL THE WAY TO THE RHINE AT SOME POINTS.

AMERICAN FORCES WHICH ALREADY HAVE TACKLED THESE EARTHWORKS HAVE FOUND THEM JUST AS RUGGED AS THE CONCRETE FORTIFICATIONS.

FRONT REPORTS SAID PATTON WAS POURING MORE TROOPS ACROSS THE

30.24 - 22827

LUXEMBOURG BORDER INTO GERMANY AT THE TEN NEW POINTS OF CROSSING FROM 16 TO NEARLY 30 MILES SOUTHWEST OF PRUEM.

HIS CAMPAIGN VETERANS WERE HEADING INTO ROUGH TERRAIN, PLOWING THROUGH DEEP MUD, AND RUNNING INTO HEAVY FIRE FROM THE THINLY-MANNED WESTWALL FORTIFICATIONS.

A FRONT DISPATCH SAID THE GERMANS DID NOT APPEAR TO HAVE MANY TROOPS IN THE LINE OPPOSING PATTON, BUT THEY HAD PLENTY OF AMMUNITION.

THE STEEP, WOODED HILLS AND THE MUD MADE ANY SWIFT, SLASHING ADVANCE IMPOSSIBLE, ROADS ARE FEW, AND FROM THREE TO 12 MILES AHEAD OF THEM WAS THE PRUEM RIVER, LARGER THAN THE OUR AND SURE RIVERS, WHICH THEY ALREADY HAD CROSSED. FEB 9 1945

ON THE EXTREME SOUTH FLANK OF THE 40-MILE FRONT ALONG WHICH PATTON NOW IS ATTACKING INSIDE GERMANY, THE COUNTRY IS A LITTLE MORE OPEN, BUT ITS ROLLING FIELDS ARE QUAGMIRES AND ARE POOR MANEUVERING GROUND FOR ARMOR.

ALL ALONG PATTON'S FRONT THE GERMANS WERE THROWING IN SMALL COUNTERATTACKS.

THE GERMANS' WEST BANK POSITIONS ON THE RHINE IN SOUTHERN ALSACE WERE SQUEEZED IN A BOX ONLY EIGHT MILES LONG AND LESS THAN FIVE MILES WIDE.

FRENCH FIRST ARMY FORCES PRESSED TWO MILES SOUTH INTO THE OUTSKIRTS OF BLODELSHEIM, NINE MILES SOUTH OF NEUFBRISACH, WHERE THE GERMANS ONCE HELD A MAIN RHINE CROSSING DUE EAST OF COLMAR.

THE RHINE BANK ITSELF WAS CLEARED FOR A DISTANCE OF SIX MILES SOUTH OF NEUBRISACH.

ALLIED FORCES TRYING TO CAVE IN THE SIDE OF THE BOX FROM THE WEST FORCED ACROSS THE RHINE-RHONE CANAL SOUTHWEST OF BLODELSHEIM, BUT AT OTHER POINTS ATTEMPTS TO CROSS RAN INTO SAVAGE RESISTANCE.

TO THE WEST MOP-UP SQUADS RANGED THROUGH THE VOSGES MOUNTAINS, ROUNDING UP ADDITIONAL PRISONERS WHICH SHOULD SWELL THE TOTAL PRISONER BAG FROM THE VOSGES TRAP TO POSSIBLY 4,000.

(THE BERLIN RADIO SAID THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY HAD OPENED AN ATTACK ON THE SAAR BASIN FRONT IN NORTHERN ALSACE, BUT THERE WAS NO ALLIED CONFIRMATION.)

ON THE EASTERN HOLLAND FRONT, THE BRITISH SECOND TACTICAL AIR FORCE FOLLOWED UP MASSIVE NIGHT AERIAL BLOWS AT GERMAN TROOPS AND EQUIPMENT IN THE AREA OF KLEVE, NORTHERN ANCHOR OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE.

THE PLANES STRUCK ABOUT 400 STRONG IN WEATHER SO BAD THAT PILOTS WERE FORCED TO USE INSTRUMENTS. FEB 9 1945

WITH THE U.S. 26TH INFANTRY DIVISION, FEB. 8-(AP)-MEN OF THE 390TH ANTI-AIRCRAFT BATTALION ATTACHED TO THE YANKEE DIVISION HAD BEEN FIRING AT GROUND TARGETS EXCLUSIVELY FOR A LONG PERIOD WHEN A PACK OF 20 GERMAN PLANES SWUNG OVER THEM RECENTLY, BUT THE GROUND FIRING HADN'T RUINED THEIR SKY EYES--THEY WERE CREDITED WITH 13 DESTROYED PLANES.

FERDINAND DOMINGUE, OF LEWISTON, ME., REGULARLY WAS ASSIGNED TO DRIVING, BUT HE WAS IN THE TURRET OF A QUADRUPLE 50-CALIBER MOUNT WHEN THE FIRST PLANE SWOOPED LOW AND HE PLAYED HIS "CHICAGO PIANO" INTO IT UNTIL IT BURST INTO FLAMES AND FELL.

THE BURST OF FIRE BROUGHT THE REGULAR GUNNER, RAY M.MORRIS, OF KALISPELL, MONT., ON THE RUN AND HE TOOK OVER IN TIME TO CATCH AN ME-109 IN THE SIGHTS AND SENT IT CAREENING TO THE GROUND.

ABOUT THIS TIME A BUNCH OF P-47S JOINED IN THE MELEE FROM ABOVE AND A HIGH-LOW BLOCK WAS THROWN INTO THE NAZIS AS THE PLANES ATTACKED TO FORCE THE GERMANS DOWN, THEN PEELED AWAY TO GIVE THE A-A GUNS THEIR SHOTS.

AS THE DOGFIGHT CONTINUED BACK AND FORTH ACROSS THE BATTERY AREA PVT.MORRIS GOLDSTEIN, A COMPANY CLERK FROM CHICAGO WHO HADN'T FIRED A MACHINEGUN BEFORE, JUMPED TO AN UNMANNED WEAPON AND IN A FEW MINUTES TWO PLANES, INCLUDING ONE FOCKE-WULF WHICH WAS STRAFING THE BATTERY, WERE CREDITED TO HIM.

TWO OTHER GERMANS DIVED DOWN SO SHARPLY THAT THEY SWEPT INTO THE ALLEY BELOW THE LEVEL OF SOME OF THE 390TH'S GUNS, AND PVT.RALPH W. FURY, GARDEN GROVE, CALIF., HAD TO FIRE DOWN FROM A HILLTOP POSITION--BETWEEN TWO DYNAMITE-LOADED TRAILERS PARKED NEAR THE BATTERY.

"THE TRICK WAS TO MISS THE DYNAMITE AND HIT THE PLANES," FURY SAID, AND HIS MATE REPORTED HE DID IT SO WELL THAT HE SENT ONE CRASHING INTO A HILLSIDE.

THE CREW COMMANDED BY LT.JUNUS MILLER, BLACKWELL, OKLA., WAS CREDITED WITH FIVE OF EIGHT FOCKE-WULFS THEY FIRED ON, AND THE BEST MILLER COULD SAY OF THE ACTION WAS "IT WAS MURDER, BROTHER, MURDER."

WHEN THE SWIRL OF ACTION HAD SUBSIDED NOT ONLY WERE 13 PLANES COUNTED DEFINITELY AS DOWNED, BUT THREE OF THE REMAINING SEVEN WERE REPORTED LIMPING AWAY, TRAILING SMOKE.

"HOW OUR BOYS SHIFTED SO SWIFTLY FROM THE GROUND FIRE TO THE AIR FIRE I'LL NEVER KNOW," SAID SGT.STEPHEN S.COOK, SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF. "THAT SIGHT WAS WORTH ALL OUR TRAINING AND WAITING."

WITH U.S. FORCES IN GERMANY, FEB. 8-(AP)-THREE AMERICAN DIVISIONS RAMMED CLEAR THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED LINE 15 MILES SOUTHEAST OF AACHEN TODAY, CAPTURING SCHMIDT AND NEARING THE ROER RIVER DAM SYSTEM WHICH HAS BEEN A MAJOR FACTOR IN HOLDING UP THE WESTERN OFFENSIVE SINCE NOVEMBER.

DRIVING THROUGH SCHMIDT, THE 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION WAS NOT FAR FROM SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM, WHICH IS CAPABLE OF SENDING 170,000,000 TONS OF WATER RUSHING DOWN THE ROER RIVER IN AN 18-FOOT TIDE THAT WOULD HAVE CUT OFF ALLIED FORCES CROSSING THE ROER.

WHILE THE 78TH WAS GOUGING OUT 30 SQUARE MILES OF GERMAN PILLBOXES AND CAPTURING 12 TOWNS IN ITS DRIVE, THE NINTH INFANTRY DIVISION CAME STREAKING IN ON THE SOUTH FLANK AND MONDAY SEIZED THE WEST END OF THE URFT RIVER DAM, A FEW MILES TO THE SOUTH.

THE URFT IS SMALLER THAN THE 1,080-FOOT LONG, 180-FOOT-HIGH SCHWAMMENAUEL DAM, BUT IT IS STRATETICALLY IMPORTANT BECAUSE ITS PENT-UP WATERS WOULD LIKELY WASH OUT THE LARGER DAM DOWNSTREAM.

ELEMENTS OF ANOTHER DIVISION MEANWHILE PICKED THEIR WAY THROUGH MINEFIELDS ON THE NORTH FLANK OF THE 78TH IN AN EFFORT TO HOLD OFF GERMAN ATTEMPTS TO REINFORCE ITS TROOPS PROTECTING THE BIGGEST DAM.

THE PAST TWO WEEKS HAVE SEEN A JOCKEYING INTO POSITION TO GET THE DAMS, WHICH THE ALLIED COMMAND KNEW WERE INTEGRATED SECTORS OF THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSES, CAPABLE OF FLOODING OUT EVERYTHING FROM HERE TO ROERMOND, 36 MILES NORTH.

SEVERAL TIMES BEFORE THE GERMAN WINTER OFFENSIVE, GEN.EISENHOWER HAD SENT OUT AIR FORCES TO TRY TO DESTROY THE DAMS, WHICH THEN WOULD HAVE ISOLATED GERMAN DIVISIONS WEST OF DUEREN AND FLOODED COUNTLESS GERMAN TOWNS.

THE STRUCTURE OF THE DAMS--THE BASE OF THE BIGGEST IS 985 FEET WIDE--AND ANTIAIRCRAFT DEFENSES SAVED THEM FROM THE BOMBS.

JUST A WEEK AGO THE 78TH AND NINTH DIVISIONS BEGAN CHEWING THEIR WAY THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED LINE WHILE THE FIRST INFANTRY AND THE 82ND AIRBORNE FARTHER SOUTH WERE BATTLING IN WEATHER SO COLD THAT WOUNDED FROZE TO DEATH IF LEFT ON THE BATTLEFIELD MORE THAN A FEW MINUTES.

THE NINTH BROKE THROUGH AT MONSCHAU AND MET ONLY LIGHT RESISTANCE ALL THE WAY TO THE URFT DAM.
